CUTLAR MOORE TO HEAD STATE LIQUOR BOARD

F. Webb Williams and Thomas J. Murphy Named Members

$6,000 ANNUALLY CHAIRMAN'S PAY

Moore to Serve Three Years, Williams Two and Murphy One Year

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, April 23.—Cutlar Moore of Lumberton, Robeson county, was today appointed chairman of the State Board of Alcoholic Control by Governor Clyde R. Hoey for a term of three years.

F. Webb Williams of Elizabeth City was appointed a member of the board for the two year term and Thomas J. Murphy of Greensboro was appointed the third member of the board for the one year term. When these terms expire, each member will be appointed for a term of three years.

For several weeks it has been generally agreed in informed circles that either Moore or Williams would be named chairman, but which ever one was named chairman, the other would be named a member of the board. Some two weeks ago this bureau reported that Moore was gaining in favor among those attempting to forecast who would be appointed and again yesterday indicated that Moore would probably be selected over Williams for the chairmanship, but that Williams would be selected as one of the two members of the board. Nor was the selection of Murphy entirely unexpected, since it has been known for some time that he was being given serious consideration at least for membership on the board, if not for chairman.

The chairman of the board will receive a salary of $6,000 a year and be a full-time official. Each of the two other members of the board will receive $3,000 a year and traveling expenses whenever the board is in session. It is expected that the board will have to meet very frequently during the first year and at least once a month or oftener after the first year, so that the two part-time members should be assured of getting from $1,500 to $2,000 a year for their services.

Announce Progr'm For Address Here By Alvin C. York

Famous World War Hero to Speak at Campus Building at College Here at 8 p. m. Monday

With the appearance in Greenville Monday night of Sergeant Alvin C. York, America's "one-man army" during the World War, the Greenville Council for Peace Action is bringing to the citizens of the community and its vicinity one of the most ardent and effective workers for peace participating in the present national-wide Emergency Peace Campaign.

He will speak at the Campus Building of the College at 8 o'clock. His visit is being jointly sponsored by the college, the Pitt County Post of the American Legion, the American Legion Auxiliary, the Greenville Rotary Club, the Greenville Kiwanis Club and the local Council for Peace Action.

Contact with Sergeant York was established through the Rev. Conrad H. Blackwell, the Virginia-North Carolina area director of the Emergency Peace Campaign, who was here recently in the interests of the campaign. In addition to Greenville, Sergeant York will speak before large mass meetings in other cities of the state, such as Salisbury, High Point and Raleigh. Both the Salisbury and High Point posts of the American Legion are sponsoring his visit to those cities, while York on April 29 not only will speak before the Legion post there and at a luncheon club but will also address a mass meeting that night.

Work has already begun here to insure a mammoth audience next Monday night to hear the Sergeant. Committees have been set up as follows: Program and Arrangements, Dr. Carl Adams, Chairman, Dr. A. D. Frank and Mrs. J. H. Rose; Finance, Mrs. C. C. Hilton, Chairman, J. H. Waldrop and Judge Dink James; Decorations, Miss Frances Wahl and Miss Deenie Boone Hazlett; and, Publicity, Miss Lois Grigsby, Chairman, Rev. R. C. Grady and Tom Wilson, Ollie Van Nortwick, Jr., S. O. Worthington, D. J. Whitehead and Oon Williams.

Proceeding Sergeant York's address, the High School band will play patriotic numbers.

Judge Taken Ill; Court Adjourned

Judge E. H. Cranmer of South-Carolina, who has been presiding over a term of civil court here this week, was taken ill this morning and the session was adjourned.

Judge Cranmer went to the court house as usual this morning. He stopped by the clerk's office to await time to open court. He became ill and had to be removed to his rooming quarters at Mrs. Annie Quinerty's home on Third street.

The attending physician said he did not consider the judge's condition serious. He added that over work might have been a contributing factor. Court officials said Judge Cranmer had not been feeling well all week, but had continued with his duties. He presided over a civil term last week and was scheduled to hold two weeks' of civil court next month.

VIRGINIA MAN HURT IN WRECK

Two Accidents Occur In Or Near Greenville Today

Two persons are in the hospital as a result of wrecks in or near Greenville this morning. Neither is considered critically injured, however.

T. J. Hammond, of Richmond, Va., representative of the Fidelity & Casualty Company of New York, is suffering with lacerations and bruises as a result of a wreck in front of the Tyson filling station on the Farmville road.

Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst, who investigated the wreck, said the car in which Hammond was riding and which was driven by Ellis Joyner, also of Richmond, struck a Coca Cola truck driven by Leon Fornes, of this city.

According to the sheriff, Fornes started to cross the highway from a side road after he had stopped. He said the Virginia car was traveling at such a rate of speed the driver was unable to stop before it crashed into the truck. No arrests were made by the sheriff.

Hospital attaches said that Hammond's condition did not appear to be critical.

A little Negro girl, daughter of Daisy Forbes, was struck by a car in front of the Fleming Street school. She is understood to be seriously, but not critically, injured.

Chief G. A. Clark said he was holding Leona Barrett, one of several Negroes riding in the car which struck the girl. He said he knew the names of the others and expected to take them into custody, probably tonight.

BASQUES HAIL BRITISH SHIPS BEARING FOOD

Near Starving Residents of Bilbao Are Cheered

FREIGHTERS RUN REBEL BLOCKADE

Insurgents Continue Raids By Land And Sea On Besieged Spanish Cities

(By Associated Press) Joyous Basques cheered the arrival of three British food ships at Bilbao today, while insurgent air raids dumped more than 50 bombs on the besieged city.

Government and insurgent pilots battled over the city as the cargo boats, having run the attempted insurgent blockade in the Bay of Biscay, docked with 6,100 tons of provision for Bilbao's starving population.

The three freighters, the MacGregor, Hamsterley and Stanbrook, defied threats from the insurgent cruiser Almirante Cervera, and an armed trawler, Galema, to reach Bilbao where the normal 150,000 population has been swelled to almost 400,000 by refugees.

British warships protected the food ships until they reached the three-mile limit; then Bilbao coastal guns and a Basque man of war took over the job. Another food ship reached Gijon, on the Basque coast west of Bilbao.

Insurgent shrapnel crashed in Madrid for the twelfth consecutive day of an intensive bombardment and added at least a dozen casualties to the more than 250 already killed.

PLAN TO HOLD CLINIC IN PITT

Tuberculosis Examinations to Be Given Next Week

Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, Pitt county health officer, today declared that plans practically had been completed for the adult tuberculosis clinic to be held here next week.

The health department stressed the importance of all persons having symptoms of the disease avail themselves of the opportunity for a check-up. Persons wishing to be examined merely as a precautionary measure are invited to attend, but it was advised that where practical, the patient bring a reference from his own physician.

The clinic will be conducted in the offices of the health department each day, but Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday have been set aside for patients in Greenville; Thursday for those in Ayden and Friday for Farmville. These dates will not be adhered to strictly, however, as patients from all sections of the county are invited. The clinic is for Negroes as well as white people.

The hours of all clinics will be from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m. It is desirable that appointments be made.

Dr. Ennett called attention to the fact that the clinic is conducted only once each year and that if the disease is discovered in the early stages it can be cured, while the vast majority of advanced cases are incurable. "Early discovery means early recovery," he declared.

The examinations will be free if an x-ray is necessary this, too, will be free to those unable to pay for it, but citizens who can afford to will be expected to bear the extra expense.

LEAVE SQUIRTERS HOME ON CORONATION DAY

(London, AP)—London newspapers in 1911 gave solemn advice to citizens as to how they should conduct themselves at the coronation of King George V. Some of the advice may still have value, some has long since dismissed itself. It included:

"Don't fail to allow yourself plenty of time to reach the routs."

"Don't burden yourself with field glasses and other impediments."

"Don't bring more money with you than you care that you do not put it all in one pocket. Thieves will certainly be on the look-out for victims."

"Don't wear projecting hairpins. They are dangerous."

RHEBA A SLANDER WITNESS

Reba Crawford, former associate pastor of Angelus Temple and bitter enemy of Pastor Aimee Semple McPherson, is shown mounting the witness stand in Los Angeles to testify as a prosecution witness in the $150,000 slander suit brought against Sister Aimee's attorney, Willed Andrews, by her daughter, Roberta Semple.

NEGRO BACKED GAINS MADE ON BY FOLLOWERS STRIKE FRONTS

'Father Divine' Arraigned on Felonious Assault Count

New York, April 23.—(AP)—Intermittently shouting "they can't jail God," several hundred followers of Father Divine congregated outside police headquarters today.

A few blocks down Lafayette street scores of other disciples of the Negro cult leader swarmed around the criminal court building as their "god" was hustled into felony court for arraignment on a felonious assault charge.

Some of his customary blarney of face and manner was missing, but his followers were confident apparently of his ultimate triumph over his mundane enemies and sang and shouted words of comfort.

The followers of the former Baltimore handyman began gathering at daybreak outside police headquarters to greet their leader when he was brought there to be placed in the line-up. Their numbers became so great at last emergency squad cars, radio cars and 50 or more uniform policemen and detectives were ordered to post around the building.

But the disciples were peaceful. Father Divine's arrest in connection with the stabbing of Harry Green, a white contractor of Weehawken, N. J., in the main Harlem "heaven" Tuesday was made on a tip from an undisclosed source, Milford police said.

Of more than 19,000,000 irrigated acres in the United States probably 85 per cent of them get water directly from melting snows, U. S. agricultural engineers say.

Reports Bailey Headed Toward Independantism

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, April 23.—North Carolina Republicans have revived an earlier 1937 report that Senator Joshua William Bailey is talking "the future" over with eminent Republicans and Democrats.

The first of these outings came straight from Washington where a prominent supporter of Dr. Ralph W. McDonald and Senator Robert R. Reynolds said he heard the program outlined at length. The Republicans are about persuaded, they feel says that their party as a child of Alexander Hamilton is dead. They do not hope to revive it as the world seems to have outgrown it. But their plan in the state is to nominate an old line Democrat against Reynolds and in the nation there is reputed to be much sentiment for Senator Bailey as the nominee against New Dealer who will be run as successor to Roosevelt.

Arriving as the dominant Democrats in North Carolina do, that scheme is fantastic, there isn't anything historically in the way of a bolt by Senator Bailey. He had independent movement in Wake county in 1914 which resulted in the defeat of the regular Democratic candidate for registrar of deeds, and he held office as a member of the state board of agriculture in the administration of Daniel L. Russell, late Republican Governor.

Of more recent months Senator Bailey, who has been so cordially hated by the Republicans for so long a time, has gained favor at their hands. The leader of the minority in the House of Representatives of 1937, tried to make the Democrats of that body praise Bailey and renounce Roosevelt, but the resolution was thrown out the window.

Whether better luck will attend this reputed new enterprise, one in which there is undisputed local Republican interest, it is too early to say; but well-informed Republicans everywhere in this section of the state say Bailey is to be their champion in the effort to "save America." A Republican, Abraham, they suggest, once saved the union; it is the turn of the Democrats.

BATTLE LINES TIGHTENED BY LABOR UNIONS

A. F. of L. Prepares Offensive Against Lewis Group

CONFERENCE SET FOR MAY 18TH

Green Announces Parley For Purpose Of Marshalling Labor Forces In U. S.

(By Associated Press) The American Federation of Labor tightened its battle lines today for a new offensive against the John Lewis Committee for Industrial Organization.

President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, coupled an attack upon the arrival of the rival labor group with a call for a conference May 18 in Cincinnati "to marshal the forces of labor in America."

Ten "rebel" unions suspended for aligning with Lewis were still technically within the American Federation of Labor fold. The executive council meeting at Washington announced no formal expulsion order, but the breach was considered irresponsible. Green said the Federation would continue to suspend units which supported the C. I. O.

C. I. O. leaders, active on several sectors in the strike front, were suspended from immediate comment.

ELAINE BARRIE GETS DIVORCE

Presiding Judge Wishes Her 'Better Luck Next Time'

Los Angeles, April 23.—(AP)—Elaine Barrie, 21, the "Ariel" to John Barrymore's "Caliban," won a divorce today from the 55-year-old hero of stage and screen.

Only Elaine and her mother, Mrs. Edna Jacobs, testified at the trial that marked the end of Barrymore's fourth marriage, a union that lasted little more than four months.

After hearing the testimony Superior Court Judge Walter Gates declared: "I certainly think the plaintiff is entitled to a divorce. I grant the divorce. Better luck next time."

Lenoir Authorities Puzzled Over Death

Kinston, April 23.—Lenoir County Coroner Ira M. Hardy prepared today for an inquest into the death of a man never positively identified. Authorities quoted Mrs. Ralph Jones of Pink Hill as saying she "believed" a body found in Neuse River near here some days ago was that of her husband, missing six months.

There was evidence that the authorities were confident the body was Jones'. They held four men as "material witnesses," though declining to admit there was evidence of foul play. The coroner said the body was "in bad condition, naturally," and it was impossible to determine whether the man had been slain.

The witnesses were Lloyd Morris, J. T. Dawson and Lemuel Parrott, Lenoir County men, and Christopher Henderson of Jones County and Greenville. Officers said the four were with Jones at Happersville, near Kinston, shortly before he disappeared last fall.

The coroner said the inquest would be held "shortly."

Dunn's Finest Home Destroyed By Blaze

Dunn, April 23.—(AP)—Fire destroyed the largest and finest residence here today, the home built by the late Hannibal L. Godwin, former congressman and though no immediate estimate of the loss was made, the house was generally regarded as being worth $50,000 or more.

County Officers Find Two Stills

Members of the sheriff's office and federal officers captured two stills in Pitt county yesterday, one of which was in operation, and destroyed a large quantity of beer.

Both stills were located in Pactolus township, along Tranters creek. A man was seen at the plant in operation, but he fled officers and made his get-away.

Both plants were of the steam type and each was of 300-gallon capacity. Officers said the one in operation had been fired only a short while before and the operator apparently was preparing to make a "run." No whiskey was found at either place, but 9,000 gallons of mash was discovered and destroyed at the one in operation. An estimated 4,500 gallons was found at the other still.

Both plants were unusually large.

BEGIN HEARING MURDER TRIAL

Commonwealth's Attorney Outlines Case Before Jury

New Castle, Ky., April 23.—(AP)—The Commonwealth declared today tests made after the death of Mrs. Verona Taylor showed Brigadier General Henry Denhardt had fired a pistol and that there were blood spots on his coat. Similar tests made on the hands of the comely widow, Commonwealth Attorney H. B. Kingsolving declared, showed negative results.

The attorney declared tests showed 20 to 30 blood spots on Denhardt's coat and witnesses would prove Denhardt did not go near the body after it was found in a roadside ditch near here the night of last November 6.

The statements were made as the Commonwealth Attorney outlined his case to the jury, chosen last night. He had previously declared he could prove the widow's fiancé was not melancholy and in a mood for suicide. He said Denhardt told the men who found the body he feared she had killed herself and that he had previously taken his pistol away from her.

Preliminaries were completed late yesterday with the selection of a jury, thus clearing the stage for the first act—presentation of the state's testimony which is to begin immediately after Commonwealth Attorney H. B. Kingsolving, Jr., ends the opening statement.

The Commonwealth charged Denhardt, who rose to prominence in Kentucky military and political life, shot fatally Mrs. Garr Taylor, his pretty fiancée, during the course of a car ride November 6.

Unemployment Act Not Applicable Liquor Employees

ABC Boards Considered Instrumentalities of the Counties and Therefore Not Eligible Under Law

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, April 23.—County Alcoholic Control Boards in North Carolina and their employees, even though in many cases more than the minimum of eight, are not subject to the North Carolina Unemployment Compensation Act, for the very good reason that such boards are instrumentalities of the counties, which are in turn political subdivisions of the State, the N. C. commission holds in an official interpretation prepared by General Counsel Adrian J. Newton.

The act specifically exempts employees of the Federal Government and the State and its subdivisions and instrumentalities, the latter of which the ABC boards are held to be.

Attorney General A. F. Seawell is quoted in the interpretation as saying that "In the legislative debates the prevailing argument was in favor of control of liquor traffic rather than prohibition, and this legislation (the Pasquotank act of 1935) was evolved as a method of control. It does not need these debates, however, to determine from the reading of the Act, that the purpose of the law is to place the liquor traffic under control of the State, or its political subdivisions, the counties mentioned, as a matter of police regulation and under the police power of the State, properly delegated to the county."

It is reasonably presumed, although not passed upon, that county ABC boards and their employees are also exempted under the new liquor control act, which extends still further the control of the State itself, through a State board, the control of the liquor traffic in the State.

CHARGES FILED AGAINST GIANT MELLON FIRM

Aluminum Company Accused Violating Anti-Trust Laws

ACTION FOLLOWS LONG INQUIRY

Andrew W. Mellon Named As One of Defendants in Case Filed By Govt.

Washington, April 23.—(AP)—The government charging violation of anti-trust laws, went into court today to force reorganization of the Giant Aluminum company of America.

The action was announced by Attorney General Cummings, who said the Justice Department had filed suit against the concern in the Southern district of New York.

Meanwhile Senate and House heard specific proposals for slashing millions off the federal budget. Representative Taber (R. N. Y.) ranking minority member of the House Appropriations committee, introduced a resolution to cut by 10 per cent all 1938 appropriations bills still to be acted on by Congress.

Earlier Senator Byrnes (D. S. C.) said he had found "lots of sentiment" for a plan to reduce all appropriations for the coming year by 10 per cent.

The anti-trust law suit was based on the government's charge, the Justice Department said, that the company, with which the name of former Treasury Secretary Andrew Mellon long has been associated, has established a monopoly in violation of anti-trust laws.

Mellon was named among the individuals the suit listed as defendants.

The start of formal court action followed years of inquiry by the government into operations of the aluminum company, which has extensive holdings and plants in various sections of the country.

The government alleged as late as March 1 this year the company committed an act of "oppressive and unreasonable price fixing" by advancing the car lot price of virgin ingot.

Elsewhere in the capital interest centered mainly on conclusion of the Senate Judiciary committee hearing on the Roosevelt court bill and on economy issues involved in House consideration of the agriculture department's appropriation.

Both the Senate and its Civil Liberties Committee were in recess. Five uncommitted senators still held the balance of power on the Senate Judiciary Committee at the close of the hearings on the Roosevelt bill.

An Interview With Spaeth

"Swing music is nothing new, but represents a throwback to the raucous jazz of World War days," declared Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, popularly known as the "Tune Detective," in an interview given the Teco Echo prior to his appearance at the Robert H. Wright auditorium at the College last night. He said that the only difference in the swing music of today is that it is now played much better. The swing variety is not a new type of music, but simply another way of playing jazz. It differs greatly from Paul Whiteman's sweet jazz. Benny Goodman, in Dr. Spaeth's opinion, is tops in the "swing" division.

Fine Arts Festival

The opening program of the annual Community Fine Arts Festival was held in the Woman's club building Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Miss Irene Price of Raleigh, distinguished artist of North Carolina, spoke on "How an Artist Judges Paintings." This was interesting and educational. Music was furnished by the Men's Glee club of the College.

Another distinguished artist, Mr. Leide-Tedesco, an Italian by birth, but is now an American citizen, also delighted the audience. He is educator and Forum speaker, and the only Forum speaker presenting music in the fine arts in the 17 cultural art centers in the United States. His subject "Jazz and American Folk Music." He made a survey of American folk lore, explaining how historical folk lore forms background for present-day jazz which is the immediate outgrowth of ragtime. Mr. Leide-Tedesco told of contribution of folk lore to the American Indian and particularly of the American Negro, who furnishes rhythmic force of American music.

Jazz is not an art but a great art may be the outgrowth of it in the hands of a master craftsman. Therefore, we look to America's natural geniuses to come from our own country.

All present realized that this Forum speaker meant much to the Fine Arts Festival and were fortunate to have music and paintings, and other arts shown together. The Festival continues through Sunday.

BILL DELANCEY HAS BIG TIME -AND BIG-TIME ASPIRATIONS

Phoenix, Ariz. (AP)—Bill Delancey, former St. Louis Cardinal catcher, is having the time of his life.

Informed of his appointment as manager of the Albuquerque, N.M., club of the Arizona-Texas league, Delancey—abruptly recovered from a serious 2-year illness—shouted joyfully: "I feel just like a kid with a new toy!"

When Delancey came here nearly two years ago after a brilliant season behind the plate for the Cards he was so ill for months that he seldom got out of bed.

Tanned by the sun and now weighing more than 200 pounds, Delancey is anxiously awaiting opening of the Arizona-Texas league campaign.

The New Mexico club will operate as a farm for the Sacramento club of the Pacific Coast league, which in turn is affiliated with the Cardinals.

Wears Series Uniform
Delancey sent for his old Cardinal uniform—the one he wore in the 1934 World Series when the Cards beat Detroit. He has a new catcher's mitt and a mask, explaining that he intends to give the rookie pitchers a lot of pointers he learned while receiving the dazzling slants of Dizzy Dean.

"The doctors have been trying a new serum injection on me lately," Delancey said. "I've practically recovered from the lung trouble."

Collector's Instinct

At about two most children have reached the stage of development when they are best pleased by sets of things of the same kind. There seems to be something about uniformity which appeals to them.

The woman who likes piles of linen, neat rows of flat silver, stacks of identical plates, the man who rejoices in a set of chisels, the book collector who revels in complete editions, should understand the child's delight in many blocks, dozens of spoons, a troop of miniature animals or a whole nest of boxes.

Wisely guided, the collector's urge may become an important social asset to the adult. The real collector is seldom a hermit. He must meet people and make contacts if he is to add to his collection. Furthermore, hobbies are humanizing, since every rider of a hobby feels the need to discuss and compare his mount with those of others.

The boy who rejoices in collections, however absurd they may be, will in a few years be the boy who is trading stamps or the young girl who is exhibiting her linen chest to her friends.

Out of this same root, however, may grow the money-grubber and the miser. He is not out-going, and falls in human sympathy. Somewhere in his youth the collector's instinct has been warped and turned into the wrong channels. Perhaps it was not given a natural outlet, perhaps too much emphasis

MONDAY HOLIDAYS

There is a movement under way at this time to get this country to follow the English example of having all holidays throughout the year with the exception of Christmas fall on Monday.

Under our present plan we observe holidays on whatever day they fall and as a result the single day means little to the workers in various lines of business and the holiday upsets the regular business routine.

Instead of observing our holidays haphazard fashion throughout the year, we believe that a change to this plan of having all them on Mondays would prove a great advantage to all.

How's Your Health?

Abdominal Adhesions

A patient having been operated upon for some pelvic or abdominal condition, and having made an uneventful recovery, finds himself some time thereafter troubled by a variety of pains referable to the abdomen or other parts.

The patient returns to the doctor or surgeon, and is informed that adhesions have formed. The condition may be serious enough to warrant operation.

Unfortunately, no simple, crystal-clear answers can be given. Nor does it much avail to tell the patient that "adhesions" is the price paid for having within the abdomen a lining membrane capable of covering up inflammations, wounds and other forms of injury to which the organs of the abdominal cavity are subject.

The abdominal cavity and all its organs are lined with a membrane called the peritoneum. This membrane is normally smooth surfaced. Its function is to facilitate the movements of the stomach, intestines, colon, etc.

and thus kept the infection from spreading. After surgery and the consequent unavoidable injury, the peritoneum may form adhesions. These may embarrass the normal functions of the abdominal organs and may cause pains by pulling on nerve-containing tissues.

Modern surgery, by asepsis and conservatism, ever seeks to reduce the danger of the formation of post-operative adhesions, but it does not always succeed in preventing their formation.

Rheumatic Fever. Parents may be able to contribute to the prevention of that devastating disease, rheumatic fever, by being on the lookout for evidences of frequent throat infection in their children.

The rationale for being on the lookout for throat infections is as follows. The cause of rheumatic fever remains largely unknown. There is much convincing evidence pointing to the streptococci as causative agents, but just how they operate is not clear.

It is certain that in rheumatic fever we are not dealing with a "blood infection." The bacteria do not actually circulate in the blood. Abscess formation is never witnessed as an integral part of the rheumatic fever disease process.

What then are they due to? The answer given is in terms of the toxins or poisons which the bacteria produce, and also in terms of certain peculiar constitutional reactions of susceptible individuals to these toxins.

In simpler terms, most individuals when subjected to the toxins of the streptococci, can manage them well. Others cannot, and these are the individuals who develop rheumatic fever.

Hence the argument: do not subject children to the toxins of the streptococci, and it may be possible to reduce the number of cases and the severity of rheumatic fever.

ment, or that his home state of Bavaria was not wholeheartedly for the Fuehrer.

He said newspaper reports that he was being replaced as ambassador because of any disaffection for the reich as it now is, made him melancholy.

This column some time ago carried the background of Luther's departure. A young Von Mackensen has ridden out of the west and into Hitler's favor. He will become an undersecretary of foreign affairs. But that was Hans Dieckhoff's job. So Dieckhoff displaces Luther, who goes home, to—nothing.

Luther loves Germany and you can't blame him for wanting to live there. But Germans with a reputation for being out of sympathy with Hitler have a way of not doing so well. So Luther cannot be blamed for whooping it up right where he knew it would do the most good—among several score news men who could send out dispatches.

If you were going back to Germany, wouldn't you sort of throw in your hat, first?

The smell that rises from a fish wharf is as attar of roses compared to the smell that for years has arisen because of the federal shipping board's contact with the ship-building subsidy.

To improve that smell is the job of Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the new maritime commission, which succeeds the shipping board bureau.

The old shipping board members got caught in the tangle of a bad piece of legislation. They were told to subsidize ship building and operating, but to hide the subsidy. They hid it in the way the law directed them to, by paying huge prices for ocean mail delivery.

When the Democratic administration came in, its first real investigation was into the ocean mail subsidy and it was grand hunting. Whenever the news threatened to get dull they would dig up another instance of where some ship line had received $1,045,382.45 for hauling five pounds of mail. The payment was to be conditioned on the company building a new ship, but somehow the new ships rarely were built and the smell grew worse.

It Takes Paint And Glass Eyes To Make Fish Look Real Mounted On Wall

READY FOR THE TAXIDERMIST

The exciting chase is over and the sailfish brought to gaff. "Boy, he'll look good hanging in the den," is dad's first thought as he family gathers 'round excitedly to watch. But it can't adorn the den until it's paid a visit to the taxidermist's shop.

DEATH MASK

One of the taxidermists first gets out the plaster, paris to cast a guide to the original shape as soon as possible after the catch.

VIVISECTION

Then meat is removed, skin scraped, and the huge fin glued to a board which serves as its "backbone."

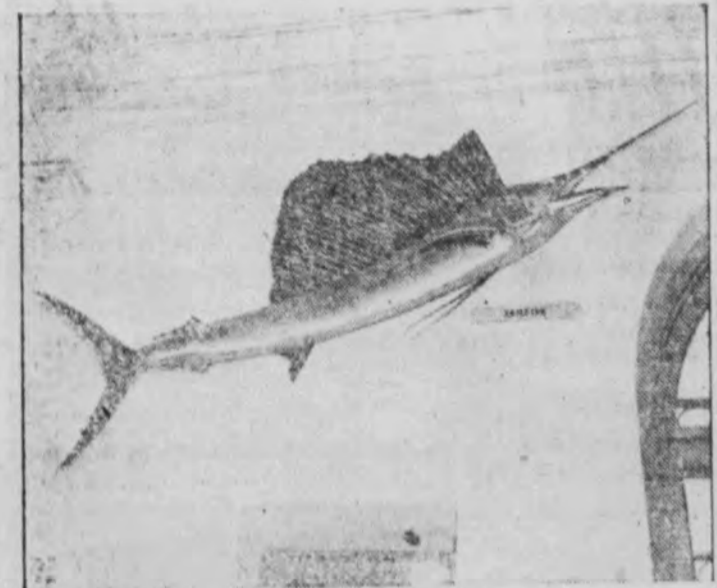

NEW EYES

Next, as carefully as though they were for a human, a pair of artificial eyes of proper size and color are selected.

FINISHING COAT

Nearly through now, an expert applies paint to restore the real life coloring and also act as a preservative.

HOME AT LAST

Dad finally gets his wish when—"frozen" in its original beauty—the prize is hung on the wall of the den—far from its ocean habitat. Now dad can pass out the cigars and regale his guests with confidence—he has conclusive evidence of his fish story!

THE NORTH CAROLINA EXPERIMENT STATION tells you how to STOP RUST and START PROFITS

THE NORTH CAROLINA EXPERIMENT STATION recommends top-dressing cotton with 50 to 100 pounds of MURIATE or 125 to 250 pounds of KAINIT per acre on fields which have shown heavy Rust damage in the past and where the complete fertilizer treatment contained only 3% potash.

The recommendation is made in a recent news release which describes a series of tests in which "plats receiving the additional amount of potash produced larger yields, heavier seed, heavier bolls, more lint per seed, better grade, longer staple, stronger fibers and a higher percentage of normal fibers. Rust damage, on plats receiving no additional potash, lowered the yield and reduced the quality of the fiber to such an extent as to lower the value of the crop $15 to $25 per acre."

The Station selected fields of three farms which had shown severe Rust damage. One standard variety of cotton was planted in 1935 and 1936. At planting each field received 400 pounds of complete fertilizer containing 3% potash, common to the practice of the area. The fields were divided into plats and certain plats were given additional potash at chopping. The results of these tests prompted the above recommendation.

Rotary Leader

John A. Park, publisher of the Raleigh Times, is being advanced as a candidate for District Governor of Rotary. The election will be held at the Pinehurst district conference on May 14th.

PARK BOOSTED FOR CIVIC POST

Raleigh Publisher Is Candidate for Rotary Governor

Raleigh, April 23.—Newspaper publisher John A. Park is the Raleigh Rotary Club's candidate for District Governor during the coming year, the election to be at the Pinehurst District Conference on May 10.

Mr. Park has had a prominent State's first club was founded at State's first club was founded at Raleigh in 1914, serving as president and in other capacities. Demands on his services as song leader and speaker on community relations have carried him into various fields. Known as an able leader in civic, religious, musical and educational affairs, he is widely known outside the profession of journalism. He has headed the State Press group and the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association. A graduate and former faculty member of State College, he has served also as head of the General Alumni Association of his Alma Mater.

Since his student days as a cow puncher, Mr. Park has been a globe trotter. Several voyages with the U. S. Fleet as representative of the Associated Press have carried him into tropical lands and seas. He has covered most of Europe and also the two American continents from Newfoundland to the Argentine Republic. He completed last summer a total score of 25,000 miles of air travel, after a half-year tour of South America. Election as Rotary Governor will take him to Europe in June for the International Convention at Nice.

Mr. Park recently celebrated his silver anniversary as head of The Raleigh Times.

M. S. Hill, of the Greensboro Rotary Club, is opposing Mr. Park in the May election.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

SYNOPSIS: A raging February storm breaks on Farrington Bluff after Michael, his sweetheart Gay Palmer and I arrive for a weekend with his aunts. That night, Jude Blinshop, the fourth guest, and the Skipper, Mike's tall and breezy younger aunt, disappear. Michael hurries himself in a fall while we are searching the island. William, the chauffeur, and I continue the search, finding Jude's body on the bluff. I have just carried it to the kitchen, when the Skipper walks in saying she has been in the stable with her collar which was bearing a litter.

Chapter Seven Was It A Tramp?

THEY were all waiting for me to speak. Desperately I plunged into my story, an anxious eye on the Skipper's face. But the Skipper was never hysterical. Aside from the color of her face and the slight twitching of her mouth, she might have been listening to a plot for a novel. After I had finished there was no sound in the room but the crackling of the fire. The Skipper recovered first.

"The first thing for us to do is to get hold of George Foster. He's the coroner—and a good doctor."

"We can't," I said dully. "The bridge is down—and the telephone wires. Her grip on my shoulder tightened. "Are you sure?"

"Positive." She drew a long breath. "I see. Well, go up to Mike and tell him the best you can. I'll handle Martha. Higgins, you and William had better carry Ju—Miss Blinshop to her room. Wait until Mr. Wells and I get upstairs. I'll send Cook and Annie down right away."

At the foot of the stairs I stopped her.

"Skipper, wait a minute," I said. "There aren't any other servants here on the bluff, are there?"

"We're all here, Jim," she said evenly.

"Then it must have been a tramp on the grounds or some fool shooting to—call for help!"

We stared at each other. As plainly as any words could say it, her eyes said, "And Jude went out there for what?" God, but she looked haggard! Taking my arm, she started me up the stairs.

"We've got to bite on it, Jim," she said in a husky voice.

Mike's Implication I LEFT her at M. Farrington's door and walked on to Michael's. It took an effort to knock and turn the knob. Michael was asleep. Gay, still holding his hand, half rose from his side as I entered and closed the door behind me.

"How is he?" I whispered.

"Just tagged out, I think, Jimmie! You didn't find them!"

Her voice was low, but not low enough. Mike's eyes flew open and lighted on my face. He struggled up. "Jim! Where are they? You—"

"We found them, Mike," I said, "but—"

"But what?"

My lips were dry. I was obliged to

For one never-ending second they stared at me. moisten them before they would ob- sistent to move. "There's been an ac- cident. The Skipper's all right, but we—we found Jude out on the bluff." I swallowed hard. "She's been shot, Mike. She's dead."

For one never-ending second they stared at me. Then Gay's hand flew to her throat. "No!" she cried sharply. "No!"

But Mike sat like a wooden Indian, questions when the answers were ob- vious. Right then there were no answers and I was busy enough with questions of my own. But the Skipper didn't wait for a reply. For the first time in my life I entered M. Farrington's room.

Local Baseball Secretary Recalls Carolina League

Dave Moore Reviews Greenville's Previous Experience

Editor's note—D. C. Moore, Jr., secretary-treasurer of the Greenville Baseball Club, submitted the following story after delving through old newspaper files and refreshing his memory.

By D. C. MOORE, Jr.
The change this year of the Coastal Plain League from semi-pro to professional baseball has caused a number of Greenville fans to recall some of the games and players in the Eastern Carolina League of 1928 and 1929 when this city had its first and only experience in organized baseball. The league was composed of six cities, Wilmington, Goldsboro, Rocky Mount, Kinston, Fayetteville and Greenville.

Judge W. G. Bramham, of Durham, was president of the League, and he is now the President of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

Guy V. Smith, who has served for many years as President of the Greenville Baseball Club, was also President of Greenville's teams of 1928 and 1929, in organized baseball.

In 1928 Wilmington finished on top in season's standings, with Goldsboro in second place, but the playoff series resulted in the Goldbugs winning the pennant, taking four games to the Pirates' two, one game resulting in a tie. Rocky Mount finished in third position, Kinston heading the second division, the Fayetteville "Highlanders" fifth, and the Greenville "Tobaccoists" having full possession of the cellar, winning 43 games and losing 71 in a 114 game schedule.

The following year the clubs voted to play a split season. Goldsboro and Rocky Mount yielding to the wishes of the other clubs in this decision. Wilmington won the first half, and Rocky Mount came out on top in the second half. In the championship series, Wilmington again lost out, Rocky Mount winning the pennant by taking four of six games played.

Greenville finished in fifth place for the first half, and by splitting a double header with the Kinston Eagles on the closing day of the season remained in a tie with that club for the cellar in the second half.

As to some of the players on the Greenville team in those years, it is recalled that "Deacon" Joliff, a veteran pitcher, was the first manager for this city in its professional debut. "Tommy" Abbott, who died several years ago, was the first string catcher.

The opening game of 1928 was played in Rocky Mount, and the home opening ceremonies came on April 28th, when "Billy" Sunday (who was conducting revival meetings in the city) threw out the first ball and Mayor J. Con Lester caught it. It was in this game played with Fayetteville, that fans of Greenville first saw the now famous Johnny Allen pitch. Pitching for the Highlanders, he defeated Greenville eight to two.

A short time later, Greenville made a trade with Fayetteville, Johnny Allen coming to Greenville, and first baseman Benedict going to Fayetteville. Allen later went to Raleigh, and then pitched for Asheville, and was sold for $5,000, a dispute between Asheville and Raleigh, resulting in the money being awarded to Raleigh.

"Buck" Newsome, now one of the leading pitchers in the American League, also saw some service with Greenville that year, and over at Fayetteville there was Van Lingle Mungo, now with the Brooklyn Dodgers, and one of the best pitchers in the National League.

The 1929 season opened on April 19th, with Kinston and Greenville fighting to an 8-8 deadlock in ten innings. Lester Bangs was the Greenville Manager, some of the other players at the opening of the season were Nalbook, Edmonds, Loder, Jones, Williams, and Chapman, infielders; Edwards and Hart, outfielders; Pasquella, Clemmons, and Bryan, catchers; and Joliff, Jeffers, Rose, Dawson, Fowlkes and Garbee, pitchers. Manager Bangs played center field.

SPEC TOWNS OF GEORGIA
THE OLYMPIC AND NATIONAL HIGH HURDLES CHAMPION AND WORLD RECORD HOLDER HAS RETURNED TO COMPETITION

...YET THE BIG THRILL OF HIS CAREER WAS THE TOUCHDOWN HE SCORED AGAINST L.S.U.

All Rights Reserved by The Associated Press

Sport Slants

By PAP

Forrest Towns pondered... "My biggest thrill? Well... I think it was the touchdown I scored on Louisiana State..."

The boy had won every possible high hurdling honor. He held Olympic, national, intercollegiate championships. He had authored world records. It was a surprise to learn he had had his big moment on the gridiron.

Towns' brief pigskin career last autumn was interrupted on the eve of the Georgia Bulldogs' departure for the New York U. game. An appendix operation not only kept him off the football field for the rest of the season, but kept him off the winter board tracks, as well.

Now the boy who holds the world record of 14.1 seconds for the 120-yard and 110-meter hurdles is set on cutting the mark. Fourteen seconds flat is his immediate objective. He was timed in 13.7 over the 110-meter barriers while on tour after the Olympics, but the feat was not submitted for recognition.

Towns had no ambitions to become a hurdler when he reported for freshman track at Georgia. He was a high jumper—only a fair one. Weems Baskin, former national hurdling champion and assistant track coach of the Bulldogs, came along. He thought he saw a hurdler in Towns.

In two years, Forrest developed from an awkward, uncertain hurdler into an athlete of championship caliber.

Perhaps Towns had latent natural talent. Certainly he worked hard. He studied the form of leading hurdlers. He developed a style suited to his own physique. He placed pebbles on the hurdles and tried to skim them off. He worked constantly to iron out faults and to gain speed. Now, at the top of his field, he works as hard as ever.

The 14-second mark is within his reach.

'BOSSY' GILLIS ROARS AGAIN DESPITE 'MA'

By ALEXANDER H. SINGLETON

Newburyport, Mass. (AP)—Andrew J. (Bossy) Gillis, this old fishing port's "bad boy" mayor, has shaken off the shackles of "Ma" Gillis's advice and his own campaign promise to "keep my mouth shut this term."

Bossy sighs with relief these days as Newburyport echoes to the roar of his new-found freedom.

All The 'Council's Fault'
"If those lousy ingrates, those ungrateful bums, the city councilmen," asserts Bossy, "had behaved and didn't oppose me, I could've kept quiet."

"But I gotta fight. The councilmen have declared war."

Bossy figuratively mounted his war horse—his steed of the moment was an up-ended oil barrel in his garage where he pumps gas for townfolks and tourists—and explained the controversy between the council and himself.

"The government," said Bossy, "will kick through with more than $100,000 to build an airport in Newburyport if the city will provide the land. But the council won't appropriate the money for it."

"Why? I'll tell you why. Just because Bossy Gillis is for it."

He's Not Hungry
"Now here's a hundred war veterans down at city hall looking for work. Some of 'em has as high as 10 kids. They need food and could get work if this airport project went through."

"Bossy Gillis ain't going hungry," shouted the red-headed mayor, "but he don't like to see his old buddies an their kids starving."

Bossy proved his point about his personal diet by outlining four meals he had already enjoyed by mid-afternoon, and the fifth he looked forward to on reaching home with perhaps a "snack" before bed.

Joiner With Eagles

Kinston, April 23.—Tucker Joiner has joined the pitching staff of the local Coastal Plain League club. He came from Hopkinsville, Ky., in the Kitty League. He was at the Kentucky town three seasons. It had been reported that Joiner would go to Greenville, but the local club said it engaged his services several weeks ago.

The Eagles have eight pitchers. The list includes manager Krim Bess, who will take a turn regularly. Bess came here from the St. Louis Cardinals with a squad of young players.

The Sportsman

By Larry Bauer

Fly fishing, time-honored sport- ing way of taking trout, has gained converts rapidly among bass anglers during the past decade. Many who changed to the lighter equipment will tell you they discovered fishing thrills unknown to them when using the bait casting rig.

Remember when there were ten plug-tossers to every fly caster? Those were the days of "battleships"—big wooden chunks with gangs totalling twelve hooks. In recent years, however, plugs have been made smaller and better all around with fewer hooks. A thousand and one new casting-rod lures have appeared, many with but a single hook.

Sportsmen contend the more humane artificials save undersized fish when used by anglers with their minds on the future of the sport. Smaller game fish can be "sewed" to a multi-barbed plug by the strike and ensuing struggle.

Perhaps another reason for the increased ranks of fly fishermen is that one can have a lot of fun taking bluegills and kindren pan fish with the light rod. But in states where trout are absent, bass provide the real thrill. The latter are natives of American waters from the far south into Canada.

Although both large-mouth and small-mouth take the dry fly, wet fly fishing is the favored method. This may be done with dry fly tackle with the exception that a heavier rod is preferable. Fishermen differ widely on the choice of tackle and flies. Some use a small spinner or underwater flies. Others eschew the shining metal. Some prefer hair to feathers. And so it goes.

The Mississippi river forms the entire eastern boundary line of Missouri for 500 miles.

BAITY TALKED FOR ROAD POST

Former PWA Administrator May Be Named for Job

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, April 23.—Dr. Herman G. Baity, head of the engineering department of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, former Public Works Administration Administrator in North Carolina, and one of the candidates for the presidency of the Greater University of North Carolina at the time Dr. Frank P. Graham was elected president, is regarded by a good many here as likely to be appointed the new chairman of the State Highway and Public Works Commission, if Governor Clyde R. Hoey does not reappoint Capus Wayne as chairman.

Some observers here are convinced that Governor Hoey had already offered the post to Baity, and is now waiting for his decision. It is known definitely that Governor Hoey has conferred with Baity here at least twice this week.

The anti-Wayne forces are more convinced than ever that Wayne will not be reappointed, that either Baity, George W. Coan, Jr., State WPA administrator, or some one else whose name has not been mentioned, will be named chairman.

It is no secret that within the last few days Coan and his friends have renewed their campaign for the appointment of Coan as highway chairman with renewed vigor, that the E. C. Deacon, Green and Asheville and Buncombe county "machines" are still sticking with the George Ross Pou-old State prison groups, and the highway contractors, materials men and machinery manufacturers, in backing Coan and in opposing the reappointment of Wayne.

For while these groups are regarded as having deserted the Coan candidacy some two weeks ago, when it became known that Coan had written letters to a good many mayors and city officials in the state, asking them to endorse him for the highway post, and according to many had accordingly eliminated himself from the running, indications now are that they are unable to find any other candidate, have hence come back to Coan.

There is no doubt they are redoubling their efforts in Coan's behalf and again are betting heavy odds that Coan rather than Wayne will be named as the chairman of the new commission.

There is still a good number of persons here, however—and they are not all Wayne's friends and supporters—who maintain that the High Point man will be reappointed chairman largely because Governor Hoey has not been able to find any one to take his place. Not that there have not been plenty willing to accept the appointment, since there have been 74 who have either sought the chairmanship or a place on the commission, or who have been endorsed for one place or the other.

But there are indications that so far those Governor Hoey has approached or felt out with regard to the chairmanship have not been interested. It is generally believed that the chairmanship of the commission was offered to Speaker R. Gregg Cherry of Gastonia, that he told the Governor he was not interested. Some think it has already been offered to Baity and that he, too, has declined to consider it. It is even reported that some of those who have been approached with regard to it have ended up by urging the reappointment of Wayne.

The report has been current for several days that Chairman J. Wallace Winborne, who was here several days ago, told Governor Hoey that he could not find any one better fitted for the job than Wayne, that he urged his reappointment without further delay. It is known that former Chairman E. B. Jeffers of Greensboro, and former Chairman Rufus A. Doughton of Sparta, have told the Governor practically the same thing.

So while there is no doubt that Governor Hoey has been trying to find some one else with whom to replace Wayne as chairman of the highway commission, many here are convinced that he has not yet been able to find the man he wanted—unless it is Dr. Baity—that he will wind up eventually by reappointing Wayne.

Those who know Dr. Baity maintain that while he is undoubtedly a great engineer with a brilliant intellect, that he is far more autocratic, dictatorial, stiff-necked, difficult to approach, and violates Rule Six more often than Wayne, and that within six months the same complaints would be made about Baity as have been made about Wayne.

But until Governor Hoey makes his announcement for Sunday morning, no one knows who the new highway chairman will be.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, April 23.—(AP)—Selected stocks stepped forward today, but the market as a whole lacked springtime recovery rhythm.
Dealings were exceptionally quiet throughout and prices were well jumbled near the fourth hour.
Stimulation of bright earnings reports seemed to have dimmed some what for a handful of favorites. Brokers found most of their customers standing on the outside looking in.
A dip in United States government securities was far from helpful as were generally lower tendencies displayed by corporate bonds and commodities.

Sit-Down Rids Workers Of Unpopular Boss

The latest wrinkle in the sit-down business is a strike to get rid of the boss whom workers disliked. Yahr's just what employees of the Yahr-Lange Drug company did in Milwaukee—and President Fred E. Yahr (right), object of their dislike, retired from active management. Some of the 115 sit-downers are shown in the company's office while Yahr was making up his mind to heed their ultimatum.

over the state both as an insurance man and for his interest in politics. He has been active in the Democratic party for years, was secretary of the State Democratic Executive Committee for several years under Chairman J. Wallace Winborne. He resigned his post as secretary of the committee last spring to act as an assistant campaign manager for Mr. Hoey in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor last spring and is conceded to have been one of the most effective and helpful aides the Governor had in both primaries.

"I have known Cutlar a long time, have always found him to be a hard worker, also efficient and conscientious," Governor Hoey said today. "I feel certain that Cutlar will make an able and efficient chairman of this board and that he will carry out his duties with fairness and impartiality."
While Williams had some very strong endorsements for the chairmanship of the liquor board, including those of more than 90 members of the 1937 general assembly, geography has been considered as being against Williams as far as the chairmanship of the board was concerned. For at the present time there are three major appointive state officials from the Albemarle section, namely, Lloyd Griffin, executive secretary of the State School Commission from Efland, Chowan county; Dudley Bagley, chairman of the N. C. Rural Electrification Authority, from Moyock, Currituck county and R. Bruce Eberidge, Director of the Department of Conservation and Development, from Manteo, Dare county.

It is also generally agreed that some if not all of these are likely to be reappointed. Consequently, it was not expected by many that Governor Hoey would make a fourth major appointment from this same section of the state, even though Williams was the author of the Pasquotank County Act in the 1935 general assembly, under which 16 of the present 17 "wet" counties opened county liquor stores. The New Hanover County Act, also passed in 1935, permitting liquor stores in New Hanover county, was patterned after the Pasquotank county act.

Both Moore and Williams are regarded as firm advocates of the liquor stores plan of control.
Murphy, an ardent "dry," is a former mayor of Greensboro, later acted as city manager of both Greensboro and High Point, and is regarded as one of the outstanding Democrats and business men of the Piedmont section. He is older than either Moore or Williams, both of whom are in their forties. Murphy is between 60 and 65 years of age. It is known that Governor Hoey has great confidence in his judgment and ability.

an act of congress to keep the navy's secrets good and safe.
And the navy is trying to get congress to pass the act.
It's this way:
Naval officers are forbidden to take compartments in Pullmans because the expense is greater than necessary. At the same time, an officer charged with handling secret documents is likely to lose his commission if he loses the documents.
Therefore, he has to take a berth and stay awake because he can't lock it. The navy department's new bill contains a specific clause allowing "confidential couriers" of the navy to take lockable train compartments on cross country trips.

Mr. Tedesco outlined in brief Paul Whiteman's concert tour in Europe in 1925 and the musical triumph that resulted. He said that American Jazz had led to the use of new instruments and new styles with these instruments in certain phases of European music. He mentioned Jazz and the modern rhythms as rather typical of American music and suggested that America would some day produce opera which might be really great, in the modern form.
