Metropolis Threatened With Strike That May Tie Up City's Transportation

London, May 10.—(AP)—The young Duke of Norfolk, Earl Marshal of England, was crowned with a pasteboard imitation today as an understudy to his monarch in a final make-believe ceremony in Westminster Abbey that brought to a close the month of careful preparations for the coronation wedding of King George VI.

Vast crowds milled about in cold rain and gloomy fog while in the vaulted interior of the stately abbey the characters, who will play all but the two most important parts in the ceremony moved about and spoke their lines as in a play.

The drizzle that brought the end to days of unseasonal sunshine failed to daunt the jostling, good natured throngs jamming London to capacity for the final act in the great drama of empire.

The poor unable to pay the prices for Wednesday's show sought vicarious thrills in the last minute checkup that gave them a preview of the trapping of royalty and the court although the central figures were absent.

They huddled under newspapers and sodden blankets and stamped the blood back into their feet.

Special trains from the provinces hourly brought more and more persons to swell the already overcrowded metropolis, threatened with the spread of a transportation strike this night by the stoppage of all transportation facilities during the show.

Members of the central committee for the 25,000 striking bus drivers and conductors predicted the walkout might spread through the allied organizations as the strike appeared little nearer a settlement.

Baptist Minister Delivers Message At Union Service

Rev. Clarence Patrick Reviews Reasons for Collapse of Russian Church in Sermon Last Night

The Rev. Clarence Patrick, minister of Immanuel Baptist church, was the preacher at last night's union service, speaking upon the subject of "Dark Shadows and Bright Lights." With Mrs. Paul Davenport at the organ, the choir rendered "Bless the Lord, Oh my Soul" as the offertory. The Rev. R. C. Grady of the Presbyterian church presided.

Reviewing the reasons for the collapse of the Russian Church with the onset of the Revolution, the speaker held that there were at least three things the church in this nation, and its members needed if we too, were not to become "dark shadows."

"First, religion for us must have a greater depth. It is easy for us to talk about the will of God, but much harder and an entirely different thing to know the will of God! Jesus held that to know and to do God's will is righteousness. For example, to do God's will is to never to take life—thought it may be to give life.

"Again, our religious must be clothed in twentieth century thoughts and life. War, poverty, race relations—the Russian church had no pronouncements to make regarding or program with which to meet, these things. It was losing ground while Russia itself was living a new birth. What about us? Do we not too often reduce our Christianity to small terms?"

"Lastly, our lives and works must bear testimony of our religion. Religion must permeate every nook and corner of our lives if it is to have meaning for us and other people. A man can't be just part Christian. Jesus is saying in the Beatitudes, 'blessed are those who are at the forefront of the struggle for social righteousness.'"

NANKING SEEKS ROOM BY CHEAPER CREMATION

Nanking, China, May 10.—(AP)—To make more room for the living in an overcrowded land, authorities of the Chinese capital are offering special inducements to families willing to allow their deceased to be cremated. The newly completed metropolitan crematorium has announced a fee of U. S. $12 per adult corpse, with reduced rates for children and for two bodies to be cremated at the same time.

CALL MEETING HIGHWAY BODY

Commission to Meet Tomorrow to Determine Districts

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, May 10.—The ten newly appointed members of the State Highway and Public Works Commission will meet here tomorrow morning with new Chairman Frank L. Dunlap to go into an all day huddle in an effort to divide the state into ten districts.

For while Governor Clyde R. Hoey appointed ten district commissioners, none of these ten knows yet just what counties are in his district. Incidentally, the house and senate roads committees tried for three months to work out districts that would be satisfactory, but finally gave up and passed the buck to the new commissioners. For the law as finally passed stipulates that the ten commissioners, after their appointment, shall divide the state into ten highway districts. "We are going to stay in session until we get the districts finally determined, even if the meeting runs late in the night," Chairman Dunlap said today. "For until we get these districts set the various commissioners cannot make a move or do anything—in fact, the hands of the entire commission are tied until we get the state districted. The determination of all future policy and methods of procedure center around the districting question. So it is going to be decided first."

The job of dividing the state up into ten administrative districts is not expected to prove so difficult, however, since both Governor Hoey and Chairman Dunlap have been studying several different sets of maps for some days now, all of which shows the state divided up into ten districts, but with some variations. It is now generally agreed that the matter has boiled

Greensboro Leads State In Reducing Work Hours

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, May 10.—One of the biggest steps ever taken in North Carolina towards shorter working hours for employees in mercantile establishments has been taken by the Greensboro Merchants Association, which they put into effect a 46 1-2 hour week for all employees, men as well as women. Commissioner of Labor A. L. Fletcher, pointed out today, although the new state law, which goes into effect July 1, calls for a 48 hour week for women, places no limit on the working hours for men.

"The action taken by the Greensboro merchants association in voluntarily shortening the work week for all employees to 46 1-2 hours and for men as well as women, is the most encouraging thing that has happened yet and is of great significance for the state as a whole," Commissioner Fletcher said today. "I believe it means that we are going to be able to do by mutual agreement what we have failed to do by legislation and that eventually many other groups of merchants are going to follow the lead

Few Names Added to Short List of Selected Guests

Monts. France, May 10.—(AP)—The Duke of Windsor began the British empire's coronation week today busy with final plans for the wedding he chose instead of the British crown.

Windsor and Mrs. Wallis Simpson, for whose love he gave up the throne to his brother, George VI, added a few names to the short list of selected guests who will attend the wedding ceremonies.

The list was understood to be one of the last details of the simple wedding plans being worked out by the former King Edward, VII, and his fiancée. Plans for the ceremony will be announced soon after the Wednesday coronation, which was originally planned for Edward.

The opening of the week found Windsor settling down to the daily routine of a country gentleman occupying his time mostly with golf within a strengthened ring of guards placed on the alert by a series of threatening prank letters. How the Duke will spend Coronation day has not been disclosed, but frequent sessions at the radio strengthened the belief he will be among the listeners to the Coronation broadcast.

SHANGHAI CHINA HAS TWENTY BIRTHS AN HOUR

Shanghai, May 10.—(AP)—Birth control advocates shudder at Shanghai, where every three minutes a baby is born. A conservative estimate puts the annual total of births between 150,000 and 200,000.

The number only can be estimated because most births are never registered and the statistics must be made up on the basis of figures given by a few leading hospitals and the number of babies, usually about 30,000, picked up alive and dead on the streets.

AIR DISASTER DESCRIBED BY NAVAL EXPERT

Commander Charles Rosendahl Witness In Investigation

PROBE HELD ON WRECK GROUNDS

Atmospheric Conditions Declared To Have Been Perfect For Landing of Ship

Lakehurst, N. J., May 10.—(AP)—Commander Charles Rosendahl, the navy's outstanding lighter than air expert, and an eye-witness to the Hindenburg's fiery destruction, today told a Department of Commerce investigation board that "a small burst of flame on the after-part of the ship on the top" was the first sign of the disaster.

"My feeling was at once that it spelled doom for the ship," he declared.

Himself a survivor of one of America's major airship disasters, the destruction of the Shenandoah, Rosendahl was the first witness called as the investigation opened in the hangar. Rain drizzled down on the Hindenburg wreck on the air field a third of a mile away.

"It is of course, obvious, that I have no knowledge of what was the origin of the fire," Rosendahl said.

Commandant of the newest naval air station here Rosendahl proceeded in his description of the actual disaster by telling the three-man investigation board and its staff of technical advisers that the Hindenburg came down to her last landing under atmospheric conditions that were "entirely satisfactory" and with ground crew proceeding in a normal manner. The ship's landing maneuvers were not unusual, he added.

After noticing the first small puff flame from her stern, Rosendahl said, "I saw practically the whole stern of the ship take fire first. Then the fire spread progressively forward."

Purchase Division Loads Up On Coal Before Price Rise

Director Wayne Hopes to Save Big Sum by Stocking Up Before Guffey Act Becomes Effective

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, May 10.—The division of Purchase and Contract has just asked for bids on coal on a 30 days basis, in an effort to buy as much coal as possible for the public schools and the state before an expected increase in coal prices goes into effect. Capus M. Wayne, director of the division, said today.

By calling for short term contracts, instead for an entire year, Director Wayne hopes to get much better prices, since higher coal prices are expected as soon as the Guffey act goes into effect. Under this act, the Federal Government is expected to publish a schedule of coal prices which are then expected to become standard for the entire industry. This schedule is expected to be published soon after June 1. "By calling for bids now on 30 day contracts, we are hoping to get the benefit of the lowest prices obtainable and be protected against any increases that may go into effect within the next 30 days," Wayne said. "Another important factor is that the new contracts will not go into effect until the first order is placed. So if we do not place our first order until May 25, say, we can get the benefit of the same prices until June 25, regardless of any increase in prices that may take place between now and that time."

Only One Accident During Week-End

Highway Patrolmen reported only one wreck in this section over the week-end, and no one was critically injured in it although several persons received bruises and lacerations.

F. E. Davis of Farmville was driving one car and Dennis Johnson, Negro of the same place, was operating the other involved in the accident. Lester Jones, head of the Highway patrol investigated the wreck and said the two cars sideswiped approximately in the center of the road. Neither of the operators was arrested. The wreck occurred last night about a mile this side of Farmville.

Mrs. Jessica Davis and Miss Evelyn Horton, in the Davis car, received cuts and bruises and were brought to the hospital here, but their condition is not considered serious.

Louise Dixon, Negro of this city who was riding in the Johnson vehicle, also received minor injuries. Both cars were badly damaged.

MEMORIAL DAY SERVICES HELD

D. M. Williford Principal Speaker At Ceremonies

Confederate Memorial Day was observed here today with appropriate exercises at the High School and at Cherry Hill cemetery, where local Civil War veterans are buried.

The exercises were under the auspices of the local chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. Although the ceremonies were in honor of the Confederate soldiers, not a one was here to witness the exercises, all of those from this county having died.

The exercises got underway at the High School auditorium, where D. M. Williford, local attorney, made the principal address of the ceremonies. Following the address those present marched to the cemetery and decorated the graves of the old soldiers. The High School glee club and Boy Scouts of the city joined in the march to the cemetery. The High School band led the parade.

This is a day dear to the people of the State and ever held by them in sacred remembrance, declared Mr. Williford, "on this day from every section of North Carolina they gather around the graves of the soldiers of Lee and Jackson and hang upon the urns of their sacred dead the garlands of gratitude and affection."

"The human mind cannot be contented with the present. It is ever journeying through the trodden regions of the past or making adventurous excursions into the mysterious realms of the future. He who lives only in the present is but a brute, and has not attained the human dignity."

Observance of Confederate Memorial Day is not complete—without a reference to that gallant leader and matchless soldier, the Commander-in-Chief of the Confederate Armies, Robert E. Lee, continued the speaker. "He was the friend of everyone and the radiance of his fellowship with memories that breathe pervades our presence day and holds within it all the essence of true comradeship. Everything he said or did was so true, so natural, so candid, and so unstudied that it makes us feel that such a man could not and has not died and that immortality is a present, hopeful reality. He is free to wander where he wills and to flash back in the rising and setting sun; and God will call him clear across the wind swept sky, but he is not dead. No; he is not dead. He is looking back with a smile. He is just across the border—over there in eternity. It is not far away and

Fountain Student Wins Recognition

Favorable comment came today from D. B. Fearing, chairman of the Roanoke Colony Memorial Association of Manteo in regards to the county prize winning "Lost Colony" essay turned in by Carol Yeiverton of the Fountain High school. The essay is one of 62 entered from county and city administration school units throughout North Carolina. All have been forwarded from Manteo, home of the Memorial Association which is sponsoring the contest, to the State judges at Raleigh.

All are competing for a first prize of $50, although each of the county winners, whether they receive any of the six state prizes or not, will receive one of the beautiful Sir Walter Raleigh—Virginia Dare commemorative half dollars issued by the United States Government for the Roanoke Colony Memorial Association.

Aged Pitt Couple Married 65 Years

One of Pitt county's oldest couples, Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Smith of Grimesland, celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary at their home yesterday with eight children and a large number of grandchildren and great grandchildren present.

The occasion also was on the 84th birthday of Mrs. Smith. Mr. Smith will be 87 in August.

The eight living children, all of whom were present, are Will Smith, Mrs. Bettie Arnold, Mrs. Ned Hodges, Mrs. Penny Cox, Henry Smith, Bryant Smith, Jr., Ed Smith and Hyman R. Smith.

In addition there are 53 grandchildren and 91 great grandchildren, most of whom were present. In all there were approximately 150 present for the celebration.

UNION TREATY TAKES EFFECT

Packard Employees Return to Work Under Provisions

Detroit, May 10.—(AP)—The first major automobile plant agreement between labor and management reached without a strike became effective today with ratification of the Packard Motor Car company pact in which the United Automobile Workers of America represent all employees.

The sole bargaining right was won previously by the union in a plant election held under the National Labor Relations act.

Packard employees, voted approximately four to one in favor of representation by this union. Packard workers voted acceptance of the agreement last night after a minority objected to certain provisions.

The Packard management and a U. A. W. A. committee drew up the agreement last Friday.

The United States is the largest producer and exporter of apples in the world. From 1931 to 1935, 31 per cent of the world apple supply came from this country.

State Labor Federation To Oppose Entry Of CIO

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, May 10.—The American Federation of Labor is expected to start a new organization drive in North Carolina in the near future, both to strengthen its ranks in the state and to combat the intensive organization work which the C. I. O. has already started under the direction of Roy R. Lawrence, former A. F. of L. organizer and president of the State Federation of Labor, according to reports being heard here today. But the belief in most circles is that any intensive organization efforts on the part of the A. F. of L. in the state will probably be postponed until after the general "council of war" called by the A. F. of L. leaders to meet in Cincinnati May 17 and 18, at which plans for its counter offensive against the C. I. O. will be formulated.

Observers here feel that the A. F. of L. has a splendid opportunity in North Carolina to build up its craft unions and to form the nucleus of a strong, conservative labor organization in the state if it will proceed carefully and cautiously and admit only the cream of the work-

BUSY DAY FOR POLICE COURT

Large Number Cases Aired at Regular Monday Session

James Jones, Negro, who is serving a six months' sentence at the county home following his conviction in County court here recently of assault with a deadly weapon, left the home Saturday night, came to town and before morning was behind the bars in the city jail.

The Negro walked off the premises of the home without permission. He was convicted in City court this morning of engaging in disorderly conduct and given a 30-day sentence, to start at the expiration of the term he is now serving.

John Weson, Negro, was ordered held for trial in County court after a preliminary hearing on charges of shoplifting from Charles' store here.

Nora White was bound over to County Court under bond of $300 on a charge of operating a disorderly house. In addition she was fined $10 and costs upon conviction of operating a slot music machine without a city license.

Funeral Services Held For Mrs. Cox

Funeral services for Mrs. Jutry Cox, 67, who died at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon at the of her son, Lee Cox of near Hassell, were conducted from the home yesterday afternoon by Rev. C. W. Marshburn, Farmville minister. Interment was in the family plot in the Ayden cemetery.

Mrs. Cox had been in declining health for the past 12 months and had been confined to her bed for the past two weeks.

She was the daughter of the late Jesse Hart of Pitt county. Her husband, Biggs Cox, died about 18 months ago. She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Zylpha McLawhorn, Winterville; Mrs. Zula McLawhorn, Ayden; Mrs. Zada Cannon, Kernersville; Mrs. Zenobia Halsip, Hartsells, and seven sons, Zadock Cox, Speed; Heber Cox, Macleod Cox, George Cox, Winterville; Thad Cox, West Point; Lee Cox, Hassell; Desmond Cox, Oak City; Gaston Cox, Ayden.

NEW COMMAND IN CONTROL OF BILBAO, SPAIN

Basque Government Strips Military Rule of Power

DEFENSE COUNCIL TAKES CONTROL

Plans Also Made To Keep Order in Refugee Swollen Basque Capital

Bilbao, Spain, May 10.—(AP)—The Basque government of Bilbao, besieged by a ring of insurgent armies stripped of its military high command of power today and set up a defense council to take over the conduct of the war.

President Jose Aguirre of the autonomous Basque government, was mine had of the defense council, similar to that set up for Madrid during the siege of the capital began during the early months of the civil war.

The committee includes five high army officers who will be aided by their own technical assistants. As a further step toward coordination of the government military operations in northern Spain, Lieut. Colonel Gabriel Alzpurua was given widespread powers as head of the newly combined police forces of the provinces of Asturias, Santander and Bizcaya.

Garbriel was charged with responsibility for keeping public order in the refugee swollen Basque capital. The defenders mobilized both men and women for the work of digging new trenches outside the city and government battalions rallied north and east of Bilbao to block insurgent raids on the Begona and Galdakao roads.

Fighting of ferocious intensity still raged over the sharp slopes of Mount Sollube to the northeast. An Austrian brigade fighting for the government was reported to be reorganizing lost ground.

The number of refugees evacuated from Bilbao within five days reached 7,400 when the British freighter Marvia put out to sea with 400 refugees.

County Gets Rest From Civil Terms

The regular Tuesday sessions of Pitt County court will be resumed tomorrow after having been in recess last week while a civil term of Superior court was underway here.

The County court will be interrupted again next week, however, as another civil term of Superior court is scheduled to get started here. The term will last two weeks and will complete the county's spring term. Judge E. H. Cramer of Southport is scheduled to preside. Judge F. A. Daniels of Goldsboro presided over the special term last week.

Several cases are awaiting disposition in tomorrow's session of County court. A number were left over from previous sessions and others have been docketed in the meantime.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

SYNOPSIS: A mysterious shot kills attractive Jude Blinshop on a wild, stormy night at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunt. Everyone marooned on this island is suspect: Mike, who talked with Jude alone that night; the Skipper, his tall and tuxedoed younger aunt; Aunt Martha, stout and prudish; Gay Palmer, Mike's red-headed sweetheart; Higgins, the elderly butler; William, the chauffeur; Cook; Annie, the maid—even I who am Mike's closest friend. Then we discover traces of an outsider, perhaps a maniac, who must be loose in the house. Tired, nervous and fearful, we finally eat.

Chapter 21

We Dare Not Sleep!

"HIGGINS," said M. Farrington, "you may tell Cook that we shall all remain downstairs until she has finished cleaning up. Then I think we may as well retire. You may let us know as soon as you are ready."

"Very good, madam," said Higgins and departed.

"Oh, Lord!" said Gay sleepily. "What time is it?"

Michael glanced at his watch. "Twenty minutes of three." Abruptly a startling thought arose. None of us happened to be a murderer, but one of our number had been killed hardly more than 24 hours ago, and we had every reason to believe that a crafty and homicidal maniac lurked somewhere in the house even yet.

"Look here," I said sharply, "we can't fall asleep! It's dangerous!"

They blinked at me. He had had very little sleep the night before and the past 24 hours had been cruelly exhausting. Nothing but action and considerable will power would keep us going for the few hours until daylight.

"Jimmie's right," said the Skipper; but her voice was very thick and her eyes were bleary. I poured more coffee.

"Tell you what," I said. "The back stairs are well blocked off. All the servants are probably in the kitchen. We are sure of this room and the library. He can't get anywhere upstairs except in the halls. Well, half of us can cover the lower hall while the other half goes through the living room, game room and conservatory. Then, if he isn't in any of those, we can all go up the front stairs. The servants can go up the back stairs, and we'll have him."

They were still blinking at me. I could see I was talking to empty space. My own voice alternately receded from me and bounced back in waves. I dashed my hand on the table.

"We can't sleep! Don't you realize that Jude is dead—that we'll all be dead if we sleep?"

Michael staggered to his feet. "You're right, I suppose," he mumbled, "but—can't seem to feel much."

I played my last trump. Dousing my napkin in icewater, I slipped it behind the back of his neck. It worked. His eyes flew open in a flash. With the aid of more icewater and plenty of coffee, our party roused itself, but it was not a pleasant awakening. An atmosphere of tortured nerves shrieking for rest pervaded the room. I don't think I ever felt less like moving. My brain was singing. "Jude-killer—can't sleep!" but it attached little or no significance to the words.

'On To The Kill'

WE left Mike and Gay at the end of the hall, where they commanded a clear view of the main hall and of the small one leading to the library. The library windows and the hall door and windows were all securely locked. Except for the usual paraphernalia the hall closet was empty. The Skipper, M. Farrington and I explored the living room carefully. The windows were still fastened. Nothing but the scent of roses from the adjacent conservatory. "Can't sleep—can't sleep!" went the refrain in my head.

We stepped into the game room. The billiard cues still lay where Jude and Michael had left them. The fire had been dead for hours. Mechanically examining doors and windows, I was seeing Jude—good Heavens! only last night—here in this room. I could feel the pressure of her hand on my arm—I let the bolt on the door back into place with a thud.

"On to the kill," said the Skipper, and winked, following the association of her own haphazard words.

Gay and Michael still waited in the hall, half asleep. I stepped quickly into the servants' dining room through the swinging door.

They were all sitting around the kitchen table and they turned rather guiltily at the sound of my voice. Unwashed dishes were scattered over the room, and both rooms were fully lighted, with the window shades drawn.

What the devil had they been talking about? I could not have been eyed more strangely if I had walked in that door for my own funeral.

"We've searched all the other rooms downstairs again," I said. "Our visitor must have gone up through the front hall. All the doors up there are locked. You people go up the back stairs while we go up the front, and we'll have him. Are you a good shot, Higgins?"

The old man's face twitched. "I don't know, sir, I've never fired the revolver, sir."

"William?"

He hesitated for a second. "Yes." Then you take the revolver. Shoot quickly and shoot low—and for God's sake don't miss! William took the revolver reluctantly. I'll call when we're ready," I said.

All of my party were waiting for me at the foot of the stairs, Gay and Michael awake at last, their eyes bright with excitement. The Skipper was talking to M. Farrington in a low voice.

"All right," I said. "Now we'll end this damned foolishness for good and all. William has the gun, Mike, you and I will go first. The rest of you stay well behind us, and don't leave the stairs until it's over. Everybody all right?"

The assents were a little hoarse.

"Here we go, William!" I belted, and pelted up those steps as fast as I could go. Ridiculous how interminable that short climb seemed! M. Farrington was puffing behind me and Mike was at my side.

He panted, "Should have kept the gun yourself!"

"Can't shoot and neither can you!" I hissed just as the first view of the hall came into sight. At the head of the stairs we drew up with a jerk. Nothing! The hall was empty. Seven closed doors stared us in the face, and the key to each one of them lay in my own pocket. We stood straining our ears for sounds of a struggle in the other corridor. Then the door of the servants' quarters began to swing slowly toward us.

Locked Every Door

I HAVE never seen a door move so slowly. Through it tiptoed William, revolver in hand, and behind him came Higgins. Someone on the stairs gasped and then there was silence. I moved.

"The doors," I said. "Try them."

People were rushing up from the stairs, in from the corridor. Frantically we were tugging on locked doors, expecting them to open. None of them did. I tried them all myself, from one end of the hall to the other and even out into the smaller corridor. Locked, every one of them.

It was William who had one last gleam of hope. "Your keys, sir," he jerked. "Have you got 'em all?"

I drew the keys out and counted them. Ten. I counted the bedrooms. Six and four more in the servants' hall. One by one I unlocked those rooms and searched them. The light still burned beside Jude Blinshop's bed, but aside from the still figure under the sheet there was nothing there. I relocked that door last and went back into the hall.

"It's impossible!" I said. "Someone certainly struck me. It might have been William, but I couldn't have struck William, and—and someone did."

"The cellar," Gay said suddenly. "There must be a cellar."

There was, but it was inconceivable that Jude's murderer was down there—not unless he was a magician—and then some. Nevertheless, I rushed down the narrow stairs again. At the foot of them, a sudden idea pulled me up short. The cellar door at the Bluff is outside the house in the little entryway off the kitchen where I picked up Michael's handkerchief. I myself had locked the door leading from that entry into the kitchen. In one bound I was at that door. It was locked and the key was where I had left it—on the inside of the door. Turning the key, I threw the door open on an empty entryway. The cellar door was bolted. I whirled back into the kitchen, relocking the door.

"Skipper," I said, "think carefully. Is there any other entrance from the cellar into the house?"

Her answer was prompt. "No. The only other entrance to the cellar is the outer one at the side of the house."

Michael spoke from behind Gay. "Then our man is still loose somewhere in the house."

I nodded. No one else had anything to offer. Over and over in the back of my head I was mulling the chances of William's having thrown himself down the stairs as a blind to start us hunting for a nonexistent murderer. Possible, of course. Possible? From the direction of the main hall, we could hear muffled sounds of the servants on the front stairs.

In the living room I sank uncomfortably into a deep chair and studied a section of the rug pattern.

"The only trouble, Jim," said the Skipper quietly, "is that our friend is not in the cellar. The cat was all right when Martha and I came downstairs. He couldn't have been touched much before Cook screamed. And no one had time to mutilate that cat and make his exit down the back stairs before we got to the kitchen. No one went out the front door—unless he bolted it after him on the inside!"

"But Skipper—" I began, when a warning look from her stopped me.

Garden Notes

With the coming of May the bars are let down so to speak, as far as the gardener is concerned. We can now make plantings of all the vegetables we wish to grow including tender ones which will not stand much cool weather, such as lima beans, okra, corn, etc. The second planting of snap beans, beets, carrots and Crowder or blackeye peas should go in the first of the month and other the latter part.

The heavy rains which have fallen in most sections have probably taken away some of the fertilizer we put out before our earlier plantings were made and a light application carefully worked in along the rows will help bring the crops along. A little readily available nitrogen will help the cabbage particularly just before they begin heading. Do not put bean or pea seed in contact with fertilizer. Put out fertilizer for these crops at least a week or ten days prior to planting and thoroughly mix it with the soil. It should be placed at least two or three inches below the seed. The roots of peas and beans are very tender and are subject to severe burning which will destroy the plant if they come in direct contact with the fertilizer.

Along with its advantages the warm weather also brings its disadvantages. Insects begin their work in earnest. Those pretty little white butterflies you have seen flying around your cabbage plants are not on a mission of good-will. They are the mamma and papa of the little green worm that plays havoc with your cabbage. The male is almost white, the female has black spots on her wings which are symbolic of her soul. She lays the eggs on the outer leaves of the cabbage and in three to ten days the worms are busy. You should get busy when you first see the butterfly. In the early morning when the plants are moist, dust with 75 percent Rotene. This will also control the little green plant lice which suck the leaves causing them to curl.

Spray your tomatoes, cucumbers and melons with Bordeaux. This can be bought ready prepared. Get that which contains some form of arsenic as it will also control the chewing insects as well as some of the leaf spots.

For the bean beetle dust with a prepared dust containing 75 percent Rotene. Be sure to get this on the underside of the leaves.

Flower Shows

Fifty attended the flower show of the Red Oak Home Demonstration Club Wednesday afternoon. The church looked lovely with the flowers. There were arrangements for the dinner table, breakfast table, console table, end table, mantel, church adoration, and invalid's tray. Single specimens included iris, roses, lilies and peonies. Lots of wild flowers were used in some of the special arrangements. The show was judged by Mrs. Travis Hooker of Greenville.

Twenty-seven attended the exhibit of the Farmville No. 2 club at the home of Mrs. Richard Tugwell. Mrs. Wiley Brown and Mrs. Billy McGowan were judges. There were 53 entries. The following women won ribbons: Dinner arrangements,

Don't Sleep When Gas Presses Heart

If you want to really GET RID OF GAS and terrible bloating, don't expect to do it by just drenching your stomach with harsh, irritating alkalies and "gas tablets." Most GAS is lodged in the stomach and upper intestine and is due to old poisonous matter in the constipated bowels that are loaded with ill-causing bacteria.

If your constipation is of long standing, enormous quantities of dangerous bacteria accumulate. Then your digestion is upset. GAS often presses heart and lungs, making life miserable. You can't eat or sleep. Your head aches. Your back aches. Your complexion is sallow and pimply. Your breath is foul. You are a sick, grouchy, wretched, unhappy person. YOUR SYSTEM IS POISONED.

Thousands of sufferers have found in Adierka the quick, scientific way to rid their systems of harmful bacteria. Adierka rids you of gas and cleans foul poisons out of BOTH upper and lower bowels. Give your bowels REAL cleansing with Adierka. Get rid of GAS. Adierka does not gripe—it is not habit forming.

Raleigh Meet Of Young Democrats Set For May 22nd

Executive Committee of Organization, as Well as Other Members,
Invited to Attend

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, May 9.—The meeting of the executive committee of the Young Democratic clubs of the state will be held here May 22
instead of May 12 as at first slated.
It was announced here today by Miss Mae Oliver, vice president.

Miss Oliver accordingly asked that county clubs of Young Democrats who have been planning to send representatives here for the meeting make their plans for May 22 instead of the earlier date.

This meeting will not be limited to members of the executive committee only, and Young Democrats from every portion of the state are invited to be present for the general dinner and get-together meeting the evening of May 22. Governor Clyde R. Hoey has already agreed to be present and to make a brief
"pep talk" to the Young Democrats.
It is expected that a number of other high state officials will also be present. The dinner and business meeting will be followed by a dance for any who care to social-ize.

Since plans will be made for the annual state convention and the meeting place decided upon at this meeting, good sized delegations are expected from the various places seeking the convention. It is also expected that a good deal of "politicking" will be done before, at and after this meeting by the backers of the various candidates for state offices in the annual convention and that the various states will be pretty well formulated by the time the meeting adjourns.

At the present time, Miss Oliver is regarded as being in line for the presidency without any opposition.
There is talk in some quarters, however, that a man may be brought out to oppose her for the presidency in an effort to upset the precedent which has prevailed ever since the Young Democrats were organized, whereby the vice president is automatically advanced to the presidency every year, with the president being a woman every other year. Contests are expected to develop over some of the other offices also.

Boom in Births Finds Country Unprepared

Moscow (AP)—Overwhelmed by the phenomenal increase in the Moscow birth rate since passing in June, 1936, of the law banning abortions, government authorities are hastening to provide better care for expectant mothers. Clubs, restaurants and factory kitchens have been taken over for conversion into living-in-homes.

The Moscow birth rate has more than doubled since a year ago. Authorities expect 150,000 new babies this year as compared with 70,000 in 1935.

Mavor Weeds Out At Kyle, Tex., City Hall

Kyle, Texas (AP)—Mrs. Mary Kyle Hartson, recently elected mavor of this town of 1,000, believes in working at her job.
Elected by 49 write-in votes, elderly Mrs. Hartson shouldered a hoe, set out for the city hall and got busy.
"It is a downright shame," she s-sapped, "the way weeds have been allowed to grow up in this pretty little square."
She kept busy at her civic hoeing for several days, even before she was officially in office.
Mrs. Hartson is a member of a family that founded the town. She says there are three things she has never done—herded sheep, made soap or preached. She was postmaster through Democratic and Republican administrations from 1902 to 1923.

Conference To Lay Plans On Advertising Campaign

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, May 9.—A state-wide conference composed of representatives of the newspapers, hotel men, chambers of commerce, motor clubs and other organizations interested in the better advertising of North Carolina and its attractions, has been called to meet here Wednesday with the State Board of Conservation and Development to discuss the new state advertising campaign and to formulate the general lines along which it will be conducted. Director R. Bruce Etheridge of the Department of Conservation said here today.

"While we have been making our plans for the new advertising campaign for many weeks now, we do not want to go ahead with these plans until we have gotten the benefit of the experience of chambers of commerce, the Carolina Motor Club and other organizations which have been carrying on limited advertising campaigns of their own for many years," Mr. Etheridge said. "So we have called this conference at which spokesmen for the various groups will be asked to give us their ideas as to how our adver-

Huey Long's Strategy Carried On--By Children

Huey Long's masterful political strategy didn't die with him. His 18-year-old son Russell, it seems, inherited some of his father's talents for getting people to vote as he wished—and so his "ticket" won a sweeping campus election at Louisiana State University. Leading a party of "independents," he put all of his candidates into office, including his sister, Rose, who was elected vice president of the co-ed student body. The "politicians" are shown getting election returns. Left to right: O. K. Allen, jr., one of young Long's campaign lieutenants—just as his father, the late Gov. O. K. Allen, sr., was Huey's ally for years; Joe Sanders, Rose Long, Katherine Cross, whom Rose defeated; Tommy Raggio and Russell Long.

Wally Chooses Simple Wardrobe For Wedding

Here are three of the dresses Wallis Warfield Simpson has chosen for her bridal wardrobe—all of which display the simple taste of the American beauty who will marry the Duke of Windsor soon. They were designed by Schiaparelli of Paris. The model shown at the left is made of wool challis striped with curlicue zigzag lines in red wine and is worn with a red leather belt. For warm days in Austria during her honeymoon, she selected a ripple-skirted white organdie frock (center). Against the snow-white skirt, two fiery red lobsters appear, flanked by printed flowers. For her evening ensemble (right), Mrs. Simpson selected an evening coat fashioned of navy crin or horsehair net and the dress of navy blue printed with colored butterflies.

we have can be spent most effectively. We believe this conference will be of great benefit to us in making the final plans for our pro-

The conference was called by Director Etheridge following a conference with Governor Clyde R.
Hoey, who approved it enthusiastically.
It was largely due to the strong support given to it by Governor Hoey, that the 1937 general assembly enacted the bill appropriating $125,000 a year to be spent in advertising North Carolina as a tourist, industrial and residential state, in an effort to attract more visitors, more permanent residents and more industries.

Following this conference Wednesday, the representatives of the various advertising agencies will probably be asked to appear before the board on Thursday to present the merits of their respective agencies. The board is then expected to select the particular advertising agency or agencies through which it will place its advertising.

ist.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest.
It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks pink.

Laxatives are only make-shifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. See

Kinston	2	2	.500
Tarboro	1	3	.250
Greenville	1	3	.250
Snow Hill	0	4	.000

Greenville suffered a second loss in the hands of the Kinston Eagles at the Third Street stadium here Sunday afternoon by a 14-4 score. Saturday the Eagles licked the local aggregation 18-0.

The visitors came minus a manager in yesterday's affair as a result of an argument between Manager Bess and umpire Forbes in the latter part of the third frame. Trouble started when Dirman who had swatted a two-sacker earlier in the game attempted to come home, and in doing so was declared out by Forbes. Manager Bess disagreed with the decision rendered by the umpire and started to argue. This action resulted in his being ordered from the park.

Kinston scored first in inning one when Dirman walked. Borgetti got on base on error by Bonaguro, and Gillenwater got base hit to load bases, Sessie, next man up was also walked, bringing in Dirman.

Greenville's only runs came about in the latter part of the second frame. Latham walked and was brought in by a triple hit to left field by Cecil Brake. The next run came about when Bonaguro singled to right field and Brake came in on a single by Bonaguro. Klasa stole second and later came in on single by Rhabe. Wade who had pitched the route to this point was taken from the mound and replaced by Freidberger.

The visitors scored again in the first of the fourth when Lefevre walked. Wright got to first base on a fielders choice and Lefevre went to second on error by Brown, tetter for the locals. Wilson then singled to bring in Lefevre. Kinston likewise earned a run in the fifth when Borgetti hit to right field, and Sessi singled to right field to bring in Borgetti. In the latter part of the fifth, Freidberger was yanked from the mound and replaced by Mulkenvein.

In the sixth, Wright singled, and Wilson singled and reached first on a nerror by Bonaguro. Wade of the visitors got an infield out and Wright came into home on error by Muto—Scott later singled and scored Wilson. More scoring was done in the eighth. Wilson secured a hit and Mulkenvein knocked snafu-er to third and got to first on error by Farley. Scott then singled and brought Wilson home. The next run in the eighth occurred when Borgetti reached first on fielders choice and stole second. Scott came home on single by Bonaguro singled to left field.

Egan though Brown did well during the entire game, his teammates virtually let-up in the ninth frame and the Eagles racked up six runs. After the visitors did this scoring, Fred Caliguir went on the mound for the locals and pitched bitless ball during the remainder of the spree.

Scoring was done when Lefevre walked, Wilson and Wright singled to load the bases. Mulkenvein hit a double to score both Lefevre and Wright. Dirman, next man up, doubled and brought in Wilson. Borgetti then came back with a two-sacker to score Scott and Dirman. Sessi then hit a double and brought in Gillenwater who had reached first on a fielders choice earlier in the inning.

Rhabe and Klasa with two hits apiece, and Bonaguro with three lead at bat for the locals. Borgetti, Sessi and Wilson with three apiece lead with the willow for the visitors. The box:

ANDY JOHNSON RETURNS HERE

Brilliant First Sacker To Join Greenies Tomorrow

When Greenville meets the Williamston Martins, who at the present time are leaders in the Coastal Plain league standing column, tomorrow afternoon at the Third Street Stadium, there will be in the Greenville line-up, according to a wire received by club officials, Andy Johnson, who held down the first sack for the Greenies two years ago.

"Andy" as he is known to the baseball fans, is one of the finest performers on the first sack to be seen in this section in many a day, and when an all Coastal Plain League team was chosen at the end of the 1935 season, he rated the ace first baseman of the league without a dissenting vote.

In looking back over the records of this brilliant player these facts and figures will be found. Andy participated in a total of 67 games during the 1935 season, went to the bat 240 times and got a total of 75 hits for an average of 308 per cent for the entire season. He scored a total of 42 runs in the 67 games in which he participated. Of the 75 hits collected by him, 15 were for extra base knocks. His hits drove in a total of 25 runs for the season. In regarding to his fielding ability he was rated first in this respect. He was accredited with 571 put outs, 38 assists, a total of 609 chances and there were only three errors charged against him for the season, which gave him a fielding average of 995 per cent.

His coming back to the Greenville club is being looked upon enthusiastically by followers of the game.

Andy is a former athlete of Oglethorpe University in Georgia, and prior to his coming here was playing with the Macon ball club in the Georgia state.

Former UNC Hurler Loses Initial Battle

Snow Hill — Iroy Wright, former University of North Carolina hurler, made his debut with the Snow Hill Billies Sunday and came off on the losing end although he pitched well and started at bat by hitting a homer and two doubles to drive in three runs.

Williamston's Martins, continuing undefeated, mixed 11 safeties with five Snow Hill errors to take an 8-4 decision over the Billies in a game played before 800 fans. Miscues figured in five of the visitors' scores.

Ayden Victorious In Weird Sunday Battle

New Bern — A weird ball game, thrilling just about all the way, was climaxed by great ninth-innings doings Sunday. Ayden's Aces emerged the victors over New Bern's Bears by a 10-9 score.

The Aces really won in the ninth, a stanza in which each team scored twice. Ayden had a hard time clinging to its advantage, however, and Manager Nick Harrison juggled four excited chunkers before checking the ninth-inning rally by the locals.

Tarboro Team Enters Games Won Column

Tarboro — Tarboro won a ball game! The local Coastal Plain League entry cashed in with its first victory of the season by defeating Goldsboro, 3-2 Sunday. The Tarboro pilot hit a double in the fifth to lead to Tarboro's first score—he came the rest of the way on a pair of infield outs. In the seventh, Henry homered over the right-field fence to knot the score at 2-2.

Tarboro won in the eighth. Hooks Williamson slashed a base hit down the third-base line, and he advanced to second when Jarvis throw to first was wild. A squeeze play, with Pitcher Mooney laying down the bunt, eased Williamson over the plate with the winning run. The defeat was the first for the Bugs in four league engagements. About 800 fans saw the game.

Two other new players, both seniors of High Point College, have arrived in the city to join the club. They are Koonz, infielder, and Rudisill, outfielder. The former's home also is in High Point, while Rudisill hails from Lincolnton. The two players have engaged in games here a number of times and local fans have seen the brand of ball they are capable of playing.

NOW IS THE TIME TO STOP RUST and START PROFITS

SEE YOUR FERTILIZER MAN TODAY!

YOUR FERTILIZER MAN will tell you that cotton needs potash as well as nitrogen as a top-dresser. That's why he urges you to use a nitrogen-potash mixture. He can supply you nitrogen and NV POTASH in a quick-acting, well-balanced mixture. If you have already purchased straight nitrogen for top-dressing, he will suggest that you take some NV MURIATE or NV KAINIT to use with this when you chop out.

He knows that every year thousands of farmers top-dress with NV POTASH because it produces many extra pounds of valuable seed cotton. He knows that extensive tests by leading experiment stations prove that extra potash produces a healthy, high-yielding, high-quality crop.

For instance, the North Carolina Experiment Station top-dressed cotton, which had shown heavy Rust damage in the past, with 50 to 100 pounds of MURIATE or 125 to 250 pounds of KAINIT per acre. "Plats receiving the additional amount of potash produced larger yields, heavier seed, heavier bolls, more lint per seed, better grade, longer staple, stronger fibers and a higher percentage of normal fibers."

When your fertilizer man advises you to STOP RUST and START PROFITS, he wants to help you make more money. Follow his advice. Top-dress with NV POTASH this year. It Pays!

INDIAN MAIDS FLUTTER WITH PLANS FOR DEBUT

SUB-DEBS These Apache maidens show what the well-dressed 13-year-olds will wear at their "coming out" party on the Mescalero reservation in New Mexico.

By JOHN E. BAKER
MESCALERO, N. M. (AP)—Copper-skinned sub-debs of the Mescalero Apache reservation are preparing excitedly for their debut next July at the nation's most unusual "coming out" party.

The Indian maidens at 13 or 14 years of age abandon childish play, take husbands and become part of the reservation's adult society. The coming out party will be a masterpiece of social exertion, possibly outshining the elaborate social functions of their white sisters.

There will be four night of dancing, a dozen feasts and plenty of opportunity for snacks in between. No champagne will bubble, but there will be a big supply of sweet soda-pop.

Visiting Indians will come from all sections of New Mexico, Oklahoma and Arizona. The white man will be welcome, too, except at the sacred, private rites of the initiation.

Lectures Continuing By Evangelist Here

The lectures are being continued in the Star warehouse by Evangelist H. F. Taylor. During the past week Mr. Taylor stressed the great mystery connected with the birth, death, and resurrection of Christ, showing that the prophets of old revealed all the little details connected with the life and death of the Saviour. Hundreds of years before the events took place they were revealed by writers of the old testament.

The speaker stated that the very year of Christ's baptism and crucifixion was revealed by the prophet. "No details were missing in the fulfillment of all the prophecies. Every prophecy God has given in His word has been fulfilled up to date without a single error, and the events of the future are shaping up before our eyes. The greatest unfulfilled prophecy is the coming of Jesus in the clouds of heaven."

Sunday night the lecture was on the "Four Great Beasts Coming Up Out of the Sea," spoken of in the book of Daniel. The subject will be continued tonight.

This week the speaker stated he would endeavor to show some of the truths of the Bible that Satan has tried to overthrow.

Tuesday night the subject will be "The Secret of Solomon's Success," and our greatest obligation to God.

Wednesday the subject will be "The Devil's Attempt to Defeat the Voice of Prophecy."

Thursday, "A Great Truth on Which the Whole World has gone Wrong."

Friday, "Searching For a Missing Text."

The services are held at 8 p. m. each night except Saturday. The public is invited.

NEW OFFICERS GIVING EXAMS

Nine Inspectors Now Assisting in Driving Permit Tests

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, May 10.—Nine uniformed drivers' license inspectors are assisting the state highway patrol in examining applicants for drivers' licenses and in issuing applications, so that patrolmen may spend more time on the roads in actual patrol duty. It was announced here today by Director Arthur Fulk of the highway safety division of the Department of Revenue. These inspectors wear uniforms similar to those worn by highway patrolmen, including Sam Brown belts. They do not wear the military breeches and boots, however.

These inspectors have their headquarters in the eight highway patrol division offices, spend part of their time in these offices and part of it visiting different cities and towns in the divisions giving examinations to applicants or drivers' licenses. Two inspectors have been assigned to the Charlotte office and one each to the offices in Rocky Mount, Raleigh, Durham, Asheville, Winston-Salem, Greensboro and Winston. They are employees of the highway safety division rather than of the patrol, but cooperate with the patrol in the examining of applicants for drivers' licenses.

"So much of the time of patrolmen was being taken up in the examination of applicants for drivers' licenses that it was thought advisable to put on some men who would devote their entire time to examining applicants and thus release the patrolmen for more patrol work," Fulk said. The plan has worked out very well, with the exception that we really need more of these inspectors and examiners. Their only duties are to examine applicants for licenses and send in their reports with the applications submitted. They have full authority to recommend that licenses be refused, in which case we decline to issue licenses. So far this year we have refused to issue licenses to 2,335 applicants and are turning more down every week for defective eyesight, poor hearing and even for defective intelligence.

"We are also issuing limited drivers' licenses to some persons, on condition they only drive in the day time, or only when wearing glasses. We are confident this procedure will reduce accidents."

SHANGHAI DEPRESSION: MORE BODIES IN STREET

Shanghai, China, May 10.—(AP)—Ghastly proof of Shanghai's depression, the number of dead human bodies collected in the streets and alleyways of the city increased by almost 10,000 during the last year. Of the total of 40,000 corpses found, death in almost every case was traced to hunger or exposure.

Not more than 100 chicks should use one pan of water and one feeder, says R. B. Thompson, poultry specialist at Oklahoma A. and M. College.

Marshmallow Icing Marshmallows make a simple frosting for sheet cakes. Place the marshmallows on top of the cake and broil or bake it for about five minutes—or until the marshmallows have become browned and puffed.

Many Applications Made For Licenses to Sell Wine

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, May 8.—Applications are continuing to pour into the beer and wine license division of the Department of Revenue for "off premises" licenses to sell wine, although very few applications have been received for "on premises" licenses, according to W. A. Baker, Jr., chief of this division.

The cost of the "off premises" licenses is only $5 a year if wine is sold only in unbroken packages. But those places which can qualify for "on premises" licenses must pay annual license fees of $90 a year, of which $50 goes to the state, $25 to the county and $15 to the city in which the cafe, restaurant or hotel is located.

"We have had only very few applications for the "on premises" licenses, due to the high cost and also to the difficulty in qualifying for these licenses," Baker said. "For in order to get one of these 'on premises' wine licenses, for the sale of wine by the drink, it is necessary for the place to have a Grade A rating from the State Board of Health. This means that all of the smaller lunch stands, barbecue stands and soda fountains which have been selling wine by the drink will have to stop doing this and sell it in unbroken packages only."

Inspectors for the wine and beer licenses division have been busy ever since May 1, when the new law went into effect, checking up on dealers to see that they have their new licenses, also to see that the bottled wines have the required state revenue stamps affixed on the bottles, Baker said. The state tax, in addition to the license fee, is 10
