PRESIDENT ON WAY TO ENJOY WATER CRUISE

Signs $500,000,000 Navy Bill Before Departing

COMMITTEE BUSY ON COURT BILL

Judiciary Group Decides to Vote On Reorganization Measure By May 11

Washington, April 28.—(AP)—Senator McCarran (D. Nev.), the "balance wheel" member on the Senate Judiciary Committee announced opposition today to the Roosevelt court bill. His action virtually assured an unfavorable report to the Senate on the measure, those close to the committee said.

Washington, April 28.—(AP)—The White House announced today President Roosevelt signed the $500,000,000 naval appropriation bill for the 1938 fiscal year before leaving early this morning for a fishing cruise in Southern waters.

Elsewhere in the capital the Senate Judiciary committee decided to vote not later than May 18 on the Roosevelt court bill.

Word came from the closed meeting of the committee a proposal by Senator Logan (D-Ky.), to vote May 11 had been objected to, but all committee members had agreed to have the shown-down by May 18.

Many officials mean while predicted strong bipartisan support for a new curb of business monopolies suggested in a report by Attorney-General Cummings.

Before boarding his train for a Southern vacation, the President gave out Cummings' recommendations on the anti-trust laws be revised because of "the present tendency to increase prices."

Questioned about Cummings' suggestion a committee be named, Mr. Roosevelt said something would be done.

Combined County Graduating Class Totals Over 300

Two Hundred and Forty Members of Senior Classes in County Schools; City Has Nearly 100

Approximately 337 students will be graduated from high schools in Pitt county, including the Greenville unit, this year. The county schools will compete the session within a week, while the city schools will run one month longer.

C. E. Cleville, of course, leads with the number of students to be graduated. Ninety-seven students are listed in the graduating class here, but it is possible that some changes will be made before the final exercises.

Ayden leads all other schools in the county system in number of students in the graduating class. Forty-one students are being graduated there this week. Farmville High School will graduate 28 and Bethel, 25, to rank second and third, respectively.

Other schools in the county and the number of graduates follow: Stokes, 20; Arthur, seven; Belvoir, Falkland, 17; Fountain, 21; Winterville, 25; Chicod, 21; Grifton, 15; Grimesland, 10; and Pactus, eight.

Commencements are underway at all county schools will be an address by Governor Hoy scheduled for Bethel Thursday this week and the dedication of the A. G. Cox school at Winterville and homecoming of the old Baptist High school next Tuesday features of the various commencements.

Several of the schools are holding their commencements in connection with the Public Forums.

'SKINNY' BREAD HERE TO STAY BAKERS DECIDE

Cheyenne, Wyo. (AP)—Stabby and plump loaves would increase bread consumption, but the new "streamlined" bread loaf is here to stay—at least in Wyoming.

That was the decision of Wyoming bakers who met here and decided there is too much public sentiment for long, skinny loaves of bread to eliminate them.

The exclusive baking of stubby, plump loaves of bread, the old fashioned design, would increase bread consumption because when a man sits down to a meal he will eat so many slices of bread, regardless of the width and breadth of the slice, one baker explained.

"But there is more bread in one slice from the stubby, plump loaf, compared with a slice from the 'skinny' or streamlined loaf."

Spring Snow Blocks Roads In Middle West

Proving itself both an asset and a liability to the region affected, spring snow blanketed the Midwest. Drifts were eight feet deep in northwestern Iowa. Moisture was furnished the 1936 drought belt, but the white blanket delayed spring planting and held up traffic. A car and a truck are shown abandoned in drifts near Audubon, Iowa.

Turn Church Into Fortress In Attempt To Halt Rebels

COURT SESSION IS COMPLETED

Busy Afternoon Sees Many Cases Disposed of by Tribunal

County court officials worked until late in the afternoon yesterday in clearing up cases which had piled up during the past two weeks, during which time Superior court was being held.

A busy afternoon followed a morning session which saw a number of cases disposed of.

Peyton Atkinson and Jesse Langley were acquitted of a charge of assault, but T. M. Mayo, indicted jointly with the two, was convicted. Prayer for judgment was continued until May 11.

Hezekiah Anderson and Aaron Peed entered pleas of nolo contendere to a charge of larceny and each was given 90 day sentences, the term suspended as to Anderson upon condition he pay the costs and $10 to George Cox, prosecuting witness.

E. L. Buck was found guilty of being drunk on the highway, but judgment was suspended upon payment of half the costs.

Willie Dixon, also convicted of drunkenness on the highway, was let off with half the costs. Further judgment was suspended.

Jacob Williams was convicted on two cases of giving worthless checks, but judgment was suspended in each upon provision he pay the costs of court and the amount of the checks. The defendant appealed to Superior court.

Roy Smith entered a plea of guilty to operating an automobile to the left of the center of the highway and judgment was suspended upon payment of the costs.

Denhardt May Go On Stand In Case

New Castle, Ky. (AP)—From the lips of Brig. General Henry Denhardt probably will come the story of the tragic trust that ended in death for his fiancée, Miss Verna Taylor of LaGrange, Ky.

Counsel defending Denhardt against an indictment charging him with murdering his fiancée after an all-day automobile ride last November 6, indicated today the defendant would be placed on the stand to testify in his own defense tomorrow.

The Commonwealth, trying to build up a circumstantial murder case against Denhardt, had additional scientific testimony to present today to the jury of square-jawed farmers from the blue grass country.

Salad Hint
A delicious spring or summer salad may be made by cutting fruit-flavored gelatin mixtures into small pieces and mixing them with fresh or canned fruits. Such salads are likely to melt during warm weather, however, if they are left out of the refrigerator too long.

Basque Soldiers Set Up Cannons Behind Walls Of Temple

Hendaye, Franco Spanish Border, April 28.—(AP)—Grimsly determined Basque twined a Durango church into a fortress today in a dramatic attempt to stem the march of strong insurgent Northern armies on Bilbao.

The Basques, members of three decimated battalions, crammed the church of Santa Maria in Durango, 16 miles from Bilbao, dragged their cannon within the walls and blasted at insurgent attackers in ferocious salvos.

But insurgent advances indicated their stand might be in vain. These reports said the vanguard of one of three insurgent columns which are marching to the sea, had encircled Durango and already was virtually unopposed along the broad highway toward Bilbao.

In that Basque capital authorities began to consider evacuation of every woman and child.

Ten small towns had been taken by the three advancing insurgent columns.

BENEFITS DUE MANY PERSONS

Social Security Payments Due 5,945 N. C. Persons

Raleigh, April 28.—The Social Security Board estimates that the number of eligibles for lump-sum or death benefits for North Carolina during 1937 will be 5,945. It is anticipated that the field offices of the Social Security Board in North Carolina will handle these claims as follows: Raleigh Field Office, 590; Charlotte, 1260; Winston-Salem, 720; Asheville, 690; Greensboro, 650; and Salisbury, 460. The balance of prospective claims in North Carolina for this year will be filed through other field offices which will be opened in the future. Up to April 9 only 11 claims had been filed with the Social Security Board from North Carolina. Additional claims are in the process of being filed, and it is probable that the number will increase rapidly as the year progresses.

To qualify for a monthly benefit a wage earner must be at least 65 years old, his total wages from covered employment after 1936 and before age 65 must be $2,000 or more, and he must have received wages after 1936 in covered employment for work on at least 1 day in each of 5 calendar years before reaching age 65. Only wages up to $3,000 a year from any one employer are counted as total wages. Monthly benefits are not payable until 1942.

Meantime, the Social Security Board's regional and field offices are now prepared to assist workers who have reached age 65 to file their claims for lump-sum payments, which are payable now to those who qualify. These payments amount to 3 1-2 per cent of the total wages received in covered employment.

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, April 28.—Governor Clyde R. Hoy's broom swept clean as far as the executive department of the State Highway and Public Works Commission was concerned and left not a single member of the old regime.

Will his broom or vacuum cleaner extend into other divisions—the engineering, legal and prison divisions—and sweep as clean there? Are Chief Engineer W. Vance Base, Chief Counsel Charles Ross and Acting Director Oscar Pitts of the Prison Division slated to get their walking papers before the great Hoy purge of the highway department is completed?

No one knows the answers to these questions yet, of course, since the Governor's mind is inscrutable—and because, theoretically, the chairman and the new commission are supposed to make all decisions with regard to personnel, policies, division heads, and so forth. But actually, it is known that the new commission, including the chairman, will do whatever the Governor asks—or tells—them to do. For good soldiers in a good political army take orders from the commander-in-chief without asking any questions—it is their but to do or resign.

Since it is known that the same powerful political forces who demanded the removal of Capus M. Waynick as chairman of the highway commission and who for weeks boasted that they had already "got" Waynick, are known to be just as bitterly opposed to Base as they were to Waynick, the prevailing belief is that they will eventually "get" Base as well. In fact, there are reports to the effect that these forces would have consented to the reappointment of Waynick if he would have agreed to let Base go—but that Waynick told their emissaries to "go to hell." It is also recalled that it was not until after Waynick and the old commission had finally and definitely advanced Base from Acting Chief Highway Engineer to Chief Highway Engineer that the campaign to get rid of Waynick really got determined on the part of certain contractors, road materials producers and politicians, including the "Deacon" Green, Asheville and Buncombe county faction.

Many are convinced that one of the principal reasons for the present (Continued on page six)

FLOOD WATERS BEGIN RETURN INTO OWN BEDS

Tension Eased as River Peaks Apparently Reached

OHIO DROPPING AT PITTSBURGH

Large Crew of PWA Workers to Follow Receding Waters at Wheeling

(By Associated Press)
Tension in North America's flood area eased today as unruly rivers began slipping back into their own beds.

The Ohio river receded slowly at Pittsburgh and held at a peak of 45.7 feet at Wheeling, West Virginia. It was expected to rise a few feet at points down stream as it carried off the headwaters' overflow.

The Thames river, which drove 6,000 from their homes at London, Ont., and caused $3,000,000 damage, dropped two feet in four hours after being 28 feet above its normal stage. It left large sections of London covered with slime. Much farm land was still submerged.

A large crew of PWA workers was made ready at Wheeling to follow the receding water with buckets, brooms and mops for a cleanup. Some 700 residents of submerged Wheeling island were still being sheltered and fed at Red Cross refugee centers.

Pittsburgh, uneasy about its future after three flood experiences, raised its voice through the City Council and demanded of Congress the installation of storage reserves in the Allegheny and the Monongahela basins so that flood control may become a reality in as short a time as humanly possible.

Negro Ordered Held On Burglary Charge

John Jones, alias "Skin John," was ordered held for trial in Superior court on a charge of first degree burglary following a preliminary hearing in City court this morning.

The Negro is alleged to have entered the home of John Wilson while the owner was sleeping Monday night and to have taken a sum of money amounting to nearly $200.

The only other case tried this morning was that charging Hardee Lee Washington, Negro, with drunkenness. The defendant was fined $10 and costs.

Board Named For Insane Hospital

Raleigh, April 28.—(AP)—Governor Hoy reappointed seven members of the Board of Directors of the State Hospital for the Insane here today and named two additional new members.

Reappointed were: Senator William G. Clarke, of Tarboro; Mrs. Marshall Williams, of Faison; N. Edward Edgerton, of Raleigh; Dr. Charles Mangum, of Chapel Hill; Dr. W. R. Stanford, of Durham; Dr. W. H. Crowell, of Shawboro and K. C. Council of Wanasaw.

New members were Dr. Russell Beaton of Lumberton and T. Spruill Thornon of Winston-Salem.

RAPPAHANNOCK ON RAMPAGE

Flood water ran deep in the town of Falmouth, Va., at the peak of muddy torrents sweeping down historic Rappahannock river. Residents are seen cruising the streets in a row boat. On the other side of the river lies Fredericksburg, lower sections of which were flooded also.

Workers Desert Factory Amid Hoots And Cat-Calls

Exodus in Contrast to Hand-to-Hand Rioting Last Night

Cenerville, Ind. (AP)—About 600 workmen marched from the Rex Manufacturing company's plant here today amid hoots and cat-calls of more than 300 United Automobile Workers of America who had patrolled outside of the building.

Shouts of "we want a closed shop" came from the U. A. W. A. pickets. The exodus from the plant was in decided contrast to the hand-to-hand combat last night in which three suffered injuries requiring medical attention. Dozens of other workmen were cut and bruised in the rioting which followed the calling of the U. A. W. A. strike.

Emmer Davis, U. A. W. A. organizer, announced a temporary truce had been ordered pending a conference with Thomas Hutson, state labor commissioner.

Early in the day a conference of labor leaders and company officials ended without agreement. Another parley was set for 7 p. m.

Davis said he had issued a demand for a closed shop. He asserted he had pointed out the existence of two rival unions in the same plant was "impossible."

NEW HIGHWAY BODY TO MEET

Commission And Chairman to Take Office Saturday

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, April 28.—The ten new members of the State Highway and Public Works Commission, together with Frank L. Dunlap, the new chairman, will meet here Saturday morning to be sworn in and to officially take over their duties. Governor Clyde R. Hoy said today, it is also expected that the new commission will hold several meetings soon after they take office in order to survey the general situation, become better acquainted with their new duties and make plans for future work. But the dates for these future meetings must be fixed by the commission itself after the new members take office.

In addition to meeting here in Raleigh at least once a month or whenever the chairman regards it as necessary, each member of the commission will be required to spend several days a month holding hearings in his district. As a result, the members of this commission are expected to be busy and to spend more time attending to highway matters than have the members of other commissions. For under the new district set-up, each district commissioner will be more or less responsible for highway matters in his district will hear delegations from the counties in his district whenever any want to be heard. Only matters which cannot be settled by the district commissioner will be brought before the entire commission here. This is expected to reduce materially the number of highway delegations which will ask to appear before the entire commission and thus permit the commission to devote more time to conference and study and less to hearing.

Benefit Payments Continue To Come

Additional batches of benefit payments under the Soil Conservation program continue to arrive here, the latest having reached the county agent's office yesterday.

Counting yesterday's shipment of checks, $446,083.33 has arrived here, most of it having been delivered to the farmers. The amount represents 1,779 applications and is made out in 4,756 checks. Both landlords and tenants receive checks under the program.

The checks range in amount from as low as 33 cents up to several thousand dollars. The county agent's office usually is crowded with farmers looking for their "come back" money.

Each person is notified as soon as a check is received here for him and County Agent R. R. Bennett declared it was useless for a farmer to come for his payment unless he has been advised.

POWER SOUGHT FOR PRESIDENT CUT SPENDING

Executive Favors Discretionary Authority Over Budget

WOULD BE USED FORCE ECONOMY

Roosevelt Would Have Power to Cut Appropriations Up To 15 Per Cent

Washington, April 28.—(AP)—Congress learned today President Roosevelt favored a proposal to give him discretionary authority to reduce federal appropriations by 15 per cent.

Speaker Bankhead announced he was authorized to state Mr. Roosevelt favored the 15 per cent discretionary reduction plan.

That was the first inkling of what the Executive had in mind to give force to the economy pronouncements made in his recent relief message to Congress. In that he forecast a deficit of $18,000,000 for the next fiscal year beginning July 1.

He asked all appropriations be kept to budget estimates and immediately afterward called on department heads to cut current costs if possible.

His action aroused economy enthusiasm among suggestions made was one by Senator Byrnes (D. S. C.) for a flat 10 per cent cut in all next year's appropriations.

The President's economy demands were reflected in House Appropriations Committee action on the second deficiency appropriations bill in slashing $18,828,605 from budget bureau estimated for the measure, it was disclosed when the bill was reported to the House today.

Dare Celebration To Go On Without Benefit Of Booze

No Popping of Corks, at Least Legally, to Be Heard at Birthday Anniversary of Virginia Dare

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, April 28.—When Manteo and Dare county celebrate the 350th birthday anniversary of Virginia Dare this summer on Roanoke Island, it will be without benefit of booze, on the basis of returns from the election held in Dare county Saturday, showing that the dregs had won by a margin of 19 votes, thus preventing the establishment of state-county liquor stores. Under the terms of the new 1937 liquor control act, under which the election was held, another election cannot be held until three years have elapsed, or until April 1940.

The failure of the liquor control and liquor stores plan to be approved in Dare county is proving something of a disappointment to the promoters of the anniversary celebration there this summer of the landing of the first colonists 350 years ago and of the birth of Virginia Dare, the first white child born in the New World. They were hoping to be able to advertise to prospective visitors that they would be able to obtain the same libations in Manteo that they could get anywhere else, and without having to resort to bootleggers to obtain East Lake rye.

There were reports here today, however, that Manteo and Nags Head may take advantage of the new wine law and serve wine and cocktails in the hotel dining rooms, even if the license does cost $90 a year. And under the wine law, all corners may sip Virginia Dare in this old Spattergown vintage to their stomachs' content, since wine is now legal anywhere in the state.

DOG CALLS POLICE TO AID OF FAL

Oakland, Calif. (AP)—Hearing the howl of a dog in a wooded tract, George Cockerton, traffic officer, investigated and found a big pointer with a hind leg caught in a trap.

But the pointer wasn't howling. The alarm was raised by a mongrel nearby, which kept up the noise until its canine friend was released.

Social and Personal

Mr. Rath Blount and Lance Underhill of Schenectady, N. Y., are the guests of Misses Hennie and Anna Long.

Mrs. A. R. Norville and Miss Anna Little of Falkland were here yesterday.

R. G. Fitzgerald of Candor was here yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Entertain On Tuesday at one o'clock Mr. and Mrs. J. B. James graciously entertained at luncheon at their home on East Fifth street...

On arrival guests were met by Mr. and Mrs. James and presented to Miss White and Dr. Hawes, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Tilden White, Dr. and Mrs. Charles M. Hawes of Huntington, West Virginia, and Mrs. Charles W. Brown of Baltimore, house guest of Mrs. James.

The home was artistically decorated, in the sun room yellow tulips and lavender iris were used, the windows were banked, in apple blossoms. The music room was lovely in gladioli, iris and lilies.

A green and white motif was used in the dining room. On the buffet was a large crystal swan filled with lilies, narcissi and snapdragons with crystal holders with tall white candles placed at either end.

The bride, the bride-groom and families were served at the beautifully appointed table. It was covered with a Venetian lace cloth, centered with a low silver bowl of valley lilies flanked by four white candle sticks holding tall white candles with silver holders tied with an old-fashioned nosegay of forget me nots.

At either end of the table were crystal bowls of white roses, snapdragons, lilies and daisies.

The bride's place was marked with a lovely nosegay and the bride-groom's with a boutonniere.

Only candle light was used in the dining room.

Other guests were served at small tables placed throughout the home. Each table was centered with small crystal swans with white flowers and green and white civits.

Coffee was served in the sun room from a lace-covered table, decorated with gladioli and iris and lighted by candles.

After the luncheon all were invited to the lovely garden of the hostess. Sixty guests enjoyed this delightful affair.

Literature Department Tuesday afternoon the members of the Literature Department of the Woman's club were delightfully entertained in the home of Mrs. Travis Hooker.

At the close of a short business session Miss Hyman presented Mrs. J. H. Rose, who read a Pulitzer prize play, "Craig's Wife," by Geo. Kelly.

As a fitting close to this program Mrs. Knott Proctor very beautifully sang "Morning," by Weeks. Mrs. Class Hearne accompanied at the piano.

Following the program Mrs. Hooker invited club members and guests to the dining room, where Mrs. Bradsher, Miss Hooker and Miss Sallie Joyner Davis assisted the hostess in serving delicious refreshments.

In addition to Mesdames Rose, Proctor and Hearne, guests for the afternoon were: Mrs. P. W. Pickens, Dr. Dorothy Snyder and Misses Sallie Joyner Davis and Kite Lewis.—Reported.

Honored at Luncheon The former Miss Helen Forbes White and Dr. James Beebe Hawes, whose wedding was solemnized at noon today, were honored Monday at a beautifully appointed luncheon given by Mrs. J. B. White and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Perkins at the home of Mrs. White on Greene street.

One arrival at one o'clock guests were welcomed by Mrs. White and Mr. and Mrs. Perkins, and presented to the honor guests.

The home throughout was lovely in sprays of dogwood and colorful spring flowers. In the dining room a pink color note was used. The table was covered with an imported lace cloth. The centerpiece was a silver bowl of pink roses and gypsophelia. Seated at the table Mrs. J. L. Fleming and Mrs. G. B. Hadley served barbeque and salad. Mrs. Nana Brown served hors-d'oeuvres, slaw, potato chips, break sticks, olives and pickles.

From an attractive coffee table in the back hall Mr. and Mrs. James White and Mrs. David Crossland poured coffee and served decorated cakes.

Guests were members of the wedding party, the family and out-of-town guests.

Buffet Supper Mrs. Hortense F. Moye, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Shackell entertained at a buffet supper last evening, honoring Mrs. Moye's niece, Miss Helen Forbes White, and Dr. James Beebe Hawes, whose wedding was solemnized at high noon today.

The home throughout was decorated in hanging baskets of smilax, roses, bridal wreaths, white lilies and valley lilies, interspersed with ferns. The mantles were banked in white and green, interspersed with lighted tapers.

The guests were greeted at the door by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sydney Moye and Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Shackell.

In the drawing room Mrs. Moye, R. O. Moye, Miss Helen White, Dr. James Beebe Hawes, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Tilden White, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Morris Hawes, and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Skinner were presented to the guests by James Moye and Miss Ann Holderness.

After the arrival of the guests, Mrs. William White and Mrs. Charles Alexander White invited them into the dining room. The dining room was lovely. The table was covered with an imported cloth and centered with a brides cake, decorated with valley lilies and rose petals holding a miniature bride and groom. Near the center five-branch silver candelabra with lighted cathedral candles shed a soft glow over the scene. The chandelier was lovely with wedding bells, tied with streamers of tulle.

At either end of the table, was seated Mrs. George B. W. Hadley and Mrs. J. L. Fleming, who served a three-course supper. Assisting in serving was Mrs. Rose Hadley Moye, Miss Mabel Glenn Best, Miss Jane Hadley, Miss Jane Forbes and Miss Ada James.

At the door leading from the dining room to the hall stood Mr. and Mrs. Charles Forbes and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Forbes, who directed the guests to the library where an ice course was served by Mrs. W. L. Best, Mrs. J. D. Hillary, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kohler, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tucker, Mrs. L. I. Moore and Mrs. Thomas McGee.

Much merriment was enjoyed by the guests when the time came for the cutting of the bride's cake,

Hawes-White The wedding of Miss Helen Forbes White, of this city, and Dr. James Beebe Hawes, of Charleston, W. Va., was solemnized at high noon today at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Tilden White, on Seventh street.

The guests, who were composed of families of the contracting parties, out-of-town relatives and a few intimate friends, were received at the front door by Mrs. Charles Alexander White and Mrs. William Henry White, sisters-in-law of the bride.

The colonial home, in its setting of an old-fashioned garden of spring flowers, was artistically decorated throughout, the color motif of green and white being used. The drawing room was especially lovely, where an improvised altar of ferns and Easter lilies formed a background against one side of the room.

Placed on either side of the altar were Easter lilies in tall standards of white, showered with tulle streamers and valley lilies, and handsome seven-branched candelabra holding burning white tapers, which were reflected in antique mirrors.

The music room was attractive in its arrangement of white snapdragons, stock, lilies and burning tapers. Here a program of pre-nuptial music was presented by Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley, aunt of the bride. She wore an orchid chignon with matching accessories and a corsage of Johanna Hill roses and valley lilies. Her selections included "Adoration," by Brown; "Moonlight," by Kinder; "Venetian Love Song," by Nevin; and "Sweethearts" by Romberg. Mrs. Helene Kilpatrick, wearing a gown of blush mousseline de soie with hat to match and a corsage of premier supreme roses, sang "I Love You Truly," by Carrie Jacob Barnes. Mrs. Kirkpatrick and E. H. Parkins sang, "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life." During the ceremony "Liebestraum," by Liszt, was softly played.

As the procession from Lohengrin by Wagner was sounded, the ushers, Charles Alexander White and William Henry White, brothers of the bride, proceeded to the drawing room and took their places on either side of the altar. They were followed by the dame of honor, Mrs. Samuel Tilden White, mother of the bride, wearing an imported gown of seafoam blue silk marquisette over taffeta, and a large matching hat with a bandeau of pink roses. She carried an arm bouquet of Briar Cliff roses.

Then came the flower girl, Barbara Sheppard White, petite daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alexander White, wearing a fluffy flesh net over taffeta, made with puffed sleeves. She carried a basket of rose petals, which she scattered in the path of the bride.

The groom, Dr. James Beebe Hawes, entered from the library, attended by his father, Dr. Charles Morris Hawes, of Huntington, W. Va., as best man, and awaited the bride at the altar. The bride entered on the arm of her father, Samuel Tilden White, by whom she was given in marriage.

The impressive marriage vows of the Methodist Episcopal church were spoken before Rev. G. M. Matthis, relative of the bride, assisted by her pastor, Rev. T. McM. Grant.

The central hall, through which the bridal party passed, was beautifully decorated in tall baskets of Easter lilies which flanked the French doors to the rear hall, from the bride's blond beauty was emphasized in a princess model of imported white silk net with long train slip also finished with net shirring. Most becoming was a finger tip veil of tulle, caught in the back with orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a string of pearls, an heirloom of the family. Her flowers were bride's roses and orchids, showered with valley lilies.

Mrs. Charles Morris Hawes, mother of the groom, was gowned in French blue crepe with matching accessories and a corsage of orchids. Mrs. C. C. Skinner, Jr., sister of the groom, wore a gown of aqua crepe, with matching accessories, and a corsage of sweetheart roses.

Mrs. James Beebe Hawes is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Tilden White and is an attractive member of the younger set. She is descended from a long line of colonial and Revolutionary ancestry. Captain C. A. White, her paternal grandfather, served with distinction during the War Between the States. Both paternal and maternal grandfathers were prominent in the business and civic life of this city for many years. She has served as National Page in Daughters of the American Revolution and United Daughters of the Confederacy Conventions. She was educated at Salem College at Winston-Salem; Duke University at Durham, where she was a member of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority. She received her Bachelor of Arts degree at East Carolina Teachers College in Greenville. She has been accorded many social courtesies since the announcement of her engagement.

Dr. James Beebe Hawes is a prominent surgeon of Charleston, West Virginia and is well known in state medical circles. He is a son of Dr.

and Mrs. Charles Morris Hawes, of Huntington, West Virginia, and is the grandson of Mrs. James C. Beebe of that city. He received his A. B. degree from Marshall's and his doctor's degree from the University of Virginia. Dr. Hawes has also had intensive study and training in the University of Vienna and in one of the Budapest hospitals. He is associated with Dr. W. S. Sheppard, prominent ear, eye and nose specialist of Charleston, West Virginia.

Immediately after the ceremony a receiving line was formed, composed of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Tilden White, Dr. and Mrs. James Beebe Hawes, and Dr. and Mrs. Charles Morris Hawes.

Mrs. J. L. Fleming and Mrs. Hortense F. Moye, aunts of the bride, invited the guests into the dining room where a three-course wedding breakfast was served. The dining table was covered with a Point de Venice lace cloth, centered with a silver bowl of bride's roses and valley lilies, with groups of burning tapers in silver candelabra.

At one end of the buffet table was a beautifully decorated bride's cake with a background of bride's roses and fern. At the other end was a seven-branched candelabrum holding burning tapers. The chandeliers were lovely with streamers of tulle, showered with valley lilies.

From the dining room, guests were shown to the coffee room, presided over by Mrs. W. L. Best and Mrs. J. B. White.

Immediately after the wedding breakfast, Dr. and Mrs. Hawes left by motor for a wedding trip to unannounced points. They will be at home after May the twentieth, at 1121 Virginia street, Charleston, West Virginia.

For traveling the bride wore an attractive black and white ensemble with silver fox fur and black accessories. Her corsage was of white orchids.

Entertain at Reception and Dance The Country club was the scene of a brilliant reception and dance last evening when Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alexander White and Mr. and Mrs. William Henry White entertained in honor of Miss Helen Forbes White and Dr. James Beebe Hawes, who were married at noon today.

Guests were invited for the reception between the hours of 9:30 and 10:30 and for the dance at eleven o'clock.

The club was beautifully decorated in a color note of yellow and white. Brass candelabra holding yellow candles were placed on the mantels against a background of Scotchbroom and mock orange.

As guests arrived they were welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Garrett, and introduced to the receiving line by Dr. and Mrs. K. P. Pace and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hooker. In the receiving line were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Alexander White, Mr. and Mrs. William Henry White, Dr. James Beebe Hawes, Miss Helen Forbes White, Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Tilden White, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Morris Hawes, Huntington, West Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Skinner, Colonel and Mrs. G. P. Hawes, and Miss Ruth McEnery, Pinehurst. From the receiving line they were directed to the punch bowl by Dr. and Mrs. John L. Winstead. Serving fruit punch were Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hodges, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Kittrell. Assisting in passing punch were Miss Ada James, Charles James, Mrs. Rose Hadley Moye, Dr. Walter Sheppard, Charleston, West Virginia; Mr. and Mrs. George F. Hadley, Mr. and Mrs. Leighton Blount, Bethel; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Boyd, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. Knott Proctor, Miss Mary Forbes and Charles Forbes, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Sugg, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Harrell.

Next to greet the guests were Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Sugg, Dr. and Mrs. L. C. Skinner and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. James.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Lipscomb introduced guests to a second receiving line composed of Mrs. J. L. Fleming, Rev. and Mrs. George Matthis, Durham; Miss Maria Garrett, bride-elect; Mr. and Mrs. Tyrus Wagner, recent bride and groom; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Moye, recent bride and groom; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allen, Weldon; Mrs. H. F. Moye, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Shackell, Lance Underhill and Mrs. Ruth Blount, Schenectady, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Forbes, Raleigh; Mrs. David Crossland, Charlotte; Mr. and Mrs. James E. Britt, recent bride and groom, Tarboro; Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Best, Mrs. J. D. Hillary and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kohler, Philadelphia; Mrs. G. E. W. Hadey, Mr. and Mrs. James Ellison, Washington; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tucker, Warrenton; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Campbell, Wilmington; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Graves, Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wiggins, Tarboro.

From this receiving line guests were shown to the refreshment table, placed at the end of the room, by Mr. and Mrs. B. S. Warren, Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchell and Mr.

and Mrs. W. W. Lee. The table was lovely, covered with a cloth of lace over yellow satin, centered with a silver bowl of yellow and white tulips, with yellow candles in silver holders, placed at either end.

Seated at the table, Mrs. Della McGee, Mrs. Nannie White and Mrs. Nana Brown served ice cream. Passing cream and decorated cakes were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Batchelor, Miss Mabel Glenn Best, Bert Moye, Miss Jane Forbes, Raleigh; Herbert Hadley, John Mayo Forbes, Fred Forbes, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Hinton Best, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Greene, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Byrum, Mrs. W. L. Whitchard, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Jenkins, Miss Pat Holderness, Tarboro; James Moye, Miss Anne Holderness, Tarboro; Frank Patrick, Miss Mattie Moye Gaylord, Jake Hadley, Mr. and Mrs. James White, Miss Carrie Wiggins and Dale Holderness, Tarboro; Miss Kara Lynne Corey, Miss Hennie Long, Scott Lloyd, Mr. and Mrs. W. Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Person, Mrs. W. B. Tighman, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Wright registered the several hundred guests.

Goodbyes were said by Dr. and Mrs. L. R. Meadows and Rev. and Mrs. T. M. Grant.

Music was furnished throughout the evening of the Barber-Evans orchestra.

Visitor at College T. E. Browne, of Raleigh, supervisor of Vocational Education in North Carolina and his wife are guests of the Home Economics Department of the College today. He is here for the purpose of observing the work in the department.

A luncheon in his honor is being given at the practice house.

Recital at College There will be a recital by the music groups of East Carolina Teachers College Thursday evening at 8:15 o'clock in the Robert H. Wright building. The girls' glee club, the boys' glee club, and the college orchestra will participate in the program.

Banquet for College Unit A banquet given by the out-going council of the College unit of the Baptist Student Union in honor of the in-coming council in the "Y" but last night was a most enjoyable occasion.

Dr. Meadows made the address of the evening, on the subject "To Thine Own Self be True."

Miss Frances Curwin, president of the old council, was toast mistress and was most happy in her introductions. Shakespeare furnished the keynote of the occasion, as both the program and the menu were based on Shakespearean quotations or ideas. Miss Edna Earle played as a piano solo, "Hark! the Hark the Lark," and Miss Margaret Sammon, who is sponsor of the council, told a number of jokes taken from Shakespeare. A group of girls presented a very clever stunt which they named "Shakespearean Hash." The special guests of the evening were President and Mrs. Meadows, Mrs. Fleischmann, Rev. Clarence Patrick, and Miss Margaret Sammon.

Dinner at College The class in Vocational Home Economics, which is composed of seniors who will be teachers of home economics, entertained the teachers in the city and the county who cooperated with them with a dinner in the Home Economics Department last night. Among those present were Miss Alice Coggins, Farmville, Misses Jessie Schnopp and Evelyn Rogers, Greenville, Miss Ola Williams, Bethel; Miss Catherine Woodall, Grimesland; Miss Ronnie Lee Joyner, Washington, and Miss Laura Thornton, Stokes. In addition to these were the teachers in the College Home Economics Department: Mrs. Alaide Bloxton, Miss Catherine Holtzlow, and Miss Mary Berry Clark; Misses Morton and Green; and representatives from each home economic class and the president of the Home Economics club, Miss Louise Davis.

Miss Josephine Ranes, of the senior class, was toastmistress at the dinner. Miss Elizabeth D. Johnson proposed the toast from the class, taking as her title, "The Open Door." Miss Alice Coggins, of Farmville responded. Mrs. Bloxton spoke on "The Light of the Home" and Miss Ruth Cagle on "Home Sweet Home."

The home was the keynote of the original decoration. The centerpiece was a small wooden house from whose windows cheerful light was shining. The place cards were paper houses with the word welcome on the doormats. For favors the guests when told to raise the roof of the house found corsages there.

Winterville News Mrs. J. L. Rollins and daughter, Sarah Jane, spent Friday in Kinston.

Sam Harris has returned from the government hospital at Columbia, S. C., where he received treatment.

R. L. McLawhorn has returned from Richmond, Va.

Mrs. G. A. Kittrell entered a Rocky Mount hospital Monday for an examination.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Dempsey of Windsor spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Dempsey. David Crossland of Charlotte was in town Tuesday. O. V. Kittrell and L. A. Manning left Tuesday to enter the government hospital in Keocoughtan, Virginia. They were accompanied by Lloyd Vincent.

Mrs. George Jackson and Mrs. Repple Whitford are spending a few days with Mrs. Paul Keel. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Mobley accompanied the senior class to Washington, D. C., Saturday.

Chapter No. 50, R. A. M. There will be a regular meeting of Greenville Chapter No. 50, R. A. M., Friday evening, April 30, 1937, at 7:30 o'clock. Supper will be served at 6:30 o'clock. Royal Arch Degree will be conferred. All members are urged to be present.

J. VANCE PERKINS, Sec'y.

HELPS FOR HOUSEWIVES

HELPS FOR HOUSEWIVES Nests of spinach holding carrot eggs will appeal to the child whose diet requires many vegetables.

Grated cheese sprinkled over the top of clear soup just before it is served adds both flavor and color.

Because of its mild flavor veal requires more seasonings than other meats. Slower cooking is also necessary.

To keep syrup from crystallizing after it has stood for some time, add one teaspoonful of vinegar to each cup of sugar used in making the syrup.

Over-cooking fish causes it to break apart and also loses much of its flavor. Sliced fish steak, cut about one inch thick, takes approximately 20 minutes to cook.

Remove the centers from finger-rolls. Then toast the rolls and quickly spread them with butter. Fill each cavity with creamed asparagus. Sprinkle the asparagus with grated cheese. Broil for about one minute.

Sandwiches cut in animal shapes appeal to children. Use simple fillings, such as minced meat and cream, cream cheese and pineapple and jelly and peanut butter. Whole wheat, graham and Boston brown breads are favorite breads. There are numerous uses for leftover cake that is not large enough to serve alone. It may be cut into thin strips, dipped in fruit juices and used to line molds for steamed pudding or gelatin desserts.

To remove water stains or rings from furniture, first rinse out a cloth in water. Next sprinkle the cloth with one teaspoonful of household ammonia. Quickly apply it to the ring or stain, carefully rubbing the area. Then wipe the surface dry immediately with a soft cloth and apply a bit of furniture polish.

There is $1,900,000,000 worth of silver bullion in the United States treasury.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

SYNOPSIS: In one wild, stormy night at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunts, beautiful Judge Higgins is shot to death on the bluff, the Skipper, Mike's tall and toadily younger aunt, disappears, and Mike dislocates his shoulder in a fall. The Skipper turns up; she's been in the stable with a sick colt. Aunt Martha, stout and grumpy, has a few general launias, but Gay Furrer, Mike's red-headed sweetheart, keeps fairly calm. Next morning she searches the grounds for an intruder and finds that someone has slept in the room over the garage.

Chapter 11 I Become Head Sleuth

In my room, Michael was sprawled on the bed, waiting. He had managed to get out of the oilskins, but the feet stretched in front of him were still encased in hip boots. "Well," he said jerkily. "Nothing," after a moment's hesitation, he straightened up to study my face. Whatever he saw there appeared to satisfy him. He stretched out again on the bed.

"I told you so," his voice was heard. "Get me out of this stuff, will you?"

Only once did I speak to him during the long, tedious process of getting the two of us ready for M. Farrington's lunch table. I couldn't stand the tight lines around his mouth.

"Mike," I said, "the Skipper is asleep. You know it."

He turned away, picking up a cap. When his voice came it was perfectly steady. "I know it."

"I didn't try again. With fendish intensity, I concentrated on soap, towels, collar buttons—anything. The lunge belt rang while I was struggling with Michael's tie."

M. Farrington was worth her weight in gold at that lunch table. Right there she made amends for every Farrington state dinner I have ever endured.

"We'll eat first and discuss this afterward," she stated.

"No one argued Gay was white and shaken, the Skipper abstracted, Michael silent and morose. But M. Farrington and I talked. We talked about the deplorable condition of the drama, if I remember correctly. And when I gave out, Gay took it up. No! Until Higgins withdrew at the end of the meal, was there silence. M. Farrington took a deep breath and plunged in.

"I surmise," she said, "that you are all satisfied that no one is lurking in the grounds?"

No answer.

"Then I think that all the steps we may take, can be taken right here, with a little thought and a little cooperation from each one of us."

More silence. Michael's lighter sared.

"I fail to see," he observed, "any necessity for taking steps. There has been an accident. Very well. As soon as we get in touch with the mainland, the police can do everything that is necessary."

M. Farrington's Proposition

WE all stared at him. There was that alternative of course. Any sort of story might be bluffed through. William and Higgins were to be counted on. And the police would have no reason to question it. Gay made up her mind. "I don't like that, Mike."

"Why not?" We might as well face it. The chances are that the person who shot Judge is sitting at this table. Do you think anyone here would shoot her intentionally?"

M. Farrington spoke briskly. "Michael, if you are right, we can end this situation here and now. We are all friends. If one of us was so unfortunate as to—cause this accident—that person should speak out now for the sake of all of us."

We waited for an interval that seemed like several centuries. The Skipper sat motionless her eyes on the table, and her right hand clenched in front of her. M. Farrington, I recall, was studying Michael's face. It was absolutely expressionless, but the hand that held his cigarette shook slightly. Gay's frightened eyes caught mine. There was a question in them that puzzled me. M. Farrington's hard, dry voice cut through the silence.

"Very well. The police will be here by tomorrow or the next day at the latest. If we wait for that, things will be very unpleasant. I am of the opinion that an organized investigation will be much happier than an individual and furtive one."

It was only common sense. We all realized that, but so one encouraged the idea.

M. Farrington smiled grimly. "At all events, it would be more successful and it might spare us the ordeal of a public police investigation."

Police At Farrington Bluff But of course, there would have to be police. For the first time the matter ceased to be personal. Gay's hand gripped my knee convulsively.

"Oh, surely," she began.

"Very surely," said M. Farrington. "Someone must take charge. I should prefer it to be neither a woman nor a servant. Since Michael has seen fit to go bathing in February, obviously not Michael. James, I am afraid you will be obliged to offer your services."

Without warning, laughter engulfed me, shrill, meaningless gusts of it. "Well," said M. Farrington's satonic voice, "is that an acceptance or otherwise?"

Michael answered for me, eyes narrowed, a peculiar expression on his face. "Jim's your sleuth, Aunt Martha. He'll love it. An authority on the subject, in fact."

There was something in that remark that I didn't like, and a great deal about the whole proposition that I liked even less. I glared at him. "Well?" impatiently from M. Farrington.

"All right," I said stiffly. I was to trap Jude's murderer. I And if I should turn out to be—I didn't dare finish the thought.

"Thank you," pursued M. Farrington dryly. "James, there is, of course, the possibility that you are conducting an investigation against yourself. But we shall have to run that risk. It is understood that we are all pledged to help you in every way. Proceed, if you please."

I, the creator of Billington Traithwaite, sleuth extraordinary, surveyed the members of that party. No biased quip rose to my lips. Neither did my steel-gray eyes glint menacingly. Rather I asped foolishly for a full minute before I could so much as blurt, "I'll have to think. You—I wish you'd all go to your rooms and stay there."

Michael snorted at the feeble attempt. I heard M. Farrington's "Come, Barbara," felt the reassuring pressure of Gay's hand, and suddenly found myself alone in the room with the Skipper.

"I'm sorry about all this, Jim, sorry that it had to happen at you and particularly sorry that you were dragged into it. But, believe me, Martha is right. It's better this way than in the hands of the police. Don't blink a thing. We leave it to you."

'Watch The Servants'

WHEN I was alone in the dining room, they were both right, of course. And yet—I poured myself a stiff drink and gulped it down. I rang for Higgins. The man looked sick.

"Higgins," I said, "at Miss Farrington's request I am taking charge here until we can get in touch with shore. I wish you would so inform the servants."

"Very good, sir."

"I have asked everyone to go to his or her room for a short time—and remain there. I should be greatly obliged if you would keep a careful check on all the servants. And if you should see any of them outside of the quarters between now and the time I call you, notify me immediately."

He blinked. The man was, I thought, on the verge of saying something, but changed his mind. He bowed automatically and withdrew.

I took myself into the living room. The impossibility of the situation no longer interested me. I was beginning to appreciate to the full the shortcomings of my own attempts at fiction. The thought of my remarkable Billington infuriated me.

I finally sat down at a desk and located pencil and paper. I decided to go carefully over the whole confounded visit and jot down every peculiar incident. It was no easy task. At the end of an hour I had a list that read like this:

1. Something is wrong with the Skipper—something that prompted M. Farrington to send for us in the middle of winter, diverted her from trying to marry Mike, and has even upset Higgins in some way. He was certainly off his feed last night.

2. Why is the Skipper so averse to seeing a doctor?

3. Did she want to keep Mike away from Jude for the obvious reason? She put it a little strongly for that.

4. What did Jude tell Mike and when did they separate?

5. What did Mike expect to find in the boathouse that prompted him to jump over the cliff?

6. Did Jude walk or was she carried to the spot where we found her? If she walked, for whom or what was she looking? Obviously she went in a great hurry. No hat or coat.

7. Where was Mike until he called us? Outdoors, apparently. He was seeking wet. He said he saw the bridge down at 10 o'clock, just the time I went to bed. What was he doing out there? Why did he later head so determinedly for the boathouse?

8. Where was the Skipper? The puppies are there all right, but did they come last night or before that? Would even the Skipper spend such a night in a stable with a sick dog? Why didn't she tell M. Farrington where she was going? Why did she object to Jude? What was she and Jude talking about when M. Farrington heard them? Where did they go? Was the Skipper the last person too see Jude alive?

9. Why doesn't Mike want a search or investigation of any kind?

10. Whose footprints are on the tennis courts and in the garage? Who slept in the garage last night? Who tried to leave the Bluff in the Skipper's car?

Hired By Government To Teach Housewives Thrift

By SIGRID ARNE (Associated Press Service Writer)

WASHINGTON — Mary Taylor's office is really that area between her two pink ears, which, incidentally, are covered with long, Garbo-ish locks of wavy, auburn hair.

She's chasing the idea of helping housewives get a hundred pennies worth for every dollar spent. That means the concentrated job of sifting the reports of government experts, trade journals and special organizations all over the country.

She puts the information she gathers into a bi-weekly magazine, "The Consumer's Guide," published by the department of agriculture. The magazine came to life four years ago when the government decided to give the consumer a break by telling him what he was buying.

Cut To The Pattern

It took a special sort of person to do the telling. And there was slender, young Mary Taylor over at the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce cut to the pattern. She hadn't known it, but her previous ten years had been spent getting ready for the job.

She started at Mt. Holyoke studying social service.

Then she became an assistant labor editor on "The New York Evening Post" for two years. When the job folded, she trotted off to the University of Wisconsin to study economics. Her summers were spent in factories packing razor blades, making notebooks and studying labor history in the making.

Taught at Bryn Mawr

Wisconsin over, she spent a summer at Bryn Mawr teaching a factory women's class. Then she went to Cleveland for two years to edit, of all things, "The Locomotive Engineers' Journal," and to start classes for women in the garment factories.

After Cleveland came a year at the London School of Economics, and two years in Spain newspapering. Then she moved to the department of commerce, and "The Consumer's Guide" appeared.

In four years the Guide has grown from nothing to 100,000 circulation, telling women how to judge good eggs, what grade of canned peaches and peas to buy, what oranges have the most vitamins.

Gets Results

Consumers' organizations are springing up all over the country. Miss Taylor denies that her hand fans the flames, but while her magazine has grown, this has come about:

Consumers' problems are taught in 12,000 home economics courses.

The American Standards Association has organized a committee on consumers' needs. Manufacturers are beginning to put really informative labels on sheets, blankets and rugs.

Women's clubs are holding consumers' study clubs.

Dozens of cities have consumers' councils that are waging battles for cleaner milk, lower bread prices.

A toast to that pretty maid!

She has gathered the choicest Saazer bops blossoms that flower on the scented hills of Old Bohemia. Her father will bale them in linen so their elusive aroma cannot escape. They will cross the seas... and matchless brewing skill and exact brewing science will mate their flavor and bouquet to the goodness of fine barley, pure-culture yeast and filtered water. And you? ... You'll empty your glass and your spirits will toast the taste found only in BUDWEISER.

SAYS COUNTRY ROADS NEED FIRST ATTENTION

To the Editor:
The terrible condition of roads in our state for the past two winters resulted in lots of discussion in our Legislature and an appropriation for our secondary roads.

If we are to profit by experience it seems to me we would, with the opening of spring, improve these roads as rapidly as possible; that we would concentrate on the spots that each year become impassable. Our first consideration in road building should be to make our roads passable for school trucks.

During our last political campaign one of our representatives stated he had no idea we had such poor roads in the township. However he seems to have forgotten it now.

Many of our sections are cut off from Farmville each year because of impassable roads. Instead of providing an outlet for our communities we are building a little stretch of hard-surfaced road out of Farmville to serve only a small local community.

The people of the county voted bonds to build our first hard-surfaced road from Greenville to Farmville by way of the Stantonburg road. Politics pulled the road around a route several miles longer which cost the travelling public over $125 per day.

The centralization of our activities has led to too much pork-barrel stuff.

The remote rural sections cannot compete with the organized urban communities.

I can show you a township that has had no relief work worthy of mention except one school project. This township is between two townships that have had work going on continuously or nearly so. Our towns are growing at the expense of our poor rural sections.

It is much easier to spend this PWA money than it is going to be to replace it. My question is, How much of this burden are we justified in placing on our children?

Are we justified in building additional hard-surfaced roads until we have provided roads over which our school trucks can operate?
MARK H. SMITH.

CHIEF HIGHWAY ENGINEER EXPECTED FOLLOW WAYNICK

sure applied to Governor Hoy to keep him from reappointing Waynick was that many of these felt they could never get rid of Baise as long as Waynick remained chairman, with the result that first step was hence to get rid of Waynick. Now that this has been accomplished, the next step will be to eliminate Baise. Not right at first, of course—the new commission needs some one in the organization that knows something about roads and the present road program. But most observers agree that all signs point to the ultimate going of Baise as chief engineer.

Charles Ross is expected to fare better, since Ross is both a lawyer and a politician. He has managed to hold on through the administrations of Governors Cameron Morrison, A. W. McLean, O. Max Gardner and J. C. B. Ehringhaus without much ruffling of his political feathers—and indications now are that he will survive the present house cleaning in the highway department. Some maintain that he is one of the most adept political tight-wire walkers in the state in that he is either manages to keep a precarious balance, or else, cat-like, land on his feet in the life net below, to again mount the tight wire again, regardless of who becomes Governor. It is also agreed that Ross has a tremendous and profound knowledge of highway conditions and history that is almost indispensable to any chairman or any administration. These considerations and the fact that Harnett county gave Hoy a bigger vote in the first primary than any of the other candidates, although it went for Dr. Ralph McDonald in the second, are expected to help Ross hold his job.

Opinion is considerably divided as to the fate of Oscar Pitts, since it is agreed that he has done an excellent job of acting director of the prison division, was faithful and efficient in working out the changes that have been made in the prison system under the direction of Waynick. It is conceded that Pitts has brought the prison mora up to a very high standard, that he has the confidence and respect of the prison personnel and of the prisoners, with the exception of some of the guards and others who have been held over from the old State Prison regime of George Ross Pou. These will undoubtedly try to "get" Pitts, since they frankly do not like the way he has administered the prison for the benefit of the prisoners and the state rather than for the benefit of those running the prison. But Pitts has a good chance to stay on, many believe.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington — Thumb prints of Marriner S. Eccles, the little giant of the federal reserve, were all over the Presidential budget message that talked to congressmen of retrenchment and hinted of taxes.

Eccles gave the public a strip-tease sample of what was in the offering when a month ago he said, in effect: The time has come for cutting down federal spending, for balancing the budget, and for putting on taxes to retire debts.

Actually his words were a bit misty and distant and were designed not to upset the congressional digestion. In turn the President's discussion of what was ahead had no immediate sting. He told the jads on the hill that while it was true that some money had to be saved they were to think nothing of it. He would do the cutting here and there and pare off $418,000,000 to bring the 1938 budget into balance.

But there was a deferred kick in the Presidential message. He told 435 representatives and a third of the senate that when they come up for election next time they must explain to the electorate why it was necessary to put on taxes. That will be 1938.

Roosevelt said the treasury would have a tax bill ready by November for delivery to congressional committees. Then would come the job of enacting it in an election year.

True enough, congress did it in 1936 but sugar coated it with the idea it was a "soak the corporation" tax. The 1935 tax bill was a "soak the rich" tax and neither it nor the "soak the corporation" tax raised enough really to dent the deficit.

The President said one purpose of tax revision would be to eliminate loop holes. But "soak the loop holes" doesn't look so frisky as a slogan for sweetening a tax bill.

A much - overlooked paragraph in the President's message seemed to express a tone of surprise that various members of congress had introduced bills seeking $500,000,000 more highway money.

Already, he suggested, more than one billion has been spent in the last four years on highways and another $450,000,000 is authorized for the next two years.

What is often overlooked in sizing up the benefits of these public works is that maintenance falls on the states and local governments.

The federal government builds them, but the local must finance operation and repair. The more spent locally for maintenance the less is left for new roads. That helps to explain pleas for federal money.

PURVIS APPEARS LOSER IN LOVE

When Melvin Purvis was an ace man-hunter for the United States Bureau of Investigation, he usually got his man. But it seems he was not so fortunate in affairs of love. Almost on the eve of the date set for his wedding to Janice Jarratt, the movie actress, in San Antonio, Tex., they suddenly parted and her relatives announced the nuptials were "indefinitely postponed." They are shown dining together before there was any hint of disagreement.

Talks To Parents

Brains and Brawn

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH
Physically the human race is improving daily. For the average modern man to fit himself into the armor his ancestors wore, is well nigh impossible. With each generation, girls and boys are going their parents one better for height and physical development.

No doubt in the age of the reptiles, brontosaur and dinosaur looked with pride on the increasing size of their offspring. The continued existence of the breed depended on their being able to reach higher and higher for their food. But the time came when all body and no brain brought about the end of the race.

It is a good thing to consider beforehand with what purpose one wants to breed. Is the emphasis to be laid on physical size and perfection to the exclusion of all else? Brains and brawn do not necessarily go together. Many of the greatest men and women of all times have been undersized, crippled or deformed. Either in spite of or because of the handicap they have left their mark on the world, where their healthier and bigger brothers have been forgotten.

Of course any parent wants and tries to give his child the soundest, physique possible. Unfortunately many of these parents forget that a sound body is not all that is essential for man's development. The human race has reached its present state by the use of its brain and by its spiritual and emotional growth.

To take a child to the doctor, feed and clothe him correctly, simulate and exercise him are not enough. He must be taught to think, to reason, to feel for others; must be given spiritual ideals, have his imagination and sense of humor developed. He should specialize in those things which man has and the beasts lack.

Frail Ladies

What has become of the pale romantic lady of the Victorian era? The young woman whose thin transparent skin, and whose ability to swoon on the least provocation endowed her with a fragility and an air of mystery, seems to have disappeared.

It is tempting to explain the event on the basis of some righting evolutionary principle like "the survival of the fittest" or "natural selection." However, the real reasons for her disappearance seem to be of a more concrete and prosaic nature, spelling eggs, milk, green vegetables, citrus fruits, fresh air, more sen-

How CARDUI Helps Women

Cardui is a purely vegetable medicine, found by many women to ease functional pains of menstruation. It also helps to strengthen women, who have been weakened by poor nourishment, by increasing their appetite and improving their digestion. Many have reported lasting benefit from the wholesome nutritional assistance obtained by taking Cardui. If you need help like this, get Cardui at the nearest drug store, read the directions and try it.

sible clothing, and the discarding of that sister to the strait-jacket—the old-fashioned corset.

The more significant among these is the improvement in the young woman's diet during the last decades. The pale young lady of former years was suffering from chlorosis — literally, "the green sickness." In essence this condition is a "poverty in blood — anemia. Nowadays we call this a nutritional anemia to show it is primarily due to dietetic deficiencies. Lacking blood - building nutrients, the lady was pale (green-looking) and weak. But her anemia was not her sole disability. Associated were all those other consequences arising from general malnutrition, vitamin starvation, and the lack of adequate mineral salt intake. Therefore the pale heroine did often faint away for want of stamina, and often there was about her the hovering suggestion of a chronic lung infection, probably tuberculosis.

HOW MODERN WOMEN LOSE FAT SAFELY

Gain Physical Vigor—Youthfulness With Clear Skin and Vivacious Eyes That Sparkle With Glorious Health

Here's the recipe that banishes fat and brings out all the natural attractiveness that every woman possesses. Every morning take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast—cut down on pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—in 4 weeks get on the scales and note how many pounds of fat have vanished. Notice also that you have gained in energy—your skin is clearer—you feel younger in body—Kruschen will give you a joyous surprise. Get a bottle of Kruschen Salts—the cost is trifling and it lasts 4 weeks. If you don't feel a superb improvement in health—so gloriously energetic—vigorously alive—your money gladly returned. NOTE—Many people find that the only diet change necessary while taking Kruschen regularly is TO EAT LESS.

House Of David Battles Greenies Here Tomorrow P. M.

COASTAL PLAIN ENTRY IN FIRST '37 EXHIBITION

Bo Farley's Greenies Preparing for Opening of Season May 6; 'Bearded Wonders' Have Good Team

The Greenville Coastal Plain League entry will engage the House of David bearded baseball nine here tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock on Third Street school diamond.

It will be the second exhibition for the local team, a battle being scheduled with the Teachers this afternoon.

Although the personnel of the club has not been decided on yet, Manager Bo Farley is rapidly shaping up his team and expects to be ready to put a winner on the field when the season opens May 6.

Much interest is being shown here in the battle with the House of David team tomorrow afternoon. The team is rated as one of the most outstanding and unique in baseball. Despite the fact they have been on the road several years the players continue to draw a good crowd.

Their religious beliefs cause them to appear to the public as the most eccentric and unique athletes in the world, but to them it is serious business. They are as shy of a razor as a fretful colt is of a locomotive, and to lose their carefully cultivated chin gardens of shrubery would be the greatest disgrace that could befall one of their flock. The athletes are human but they have their own peculiar beliefs, and the "wearing of the beard" seems to be just one of them. Their chin draperies however do not interfere with the diamond work of the unshaven athletes and they are said to be an agile and thoroughly capable set of men.

At a glance it would seem that the days of this group of aged-looking men are about numbered on mortal ground but despite the appearance of oldness the shrubery imparts the majority of the athletes are young men. Their chins are never shaven, and by the time a youth of their sect has reached his twenties he has a fair sized growth of rushes besprouting. They take good care of the tresses too. It is even rumored that they tuck away their oversized goatees in sacks when they retire for fear the mice will mistake them for a mess of spaghetti.

School Year Ends.

The Commencement exercises of the Pitt County Training School will mark the close of one of the most active, progressive and successful years in the history of the school. This outstanding year was made possible by the splendid, loyal cooperation of patrons, teachers, and the many helpful friends of the school. Sincere gratitude is extended to all of them.

If one should unwind the scroll of the memorable achievements of the Pitt County Training School in the year of 1937, the following things would appear uppermost. General improvements of grounds and buildings were emphasized; five class rooms and one dormitory room were painted; new equipment was added to the home economic and science departments; over two hundred books were added to the library by popular subscription; an office and office equipment was secured for the principal. Necessary equipment for standardization has almost been completed.

In athletics and literary activities supplementary to the regular curricula, Pitt County Training School won notable mention in the following: Representatives to the Annual High School Day at Elizabeth City State Normal School won first place in French and high jumping. Gladys Chapman winning in French and Aboskie Thompson in high jumping. At the eastern Carolina high school track meet, held in Greenville, the Pitt County Training school boys won second place composite rating for the entire meet. The Thompson brothers won first, second and third places in the high jump event. First place for broad jump was also won by one of the Thompson brothers. At the county commencement in Greenville, the exhibit from the Pitt County Training school was given first prize and praised very highly by the judges.

Col. E. R. Bradley believes his colt, Brooklyn, is going to win the Kentucky Derby. So sure is he of the colt's chances that he put up $10,000 against $11,000 with Jerry Louchheim that Brooklyn would beat Louchheim's Pompoon, winter book favorite.

Now, winning the Kentucky Derby would be no new experience for Col. Bradley. He has had that thrill four times. In 1921 it was with Behave Yourself; in 1926, with Bubbling Over; in 1932, with Burgo King. The last time a Bradley horse came in first was 1933 when Brokers Tip won in a wild finishing drive under Jockey Don Meade.

There is reason for Bradley's particular interest in Brooklyn. Back in 1929 the colonel sent a great horse, Blue Larkspur, to the post in the Derby. The very best 3-year-old he ever sent out, Bradley has always insisted. The track was a sea of mud. Much to the colonel's disappointment Blue Larkspur finished sixth.

Brooklyn is a Blue Larkspur colt. Bradley has high hopes that he will make up for his sire's failure.

It is not on sentiment alone that Bradley bases his confidence. The colt was sparingly raced as a 2-year-old, running four times in all. Brooklyn won two races, and in one, the Walden handicap at Pimlico, he showed he could go the route.

Trainer Dick Thompson, who has saddled and trained all of Bradley's past Derby winners, is not given to discussing thoroughbreds in his charge, but broke the rule when questioned about Brooklyn. "I like him," he said. "If you know Thompson at all, you will understand that is high praise, indeed."

Bradley put Brooklyn on the block in the Saratoga yearling sale, but bought the colt back in for $20,000 when the price offered him was not to his liking. Today Bradley thanks his lucky stars that he did not part with Brooklyn.

UNC Plans Course On Marriage and Family

Chapel Hill, April 28.—College and high school teachers, students and teachers of adult education, physicians, lawyers, ministers, husbands, wives and parents are invited to attend the third annual short course in Conservation of Marriage and the Family, which is to be held at the University of North Carolina July 5-9.

Comprising addresses and round table discussions, the course was originated and is directed by Dr. Ernest R. Groves, a noted authority on problems of the family, who has been instrumental in securing well known authorities to appear on programs in past years. These meetings have proved highly successful, bringing men and women from all sections of the country to Chapel Hill to participate in the informal discussions conducted by Dr. Groves.

Among the number of topics to be discussed are "Progress and Problems of Instruction in Preparation for Marriage," "The Migratory Divorce Problem," "The Family As A Factor in the Development of the Child's Behavior," "Medical Aspects of Marriage Incompatibility," "Opportunities to Prepare Students for Marriage thru a Course on the Family in a Woman's College," "Mental Hygiene and Marriage Adjustment," "Marriage Consultation as a Professional Service," and many others.

MAN ONCE FRIGHTENED BY OIL ADS

CHANGES TO OIL-PLATING

CONOCO GERM PROCESSED OIL

In spite of everything, it paid him to take ads seriously, you see, else he might never have tried Oil-Plating. First of all he was impressed by the explanation of Oil-Plating.

Simple enough, if you'll think what happens as Johnny's dirty little hands touch the wallpaper. Anything greasy or oily on his hands becomes quite a permanent part of the paper. You'll say permanent!

In much the same way—forgetting technicalities—Conoco Germ Processed oil forms a lasting attachment for every working part of your engine. A genuine, enduring Oil-Plating is brought about by the Germ Process—patented.

Thus the Germ Process not only multiplies the strength of the usual flowing type of oil-film, but creates Oil-Plating besides. And once Oil-Plating goes on, Conoco Germ Processed oil does not let it come off in minutes, hours, days... or miles.

This Oil-Plating kills the old fear of starting "dry." Likewise Oil-Plating refuses to let go in all the fury of 5,000 revolutions per minute. That's why your "good old car" or the latest model will stay more like new, with its engine Oil-Plated. And your whole Summer's driving will take less Conoco Germ Processed oil. ## N. Y. Stock Market

New York, April 28—(AP)—Broad selling enveloped the stock market today and leading issues crumbled one to more than six points. The ticker tape was behind as much as four minutes at the top of the slide, but trading slackened later and near the fourth hour extreme losses were moderately reduced. Bonds held fairly well. Transfers approximated 2,500,000 shares.

payout after 1936. Hundreds of such claims, ranging from a few dollars to $105, have already been filed with the Board. The Bureau of Federal Old-Age Benefits estimates that approximately 323,684 persons or their estates will be eligible in 1937 for lump sum or death payments. Claims will be filed during this year by workers who have reached age 65 or by the families of workers who die during the year.

Livestock market. Hogs: Receipts moderate; early indications market $10 top paid for good and choice, corn fed, hard finish trucked in 175 to 250 lbs over 250 lbs $10 and downward as to size, 175 and under $10 and downward to as low as $6-50 on small pigs. Packing sows $7-50 to $8.50 for average, a few smooth slightly above. All soft and oily hogs sold subject to discount. Straight cars of hogs as a rule 25 cents above trucked in hogs of same class, grade and weight.

New York Cotton

New York, April 28—(AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady, nine to 11 lower on disappointing Liverpool cables and commission house and foreign selling. July sold off from 13.17 to 13.10 and prices generally showed net losses of 11 to 19 points after the first half hour. July recovered to 13.07 and at midday was 13.04 when prices were 12 to 15 points net lower. The closes was steady, 17 to 30 lower. Spot quiet, middling 13.55.

Cattle: Receipts light; market steady, veal top unchanged at $10 for choice on Cary street and at the yards. Cows and bulls $3.50 to $6.50 as to quality and finish; heifers steady $4.50 to $9.00, common and medium steers $5.50 to $9.00, or better; good steers $9.50 to $10, or better.

Sheep: Receipts light; average run nearby spring lambs $11 to $12.50, best possible $13, old crop wooled lambs average sales $9 to $11, wooled ewes $4 to $5.50. No clipped offerings. Weather clear, temperature 58.

NEW HIGHWAY BODY TO MEET

ing delegations and the ironing out of local road squabbles. Since neither the chairman nor any of the ten members of the new commission have had any previous experience in handling highway matters, it is agreed that they face a tremendous task, that it will be months before they really get a grasp on the job before them, if not years. While Dunlap is regarded as a man of unusual ability, most observers believe it will require two or three years for him to learn as much about the highway situation as Capus M. Waynick, already knows about it. Most impartial observers believe the new highway experiment just launched will cost the state at least $1,000,000. Eight or ten rinsings are necessary for washing spinach, since it grows close to the soil and is usually quite sandy. Alternate it between two large kettles of water, changing the water each time. The grit will remain in the bottom of the kettles.

He was appointed to fill the unexpired term of the Late R. C. Flanagan and although having served only one year and four months, the City of Greenville, under his leadership, has made much progress. It is his intent and purpose, if elected in the coming Election, to continue his efforts for a Bigger and Better Greenville.

During the short time in which he has served, through his past experience and ability, he has been able to achieve success and many projects have been secured for Greenville without cost to the Tax Payers.

Let us give him support and confidence in the coming Election. The short time in which he has served has only made it possible for him to become familiar with the affairs of the City and now he is better prepared to carry on his program and complete measures that will mean much for the future of Greenville.
