COURT JURIST VAN DEVANter TO QUIT POST

Announces Aim to Retire from Active Service June 2

HAS BEEN KNOWN AS CONSERVATIVE

Conflicting Beliefs Expressed As To Whether Other Jurists Will Leave

Washington, May 18.—(AP)—Associate Justice Willis Van Devanter informed President Roosevelt today he would retire from active service on the Supreme Court bench on June 2.

The 78-year-old jurist, who has been known as a member of the so-called conservative wing of the court, made his intention known in a letter to the President shortly before the Senate Judiciary met to vote on Mr. Roosevelt's court reorganization bill.

The Chief Executive's demand for "new blood" on the court had created an epochal national controversy.

At the same time, officials invested with high authority said there probably would be more retirements from the court at this time. But others said that before the beginning of the fall term of the court in October, Justice Sutherland might take advantage of the retirement act.

Four other justices are eligible for retirement. Chief Justice Hughes and Associate Justices McReynolds, Brandeis and Butler.

Chief Justice Hughes called the retirement of Van Devanter a "most serious loss" to the court.

In a statement the Chief Justice said:

"The judicial system has a long and distinguished history of precedents, its soundness and fairness required him to render a service of substantial value in our government. While his retirement is a loss, the fact that his long and distinguished career has been an ideal associate. We shall greatly miss him."

Decide To Expend Advertising Fund Outside Of State

Plan To Publish In States Other Than This

Raleigh, May 18.—All of the new advertising fund of $125,000 a year will be spent in publications outside of North Carolina, as the result of a request made by representatives of the North Carolina Press Association asking the State Board of Conservation and Development to adopt such a resolution. It was learned here today.

The fact that the newspapers of the state refrained from asking for the use of the fund, but instead have asked that all of it be spent in newspapers and publications outside the state is giving the strong commendation on the part of conservation department and other state officials. It is pointed out that the newspapers of the state could have made it very embarrassing for the conservation board if they had looked upon the advertising appropriation as a sort of "grab bar" and had demanded that part of this amount be spent in advertising with publications within the state. But instead, they are giving their fullest cooperation to the board and backing it up by insisting that every dollar be spent in advertising North Carolina over the nation as a whole.

The people of the state must not expect too much from this advertising campaign, nor must they expect results to come too soon, according to conservation officials. For while the sum of $125,000 a year looks like a large amount to some people, it is nothing like as much as other states are spending — or as private corporations spend annually for advertising, it was pointed out today by Paul Kelly, assistant director of the conservation department, who will be in immediate charge of the advertising campaign.

"The average business concern, doing a business of $100,000,000 a year, and to which the state of North Carolina can be compared, spends about the same amount on advertising, which would be $2,000,000 a year," Kelly pointed out. "But instead of spending $2,000,000 a year on advertising North Carolina, we are spending only $125,000 a year. But the board feels it is better to start off slowly and modestly to begin with."

Girl Slain, Boy Wounded, Mother Accused

Shortly after the burned body of eight-year-old Helen Tiernan was found in a forest near Brookhaven, N. Y., with her seriously wounded brother, James, 5, nearby, their mother, Mrs. Helen Tiernan confessed in New York City, police said, that she killed the girl and assaulted the boy, so they wouldn't interfere with her love affair. James is shown (left) in a Brookhaven hospital with his throat slashed. At the right officers are seen examining the charred remains of the girl.

NEGRO VICTIM OF COLLISION

College Student Driver of Car Involved In Wreck

One Negro boy was killed and another injured near this city this morning when they were struck by an automobile driven by Miss Josephine House of Bethel, day student at East Carolina Teachers College. Patrolmen who investigated the accident said that Miss House was on her way home from school when she pulled a little wagon down the highway about 150 yards this side of House Station and ran directly into the path of the oncoming car. Dallas Trel, 11, the most seriously injured, died about an hour later in the hospital. Willie Lee Whitford, nine, was hurt but his condition was not considered serious.

Patrolmen said the two boys were on the left side of the highway coming toward Greenville, but cut across the road when they saw a high truck meeting them. Failing to look back they did not see the approaching car driven by Miss House. Officers said tracks indicated Miss House was on her side of the road and the fatal wreck was unavoidable on her part.

The truck was driven by James Trel, 11, who was taken to the hospital and did not care that one had died until later. An inquest started today by Coroner A. A. Ellwanger was continued until Wednesday, May 26.

Griffin Slated To Keep School Commission Post

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, May 18.—The appointment of the eleven members of the State School Commission, expected to be announced by Governor Olyde R. Hoey early this week, is not now expected until the latter part of the week, perhaps not until next week, as a result of the death of S. Ernest Hoey in Shelby yesterday, brother of Governor Hoey. For Governor Hoey is not expected to be back in his office here until Wednesday.

The prevailing belief in most circles here is that there will be a good many changes in the personnel of the school commission, but that Lloyd Griffin of Edenton, the executive secretary of the commission, now has a good chance to remain as its chief executive officer, despite

Many Americans Killed In Spain

Madrid, May 18.—(AP)—American volunteer battalions, used continuously in the Spanish civil war, were estimated today to have lost almost a third of their number in deaths.

REVEAL PLANS FOR POPPY DAY

Saturday, May 29, Officially Chosen by Legion Auxiliary

Saturday, May 29 will be observed as official Poppy Day here and officials of the American Legion Auxiliary already are anticipating a record sale day.

Aiding the Auxiliary will be a number of volunteers and "poppy girls" will be out early offering the flowers to everyone on the street during the day.

The poppies, made by disabled veterans in hospitals, will be worn in honor of the World War dead and to raise funds for the welfare of the disabled veterans and to further the Auxiliary work.

"Poppy Day is the day of personal tribute to the men who gave their lives in the nation's defense," declared Mrs. W. J. Bundy, chairman of the poppy sale. Uptown headquarters will be established in the Moore Electric shop on Evans street and workers will leave from there on Poppy Day, one week from this coming Saturday.

Mrs. W. R. Jones is president of the local unit of the American Legion Auxiliary. She declared that a large percentage of the money derived from the sale would be retained here for work in the community.

Nazis Helping Japan

Berlin (AP)—Bearing the Propaganda Ministry's label "politically and artistically valuable," "The Daughter of the Samurai," a Japanese film made by Germans, draws big audiences here. The film features the Japanese urge to colonial expansion and the Japanese "blood and soil" conceptions, with both of which ideas Germans also identify themselves.

BARDEN SEEKS N.C. WATERWAY

Requests $50,000 Expenditure for Deep Channel

Washington, May 18.—(AP)—Rep. Graham Barden of New Bern, N. C., said today army engineers have approved a proposed $50,000 expenditure to cut an inland waterway from Cape Lookout harbor through Back sound, to Harkers Island, N. C.

Barden said he would ask the House Rivers and Harbors committee to include the item in this year's rivers and harbors bill.

Barden said the cut would eliminate the necessity of inland waterway traffic traversing dangerous waters between Cape Lookout and Harkers Island. The channel, when completed, will permit costmen to enter sound waters from the high seas without going through an inlet and it will be the only place of its kind along the entire Atlantic coast.

When Representative Barden went to Congress for the first time, his first bill was the Cape Lookout Light project. Turned down recently by the War Department, another hearing was held in Washington last week. Earle Davis of Harkers Island, Gherman Holland, Murray Thomas and Hugh Piper of Beaufort attended with Barden leading the verbal fight. The result was approval of the project today.

Edward and Wally To Wed June 3 at Chateau de Cande

No Members of British Royal Family To Be Present at Nuptials on Birthday of Duke of Windsor's Father, King George, V

Monts, France, May 18.—(AP)—Wallis Warfield Simpson and the Duke of Windsor will be married quietly at the Chateau de Cande on June 3 with no member of the British royal family in attendance.

The man who chose to be husband rather than king chose the birthday of his late father, George, V, for the wedding to the woman he could not have as monarch.

The announcement, which made no mention of the coincidents in dates, said the wedding party would be confined to "those who have been with them"—the Duke and Mrs. Warfield Simpson—"during the past month," and added tersely: "There will be no members of the royal family present."

Right up to the moment of the announcement many had supposed the Duke of Kent, Edward's young-

CIO Leaders Push Drives In Auto And Steel Plants

New Members in Two Industries Sought For Union

(By Associated Press) John Lewis' C. I. O. leaders pushed today with drives for new members in automobile and steel industries.

The U. A. W. A. asked the "200,000 organized automobile workers in Detroit," to help bring employees of the Ford Motor company "into the fold." Mobilization of union organizers and a plan to "protect" new members was announced.

The Steel Workers union projected a threat of "sign, or we strike," against the Crucible Steel company as a conference on a collective bargaining agreement began at Pittsburgh, Crucible, with 18,000 employees, was the first of the five big independent producers to receive the ultimatum directed at them.

At Cleveland, Ohio, the Republic Steel Corporation in a statement said its plants would be shut and kept shut "until civil authorities clear the streets" in the event picketing made it impossible for its employees to reach their jobs. The Steel Workers Organizing Committee has threatened a strike against the company if it does not sign a bargaining agreement.

Spokesmen for the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, against which C. I. O. officials also have threatened a strike, said the same course would be followed by them.

Republic steel employees, 52,000 workers, mostly in Ohio, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube, 25,000 mostly near Youngstown, Ohio.

Campaigning for a nation-wide boycott, striking Hollywood film craftsmen planned picketing "every theater in the Chicago area this week." Two striking crafts had reached an agreement but eight others continued pressing for a closed shop.

R. M. Garrett Off On England Trip

R. M. Garrett, president of the Person Garrett Tobacco company, left here today on a trip which will take him to England in the interest of the firm of which he is head.

Mr. Garrett left for New York, from which place he will sail on the Berengaria for Southampton on May 20. From Southampton he will go to London, where he will spend 10 days or so and thence to Belfast. In all he plans to be gone about five weeks.

Mr. Garrett, whose firm is constructing additional storage space, will visit the company's foreign customers while in England.

Stealing Plants Costly

The story of how a farmer found a large number of tobacco plants which had been stolen from him and got pay for his trouble was being told here today, although names of those involved were being withheld.

As the story was told here a farmer living just across the line in Craven county got up yesterday morning to find his tobacco bed stripped of plants. While making his examination for any possible clues as to the identity of the culprit he found a bill folder containing $40 in currency and an automobile driver's license.

He immediately went to the home of the man whose license was in the bill folder and found him behind a barn asserting the plants, caught with the goods on him, there was nothing the plant thief could say or do. The original owner handed him back his bill folder, containing his driver's license, but kept the $40 "for my trouble." He also gathered up his tobacco plants and returned home, leaving the other farmer out $40 and the plants.

Another story being told here was that a Pitt county farmer heard someone in his plant bed late one night, fired his gun at the spot where he believed the culprit to be, the charge striking the thief and forcing him to undergo treatment although not critically wounding him.

Other cases of tobacco plant stealing are going the rounds in this section, blamed on the shortage of the plants this year.

PLAN PROGRAM AT UNDERPASS

New Stretch To Be Opened Officially Tomorrow A. M.

Mayor M. K. Blount announced that the new underpass at the cotton mill railroad crossing would be opened officially tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock with brief ceremonies.

Capus M. Waynick, who was chairman of the State Highway and Public Works Commission when the project was started, will be on hand as will Frank Dunlap, present chairman of the commission.

In addition, members of the Board of Aldermen and other officials will take part in the ceremonies, which are scheduled to last only a few minutes.

Immediately after the program the new stretch will be thrown open to the public.

The underpass, which will eliminate one of the most dangerous crossings in this section, is only one of several projects designed to improve the traffic situation in that end of the city. Dickinson avenue already has been widened and plans are going ahead for the extension of Tenth street to the Washington highway.

Shiddles, his skull crushed, died en route to a hospital.

The barn-storming pilot and Shiddles were descending from a 2,000 foot level and were within 100 feet of the ground when the ship nosed over and crashed into a hillside pasture.

SENATE GROUP OPPOSES BILL CHANGE COURT

Judiciary Committee Votes 10-8 Against Proposal

REFUSES ACCEPT ANY COMPROMISE

Line Up on Final Vote Just as Had Been Forecast For More Than a Week

Washington, May 18.—(AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee voted 10 to eight today to report the Roosevelt court bill adversely to the Senate.

First members to emerge from the committee session said all amendments, except a few clarifying charges, were rejected.

The vote, taken in executive session shortly after the announcement of the retirement of Justice Van Devanter, came out just as it had been forecast for more than a week.

For nearly two hours the committee voted down compromise after compromise.

Senator Borah (R. Idaho), one of the leading foes of the bill, stepped out of the committee room to tell newspaper men:

"Ten to eight adversely."

The line up on the final vote, Borah said, was just as it had been forecast — with seven Democrats and three Republicans opposing the measure to increase the size of the Supreme court.

Seven Democrats and Senator Norris, the lone Independent, voted for the bill.

Elsewhere counsel for the American farm bureau federation declared the federation, along with the Supreme court decisions upholding the Wagner Labor Relations Act had convinced the organization constitutional crop production.

Frederick Lee, special counsel for the federation, told the House Agriculture Committee, recent decisions broadened the scope of the constitution's Inter State Commerce clause in such a manner he believed the Federal government could now regulate agriculture production.

Committee Chairman Wheeler (D. Mont.) said he believed appointment of a so-called Liberal Justice to the high court bench to replace the retiring member, Van Devanter, might cause the court to reverse itself on child labor legislation.

Meantime the United States Court of Appeals denied a request by the Alabama Power Company and the Iowa City Light and Power Company for more time to appeal from the court's decisions last week on public works financing of municipal power projects.

Small Peach Crop In North Carolina Seen This Season

Outlook For Only 48 Per Cent Normal Production, But Higher Than Actual Crop Last Year

Raleigh, May 18.—North Carolina peach growers have prospects for only 48 per cent of a full crop at present, but indications are that the outlook is six per cent better than it was last year on May 1, when the crop was valued at $2,700,000, Randall B. Eberidge, chief of the Department of Agriculture's markets division, reported today.

"The crop reports and surveys reveal that the peach crop at present is 30 per cent below the 10-year average," Eberidge added. "The best prospects are in the sandhill commercial area. The Georgia crop shows even poorer prospects than the North Carolina crop."

Production forecasts are 1,384,000 bushels, which is about 13 per cent less than last year and considerably less than the 10-year average, since many old orchards are going out and many new plantings are not yet bearing abundantly, the Department of Agriculture statistics division reported, basing information furnished by crop reporters May 1.

Meanwhile, with the approach of time for shipping peaches, the state Department of Agriculture has requested peach growers to give special attention to the spraying schedules and take every precaution to insure that the peaches at the shipping stage contain the minimum amount of arsenical and lead residue.

Growers have been advised that even now, continued rains after spraying still leave appreciable residue on the fruit.

SISSY' LOGS ROLLED LIKE OLD-TIME GIANTS

TRAFFIC JAM
New England still prefers the water route for getting its logs to the mill.

Berlin, N. H. (AP)—It's log rolling time on the Androscoggin river and although much of the romance is gone, practically the same system is used as 100 years ago. The main charge is in the size of the logs—four feet long now compared to the 16 and 30 of the old days which necessitated guidance by nimble log rollers.

With the spring freshets a crew of 1,000 men start the logs off from vantage points where they were hauled after cutting last fall and winter. Within a few weeks 225,000 cords will be piled up in the mill yards.

Dams at varying distances hold back the water in the larger brooks.

Memorial Baptist Y. W. A.
The Young Women's Auxiliary of the Memorial Baptist church, will meet with Miss Emel Brooks on Greene street this evening at 7:30.

On Honor Roll
Gus E. Forbes, Jr., was among those on the honor roll of the University of North Carolina for the past semester.

Lombardo in Oxford
When Guy Lombardo strikes up the sweet melody of "Auld Lang Syne" in Oxford June 2 for the American Legion's annual benefit ball, and the thousands of dancers present tune their toes to the tempo of the Royal Canadians, Greenville and vicinity will be well represented.

Invitations have been extended to Misses Rosamond Van Dyke, Louise Tadlock and Jane Garrett, of Greenville; Serene Turnage, Eva Mae Hardy and Ione Greener, of Farmville; May Eure and Annie Worthington, of Ayden; Dorothy Baughman, Betsy Phelps and Mildred Cutler, of Washington; Pat Holder, of Washington; and Nancy Clark of Tarboro; Mildred Joyner, Doris Vaughn, Myr Wood Winslow and Claudine Synder, of Rocky Mount; Jane Moore, Sarah Cone and Louise Cook, of Williamston; Bervie Glenn Bailey, of Robersonville, and Catherine Canady, Sarah Copeland and Minetta Battlett of Kinston, to attend the ball and they with 200 of the South's most charming young women will be guests at this event, which is expected to draw an attendance of 5,000 dancers and spectators.

Lombardo's only engagement in the state for this visit will be at Oxford.

Final A. A. U. W. Meeting Held
Reports of work done during the year and of the recent state meeting at Charlotte were features of the closing meeting of the year for the Greenville branch of the A. A. U. W. last night at Ragsdale Hall. Mrs. Picklen Arthur, president, and Miss Laura Rose, International Relations Chairman, gave the high lights of the state meeting.

This May meeting brings to an end a most successful year's work. At the close of the business discussion, the hostesses, Mrs. Picklen Arthur, Miss Emma Hooper, Miss Anna Rea Kittrell, and Mrs. E. R.

until the logs are thrown in. Then they are opened and the rush carries the wood down stream for a considerable distance. The process is repeated until the logs reach the main river, where they continue their trip with little supervision except at the larger dams.

The loggers live in camps and receive a minimum of $2 a day and board.

Browning, served delicious refreshments.

Dance at College
Arranged and decorated as a hotel ballroom with a mezzanine lounge at each end, the lobby of the Robert H. Wright building was the scene of the last party and dance to be given by the "D's" or Senior-Normal class on last Saturday evening.

The hostesses, Miss Irene Williamson, president of the class, and Misses Charlton and Jenkins, faculty advisors stood under the palms placed at the entrance.

A green terrace arrangement opposite the entrance, with the balustrades to the stairways on each side entwined with garlands of green and flowers, gave the effect of a garden just outside the ballroom. Across the corner white picket gateway decorated with rose vines completed the garden effect.

The guests passed through this gateway to the punch bowl, where groups from the class took turns in serving punch and cake.

The faculty guests and chaperones and those who did not care to dance, watched the dancers from the mezzanine lounges or played cards. The faculty guests were President and Mrs. Meadows, Misses Morton, Newell, Coates, Lewis and Wahl and the chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Hilldrup, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Browning, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Deal, Beecher Flanagan and the three faculty advisors, Misses Charlton and Jenkins, and Mrs. Lindsay Savage.

As there is no junior-normal class this year to be entertained by the Senior-normal class, as in past years the "D's" did not entertain any special class. All the men students, or "co-eds" were invited, and members of other classes and a few men from a distance were invited individually.

The chairmen of the special committees were as follows: Miss Ellen Moore, decorations; Miss Lucille Cox, refreshments; and Miss Rachel Ann McCampbell, entertainment.

The class will be entertained on Thursday evening by the charter members of the faculty at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Meadows.

Tender, Aching, Swollen Feet

Your feet may be so swollen and inflamed that you think you can't go another step. Your shoes may feel as if they are cutting right into the flesh. You feel sick all over with the pain and torture; you'd give anything to get relief.

Two or three applications of Moore's Emerald Oil and in fifteen minutes the pain and soreness disappears. A few more applications at regular intervals and the swelling reduces.

And as for Soft Corns and Callouses a few applications each night at bed time and they just seem to shrivel right up and scale off. No matter how discouraged you have been, if you have not tried Emerald Oil then you have something to learn, and best of all any offensive odor is gone for good.

On sale at Bissett's, Hill Home and Pitt Drug Company.

BOAR HUNTING PROVIDES THRILL AS RANCH SPORT

Del Monte, Calif. (AP) — Peaceful Monterey county has recently become the habitat of one of the most vicious of game animals—the wild boar.

Imported from Russia only ten years ago by George Gordon Moore and liberated on his ranch, the boars have found the low, forested mountains to their liking and multiplied. Artists from Carmel or guests at swanky Del Monte can find some rather dangerous hunting if they go look for it.

"The Monterey porker is a dangerous foe when enraged," says the state fish and game department. "It can kill a mountain lion in short order."

"A boar killed recently by Charles Bentley weighed nearly 400 pounds and had tusks 9 3/4 inches long, just one-eighth inch less than the official world record boar."

Club-Shaft High, He's 'A Champ In The Making'

HIGH POINT, N. C. (AP)—Age 11, about club-shaft tall, brother of a champion—Donald Dunkelberger is edging up on par over championship golf layouts. He now shoots in the low 80s and is marked for greatness by front-rank pros who have seen him.

Harry Cooper watched Donald slam drives that cut the middle and irons that hummed to the greens at nearby Sedgewick.

"A champion in the making," said the veteran pro.

Lawson Little spent an hour giving the youngster tips. "His ability to make a correction in his swing and master it in record time is amazing," said Little. That instruction from Little is all Donald ever has received from a pro. But Tony Manero unwittingly helped the kid's swing.

Donald used to trail Manero, when the open champion was pro at Sedgewick, taking notes on stance, swing and grip. Donald's chief inspiration, however, is his brother Bobby, North and South amateur champion.

Donald has been golfing three years.

BRYAN FAMILY DYNASTY ENDS

Great Commoner's Brother Retires from Mayoralty

Lincoln, Neb. May 18—(AP)—"Six scattered hours of sleep each night are enough for anybody."

That is the success formula of 70-year-old Charley Bryan, whose recent retirement from the Lincoln mayoralty rings down the curtain on the "Bryan dynasty" in politics after nearly a half century.

Charley's brother, the late William Jennings Bryan, began the "dynasty" in the 1890s as a congressman and later ran three times for President. Charley has been Nebraska's governor three terms, a candidate three other times, vice presidential and senatorial candidate, and mayor of Lincoln twice.

His niece, Ruth Bryan Owen Rohde, preceded him into retirement by a few months.

Strong and vigorous, he stands slightly more than six feet, weighs more than 200 pounds, and looks much like the "Great Commoner."

Charley's sleep formula is no joke. He has been getting his rest catch-as-catch-can for years. He sat up for into the night recently to supervise the foaling of a colt on the farm where he breeds fine draft horses.

He is retiring, he says, to put the farm—three quarter-sections—on a paying basis.

"I'm just like a dog," he explains. "A dog needs a lead to keep him from worrying about being a dog. These horses are my lead."

Farming, horse racing and boxing have been life-time hobbies. During his early life in Illinois he fought a number of amateur bouts. As governor, he attended every contest of importance.

Charley likes to be called "Charley." "I feel just like a boy," he says.

His "youth" has been the essence of everything he has undertaken.

When Lincoln put into effect an ordinance requiring bars to sell food to qualify for a license, Mayor Charley made the rounds of every bar.

"I owned a registered Jersey bull," he recounts, "and wanted to sell him but the bull was so vicious I was having trouble finding a buyer."

"A banker in a nearby town was interested but kept putting me off until one day I offered to drive the bull down to his office."

"He didn't think this could be done so he told me to go ahead. Well, I hitched that bull up to a buggy and led him around a field until he worked as well in harness as a horse. Then I drove right up to the bank and unhitched. That banker was dumfounded. He just wrote out the check without saying a word."

There are 999 similar stories about Charley, who came to Nebraska after the bull incident and settled down near "Charley" Dawes.

Now that he's retired, Charley Bryan plans to "catch up" on his reading. Kipling is his favorite author and "It" his favorite poem. He and Mrs. Bryan frequently attend the movies but neither has a favorite star.

About swing music, Bryan is a little more definite, remembering this definition from a Nebraska student newspaper:

"Swing music is just one of those things. You've either got it or you ain't got it."

"That definition is the only thing that makes me think I'm getting old," Charley confides.

Denver, Colo. (AP) — America's "tin can" tourists, greatly glorified in shiny new cars, are traveling western trails again in record numbers.

Official figures prove the tourist let-down years from 1930-34 are over, but westerners need no further convince them. Roads were comfortably crowded last summer with cars of easterners, northerners and southerners seeking play and frost bite among snow-capped peaks of the Rockies.

GRIFFIN SLATED TO KEEP SCHOOL COMMISSION POST

(Continued from page one) problems and needs, the confidence which most of the superintendents and principals have in him and especially the fact that he cannot be buffed or sweet-talked by school people or the politicians. If there was some one else who knew anything like as much about the operation of the schools and especially their needs and problems, as does Griffin, that person might be named instead of Griffin. But more and more observers are becoming convinced that Governor Hoey and the new commission cannot do better than to re-name Griffin as executive secretary, since they are becoming convinced they will not be able to find any one else with the experience, background and knowledge of school management necessary for the person who is named to this post. They point out that the school commission actually spends more money each year than any other state agency, even more than the highway commission, and that the job of executive secretary in many ways is just as important

COMMISSIONER HOPES GET FULL PARKWAY ALLOTMENT

Congressman R. L. Doughton is giving the matter his particular attention, and Chairman Dunlap feels that he and the other members of the North Carolina delegation will be able to impress the committee with the necessity for allowing the $5,000,000 appropriation to stand, although $10,000,000 was originally recommended and is actually needed. No appeal has yet been made to President Roosevelt and none is contemplated unless Congressman Doughton encounters some unforeseen and unexpected trouble. Chairman Dunlap indicated.

If the Federal government does not provide the funds needed to complete the parkway, it will be breaking faith with a class of people for whom it has done less than any other class—the people in the mountains of western North Carolina, Dunlap said.

"The Federal government has helped the tobacco farmers, it has helped the cotton farmers, the potato farmers, the wheat farmers, the cattle producers, the hog raisers, the sheep raisers, the peanut farmers and almost every other kind of farmer, except the farmers of western North Carolina, whose only profitable crop is the crop of summer tourists," Dunlap said. The Blue Ridge parkway holds out the prospect of bringing more help to these people than anything else, since it will bring them an ever-increasing crop of tourists and summer visitors. It has also helped greatly in providing extra employment for the people living in the counties along the parkway.

"But if the government fails to provide the money to complete this parkway, it will be breaking the pledge which President Roosevelt made that it would be completed, also breaking faith with the people in the mountain counties which have received less aid from the gov-

JUST PURE SUCKERS

Most every day you will hear someone boast that he or she has just bought a sweepstakes ticket and is expecting to win a fortune
with same. While our federal laws are supposed to prohibit traffic of the lottery tickets in this country, it is a known fact that the American sucker list is growing annually. To some, however, it might be a warning to know that last week postal inspectors seized 280,000
bogus sweepstakes tickets in a Harlem flat.

The person who buys a legitimate ticket has less chance than the proverbial snowball in Hades, but those who purchase fake tickets
can't possibly win.

For every persons that wins on a sweepstakes ticket
there are thousands upon thousands who lose, and still our Americans continue to be such gullible gamblers
that they continue to contribute millions of dollars to foreign lotteries annually.
Just how long our American people will continue to be such suckers no one can tell but apparently the sucker list in this country is growing daily.

POLITICAL WASTE CAN BE CUT

Apologists for government extravagance claim that it is impossible to balance the budget now and that we must submit to still higher taxes and national debts.
If a ten per cent cut were made in all appropriations approved or pending in this Congress, a saving of $732,- 500,000 would be effected—
enough to balance the budget next year. And then if the proposal made by Senator Byrnes, one of the Administration leaders, to cut $500,000,000 from the proposed $1,500,000,000 relief bill, were accepted, we could start reducing the debt and start on the long road toward sound fiscal policies.
During recent years, millions of families have been forced to cut their budgets ten, twenty, or fifty per cent and they have come through without undue hardship, and paid off debts.
Thousands of businesses
have been forced to do the same thing to escape bankruptcy. Based on visible evidence, it is not unreasonable to believe that at least ten per cent of all government spending represents pure,
non-productive political waste.
A bill to make the ten per cent cut in expenditures a reality, has been introduced in the House. In the name of governmental sanity and solvency, and in the interest of recovery and stability, it should be passed. — Indus-

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

SYNOPSIS: First, the mysterious shooting to death of attractive Jude Blinshop makes us all jittery on this wild, stormy weekend at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunt. A series of strange attacks is, apparently explained
when we find below the bluff the body of Michael's insane father, supposedly long since dead. But our relief is short-lived; Aunt Martha is shot in the shoulder by an unseen hand. Who held the gun? Mike, the Skipper, his tall, tweedy younger aunt, Gay Palmer, his red-headed sweetheart, Higgins, the old butler, William,
the chauffeur, Cook, Annie, the maid, myself?

Chapter 28

The Case Against Me

WHEN Higgins finally spoke, his voice was cool and collected.
"This is horrible, Mr. Jimmie."
"Yes," My plan crystallized. "Wait
here, Higgins."

I went into the Skipper's room and,
after considerable rummaging, located a box of bath powder. Holding the gun by the tip of the barrel with my fingers carefully wrapped in the handkerchief, I dusted the thing liberally with powder and then blew.

A faint white film remained on the shiny metal, but it was an even film.
There were no fingerprints on the revolver. And Higgins, who had possessed the presence of mind to wrap his own hand in a handkerchief before touching it, had just attempted to thrust the thing into my outstretched bare hand.

"Until the police arrive," he had said.

That second shooting was one of the most sinister episodes of those days and nights of terror.
In broad daylight with everyone up and about we had hitherto considered ourselves safe. It was puzzling, too, for it seemed to represent an inexcusable slip in the killer's otherwise workable plans. He had managed to convince the entire household of the guilt of Norman Farrington, who would never be able to disprove the charge. Why had he ruined all his work and why, of all people, would he shoot M. Farrington?

Martha herself had little evidence to offer. She had just gotten out of bed, she explained, with the intention of dressing for lunch. As she sat down at the dressing table, someone knocked at the door. Thinking that it was the Skipper, she called out, "Come in," without looking up.
And that was all she remembered.
She thought she caught a glimpse of a man's coat sleeve reflected in her mirror, but she wasn't sure.

We could get nothing more out of her. She was panic-stricken and hysterical. There was no side-stepping the fact that my presence in the room was singular, to put it mildly. The gun which Higgins had found was undoubtedly the weapon used. One bullet had been fired from it. And any one could see that it would have been a simple thing for me to have fired the door, deposit the revolver on the stand in the hall, and be the first person on the scene of the accident.

It Looks Bad For Me

WE SAT in the living room, waiting for the Skipper's report on the effect of the sleeping powder which he had just administered to her sister. Higgins had been ordered to all the other servants that the revolver had gone off while I was cleaning it, and that no one had been hurt. As Gay pointed out, we might at least have some decent meals for the next few hours. We were apt to need them.

Gay and Michael sat close together,
think she was telling him the Skip-per's story. In any case, he was listening intently, although his eyes strayed from me from time to time, clouded with something that puzzled me.

I had plenty of time to review the acts and to appreciate the overwhelming extent of my danger. In the first place, I had once been in love with Jude Blinshop. In the second place, no one had seen me on Friday night from the time the Skipper left until Michael roused me at something after 11 o'clock. True, I had been in full sight of everybody when Cook had screamed from the kitchen,

but it seemed fairly evident that Mike's father had been responsible for that m&e in the kitchen. Certainly it would explain his reentry
into the house.
I had been in the living room alone
when Gay and Mike heard prowling footsteps in the hall. William had clearly suspected me of hitting him
over the head and dumping him down
the back stairs. My own experience at that time could be explained all too easily by a clever prosecutor.
There would always be Norman Farrington for him to fall back upon whenever his logic hit a snag.

I had been the first upon the scene of the latest crime, found there by several witnesses. No one but myself could account for my actions after I left Higgins downstairs. Good Lord!
That conversation with Higgins! A first-year student of law could make considerable out of that! Murderer, warned that suspicion still exists, becomes desperate, etc. My head was buzzing with it. Over and over again
I reviewed that ghastly moment with Higgins in the upper hall, when by the fraction of a second I had escaped putting the final, damning link in the chain of evidence—my own fingerprints on the fatal weapon.

A Faustian Mephisto

HIGGINS announced lunch rather early, explaining that Miss Farrington was not yet asleep and that Miss Barbara had ordered him to serve at once. But the Skipper's plan failed utterly. Far from creating a diversion, lunch was an even more depressing experience than doing nothing in the living room. Without either the Skipper or M. Farrington to keep us going, we picked at food in uncomfortable silence. I could not bear to look at Higgins. Had he offered me that gun deliberately, knowing that it had already been wiped clean of the murderer's fingerprints? Would he have denied the entire episode in court?

I thought that he would, in my imagination the frail old man was beginning to take on the proportions of a Faustian Mephisto. What had he started to tell me before he changed his mind? Anything? He might have been building up that chain of circumstantial evidence deliberately.
Higgins was the owner of the gun
which had in all probability killed Jude Blinshop and wounded M. Farrington. Our searches had disclosed no other weapon in the house. Whoever used that gun on Jude must have cleaned and reloaded it before it was handed to Michael on Friday night.
And who had as good an opportunity for doing that as Higgins?

True, he had been with the rest of us when the episode in the kitchen transpired, and in the room with all the others when William and I met our fate. But in both those cases the active presence of the lunatic was not only possible, but distinctly probable. The noiseless tread that had always seemed pleasant to me before suddenly became threatening and sinister. I jumped every time the man came near me with food.
There was no longer any sense in dodging the fact that the murderer must be a recognized inmate of the house. The possibility of a second unknown wandering the Bluff in darkness was absurd. It was obvious that the person who shot M. Farrington had known just where to find her,
just where to dispose of his or her gun, just where to conceal himself or herself after the shot had been fired.

rington's sinister activities.

tion. That meant cheap power and a nasty yardstick by which private power rates could be measured all over the country.
But Los Angeles within these latter days has discovered that it meant something else again. Cheaper power at Bonneville than at Boulder promised to entice industrial concerns to locate at Bonneville or nearby Portland, Oregon,
instead of at Los Angeles.
Back to Washington came the intellects of Los Angeles.
They argued that interest on the government money used to build Boulder dam should be cut from 4 to 3 per cent, since the government now can get money at the lower figure. Moreover, of the $115,000,000 cost of the dam, $25,000,000 was "allocated" to flood control. Unlike at Bonneville, power development was expected to pay this off. Why not defer this payment for 50 years, and knock off interest on the $25,000,000
altogether?
With these and certain other minor adjustments, Los Angeles argued, the Boulder power rate could be cut from 1.63 mills to the Bonneville rate of one mill.
The official findings are not out yet, but backstage comment has it that Los Angeles will be granted most of its requests. It will take an ed off to flood control and naviga-

POOR CHARLIE FOXED ON JOB

Democrats Publicity Man Fails to Place Friend

Washington, May 18.—Iowa's "outcast" congressman, but one over on Charlie Michaelson, the Democrats publicity director, by snatching a fat patronage job right out of his teeth. They were as tickled as if they'd robbed a man on a punch.

The job was the $7,500 a year
secretaryship of the federal communications commission and the job getter was Thomas J. Slowie (pronounced "Sloe"—ee.)

Slowie was an upcoming insurance salesman before his entry into Iowa politics and what he doesn't know about telephone and radio communication could be measured in high-multiplication kilowatts. But the congressman who he's met put him over thought that was all the better
—open mind, you know, and no
tieups with the utility business.

Michaelson had intended the job for Robert L. Berger, a satin-voiced radio hand who did a satisfying job on the broadcast end of the national committee's campaign work
last fall. He even had Postmaster General Farley's approval. Usually that is enough. But there was a slip in another direction.

Slowie blossomed as an Iowa political starter in 1930 when he had a hand in managing the campaign of Bernhard M. Jacobsen, who that year broke the Republican spell cast over Iowa and became the first Democratic representative in years.
Slowie went along as secretary to Jacobsen and in 1932 had a large hand in swinging the Iowa delegation to Roosevelt and in putting five more Democratic congressmen
in the house.

After that he had a big say-so in the Iowa delegation and often was called the "ex-officio" member. When Jacobsen died a year or so back, Slowie set himself to succeed him but Iowans grow sentimental at times between corn crops.
It would be nice if Bernhard's son William could go to congress like his father. William got the job and Slowie went on being congressional secretary.

But the Iowa delegation was pledged to get him a worthy job right away. They thought they had him lined up for a top place among employees of the newly organized maritime commission but Chairman Joseph P. Kennedy was not stuffed that outfit full of underlings until he had use for them.

Then the corn-state delegation got wind of the comm. marina commission job. Slowie had all the political perquisites. Iowa was entitled to another plum or two.
Slowie was especially entitled to something — and Radio Man Berger and Michaelson had to give way.

Greenies To Play Here Tomorrow; Friday and Sunday

TODAY'S GAME BEING PLAYED AT GOLDSBORO

Locals Take Rest On Monday, No Game Being Scheduled

TODAY'S GAMES

Williamston at New Bern.
Kinston at Tarboro.
Snow Hill at Ayden.
Greenville at Goldsboro.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

Goldsboro 3, Ayden 2.
New Bern 19, Tarboro 2.
(Others not scheduled)

STANDINGS

New Bern	6	.600
Tarboro	5	.556
Ayden	5	.500
Kinston	3	.333
Snow Hill	3	.300
Greenville	2	.200

Idle yesterday and playing in Goldsboro today, the Greenies will return here tomorrow afternoon for a game with the Goldbugs, the only nine which has been able to halt the Williamston Martins.

The locals are meeting the second place Goldsboro nine in a two-game series the first of the week and then play two two-game series with Tarboro the remainder of the week.

Games here this week will be on Wednesday, Friday and Sunday.

The locals at present hold the undisputed cellar position, but the belief still is general that the Greenies are capable of getting in the win column more than they have so far and soon will hit their stride.

So far they have won only two games in eight starts, one of these being the opening day encounter here and the other being over Snow Hill. The club is at the bottom of the standings at 200.

Fans who saw the Greenies in the last two games, both with New Bern, are of the opinion, however, that the club has shown much improvement and continues to do so as the season continues. Both games with New Bern last week were hard-fought battles, the Sunday game having been won in the last half of the ninth. In other words, the Greenies haven't had the breaks so far this year.

State And WFC Meet In Raleigh Tomorrow

Raleigh, May 18.—Chick Deak's baseball Techs of North Carolina State College play their last home game when they meet John Caddell's Wake Forest Deacons tomorrow at 3:45 on Freshman Field. The Techs, however, will not complete their schedule until Saturday when they meet the Deacons again — at Wake Forest.

Tomorrow's meeting is the third between the two Wake County school's this spring. The first meeting was here on Easter Monday and Wake Forest won 19-17 after 12 innings. The Deacons collected 17 hits and State's hard hitting Techs were good for 25.

The second game was run off at Wake Forest and the Deacons won 7-6 by scoring two runs in the ninth inning with one man out to overcome a State lead. Wake Forest hit safely 12 times and State was good for eight.

Both games were close and thrilling all the way and just such a battle is expected tomorrow. Allen Green will probably be State's starting hurler. The young sophomore faced the Deacons in the Easter Monday game as a relief hurler, pitching three innings and allowing five hits.

Byrd or Glass will probably hurl for Wake Forest.

Carolina Meets Duke In Two Final Games

Chapel Hill, May 18.—University of North Carolina athletic teams will virtually bring their spring season to a close this week.

The Tar Heels and Blue Devils nines will open their annual three-game series here Wednesday and follow up with a second engagement at Greensboro Saturday night. They broke even in two games last year. A third scheduled game was postponed on account of rain.

The University of North Carolina will hold its first Carolinas A. U. track meet here next Friday and Saturday. Competition will take place in both junior and senior divisions. Those eligible for the junior events are prep, high school and freshman athletes. Participating in the senior divisions will be representatives from colleges, universities and amateur clubs.

The varsity golfers will bring their schedule to a close Tuesday by engaging Duke's State and Southern Conference champions on the nearby Hope Valley course. The Tar Heels linkmen have lost but one dual meet this season. They were beaten by N. C. State 9-12 to 8-3 last week. Duke is undefeated in dual competition.

Blount-Harvey broke into the win column of the local softball league with a 10-7 victory over Carolina Dairy.

The game was featured by close playing of both teams. West of the Dairy men handled five chances in the field to top the losers, while Matthews and Tripp featured in the infield for Blount-Harvey.

Proctor with a double and a single and three runs batted in, led at bat, followed by Vincent and Nisbet with two hits each.

Person-Garrett defeated Tadlock Mutual Insurance, 6-5, in the other encounter of the afternoon. The insurance men started off with an early lead, but the tobaccoists soon overcame this and maintained the lead during the remainder of the game.

The insurance men made several bids to recapture the leadership, but every attempt was turned back by Person-Garrett players.

Nurse Helps Babies Hit The Bottle

Down in the basement diet kitchen of Flower-Fifth Avenue Hospital in New York, bottled meals for infants are prepared in germ-proof fashion and kept in the refrigerator until feeding time.

The bottle always gets an enthusiastic reception from babies who lean back and finishes in ten minutes. Nurse tries to keep 'em from swallowing air with the milk.

Asked by his mother for a $30 loan, the youthful financier asked: "What is your collateral?" "All I have is the baby," was listed as collateral.

"We make small character loans, say for a nickel, or a dime, and charge 1 cent a week interest," the young banker explains.

When his own deposit in the bank reached $32, Truman purchased a foot-power platen press and printing equipment and began publication of "The Midget."

His newspaper, priced at one cent the copy, now has a circulation of from 100 to 200.

Truman deposits his funds in a Salt Lake City bank. His father operates a dairy.

When they do get air on their tummies nurse pats them gently on the back until all gone—a serious business, Gloria seems to think. Then it's back to the basinet for a good sleep.

Phillies' Find

Goldsboro Wins Over Ayden In Close Tilt

Ayden — Ayden's Aces couldn't furnish the scoring punch in the pinches—and so the home forces wound up on the short end of a 3-2 score with Goldsboro yesterday.

The Goldbugs made the most of their opportunities and had just four men left on bases. Ayden, by contrast, left 10 stranded.

It was a good ball game and the battle was nip-and-tuck all the way. The winning run was tallied in the eighth—as a result of Willie Powell's single. Lujack's sacrifice, and Jarvis' double.

Goldsboro scored in the third after two were away, on a walk to Powell and a long, outside by Lujack. Ayden got that run back in the home half—on a walk, a sacrifice, and a pair of Goldsboro errors.

New Bern Victorious Over Tarboro, 19 to 2

New Bern—Life begins at 40—and so does base stealing and hitting. Doc Smith gave a public demonstration on how not to grow old yesterday in the Tarboro-New Bern game. The Bruins crushed the Tarboro nine under a 19-2 score.

Doc clouted a round tripper and a pair of singles to drive in four runs, and he figured in an eighth-inning double steal that sent Knowles across the plate. Smith figured firstbase, and he cavorted around that station so nimbly that he handled 18 putouts in perfect style.

Of course, Doc's internes helped in compiling the lop-sided victory. The Bears collected a total of 17 hits. They used only two of these—singles by Knowles and Mullinax—in counting seven runs in the first inning. Five walks helped things along in this stanza.

BANKER AT 11, HE TAKES BABY AS COLLATERAL

Salt Lake City (AP) — Truman O. Woodruff at 11 is a hard-boiled banker and publisher.

As president, board of directors, cashier and janitor of the kids' neighborhood banking association, with deposits totaling $196.06, Truman doesn't permit family sentiment to over-rule his sound business judgment.

Asked by his mother for a $30 loan, the youthful financier asked: "What is your collateral?" "All I have is the baby," was listed as collateral.

"We make small character loans, say for a nickel, or a dime, and charge 1 cent a week interest," the young banker explains.

When his own deposit in the bank reached $32, Truman purchased a foot-power platen press and printing equipment and began publication of "The Midget."

SPORT SLANTS

Followers of the Phillies may not have much to get excited about, but the names of Morrie Arnovich have warmed their hearts. It was his 11th training homer on Patriots Day that upset Guy Bush of the Boston Red Sox and enabled the Phils to earn the season on the right foot.

Philadelphia fans about Arnovich, a smooth performer in the field, a great punch at the plate. A left-handed batter, he has some of Al Simmons' mannerisms. To a boy six years 1, playing Al was a simonist first came up with the Athletics. Morrie is a power hitter and in the Phils' main press should do better than fair.

Superior, Wis., gave Arnovich to the Phils. Another Superior lad, Dave Bancroft, made his major league bow with the Phils in 1915. Bancroft did all right, too.

Like Bancroft, Arnovich began his career as a shortstop. In 1933 while playing with Superior in the Northern league (Class D) he played that position and batted .331 to be voted the best shortstop on the circuit. Bancroft and Manager Dick Wade of Superior sent him to the outfield.

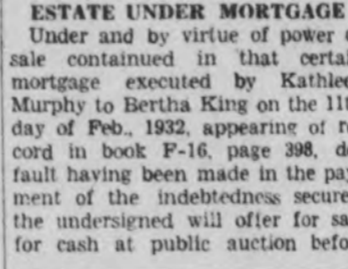

Hitting was, and is, his long suit. In four years of minor league service he never failed to hit better than .300. It isn't likely he will continue to bat at the early clip up to which with the Phils, but if his streak of seven consecutive hits, made here in April, is any indication, he should go great guns at Baker bowl.

Arnovich was a fine basketball player at Superior Teachers college, but the past two winters has confined his cage work to officiating.

Pigs Ain't Pigs Tulsa, Okla. (AP)—Other pigs have distasteful attributes, but not those of Charley Thompson, 12, and Sidney Hussey, 13—their smell "sweet as a daisy." The two young future farmers of America brought their hogs from their homes near Sayre, Okla., for exhibit at the four-state fair here. "Our pigs are cleaner than a ham's tooth," they declared. "We know. We laundry them once a week and they're nicer to sleep with than a lot of people we know. Our lady pigs smell sweet as a daisy." Asked about the odor that pigs are said to have, one says simply: "Oh, that's these other pigs."

IT'S ODD, But It's Science

New York — A joke on the cows is reported by William Clayton and James Frederick Morse, London scientists. They put a dash of soapin, a white powder used to make beverages foamy, into good butter cream. Thereafter hours of churning failed to make any butter. They were trying to settle an old scientific dispute — what is butter? One theory said it was an emulsion, a mixture of fat and water. The other said it wasn't.

They think they have proved that butter is not an emulsion but just a lot of fat, since their white powder prevented the fat and the protein in the milk from separating and no butter was formed. This, they say, demonstrates that churning separates the proteins and fats, and the fat globules mass together into butter.

Today the sport of fencing puts much the same value on healthy nerves and unfailing alertness as did the deadly duels of long ago.

ONLY slow motion movies could show you all the brilliance of Joanna de Tuscan's darting sword play. Attack—parry—riposte—happen too quickly for the eye to follow. In Joanna de Tuscan's own words: "A person who didn't have nerve control would never stand out in fencing. My No. 1 reason for smoking Camels is—they never jangle my nerves. Camel is the cigarette that I find permits me to smoke as often as I please. It's Camels for me 'for digestion's sake' too. They're so mild they never make my throat harsh."
