ROOSEVELT IN OFFICE AFTER VACATION TRIP

To Give New Life To Drive for Major Objectives

WARREN OFFERS PARK MEASURE

Would Establish 'Cape Hatteras National Seashore' Along N. C. Coast

Washington, May 14.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, refreshed by a fishing cruise in the southwest, returned to Washington today to give new life to the drive for his major economic objectives.

The Chief Executive, whose return trip from Texas, proved a sentiment-sounding tour of the mid-section of the country, was met at the station by Mrs. Roosevelt, Vice President Garner and virtually the entire cabinet.

Meanwhile a bill by Representative Lindsay Warren of Washington, N. C., to establish a national seashore park between Kitty Hawk and Ocracoke on the North Carolina coast was before the House of Representatives.

Warren, who introduced the measure yesterday, said the park would be the first of its kind and would be called the "Cape Hatteras National Seashore."

The bill carries no appropriation nor will the government purchase any land in the area, Warren said, adding it must be donated.

When a minimum of 10,000 acres have been acquired, the proposal provides the Interior Secretary may assume administration of the area. A 10-year period is fixed for land acquisition.

State Conference On Safety Called For May 20 And 21

Industry Being Forced To Take More Interest In Highway and Other Safety Problems

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, May 14.—Whether or not industrial management shall take a greater interest in public and highway safety and other public safety problems, will be discussed at the Eighth Annual Statewide Safety Conference at Winston-Salem, May 20-21, sponsored by the North Carolina Industrial Commission. The public is invited to attend.

"To maintain uninterrupted industrial efficiency industrial management must take the initiative in highway safety," says Commissioner T. A. Wilson, Chairman of the N. C. Industrial Commission. "North Carolina industrial plants have become far safer than travel on the highways. Last year 88 workers were killed on the job and of this number 29 were killed in highway accidents while working. Whereas 1,026 citizens were killed by highway accidents."

"Industry has shown that through leadership and training, accidents can be prevented. Safety minded industrial leaders should accept the challenge of progressive municipal and statewide safety campaigns to the end that our children and women will not be killed or maimed for life."

"Southern chivalry has always demanded the protection of our womanhood. Southern chivalry should demand protection of our children and womanhood by insisting upon highway safety."

"North Carolina is proud of its industrial growth, good roads and fine schools. But North Carolina cannot be proud of its highway-maimed and crippled children and women. North Carolina highways should be made safe, if for no other reason than to preserve the beauty of North Carolina womanhood."

Driscoll was one of the greatest dropkickers of them all in his playing days with Northwestern, Great Lakes and the Chicago Bears.

REFUSE ALLOW CASE BE TRIED

Order Prevents Hearing Against Aluminum Company

Pittsburgh, May 14.—(AP)—Federal Judge R. M. Gibson handed down a temporary injunction today preventing the prosecution of its anti-trust suit against the Aluminum Company of America. He continued a temporary restraining order issued last April 29.

A final hearing on the injunction will be held later here.

The court dismissed the government's motion to drop the restraining order.

The company was granted the temporary injunction against Attorney General Homer Cummings and assistants.

It had contended the government suit brought last month in the Southern district of New York, was identical with a previous suit brought in Pittsburgh in 1912 and settled by a consent decree.

Assistant Attorney General R. H. Jackson argued at a hearing May 7 the government could not be restrained without its consent.

He denied the company's charge the two suits were identical and said the government sought in the second suit "the dissolution" of the Aluminum Company of America which he called the "most perfect monopoly in the country."

Temporary Agreement Reached For Resuming Work

Pittsburgh, May 14.—(AP)—Settlement of the strike of 27,000 Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation workers was announced today by Chairman Philip Murray of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee.

Murray said a temporary agreement had been reached under which operations would be resumed at the company's plants almost immediately.

Emerging from a conference with H. E. Lewis of the corporation, Murray said picket lines at the company's plant in Pittsburgh and Alliquippa would be withdrawn immediately and operations resumed during the day.

Terms of the tentative agreement will govern relations until next week when members of the union committee said an election of employees would be held under supervision of the National Labor Relations board.

Murray said details of the tentative agreement would be announced later at headquarters of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee.

Earlier it had appeared to be an open secret Murray and Lewis had agreed upon a peace pact in which an election supervised by the National Labor board would be held within a week to determine whether the union would be the exclusive bargaining agency for all of the corporation's workers.

Ayden Visited By Robbery Wave For Past Week Or So

Latest at Turnage Brothers Store Last Night When Several Suits of Clothes Taken

Chief of Police Church Moore of Ayden declared today he believed Negro youths were responsible for a series of petty robberies there recently.

The latest robbery was discovered this morning when employees of the Turnage Brothers clothing store opened up and found about a dozen suits missing. Officers had made no arrests in the case by midday, but were working in the hope of tracing the guilty persons in short order.

An upstairs window in the rear of the store was broken and the robber or robbers entered through it. The time of the robbery was said to have been after 4 o'clock this morning. L. D. Page of the Greenville police force went to Ayden in efforts to secure finger prints.

The most recent robbery in Ayden was on Monday night when a five and ten cent store was entered and only minor articles taken. Chief Moore said he had arrested a 12-year-old Negro boy in this case. He said the youth was identified by fingerprints.

"We have a dozen or so Negro boys doing nothing but stealing," declared the police chief, adding that every effort was being made to break up the petty larceny wave.

Only merchandise is taken usually, leading officers to believe the persons responsible are amateurs at robbery and probably are young Negro boys in the community.

Improvement Shown in Contagious Disease Situation

The monthly report on activities of the Pitt County Health department, as prepared by Dr. N. T. Ennett, shows that the contagious disease situation has improved since the previous report.

In keeping with a resolution adopted by that body at its April meeting, the health officer made the report available to the press in order that citizens may keep informed of what the department is accomplishing in the county.

EXPLOSION OF BRITISH SHIP LAID TO MINE

Suggestion Follows Preliminary Investigation

PROBE LAUNCHED BY NAVAL HEADS

Face Difficult Task, However, in Determining Responsibility for Placing Mine

London, May 14.—(AP)—The admiralty tonight sponsored a preliminary investigation "suggests" the destroyer Hunter struck a floating mine before yesterday's explosion off Almeria, Spain, which killed eight of her crew.

(By Associated Press)

The British admiralty launched an investigation today at Almeria, Spain to determine responsibility for the explosion that rocked the Hunter yesterday, killing eight and injuring 14 of her crew.

A floating mine was believed by British naval authorities to have caused the disaster to the destroyer, one of the newest men-of-war in the British navy, and stern protests were expected. Investigators, however, faced a difficult task to determine whether such a mine was laid by Government or insurgent forces.

Spanish Government news reports ascribed the explosion to a torpedo from a German submarine or to a floating mine. They said "most consistent accounts" favored the submarine theory.

Insurgents charged it to a "dastardly red maneuver."

Two persons were killed and 10 hurt in an insurgent air raid on Bilbao, as the city's defenders stood off an insurgent attack in a mountain sector about eight miles north.

Set Up Rules For All Liquor Stores

Raleigh, May 14.—(AP)—The State Alcoholic Control board laid down strict rules and regulations governing the operation of county liquor stores today so as to "control the distribution of alcoholic liquors to the public in the way which best promotes the public interest."

More than 25 representatives of counties now operating stores met with the board along with representatives from Durham and Dare counties, where stores have been authorized.

Immediate opposition developed to rules that no telephones be allowed in county stores and that each county adopt a uniform accounting system.

Cutler Moore, chairman of the board, said the board had authorized the establishment of warehouses in Wilson and Edgecombe counties.

Parents of all Cub Scouts in the city are urged to attend a meeting to be held in the Episcopal Parish House Monday night at 8 o'clock. Also parents of boys nine, ten or 11 years old who are not Cub Scouts, but who may join the organization later, should attend the meeting.

Tennessee Making Effort To Divert Parkway Route

Could Give Two Votes For Court in Trade

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, May 14.—Tennessee is getting ready to renew its drive to get part of the park-to-park highway — The Blue Ridge Parkway — built in Tennessee and holds two acres up her sleeve to North Carolina's use, according to reports being heard here both from Washington and the western part of North Carolina.

In fact, Tennessee has never let up in its efforts to get part of the parkway diverted over through Tennessee, so that the main entrance to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park will be on the Tennessee side at Gatlinburg, instead of on the North Carolina side at Cherokee. It is maintained.

But the ace cards which Tennessee is now prepared to play, as compared to only one held by North Carolina, is that Tennessee is prepared to offer President Roosevelt two votes in the senate for his supreme court reorganization plan — or almost any other measure he wants enacted — while North Carolina can offer only one senate vote for the court plan — and the parkway.

In other words, Tennessee is proposing that the President and Secretary Harold L. Ickes of the Department of the Interior now spank Senator Josiah W. Bailey by taking at least 100 miles of the parkway away from North Carolina and putting it in Tennessee, by assuring the President that he can depend upon the votes of the two senators from Tennessee for his court program, which Senator Bailey is opposing tooth and nail.

Only Senator Robert R. Reynolds of North Carolina is supporting the president in his court reorganization plan. Some are already commenting that Senator Bailey may really have chosen "the hardest way" if as a result of his opposition to the President, he will be the cause of North Carolina losing the parkway, at least from Asheville on to the park. For if Tennessee manages to get the parkway diverted into Tennessee north of Asheville, so that the main entrance to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park will be in Tennessee instead of North Carolina, the western counties will not again come to Senator Bailey's rescue, as they did last spring. For without the heavy vote he got in the western part of the state Senator Bailey would not have been nominated in the primary last June. It is generally agreed.

There has been increasing uneasiness among those interested in the parkway, especially in the area from Asheville westward to the park. For many weeks now, because of the unwillingness of the National Park Service to even consider doing any construction work in this area. This uneasiness was greatly increased last week when the National Park Service revealed that Secretary Ickes had ordered four new surveys started along four other routes from Asheville west, and designating only two of these. The belief now is that two of these routes cross over into Tennessee northwest of Asheville, near Water-

MASTER VIEWS WRECKED SHIP

Dr. Hugo Eckener Silent Upon Arrival At Lakehurst

Lakehurst, May 14.—(AP)—The old master of Zeppelin, Dr. Hugo Eckener, saw for the first time today the ghostly ruins of his flag ship, the Hindenburg.

He had no words to speak as he surveyed the remains of the dirigible on the naval air station landing field, his escorts reported.

The chief of the German Zeppelin company prepared for his inspection of the wreckage by first viewing motion pictures of the Hindenburg's flaming destruction May 6 in which 36 lives were lost. Members of the official German investigating committee which he heads watched the pictures with him.

It was a silent party which then made its way across the landing field to the wreck. The German commissioners looked on silently as Dr. Eckener looked at the blackened skeleton. They have indicated they would accept the findings of the commerce department investigation on the cause of the disaster.

DICK MERRILL RETURNS HOME

Lands in Boston After Homeward Flight From London

Boston, May 14.—(AP)—Finding a "hole" in the clouds after spanning the Atlantic on a return flight from London, Dick Merrill and Jack Lambie today brought their plane down at the naval air base at Squantum, near Boston.

Merrill kept his motors warm after landing and prepared for an almost immediate take off with Floyd Bennett field as his New York final destination.

Naval officers at the base timed the pilot at 2:40 p. m. daylight time on his landing.

Merrill and Lambie cruised about for some time before landing, seeking a rise in the low ceiling that would enable them to make a safe landing.

The break in the flight near Boston was unexpected, however, as reports had been received shortly before indicating he was nearing New York. In fact a throng awaited at Floyd Bennett Field in anticipation of a momentary appearance of the man who has twice completed round trip flights across the Atlantic in the last few months.

The driver heard a faint "meow" and he pulled the bag from the truck and, opening it, found a black and white kitten.

DUKE TO LOSE QUARREL OVER WALLY'S TITLE

Government to Bar Styling of 'Her Royal Highness'

WOULD REQUIRE ACTION BY KING

Status of Queen Elizabeth Herself At Time of Marriage Cited as Precedent

London, May 14.—(AP)—Unofficial, but usually well informed sources said today the British government appeared to have won its quarrel with the Duke of Windsor to keep Wallis Warfield Simpson from styling herself "her royal highness" after they are married.

British society and persons to whom the distinction between the "Duchess of Windsor" and "her royal highness, the Duchess of Windsor" are vital matters cited the highly authoritative "Debutts" as conclusive proof that Former King Edward, VII, could not win.

They referred also to the status of Queen Elizabeth herself at the time she married the then Duke of York and contended only an act of the king could confer a royal title on Mrs. Warfield.

Queen Elizabeth, who was the commoner — born Lady Elizabeth Bowes — Lyon was raised to royal rank by King George, VI, her father-in-law by a special announcement after her marriage in 1923.

Today's sources maintained there was no indication King George, VI, was contemplating such a step.

The relationship between the family and the church has been emphasized during the pre-Pentecostal period and on Sunday morning there will be a roll call of the families of the congregation, which will be followed by the preparation of a Family Book containing the names of the families present at the service and the extent to which they are represented. Since Pentecost marks the anniversary of the beginning of the church, there will be a birthday gift from each member to be used for certain local causes. As preparation for the day a special committee of visitors has been calling at the homes of the congregation during this week, inviting them to attend the service, sitting together as family groups. Wants Dramatic Role But Gypsy—and 20th Century—are equally desirous now that the burlesque business be forgotten. She comes to a movie role, in "You Can't Have Everything," to which no cigar-smoking aroma clings, still to play a retired show girl, a regular acting part, and Mr. Breen of the Hays office won't need to worry about that specialty of hers. She says she has her heart set on a straight dramatic role in the theatre come September when she reports to the Shuberts for a show. She has her doubts that she'll be able to talk the Shuberts into it, but she'll try.

Someone asked if she were all through with burlesque. "I don't dare say yes to that," she replied candidly. "I've been through with it three times already. You know how it is. You leave 14th street for a big show, and the show doesn't last, and pretty soon you're back. It's tough, going back, but I've done it three times and I can't say I won't do so again."

Many Firms Seek Permit Sell Securities In N. C.

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, May 14.—A flood of requests for permission to sell various securities in North Carolina and to advertise securities for sale, is coming into the office of Secretary of State Thad Eure, since he took over the enforcement of the state capital issues law, he said today.

A good many of these security firms as well as their issues have not been registered and licensed in the state, as the law requires, but they are doing everything possible to get this permission just the same, Eure said.

"Under the state capital issues or 'blue sky' law, every firm or corporation offering securities for sale in North Carolina must register and secure a license, while their salesmen must also register and be licensed," Secretary Eure said. In addition, they must submit the securities they want to sell for investigation and approval and these in turn must be registered and approved.

The law requires this for the protection of the public, since the capital issues department must investigate all firms salesmen and issues of securities before granting a permit or license. For when issues the license, these are the state's guarantee that the salesmen and their securities have been investigated and found to be bona fide.

"But there are many firms who are trying to get around the law by complying with only part of it," Eure said. "They are sending in the data for the approval of the actual issues, in the hope that if they can get their securities approved, they can then sell them through unlicensed brokers and salesmen—and without paying the license fee for the companies handling them."

"I am insisting, however, that the firms issuing the securities first be licensed, then that the securities be registered and approved and finally that they be sold only through licensed dealers, brokers and salesmen, as the law requires."

Secretary of State Eure advises all prospective purchasers of stocks, bonds or other securities, to demand that salesmen show their licenses before buying any of their offerings.

of Asheville. But no bids have ever been called for on any of the parkway west of Asheville. This is regarded by some as an indication that the park service has not yet given up the idea of building part of the parkway in Tennessee, that it is now considering a new route that will extend north and west of Asheville, and over into Tennessee. The fact that Secretary Ickes has just ordered four new surveys in the territory west of Asheville is regarded as further strengthening this theory.

Greenville Rotary Club continues to be well attended. The last clinic, which was held May 7th, had patients from Lenoir, Carteret and Beaufort counties, as well as from Pitt.

The two venereal disease clinics held in Pitt County, one in Greenville and one in Farmville, continue to grow. The average number of patients in the Greenville clinic's January 1st was about 45. The average number May the 1st was about 85, a gain of something like 100 per cent since January.

The Farmville clinic was opened March 24th, under the auspices of the local physicians, the first treatments being given March 31st. At this time 12 patients were treated. Five weeks later, or May 5, the clinic had an attendance of 66 patients. Total, 738. Male, 309; female, 429. 42 per cent male, 58 per cent female. 25 or 8 per cent male positive. 80 or 18 per cent female positive. In other words, 53 per cent of the patients have approximately 80 per cent of the syphilis.

In connection with county sanitation, I would say that much has been accomplished through "clean-up campaigns" in the various localities. In April, 34 privies were built as compared with 26 in March. They were built out of private funds entirely, as the long promised WPA privy program for Pitt County has not yet materialized.

The outstanding event in our work during the month of April was the State tuberculosis clinic. One clinic day was given to Ayden, one to Farmville and three days to Greenville.

The number of new cases of tuberculosis discovered were, white, 20, colored 11, total new cases, 31. Cases previously diagnosed but re-examined were white 10, colored 1, total 11. Grand total of cases of tuberculosis seen by the clinician, 42. The number of children given the tuberculin test was, white 67, colored 61, total 128. (Some of the readings and as not all have reported, we are unable to give the final figures on the results of the tuberculin tests.) Total number of patients attending the clinic, 320. For comparison, I will say that the total number of patients attending the 1935 clinic was 131, total for 1936, 213, total for 1937, 320, a gain of 107 patients in 1937 over 1935, or an approximate gain of 50 per cent. In fact, so much interest in the clinic was shown by the physicians of the county that we found one week inadequate. We have already requested Dr. McCain to give us a two weeks' clinic for next year.

GEORGE VI AT HEIGHT OF GLORY

Wearing his new crown and garbed in ermine and velvet, King George VI smiles down from the balcony of Buckingham Palace while two million persons rock London with the cry "God Save the King." Several times the youthful king, who rules over Britain's half-billion subjects, was called back to the balcony to acknowledge the peals of cheering throngs. This picture was radioed to America from London.

ville, and will then follow the Tennessee side of the line to Gauleyburg, although park service officials vigorously deny this.

There is no doubt, however, that the Tennessee politicians are using every trick in their bags to persuade the President and Secretary Ickes to re-route the parkway from Asheville and divert it into Tennessee, both because they think they are entitled to part of it and because they think his would be an excellent way to spank Senator Bailey for kicking over the traces and for teaming up with the Republicans and reactionary Democrats in the senate against the supreme court reorganization plan. It is also agreed that the President and Ickes know that two luscious and dependable senate votes are not to be sneezed at these days.

These developments also make it increasingly clear that whatever can be done to save the parkway to North Carolina, or at least the western end of it, now rests with Senator Reynolds, Congressman R. L. Doughton, Zeb Weaver and a few others. It is being pointed out, however, that the house committee has cut the parkway appropriation from $5,000,000 to about $2,000,000, in spite of Doughton's vigorous protest. Some think that the Tennessee delegation is working on a trade with northern Democrats whereby the parkway appropriation will virtually be eliminated unless part of it is routed through Tennessee. At any rate, a bitter and possibly a nasty fight is in the offing.

Using these scores as a base the players will be divided into flights of eight, in each flight, and the entire tournament will be completed on Sunday afternoon.

specialists say the average American gets mixed up when talking about cheese. For instance, if you ask the grocer for a piece of plain cheese, he will sell you what he really "cheddar."

Much "green" cheese is sold in this country. It takes eight months to a year to ripen cheese until it has "character" and that adds to the cost.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York — All this talk and Luster a-out purging burlesque of the naughty strip act shouldn't be taken too seriously. Not if the records mean anything. It is a dull day when no Black Maria backs up to the entrance of some stage door to whisk a couple of cuties down to the hard-boiled sergeant on a charge of indecent exposure. About five years ago the police put on a might "crusade" to cleanse night life of its "sordidness," and it got exactly nowhere, either because the police themselves were disinterested or because of too much undercover intervention.

Gypsy Rose Lee, who epitomizes every strip-girl's ambitions, has been carted off to jail. Mae West certainly no paragon of Victorianism, made frequent trips to the housegong during her New York days for producing and appearing in "immoral" plays. And Flo Ziegfeld always considered it a stroke of fortune when one of his girls was arrested for appearing in less than a string of pearls.

The current peevish apparently is against one particular form of nudity. True it is that girls in all the night clubs are unshowered, too, but that is different. In burlesque the girls come out fully clothed and disrobe in the presence of their admiring auditors, whereas the night club lasses are paraded down to the cuticle on their toe-nails when they make their appearance. Apparently the burlesque form of nakedness is more reprehensible. At least, from the "indignant" utterances of the officials they must think so.

Actually, burlesque girls are rarely as completely nude as those dancers found in the after-dark supper clubs. True, they wear only a couple of satin rose-buds and, as they say on Broadway, a G-string.

But you'll have to admit that it is something, at least. The night club girls often wear nothing at all.
There is, just beneath the surface, a reason for the current drive against theatrical "vice". . . To operate theatres one must have a license, and at the moment the burlesque licenses have expired. This gives the reformers an opportunity to sandbag producers, and they are attempting to eliminate burlesque completely. . . Unfortunately, the night clubs all have licenses; so the police aren't even looking in their direction. . . If they did they would be met with a mess of legal action that would probably stymie any
"corrective" measures attempted.

So, if this department seems skeptical, it asks tolerance on the grounds that it has seen too many previous "drives" which gained nothing other than some front page publicity for some of our high-powered public-spirited servants.

250 CROSS-CROSS ROAD IN CAR-DEATH PROTEST

London, (AP) — Parents in several parts of Britain are organizing demonstrations to protest the "slaughter" of school children by speeding automobiles.

Fathers and mothers of children who have to cross Westway — a dangerous arterial thoroughfare in the western suburbs of London — demonstrated recently to draw attention to their demand for a 30-mile-an-hour speed limit.
A procession of 250 strong crossed and re-crossed the road in pouring rain, holding up the traffic on a busy Saturday afternoon. Motorists were confronted with banners
bearing slogans "Make Westway
Safe" and "I May Be Your Child
Next Time."

Widest Main Street

Van Alstyne, Tex. (AP) — This
town boasts the widest Main street of any municipality of 1,500 in the country. The street, more than 250 feet across, contains a double railroad track, a railroad station, two large grain elevators, and an oil storage tank.

Maybe A Connection?

Bowling Green, Ky. (AP) — Ervin S. Dearing, 14, who recently received his eighth grade diploma at Bristow consolidated school after never having missed a day at school,
in eight years never has seen a motion picture.

URGE CITIZENS TO COOPERATE

Whole State Must Aid in Proposed Adver- tising Campaign

Raleigh, May 13.—While the state is doing a fine thing in providing a fund of $125,000 a year to attract new tourists and visitors to North Carolina, the people of the state must cooperate and help provide better accommodations, better food, show more real hospitality and friendliness — and must get rid of the many eye-sores and make a real effort to beautify the highways and the homes along the highways, according to Coleman W. Roberts of Charlotte, one of the new members of the Board of Conservation and Development, which is in session here laying plans for its advertising campaign.

"We must remember that it will be a waste of money if we spend $125,000 a year advertising North Carolina throughout the nation and then fail to provide proper accommodations for the people who come here — for they will then go back home and give the state more unfavorable advertising than we can ever overcome with advertising in newspapers and magazines," Roberts said. "Thus one of the first things we are going to have to do is to get the people waked up in every city and county in the state and get them interested in providing better accommodations for the new people who are going to visit the state — that is, if they want them to come back."

"I was taking the other day to a man from Baltimore who had heard about North Carolina, its southern cooking and fine hospitality, and who was making his first trip
through the state with his family.
But he was already disappointed
after the first few days. He said he had expected to find some real southern cooking — country ham, frits, real southern cornbread and muffins — but instead found only the average restaurant or hotel dining room, with the exception that most of it was not as good as could be found in Baltimore or almost anywhere else in Maryland. The result is that this man and his family is not likely to come back to North Carolina again, at least any time soon."

"This incident is going to be multiple several thousand times over later on unless we learn a lesson from it and wake up. For we cannot expect to build up a reputation as a tourist state unless we can keep the same people coming back again and again, the way Florida and California have done. They would be sunk if they could not keep their visitors coming back year after year. I was up through Wisconsin and Minnesota last summer and found ten times more real friendliness and hospitality there and far better accommodations than are to be had in most places in North Carolina. The people in those states are doing everything possible to make things pleasant for the visitors so they will come back again — and they are going back in larger and larger numbers every summer and bringing others with them.

"North Carolina can attract visitors and keep them coming back, too, if the people down here will put out a little more effort and spend some money for paint, shrubbery and flowers, to make the roads and the homes look more attractive — and if the hotel and cafe proprietors will wake up to the fact that they must provide good food
and have attractive looking places with courteous services and clean rooms."

"I stopped at a small hotel in a small town on my way up here from Charlotte Tuesday to get dinner. I had a run-down look both inside and out. The wash room was filthy.
The dining room was unattractive looking. Soiled table cloths were on the tables. The menu indicated there was chicken and fried ham available, but the chicken had given out. So beef stew was substituted.
The beef stew was anything but appetizing and the ham was fried

so hard that it was like trying to eat a piece of shoe leather. The check for the dinner was 88 cents, yet there are plenty of places in Charlotte or Raleigh where a person could have gotten a much better meal for 25 or 30 cents. I know I shall never stop at that hotel
again and I doubt if any one else who goes there will ever come back a second time. Yet there are literally hundreds of places of this sort in the state, any one of which will definitely sour any tourists or visitor against ever coming back to the state again.

"That is why I am maintaining right at the start that we must clean up, paint up and pep up here in the state in order to get ready for tourists, feed them well and treat them right, or this advertising fund of $125,000 a year will be wasted."

Use Terracing Unit On Streets Of City

Cameron, May 13.—Town commissioners here have one problem
off their chests—that of abandoned streets.

Heavy spring rains washed some of the streets so badly that parts became impassable and had to be abandoned. However, W. G. Caldwell, assistant farm agent for the State College Extension Service in Moore County, came to the rescue and used the county terracing unit to smooth out the washed portions.

The heavy equipment needed to repair the streets was not available before the terracing unit was brought in.

Now, the assistant agent declared, other small towns in the county are making inquiries as to the cost of getting their streets repaired.

Stomach Gas So Bad Seems To Hurt Heart

Adierka acts on BOTH upper and act on the lower bowel only. Adierka

The Snow Hill Billies, partners to the locals in Coastal Plain league standings, dropped one to the Greenies at Third Street stadium here yesterday afternoon by a 6-5 score.

Greenville scored their first run in the second frame. Latham took a base on balls; Farley got a base hit through short and sent Latham to second. Bonaguro reached first on a fielder's choice and Farley got out going to second. Latham came home when Bistrot, catcher for the Billies made a bad throw to second.

Snow Hill did its first scoring in the fourth frame when Wall singled and stole second—Bistrot took a walk and Heard singled to score Wall. Hill then singled scoring Bistrot. The visitors repeated the attack in the fifth when Mewborn reached first on an error by Bonaguro and then stole second, and Bistrot singled to score Mewborn. Robinson then got and a base hit and sent Bistrot to third who later came home on another error by Bonaguro.

The Greenies also went on a scoring spree in the fifth when Klasa got to first on an error by Hill. Klasa then lost his scoring chance, however, on an attempt to steal second. Caliguira singled to center, Muto walked, and Andy Johnson tripled to right field—unloading the bases.

Another scoring attack was meted out by the Greenies in the seventh frame. Rudisill got a base hit and went to second on a sacrifice hit by Muto who failed to reach first. Andy Johnson singled to right scoring Rudisill.

Snow Hill came to life in the eighth frame when Hill singled to left and Schroeder singled in the same locality to score Hill. This wound up scoring tactics for the visitors.

In the locals' half of the eighth, another run was racked up when Farley singled to left and Klasa reached first on a fielder's choice. During this play, Farley was thrown out going to second. Caliguira, who next came to bat, took a base on balls. Rudisill then secured a triple to score Klasa and Caliguira.

Williamston Martins Retain Perfect Slate

Kinston—The Williamston Martins plucked the Kinston Eagles baid here yesterday afternoon. The Martins won the baseball game, 15 to 4. It was the sixth victory for the unbeaten Coastal loop leaders. The Eagles gave an excellent exhibition of out-daffing the Daffy Dodgers of Brooklyn—they dropped infield and outfield flies that should have been easy outs, and in general, they did everything but slaughter the national pastime. The Martins closed the day by tallying seven times in the ninth.

Celurn's Shoe company and Carolina Sales were victorious in softball contests played yesterday afternoon. By virtue of its 16 to 6 win over Blount-Harvey, Carolina Sales went into undisputed leadership for the league.

Celurn scored a six to four victory over Carolina Dairy, leaving both teams with a 500 standing, each having won one and lost one. The Celurn-Dairy team was featured by close fielding on both teams. The players proved unusually adept on the field and kept down a high score. It was one of the closest games played since the season started. Arthur Elks, Celurn's first baseman, was a big factor in the victory, driving in runs with his heavy hitting.

The Carolina Sales team took an easy victory over the Blount-Harvey team.

The game was featured by airtight ball in the first three innings with Blount-Harvey holding a lead of 3 runs.

With two down in the last half of the third frame, an error allowed two scores and the Sales men counted four more before they were retired.

Vincent for the losers started at bat with a double, a triple and a home run for three times up. Godwin and Roebuck each made three hits in as many times at bat for the Carolina Sales team.

Tarboro Wins Over Bears In Slugfest, 9-7

Tarboro—Tarboro and New Bern put on a slugfest here yesterday, and the home club came out on the big end of a 9-7 score.

Fred (Snake) Henry's locals really won in the fifth, an inning in which each team made three runs. The Bears added singletons in the sixth and seventh, and Tarboro topped its tallying with one in the eighth.

Joe Eberhard, 22 years in charge of Glenmore's yeast room, says:

"Yeast making for Glenmore whiskies is a ticklish job—but my son is ready to take it over when I retire"

"When we build up the yeast culture for fermenting Mint Springs, we watch and check all the time to get it always the same. I have trained my son in yeast making for many years, so that he can take my place and carry on."

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

SYNOPSIS: A mysterious shot kills attractive Jude Blinshop on a wild, stormy night at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunts. Then a series of strange attacks makes everyone jittery in the marooned household. Mike, the Skipper, his tall, tweedy younger aunt, Aunt Martha, stout and prudish; Gay Palmer, Mike's red-headed sweetheart; Higgins, the old butler; William, the chauffeur; Cook; Annie, the maid; even myself. On the second nerve-racking day we find a man's body below the bluff. It is Michael's father, insane and supposedly dead since Mike was an infant.

Chapter 25
Roaring Drunk

THE dining room was deserted. Voices beyond the closed door of the library indicated that M. Farrington and Gay Palmer still kept unhappy vigil against the return of the rescue party. It seemed brutal to leave them in such suspense, but the Skipper was pouring coffee with a steady hand. And its aroma was too much for me. I was famished. Whatever happened, apparently, I could eat and I did so. Higgins served in silence. Not until my fourth cup of coffee did I turn to the Skipper. "Well?"

"Your move now, Casablanca," she said with the ghost of a smile. "I'm taking Martha upstairs. From now on

I summoned every ounce of deception I could find.

"I've never seen him before."

"She didn't relax. Then it was a tramp after all. How—funny."

I left it at that. Let Mike handle it in his own way. There was nothing more for me to do but wait, wait for the first bolt of gaping natives from the mainland.

"What are the Blinshops like?"

"I've only met them once or twice. Nice enough people. They've been friends of the Farringtons for ages."

And so we rambled on for at least an hour. It was a horrible morning. Gradually we dropped all pretense of conversation. We tried to read. We tried to play Double Canfield. The world as such seemed to have ceased existence for us beyond the limits of that weekend on the bluff.

Sleep was the logical thing. We both needed it desperately, but we had passed that stage of fatigue where sleep is possible. Every nerve and every muscle ached, and there was no way of resting them. At a rough guess I should have placed our tenancy of the library at 10 years by the time Michael appeared.

Gay Tears into Mike

AND he was no cheering spectacle. His hair stood wildly on end. His clothes were crumpled and messy. His eyes had a nasty, glowing intensity that brought me to my feet in a jerk.

"Where's everybody?" he inquired thickly, crossing the room with a labored, weaving motion. He was drunk—roaringly drunk.

"Upstairs—" I began, but it was no use. Gay was at him like a shot.

"You've got a nerve! Where do you think you are?"

I had a fleeting desire to knock their heads together.

Michael waved a pompous hand. "Where? Home, my pet—at Farrington Bluff on beautiful, bounteous Long Island in the bosom of my family." Something in the remark appeared to amuse him. He roared with drunken gusto, holding weakly to the edge of the table.

Gay advanced on him, eyes flashing. "You filthy little rat!" she said. "You yellow, drunken lout, listen to me! You think you'll quit on your aunts now because the going is getting tough? Well, you won't! Either of those old girls is worth more than a dozen of you on one platter, do you hear? And if Jimmie doesn't whale the booze out of you right now, I will!"

Michael stared at her stupidly, steadying himself against the table.

"You can get this, too!" Her voice was rising shrilly. "After what I've seen of you in the last few days, I don't want to see any more. Is that clear?"

Possibly his silence irritated her more than anything else. Suddenly her hand shot out. There was a hearty smack, and a dull white streak glistened on Michael's red face—glistened, turned pink, and stood out a welt of red.

Then, like a streak, Mike moved. His hand seized her wrist and sent her hurtling into a table covered with glasses and decanters. There was a tinkling crash. I leapt across that room and had him by the throat. I shook him until my head roared and my breath was gone. Then I flung him violently into a chair.

For a long time none of us spoke. None of us could. Mike moved first, lumbering heavily to his feet. All the liquor had gone out of him, but there was something in its place—something that made me catch my labored breath in a painful gasp. He spoke very slowly.

"I'm drunk. All right. I meant to be drunk, and I mean to be drunk from now on. Can't you see that I'm safest that way? I've killed a person. Do you understand that? I've killed a person!"

Washington Daybook
By Preston Grover

Washington — The British admiralty quickly came to the relief of the American naval building program as well as its own, after the report that an airplane bomb had sunk the battleship Espans. There has been a lot of talk about what airplanes can do to warships, and this demonstration was a hair raiser.

But along came the British admiral, Bares, had the sea claimed the Espans — an old tub that you could split open with a pocket knife — than the admiralty published the report of a freighter captain who said he saw the planes but didn't see them bomb the warship. It ture was strictly a local industry. The attorney squirmed. He wouldn't say agriculture was not in interstate commerce, but he insisted that problem was not involved in the Georgia case. Brandeis kept insisting until Justice McReynolds cut in, acid as a horse radish:

"Why don't you answer him yes or no and be done with it."

The attorney blinked. Brandeis grinned, stopped his questioning, whispered a remark in Justice Butler's ear and they both chuckled. Probably Brandeis said:

"Do you know, I don't think that fellow McReynolds likes me so well." Which is undoubtedly true enough.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, May 14.—(AP)—Labor tension lessened a bit in the steel field today and many of yesterday's dieling stocks climbed back on the recovery platform for gains for fraction or two or more points.

Except for one or two lively flurries delings were quiet and profit selling near the fourth hour cut down extreme advances.

Bonds were uneven.

Transfers approximated 1,300,000 shares.
