Leaps From Car And Tenderly Embraces Her at Doorsteps

PAIR SEPARATED FOR FIVE MONTHS

Fiancee of Former King Fled from London Crisis on December 3rd, 1936

Monts, France, May 4.—(AP)—Edward, Duke of Windsor, was reunited in the moss covered castle de Candé today with the woman for whom he renounced an empire, Wallis Warfield Simpson.

Five months and one day of enforced loneliness for the former King, Edward VIII, and "the woman I love" ended at 1:45 p. m. (7:45 a. m. EST) when the gay Duke reached the ancient chateau.

He came from Saint Wolfgang, Austria, by train and by motor. His betrothed was free to marry him and that was what was foremost in their hearts. He had not seen her since the dark night of December 3, when she fled to France from the abdication crisis that changed crowns for a quarter of the world.

Breathless and radiant Wallis met her beloved on the doorstep of the chateau.

Edward was an hour overdue and his fiancée's excitement had mounted by the minute. From Vercueil, from where the Duke left the Arberg express, the motor trip consumed four long hours.

The Duke leaped from the car. He dashed to the threshold.

There he took the waiting Wallis tenderly in his arms. They went inside the castle arm in arm.

Greets Fiancee

The Duke of Windsor (above) and his betrothed, Wallis Warfield Simpson, were reunited this morning for the first time since last December 3, when she fled London to escape the abdication crisis precipitated by the romance between the then King of England and the Baltimore born woman.

PASSENGER SHIPS SPEED TO PORT

Basque Defenders Put Up Last Ditch Fight, But Insurgents Closing in On Bay City

St. Jean de Luz, France, May 4.—(AP)—Refuge for about 10,000 women and children from siege or bombardment in Bilbao was virtually assured today as a fleet of passenger liners raced to evacuate as many as possible before insurgent guns closed the port.

Bilbao's Basque defenders fought a last-ditch fight, but insurgent dispatches said General Mola's troops were swarming into the mountainous region north of Bilbao and their artillery already commanded a river serving as Bilbao's outlet to the Bay of Biscay.

More than 4,000 refugees, many children among them, were listed to sail tonight aboard the 10,000-ton Spanish liner Habana, the first mass migration from the harassed city.

Arrangements were made to charter another large ship to remove 4,000 more children to England. The ship's identity a close secret lest it become a prey of insurgent war vessels patrolling the Bay of Biscay.

Bordeaux, France, advisors said several French steamers with a total capacity of 2,000 refugee passengers were being loaded and provisioned for a dash to Bilbao.

Basque commanders reported Government soldiers were holding their ground west of Bermeo, a fishing town only about eight miles north of Bilbao.

STRIKE SLOWS DOWN MOVIES!

The spreading strike of moving picture workers curtailed technical staffs and brought about a slower pace in some Hollywood studios. For one thing, the make-up departments were short of workers, and actors encountered delay in being prepared for their parts. Here are Dorothy Lamour and Gilbert Roland patiently awaiting their turns in the make-up room.

CLAIM DEPUTIES SHOT ORGANIZER

Young Boy Also Takes Stand in Civil Liberties Committee Investigation

Washington, May 4.—(AP)—Members of the family of a recently slain Kentucky mine union organizer came before the Senate Civil Liberties Committee today to relate their experiences with sudden death in the Harlan county hills.

The organizer, Lloyd Clouse, was shot to death 10 days ago at Verda, Harlan county. His brother, Jasper, was one of those to take the stand. Jasper said the fatal shots were fired by Bill Lewis and Melvin Moore, two deputies in the pay of a coal company.

The shooting occurred after the Clouse brothers had walked out of a liquor dispensary. Jasper, thin-lipped and taciturn, said he was beaten and left lying in the road beside his dead brother.

FRICION OVER STUDIO STRIKE

Dispute Between Striking Crafts and Theatrical Asso.

Hollywood, May 4.—(AP)—Friction and a flare of violence appeared as pickets paced before the gates of the famed film studios of Hollywood today.

The friction was between the striking Federated Motion Picture Crafts and the International Association of Theatrical Stage Employees, which previously had reached an agreement with the producers.

Federation spokesmen said "camera squads" would be posted at the studio gates to take pictures of members of the other American Federation of Labor affiliate picketing through the P. M. P. C. picket lines.

Strikers telegraphed William Green, A. F. of L. president protesting that the I. A. T. S. E. was trying to sign them as members. Charles Lessing, Federated Crafts head, said he was asking the Los Angeles Central Labor Council, to condemn it as "a company union" because of its anti-strike attitude.

One of Hollywood's most luxurious beauty salons was splashed with two gallons of creosote last night by three vandals.

Mrs. Cherry's Mother Is Claimed By Death

Mrs. Ellen Daniel Talton, 69, wife of E. E. Talton and mother of Mrs. Walter Cherry of this city died at her home near Smithfield at 7:30 p. m. yesterday after a lingering illness.

Mrs. Talton had visited her daughter and son-in-law here on several occasions and had a number of friends living in Greenville. Funeral services were conducted at the home near Smithfield this afternoon. Burial followed in the Smithfield cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Cherry went to Smithfield late yesterday afternoon and a number of other Greenville citizens attended the funeral services.

Order Referendum For Wake County

Raleigh, May 4.—(AP)—The Wake county commissioners voted unanimously today to request the county Board of Elections to order a referendum on establishment of liquor stores in the county.

Election board members indicated they would set June 22 for the vote.

Durham recently voted in favor of liquor stores and in Dare county, where drys apparently won by a narrow margin a hearing is scheduled tomorrow for protesting wets.

Columbus county voted today on the store question.

Bailey Says Relief Is Local Problem

Washington, May 4.—(AP)—Senator Bailey (D. N. C.) said in a statement today "no city, county or state ought to draw a dollar from the federal treasury unless it is actually unable to provide funds for unemployment relief."

"The Federal Administration," Bailey said, "ought to proceed with the objective of localizing the problem, and to reverse its present program of making it a permanent federal activity."

"The problem is local and becomes general only when the local unit is unable to meet it."

N. C. Medical Society Holding Annual Meet

Winston-Salem, May 4.—(AP)—With 550 doctors and their wives already registered and still others coming the North Carolina Medical Society opened its annual convention here today with prospects for record-breaking attendance.

Dr. C. S. Strouder, president, called the first general session to order and delivered the annual president's message. While hailing the advance of more medical attention and care for the masses, he warned against immature plans for socialized medicine.

Install President Of Medical Auxiliary

Winston-Salem, May 4.—(AP)—Mrs. W. P. Rainey was installed as president of the Women's Auxiliary of the North Carolina Medical Society at the annual convention here this morning. She succeeds Mrs. J. R. Terry of Lexington.

The other officers include Mrs. Terry of Lexington, vice president, and Mrs. George K. Mitchell, of Wilson, recording secretary.

Wilson Nets Profits From Liquor Stores

Wilson, May 4.—(AP)—Officials of the Wilson county ABC Board reported today profits for the nine months of the current fiscal year aggregate $80,279.76 on sales totaling $381,196.25. The profits since the stores were opened in July 1935 totaled $180,325.67, it was announced.

No Great Demand For Job Paying Lucrative Salary

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, May 4.—The job as Director of Public Assistance, expected to pay a salary of not less than $5,000 a year, is not proving as attractive as some of the other state jobs already filled and indications are that Governor Clyde R. Hoey is having some trouble in finding just the type of man he wants for the post.

Current reports are that it has already been offered to J. Dewey Dorsett, chairman of the Industrial Commission, that Dorsett can still have it if he wants it. It is now no secret that the job was previously offered to Capus M. Waynick at a salary of $6,000 a year, but that Waynick turned it down like a cold potato. It may have been offered to one or two others, although there are no reliable reports going the rounds to indicate this.

Not that there are not plenty of applicants for the job. There are. Most of these applicants are understood to be either former county welfare officers, with strong political

Dr. Meadows Speaker In Gatesville Today

President L. R. Meadows has gone to Gatesville today where he will deliver the commencement address before the Sunbury High School graduates. As their school building was burned recently, the exercises had to be held in the nearby town of Gatesville.

"A High School Graduate's choice—'The Hard Way of the Easy Way,'" is Dr. Meadows' subject.

Secure Confession In New York Murder

New York, May 4.—(AP)—Two police detectives said they obtained a signed confession of the mysterious killing of Irene Wadsworth, pretty waitress, who was hacked to death at the Columbia Residents' Club on April 22 from a suspect today.

The officers who announced the confession booked the prisoner under the name of Leonidas Hamillkas, of the Bronx.

Two Candidates Tie In Election

Bridgeton, N. C., May 4.—(AP)—Selection of a police chief here rested with the board of aldermen today after an election in which Leo Reel, the incumbent, and W. R. Hopewell received 126 votes each.

I. H. Britte was elected mayor.

MURDER TRIAL NEARING CLOSE

Denhardt Expected to Know Fate By Tomorrow A. M.

New Castle, Ky., May 4.—(AP)—To the steady patter of rain on an old tin roof, lawyers hammered away today at the evidence that, by tonight or tomorrow may acquit or convict Brigadier General Henry Denhardt of the murder of his fiancée.

Wirt Turner of prosecution counsel opened with the defense of Sergeant John Messner, Louisville police chemist who was attacked yesterday by Defense Counsel Rodas Myers. He also denied Myers charged Denhardt had entered in the case.

Messner had testified paraffin tests showed Denhardt had fired a weapon shortly before the 41-year-old widow, Mrs. Verna Taylor was found shot to death last November.

Turner detailed Commonwealth Attorney H. D. Kinsolving, Jr., "thousand times" Messner had falsified the evidence "he would prosecute him as hard and as vigorously as he is prosecuting Denhardt."

Young Whiteford Boy Suffers Broken Arm

Charles Whiteford, young son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Whiteford, suffered a broken arm just above the wrist yesterday afternoon as he was playing on the beach at the athletic field at the college.

Young Whiteford was running on the beach when he slipped and fell through a fence, the injury. Despite the hurt, he is back in school today and the break is expected to heal satisfactorily.

Begin Evacuation Along Flood Way

Charleston, Mo., May 4.—(AP)—Stoically accepting the age old mandate of the Missouri sharecroppers began evacuation of the Southern half of the Birds-Point-New Madrid floodway threatened with inundation for the second time in five months.

The general opinion expressed by land owners and tenants was "if another flood comes, it will have to come."

The order for evacuation of the area affecting about 3,000 residents was issued yesterday.

Snow Hill Doctor Claimed By Death

Durham, May 4.—(AP)—Dr. W. B. Murphy of Snow Hill, one of the state's outstanding citizens died at Duke hospital this morning after an illness of two weeks. Death was attributed to acute leukemia.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at four o'clock at Snow Hill Presbyterian church.

Dr. Murphy was for years actively associated with the North Carolina Medical Society and served as its vice president. His widow is also widely known, being vice chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee.

Columbus Votes On Legal Liquor

Whiteville, May 4.—(AP)—Columbus county voters went to the polls today in a local option election to decide whether to legalize the sale of liquor.

The county has been constantly dry heretofore and the dry forces have waged a vigorous campaign during recent weeks. The election is being held under the local option act passed by the last legislature.

Eastern N. C. Rivers Beginning to Subside

Raleigh, May 4.—(AP)—Eastern North Carolina rivers were reported falling today.

Weather bureau chief, Lee Denton, said the Roanoke and Tar Rivers were down a half a foot each, the Roanoke at 13 at Williamston and the Tar at 17 at Greenville.

Diving Victim Contends He Leaped For a Reason

By SAM JACKSON
(AP Feature Service Writer)

San Francisco, May 4.—"If somebody else would just take up this idea and carry it on I'd feel my dive hadn't been in vain."

But nobody has taken it up so Ray Woods, 39-year-old high diver, frets in his hospital cot. He doesn't toss because he has a broken back—suffered in a world record leap of 185 feet off the giant San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge.

His "idea" is that of a national organization to care for broken-down athletes. He insists he made his recent dive to direct attention to his plan and raise funds to get it started.

Admitting that he now qualifies as a beneficiary rather than a promoter of such a charity, he explains how he arrived at his plan: "A few years ago I had just made a spectacular dive off the Free bridge at St. Louis when I read a newspaper editorial about myself. It was headed 'Real Nerve and Courage—It Should Have Better Use.' It reviewed my bridge dives and asked: 'What good do they do?'

"I decided then and there to have some moral in life, and the plan of helping old and destitute athletes through a yearly benefit in every town in the country came to me. Every dive I've made since has been to promote that end."

The dive that shattered Woods' back and, according to doctors, will probably keep him from walking again, was his 185th.

Woods grew up in St. Louis and was always a good swimmer.

Under the coaching of the late Charley Gray, he became a A. U. champion in the 40-foot platform dive.

When a man was killed attempting the first dive from Merchants bridge, St. Louis, Woods decided he could do it. He did and emerged unhurt.

Backed by a rich St. Louisan, he went to New York and repeated Steve Brodie's reputed dive off Brooklyn bridge. When newspapers (Continued on page four)

WENDEL TAKES STAND IN CASE

Allowed to Testify Over Objection Of Defense Lawyers

Newark, N. J., May 4.—(AP)—Paul Wendel took the witness stand over defense objections in the federal court conspiracy trial of Ellis Parker and son Ellis, Jr., today to tell his story of being abducted and forced to confess falsely to the Lindbergh kidnaping.

Counsel for the Parkers had challenged his qualification by offering a record of his conviction several years ago for perjury, affirmance of the conviction by the Court of Errors and Appeals, and a pardon from the State court of Pardons.

Federal Judge William Clark said the pardon removed any disqualification and Wendel was sworn.

Wendel, beginning the story of his abduction and "confession" to the Lindbergh kidnaping which delayed for three days the execution of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the crime said he had known the elder Parker, Chief of Burlington County Detectives many years.

They first discussed the Lindbergh kidnaping March 12, 1932. Wendel said, when Parker expressed a wish to contact someone in the underworld about the case.

Reveal Relationship Between Financiers

New York, May 4.—(AP)—The close business and personal relationship existing between Pierre du Pont and John Raskob was described today in the hearing of the government case to collect about $1,800,000 taxes on the 1929 incomes of the two financiers.

Nathan Leming, chief counsel for the Internal Revenue Bureau in the hearing brought out the details of this relationship.

Drill Is Called For Local Guard Unit

The local unit of the National Guard will hold its first drill since the annual inspection some time ago tomorrow night and members will meet at the Armory, now nearing completion.

Commanding Officer J. H. Waldrop said the members would assemble at the Armory as the lockers already have been placed in the building but added tomorrow night's drill was not for a public demonstration. He added an official opening would be held at the Armory later and the National Guard would put on a drill for the general public.

Tomorrow night's practice will be the first of an intensive drilling period in preparation for the annual encampment in July.

HANDICAPPED FOR NEXT FEW DAYS

Sometime during tomorrow we will begin dismantling our newspaper press preparatory to installing a new press which means that for several days we will be publishing the paper under a great handicap. During that time it will be necessary for us to close our forms before one o'clock in order that they may be carried to Wilson for printing, so we are requesting our advertisers to co-operate with us by anticipating their advertising needs and letting us have their copy a day ahead of the date of publication.

All persons with social and other news items are urged to call us just as early as possible each day in order that we might be able to handle the items without delay.

While we hope to be able to get the paper to our readers on the regular schedule it will be necessary that some of the late news each day be omitted because of the early hour that we will have to close our forms.

The job of installing our new press will be completed as quickly as possible, after which time we will again be able to give you the last minute news right up to our four o'clock press time.

Open house to the public will be held in the Home Management House of the College on Friday afternoon and evening and all day Saturday.

This is what was formerly known as the Practice House of the Home Economics department, in which every Senior who is making this her chief subject must live for a set period and help run it.

Those in charge are given a certain allowance for meals, and must budget this and do their own purchasing. No servant is allowed in the house, the girls doing all the cooking and cleaning, and each girl takes her turn at doing each kind of work. Each group gives a dinner party and has to cook as well as serve the meal.

The old infirmary, one of the original six buildings, was last year turned into the Home Management House and has been partially remodeled and re-furnished. Before that, the Practice House was in the central part of Jarvis Hall, the apartment occupied in the early years by the president's family.

Mrs. Adelaide Blokton, who has been a member of the Home Economics department for a number of years, has charge of this division of the work.

Candle Light Service
At a beautiful and impressive candlelight service, the new cabinet of the Y. W. C. A., who will serve next year, was installed at the regular vesper hour of the College last night.

Singing "Just as I Am", the members of the old and new cabinets marched down opposite aisles of the Austin auditorium, and met on the stage.

Miss Catherine Wallace, the outgoing president, who was in charge of the service, gave the purpose of the organization as spreading abroad the light of Jesus Christ, and impressed upon the new cabinet the care taken in selecting them, and the responsibilities that would be theirs. The members of the old cabinet stood on the stage with lighted candles, and as each new member was introduced, her candle was lighted by the person whom she was succeeding, who also offered a challenge to her. The last person to be installed was Miss Elizabeth Copeland, the incoming president. As she took the light of the old president, Miss Copeland pledged her trust in the one who said, "Be of good cheer. I have overcome the world and because I have overcome, ye too shall overcome."

With the Y. W. C. A. sing, "Follow the Gleam," the old and new cabinets filed out of the auditorium.

The newly installed officers were: Misses Elizabeth Copeland, president; Marie Dawson, vice-president; Georgia Sugg, treasurer; Prue Newby, secretary; Rebecca Watson, student government representative; Mary Parker Johnson, chairman of strategy service committee; Kathleen Strickland, social; Susan Evans, membership; Louise Britt, publicity; Maggie Crumpler, world fellowship; Edna Earle Perry, music; Catherine Cheek, morning watch; and Fannie Brewer, Teco Echo reporter.

PEACE ACTION
Q. What measure now before Congress is of most importance to people interested in peace?

CLUB MEMBERS PRISON FARMS CONDUCT MEET LIVE AT HOME

No Regular Program At Weekly Rotary Session Here

Meals Prove to Be More Appetizing and Healthful

Raleigh, May 4.—Inmates of North Carolina prison farms find, like farm families, that "living at home" has its advantages, according to Dr. Jane S. McKimmon, of State College.

As a result of the program to grow more vegetables on prison farms, and the surplus for winter, prison meals are more appetizing and healthful, she pointed out.

Upon request, the home demonstration division of the State College extension service gave canning instructions at the Caledonia prison farm and at Camp Polk several years ago.

The division recommended Edgar Shearon, experienced Wake County grower and canner, who was appointed director of prison canning plants, Dr. McKimmon continued.

Mr. Shearon has instituted a program for the production of a larger amount of vegetables, arranged for canning instructions on farms where needed, and gave assistance to farms already doing canning work.

In 1931, his first year, 2,000 gallons of vegetables were canned for winter consumption. Last year 86,559 gallons were canned, Shearon reported to Dr. McKimmon.

The principal vegetables canned were tomatoes, corn, butter beans, and okra.

"These canned products, together with fresh vegetables in season, grain for meal and flour, and such meats as the farms produce, should provide a wholesome diet for any group of people, and in my mind will go far toward cutting down disquiet and insubordination as well as prison operating expenses," Dr. McKimmon commented.

Canning work was done in 58 prison camps last year, she added.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS ATTEMPT IRON OUT TANGLE ON BUSES

State School Commission Called In to Special Session to Straighten Out Difficulties

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, May 4.—The state school commission has been called into a hurried special session here today in an effort to straighten out the tangle which has arisen with regard to the purchase of additional school buses and so it can pay $750,000 worth of buses this year instead of only $600,000 worth.

The plan now contemplated, it is understood, is to ask the Governor as Director of the Budget for permission to anticipate the 1938-39 school appropriation to the extent of $150,000, so that it may buy additional buses now instead of having to wait until July, 1938. If the commission takes this action today, as it is expected to, indications are that Governor Hoey will approve the plan and authorize the budget bureau to either permit an overdraft in the bus appropriation of $150,000, to be repaid from the 1938-39 appropriation when it becomes available, or else advance this much as a loan from the contingency and emergency fund.

At its last meeting, the school commission asked for permission to transfer money from appropriations made for other purposes to the bus appropriation, so it could spend $750,000 for new buses at this time. But Attorney General A. A. F. Beaulieu held that this could not be done. He is expected to approve the new proposal, however, to permit the use of $150,000 from the 1938-39 appropriation of $600,000.

The school commission maintains that it is imperative for it to buy at least 700 new school buses this year with which to replace the most dangerous of the old buses, and point out that it asked the 1937 general assembly for a minimum of $750,000 for bus replacements, but that this amount was cut to $600,000 by the finance committees and the legislature.

The school commission's records show that there are now 1,600 school buses in operation which are 6 years old or older, some of them ten or 11 years old, that many of these are nothing more than "crates on wheels" and should be retired from service immediately. Even with 700 new buses, 840 of these buses more than six years old will have to be kept in service.

WPA Funds Housemaids' School

Washington (AP)—The WPA, accused by some housewives of luring away their prize maids, has started back into the field of training girls and women for house work.

Ellen S. Woodward, assistant administrator in charge of women's projects, has approved a program to train needy young women for household employment. The new project calls for wages while learning to cook, wash, iron, clean house, market, and take care of children.

EQUIP POLICE CARS WITH LOUD SPEAKERS

Los Angeles (AP)—The average motorist is of the opinion that traffic policemen have voices sufficiently loud enough to direct attention to a traffic violation—but not the Los Angeles police commission.

The commission has requested Mayor Frank Shaw to provide funds for the purchase of two police cars especially equipped with loudspeakers.

The plan is for traffic officers, while cruising about, to caution operators of automobiles to drive more carefully.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

SYNOPSIS: Attractive Jude Bishop is shot to death on a wild and stormy night at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunt. Mike dislocates a shoulder in his attempt to find the murderer. The storm maroons us on this island. Suddenly we find Cook knocked out by a flower-pot and Annie the maid bound up. I start questioning everyone.

Chapter 16

"You're All Lying!"

IT HAD BEEN 230 by my watch when the Skipper went upstairs. That slightly conversation in the hall might have taken five minutes, but probably less. And in any case, according to Michael, the conference in the game-room must have ended shortly after I went into the library.

"And just why didn't you rejoin the party?"

Michael swallowed. "Jude had a letter to write and I decided to go out and have a look at things—the chimneys and bridge and all that."

"I could have wrung his neck. If he eyes. "I don't—Yes. It must be." He went on staring at it, fascinated.

"But there is nothing to indicate that Michael took it to the kitchen." That was M. Farrington, bristling like a mother hen. "Surely one's handkerchief case is not under lock and key. It would be a simple matter for anyone to—"

For the first time in my life I interrupted M. Farrington, and I did it rudely. "Yes, I know," I said. "But it rather conclusively proves that the person who hurried that pot at Cook has been in the house long enough to be either borrowing or stealing handkerchiefs."

I should have had sense enough to realize the danger of putting all my cards on the table, but it was blurted out beyond recall. And in characteristic ways every person in the room reacted to the statement.

M. Farrington's head flew to her throat with a quivering "Oh!" The Skipper sat suddenly bolt upright, her face stern. Instinctively Gay clutched Mike's arm, and they huddled together. Beyond them I caught a glimpse of Higgins' face and of William, rigidly motionless. Annie and Cook began to jabber meaningless.

With an almost mechanical rhythm we eyed each other—you—your—you? It was horrible. Had a board creaked or a window rattled, I firmly believe that we should all have died for shelter under the nearest pieces of furniture. But nothing creaked.

"You? You? You?"

The Skipper broke the spell. She

"You're lying!" I shouted.

and to lie to me, why in hell couldn't he lie plausibly? My hand came down on the desk with a thump.

"If you're all guilty, there's no point in my going on with this. If you're not, you might be decent enough to tell the truth!"

M. Farrington's voice broke the deadly silence.

"You feel that someone has been untruthful, James?"

"Untruthful!" I fairly howled. "You're lying, every damned one of you! Do you expect me to read your minds?"

The atmosphere was charged with something I could not place, something unhappy and a little eerie. "There was no answer, even from M. Farrington. I should have done anything but what I did do, which was nothing more nor less than to lose my head completely."

Fervently I hurled questions at the rest of them at Gay, at William, at Annie, at Higgins, at Cook. I wasted just that much breath. They knew nothing, any of them. They had gone to bed at hours varying from Cook's nine o'clock to Higgins' eleven. Gay had taken aspirin and gone to sleep. Cook had slept naturally. William, Annie and Higgins admitted to not sleeping, but had heard absolutely nothing but the storm.

"And no one here went into the kitchen at any other time!" My sense of futility increased with every second of that pause. I whirled on Michael.

His chin came up aggressively. "No!"

My next gesture was even more foolhardy. I reached in my pocket.

"Then how did this get into the kitchen?" I demanded, and threw in front of him the handkerchief I had found in the entry.

Exposing All My Cards

THEY all stared. All except M. Farrington. I think, realized what it was. Slowly the red mounted in Mike's face. He reached for the thing, and I thought that he started as his eye caught the daintily executed name in one corner. His voice was the voice of a man who had been hit on the head.

"I don't know." His fingers played absently with the thing. "I don't know." He sat down slowly.

"Was it yours?"

He passed a hand vaguely over his pushed back her chair with a clatter. "This is ridiculous! Why should anyone in this room strike Cook or Annie? Any one of us could go into the kitchen for a dozen reasons. There's someone else in this house, Jim. And a person who forced his way through locked doors would have no difficulty in finding a handkerchief."

A Low Angered Whimper

"I WAS merely supposing," I said. "I'm in a nasty spot, and I'm not trying to wriggle out of it. I'm simply putting it up to you. The murderer is either in his room or at large in the house. If he or she is here, a search would provide a good opportunity for more deviltry. If not, and we fall to search, we are leaving ourselves at the mercy of somebody who has already killed one of us. I'm leaving it up to you. I won't take the responsibility. What shall we do?"

"Search," said the Skipper promptly. "Does anyone have a different opinion?" I said.

Breathless silence.

"Very well. We'll all go. There are nine of us." I did some rapid arithmetic. Four men—one along in years and one incapacitated. Of the five women, Gay alone looked capable of walking across a room without staggering. In my coat pocket my fingers brushed the revolver with which I had disgraced myself earlier in the day.

"Higgins," I said, "take this revolver and stand on the landing. If anyone you don't know shows up in either hall, you are to shoot, do you understand? And shoot straight. William—Miss Palmer, Mr. Michael, and Miss Farrington are to go with you. Keep check on every member of your party, and be sure that Higgins is at his post as you come out of every room. We'll search this room now. Then you wait in the hall and give Higgins moral support. When we finish the first room upstairs, we'll signal Higgins and you can go through the next one down here, and so on. Make sure of all the doors and—"

From the hall came a sound—a low agonized whimper that cut short my orders as if by the push of a button. It came from the hall and with it came another sound—a slow, soft shuffling. It was coming nearer—nearer! The hair on my neck was prickling.

Nearer—nearer—it was in the room! For a moment I could not see a thing, but one step brought me within full range of the open door.

We shall return to Anne Hamilton's room.

It is no secret that five or six weeks ago this group was all set to take their fight before the executive committee of the board of trustees, had even retained an attorney, also a State college alumnus, to present their case for them. But the meeting was postponed due to the illness of one or two members of the committee. So it was expected that at least some mention of the matter would come before the executive committee at its meeting here yesterday. But it was not mentioned.

Because of this fact, there is talk going the rounds today that there has been some sort of compromise between the groups opposed to Sermon and those defending him, among the latter being President Graham. For the anti-Sermon groups has been contending that President Graham has known of their objections to Sermon all along that he knew them when he recommended employing Sermon for another year, when he refused to approve a contract for Anderson, but has refused to take an action. It is understood that when this group contemplated going before the executive committee of the board of trustees, they intended to present only the same complaints and facts which had previously been presented to President Graham. Reports are also to the effect that much of this same data has also been presented to Governor Hoy and that the Governor asked the Attorney General to make a quiet investigation.

As a result, the report is now current here that both President Graham and the Attorney General have now turned over all their data pertaining to both sides of the controversy over Dr. Sermon to the faculty council at State College for action, with the understanding that President Graham will abide by the findings of the council. It had been charged by the anti-Sermon group that President Graham was withholding the charges against Sermon from the faculty council and it is understood that this was the reason they had planned to take the matter to the executive committee of the board of trustees. The belief now is that the anti-Sermon faction agreed not to take their grievances to both sides of the matter should be turned over to the faculty council.

At any rate, the matter now seems to be in the hands of the faculty council, with the next move up disciplined and there was no moving about," says Speer, who heads the department of elementary education at New York university's school of education.

"But now the activity school gives the child far greater freedom of movement. He is busy with blocks, paints and clay. He goes on countless field trips to zoos, museums and factories."

And the result, says Speer, is overstimulation.

Helps Dispositions.

He thinks relaxation should be practiced from the nursery school through college.

A child's disposition as well as his learning ability is improved after proper rest, Speer advised parents. He emphasizes that it should be a vacation as well as school-time requisite.

MUDDLE STILL AT N. C. STATE

Row Not Brought Out At Trustee's Meeting, However

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, May 4.—The latest State College athletic muddle, which has been smoldering ever since chief football coach "Hunk" Anderson was given his walking papers in January and which college authorities have been frantically endeavoring to keep shrouded in the utmost secrecy, did not get before the meeting of the executive committee of the board of trustees of the Greater University of North Carolina here Monday. But plenty of talk is being heard about it whenever groups of alumni, students or politicians get together.

This newest muddle, as virtually every one here knows, centers around basketball coach R. R. Sermon and is being kept alive by the group of alumni and students who feel that Sermon had a good deal to do with stirring up the feeling against "Hunk" Anderson and for the ultimate refusal of President Frank P. Graham of the Greater University to renew Anderson's contract, and that it was necessary for Anderson to go, that Sermon should also be let out. This group maintains that there is no hope of ever getting any real harmony and cooperation in the athletic department at State College, even with Anderson gone and a new football coach on the job, as long as Doc Sermon remains on the athletic staff. It is generally agreed that this group has been out to "get" Sermon for some time and indications are that they have not let up or called for a truce.

'4TH R' (RELAXATION) HELPS CHILDREN LEARN

TIME OUT

Overstimulation from the active schools is combated by regular rest periods.

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW (AP Feature Service Writer)

New York—Modern "activity" schools have added a fourth r to the curriculum—relaxation.

On rugs and mats brought from home, the youngsters stretch out at 10 and after lunch. As a result, they sleep better at night and are more receptive to the teachers, says Dr. Robert K. Speer, an exponent of the plan.

As a result, the report is now current here that both President Graham and the Attorney General have now turned over all their data pertaining to both sides of the controversy over Dr. Sermon to the faculty council at State College for action, with the understanding that President Graham will abide by the findings of the council. WILL RULE ON BUYING BUSES

Attorney General Expects to Make Decision Today

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, May 4.—Whether or not the State School Commission can spend $750,000 in the purchase of new school buses right now, which is $150,000 more than the appropriation made by the 1937 general assembly, or whether it must not exceed the $600,000 figure, is expected to be decided today in a special opinion by Attorney General A. A. F. Seawell. The board of awards Friday decided to hold up awarding of all contracts until an official opinion could be obtained from the Attorney General.

There are indications here today that Attorney General Seawell will hold that the State School Commission cannot re-ram its budget, as it had proposed to do and use money set aside for library and other purposes for the purchase of new school buses, but that it can anticipate its 1938-39 appropriation to the extent of $150,000 and thus buy $750,000 worth of new school buses at this time. It is known that Attorney General Seawell held a long conference with Governor Clyde R. Hoy and State Superintendent of Public Instruction Clyde A. Erwin Saturday afternoon, at which the various angles of the matter were discussed. Governor Hoy is understood to have expressed the opinion that it is very necessary to buy these additional school buses at this time, if a way can be found to find the extra $150,000 needed, also that in his belief this amount can be taken from the 1938-39 appropriation for school buses, which is likewise $600,000, and hence be carried as advance out of the expected general fund surplus.

In Cash Prizes

Every Ford V-8 Truck or Commercial Car owner who reads this Advertisement is invited to a Gasoline Economy Contest starting at John Rivers Filling Station on Washington Highway Tuesday May 11th from 10 A. M. to 5 P. M.

Every contestant has a chance to win. $25 cash prize will be awarded to each of two winners... the owner of the winning Ford V-8 Truck, and the owner of the winning Ford V-8 Commercial Car. Drivers of each of the two winners will receive a $5 cash prize, except in cases where the owner is the driver. The winner in each case will be the unit that travels farthest on a certified 1-2 gallon of gasoline.

Mail us a post card or telephone us today and let us know if you will be there. All contestants must give notice of entry 24 hours before the start of the contest, so we will know how many to provide for. Read the rules below.

No Entry Fee... No Obligation

Here Are the Rules

1. All entries must be equipped with bodies.
2. Every contestant must agree to abide by decision of judges.
3. Each contestant must agree to use fuel supplied to him free at the starting point and must agree to let supervisor of test disconnect fuel line and install test tank.

Win $10.00 in the Five Gallon Mileage Guessing Contest

While the above contest is going on, we will conduct a five gallon test with our demonstrator Truck. We invite every truck owner in Pitt County to guess the mileage which our demonstrator truck will make during this five gallon test. The person guessing closest to the correct mileage will be awarded a prize of $10.00. Decision of judges shall be final. All guesses to be in our hands by 2 P. M. day of contest. Even if you own some other make of truck, you are invited to guess.

All truck owners, any make, are invited to attend a meeting at John Flanagan Buggy Co., at 7:30 P. M. May 11, at which time prizes will be awarded.

While yesterday's city election was one of the closest ever held here, on the surface it was one of the quietest and was free from the usual mud-slinging. As in all elections there was bound to be disappointment for some of the candidates, but on the whole it was a well-qualified group of candidates that entered the race and the city should feel assured of a good administration at the hands of the newly-elected officers.

The lots between Cotanche and Evans streets, just below Fifth street, are being prepared by the city for public parking space and when the work is completed the parking lot will prove a great convenience to the public in general. The parking area extends from Cotanche street to Evans street with entrances from both streets. The property has been loaned to the city by S. T. White, Quinn-Miller and L. B. Garris. If there are other persons who own vacant property adjacent to the business section they can render a real community service at this time by permitting the city to convert it into public parking areas. More parking space adjacent to the business section would help considerably in removing the present traffic congestion on the streets in the downtown area.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington—There is no way to tell whether they planned it that way, but this drive of Roosevelt supporters to cut the relief budget put the President in a handsome strategic position.

Long before he sent down the relief bill, the President was bombarded by governors and mayors to add at least $700,000,000 to it so it would be $2,200,000,000.

To counteract some of this big relief money talk, the President sprayed Congress with a warning of wider and worse deficits. But even then he was left in the position of denying a fat relief figure for the hungry mouths of the mayors and governors said they had. Then, just at a moment when he might have expected cries of distress to come from the hungry hinterland, there arose this drive, led by his staunchest supporters, for cutting relief and other appropriations.

Instead of being the harsh relief-cutter, Roosevelt became the staunch protagonist of the relief workers, the man who was to save their $1,500,000,000 against the onslaughts of chinchy congressmen. Maybe it wasn't planned. F. D. R. luck, you know.

Oratory

Every Monday is Fourth of July in the house, unless there is something very important afoot, and the members cut loose with their most patriotic speeches. Since some of these remarks are intended to be of lasting historic importance, let's listen.

Representative Wearin of Iowa: "Poverty, oppression and depression are the bedfellows of communism, and if allowed to sleep with the American farmer they will most certainly breed children of revolt." Representative Dickstein of New York upbraiding the house for rejecting his proposed investigation of nazis, communists, fascist and other activities he called "un-American." "Mr. Fritz Kuhn described by Dickstein as nazi leader in the U. S.) has one of his chief agents stationed in the state of New Jersey. This agent went to a certain railroad company and tried to bargain for a cheaper railroad fare to a new camp which these (nazis) had bought in the state of New Jersey. And where do you think the camp is located? Within a mile of the largest ammunition factory in the United States.

NO GREAT DEMAND FOR JOB PAYING LUCRATIVE SALARY

(Continued from page one) ty politics since he must deal with county welfare boards and boards of county commissioners. Accordingly, he should know how to speak their language, as well as understand it, and not be the sort who can easily be sucked in or be made to respond to local political pressure.

One of the main reasons it is understood Governor Hoy is having some trouble finding the type of man he wants for the public assistance job, is that the men of this desired calibre do not fancy the idea of being under the general direction of a woman superior. For under the law as it was finally enacted, the Director of Public Assistance, will be under the general supervision and direction of the Commissioner of Public Welfare, who at the present time is Mrs. W. T. Bost. Not that they have any particular objection to Mrs. Bost. In fact, every one who knows Mrs. Bost and comes in contact with her has the highest regard for her and the manner in which she has administered her office.

But men as a rule do not like to work for women superiors—to "take orders" from female bosses. It is just naturally contrary to the nature of the male animal, and his superiority complex, especially here in the south. Still another factor is believed to be the fact that for years the welfare department has been regarded as more or less of a political sop, to the women politicians, the sob sisters and the professional women listers uppers, in which to test out their ideas, because "the party" had to do something to keep the women satisfied and make them feel they were playing a vital part in the government of the state. For several years many observers here felt that the welfare department was little more than the plaything of Mrs. Kate Burr Johnson, Miss Nell Battle Lewis and the "faithful" that had to be given jobs, though under acrs. Bost it has gotten on a more businesslike basis and has been doing good work, observers agree.

So the fact the new Director of Public Assistance will be under the supervision of the Commissioner of Public Welfare, though he will get a larger salary, that he will be partially her appointee, since the law says he must be appointed "by the Commissioner of Public Welfare, by and with the approval of the Governor," and will be surrounded by scores of women welfare workers, is regarded as causing a number of those who have been asked to consider the new job to think long and carefully about it. Who will finally get the job, no one knows.

I didn't break anything in this dive."

"My most dangerous dive?" muses Woods. "Certainly not this last one. It might be the jump off the High Level bridge at Cleveland. The river was full of logs and chemicals. I missed the logs and kept my eyes shut till I washed them off. If I jumped there again I'd expect to be killed."

National Biscuit Co. Wins Court Decision

Philadelphia, May 3.—U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit has reversed a former decision in the case of National Biscuit Company vs. Kellogg Company involving the use of the trade name "Shredded Wheat." The court declared that the Kellogg Company employed "unfair competition and untruthful statements to deceive the public and secure the trade which in equity and good conscience belonged to the plaintiff."

Following is an excerpt from Judge J. Warren Davis' opinion:

"The defendant (Kellogg Company) appropriated not only the name of plaintiff's product (Shredded Wheat), but also its form and shape which has characterized the biscuit for more than forty years."

"In order to secure the property of the plaintiff in the name and form of its product, the defendant placed upon its cartons the words, 'The original has this signature: W. K. Kellogg.' That is, defendant not only adopted the name and form of plaintiff's product, but also claimed that its product was the original and by implication that the plaintiff's was an imitation. There could have been but one object for doing this, and that was by unfair competition and untruthful statements, to deceive the public and secure the trade which in equity and good conscience belonged to the plaintiff."

"... a decree will be entered vacating our former decree and reversing the decree of the District Court with directions to the court to enter a decree enjoining the defendant (Kellogg Co.) from the use of the name 'Shredded Wheat' as its trade name and from advertising or offering for sale its product in the form and shape of plaintiff's biscuit in violation of its trademark; and with further directions to order an accounting for damages and profits."

"Shredded Wheat," a product of the National Biscuit Company has been manufactured at Niagara Falls, N. Y., since 1900.

POPE SOLVES PROBLEM RAISED BY CORONATION

Vatican City (AP)—Pope Pius has solved a delicate situation in connection with his invitation to King George VI's coronation in London.

Church rules do not permit a Catholic to attend a Protestant ceremony. Accordingly the papal representatives will not attend the coronation ceremony itself, but will say a mass at a Catholic cathedral in London, for the success and wellbeing of the new king.

The same expedient was adopted when King George V was crowned 26 years ago.

SEASON OPENS FOR SOFTBALL

Blount - Harvey And Flanagan Buggy Co. Meet Today

Greenville's first softball league was scheduled to get underway this afternoon at Third Street School stadium with a contest between the Blount-Harvey and Flanagan Buggy teams.

The league was organized here recently and eight teams have been entered. Games will be called at 6 o'clock, after most business firms have closed.

Much interest is being manifested in the sport and teams have been practicing so members could limber up before regular games started.

The game, played similar to regular baseball, is designed primarily for young and middle-aged business men. Local officials have declared they do not intend to allow the league to become commercialized, but to operate merely as a form of recreation and exercise for participants.

Probable Pitchers

Probable pitchers for today's major league games:

- Pittsburgh at Brooklyn—Blanton vs. Henshaw.
- St. Louis at Boston—Warneke vs. Lanning or Fette.
- Cincinnati at New York—Hollingsworth vs. Hubbell.
- Chicago at Philadelphia—Shoun vs. Mulcahy.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

- New York at Detroit—Gomez vs. Wade.
- Philadelphia at Chicago—Nelson vs. Rigney or Stratton.
- Washington at Cleveland—Newsome vs. Harder.
- Boston at St. Louis—Grove vs. Bonetti.

When Manager Chuck Dresden put out the word that his Cincinnati Reds would have to get tough, he found a ready ally in Lefty Lee Grissom.

Next to pitching Lefty likes to fight best. He proved it the other day when he mixed with the Pittsburgh Pirates. Grissom, a 200-pounder, will be handy to have around when Dresden and surly Burleigh Grimes renew the feuding they started down in Florida.

Without trying, Lefty is one of those "colorful" guys who just happen along every so often. Many young ball-players come to the majors with a fair copy of the act made famous by the elder Dean, but most seem to overdo the dizzy business. They don't seem to be genuine.

Grissom, however, is a natural, or what is known as "a character." Besides that he's a pretty fair country pitcher, one of the most promising rookie hurlers in the National league this year.

Dresden, who is something of a comedian himself, quotes the big fellow gleefully. One of his favorite yarns concerns the reception Lefty gave General Manager Warren Giles at the Tampa training camp.

Lefty was waiting for the boss man. He wanted spending money. Giles protested that he hadn't even time to change his shirt when Lefty hit him for the dough.

"Well," drawled Lefty, "I just wanted to be sure you didn't get away, Mr. Giles."

Giles handed over the money and said: "Now, Lee, don't spend all of this in one place."
"Oh, no," Lefty replied. "You can depend on me, Mr. Giles. I'll scatter it around."

Catawba Dairy Herds Making Good Show

Newton, May 3.—The five high producing cows from dairy herds tested in Catawba county last month produced an average of 1,654 pounds of milk and 51.6 pounds of fat each for the testing period, reports County Agent Earle Brintnall. Five herds containing 129 animals were tested and the average production for all animals was 540 pounds of milk and 28 pounds of fat. The highest herd average was on the ranada Farms with 655 pounds of milk and 35.33 pounds of fat, says Brintnall.

Bertie Farmer Makes Good Money on Hogs

Windsor, May 3.—W. A. Tadlock of Woodard, Bertie County, earned an average of $3 a day for 50 days by feeding out 20 pigs and selling them as hogs instead of feeder pigs, reports County Agent B. E. Grant. The animals were valued at $160 when put on feed and Mr. Tadlock states that he would have accepted that if it had been offered.

Not finding a buyer he fed the pigs for 50 days and then sold them for $448.28. Feed cost for the period was $137 which leaves him a net profit of $151.28 for the 50 days work in feeding the animals, Grant says.

Manager Bo Farley Whipping Local Entry Into Shape

With the opening of the Coastal Plain baseball league only two days off, Manager Bo Farley of the Greenville club continued today whipping his team into shape for the opening encounter with Ayden in that city Thursday afternoon.

The team is working out daily now and Manager Farley expects to be ready soon to announce his line up for the season opener. Players continue to arrive here. Most of this year's players will be new comers to the team, which operates this year as a Class D professional entry.

At a meeting of the directors last night Baxter Ridenhour was chosen as official score keeper. Plans also were discussed at the meeting for allowing boys under 12 years of age in free. Definite details will be announced later.
Season tickets to see the 50 home games will be offered for sale to sports fans at a reduction.

WARNS OTHERS TO PAY - BUT FORGETS TO HERSELF

Arkansas City, Kas. (AP) — Mrs. Marie Snyder, clerk of Cowley County district court, recently finished preparing and mailing 2,500 notices to delinquent taxpayers.

This job done, she had time to open her own mail. Included was a notice from the county treasurer informing her that she was on the

"NOW WE'RE DRIVING A GREAT BIG NASH—AND IT COST JUST A FEW DOLLARS MORE!"

Actual photograph of Nash LaFayette "400" 4-Door Sedan with trunk

There may be a "thought" for you... in this story about Mr. H. J. Kempigen!

"For the last two years I'd been secretly longing for a big car. Not that I've any fault to find with the 'All Three'... they're good cars. But when I heard you could get a 117-inch wheelbase Nash LaFayette '400' for just a few dollars more than the 'All Three' cars... I lost no time. And, believe me, it's really grand to be driving a big luxurious Nash!"

Look at the picture. See what you get. A luxurious, big, 117-inch wheelbase car. It has a 90-horsepower six cylinder engine—remarkably economical to operate. You get larger double-acting hydraulic brakes, stronger all-steel body, extra-wide seats, more headroom and legroom. You get so much extra value in the Nash LaFayette "400"—yet it costs just a few dollars more than any of the "All Three."
See the Nash Ambassador Six and the Nash Ambassador Eight. See the extra value Nash gives for your money.

Polk County Farmers
 Join In Movements

Columbus, May 3.—From a collection of only 20 gallons of milk the first day, the milk route established in Polk County on March 8, has made daily increases, and the truck is now collecting more than 70 gallons of whole milk each day, reports County Agent J. A. Wilson.
 This milk is in addition to the sour cream collected on Friday of each week. Wilson also reports the cooperative shipment of 2,543 pounds of poultry last week. This was the last shipment of the season and brings the total sales to 16,151 pounds for a net income of $2,413.-
 69, he says.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, May 4—(AP)—Without excitement or other feverish symptoms, stock market leaders trudged into higher territory today for gains of fractions to three or more points.

Trading volume was only slightly larger than yesterday's aggregate.
 Although profit selling was in evidence occasionally and most top marks were trimmed down near the fourth hour, bonds and commodities were quiet.

Transfers were a round 850,000 shares.

N. Y. STOCK LIST

New York, May 4—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, two lower to five higher on trade and foreign buying and more favorable reports on the foreign monetary situation.
 July sold up from 13.02 to 13.06 and shortly after the first hour was selling at 13.05 when prices generally showed net advances of four to seven points.

July sold up to 13.13 and later was 13.11 with prices at midday generally 10 to 15 points net higher.

Futures closed steady, five to 11 higher. Spot steady, middling 13.55.

MARTINI RUNS THE ELEVATOR

For the time being, fame and fortune were of little value to Nino Martini, the celebrated opera singer, when the hired help went on strike in San Francisco hotels, leaving him and all the other guests to shove for themselves. Martini is shown trying his hand as elevator operator for the benefit of two pretty passengers.

clinics covering the balance of the county will begin June 14th and will be announced later.

The Health Officer states that all persons over three years of age need typhoid vaccination at least every three years and that all children should be vaccinated against diphtheria as early as six months of age.

Typhoid vaccination of course, is free. Diphtheria vaccination will cost ten cents to those able to pay and free to all others.

In urging diphtheria vaccination, the Health Officer calls attention to the fact that there were 4 infant deaths in Pitt County last year due to diphtheria. The Health Officer also calls attention to the fact that there were 23 cases of typhoid fever in Pitt County last year, with four deaths.

In view of the fact that both diphtheria and typhoid fever are preventable, the Health Officer said he feels ashamed of this record.

TEACH ENGLISH TO ISLANDERS

Spanish Speaking Puerto Ricans Now On Spot

Washington, May 4.—Being a Puerto Rican is not a grand experience at best but now President Roosevelt has taken a step promising to make life on the island even less sweet.

He has virtually ordered that English, not Spanish, shall be the official language of the island, and that is a very great step indeed.

Best information available here indicates the President was led to take the step while innocent of what it involved.

Puerto Rico is that sugar-coated island farther out to sea than Cuba which the United States acquired through the Spanish American war.

Puerto Ricans spoke Spanish when they became Americans 38 years ago—and most of them still do, both as the official and fire-side tongue. But from time to time since the conquest, various American investigations have been conducted to decide the best way to teach them English.

Doubtless the quickest way would be to install English as the official language in the schools and require that arithmetic, geography, bacteriology and the like be taught in English. But the educational expeditions found that to teach the natives English in this way would make them very slow at learning arithmetic, geography, bacteriology and the like, which they now study in Spanish. So they suggested that English be made just one of the school subjects for Puerto Ricans to learn.

That course was followed by Jose Padin, for some years commissioner of education in the island. But in one of those recurrent political disturbances in the island, Padin became less popular, here and there and a move was started to oust him.

Out went Padin, and after a lapse of some time President Roosevelt appointed Jose M. Gallardo to succeed him. It was to Gallardo that the President sent the letter urging that English be taught as the official language to the end that the islanders should have "complete facility" in it.

Dr. Ernest H. Gruening, director of the bureau of territories and island possessions, was credited with framing the Presidential letter. Reputedly he has become less patient and is determined to apply the drastic hand.
