SUBSTITUTE TO COURT REFORM BILL OFFERED

Would Provide For Increase of Two Members

LABOR DISPUTES ARE CONSIDERED

House Leaders Predict Enactment Of Anti-Lynching Bill Despite Opposition

Washington, April 15.—(AP)—Senator McCarran (D. Nev.) introduced in the Senate today a substitute for the Roosevelt court bill. It would provide for an unconditional increase of two members in the size of the Supreme Court.

In offering his substitute in the form of an amendment to the Roosevelt bill, McCarran refused to say whether he would support the measure if his amendment were rejected. He did tell reporters, however, he did not favor any "forced retirement" from the court.

Elsewhere in the Senate, Civil Liberties committee pieced together developing evidence of possible new labor disputes in Kentucky's rich, and sometimes bloody, Harlan county coal fields.

Following by 24 hours an announcement the United Mine Workers had undertaken a new unionization drive in Harlan county, an official of the county coal operators association disclosed his members began four months ago raising special funds to resist unionization. The official, George Ward, association secretary, said dues paid by the 26 member companies had been raised from half a cent to one cent a ton.

A similar method was used in 1933, he said, to raise money for fighting organization of workers under the N.R.A. The committee heard yesterday some union organizers had been threatened and fired upon during previous Harlan labor troubles and at least one was made the victim of dynamite attacks.

President Roosevelt, himself, giving over more serious cases for the moment, received his annual national and American League baseball passes and assured Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators he would pitch the ball opening the American league season here Monday.

Speaker Bankhead and House Majority Leader Rayburn said they would oppose enactment of the Cawagan anti-lynching bill, but joined House sponsors of the measure in predicting it would pass by a two to one vote, probably late today.

The speaker added if the bill came to a vote in the Senate he believed it would pass that body also.

Additional Batch Benefit Payments Received In Pitt

To Date 3,598 Checks, Representing $327,846.26 in Soil Conservation Payments Received

R. R. Bennett, county farm agent, said today 3,598 checks representing $327,846.26, had been received here up to date for payments under the Soil Conservation program. The payments are on 1,431 contracts.

The latest batch of benefit payments was received yesterday afternoon. Farmers and tenants are being advised by mail, as soon as their checks arrive and the county agent advised farmers not to go to his office expecting their checks unless they are so advised. They are also urged to bring their cards with them as the check numbers are printed on the messages.

A number of farmers who would have been entitled to as much as $60 or $100 in payments for reducing their soil depleting crops acreage lost these payments because of the fact they failed to plant the required number of acres in soil conserving crops.

Agent Bennett called attention to the fact and urged farmers to keep this in mind on their 1937 crops.

The building in which the farm agent's office is located has been crowded nearly every day for the past week with farmers coming for their benefit checks.

Small Still Located By County Officers

Members of the sheriff's office captured a small steam still yesterday but it was not in operation and no one was found at the plant.

The still, of 20-gallon capacity, was located in Greenville township by the county officers. They destroyed the plant.

Twenty-Two Rescued From Bus

Skillful rescue work by quick-witted residents of the community saved 22 persons from a great Miami-New York bus that plunged from the road and sank in White Oak creek 20 miles south of Brunswick, Ga. Boatmen living nearby smashed windows and doors and brought those aboard to safety but all were injured. A workman is shown inspecting the bus after the ebbing tide left its upper portion above water.

German Headlines Tell Of Lynchings

Berlin, April 15.—(AP)—The entire German press appeared today with banner headlines atop "horrible details of the negro lynchings" in Mississippi.

SEEK PREVENT OUTSIDE HELP IN CIVIL WAR

Nations Act to Enforce 'No Arms, No Men' Ban in Spain

ORDER PATROL ON LAND AND SEA

Action Follows Overwhelming Parliamentary Victory for British Government

(By Associated Press) European nations acted today to enforce a "no arms, no men" ban in the Spanish war.

The non-intervention sub-committee in London ordered a land and sea patrol of Spain's frontiers put in operation at midnight next Monday.

Warships of participating nations in the "hands-off-Spain" agreement will watch the coasts to prevent landing of arms and men for either side in the Spanish conflict. Frontier agents will keep a watch by land.

The sub-committee's action followed an overwhelming parliamentary victory for the British government on its conduct in the Spanish civil war.

Opposition forces had bitterly attacked Britain's decision not to protect British vessels entering the Spanish port of Bilbao in Northern Spain, where Spanish insurgent warships have established a blockade to "starve out" government defenders.

Britain, however, renewed warnings to insurgents she would not tolerate interference with her ships at sea.

Heavy artillery fire on the fronts around Madrid subsided. Government troops declared they had cut off 3,000 insurgents in the University City sector from food and supplies.

Storms in the Bilbao section bogged down the big insurgent offensive. Basque troops declared they had cleaned out some insurgent strongholds not far from Bilbao.

In Paris official circles heard talk that the time may be right for mediation of the Spanish civil war under the sponsorship of great European powers.

Witness Tells Of 'Night Of Horror'

Nurse Ella Nordren, confidante of Aimee Semple McPherson, was called to the witness stand today to tell her version of the evangelist's self termed "night of horror" in a Phoenix hotel last year.

That night, Friday 13th of March, has become a pivotal sequence in the $150,000 slander suit brought against Willard Andrews, Angelus Temple attorney, by Roberta Semple, daughter of Mrs. McPherson.

Mrs. McPherson testified Roberta, her daughter, and another attorney, Jacob Moiden, threatened her into signing four contracts in Phoenix, two of which gave them certified positions in the temple.

Mrs. McPherson insisted the only reason she gave Moiden any legal work was "to please Roberta" who had "fallen in love with Mr. Moiden."

Agents said Buzas enclosed a picture of himself and wrote on the envelope a return address, only a few doors away from his home on the far South side.

A diary seized there, they said, mentioned the letter to Miss Rogers and Buzas' indecision about sending a similar one to Actor Clark Gable.

Resolution On Court Presented Roosevelt

Washington, April 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt formally received today a resolution adopted by the North Carolina General Assembly endorsing his court reorganization plan.

Presentation was made by State Representative Brooks Price of Waxhaw, N. C., author of the resolution. He was accompanied to the White House by Sen. Robert Reynolds and Mrs. Roy Lawrence of Winston-Salem, wife of the president of the North Carolina Federation of Labor.

Contempt Action Faces Financier

James E. Caldwell (above), 82-year-old financier of Nashville, Tenn., and two other men of that city were ordered by Chancellor L. D. Bejch at Memphis to produce 480 shares of Rodessa Oil and Land company stock valued at more than $1,000,000 or face possible imprisonment for contempt of court. They claim the stock has been impounded by the Nashville courts.

HEALTH DEPT. MAKES REPORT

Action Taken at Suggestion of Pitt Co. Medical Society

At the recent meeting of the Pitt County Medical Society following a reading of the Health Officer's monthly report to the Society, Dr. M. T. Frizzelle, Ayden, offered a motion, which was adopted, that the Health Officer, hereafter, furnish a copy of his regular monthly report to the county newspapers.

Dr. Frizzelle explained that he offered this motion with the desire that the citizens at large be informed as to the various activities carried on by the department in the interest of public health.

The essential items in the Health Officer's report for March are as follows: The chief activities of the Pitt County Health Department for the month of March were: medical inspection of schools, school oral hygiene work, pre-school examinations, maternal and infant welfare follow-up work and café inspections.

The contagious disease statistics show that influenza is more prevalent than normal at this time of the year, there having been 5 cases reported in March. The reported cases of tuberculosis for the period of January, February and March of this year was 13 as compared with 16 for the same period last year.

In connection with the maternal and infant welfare clinics, I wish to report that the clinic committee, after careful consideration, decided to close the Bath clinic on account of the lack of patients. On the other hand, the Greenville clinic has become very popular. There were 26 patients in attendance in March, 17 of whom were brand new patients. Manifestly, this is more work than one clinic can do with satisfaction, in one clinic period; (Continued on Page Eight)

Bare Mutiny Plot In British Prison

Stern Measures Taken to Suppress Outbreak Planned for Day King George, VI, Scheduled to Be Crowned King of England

London, April 15.—(AP)—The Exchange Telegraph agency reported today officials of Dartmoor, England's largest prison, located on the bleak Southwestern Moors had uncovered a plot to stage a mutiny on coordination day.

Despite an official veil of secrecy, the agency reported it learned stern measures had been taken to suppress any outbreak at the lonely prison which houses hundreds of desperate prisoners serving long terms.

The prisoners were believed to have selected May 12, the day King George, VI, will be crowned for a bold dash for freedom because they were angered by the fact no amnesties will be granted or sentences reduced in celebration of the event.

The agency said it was believed the prisoners may have considered possible reduced vigilance on the part of their guards on the national holiday.

High School Seniors Here For Annual College Event

City Practically Taken by Youth, Some 3,000 Strong

Youth has taken the town today, three thousand strong, with approximately 2,000 high school seniors from twenty-five counties and over 80 high schools, most of them in the Eastern section of the state, and the thousand College students joining in the celebration of the second E. C. T. C. High School Day.

The banner county was Wilson, with delegates from every one of its nine high schools, totaling 334-131 of whom were from the Charles L. Coon High school from the town of Wilson. Superintendent K. R. Curtis and several principals, teachers and parents, came with the boys and girls. Pitt with a hundred per cent of its high schools represented also, 97 of whom were from the Greenville High School, had a total of 320, which gave it second place.

Three superintendents, several principals, a number of teachers, seventeen of whom were E. C. T. C. graduates, and a number of parents, accompanied the groups.

By 10:30 o'clock the parking space near the athletic field was well filled, and parking room could hardly be found on Fifth street. In spite of the crowds, everything was so well organized, there was little confusion, registration was handled rapidly and efficiently, and the student guides took charge of their county groups promptly, so they were soon scattered over the campus.

At 11:30 the procession formed along Fifth Street, and the parade, headed by the two student government presidents of the College, Miss Elizabeth Johnson and Thornton Gilson, as guides, was led by the Wilson High School band. They marched in double file county units to the Robert H. Wright Building. The auditorium had been arranged in true convention form, with the (Continued on Page Eight)

CANADA HOLDS STRIKE FRONT STAGE CENTER

Premier Hepburn Assailed in U.A.W.A. Resolution

IS DESCRIBED AS BEING DICTATOR

Although Comparatively Quiet on Domestic Front, Disputes Rage

(By Associated Press) The strike of General Motors workers at Oshawa, Ont., virtually was pushed into the background today by the schism it created in the provincial government.

Premier Mitchell Hepburn, who forced resignation of two cabinet members for disagreeing with him on the government's strike policy, was assailed as a dictator in a resolution adopted by United Automobile Workers union members.

The resolution urged dominion intervention to settle the strike, involving 3,700 workers.

While the domestic strike front was relatively quiet, several provinces across the border were plagued by labor disputes. Five thousand Montreal garment workers were under orders to strike today.

Fifteen union officers and sympathizers arrested after police and deputies evicted 120 sit-down strikers at the Yale and Towne Manufacturing company plant at Detroit were held in jail, but the strikers were released under bond. Most of the strikers, against whom police used tear gas, were women.

An agreement on collective bargaining, seniority and procedure for considering grievances, was signed last night by the Chrysler Motor corporation and U. A. W. officials.

A bus driver and passenger were injured by missiles thrown through a bus windshield at Munson, Ind., in a new outbreak of violence in the bus drivers' strike.

Gala Celebration Planned In Honor Of Mrs. Roosevelt

Penderlea Resident to Be Visited by Wife of President During Strawberry Festival

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, April 15.—The residents of Penderlea Homesteads in Pender County, North Carolina, will have a leading role in the annual Strawberry Festival to be held in Wallace and the surrounding area about the middle of May, according to plans revealed here today by Mrs. Martha E. Smith, regional home economist for the rural resettlement projects of the Resettlement Administration.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the president, has accepted an invitation to visit the project during the festival, and in honor of her coming a pageant, a home improvement contest, hobby show and other features are being arranged.

The festival date this year will be made to correspond with Mrs. Roosevelt's visit to Penderlea. Officials and civic organizations of the surrounding towns are co-operating in the plans for the big celebration, which is to last several days and nights, with numerous entertainment features. On the day of Mrs. Roosevelt's coming, a tour of visitors is to be arranged from Wallace and other communities to the Homesteads, and a large throng of visitors is expected to overflow the project.

Most of the homesteaders have not been in their homes long enough to have strawberries this year, but they will participate in a historical pageant showing the development of the Resettlement idea. Judging of the home improvement contest will take place the same day and a demonstration house, with exhibits of weaving, rugs and furniture, will be open for inspection. Children on the project will compete in a hobby show.

He gave as the basis for selection of books (1) utilitarian, (2) social, (3) cultural, discussing each in detail. He brought out the point that books should not be judged by their popularity but by their contribution to literature.

Mr. Ryan extended congratulations on the formation of a new book club, and on our subject for study.

The hostess served a delightful salad course with tea. As favors she presented each guest with a miniature bowl of spring flowers. The meeting adjourned to meet April 23 with Mrs. Wyatt Brown. —Reported.

Southern States Art League Exhibit
The Fourteenth Circuit Exhibition of the Southern States Art League, which will be shown here next week during the four-day Fine Arts Festival at the Woman's club, is composed of a collection of thirty-six oil paintings.

These paintings represent the finest work of thirty-two artists living in fourteen states, all but four of which are Southern states. Eighteen of the paintings, come from artists living in Texas, three from Kentucky, two each from Alabama, Tennessee, North Carolina, and one each from Michigan, Massachusetts, California, Pennsylvania, Mississippi, Virginia and South Carolina.

In this exhibit alone, there are to be found fine examples of still life, landscapes and portraits. Some are for sale and some are not, but everyone can see them free of charge. There are lovely pastorals, farm, plantation and water scenes. Among the paintings of flowers there are to be found both southern and Japanese magnolias, spider lilies, peonies and poppies. Texas hills, tropical vegetation, the stillness and quietness of a Sunday afternoon, rain, a Kentucky May Day, the weirdness and the loveliness of an old abandoned house, and the sand dunes of Florida are some of the other subjects used by the artists for their paintings.

"The Magic Piper" at Belvoir
The immortal poem of Robert Browning, "The Pied Piper of Hamelin," has furnished inspiration for "The Magic Piper," and operetta, written by Hubsch. The story of the piper who rid Hamelin of its curse of rats and later lured its children away because he was not paid for his services is beautifully told in this song and dialogue.

The cast of this musical play numbers about eighty—the Piper, Mayor and his councilmen, the citizens of Hamelin, Katrinka of Hanover Town, Hans of Hanover Town, and the villain rats.

The children of the elementary department of Belvoir High School, under the direction of the elementary teachers, have been for some time learning the lines, the songs and the dances, and are now ready to show the public the results of their effort Friday night at 8 o'clock.

"The Magic Piper" will be presented in the Belvoir auditorium. All of the patrons and friends are not only asked but they are urged to come see what their children really are doing.

The Literary Department Meeting. The Literary Department of the Woman's Club met with Mrs. C. S. Lamb Tuesday afternoon, April 13.

Mrs. Hyman, chairman, presided and in the absence of Miss Guller, Mrs. Putrell acted as secretary. Mrs. J. H. B. Moore gave plans for the Fine Arts Festival to be held in the Woman's Club April 22-25. She also gave us a most interesting account of the "State Federation Meeting," recently held in Charlotte.

Mrs. W. C. Harris had charge of the program. Her subject was a contract of the poems of Longfellow and Carl Sandburg. Miss Geraldine Harris read her mother's paper. In this paper Mrs. Harris said: "Sandburg is truly a great modern American poet, for his poems are the very pulse of the American people. He has been called the great emotional Democrat, laureate of industrial America and the poet of the proletariat. By the latter, he perhaps will be lastingly known. A blend of beauty and brutality is poetry's most human and enduring quality that rich and almost vulgar vividness which is the life-blood of Chaucer, Shakespeare and Burns, and all those who were not only great artists but great humanists. This blend is Sandburg's outstanding characteristic. Miss Harris read from "Chicago Poems," "Corn Huskers," "Smoke and Steel," "Slabs of the Sunburnt West," "Grass," and "Night Stuff."

The most famous of the American Puritan poets is Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. His popularity amongst simple folk has been won by the moral fervor essentially Puritan in its form of such poems as "The Village Blacksmith," "Excelsior" and "A Psalm of Life." Longfellow has been a great "awakener" of the love of poetry in the young. Many lines give to a young dreamer just his own kind of thought, his own kind of mood, and as much magical expression as the needs, or can receive.

"Evangeline," published in 1847, gave Longfellow an unchallengeable place among the writers in his own country. "The Golden Legend," published in 1851, founded on a German poem, is perhaps his best achievement.

Following this most interesting paper, Mrs. Lamb assisted by Misses Frances and Carolyn Lamb served "Angel's Delight," homemade cookies, candies and salted nuts. We were pleased to have the following guests: Mesdames H. H. Duncan, J. C. Tyson, Clifton Edwards, Miss Grace Meeks and Misses Geraldine Harris, Francis and Carolyn Lamb. —Reported.

WEED DISEASE GAINS GROUND

Granville Wilt Becomes Serious Threat To Tobacco Crop

Raleigh, April 15.—Granville wilt has become "an alarming threat" to the tobacco crop of eastern North Carolina. Dr. Luther Shaw, extension plant pathologist at State College, declared here today.

Unless something is done to check the spread of this disease, he said, it promises to become as destructive over the eastern part of the State as it now is in the badly infested areas of Granville, Wake and Durham counties.

At present, he continued, there is no practical way known to check this disease in an infested field but the disease can usually be prevented by planting the tobacco in non-infested fields.

On farms where the wilt is confined to comparatively small areas, Dr. Shaw pointed out, the tobacco crop should be rotated to other fields where the disease organisms are not present in the soil.

When possible, three to five years should be allowed to elapse before another tobacco crop is planted on an infested field. And in the meantime the field should be sown to crops that are resistant to the disease.

Crops immune to Granville wilt are: Corn, sweet potatoes, cotton, wheat, oats, rye, barley, crimson clover, Austrian winter peas, vetch, lespedeza, croftalia, herds grass, crab grass, watermelon, cantaloupe, scrogum, cowpeas, velvet beans, and lima beans.

Other crops that are susceptible to wilt should not be grown on infested fields, as they help to keep the disease organisms alive. They are: Tomatoes, Irish potatoes, peppers, string beans, peanuts, Jimson weed, ground cherry, horseradish, ragworts, horse (tick) weeds, cocklebur, cotton, and Spanish needles, Dr. Shaw added.

Talks To Parents

By Brooke Peters Church

Infants Are Individuals By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH He is only 16 months old and so tiny that his head does not reach to the table top. His gait is still unsteady, even on level ground. He cannot say a word to make known his wants and prejudices.

He is dependent on others for everything, and were he left to himself would starve to death or freeze from the cold of winter. So far he does not even understand the relationship of an aching stomach and food; or the discomfort of icy hands and feet, and clothing.

And yet this helpless little creature is an independent, definite personality, unlike every other person who has ever lived or will ever live. He has definite likes and dislikes which are different from those of his parents, grandparents, brothers and sisters.

Deceived by his helplessness, his parents may treat him simply as an extension of themselves. They may try to mold him to a fixed pattern which they have set. They may succeed in modifying his peculiarities, they may condition him to all kinds of superficial situations, they may even dwarf or deform him by their training, but they cannot make him conform to their ideals unless his personality already tends that way.

If parents could face this truth from the outset, and by studying and watching each child individually, could learn to know him and help him along the road fitted for his development, much heartache and rebellion could be avoided. Of course the child must not be spoiled and given his own way to his eventual undoing; but neither should he be treated as a lay fig-

TO ESTABLISH INDIAN MOUND

Exploration Already Started In Montgomery County

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, April 15.—Exploration of an Indian mound in the southern part of Montgomery county, which will be carried out under the cooperative supervision of the Department of Conservation and Development, the Works Progress Administration, and the N. C. Archaeological Society, is scheduled to get under way this week, conservation officials announced today.

Two acres of land containing the mound, said to be one of the most prominent ones in the Piedmont section, have already been deeded to the State by L. D. Frutchey, farmer and former chairman of the Board of County Commissioners of Richmond County. Mr. Frutchey has signified a willingness to give the State additional land for the development of the property as a State Historical Marker.

Jeffre L. Coe, field archaeologist and student at the University of North Carolina, who will have immediate charge of the excavations, is now on the ground making preparations for starting the explorations. He will be assisted temporarily by two other students from the University who are on their spring holidays.

A Works Progress Administration project from which labor will be supplied, has recently been approved and orders have been given to begin the work as soon as necessary details can be arranged.

Should the mound prove sufficiently important after excavations are made, officials plan to preserve at least a portion in its original form for the benefit of the public.

It is believed that the mound may contain a wealth of valuable information and artifacts and relics which should be displayed as reflecting the habits and characteristics of the early Indians in this part of the country.

A home made parachute which Babe Smith, girl jumper, used in more than 100 leaps from airplanes now rests in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

It's some Welcome you're handing us and Our Family's Whiskey!

It appears to me like our Family's Whiskey comes pretty close to being as good as a known whiskey as any there is.

But you got to remember it isn't just William and Tom and me that's responsible for this extra grand taste our Family's Whiskey has got. That wouldn't be handing the proper credit to Grandpa Wilken and Pa Wilken. If it wasn't for the lot of us Wilkens being whiskey making people since I don't know when, you never could be enjoying all this tastiness we've learned how to put into our personal Family's Recipe!

Successful Eastern Carolina Farmers are growing more profitable crops with

BLOUNT'S Home Mixed FERTILIZERS

Proof of this is reflected in the increased demand by new customers as well as old customers for Blount's. They have steadily forged to the front because they are the answer to the demand by farmers for a fertilizer that will grow more profitable crops.

To do this a fertilizer must be specially mixed for the demands of the soil. Blount's, with over 50 years of selling, testing, and experimenting with fertilizers, is meeting this need with "home-mixed" brands specially mixed for the different soil types. Farmers themselves, and home folks too, naturally they are going to use only the best materials available, and they are going to give you the best service possible.

Use Blount's this year—they are the shortest route to more profitable crops.

Washington Daybook
 By Preston Green

Washington — It is getting to the point where if this country does not mend its ways, other countries will not let their children play with ours.

The latest sample of public indignation with what is going on in our back yard came from Toronto where Premier Hepburn of Ontario told his people to have nothing to do with that tough from across the border, John L. Lewis.

Ottawa, seat of General Motors in Canada, is separated from Detroit by a sort of peninsula that juts down into the lake region and Hepburn let it be known he thought that wasn't any too much of a barrier to be set up against that "anarchistic" sit-down element in Detroit.

He as much as said that what the sit-downers needed in Detroit was a sound spanking and if any of the lads in his province started that sort of monkey business they probably would get it.

"I repeat," he said, "that the entire resources of this province will be utilized, if the occasion warrants, to prevent anything in this country resembling that which is taking place at the present time across the line, due to failure on the part of constituted authority to take adequate action."

As yet Secretary of State Hull hasn't had to apologize to Canada for what Lewis is trying to do over there but the poor fellow has had trouble enough on other scores. Only a year or so ago he had to explain to indignant Japanese that American cartoonists were only playing when they drew a picture of the emperor and son of heaven pulling a jinrikisha.

Barely had he got that matter out of the way that a bumpkin constable over in Maryland clapped handcuffs on the erudite minister from Persia, Ghaffar Khan Djajal. That gentleman came sputtering up to the state department and ultimately packed himself off for home, refusing to have anything further to do with us.

Germans still boil indignantly at Mayor La Guardia for throwing the gaff into Herr Hitler, and many will remember that even in France Americans were not very popular for years after they had saved Alsace — Lorraine for democracy.

Americans abroad seem to have a yen for going at things the different way and even the humble country druggist becomes a rugged individualist when he flings his life savings into an "everything-included for $388" trip to Europe.

On top of that we try to isolate ourselves from the woes of the world with a drastic neutrality act.

START CRUSADE TO PLACE BIBLE IN EVERY HOME

Evansville, Ind. (AP) — R. K. Blakely, former ice man, is trying to do for Evansville's homes what the Gideon society has done for the country's hotels.

He's conducting a one-man campaign to put a Bible in every home. It's not a commercial proposition, he says, it's an ambition.

"It seemed to me that if people knew more about the Bible they would be better able to understand the lessons to be found in the New Testament," he explained. "It's amazing what a slight acquaintance most people have with the Bible."

On his sixtieth birthday, November 13, 1935, Blakely started distributing New Testaments after naming himself the "Helping Hand Testament League" and adopting the motto, "One in every home."

When he finds a home without a Bible, he offers a New Testament for 25 cents. If there's no sale, he leaves the book anyway. He has sold 500 Testaments and given away 100.

It cost 2,0472 cents to handle each piece of first class mail in the 1936 fiscal year. There was an estimated profit of 0.79061 cents on each piece.

How's Your Health?
 Edited for the New York Academy of Medicine
 By Dr. Iago Goldston

The Child's Posture
 The child's posture is influenced by numerous conditions. Among these are body type, body proportions, muscle tone, nutrition, fatigue, eye function, hearing and bodily disabilities.

Despite this, however, the temptation appears to be irresistible to nag the child who has a poor posture with injunctions to draw back his shoulders, pull in his abdomen, lift his head, etc. Just as commonly the child is put through exercise drills and may even be loaded with shoulder braces and other mechanical contrivances. This attack is direct, but seldom effective.

Let us assume that the child's bad posture is due to fatigue. What such a child may need is more rest, rather than more exercise.

Even in this instance the fatigue may not be due to a lack of rest, but to some low-grade chronic infectious process, such as diseased tonsils, abscessed teeth or a sinus infection. In such condition, additional rest may help somewhat, but the chronic fatigue could not be relieved until the infectious process is cured.

A near-sighted child is likely to push its head forward and thus throw its posture out of normal relation. A malnourished child, one that is anemic or suffering from rickets, may have a poor muscle tone. Such a child literally lacks the strength with which to hold up its body.

If the child hears best in one ear, it is likely to turn its head to one side. Congenital defects involving the hip joints, and other orthopedic defects, are palpable causes of bad posture.

A child suffering from poor posture should be given a thorough physical examination. Its daily habits, hygiene and otherwise, should be scrutinized carefully. Does the child read and study in proper light? Does it carry its books to and from school in one hand? Does it sit and work in a suitable chair and at a properly adjusted table or desk? Does it have enough physical exercise out of doors, or does it overdo?

When such a study of the child has been completed, it may be desirable to institute treatment by means of corrective exercises. These should be carefully prescribed and should be scrupulously administered. Haphazard exercises are worse than none.

Most of all, one should be on guard against stigmatizing the child with its bad posture, and nagging it to stand erect.

Man About Manhattan
 By George Tucker

New York — Murray Korman thinks the current harvest of Park avenue debts will have to hurry if they are to catch up, in romantic interest, with the coterie of biddies who roam Broadway. Over a kippered herring at Lindy's this famed White Line photographer put it this way:

"I don't know how it is, but the girls on Broadway get cuter each year. They're smarter, brainier, and they dress with more dash and style. Look at that girl there." He indicated an ingenue who had walked in on the arm of some local swain, and you caught at a glance just what Korman meant. She was a flash of restless color.

"What Park avenue needs," continued Herr Korman, sparring a crisp dorsal fin, "is a stage director and better lighting effects. Those kids haven't a chance against actresses and girls who dance in the night clubs — that is, in making impressions on the marriageable lads. They're trained, apt performers. They know stance, style, verve. They know how to pace a situation."

It didn't take much noding about to know that he was led into these solemn cogitations by the recent uproar over pictures of Heloise Martin, the Drake college co-ed and ex-show girl, taken in a college shower and in the arms of a campus hero.

"The girl on the stage is following a script. When she steps off stage she keeps right on acting. She can do things a girl on Park avenue, or Catfish Row, doesn't know about. What if she does show a leg or reveal a tempting curve or so; she's just as modest, really, as girls of 10 or 15 years ago. As I get it, the difference is that she has acquired glamor. The girl on the other side of town knows only what the fashion books tell her."

Just on the old chance you may think Master Korman doesn't know what he is talking about, be advised that he has photographed more than 300,000 women in some 15 years of steady camera-clicking. These have been girls from night clubs, lassies in cigaret ads, maids in lingerie, young women in the movies and everywhere else.

From this experience Korman has deduced this grainof philosophy: "Beauty is a career and a beautiful woman who undrapes is merely building up her career. A man who owns a fine yacht is proud of it, isn't he? A woman with a wealth of natural beauty is no different; she too is proud.

He thinks, too, that the exhibition of such beauty is as much art as is an exhibition of famous paintings — or a monument, or a castle.

"You see, art is an endeavor through composition to charm the senses. Real feminine beauty, proudly, gracefully displayed, thus achieves this."

DRINKING IS MAN'S VICE —STEALING IS WOMAN'S

Washington (AP) — In a study of offenses against the law most frequently committed in 1936, J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation, placed drunkenness at the top today for men, thievery for women.

Based on his conclusions on a study of 461,589 arrests reported to the justice department during the past year by local law enforcement agencies, Hoover says that over 16 mills prior to the NRA, Fletcher believes.

"The people here in North Carolina do not yet realize what a forceful impression former Governor Gardner made before this world textile conference, nor what a tremendous effect the position of the American textile manufacturers, as outlined by Gardner, is already having among the textile employees," Commissioner Fletcher said. "For while his demand for a world-wide 40 hour week was almost a bombshell to some of the foreign manufacturers, especially the Japanese and British textile men, it was splendidly received by a majority of the delegates. Incidentally, I want to say that the two North Carolinians who are playing such an important part in this conference, Gardner and Dr. Claudius T. Murchison, president of the American Cotton Textile Institute, have already become international figures in the textile world. They are standing out head and shoulders above the textile leaders from the 23 foreign countries represented at the conference. I feel confident in saying that Gardner has made a bigger and deeper impression than any one who has spoken before the conference."

Another important factor which makes the possibility of a textile strike in North Carolina remote, is the unusual type of the textile workers in the state and the fact that the great majority of these are native North Carolinians, of Anglo-Saxon stock and with far greater native intelligence than is found among the large mass of foreign workers found in many of the other industrial states. Commissioner Fletcher pointed out.

"The North Carolina workers for the most part, are more intelligent, better educated and less excitable, largely because they are native-born and come from an Anglo-Saxon stock noted for its stability and horse sense," Commissioner Fletcher said. "So I am not worrying about the possibility of any sit-down, stay-in or walk-out strikes in North Carolina any time soon."

Fletcher Thinks Strikes Unlikely In This State

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, April 14.—There is no immediate danger of strikes, sit-down or otherwise, in the textile industry in North Carolina, despite the fact that the Committee on Industrial Organization, the John L. Lewis union, is already getting busy organizing the textile workers in North Carolina and other southern states, in the opinion of Commissioner of Labor A. L. Fletcher, back to the work and from attending the world textile conference in Washington.

The fact that a large number of textile mills have already increased the wages of their workers voluntarily, and are holding to the 40 hour week and that most of the employees are well satisfied and working full time, is expected to prevent any strike trouble, Fletcher said.

"The two most embarrassing aspects of the outlook in the textile industry in North Carolina and the south are the legislation by the C. I. O. leaders that they want to avoid strikes and that their only aim is the organization of the workers; and second, that the textile industry is not going to actively combat the organization efforts of the C. I. O.," Commissioner Fletcher said. "And there is every reason to believe that the C. I. O. and the textile manufacturers are perfectly sincere in their positions, since both know the harm and damage that would be caused by strikes and both want to avoid them. The C. I. O. knows that a strike or strikes would prove very expensive and very damaging to their cause, especially in the south, since they know what happened following the unsuccessful strikes in the state in 1929 and 1932. And the mill owners are just as anxious to avoid strikes as are the workers and organizers. So I think the outlook is very hopeful."

Still another very powerful stabilizing influence among the workers in the textile industry has been the stand taken by the manufacturers in the world textile conference in Washington as voiced by former Governor O. Max Gardner, urging the adoption of the 40 hour week, collective bargaining, the abolition of child labor and of the "third shift" by textile manufacturers throughout the world, Commissioner Fletcher said. For in voicing the intention of the textile manufacturers in the United States to hold to the 40-hour week, collective bargaining and the other principles of the old NRA and in urging the other textile manufacturers in other parts of the world to adopt these same principles, former Governor Gardner has convinced the textile workers that the mill owners intend to play fair with them and that they have no idea of ever trying to go back to the long hours and low pay which prevailed in too many

Consider Softball League For Young Business Men

Four Teams Already Practically Assured For Greenville

Softball, a form of the national past time that is rapidly gaining popularity throughout the country, will be played in Greenville this summer if efforts on the part of a number of young men are successful.

Several details remain to be worked out, however. Tentative plans call for a league of at least four teams to start off with, with others probably coming in later.

Firms which are understood to have said they would sponsor teams are Blount-Harvey, Tadlock Mutual Insurance company, Carolina Sales and Carolina Dairy.

M. P. Fox, affiliated with the Tadlock insurance firm, recently came here from Raleigh, where he managed a team last year, and is one of those behind the move. Others who have expressed a keen interest in starting the sport here include Joe Tift, Twist Matthews, Francis Worsley, Dr. J. M. Barrett, John Webb and others.

The game is similar to regular baseball, designed for men up to 30 or 35 years of age. It is played on a regular baseball diamond, but the playing field is smaller than that for the regulation game.

If the proposal goes through playing will be started within a few weeks and games probably will be arranged for days the Coastal Plain team is playing out of the city.

Firms wishing to enter teams in the league are asked to get in touch with any of those who are behind the move. If no others wish to get in at present, the league could be started with only four teams. Games would not be called until 6 o'clock or later, thereby not interfering with working hours.

A number of cities have girls' leagues and it is possible that the young business women of the city later will join in playing the game.

TRISCO ELEVEN OFFERS 'DUAL CONTROL'

San Francisco (AP) — There'll be a new type of football offense to challenge razzle-dazzle or hip-dipper styles of attack next autumn.

It's the Dual Control system (note the capital letters) and will be used by the U. of San Francisco eleven.

The U. S. F. attack purposes to blend the Notre Dame and Warner systems into one happy family.

All plays will be run from a short punt formation branded Dual Control. The quarterback and right halfback line up on either side of the center, close to the line, the quarter to the left, the right half is the fullback or left half. The tail-back may be either the full or left half, in punt formation directly back from center.

From the Dual Control, the Dons will shift into a box for Notre Dame maneuvers, or into a Warner formation. Or they may punt from the same positions.

LOCALS READY FOR CAPITALS

Game To Be Called On Local Diamond Friday Afternoon

On Friday at 3:45 the Greenville High school baseball team will play Raleigh high. The Greensies came through with a triumph against the "Caps" in their previous encounter by a score of 13-10. This game was filled with much slugging and hitting on the part of both clubs and it can be expected again.

After a severe set back last Tuesday at the hands of the Fayetteville the Greensies have recovered and are back in their early season form.

There is no definite lineup as yet, although Howard Hodges and Polly Williams will probably form the battery against the visitors.

The game is scheduled to start at 3:45 as with other games of previous times. Let's support the ball team and root them on to a conference victory.

Sport Slants

The New York Yankees have almost frightened all the competition out of the American league race. At the rate they have been bombarding the fences in the sunny South, the Yanks appear in no mood to change the tactics that enabled them to make a runaway last year when they finished with a 19 1-2 game edge over the second-place Detroit Tigers.

Manager Joe McCarthy is stringing along with the same team that clouted its way to the world title over the New York Giants. Even the grand-stand managers, ever ready with their second guesses, would be stumped if asked to suggest changes. If anything, 1937 Murderers' Row should be more potent than last season's. Joe Di Maggio, for one, should have more poise and power at the plate as a result of his freshman experience.

In pitching, the Yankees are not any stronger. If Red Ruffing fails to come to an agreement, the mound staff will be weakened. Minus the 20 victories Red turned in last season, the Yankees will be likely to find themselves on even terms with the rest of the field.

The fact that Ruffing may not come through will not necessarily mean that those 20 games will be lost to the Yankees — it is possible that other members of the Ruffing staff may make up the difference.

The Yankees appear to hold a decided edge over the field in reserves. McCarthy is fortified against injuries in almost every department. That is something to warm the heart of any baseball manager, no matter how strong his first-stringers. The championship race is a long one.

McCarthy looks for a big improvement in George Selkirk, speedy right - fielder. George did fairly well last season when he batted in 107 runs and hit .308.

Selkirk has completely won over the bleachers in right field at the Yankee Stadium. In doing so, he demonstrated plenty of courage. For a time it looked as though he might fall a victim to the hostility of the fans. It all started when George trotted into Babe Ruth's old spot in the 1935 opener. It was no fault of Selkirk's that he was assigned Ruth's old No. 3. The fans were angered that the newcomer had the brazen nerve to try to fill the Babe's spot—even to wearing his number.

That's all forgotten, now.

When Bender was a freshman, Ben Kramer of L. I. U. led New York City scorers.

Leo Merson and Irving Torgoff, a sophomore, and Lou Rabinowitz, now a pro, were other Blackbird point-getters to finish near the top in local competition.

EVE'S ORCHARD

By MARGARET WIDDEMER

Chapter 43

Judge's Sacrifice

BUT it was two days later before George came back, with Judge in the seat beside him, dusty and eye-circled but still determined to go away again the moment he got the chance.

"The police had called to say they thought it was he they were holding at Philadelphia," George telephoned from the village. "But I didn't want to say anything till I made sure."

The little boy stood, defiant and pale and dirty, in the circle of anxious grown people in Eve's living room. "Not going to stay, you can't make me!" he said to them, ready to cry. Eve knelt and threw her arms around him.

"Oh, you darling foolish baby, why didn't you ask before you went off if you'd listened, a minute longer you'd have heard me tell Denny I wouldn't marry him, no matter what happened to you," she said, careless of the listeners.

"Wasn't that!" Judge said and shut his lips tight again.

Well then, what the nation was it? asked Uncle Henry impatiently. "Olive, you ought to be paddled, big as you are, and I'll do it if you don't stop acting up like a fool. I thought you were as sensible a boy as ever I saw."

Judge looked round at the circle of eyes and desperately gave in.

Some of the desolate, numb misery slipped away from Eve.

"Twas on account of George then, if you must know!" he said angrily. "I wouldn't mind about Denny, he's not so hot. But he did say any man would jib at marrying with a boy hung around his neck and I knew I was why you and George didn't get married."

Eve put a desperate hand over his mouth, remembering too late that he had been away the whole week Ellen and George had been engaged, and in the confusion of the fire must have heard nothing of it.

"We don't want to," she began. Judge said doggedly, pushing down her hand, "I heard you by the window, the night of the fire. You said you couldn't, but you wanted to. You said," he blushed and evaded, with a small boy's self-consciousness, any mention of love—"that you did, awfully! Then the firemen came before I made out why and when I heard Denny I knew it was me. So I went."

A Little Boy Sobs

EVE dared not look at George. Standing with his hand on the door lintel, near as Ellen, very still beside Uncle Henry. She took a long breath—Ellen was her friend, Ellen had stood by her when no one else had—

"Judge, little boys like you can't arrange things for grown people. You made a dreadful mistake. It is Ellen George wants to marry. Don't you see how silly you were?"

"George!" Judge's cry made Eve in spite of herself turn to where George stood with a stony face, his hands where he gripped the door. "I'm going to marry Ellen!" he told the child, even smiling at him.

"So you see you ran off all for nothing."

Judge, tired and shaken, flung himself on Uncle Henry and began to cry frankly. "He did like Eve, he did!" he wailed. "Everyone said so, Mattie and Adriano and all and Eve liked him. And now you've all changed round. I hate it, it's all mixed up—"

He went on sobbing till Uncle Henry put an end to the scene by picking the child up and carrying him to his own room.

"What you need's a bath, and supper in bed, son," he said sensibly. The three left behind stood silent a moment.

"I have to be getting back to the inn now," George said uneasily.

"I'll drive you," Ellen said. She held out her hand, in its bright-colored pique gauntlet, to Eve. It was icy cold. "See you later, Eve dear," she added with just her usual smile. Eve watched Ellen's flying scarlet silk cape and gay scarlet heels going down the porch steps beside George's dusty golf clothes. Nobody was going to say anything. It had passed. Life would go on.

To Hide For A While

EVE stood watching till they were out of sight. She could hear the little boy sobbing on upstairs and Uncle Henry's voice quieting him. And there seemed nothing anywhere, any more. Nothing but the everlasting ringing of the telephone. She answered it. Mrs. Minturn over the Ridge; a loaf of bread, two dozen biscuits. And was the old Seymour house burnt right down to the ground and was it true that George Cleveland's experiments were all burned up too? She answered civilly, she took the order and gave the information. This was what her life would be from now on, forevermore.

Finally she could go from the house and the sound of the child's crying. She could hide for a while. She ran down the hall, her light skirts flying behind her, she fled out and between the tall rosebushes, the thick border of tall late sweet peas, to the rough stone steps that would give her the blessed shelter of her orchard.

The narrow path among the gnarled trees received her like arms around her. The heavy scent of sun on ripening apples was in her face. Something of the desolate numb misery slipped away as she went blindly on among the tree trunks. This was the place which spoke most to her of George, where she should have been most miserable; strangely it comforted her, as she felt the last sunlight on her shoulders and the twigs underfoot.

She dropped beside an old tree whose croch made a low wide seat, and crouched in it, her head buried in her arms, as if it had been a living friend to whom she could come for comfort and protection. Far away she heard the sleepy birds; the wind was sweet across her curls. If she stayed here for a while perhaps she could be steady and go on.

A twig snapped under someone's foot. She lifted her wet face. George.

SET UP PLANS TO BUY BOOKS

Erwin and Staff Preparing to Provide Free Texts

Reflector Bureau

Raleigh, April 15. — Preliminary plans are being made by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction and his staff for setting up the new free textbook program, although Governor Clyde R. Hoey has not yet appointed the new Textbook Commission which will administer the free textbooks law. Superintendent Clyde A. Erwin said today.

The purpose of this is to have as much information available as possible when the new commission is appointed.

One of the first things being done is to make a study of the book requirements of the various grades in an effort to determine how many books will have to be purchased for each grade, Supt. Erwin said. He pointed out that in some subjects it will be necessary to supply each child with a textbook, while in some it may be able to arrange it so that two or perhaps even three children can use the same text. The heads of the various divisions in the Department of Public Instruction have been asked to submit their views, also to make any suggestions with regard to the free textbook program, especially as it may affect their particular branch, Supt. Erwin said.

The state has made a good start towards the purchase of the new textbooks required as a result of the rental system started two years ago, Supt. Erwin pointed out. For all of the books in the rental system will now be made a part of the free textbook system. It is also expected that all of the rental systems heretofore operated by city school systems, will be taken over by the state and made a part of the free book system.

The textbook commission, however, will still have a big job on its hands, in that it will have to purchase enough new books and get the undelivered before the time for the schools to open this summer.

and fall. For in some of the western counties, where the schools have already closed, they start opening again in July. In fact, some schools are in operation every month in the year.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS & SOUNDS

Hollywood—One of the reasons you see so many old-time stars in today's pictures is "the secret stir".

That's an informal organization of directors. It does all its business by telephone. When W. S. Van Dyke, for instance, finishes with an old-timer in one of his films, he gets on the phone and calls one of the other "members" to let him know. If that director hasn't a spot available, one of the others has, and the word gets around. That way the people who were yesterday's stars get a fairly consistent break.

Former Extras. This little sunshine-dispensing group is composed of directors who used to be, many of them, extras when the people they're helping were big shots. Among them are Van Dyke, Richard Wallace, James Hogan, John Ford, Wesley Ruggles, Al Hall, Norman Taurog, Robert Z. Leonard and Lewis Milestone.

Hogan had just finished "placing" a fairly well known comedian—who had had only two days work in the past four months—when I called on him for some of those early movie yarns that lend so much color to this industry.

"Most of us lived in a boarding house just off what is now the Hollywood boulevard business section," he said. "Two dollars a month apiece for lodgings. Milestone lived in a cutting room—he was in charge there at night with a broom. Sometimes I'd sleep in Priscilla Dean's dressing room at the studio—slept on a cane-bottom couch and when I got up my back looked like a waffle. We didn't always have the $2 for the boarding house. Most of us were cowboy-and-Indian extras. Got $1.60 a day—the dime for carfare. You were a big-shot if you made $3 a day."

Real Versatility. Film-acting had its problems, then as now. Hogan once played

Grant and Lee in the same film, was a confederate soldier in the morning, and spent the afternoon in the Union ranks shooting at himself.

The "boys" always stuck together—if one got a job the others trilled along, usually got jobs too. Once, when Hogan was an assistant director, he hired 16 of his pals. The director, Allan Dwan, spotted them, told Hogan he was tired of the same old gang in all his pictures, ordered them fired. Hogan got 16 long black beards. It worked, until one of the beards fell off—just as its wearer was passing Dwan. Hogan, now directing "Tightwad", once was a producer, but very briefly.

WORLD WONDER CAR COMING HERE

The largest truck in the world, containing 1,001 curious things will be in Greenville Monday, parked on the Fourth street side of the Blount-Harvey company. Opening at 9 a. m. it will remain so until 9 p. m.

Described as the largest traveling museum in the world, the wonder car is brought here under the sponsorship of Troop 33, of the local Boy Scouts.

The 55-foot bus started out December 7, 1933, and already has shown in 960 cities. It has traveled 450,000 miles, going into all 43 states and 13 countries. During this extensive tour Roy O. Coleman has been at the wheel and has never been in an accident. The total distance he has driven is equal to eight times around the earth. It is described as educational and instructive and plans are being for students, both in the local schools and the college to view the exhibits, composed of war relics, rare money and other various curious and interesting relics.

L. W. Stayner of McCook, Neb., has kept a diary in shorthand since January 1, 1939. His conclusion: "If a man could read his life history, he wouldn't want to live it over again."

A recent survey indicated over half the farmhouses in Kansas were more than 25 years old and nearly a fifth more than 50 years old.

HEALTH DEPT. MAKES REPORT

therefore, the committee has decided to authorize two clinicians per clinic period for the Greenville Clinic.

The Well Baby Clinic held in Pitt General Hospital is not meeting with the desired success.

The State Orthopedic Clinic held every first Friday in Greenville and conducted by Dr. Hugh A. Thompson, of Raleigh, continues to be well attended. There were 27 patients in February and 25 for the March clinic.

The health work in the public schools during March consisted of, in part, 1,683 inspections by the nurses for sore throat, skin and scalp disease, 543 physical examinations of school children and 224 examinations of pre-school children by the health officer; the white dentist treating 279 school children and the colored dentist treating 322 children, making a total of 601 indigent school children treated. In connection with the pre-school clinics, it gives me pleasure to here acknowledge, with much appreciation, the very fine assistance rendered in these clinics by the dentists of Pitt County. Not only is an oral hygiene examination by a dentist worth more to the child than a dental examination by the nurse or health officer, but the presence, itself, of the dentist, lends prestige to the whole pre-school examination.

Some time ago, while making a nutrition talk to a class in one of the white county schools, the health officer made inquiry as to how many children came to school without midday lunch. The number was so large that the health officer thought the problem serious enough for him to take it up with D. H. Conley, Superintendent of Pitt County Schools. A survey was accordingly agreed upon. These children go from seven or eight o'clock in the morning until they return from school, which is about four o'clock in the afternoon, a period of about eight hours, without food. Hunger will not only undermine the child's health, but since an empty bag cannot stand up, must necessarily be a factor in his school retardation. The Superintendent of Schools and the Health Officer are making an effort, through the home, to correct this condition. We know, however, that a word from the family physician to the mother, emphasizing the importance of all undernourished children having a midday lunch, would be worth infinitely more than the combined efforts of the Superintendent of Schools and the Health Officer. Of course, where extreme poverty is a factor, the case will be laid before the Parent Teacher Association or the Welfare Officer.

The Pitt County Venereal Disease Clinic held, weekly, in the Health Department offices, is, from week to week, serving a larger and larger number of patients.

On March 24th, in cooperation with the Farmville physicians and the town officials, the Health Department opened a venereal disease clinic in Farmville. The clinic is held every Wednesday afternoon, from 2 to 5. This clinic is conducted by the physicians of Farmville. The County Health Department furnishes a nurse and drugs.

At the first clinic, there were 119 patients, at the second clinic 149 patients and at the 3rd clinic 140 patients.

In keeping with Dr. Skinner's motion and the action of this Society at its last meeting, the health officer has attempted, through the county newspapers, to give the public facts and figures on the seriousness of the venereal disease situation.

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS HERE FOR ANNUAL COLLEGE EVENT

names of the counties of pacards marking off space for each group. Dr. O. L. Adams, chairman of the faculty committee, had charge of the program. As he called the roll of counties, introducing them with happy remarks, the girls and boys stood up in county units. He explained that the purpose of the High School Day was not to get the graduates to come to this College, but to interest them in going to some college.

President Meadows, when he arose for his address, repeated the statement that he was interested in getting them to go to some college, but not just this one for all who were here would decide on this college they could not be accommodated.

Dr. Meadows, in a clear, definite way, asked and answered the two questions that are uppermost in the minds of most of the young visitors here today, "Why go to College?" and "What to consider in making a choice of Colleges?" Greater opportunity to render service humanity, he gave as one of the chief advantages of going to College, saying that most of the leaders in public life, in whose footsteps these young people would like to follow, are college graduates. person who is better trained is apt to gain greater happiness, or get more pleasure out of living, he said. Among the things he enumerated that should be given consideration when one is selecting a College are these: the faculty, the equipment, the standing, and the spirit, and the product.

Brown Mayo, principal of the Fountain school, responded to the address of welcome by Dr. Meadows. He expressed the appreciation on the part of the various school officials for such an opportunity to bring students together on such an occasion.

Singing by the Glee Clubs formed the second part of the program, with both E. C. T. C. Glee Club, singing several selections. The girls' club, directed by Miss Kuykendal, sang, "I Know a Green Cathedral" and "Mistress Margarita." The songs sung by the boys' club, directed by Dean C. Tabor, were "Scout - Hearted Man," "Winter and Moquitos." Both glee clubs sang "Dear Land of Home." The program closed with the singing of "Carolina." One of the historians on the faculty said they probably sang it with more gusto than when it was first sung at a convention in 1840.

The sight of the entire group filling by the picnic tables on the back campus getting their plates of barbecue, was a most inspiring sight.

In the afternoon the crowd divided into two parts, one going into the Austin Auditorium to see the movie "More than a Secretary" and the others returning to the Wright Building to dance. At 3:15 the crowd surged to the athletic field to see a baseball game between the Pirates and the Duke B team.
