Explosion of Boiler On Japanese Vessel Wrecks Pier

BODIES HURLED GREAT DISTANCE

Some Found on Roofs of Buildings in Vicinity, Others On Club House Veranda

Hong Kong, May 17.—(AP)—The explosion of a boiler aboard a Japanese launch made a shambles of the Hong Kong water front tonight, killing perhaps 50 persons and blowing bodies over an area of some 200 yards to a quarter of a mile.

The launch was owned by a steamship company. Every member of her crew was killed. Other victims were numerous Japanese boatmen and passers-by in the vicinity.

Parts of several bodies was blown even to the veranda of the Hong Kong club from the Queen's pier vicinity, scene of the blast. Several bodies were found on roofs of buildings in the vicinity.

New Director For Public Assistance Post Begins Work

Nathan H. Yelton of Bakersville to Administer Various Phases of Welfare Activities

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, May 17.—Nathan H. Yelton, of Bakersville, Mitchell County, today began his duties as Director of the Division of Public Assistance, North Carolina Board of Charities and Public Welfare. This division will be in charge of administering the various phases of the old age pensions act and to dependent children act adopted by the 1937 session of the general assembly.

Mr. Yelton, a graduate of Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., was appointed to the post several weeks ago by Mrs. W. T. Bost, Commissioner of Charities and Public Welfare, with the approval of Governor Clyde R. Hoey. The delay in assuming his new duties was occasioned by efforts to secure his successor as superintendent of schools in Mitchell county.

The new public Assistance Director is a graduate of Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., where he majored in the social sciences. In addition, Mr. Yelton did graduate work at his alma mater and at the University of North Carolina in rural education and social problems.

For the last six years, Mr. Yelton has served as Superintendent of schools in Mitchell county. He also has been ex-officio Superintendent of Public Welfare for the same county during the last five years.

Owensboro, Ky. (AP)—It has fallen in the Owensboro police line of duty to:

Serve as attendant "physician" to a cow giving birth to a calf.

Informed an alarmed woman that the snoring in another room of her house was not a burglar but her inebriated son.

SPEAKE REFUSES TO 'NECK' CAROLINA QUEENS

Senator Roy Reynolds can kiss Jean Harlow if he likes, but Speaker William B. Bankhead most definitely isn't going to put his arms around these Charleston, S. But the House Speaker proved to be an agreeable host to Helen Lebby (left), Charleston queen, and Elizabeth West (right), azalea queen, during their visit to the capital.

SPAT BROUGHT OUT INTO OPEN

British Press Discusses Controversy Over Duke's Choice

London, May 17.—(AP)—The British press today brought out into the open the controversy over a royal recognition of Mrs. Wallis Warfield by a controversy of its own over the possibility of formal announcement of her engagement to the Duke of Windsor by King George VI, himself.

While the Sunday Referee reported the king was ready to extend the royal family's sanction to the match by announcing the betrothal of his brother and the woman for whom Edward gave up his throne, The Express said such a move was impossible.

"Eccelesiastical objections" to Mrs. Warfield as a twice divorced person, The Express said, prevented the king from taking any such action.

The Sunday Referee, which has not always been correct in its information concerning the abdicated monarch and his American fiancée, predicted King George would announce his brother's engagement this week.

"It will be the royal family's first public recognition of the Duke's association with Mrs. Warfield," the Referee declared.

The likely form of the announcement to take, the paper said, would be "the king learns with pleasure of the betrothal of his brother."

Vaccination Clinics Underway In County

Dr. N. Thomas Emmett, county health officer, today called attention to the fact that the typhoid fever and diphtheria clinics being conducted in the Western half of the county would continue four weeks so that a person who missed the first treatment could get the three inoculations.

The clinic is in its second week now. The vaccine is furnished free to a cent fee is charged for the diphtheria vaccination.

The clinics are being confined to the Western half of the county at the present time, but Dr. Emmett announced that the health department would start work in the Eastern half of the county on June 14.

Barnhill And Winborne Slated For Court Posts

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, May 17.—Judge M. V. Barnhill of Rocky Mount and J. Wallace Winborne of Marion are being regarded as the best bets in the race for the two appointments to the state supreme court, to be made by Governor Clyde R. Hoey before July 1 and just about the only really luscious appointments he has yet to make.

Now that Hubert Olive of Lexington has been neatly tucked into his berth as a special judge at $8,080 a year, virtually the only remaining obstacle in the path of the appointment of Winborne to the supreme court has been eliminated, in the opinion of most observers here.

Some thing that, Winborne may not want the appointment if it is offered him, since he may prefer to stay in Marion and practice law, since most observers maintain that Winborne's income from his law practice is considerably in excess of the $8,000 a year he would get as an associate justice on the state supreme court. In case Winborne should decline the appointment, Judge Felix E. Alley of Waynesville

Farm Agent Back From Meeting At Manteo Last Week

Begins Cleaning Up Unpaid 1936 Soil Conservation Payments and Preparing For New Program

County Farm Agent R. R. Bennett returned to his office here today after having spent the latter part of last week at Manteo attending the annual district conference of farm agents.

C. D. Griggs, assistant agent, left today to attend the conference, which was divided into four meetings. He will return Wednesday.

Agent Bennett declared that much was being derived from the conference, at which specialists are discussing state and national farm problems.

Upon returning here, the county agent began work on cleaning up unpaid 1936 soil conservation applications and completing sign-up of work sheets for participation in the 1937 program.

Additional payments under the 1936 program were received here last week, making a total of $510,127.80 paid Pitt county farmers. The checks were made out to 5,481 individuals on 1,974 applications. Mr. Bennett said that payments were to be received on 170 more applications, making a total of 2,144 for the entire county. Approximately $600,000 will be received in all in the county under the 1936 program.

Most of the county's 6,384 farmers are participating in the federal farm program, 5,481 individuals already having received checks.

is regarded as being next in line. But most of those in political circles here who have been keeping their ears to the ground are convinced that the western appointment will be offered to Winborne and that he will accept it.

The contest for the eastern appointment has been much more spirited and there has been a number of potential candidates for it. But present indications are that Judge Barnhill is now well out in front of all those who have been mentioned as possible appointees.

For many weeks now the opinion has prevailed in the best informed circles that the eastern appointment would go either to Judge Barnhill, Judge G. Vernon Cowper of Kingston or to John G. Dawson, also of Kingston, while at one time it looked as if it had narrowed down to either Corper or Dawson, with Dawson being given the edge.

For it was being recalled that Dawson was one of Governor Hoey's "unofficial" campaign managers during the primary last spring and regarded as one of his best political

GIVES THEORY ON EXPLOSION

One of Hindenburg's Riggers Investigated Witness

Lakehurst, N. J., May 17.—(AP)—One of the Hindenburg's riggers who was on duty close to the spot where the destructive flames burst forth from her stern gave the Department of Commerce Investigating Board today his opinion that a gas cell started the disaster.

Hans Freund, the only one of the dirigible's three riggers to survive, was the first witness yet called who was able to give any account of what took place in the stern when the fire occurred.

His story emphasized the speed and lack of warning which characterized the destruction of the Nazi dirigible.

He had reached a station near the fire, he related, and was attempting to pay out a steel landing cable when it happened.

"There was a muffled detonation and I was standing in fire," he related. "It went so quickly."

"How far were you from the source of the fire?" he was asked.

"I was surrounded by fire," he answered. "It came of course from above. I had the impression it was a gas cell," he added after saying he could not tell whether the flames enveloping him came from the forward or aft direction.

Freund said he was one of the three men who inspected the dirigible's gas cells, but the other two perished in the disaster. He could not supply information on the gas level of the last cell in the stern at the time of the fire, but he did not have the final watch on that duty.

Black Locust Trees Planted By Farmers

farmers in Yancey county have planted 275,800 black locust trees, 263,600 pines, 2,678 black walnut seeds, 22 chestnut trees, and 230 persimmon trees this year on badly eroded land in an effort to control erosion on the adjacent fields, reports County Agent George W. Smith. The work was carried on in cooperation with the CCC camp at Bakersville. Smith also reports that the milk collecting truck is now getting 165 gallons of milk each trip. The route was started May 1 and collections have gradually increased. The truck will run daily, he said.

Demonstrations Held On Use Of Fertilizer

Charlotte, May 17.—Demonstrations to determine the proper placement of fertilizer under cotton were begun last week by J. W. Smith of Providence township, and J. E. Ross of Huntersville, in Mecklenburg county. In the demonstrations, fertilizer was placed two inches on either side of the cotton and two inches below the seed. Each grower will use his regular method of fertilization and planting with the remainder of the crop, says County Agent O. H. Phillips. A similar demonstration with corn will be conducted on the farm of J. Boyd Monteth, says Phillips.

RENEW EFFORT FORM CABINET GOVERN SPAIN

Former Socialist Minister Chosen As New Premier

REBELS PREPARE TO TAKE BILBAO

Lines Straightened Out on Front Only 10 Miles from Capital City of Basques

Valencia, Spain, May 17.—(AP)—Dr. Juan Negrin, Socialist former minister of the treasury, began today an effort to form Spain's sixth civil war government.

President Manuel Azana, called from virtual retirement to find a "win the war" government after Premier Francisco Largo Caballero was forced to resign, selected Dr. Negrin as premier — designate after he had talked with both the treasury minister and with Diego Martinez Barrio, president of congress.

Largo Caballero, asked, first to try a new government, failed to obtain the support of all parties.

Dr. Negrin, the new man of the hour, is 48 years old and a former professor of medicine at the University of Madrid.

INSURGENTS PREPARE FINAL ASSAULT ON BASQUE CAPITAL

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier, May 17.—(AP)—Spain's insurgent armies of the North, creeping at small pace toward their Bilbao goal for a month and a half, straightened their lines on a long and curving front some 10 miles from the Basque capital today to clear the way for the final assault.

There were unconfirmed reports that insurgent help from the sea was imminent to enable Generalissimo Franco's forces to completely encircle Bilbao. A fleet of insurgent transporters guarded by war ships was reported sighted off the Spanish Biscayan coast, but the advice could not be verified.

Fighting hand to hand, Basque loyalists blocked the insurgent advance Bilbao on the Heights of Descarg.

After hours of intense bombardment of the series of hills held by the enemy, the government troops went over the top to take one of the mountain strongholds at bayonet's point.

They were met by a hail of rifle and machine gun fire and showered with hand grenades as they reached the opposing trenches on the upper slopes.

Despite the bitter insurgent resistance, the Basques succeeded in reaching the top of the hill where they forced back the insurgent defenders after a bloody hand to hand battle.

Government commanders said the capture of the positions left the insurgents in a precarious straits.

CHARLESTON HOPES FOR BIG AIR BASE

Charleston, S. C., May 17.—(AP)—Charleston, the third largest American seaport before the Revolution, cherishes prospects of regaining some of its importance through the newest trend in travel — trans-Atlantic air voyages.

Pan-American Airways, Inc., sponsor of an oceanic service, selected Charleston as a terminus for seasonal use in trial flights of its giant planes across the Atlantic next year.

As yet, airways executives say, no permanent landing place has been designated on either side of the ocean but city officials plan to convert one of the huge old brick rice mills on the municipal shores into a hangar.

Another abandoned rice mill, a mile farther down the Ashley river, has been remodeled into a depot for the United States lighthouse service.

The 266-year-old port, changing with the times, will build a ramp into the amply deep stream from West Point mill, a three-story building of colonial lines.

DOGS MORE JEALOUS THAN HUMANS, OWNER SAYS

Houston, Texas (AP)—Well-bred dogs, says A. J. Astrich, who has three breeds, are more jealous than humans.

"I wouldn't go far enough to say that any dog could sense that he had been left out of a show," Astrich said, "but one certainly would notice it if another dog was receiving an unusual amount of attention."

"If I pet my German Shepherd, the Boston and the Pomeranian are very quick in letting me know they don't like it. A dog can sense anger or disapproval in a gesture of his master."

CALL ELECTION GIRL SLAIN BY IN STEEL MILL YOUNG MOTHER

Jones & Laughlin Workers To Name Bargaining Agency

Pittsburgh, May 17.—(AP)—The Steel Workers Organizing Committee, set to call strikes in the nation's independent steel producing firms unless it obtains collective bargaining agreement, turned today to an employee election in the Jones and Laughlin steel corporation plant the vote Thursday will determine if the committee shall be the collective bargaining agency for the firm's 3,000 workers. The corporation agreed to give a contract if the union could produce a majority in the balloting.

A 36-hour strike called in the midst of negotiations for a collective bargaining agreement between Chairman H. E. Lewis of the $200,000,000 corporation and Chairman Philip Murray of the Steel Workers Organizing Committee led to the election.

Both sides agreed not to elect a negotiator on the company properties.

Regional Director Ernest Dunbar of the National Labor Relations Board, will have charge.

Require All Servants Produce Certificates

The Pitt county health department today called attention to a law passed by the recent General Assembly whereby employers of domestic servants could require their employees to show a certificate showing they are free from all contagious infectious or communicable diseases and also from venereal diseases.

The law further provides that all domestic servants shall be examined at least once a year and as often as the employer requires.

The certificates must be signed by a practicing physician or the health officer of the county. Dr. N. Thomas Emmett, health officer, said that any persons desiring such a certificate from his officer could secure one without cost.

COURT RULING POSTPONED ON SECURITY ACT

Decision Due Either Next Monday or on Tuesday June 1

PROCESSING TAX REFUND BARRED

Provision of 1936 Revenue Act Banning Recovery of Levy Upheld by Justices

Washington, May 17.—(AP)—The Supreme Court failed today to pass on the constitutionality of the Federal Social Security act.

Before adjourning until next Monday, it announced opinions in nine cases. The social security decision will be delivered either next Monday, or on Tuesday, June 1st, when the court adjourns for the summer.

The major decisions today upheld provisions of the 1936 revenue act barring refund of $963,000,000 of processing and floor taxes collected under the invalidated agricultural adjustment act, unless the taxpayer proved that he bore the cost himself.

Another decision held constitutional a 1934 Louisiana statute imposing a graduated license tax on chain stores based on the number of units operated throughout the state and elsewhere.

Nineteen decisions remained for delivery during the next two opinion sessions.

Chief Justice Hughes, delivering the eight to one opinion on the AAA case said:

"We conclude that the authorized procedure provides for a full and fair hearing and determination of all matters of fact and that through judicial review it provides for the protection of all the legal rights of the petitioner including any constitutional right which it may be entitled to invoke in respect to the refunds which it seeks."

State To Borrow From Own Surplus And Save Big Sum

Bonds to Purchase Free Textbooks Not Sold as Authorized by 1937 General Assembly

Raleigh, May 17.—The reason it was decided not to issue the $1,500,000 in bonds for free textbooks as authorized by the 1937 general assembly, was that the maturities of these bonds were fixed too far in the future, which would mean a high rate of interest, and because it was found that there was enough cash in the state's surplus for it to borrow from itself without having to pay any interest and thus save about $75,000 a year, it was pointed out here today by both Governor Clyde R. Hoey and State Treasurer Charles M. Johnson.

"Because we decided not to offer these bonds at this time and did not sell them last week along with the $3,019,000 which we sold at a rate of 3.834 per cent interest, some people seem to have gotten the idea that we are going to divert highway revenue for the purchase of free textbooks," State Treasurer Johnson said today. "But this is not the case, since we could not divert any highway money for any other purpose, even if we wanted to—and nobody wants to."

"The situation merely is that in the bill authorizing the $1,500,000 bond issue for textbooks, it was provided that the bonds should not begin to come due until after five years, and then that the bonds should run for 24 years, or making it 29 years before they could be finally retired. But no issue of bonds as small as this one should run for that long, because the interest rate would be too high. A bond issue of this size should mature in at least five years instead of in 29 years. So the Governor and council of state decided to postpone the issuance of these bonds until after the next general assembly meets and the law can be changed."

"In the mean time, it was decided to borrow the money needed from the surplus in the state treasury — and not from highway funds — since there will be a surplus on July 1 of about $5,000,000. Thus by borrowing from itself, the state can save about $75,000 a year in interest charges, or enough to buy a lot more textbooks."

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ellen L. Simpkins, two daughters, Mrs. C. W. Nobles of Ayden, and Mrs. D. P. Powers of New Bern Route 1; eight grandchildren and two great great-grandchildren.

SON OF MUTES LEARNS TO TALK

An auto horn saved the son of a mute, Billy Payne of Knoxville, Tenn., who spent the first years of his life in silence with his deaf and dumb parents, from going through life labeled as a deaf mute. It was discovered that the normal lad was not afflicted as his parents when he jumped at the sound of the horn. Billy, shown here with his mother, Mrs. Sam Payne, has now learned to talk.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

SYNOPSIS: First it is the mysterious shooting to death of attractive Jude Blinshop which makes us all jittery on this wild, stormy weekend at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunts. Then a series of strange attacks occurs. Present are: Mike; the Skipper, his tall, toady younger aunt; Aunt Martha, stout and prudish; Gay Palmer, Mike's red-headed sweetheart; myself; and the four servants. It is a relief to find the body of Michael's insane father, supposedly long since dead, below the bluff; it explains so much that has happened.

Chapter 27 'The Danger's Not Over'

WHAT'S the matter, Higgins? He was still white.

"I'd like to talk to you a minute, sir. Somewhere where we can't be heard."

I stared at him. "What about? There's no one to hear us, Higgins. What's on your mind?"

"Would you come into the living room, sir?"

Reflecting that the poor old boy probably wanted to relieve his mind by telling me his version of the story I followed him into the living room. "Well, what's it, Higgins?"

"Mr. Jimmie, the Farringtons have always been almost like my own family, as you might say. The old gentleman was very good to me when I was just a boy, sir, and alone in this country if you see what I mean."

I smiled at him reassuringly. "I see what you mean. They've been pretty swell to me, too." What the deuce ailed him? If he trusted me enough to tell me the story, why all the preliminaries?

"This affair has been most unfortunate, sir."

My patience was getting a bit thin. I had many things to say to Michael and I wanted to say them before he had soaked himself into a complete stupor. I frowned.

I said sharply, "What's on your mind, sir?"

"Mr. Jimmie," he stepped closer to me and spoke in a hoarse whisper "the danger's not over there—"

He stopped suddenly and an amazing thing happened. His eyes fixed on the window behind me, seemed about to pop from his head and under my very nose the man seemed to shrivel up. I wheeled toward that window. There was no one there, and my patience snapped.

"Higgins, what the devil are you looking at? What are you talking about?"

He passed a trembling hand over his eyes. "I—I don't know. Possibly sir, I—I have been imagining things. Please forget it, sir." With a certain dignity he straightened himself.

Exasperated beyond all endurance, I fairly roared at him to speak his piece.

"Nothing, sir. I have been forgetting myself. Please excuse me."

I made a wild guess, but he got to the door before I did. Crossing to the window, I leaned against it, staring out at the dismal lawn, my brain in an uproar.

Footprint On The Tile

"THE danger's not over!" What did that remark have to do with the depressing secret of Farrington Bluff? What? My eyes had fallen to the tiling on the porch floor just outside the window. There, clearly defined in rapidly hardening mud, was the imprint of a rubber boot Higgins had seen someone at that window—someone who might or might not have heard what he was starting to say!

The wild thought crossed my mind that maybe he was right—that there was more trouble to come, but I rejected it impatiently. What a hair-trigger state we had all gotten into! I went off in search of Michael.

He was not in his room. A disorderly confusion of clothes, books and papers gave mute testimony to his state of mind, and a nearly empty decanter of brandy told me that the Skipper's fears for him were justified. I thought first of the footprint outside the living room window and then of Norman Farrington lying halfway down the bluff Farrington Bluff was no place for a drunken man—particularly a drunken man in Michael's frame of mind.

In a vain hope of finding him, I rushed through the bathroom into my own room. He wasn't there. And I was reasonably certain that he wasn't downstairs. There were only two possibilities. Either he must be in talking to the Skipper or he must be outside. I rushed into the hall and raced with all my might to the Skipper's door. Without waiting to knock, I flung it open. The Skipper's oilskins lay on the bed and her boots on the floor beside them, but there was no one in the room. I had barely time to realize that fact, when a deafening report of a gun shook the entire house.

For a second I was too petrified to move. The sound had seemed to come from the direction of the next room—M. Farrington's. I dove through the

BAVARIAN MAY FINISH A MEMORIAL TO DIXIE

AMBITION TOOK HIM SOUTH Steffen Thomas, Bavarian stonecutter with a "burning ambition" to finish carving a tribute to the Confederacy's war heroes in the face of a mountain near Atlanta, works on a model for the project.

By WILLIAM H. BORING (AP Feature Service Writer)

Atlanta, Ga. — A youthful Bavarian stonecutter is pushing a one-man drive for completion of the South's unfinished memorial to the Confederacy on the scarp of Stone Mountain.

He is Steffen Thomas, who says he came to the United States nine years ago with a burning ambition to see the gigantic project finished.

Would Honor Women Too

He has evolved a plan, he says, not only for completing the Stone Mountain memorial, but for carving a companion monument to women of the Confederacy atop Kenesaw Mountain, 20 miles distant.

The Kenesaw Monument would be a single figure in granite or bronze, from 40 to 75 feet in height, and could be seen from Stone Mountain.

Thomas is working on models for the projects and estimates it would take approximately $100,000 and three years to complete the Stone Mountain work. Wealthy and influential Southerners, he says, have assured him financial backing.

Two Quit Before

Two of the nation's most eminent sculptors—Gutzog Borglum and the late Augustus Lukeman—tailed the work of hacking the Stone Mountain precipice into the features of Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson and Jefferson Davis.

Borglum had carved a gigantic head of Lee when he was dismissed because of a disagreement. He destroyed his models. Lukeman was chosen to succeed him. He quit work in 1936 because of a lack of funds, leaving an unfinished figure of Lee to show for his and Borglum's efforts.

Thomas says he would take up where Lukeman left off, "working in my own ideas as I see fit."

DYNAMITES BY DAY STITCHES QUILTS AT NIGHT

Ottawa, Ill. (AP) — Albert Small handles dynamite by day and needles at night. His hands are as nimble with sand plant machinery as they are with the tiny stitches he uses to complete his quilts of 50,000 parts.

Before starting a new quilt Small drafts the design he wants to follow. Then he cuts the cloth, backs, no larger than a dime, sometimes getting as many 1,600 out of a single yard. He stitches every night for months until a quilt of intricate red, blue, yellow, white and green patterns is finished.

Someone shot and painfully wounded Miss Farrington, I said bluntly.

He staggered back against the wall "Painfully wounded," he repeated in a thin whisper. "Painfully—"

A thought was dawning in my head. "Merely a flesh wound," I said deliberately, with my eyes on his face. "She's quite conscious and there's no danger."

It didn't work. His eyes were on the floor, his face expressionless.

LARGE POTATO CROP IN STATE

Increase of 38 Per Cent Is Estimated Over Last Year

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, May 17.—North Carolina commercial - early potato growers have increased their acreage by 38 per cent over last year when 31,000 acres were planted. W. H. Rhoads, statistician of the State Department of Agriculture, reported today following a review of truck crop conditions in the state.

The 31,000 acreage of early Irish potatoes yielded 3,100,000 bushels last year at an average of $1.75 per bushel, placing this crop as the second most valuable crop-produce in North Carolina, Rhoads added. In 1936 early Irish potatoes were valued at $175 per acre.

Based on information received from crop reporters May 1, the Department of Agriculture reported on early Irish potatoes as follows:

In the area including Aurora, Pantego and Washington there are about 10,500 acres of early potatoes compared with 7,700 last year. Stands are generally good in these sections and the crop was about normal as to growth and time of movement.

In the Elizabeth City section including Camden, Currituck and Pasquotank counties, 10,000 acres of early potatoes were reported with the heaviest increases in Camden, while last year there were about 6,500 acres in this area. Stands and crop conditions are generally good.

In the Carteret county section, 1,000 acres were planted this year compared to 800 last year. Stands average from "poor to fair."

In the Mt. Olive section including Duplin and Wayne counties, 4,800 acres were reported compared with 4,000 last year. Stands and conditions are good except in some low spots where heavy rains have caused some damage.

In the Pamlico county section, 7,500 acres were planted, or 2,000 acres more than last year. Stands and conditions in this area are "the most uniform of any section," and "conditions are excellent."

In the Bethel section 1,500 acres have been planted, an increase of 300 over last year while stands average from "fair to good" with some damage from rains.

In the Tyrrell county section 3,700 acres were planted compared with 2,500 last year. Stands and conditions are reported as good.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 2c.

WHAT OF SPINACH?

"If spinach has not got the vitamin, who has it?" asks a reader. Unfortunately, this valuable vegetable has been roundly abused by professional and amateur humorists, and also by bad cooks. While it is not the most indispensable of the vegetables and has no unique virtues, spinach is indeed a "prescious green."

Dr. Mary Swartz Rose, an authority on nutrition, considers spinach a valuable, and also an economical, vegetable.

Spinach has weight for weight, the same vitamin-A value as butter. Its season is long and it grows easily. Hence its first cost is not as high as that of other leafy vegetables. Buying it primarily for iron, of which it is an economical source, you may regard its vitamin as pure profit on the investment. Fresh spinach is also rich in vitamin B content.

To obtain the vitamin and mineral values of spinach, it must not be overcooked. When the leaves are washed in cold water, they lose

Stomach Gas So Bad Seems To Hurt Heart

"The gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart seemed to hurt. A friend suggested Adierika. The first dose brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never felt better."

Adierika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adierika gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.

In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adierika greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli. Give your bowels a REAL cleansing with Adierika and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and stubborn constipation.

PREVENTING RABIES

Recent reports from other sections regarding epidemics of rabid dogs brings to mind the epidemic in this county several years ago when at least six persons were bitten by mad dogs and there were at least 2 deaths resulting from same.

TIME TO CUT DOWN

No family can continue to exist without grief if its expenditures continue beyond its income. The same is true with regard to any business, and yet the biggest business in this country, our national government, continues to spend beyond its income.

It is natural that those in authority do not want government spending cut if such a cut will mean the ditching of some of their pet projects, and this is one of the reasons that government spending goes on and on.

Isn't it about time that our country, and we mean every section of it, realized that the federal government is no Santa Claus to hand out gifts to various individuals, groups and communities?

Sound economics is the only safe way to operate any business and it is about time our federal government began to follow the safe course by cutting down its expenditures to the point of balancing the budget.

Wherefore all hands scurried around until a screw-driver was discovered, and with great gusto the door - dressing room No. 4, in case you want to make a note of the number on your cuff - was taken down.

Then they carted it outside, climbed into a hack and hurried away to a party where this memento of La Rockwell's first starring assignment on Broadway was duly admired until far, far into the night.

Incidentally, about the time the door was coming down off its hinges the first copy of "Miss Quis," published by Random House, was slipping off the press. Ward has autographed it for her so that, a hundred years from now, when she is a nice, reminiscent old lady, she will have a book as well as a door with which to regale her great grandchildren.

Talks To Parents

Fostering Genius

The world has never pulled itself up by its boot straps. Its progress has always come through the great individuals who lead the way for the mass of mankind to follow.

Genius cannot be made or crushed, but it can be diverted. The great statesman who might guide world affairs may become merely a brilliant politician; the artist who is capable of painting immortal pictures may make a fortune from advertising the scientist who might explore the unknown and benefit man by his discoveries may spend his life inventing gadgets.

If education and training are all to be along practical lines, planned for the immediate material benefit of the students, the world in a few years is apt to find itself without the great individuals who have been its guides and mentors.

The object of education should be primarily, not to teach boys and girls how to earn a living, but how to think - to open to them the infinite vistas of possibility. Some youngsters will not profit by the opportunity. For them the most important question will always be to get ahead financially.

But here and there among the dross of the mediocre will be found the rare treasure for whom education is primarily meant, and who can enter the doors that it opens. He is the person who should be considered in our educational institutions. Higher education is not for the run of the mill, but for the outstanding exception. The occasional genius must be given his chance for development, not molded according to the wishes of the majority.

Why are parents content to be door mats for their children and their children's friends? Have they no further ambitions and dreams than to rear their young. The fault lies largely with the mothers. They grow so absorbed in the care and tending of their babies that by the time the babies have come to men's estate, the mother has forgotten the ambitions of her youth, if indeed she ever had any, and has no real reason for living other than home and family.

All this time the husband has been working to feed and clothe and house his family. He has had to have outside interests and has probably developed some kind of hobby to keep him fit. By middle life he begins to feel the need of relaxation, of fun. He sees no need to give all his time and energy to the young. His life is by no means over.

But to his wife the children and their needs and desires are paramount. After all, the children are her whole life and spell youth to her. When she lets them go, there is nothing left. She yields to all their demands, defers to their judgment, flatters and spoils them, imagining that in this way she can hold them.

If her husband and son both want the car, it is the son who gets it. If the children need more money for luxuries, the mother sees to it that they have what they want, even if she and the man who earns it go short.

More interests for mothers, more hobbies, more absorbing occupations, would in the long run be better for the children and make the lone years after they leave the nest a vital period of life, instead of a slow death.

cal strategists and campaign fund getters Dawson's friends also pointed to the years of service Dawson had given to the Democratic party as chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee and maintained that the time had come for him to be rewarded by "the party."

It is also generally known that Judge Cowper has been very strongly indorsed for the eastern supreme court post by many outstanding lawyers and laymen throughout the eastern part of the state.

But within the past week, the pendulum of opinion has started swinging back to Barnhill as the most likely choice. For while Judge Barnhill has apparently made no effort whatever in his own behalf, it is known that he has as fine a stack of indorsements in the Governor's files as any one, that many of the most outstanding judges, lawyers and laymen in the state are urging Governor Hoey to appoint him. It is being pointed out that Judge Barnhill has been given some of the most difficult assignments in the state, such as the Asheville bank trial, in which Colonel Luke Lea and Wallace Davis were convicted, and the Gastonia strike trial, and that he handled them with the greatest credit both to himself and to the state.

Washington - Political worms don't turn often, but the house, which has seen one a long time, has been making a turn of sorts and is so delighted with itself it fairly chortles.

Those who saw the house turn against the President's plan to make the CCC a permanent organization will understand.

The CCC has been a popular business ever since the President, freshly seated, told the country he wanted to use what spare money he could amass to send poor boys into the forest to be made sleek and sound.

So it was with much surprise that the house developed a real antagonism to making the CCC a permanent institution. The house long has been considered almost wholly subservient to the President. Many of its members concede they rode into office on the President's coat tails and, unlike in the senate, any Presidential disapproval can be reflected against them every two years when they come up for re-election.

The debate began with general expectation that the house would kiss the bill across, even though it would cost about $350,000,000 a year - close on to the cost of the army or navy.

A half hour before the vote was taken, reporters caught some of the drift and hazarded guesses that there "might" be enough votes to defeat the permanent plan. Instead, there were - they whooped across - 224 to 34 - an amendment to keep it alive only two years.

Besides the new-found desire for economy, two fears are behind the opposition of many members: First, that some future President might convert it somehow into a wide-flung political organization; second, that it might become an adjunct of the military. Secretary of War Woodring contributed considerably to the latter view.

He was roundly jumped on by almost everybody from the President down. Actually some of the camps are so imbued with pacifist sentiment that one caustic scribe commended the army would have to lick the CCC before the country could go to war.

The debate brought a prediction: Representative Knutson (Republican, Minnesota) - "Personally I do not think there will be any need for the CCC after the New Deal goes out."

A member (unidentified by the record) - "When will it go out?" Mr. Knutson - "In the forties."

The Greenies were unable to boost their standing over the week end, losing to New Bern five to three yesterday, and dropping the Saturday encounter to the same team three to two.

The locals have lost eight games and won only two so far. Betting today, they will take the field tomorrow against Goldsboro in that place and return here Wednesday to meet the same team.

The Greenies made six hits yesterday to score its three runs, but New Bern made its seven safeties good for five tallies.

The locals never were ahead in the encounter. New Bern pushed three in the first frame after Greenville had pushed one in its half of the inning. Two more were added by Greenville in the sixth to knot the count at three-all.

The game went into the last half of the ninth inning with the count tied at three, but New Bern pushed two over to end the game with a five-to-three victory.

Rudisill led off man for the locals, made two of the locals' six safeties. One of the left fielder's hits was a circuit daisy. He also scored one of the other two runs made by Greenville. Johnson, first baseman, hit safely three times, but his leg muscles failed to advance him and he died on base each time.

Except for the first and last innings the locals showed up good. Greenville tallied singleton in the first — Rudisill, first batter of the game, hit a homer to right. Greenville's other scores, made in the sixth, deeded the tallying at 3-3. Rudisill and Muto hit singles to start the sixth-inning business. Stove popped out, and Latham walked. Andy Johnson singled over short to drive in two runs. Latham, and Johnson attempted a double steal, but Latham was caught at the plate on a cut-off play.

Lefty Flora pitched for the Bears and counted his second victory in three starts. The gloomy left-hander was in trouble several times but came out with a minimum of damage.

Andy Johnson grabbed three singles for the Greenies. Mullinax, with a double and two singles, was high for the Bears.

Royal Williams, Greenville's starting pitcher, handed walks to the first two batters. He was replaced by Calegria, who went the rest of the way.

In New Pastures

Joe Vosnik
-THE FORMER CLEVELAND OUTFIELDER IS GOING GREAT GLINS WITH THE BROWNS

Joe Vosnik
-THE CHANGE OF SCENE SEEMS TO BE DOING

SPORT SLANTS

When Joe Vosnik was told last winter that he had been traded by Cleveland he made the usual announcement:

"I am mighty happy to be traded to the St. Louis Browns."

His remark was taken with a grain of salt. Most players say the same thing when shunted to new pastures. Just why Joe should be happy to leave his native Cleveland, where he grew up and learned to play ball, on the sandlots, to join the lowly Browns, was hard to understand.

Vosnik had a poor year in 1936. After having been runner-up to Buddy Myer of Washington for the American League batting title in 1935 Joe slipped below the 300 mark, hitting .267. Perhaps the hoo-town fans, prone to take it out on the perennially disappointing Indians, got under his skin. Anyway, when he said he was "happy" he was sincere.

Very likely Vosnok was anxious to get to new pastures to make his comeback. He is a real 300 hitter and, at 26, should be at the very peak of his ability.

He reported to Manager Rogers Hornsby this spring determined to make Cleveland fans regret the Indian management ever let him go. He started busting fences at San Antonio, Tex. He kept up during the exhibition games. When the season got under way there was no sign of a letdown.

The fine hand of Rogers Hornsby, one of the greatest hitters baseball has produced, can be seen in Vosnik's return to form. Hornsby is a wizard at detecting faults in a batter's style. He lost no time in putting Vosnik on the right track.

Lefty Dunn Pitches Ayden To Victory

Ayden — A home-town boy made good for the Ayden Aces. Lefty Dunn, Ayden product who had been with the Mt. Airy club of the Bi-State League, pitched in fine style to even in with an 8-4 victory over Kinston.

Dunn, who joined the Aces during the latter part of the week, was making his first start for his home-town team. His mates spotted him to a six-run lead in three innings, and he breezed to victory. Just one hit figured in two Kinston runs in the fourth, but the Eagles bunched three safeties in the ninth for their other pair of tallies. Except for the ninth, the Eagles did not get more than one hit in any inning.

Monk Joyner, former Wake Forest athlete, was the batting star of the game. The Ayden left-fielder hit two homers, in the third and sixth, and made one single to wind up with a .750 average. His round-trippers came with the bases empty.

Tarboro In Victory Over Snow Hill Team

Snow Hill — Tarboro's Serpents mixed hits with Snow Hill crowd in two innings to get a 5-2 decision over the Billies.

Hautz pitched the route for the visitors and set the Billies down with five safeties. Robinson homered in the eighth to account for the local's second run.

After Snow Hill had broken the scoring ice with a singleton in the third, Fred Henry's Serpents got busy in the fourth. Carman was safe on an error. Ware singled, Henry and Williamson flied out, but Cantrell singled to drive in Carman. Pizzolato singled to score two. Cecil Longest relieved Culler with two away in the sixth and pitched one-hit ball the rest of the way.

The other scoring by the Serpents came after one was away in the sixth. An error by Culler, starting Snow Hill hurler, put Williamson all the way to second on an easy roller. Cantrell doubled to score Williamson. After Pizzolato had grounded out, Pitcher Hautz singled to score Cantrell.

Goldsboro Sets Back League Leaders, 5-1

Williamston — The Williamston Martins were dethroned from the victory road. Goldsboro turned the trick, handing the locals a 5-1 setback in a game played before a record crowd.

It was the first defeat for Art Hauger's proteges in eight league games — the Martins won seven of those, tied Tarboro in the other.

Jim Rollins, who cashed in with triumphs in two previous starts, hit a streak of generosity in the second inning and his kindnesses helped Clarence Ropers' Bugs to a quartet of runs. Thereafter, however, Rollins pitched one-hit ball. He allowed a total of only four hits.

Although handed his first defeat Rollins continued his "strikeout doings." He fanned 11 to run to 35 his total whiffs for three games.

UNC PREPARES PRESENT PLAY

Playmakers Give Annual Production This Week

Chapel Hill, May 17.—"Androcles and the Lion," Bernard Shaw's brilliant satirical comedy of the old legend of one man's kindness to a beast, will be the Carolina Playmakers' annual outdoor production in their picturesque Forest Theatre this week.

Each spring the drama group climaxes the year's work with ambitious production which is rehearsed weeks in advance, and this year Dr. Frederick H. Koch, who is directing personally the performance, says the Playmakers will stage one of the largest bits of pageantry yet attempted.

Two performances will be given—next Friday and Saturday evenings, May 21 and 22, at 8:30 o'clock.

There will be 75 actors, the largest setting ever constructed in the Forest Theatre, more than one hundred new costumes and a musical score especially composed for the production.

The play is a dramatization of the little tailor who removed a thorn from the foot of a wounded lion and made the beast his friend for life. Even when the tailor is cast into the arena with other Christian martyrs, the lion recognizes his friend and saves the day. Shaw has treated the old story with his characteristic satirical touch and blended in some of the most beautiful pageantry in modern drama.

Complete with sound effects, the production will wind up with a grand finale in the form of a gala Roman holiday dance in which the Lion (played by Dr. Urban T. Holmes of the University Department of Romance Languages) will roar his delight. Although he has the leading role, the lion does not speak a word during the entire play.

Prof. Russell T. Smith, head of the Department of Fine Art, has designed the immense setting which is approximately 75 feet in length and 25 feet high.

Harold Cene, of Greensboro, a graduate student in the University Music Department, has composed a score for the production, and Ora Mae Davie is in charge of the choreography for the dances. She is being assisted by Porter Fitzsimmons, a member of Ted Shaw's dance group and a former Playmaker, who has designed a ballet which closes the performance.

Cameraman Finds U. S. Girls Preferable To Swiss Scenery

Herbert Matter had photographed only Swiss landscapes until he came to America. Here he discovered that the supple bodies of American girls—like those pictured—were far better subjects for the lens of his eager camera.

By JOHN J. KELLY (AP Feature Service Writer)

He decided the commercial possibilities of the camera were enormously greater than those of the brush.

"I had to earn a living," he explains. "I don't confuse photography and art, however."

There is no swank, no "side," about Matter. He thinks his work is good, refuses to worry about about anyone else's opinion of it. He learned photography without instruction and still believes it cannot successfully be taught.

Matter has any fetish it is his desire to get outdoors whenever possible. An expert skier—his brother is a champion—he has made some of his best shots while executing telemark and christies. It's this outdoor complex that is responsible for Matter's addiction to the candid camera for all purposes.

A bachelor, he is shy with strangers, fanatically devoted to his mother and sister who live in his native Engleberg, Switzerland.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, May 17.—(AP) — The stock market's pulse beat feebly today and efforts at a rally were unavailing in most instances.

With the ticker tape barely moving, declines of fraction to a point or so predominated near the fourth hour.

Business and industrial news were not especially depressing, apparently lacked official sparkle to inspire trading forces to step out on the buying side. Labor questions also continued to dim the picture. Smallness of volume and the generally restricted range of losses was encouraging to board rooms, although brokers seemed unable to impress customers with the constructive element attached to apathetic dealings.

Bonds and commodities were uneven, but grains were inclined to do better.

Leading stocks gave ground moderately in the slowest five hour market session in more than two years.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE AP Science Editor

Rhena, N. Y., May 11.—For mimic warfare, the last word is a bullet of light which imitates accurately the shape of a machine gun bullet.

At a distance of 80 feet this light bullet makes a round, bright spot on a target — an exact imitation of a black bullet hole.

It is made by a special bulb invented by D. Ramadanioff, Cornell university physicist. Bullets of light, somewhat more diffuse, were invented about three years ago, by Capt. C. H. Oates, to save money when the depression made it difficult to get appropriations for target practice.

A real machine gun is pointed at the target. When the trigger is pulled a light projector fastened to the side of the gun opens a camera-like shutter to flash a spot of light where the bullet would have hit.
