FORD REVEALS LABOR POLICY TO EMPLOYEES

First Apparent Move To Oppose Unionization Drive

PLAN CIRCULATE "FORDISM" CARD

Message to Workers Declares Company Does Not Intend To Bargain With Men

Detroit, May 15.—(AP)—The first apparent move of the Ford Motor company to oppose unionization of its 150,000 employees in the United States was revealed today.

An announcement that cards bearing Henry Ford's views on labor organizations and policies would be circulated among the workers Monday came soon after the union indicated it would seek a closed shop in General Motors plants.

Conferees last night between union officials and managements of two strike closed General Motors plants at Saginaw provided for the men to return to work Monday with negotiations of the disputes opening the same day.

Harry Bennett, Ford personnel director, made public the cards—labeled "Fordism"—that will be circulated among the employees.

"We have always made a better bargain for our men than outside could," they informed the workers. "We have never had to bargain against our men. And we don't expect to begin now."

HOLD TRIO FOR GASTON DEATH

Three Brothers Held Under Bond After Investigation

Gastonia, May 15.—(AP)—C. A. Veitch, cafe operator and Banks and Everett Howell, brothers, were free today on bonds of $1,000 each pending an inquest into T. M. Paysoux, found dead here yesterday morning. The bonds were reduced from $5,000.

Coroner C. C. Wallace investigating the death of Paysoux, 45, sought to determine whether the Gastonia insurance man had been given a "knock out drop" or some similar drug.

Wallace said he had ordered an analysis made of the man's vital organs. He said he had learned Paysoux had been robbed of $50 after a drinking party two weeks ago.

Faysoux had been found on the porch of the home of his mother, Mrs. T. M. Paysoux. The coroner then ordered the three men jailed pending an inquest set for Tuesday.

Dunlap Goes To Capital In Interest Of Parkway

Raleigh, May 15.—More detailed information concerning the status of the Blue Ridge Parkway and the outlook for further construction on it, is expected to be brought back here tonight when Chairman Frank L. Dunlap of the State Highway and Public Works Commission returns from Washington where he went somewhat hurriedly Thursday night to learn what he could about the parkway, following disturbing rumors here and distributing happenings in Washington.

Chairman Dunlap was expected to confer first with Congressman R. L. Doughton, chairman of the ways and means committee, and if possible, to confer with President Roosevelt or arrange for a conference if it seemed necessary. He was also planning to confer with Congressman A. L. Bulwinkle, the only member of the North Carolina delegation in Congress who is regarded as not being wholeheartedly backing the parkway and the appropriation to complete it.

The two developments in Washington which have proved very disturbing to the highway department and those who have been backing the parkway and want to see it completed, are:

1. The action of the house appropriations committee in reducing the recommended appropriation for the Blue Ridge Parkway from $5,000,000 to $2,000,000, as a result of the "economy wave" in Congress, despite the fact that the last session of Congress enacted Rep. Doughton's bill to appropriate $10,000,000 for "parkways" to be available this year.

2. Reports to the effect that the Tennessee delegation is again becoming extremely active to get the route of the parkway diverted from Asheville over into Tennessee, that it is offering two votes in the Senate for the President's court reorganization program to North Carolina's one (Senator Bailey is opposing the President's plan) and that it may try to block any appropriation for the parkway unless part of it goes into Tennessee.

FULL CABINET RESIGNS FROM SPANISH RULE

Republic Begins At Once To Form New Government

GENERAL FRANCO OUTSIDE MADRID

Insurgents Continue To Press Offensive Against Defenders On All Sides

Valencia, May 15.—(AP)—The war-time government of Premier Francisco Caballero resigned today and Spain's republic began at once to seek a new cabinet.

Caballero, the extreme socialist who has guided the destinies of the Ringe through eight months of continuous assault by Fascist Insurgents, handed in the resignation of his Left coalition cabinet at 10 a. m. (This news was delayed five hours by the Valencia censor.)

But it appeared Caballero might also form the new government. Leaders of the "Ugt" Socialist-Communist labor union, were insistent that he continue in power. They said his forceful personality was "indispensable."

An official announcement said all elements represented in the old cabinet would be consulted before the new government was decided upon. (This dispatch was heavily censored.)

General Francisco Franco's Insurgents are still just outside Madrid and are pounding at the approaches of Bilbao, seat of the Basque regime which is the main government's supporter in the Northwest of Spain.

At Toledo, Spain, a column of government troops south of the Tago river was reported to have been virtually destroyed with bombs and machine gun fire in an insurgent air attack.

At Victoria Insurgents pressed their offensive against Bilbao in heavy fighting the whole length of the Basque front.

Service Halted In St. Louis Hotels

St. Louis, May 15.—(AP)—Service in seven St. Louis hotels was disrupted today by a strike of bell boys, cooks, waiters, waitresses and other employees in support of a demand for a closed shop agreement recognizing five American Federation of Labor unions.

The hotels affected were the Jefferson, Statler, Chase Park Plaza, Mayfair, Lenox and Washington, which the union had selected for the demonstration of their service employees.

New Improvement At Centre Brick

In addition to the Centre Brick warehouse, owned by W. S. Moye and Dow Lassiter, is being erected which will provide an additional 5,000 square feet of floor space and enable the firm to provide better facilities for its customers.

The new addition will give the warehouse a total floor space of 22,000 feet and make it one of the most modern up-to-date houses in Eastern North Carolina.

The Centre Brick will operate under the management of Dow Lassiter, with Harvey Ward and O. G. Rucker serving as sales managers.

The addition is one of several improvements being made by the various local warehouses in order to take care of the farmers from 40 odd Eastern Carolina counties who sell their tobacco here each year.

HOEY REFUSES REPRIEVE PLEA

Declines To Intervene Despite Jury Recommendation

Raleigh, May 15.—(AP)—Parole Commissioner Edwin Gill announced today Governor Hoey had declined to intervene for Robert Glenn Brown, 18-year-old Craven county Negro scheduled to be executed by gas Friday for murder.

If Brown dies next week it will be the first execution since Hoey became Governor in January.

Gill said it was still possible a reprieve might delay Brown's execution due to renovation work underway at state's prison, but the "governor has decided not to intervene on the merits of the case."

Brown was convicted in January of the robbery-murder of J. B. Peacock, a 75-year-old, partially blind merchant, Judge E. H. Cranmer, presiding jurist, and the jury which recommended mercy, though it returned a verdict of first degree murder, asked for clemency for the Negro, but Solicitor D. M. Clark said he saw no reason to intervene.

Yesterday's Rain Great Benefit To Tobacco Farmers

Rain which visited this section and practically the entire belt yesterday proved of great benefit to tobacco farmers in the area.

Some sections of the county reported that a little hail was mixed with the rain, but no damage was reported.

There is somewhat of a shortage in tobacco plants in this section this year and the rains are expected to prove of much benefit to the beds. In fact, the shortage is being felt to the extent that reports of plant stealing have been heard.

Yesterday's rains started about the middle of the morning and continued intermittently throughout the day. Expressions of delight could be heard on all sides as the rain began, although the situation was not considered acute because of the recent dry spell.

Many farmers in the section already have started or are completing setting their tobacco, but many fields remain to be set out as yet and farmers are anxious to get all the plants they can. Blue Mold cut down on the supply to a great extent this year.

Born in Craven county, Perry went to Nashville in 1915, where he served as assistant to the Clerk of Superior court, vice recorder and Recorder of County court.

He was prominently identified with the Masonic and Junior orders and was a world war veteran.

OCEAN FLIERS ARE RECEIVED BY PRESIDENT

Merrill and Lambie Tell Roosevelt Of Atlantic Hop

EXECUTIVE ASKS MANY QUESTIONS

Merrill Talks of Air Race in August To Commemorate Lindbergh Flight

Washington, May 15.—(AP)—Dick Merrill and Jack Lambie told President Roosevelt today of their experiences on their round trip flight across the North Atlantic.

The aviators were accompanied by Ben Smith, their New York backer.

They said the President asked them about weather conditions, the altitudes they flew, and how the instruments and motors functioned.

They presented Mr. Roosevelt a copy of a Thursday London newspaper describing the coronation and a first cover with New York and London postmarks for his large stamp collection.

The two fliers had left Newark airport at 10:36 (EST) in an Eastern Air Lines plane, piloted by Captain Robert Minniek and co-pilot Leo Clokey.

Merrill, the only man who has flown the Atlantic four times in an airplane, had talked earlier at New York City of his next flight, the air race to Paris, and decided his experience "gives me a pretty good chance at that prize."

The race in August will commemorate Colonel Charles Lindbergh's epochal flight to Paris, accomplished just ten years ago next week.

THREE JUDGES OFFER RETIRE FROM OFFICES

Resignations Assured If President Would Abandon Proposal

OPPONENTS LOOK FOR COMPROMISE

Justice Brandeis, Van DeVanter and Sutherland Reported Ready to Quit Posts

Washington, May 15.—(AP)—Opponents of the Roosevelt court bill said today three early returnments from the Supreme court were assured if the President would drop his judicial organization plan.

Administration leaders who conferred with Mr. Roosevelt last night reported the battle for the bill would "go on." In stating there would be no compromise, these officials did not indicate whether the reported readiness of three justices to retire had been communicated to the chief executive.

High opposition Senators, who did not wish to be quoted by name, said the justices ready to retire were Brandeis, Van DeVanter and Sutherland.

From other persons came a hint at least one of the trio, Justice Van DeVanter would quit soon, regardless of continuance of the court dispute.

There were suggestions today that Van DeVanter had made up his mind to quit and might announce his decision either just before or just after the Senate Judiciary committee votes next Tuesday on the court bill.

County Quota For Vacation At Camp Not Yet Completed

Opportunity to attend month at Citizens Military Camp at Fort Bragg Still Available

Opportunity to secure Uncle Sam's prize one month summer vacation at the Citizens Military Camp, which is to be held at Fort Bragg, N. C., the largest Artillery Post in the United States, from August 3rd to September 1, 1937, will be lost to boys of Pitt County unless they enroll quickly, according to information received from General Manus McCloskey, the Commanding General of Fort Bragg.

Camp life featured by military drill under experienced regular army instructors is the main attraction in the mornings, while the afternoons are devoted to athletics and swimming. Discipline is strict, but fair and sympathetic. During the evenings there is the motion pictures to attend and occasionally a dance is given which is supervised by the Camp Hostess. On Sundays a church parade to divine service is the regular order. One day of the camp each year is set aside as visitors' day, on which occasion an invitation is extended to the friends and relatives of those in training to visit them in camp and eat a meal with them. Attendance at the camp is entirely free since all expenses are paid by the Government, including railroad fare to and from camp. No boy who enrolls for the camp obligates himself for any further military service. Only a few applications have been received from Pitt county which has a quota of 11. Unless local youths act quickly in applying for enrollment, the vacancies remaining in the county will be filled by surplus applicants from other counties.

L. K. Needham E. Ward, of this city is the county representative for Pitt. Prospective applicants may write direct to the C. M. T. C. office at Fort Bragg for any information they desire or apply to the county representative.

The pouring was supervised by E. L. Barnhill and was ordered by the Pitt County ABC board. As the pouring began, on Tenth street, passers-by began stopping to witness the whiskey going down the sewer.

Witnessing the pouring were Highway Patrolmen L. L. Jackson, C. R. Williams, H. B. Smith, City Patrolman H. A. Wooten, Special Officers J. L. Taylor and J. M. Ward.

FIVE PERSONS DIE IN WRECK

Driver, Four Students Killed in Car-Train Collision

Milton, Va., May 15.—(AP)—Five persons, four of whom were school children, were killed today when an automobile used for transporting the children to school collided with a train two miles south of Milton village.

The dead were: John Vasseur, 37, driver of the car; Rene LaRochelle, 11; and her brother, Howard, 13; Earl Murray, 10; and Earl Miller, 14, all of Milton.

The children were en route to school on Saturday to make up for time previously lost.

Investigators said the driver apparently expected a clear track unaware the express from Washington and New York to Montreal was running 45 minutes late.

Every person in the vehicle was killed.

Milton is a village of 600 population.

Ten Thousand Motorists Lose Operator's License

Raleigh, May 15.—A total of 10,303 drivers' licenses have been revoked since the law went into effect November 1, 1935, through May 13, 1937, of which at least 95 percent have been revoked following convictions for drunken driving, it was announced here today by Director Arthur Fulk of the highway safety division of the Department of Revenue.

Of this number, 9,592 were residents of North Carolina, while 711 were either from other states or their residences not designated. The total number of revocations and suspensions amounts to approximately 13,500 for this same period.

The 9,592 revocations of drivers' licenses within the state has been broken down by counties. This shows, of course, that the more populous counties have the larger number of convictions for drunken driving, and hence more revocations of drivers' licenses. The ten counties with the largest number of revocations are as follows:

Guilford, 654; Mecklenburg, 572; Forsyth, 419; Wake, 341; Buncombe, 318; Cabarrus, 272; Robeson, 250; Rowan, 233; Cumberland, 200 and Pitt, 198.

All of these ten counties are so-called "dry" counties and are not yet included among any of those which have county liquor stores.

Graham county, in the extreme western part of the state, is the only one of the 100 counties, in which not a single driver's license has been revoked during the almost 17 months the new highway safety law has been in operation. Clay county, another far western mountain county, ranks next with only one revocation in 17 months. Other counties which have had less than 10 revocations since the law went into effect and the number of revocations are as follows: Alleghany, 7; Camden, 7; Gates, 8; Hyde, 9; Macon, 5; Polk, 7; Swain, 9; Tyrrell, 9 and Yancey, 7.

In some of these counties, especially those in the mountains, car drivers know they must stay sober (Continued on page three)

Two Negroes Held Under $300 Bonds

Two defendants, both Negroes, were bound over to Superior court following preliminary hearings in City court this morning, one on a charge of highway robbery and the other on an embezzlement.

William Newton is charged with holding up John Newborn at the point of a pistol and taking one dollar from him. The defendant contended the other Negro "frisked" him out of the money in a trap game and that he was taking only what belonged to him. He was bound over to the high court, however, under bond of $300.

James Lathan is charged with embezzlement. He is alleged to have collected approximately $10 for Honeycutt's market and to have diverted it to his own use. He, too, is awaiting trial in Superior court under bond of $300.

Chief George Clark said the small number of defendants this morning was due to the fact that many Negroes are at work in strawberry fields at the present time.

4-H Camp

Letters have been mailed to 4-H boys and girls who are eligible for camp. The daily schedule is a part of each announcement. Miss Maude Hedgepeth of Conway and Miss Irene Worthington of Winterville will be the chaperones for the girls. Mrs. Blanche Cherry will be camp nurse. Several have made exhibits recently and are being added to the eligible list.

4-H Health

4-H club work includes equal training of head, heart, hand and health. Each spring all members are given a chance for a health checkup in their local clubs. The County Health department makes this check. Those scoring highest are asked to report to the Health Department May 22 to determine the highest scoring boy and girl. This is more than a contest as we want each member to know what his condition is and work to improve as much as possible. For that reason each examination book has been mailed back to the members. They should be kept in the scrap book for future use. Any boys or girls not in school the day the nurses visited to make the check are requested to come with the others May 22. The following scored high and are expected to come to the Health Department on May 22 at 10 A. MURDER ON THE BLUFF

SYNOPSIS: A mysterious shot kills attractive Jude Blunson on a wild, stormy night at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunt. A series of strange attacks makes everyone jittery in the marooned household. Mike, the Skipper, his tall, tweedy younger aunt; Aunt Martha, stout and prudish, Gay Palmer, Mike's red-headed sweetheart, myself and the four servants. On the second nerve-racking day, we find a man's body below
 the bluff; it is Michael's father, insane and supposedly dead since Mike was an infant. Mike gets drunk and scraps with Gay.

Chapter 26 Norman's Story

I CLIMBED out of the hideous silence like a drowning man coming up for the last time.

"Stop it!" I roared, and my voice struck weirdly on my own ears. "Stop it! Are you crazy?"

He whirled on me. "Yes. Do you finally get it? Crazy! Mad! Insane!"

I was struggling desperately with the horrible doubts in my mind
 "You're drunk," I said. "You're drunk.
 There's nothing else wrong with you.
 You're imagining things."

He moved away from my restraining hand, leaving me with the words still in my throat. "Nice going," he said, and stood grinning at me foolishly.

His unexpected calm frightened me more than his raving. Was it possible that he had inherited — something?
 Could it have been Michael, and not that wretched bundle on the billiard table, who had —

"Mike," I said. "Mike, listen —" and we all turned to face the Skipper surveying us grimly from the door. She was looking beyond me, straight at Michael.

"Well," she said at last. "Now what?"

Mike's voice was thick and deliberately blurred, it seemed to me. "Not that," he asserted with loud geniality.
 "C'mon in, Skipper, and make Jimmie keep quiet."

What the devil was he up to? There had been no liquor in him a minute
 ago. Putting on an act for the Skipper.
 Why? I gazed at him.

"Skip it!" I growled. "How's Aunt Martha, Skipper?"

The Skipper had gotten the point as thoroughly as any one of us, but she never blinked.

"Sleeping. I dozed her well. Incidentally, that's a good prescription for all of us—sleep."

Mike chuckled drunkenly, too
 damned drunkenly to be convincing.
 For a split second he and the Skipper looked at one another, the Skip-per's frown enigmatical. Mike's eyes soberly defiant. Then he turned and reeled out of the room.

Gay broke the awkward pause.
 "No gals," she said.

"Would you mind," the Skipper's voice was quizzical, "telling us what leads you to that conclusion?"

"Gay hesitated. Then slowly, "Nothing. Nerves of my own, maybe."

Hiding A Madman
 SHE turned to the mess on the floor,
 stooped and began to pick up broken bits of glass. After a moment, I moved to help her. Righting the table, I deposited the debris upon it. There was no blinking of the fact that with the actual danger gone and a good 18 hours of waiting before release could possibly come, our nerves were going to play the devil with us. Mike was drunk, worn out and suffering from a series of nasty shocks. Upon thinking it over, I put no credence in his wild announcement. It was merely a sample of what we might expect unless we all got a grip on ourselves. Did Gay believe him? Her face was forbidding. Certainly their continual rows had at last gone beyond the joke stage.

Our task was finished without comment from the Skipper, who sat on the divan smoking, her eyes on the floor. Gay, I think, was wishing herself out of that room quite as heartily as I was.

"I think," said the Skipper, "that we'd better clear up a few things right now."

Very decidedly I did not want to hear that explanation.

"Why not wait?" I ventured.

The Skipper shook her head.
 "There's been too much waiting. I want you to tell this to Michael at once." She was leaning forward, not looking at either of us, her words
 coming with slow precision. "Norman Farrington was my half-brother—Martha's brother. She was very fond of him. Shortly after Michael was born, his father contracted some kind of jungle fever in South America. He never recovered—mentally. He has been in various asylums ever since.
 Mike never knew it. There seemed no reason why he should. It had ruined Martha's life and that was enough. The condition was incurable." She paused to draw heavily on her cigarette.

I said eagerly, "It isn't hereditary?"

"Obviously not." She blew a long,
 slow stream of smoke into the already clouded room. "Several months ago Norman somehow managed to get away from Dr. Crane. Martha used to visit him regularly and I imagine that she slipped him some money. At any rate, he got hold of some, and bribed two of the guards. The place is only 10 miles from here. Half an hour after he got out, he arrived here in a taxi. Unfortunately he was enjoying a temporarily lucid interval, and I had trouble with Martha. His stories of the life in that place were—pitiful. Nothing I could say would convince her that he was not permanently cured."

I poured her some brandy, but she didn't taste it.

"Martha worshipped him. And I—well, he was my brother. Between them, they convinced me against my better judgment to allow him to stay here. No one knew about it but Higgins. Fortunately none of the other servants had seen him arrive. And Higgins was—Higgins."

"We kept him in Mike's room, locked in most of the time. Once or twice we brought him downstairs at night when the other servants were out of the way and it seemed quite safe.
 Higgins managed his meals and his laundry, and he used some of Mike's clothes. The asylum was constantly in touch with us, but wedded like troopers.
 He really did seem to be all right.
 That was eight weeks ago.

"I suppose the strain began to tell
 on me, and Martha began to worry.
 She wanted me to see a doctor, and so on. The last thing I wanted in this house was a doctor. I might have gone into town just to satisfy her, but I couldn't risk leaving her here alone with Norman. In the end, she sent for Michael and Julie. Her plan worked.
 Of course, I didn't dare allow that girl to come here without some man in the house to look after her. I was criminally negligent. I allowed you all to come—even asked you myself."

Quietly she drained her brandy glass.

"We transferred Norman to Higgins'
 room while we were at dinner Friday night, he escaped. I said nothing to Martha. Her heart is bad. I went out to look for him myself, and when I got back things had happened. I kept quiet because I knew we could get no outside help. We were as much on guard as we could be, and the idea of a roaming, homicidal maniac
 wouldn't have cheered any of you up.

"Martha is childish in some respects.
 She will never believe that Norman had anything to do with all this. I'm glad of it. All things considered, his falling over the bluff was the best thing that could have happened. It ends the damned mess anyway. I wish you'd tell this to Mike before he drinks himself into thinking that he's John Wilkes Booth."

She rose slowly to her feet. "I think I'll lie down now for a bit, if you don't mind."

No Wedding In The Spring
 I WATCHED her go up the stairs,
 head and shoulders very straight and the hand resting on the railing limp and weary. Gay was standing stiffly at the window when I finally turned around.

"Well?" I said awkwardly.
 She turned with a twisted smile.
 "I haven't been exactly True Blue Lou, have I, Jim?"

I muttered inanely. "None of us is covered with blue ribbons. Anyone gets off his oats."

She began an aimless ramble about the room, fingering knick-knacks
 without interest. "That doesn't help things much. We'd been thinking of a wedding in the spring, Jim. I don't think we'll bother now."

"That's stupid!" I said at all the more loudly because I knew that I lied. "The best thing for you to do is to forget that whole damned fuss. It's all over.
 Why keep it alive?"

"We won't be able to help it. Every time we lose our heads a little, we'll remember that we let each other down. We'll be flinging it at each other."

I had no answer ready for that one.
 Gay seized the poker and began to beat monotonously on the fender.

"It's been rather a costly weekend
 for me."

"Look here," I said roughly, "what do you think it's been for Jude? Or the Skipper?"

The annoying rapping continued.
 "The Skipper deserved it in a way.
 She brought it on herself." She was deliberately working herself up.
 More nerves.

"Bunk!" I snapped, heading for the door. "I'm going to talk to Mike.
 There's nothing for you to worry about. Why don't you go to bed?"

"There's a lot to worry about," doggedly. "The more I think—"

But I walked out and left her to her thoughts. Higgins was in the hall, arranging some boxes.

"Storm's over, Higgins," I said.
 "Everything will be all right by morning."

"Mr. Jimmie—" He stopped me on the stairs. "Could I— That is, would you have time to—"

I had never heard the man stutter
 before in all my life.

 While Chairman Dunlap did not reveal the purpose of his mission nor what he intended to do while in Washington, it was learned today from an authoritative source that he planned to confer first with Congressman Doughton, the "daddy"
 of the parkway and to whom President Roosevelt is understood to have given definite assurance that the parkway would be completed. He was also planning to confer with Senator Robert R. Ru-nolds and other members of the North Carolina delegation—possibly even with Senator Bailey, although the senior senator is not expected to be of much or any help

 at the present time—as to the best approach to make or procedure to follow. It is known of course, that "economy at any price" bloc in the house, consisting mostly of northern and eastern Democrats and the few

Republicans, are slashing appropriations right and left. It is also known that many of these have very little love for Congressman Doughton because of the tax bills
 he has passed through Congress,
 and that some are on a too willing to try to get back at him.

But Congressman Doughton is noted for being a smart horse trader
 in Congress as well as a good stock market in Alleghany county, with the result that those who know him are betting that he will be able to get the parkway appropriation passed back up to at least $5,000,000 if not to the original $10-000,000. They also believe that he will be able to get the support of the President for the early pushing of the parkway work.

in an effort to get the parkway route diverted into Tennessee. They are confident that Doughton, with his many contacts and his tremendous influence, will be able to at least get an adequate appropriation for the parkway through the house.
 But even if the appropriation gets through the house, it will face hard sledding in the senate. It is agreed, for Senator Kenneth Mc-Keller of Tennessee is chairman of the senate appropriations committee, is sure to have the support of his new colleague, Senator George L. Berry, a strong New Dealer. But in the senate, the North Carolina parkway advocates will have to depend almost solely upon the work of Senator Robert R. Reynolds, due to the fact that Senator Bailey, for the time being at least, is in the administration dog house because of his opposition to the President.

 if they want to live to get home,
 otherwise they are likely to drive off the road and fall hundreds of feet down sheer precipices. Director Fulk said. "Others of these counties are very small, have very few licensed cars and drivers. Some of these counties are also more or less remote and off the beaten path
 of traffic and of the highway patrons."

The highway safety division is now working out a table, based on the relationship of the number of licenses revocations to the number of registered automobiles, which will show the percentage of revocations
 to the car registration in each county. These figures will give a far more accurate picture of the amount of drunken driving, as indicated by revocations, in each county than do the figures released today. Director Fulk pointed out.

While Director Fulk had no comment to make on the number of revocations in the 18 counties which have had legal liquor stores, it is regarded as significant by many observers that there have been fewer revocations for drunken driving in many of these counties than in many other "dry" counties of similar size and population.

The counties and the number of revocations in each during the past

CALIFORNIA PLANTED FISH, REAPED AN INDUSTRY

San Francisco (AP) —Sixty-six years ago 12,000 young shad were transplanted from the Hudson river to California waters and two years later 35,000 more were transferred.

Today shad is an important commercial fish from Monterey bay to the Columbia river and is found in lesser quantities from Mexico to Alaska. It cost the government less than $4,000 to do the stocking and commercial fishermen have taken in an estimated $400,000 as a result.

That the driver's license law in North Carolina is removing dangerous automobile drivers from the roads is evidenced by the fact that already 10,000 motorists have had their licenses revoked. There are still far too many reckless drivers in this state and too many highway accidents, but every time a license is revoked one more menace to the public safety has been removed.

So far attendance at the local ball games has been small. It may be that Greenville's showing to date is having a tendency to cut down the attendance because it is typical that our local fans will not support a losing team. On the other hand it is also true that a team that is receiving good support will strive a little harder than one that is not being supported, so maybe the poor attendance so far is having its effect upon the team's standing in the percentage column. Be a good sport, win or lose. Attend the games and support the team. Be a booster instead of a knocker and maybe you can help boost the Greenville team to a higher place in the percentage column.

Washington Daybook

By PRESTON GROVER

Washington—The public in general found no reason for Senator Borah cutting loose on Fascism the other day but when suddenly he vented his rage against the air-bombing of the Basque city of Guernica, those harsh words were sweet to the ears of 2,000 constituents.

It would be silly to say the senator spoke out only because he wanted those 2,000 votes. In the first place he doesn't need them since he was reelected last year in the face of the Roosevelt landslide by a majority so large that 2,000 votes mean little. That Basque colony is highly cherished in Idaho and he is truly said they live with vigor, save earnestly and spend wisely.

Hardened Lot
The Basques and Borah moved in on Idaho at about the same time so have sort of grown up together, although Borah took to politics and the Basques to sheep raising.

Much of Spain is high and barren and living is tough, but these Spanish Basques were hardened to the desert ways. It is true their careful living crowded some natives out of the sheep business, but it also must be recorded that few of them are found on railroad section gangs and still fewer on relief.

They go in for fine homes in the Spanish style and are clamish a fair degree, but natives who can fathom their way if life share liberally in their business. They dance so hard their men are soured in sweat and their games are equally hard, which may explain some of the troubles of Franco's columns around Bilbao.

Good Drinkers
Their drinking is also on the sterner side and two Driscoll brothers of Boise, lawyer and banker, have enjoyed the good will of the Basques partly because neither has been "put under the table" at the autumn fiesta, when the herders come in from the range.

Because Dean Driscoll the lawyer, is plump and cocky they center their attentions on him and make him drink glass for glass with them of straight whiskey. By slyly eating bread along with the whiskey (so of the Basques keep him supplied as part of the fun), he has always managed to rise from the table under his own power while the Basques, taking their whiskey neat, have gone down fighting.

How's Your Health?

By Dr. Iago Galdston

Nutrition and Disease
The belief is widespread that certain vitamins and foods may be properly called anti-infective or anti-disease agents. Increasing knowledge on the relationship of nutrition to disease has shown that this notion is untrue. There are no anti-infective agents properly so called.

To begin with, it is questionable whether good nutrition, of and by itself, can protect one against contracting any of the infectious diseases. It is much more likely that good nutrition influences the course of the disease, once it is developed, and promotes a favorable outcome. In this light, we may consider all the elements that enter into good nutrition as having a good effect upon "resistance to disease."

Special attention has been centered on the individual's need for an adequate intake of vitamin A. This is the so-called fat-soluble vitamin found abundantly in milk and milk foods, in the yolk of eggs, in certain fish oils and in the form of carotin, in the yellow vegetables. Lack of this vitamin, it has been shown, results in a degenerative change in the cells of the mucus membranes. This change renders the membranes less efficient in keeping bacteria from invading the body.

Since quite a number of the infectious diseases develop "by way" of the respiratory tract, the emphasis which has been laid upon the necessity for taking in an adequate supply of this vitamin appears warranted. However, again the warning must be issued not to draw the conclusion that vitamin A is either an or the anti-infective vitamin.

When nutritional deficiencies are of a marked character, as in starvation, famine or grossly inadequate dietetic practices, we are likely to find resistance to disease in general feeble. Certain disease conditions may be more prevalent than others, but in addition to those morbid conditions specifically due to the malnutrition proper, the victim is an easy mark for whatever disease is about.

There is a study on record of two East African tribes. One tribe ate mostly cereals, while the other lived chiefly on meat, milk and raw blood. The environmental conditions of both tribes were practically identical. The first tribe, whose diet was inadequate, was by far the sicker, and showed many more hospital admissions.

'SLUMGUM MACHINE' EXTRACTS BEES' HONEY

Mitchell, Neb. (AP) — W. T. Brand, honey farm operator, invented a "slumgum machine" for his own use. So successful is his contrivance that its manufacture and sale has developed into a business which can't keep up with the orders.

Slumgum is bee glue, old cocoons and other things bees forget to take out of their combs. Brand's machine—he calls it a "honey capping melter"—looks like a bathtub, operates with waste steam and uses the heat principal to separate pure honey, beeswax and slumgum, or residue, from the cappings or comb sides.

The honey and wax are drawn off automatically, honey from the bottom and wax from the top, but the slumgum must be skimmed from the wax occasionally.

BUYS WESTINGHOUSE REFRIGERATORS TO MEET RIGID ECONOMY REQUIREMENTS IN LOW-RENT HOUSING

To provide modern, safe food-keeping facilities at lowest cost in 34 low-rent housing projects in 26 cities, the Housing Division of the U. S. Public Works Administration late in 1936 called for sealed bids from leading refrigerator manufacturers. Bids were based on initial price added to cost of electricity for ten years. Westinghouse won... though four other manufacturers quoted lower unit prices. Low current consumption made possible by Westinghouse features, convinced Government buyers that on a 10-year basis it costs less to own a Westinghouse.

Greenville, with only two wins to its credit, dropped its sixth game yesterday afternoon in the only contest played in the Coastal Plain league. The Greenies were defeated 9 to 3 by Snow Hill, which went ahead of Kinston in the standings. Greenville will meet New Bern here this afternoon and tomorrow will go to the Craven capital for a return game. The local team will not be seen in action on the home diamond again until next Wednesday, when it will play the Goldsboro nine.

Greenville's three runs in yesterday's encounter came in sixth, seventh and ninth frames. The first scored only after Snow Hill had piled up a lead of six runs. The Greene county team added two more in its half of the sixth and another in the eighth.

Latham, local centerfielder, was the only member of the Greenville team to get more than one hit. He made two of Greenville's eight safeties.

Wright, Snow Hill hurler, was effective in the pinches and kept the Greenies under control throughout the game.

Henry Soufas, Wilson youngster making his debut with the Billies got off to a good start, cracking a single, triple and homer in four times at bat. He also was responsible for three of Snow Hill's tallies. Two other homers were clouted by members of the Snow Hill team.

Chips Off The Old Block

ORANGES 'GIVE ALL' ON ONE-WAY RIDE

"PARDON ME FOR POINTING"
Los Angeles (AP)—Big business is now squeezing oranges on an "assembly line." It's all very simple. The fruit rolls into the top of the machine and is cut in half. Each half is grasped by a holder which carries it into contact with a revolving "reaming head." In a moment the juice flows away through a stainless steel pipe and the rind rides on to the end of the line. Seventy-five gallons are extracted an hour by the California Consumers Corporation which freezes the juice and ships it everywhere.

Flanagan Winner In Softball Tilt

The Flanagan Buggy company defeated Person Garret yesterday afternoon in the only softball game played in the city league. The Ford men won 8 to 4 in a game featured by the stellar playing, both at field and at bat, by Ty Wagner, Davis and Charlie Whiteford for the winners and Mills for Person Garret.

The other game yesterday, Lawlers and Tadlock Mutual League was called off on account of rain.

SINGTON'S ROMERS LONGEST AT 'BAMA

Tuscaloosa, Ala. (AP)—Fred Sington, Washington Senator outfielder, was one of the greatest football players ever to graduate from the University of Alabama. Freddie was an all-America tackle on the undefeated 1930 team. In baseball, Sington pitched, played outfield, and poled some of the longest homers ever hit at 'Bama.

IN 1895 Samuel P. Langley built a steam-power airplane that flew for six seconds.

SEEK UNIFORM LIQUOR PRICES

State Commission Plans to Assume Further Control

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, May 15.—The chairmen and members of the various county liquor control boards are meeting here again today with the State Alcoholic Beverages Control board to discuss the new rules and regulations being prepared by the state board and to study the new uniform price list. The meeting started at 11 o'clock this morning in the Carolina Hotel, with Chairman Cutler Moore of the state control board presiding.

One of the first matters taken up was the study of the new tentative price list prepared by the state board and which will be substituted for all existing county store price lists as soon as finally approved and sent out to the stores. This list will not only contain uniform prices which will be effective in all the county liquor stores, but will also have uniform code numbers, to facilitate the invoicing of stock and the keeping of records. Chairman Moore pointed out. The new list contains some 400 numbers, representing some 200 different brands and will leave off brands which have not been selling well.

Only pints and quarts will be sold in the state — county liquor stores from now on, except in imported liquors. Chairman Moore said. This is the rule followed in Virginia.

"We believe it will be better to permit only pints and quarts to be sold, since many people do not understand what a 'fifth' is and are displeased when they find it is less than a full quart," Chairman Moore said. "As a result, we are going to permit the sale of fifths only in the imported liquors which do not bottle anything larger. This will also tend to eliminate confusion and make it easier to check the stocks in the various stores."

Much discussion was also devoted to accounting methods in an effort to evolve a uniform accounting system for all the stores. Plans are being worked out so that every store will be able to keep a constant daily audit on sales and stock, so that every store manager will be able to know exactly what he has on hand at the close of business every day.

ETHIOPIA LOOKS LIKE FAR WEST IN A GOLD RUSH

Addis Ababa, Italian Ethiopia — (AP)—Addis Ababa, under Mussolini's rule, is teeming with scenes reminiscent of American gold rush days. America's "Go West, young man!" has become the Italian "go South, and thousands of new citizens are pouring into the capital.

The Italian settlers left electricity, gas, running water and sewerage and they want them here, where they do not exist. Right now the prime necessity is a roof overhead.

Many Ethiopian buildings constructed of mud, with corrugated iron roofs on which the rain plays an arid chorus, have been taken over by the Italians.

Engineers are surveying a water-fall's near Addis Ababa with the intention of harnessing it to provide electricity for the city.

Water is provided by wells and an aqueduct from the Entotto hills, but is not piped to the houses. A bath is a great luxury. Garbage collection has just started.

Despite these still primitive conditions social life in the capital is fairly gay.

Although the United States has a population almost three times as large as Great Britain, our income tax brings in about $150,000,000 less annually.

Man O' War is 20 years old. That's mighty old—for a thoroughbred. Yet the most famous racehorse in American turf history is being acclaimed as the sire of War Admiral, winner of the 63rd renewal of the Kentucky Derby. Man O' War never was an ordinary thoroughbred.

War Admiral is not the first Man O' War colt to win the blue grass classic for 3-year-olds. Clyde Van Dusen won the race in 1929, but no one ever gave him much credit for it. The race was run in a sea of mud. Clyde Van Dusen simply got out in front when the barrier was sprung and stayed there.

A prominent racing man recently went on record as saying that, in his opinion, Clyde Van Dusen was the poorest example of any Derby-winning thoroughbred he had seen. He had seen many Derbies.

No one can question War Admiral's right to the honors that go with winning the Derby. He won as he pleased, in the second fastest time ever turned over the modern derby

LAW DESIGNED AID CHILDREN

Human Legislation to Go Into Effect On July 1st

Raleigh, May 15.—One of the most humane and liberal ever to be adopted by any Commonwealth will go into effect in North Carolina on July 1 of this year.

It will be the Aid to Dependent Children Act, which became a law through action of the 1937 General Assembly.

No more will the spectre of hardship and suffering face a bereaved widow and fatherless children, left to the mercy of the world without income sufficiently adequate to care for them in even the most modest manner.

The various orphanages scattered throughout the state have been closed and the work done by them there have been thousands of orphans who were not eligible for entrance into these havens of refuge for the underprivileged.

The Aid to Dependent Children Act not only will take care of children left without a father—it also will embrace those who, for any good reason, are not receiving the proper care and training because of a lack of money.

Children under 16 years of age, living with either their father, mother, grandfather, grandmother, brother, sister, or other relatives will be cared for if it is shown that those charged with their keeping are not situated so as to give them the advantages to which they are entitled.

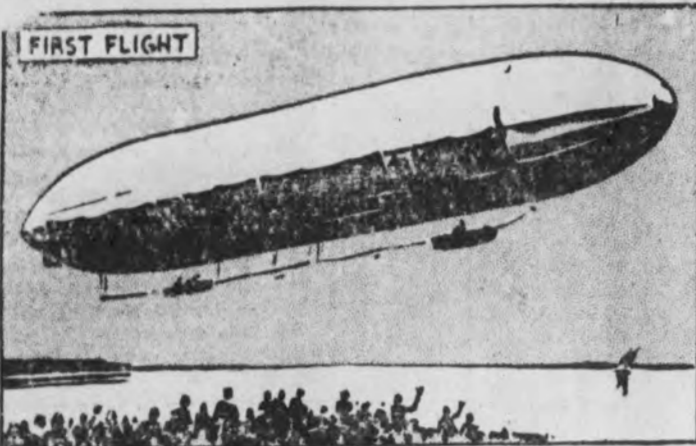

The Act provides that children eligible for benefits shall either have been born or resided within North Carolina for at least one year prior to the filing of an application for assistance, or that the mother of the applicant also has been a resident of the state for a similar period, and that she has not the means of a decent livelihood for herself and her children. Applications for aid are to be made to agencies which will be established in each of the 100 counties of the state.

The maximum amount any one child may receive under provisions of the Act is $18 per month, with each additional child of the same family being allowed $12, provided the total does not exceed $86 per month. One-third of the cost of administering the Aid to Dependent Children Act will be borne by the counties, with the state and federal governments also absorbing one-third each.

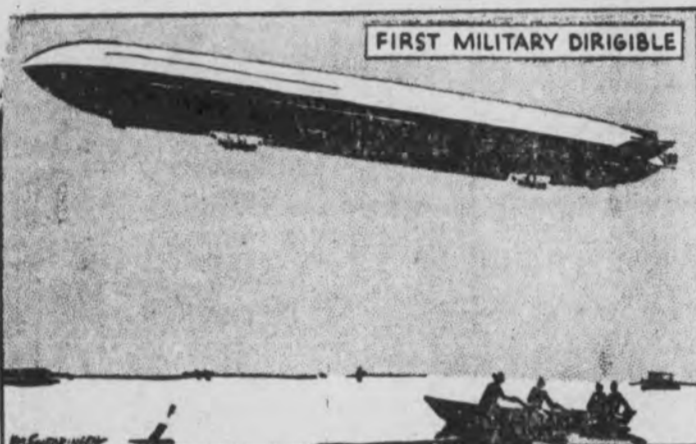

ZEP'S STORMY HISTORY DATES BACK 37 YEARS

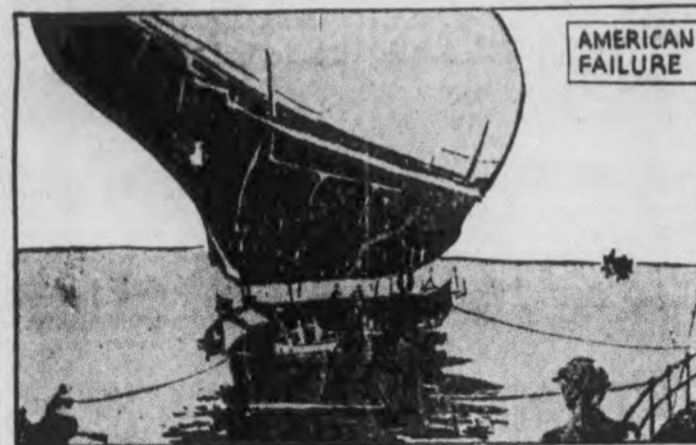

Airship navigation, now shaken after its greatest triumphs by the loss of the Hindenburg, began at the turn of the century when a German cavalry officer, Count Ferdinand von Zeppelin, made the first flight in a rigid dirigible.

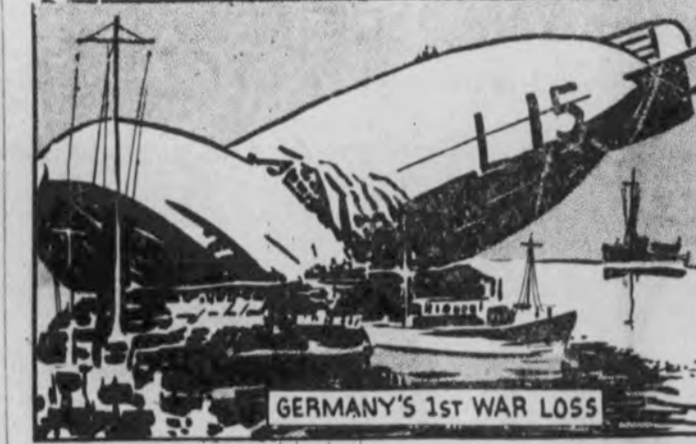

Lake Constance on the German-Swiss border of Württemberg was thronged with sightseers on July 2, 1900, as the 62-year-old inventor took the big, called zeppelin after him, up 1,300 feet. He soared for 20 minutes at eight miles an hour.

Eight years later Zeppelin's largest dirigible burned up after a gate tore it from its moorings. But the German government, impressed by Zeppelin's great progress, bought another for the army. The Kaiser saw it demonstrated in November, 1908.

By October, 1910 an American, Walter Wellman, was ready to try the Atlantic in "America," a dirigible that had been built in Paris. Four hours out of Atlantic City, engine trouble forced it down at sea, but the crew was saved.

The war gave Germany a new use for her zeppelins—bombarding London. On April 1, 1916, however, the LZ-129 fell victim to British planes while returning from a raid and dropped into the sea near the Kent coast, Germany's first loss. Those aboard were rescued.

Forerunning Germany's Graf Zeppelin and Hindenburg, the British airship was the first to fly the Atlantic when its R-34 made a round-trip to New York in July, 1919. Records were established both ways, according to "The World in the Air," a history of these events.

COTTON QUILTS USED TO BUILD TEXAS ROADS
Austin, Tex. (AP)—Texans use old-fashioned cotton quilts to build concrete highways.

Cotton quilts—which officials say are nothing more than quilts—are used in "curing" newly laid pavement. It started as an experiment to develop a new use for the state's chief crop but officials found that the quilts when wetted and placed on new paving for 72 hours were more efficient than bitum—imported from India—for their purpose.
