

PROTEST MADE TO CRITICISM ADOLF HITLER

German Embassy Objects to Remarks by Cardinal Mundelein

REPRESENTATION ONLY INFORMAL

General Instructions Not to Stand for Insults to Hitler Ambassador's Orders

Washington, May 20.—(AP)—The German embassy has made informal representations to the State Department over criticism voiced by Cardinal Mundelein at Chicago against Chancellor Hitler and Germany's Nazi regime.

This was learned today coincident with a statement by embassy officials Ambassador Hans Dieckhoff had not thus far received instructions from his government to make a formal protest.

Mundelein's anti-Nazi remarks in which he referred to Hitler as "an Australian paper hanger, and a poor one at that" was called to the attention of James Dunn, chief of the State Department's western European division by Dr. Hans Thompson, counselor of the German embassy yesterday.

Berlin, May 20.—(AP)—A vigorous and energetic protest to the United States government by Dr. Hans Dieckhoff, the German Ambassador to Washington, was disclosed today as Nazi Germany's newest reaction to an anti-Hitler speech by George Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago.

An official spokesman, discussing the protest, said Dr. Dieckhoff's general instructions to stand for no "insults" to Adolf Hitler and his regime were explicit and the Mundelein representation "followed automatically in the wake of his duties."

Dr. Dieckhoff is just beginning his career as German Ambassador at Washington and recently succeeded Dr. Hans Luther, who carried to the State Department the Third Reich's protest against anti-Hitler utterances by Mayor La Guardia of New York.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD IN CREEK

Body Found Floating Near Home in Elizabeth City

Elizabeth City, May 20.—(AP)—Following a preliminary examination of the body of Mrs. Mary Mettrey, 67, of 702 Southern avenue, found floating on the water of Charles Creek a few hundred yards from her home today, Coroner J. B. Perebe announced a second examination and inquest would be held this afternoon.

Although unable to find any marks on the body which would indicate injury other than simple drowning, the coroner commented it seemed strange the body should have floated when most bodies seem to sink to the bottom for a few days at least.

The body was discovered about 150 feet west of the Southern avenue bridge by a delivery truck driver three hours after Mrs. Mettrey had been reported missing by her nephew, K. P. Azar, with whom she lived.

Ten Years Ago Lindbergh Made Epochal Flight

Wald, Eng., May 20.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh staidly avoided any of the fuss of celebration today on the tenth anniversary of his now historic solo flight from New York to Paris.

He pottered about the garden of his country home, in the manner of a man who has never achieved fame and who never wants to.

"I did it, why should I celebrate it?" Lindbergh was quoted by a friend as having answered when questioned about his plans for the anniversary for the flight he made a decade ago.

A steady stream of congratulatory telegrams poured in on the flying colonel, but there were no telephone calls.

Lindbergh had ordered the telephone disconnected so even well-wishers will have no chance to disturb the peace and privacy which he fled from the United States to England to seek in December, 1935.

During the past year Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh have continued flying, making tours from England to India. On each trip, however, the couple attempted to attract as little publicity as possible and concern was felt on many occasions when they were overdue.

Jones & Laughlin Laborers Determine Fate of Union

BOARD WATCHES OVER ELECTION

Sheriff Anticipates No Further Disorder As Result of Dispute At Lumberton

(By Associated Press)

Employees of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation plant at Pittsburgh and Aliquippa, Pa., cast ballots today to determine whether they desired a C. I. O. union to represent them in collective bargaining.

The election, largest thus far supervised by the National Labor Relations Board, was open to 27,000 workers. The union seeking exclusive bargaining rights was the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of North America, operating through the Steel Workers Organizing Committee.

Election results were expected to be announced tomorrow.

The Bethlehem Steel Corporation, another large independent, was faced with a strike of several hundred workers at Johnstown, Pa.

A truce providing for immediate negotiation of differences over wage rates resulted in restoration of electric service in 13 Michigan counties. A strike by employees of the Consumers Power company at Saginaw caused a suspension of service in Bay City, Flint, Saginaw and 190 smaller communities.

The Federated Motion Picture Crafts said its strike would be extended to 27 independent film producers at midnight unless they granted demands for a union shop.

At Lumberton, N. C., Sheriff Mark Page said he expected "no further trouble" during the campaign of C. I. O. organizers to unionize cotton mills there and added he had received no demand from Roy Lawrence, Carolinas C. I. O. administrator, for the protection of organizers there.

Meantime at Reidsville, N. C., the Edna cotton mills, employing 400 workers, closed for a week by a strike of doffers, opened after granting recognition to a new textile union formed there by C. I. O. organizers.

OFFICERS GET TWO ESCAPEES

Rudolph Marshburn and James Adams Captured in Wayne

Two white men who escaped jail here last fall, one while a decision on an appeal to the Supreme court from a seven to nine year sentence for larceny was pending, and the other while awaiting trial on a charge of safe cracking, were captured in Goldsboro last night by members of the Wayne county sheriff's office and returned here today.

Rudolph Marshburn, one of the escapees, was taken to an undisclosed jail for safekeeping. He was charged with robbery in Farmville, along with his brother and another man. He escaped only a day or so before his case was to have been tried. His co-defendants were tried, convicted and sentenced. The men were charged with robbing the safe at Turnage Brothers' store in Farmville.

James Adams, the other recaptured escapee, was being held in jail here when he escaped, pending the outcome of his appeal from conviction of larceny. He was one of several tried for robbing a farmer of a large sum of money during the tobacco market season last fall. He was alleged to have been the leader of the group, one of whom faked a fall from a warehouse floor to the farmer. During the scramble the men took the money.

He was sentenced to serve seven to nine years. Since then the Supreme Court has ruled against him and he was taken to Raleigh today to begin serving his term.

Goldsboro officers reported the men were emptying nitro glycerine into a sink when surprised at a tourist camp five miles from here.

A shotgun and burglary tools, they said, were found in a suitcase they carried, including brace and bit, steel drills, hack saws, two sets of South Carolina car license plates, one set of Georgia plates, dynamite caps and fuses, a quantity of ammunition and a 38 calibre pistol.

Deputy Roy Percise said Adams told him and Deputies H. B. Gardner and Bob Matthews he had served terms in Georgia and escaped from the Pitt county jail while awaiting to begin a sentence of seven years for larceny.

TRIO HELD FOR PITT ROBBERY

Sheriff Whitehurst Announces Capture of Three Negroes

Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst today revealed that three Negroes are being held in jail in connection with the robbery of a safe from a country store at Centerville, near St. John's church Sunday night, and officers are on the lookout for a fourth.

The trio held in jail, awaiting trial in Superior court here at the August term, are Sam Bryant, Larry Moore and George Mitchell, all of Fort Barnersville, in Craven county.

The three, along with a fourth Negro who has not been captured, are charged with entering the store between one and two o'clock Sunday night, hauling away a safe, breaking into it and robbing it of approximately $240 in cash. They also are charged with stealing a trailer to haul the safe away from "Boss" McLawhorn, Negro, who lives about two miles from the scene of the robbery.

The safe was round Tuesday night in a well about two and one-half miles from Port Barnersville and 18 miles from where the robbery occurred. The store's books and important papers were found intact, but the money was missing.

Bryant was later apprehended that night and Moore and Mitchell the following night. Sheriff Whitehurst said $91.66 of the stolen money was found buried and on the persons of Bryant and Moore. He said all three admitted participating in the robbery, but that Mitchell, upon whose person no money was found, declared that he was drinking at the time of the robbery and did not have anything to do with the actual robbery. The sheriff said Moore and Bryant have criminal records, but that Mitchell has never been in any trouble before. He added that Moore and Mitchell spent much of their time in New York.

TVA REQUESTS EARLY RULING ON ACTIVITIES

Wants Supreme Court to Settle Validity of Program

HOUSE REJECTS ECONOMY PLEAS

Flood Control Committee Head Declares Roosevelt Favors $25,000,000 Plan

Washington, May 20.—(AP)—The TVA asked the Supreme court today for an early ruling on its right to conduct its activities in the states of Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, North Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia.

It filed an appeal from part of a recent ruling by the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals, sending back to the Eastern Tennessee federal district court for trial a suit brought by 19 power companies to stop TVA's program.

The circuit court also ruled that a temporary injunction halting expansion of the TVA granted by the District court was against public interest.

Meantime at the capital the senate voted to cut the salary of Civilian Conservation Corps director Robert Fechner from $12,000 of $10,000 annually.

The salary-trimming amendment was adopted 44 to 29. It was offered by Senator Clark (D. Mo.) to legislation for establishing the CCC on a permanent basis. A similar amendment already had been approved by the house.

The Senate agreed to a conference report on the $81,736,943 second deficiency bill, carrying $40,166,270 for expenses of the TVA in the 1938 fiscal year and authority to start construction of the $112,000,000 Gilbertsville, Ky., dam.

The House overrode plans to economy by tentatively approving a proposal to appropriate $14,483,000 for vocational education grants to states in 1938, instead of $7,241,500 recommended by its appropriations committee.

Elsewhere Rep. Whittington (D. Miss.) House Flood Control Committee chairman, said President Roosevelt had endorsed a $25,000,000 floods works program for the lower Ohio river valley.

DEFENDS SALE OF SECURITIES

John Raskob Declares Nothing Illegal in Transactions

New York, May 20.—(AP)—John Raskob, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, defended today legality of the cross-sales of securities he made with Pierre du Pont after the 1929 Wall street panic by which the two established losses of more than $7,000,000 which they deducted on their 1929 tax.

Raskob, testifying at the hearing before Richard Disney of the United States Board of Tax Appeals, declared at no time was there any agreement or understanding between him and du Pont to repurchase the securities they sold back and forth on November 13 and December 26 after the October crash.

The government's case against the two, in which the Bureau of Internal Revenue contended the cross sales were fictitious and were accompanied by such a repurchasing agreement within 30 days time contrary to the revenue law of 1928, are being heard separately and Raskob was called as a witness in the du Pont case.

HOEY SPEAKER ON ACCIDENTS

Governor Urges More Care in All Walks of Life

Winston-Salem, May 20.—(AP)—Governor Hoey urged North Carolinians today "to exercise greater care and guard against accidents in all walks of life."

The Governor spoke at the eighth annual statewide safety conference underway here. He came from Raleigh this morning and returned to the capital after his speech.

"With the development of our complex civilization, living becomes increasingly hazardous," warned the governor. "The change from a sparsely settled rural state to a more populous commonwealth serves to intensify the source of danger and makes it incumbent upon us to exercise greater care."

"The slaughter upon the highways and the increasing number of accidents around the home and in many supposedly safe places indicates that safety can be assured only by the exercise of unusual care and by proper safeguarding every avenue of approach in the factories and shops and all other places where machinery is used and people work."

In the nation last year, he said, more than 10,000,000 persons suffered injuries and 400,000 were permanently disabled, with 100,000 resulting fatally.

The furnishings of a small parlor, in the Home Management house, which has won the name of the "courtroom," has been furnished from the proceeds of the "District School," which was given earlier in the year.

The trip to Williamsburg was the climax of the year's work, when colonial homes and furnishings were studied.

DUBUTANTE STEPS OUT AS MEMPHIS PRINCESS

Adaline Heiskell, Lone Debutante

... Likes to Stretch Out With A Good Book

ETIQUETTE

At least one person has solved the problem that bothers thousands of graduates each year.

Dr. Douglas S. Freeman—editor of "The Richmond (Va.) News Leader," author of the Pulitzer prize-winning biography of Robert E. Lee and professor at the Columbia School of Journalism, New York, is the person.

Dr. Freeman, who marches in at least one academic procession a year, conceived the idea of pinning his tassel on the left side of his motor board—to help him remember that scholars always wear the tassel across the left front quarter after graduation.

Nearly all colleges and many high schools now require academic costume at graduation. The ensemble consists of the long black robe (gray is preferred for high schools) and the mortar board. The latter should be worn straight on the head with the long point of the shell to the rear. The gown, which is ordinarily about three inches from the ground, should be kept hooked in front.

It is no longer correct to carry flowers with any academic costume. High school girls graduates still look lovely in white dresses carrying armfuls of flowers, however.

Of course, it isn't proper to fidget, make faces or squirm in the creaking funeral parlor chairs generally provided for graduates. If a candidate doesn't know it already, he's informed at rehearsal that he's not allowed to smoke, chew gum noisily or otherwise distract his fellow-students.

The problem of whether gifts are necessary bothers many friends of graduates.

Because of that graduates shouldn't distribute commencement invitations wholesale. Invitations are an effective means of reminding old friends of the graduate or his parents that sons and daughters have grown up. Although small gifts are in good taste they aren't necessary.

Adaptable Sailors
New York (AP)—Broad-brimmed sailor hats sit back on the top of the head or slope over one eye, according to the taste of the wearer. The same hat may appear in the morning looking carefree from its off-the-face perch, and in the afternoon tip forward to add grace to its owners' more dressy gown.

Whites That Differ
New York (AP)—Would be wearers of white clothes must select the proper shade with care this summer. For not all whites are alike. There are chalk porcelain, oyster and even gardenia variations, some containing a little more blue, and some more yellow than dead white.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Adaline Heiskell, Memphis' lone debutante of last fall, has become "Princess Adaline." She'll reign at the exclusive Memphis country club during the annual cotton carnival, May 11-15.

When the princess "steps out" to preside over the club's carnival ball—one of the highlights of Memphis' annual tribute to King Cotton—it will recall the brilliant party that marked Adaline's introduction to society.

Adaline In The Kitchen ... knows her way about

No Waiting For Her
She had looked forward to her debut for years. When other society girls in her group decided to postpone their debuts until next year to await a larger "class," Adaline would not agree with them.

She went it alone. She enjoyed every minute of the series of parties in her honor.

"Besides," she said, smiling, "I can tell my grandchildren I was the most attractive and popular debutante of the 1936 season."

She Can Cook
Adaline hasn't decided about the future. She's still very young. But she'd like to travel a bit, among other things.

She keeps her figure trim with tennis, swimming, golf and other outdoor sports. She enjoys dancing.

She likes a good book, when there is time for reading. And make no mistake about it, she can cook.

Tomatoes With Spinach
For a slightly different vegetable dish serve broiled tomatoes with buttered spinach covered with a thin cheese sauce. Arrange the vegetables in a shallow pan or glass pie dish. Broil or bake them for five minutes—just long enough to allow them to become browned on top and very hot.

Diced leftover baked or boiled ham combines nicely with peas, beans, mushrooms, rice or macaroni in creamed dishes.

Roasted shelled peanuts combine nicely with rice in croquettes.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

SYNOPSIS: The mysterious shooting of death of attractive Jude Blinshop makes us all jittery on this wild, stormy weekend at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunt. A series of strange attacks is apparently explained when we find below the bluff the body of Michael's mad father, supposedly long since dead. But our veil is torn; Aunt Martha is shot in the shoulder by an unseen hand. Who held the gun? Mike, the Skipper, his tall, tweedy younger aunt, Gay Palmer, his sweetheart, Higgins, the old butler; William the chauffeur; Cook; Annie, the maid?

Chapter 30 The Skipper Vanishes

HIGGINS was as much a fixture on Farrington Bluff as the old house itself. With every breath she drew, Martha Farrington defended anything that pertained to the old order of things. But would she defend her butler at the risk of involving the nephew whom she regarded almost as a son? I thought not.

In short, I came to the conclusion that if the angle of the mirror would allow a glimpse of anyone standing in the doorway, M. Farrington had seen a woman's face. If not, she had merely imagined that she saw something. The person who had killed the Blinshop was the same person who had tried to kill Martha and the same person who had lured Norman Farrington over the cliff to his death. And that person must be in the house, known to every one of us.

If that individual had pried open the locked door of Jude Blinshop's room, he was a person of considerable strength. Michael had only one hand. Higgins was too feeble. Annie and M. Farrington were not conceivably strong enough. William, Cook, Gay, and myself were left—possibilities, but not probabilities. I was getting too involved in the subject.

"Mike," I said, "there'll be a boat from shore by morning at the latest. Have you decided what we'll say to people?"

His clouded eyes had a somber look. "We ought to consult everyone before we decide. For Aunt Martha's sake, I think we should hunt it up as much as we can. Old George Foster's the coroner. He can tell us what to do, and we can let him handle the police."

"What about the Blinshops?"

Michael's face was growing darker and darker. "As soon as we can get across, I'll go down there. I think I should."

I knew what he was thinking. Everything would depend upon Jude's family. We could tell them that she had been shot by accident while one of us had been playing with a gun. If they would accept that statement and the coroner in action was so different from the coroner we had seen on the fishing trip, the name of the body in the billiard room might be left out of the case altogether. We could—

Right there I stopped, struck by an unhappy thought. If we were to smooth this thing over—hush it up—we would be running a terrible risk. Either at Farrington Bluff or among us in town there would remain a dangerous homicidal maniac, unknown and therefore infinitely dangerous. On the face of the thing, I wondered that Mike could consider it.

"Do you think we have a right to risk it?"

He glanced up at me swiftly, and then back to the first "Yes" noncommittally.

"But suppose something else happens?"

It was a squeamish way to put it, but he understood me. Leaning forward, he surveyed me with weary, patient eyes.

"You'll have to trust me a little, Jim. I don't think anything else will happen."

I stared at him. M. Farrington shot down like a rabbit! And nothing else would happen!

"Have you any reason for thinking so?"

"No, of course not," Michael roused himself, knocked the ashes out of his pipe, and slipped the thing into his pocket. "Don't be so jittery."

Three Murders?

"YOU wouldn't be so calm yourself if the police were scheduled to arrive within a few hours and everyone from the kitchen maid up suspected you of three murders."

"Three?" He shot the word at me suddenly on the alert. "How do you figure three?"

"Well," I said cautiously, "one certainly, one possibility, and one attempt."

"So you think my father was murdered, do you?"

"I think it's damned likely that someone coaxed him out to that bluff."

"You're crazy!" said Michael roughly. "Why the devil would anyone—"

Gay's voice jumped at us from the door. "Have you seen the Skipper? I've looked all over the house. I—I can't find her!"

"She's in Aunt Martha's room," said Michael. "What are you talking about?"

Our hunt for the missing Skipper goes on, tomorrow.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

Hollywood, May 20.—Ever since I was a child I have wanted to travel. So I have perfected a way of living in "every part of the world" without even leaving Hollywood.

I move from house to house, hotel to hotel, apartment to apartment. I have moved exactly 22 times since I came to Hollywood a little less than four years ago from the New York stage. And each time I move I choose a different style house. Always I select one representing a different part of the world from the home I lived in last.

In spring and summer I live in houses. During the winter I prefer hotels and apartments. I moved into a home in Beverly Hills last week just before starting "You Can't Have Everything."

My new place is a 12-room English style home. It has a swimming pool, which is one of the main reasons I rented it. But since I couldn't go to the coronation in person, at least I could go to England in fancy by living in an English style home.

You might wonder why I move so often. It's an escape mechanism. I admit, but a very pleasant one. Most persons have some way in which they renew their outlook on things. Some buy a new hat, a pair of shoes, a dress or a suit. I move.

Although I've had only a few days off from picture work since last August—when I took a brief trip to New York—I have been almost around the world, residentially speaking. I have just moved out of a French Normandy home in Hollywood. Before that I lived in a Swiss chalet apartment house. Two months before that I lived in a hotel of Mediterranean architecture.

When the casting office calls me, instead of saying as many other players do, "Wait until I get my hat," I always say, "Wait until I move."

Don't get me wrong. I don't buy the places. I don't own even an occasional chair. I merely move my personal belongings each time. I rent another place. When I finish my current picture I expect to move into a long, rambling, ivy Spanish style home.

Such a change, I hope, will give me my "vacation."

13th Annual Session Set For Cooperatives

Raleigh, May 20.—The 13th annual session of the American Institute of Cooperation will be held at Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa, June 21-25, according to an announcement sent to Dean J. O. Schaub, of N. C. State College.

The sessions will be open to the general public with a special invitation extended to farmers and agricultural leaders interested in farm cooperative enterprises. The announcement said.

At the conference authorities will discuss numerous factors involved in the development and successful operation of cooperatives; the dean said, including the relationship of the individual member to the cooperative organization.

Particular attention will be given livestock, grain, creamery, fluid milk, poultry and egg, wool, and petroleum cooperatives together with the subjects of cooperative purchasing and mutual insurance. Dr. Schaub pointed out.

CAROLINA HOPES HISTORY WON'T REPEAT ITSELF HERE

Chapel Hill, N. C., May 20.—When the University of North Carolina baseball team goes to Greensboro Saturday night to meet Duke in the second of their game series this season, it will be striving not to let history repeat itself. In the only previous Duke-Carolina meeting in Greensboro, the Blue Devils swamped the Tar Heels 16 to 1, scoring seven runs in the very first stanza. That happened in 1933. Yet Carolina with Nate Andrews, now with the St. Louis Cardinals, on the mound went on to beat Duke twice that season to clinch both State and Southern Conference championships with a record of 21 victories in 22 games.

BURNETTE SETTING PACE FOR U. N. C. BALL MEMBERS

Chapel Hill, May 20.—Tom Burnette, star Tar Heel outfielder, is the leading performer in three departments of ball play this season. He has batted in 16 runs, stole 15 bases and scored 21 runs in 19 games. Burnette also ranks second in hitting with a .355 mark, second in extra base hits with eight and second in number of hits with 27.

SENTIMENT AGAINST CHANGE GROWING

The recent unfavorable committee report on the President's Supreme Court proposal indicates that the chief executive is going to have hard sailing to gain even a part of his desire along this line.

Today, the most authoritative surveys and estimates indicate that those opposed to the proposal in its entirety might have a slim margin of two or three votes. A number of Senators originally believed to be for it have come out in opposition.

This change is believed to have come about as a result of a growing public opinion against the bill. It is no secret that the Congressmen's mail has bulged recently with letters discussing the proposal and that the majority have opposed it.

As more people are giving study to the proposed change and just what it means to the future of the country, they are reaching the decision that the change might be dangerous. As a result of this individual thinking the people and their representatives are realizing that the issue is one that deals with one of the fundamental principles of our government, hence there is a growing sentiment against the change.

This apparent change of heart on the part of many might indicate that in this one fight at least the President is waging a losing battle.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington, May 20.—Too many senators want to run the nation's foreign affairs and too many ambassadors want to run its domestic affairs.

Senator Nye of North Dakota and several others became frightfully wrought up over the letter Ambassador Dodd sent from Berlin warning the nation against a plot of some unnamed billionaire to put a puppet dictator in the White House. But almost at the same hour the state department and its outlying ambassadors were stirred to depths when Senator Nye demanded that the state department impose an arms embargo against Germany and Italy, or show the reason why not. It was his idea that the Nazi-fascist flustering expeditions into Spain constituted a state of war which justified the United States going into the shuddering seclusion that is contemplated in the neutrality act.

In a way that amounted to a request for an investigation, the senate did not at once act on it, to the undying gratitude of the state department.

Senator Nye is a hound for neutrality and staying out of Europe's affairs, hence the state department was wide-eyed with perplexity at his action.

But on the other hand, the senate was doing very well at conducting the court business without outside aid when suggestions on how to do a more complex job of it. Again Nye was out for an investigation of why he did it and who was the billionaire. And he was backed up by other senators, including Borah of Idaho, who thought the soap-box style of the ambassador's warning indicated maybe he was a little "tethered in the snail."

All in all it might contribute to the peace of the nation, both home and abroad, if the senate should launch an investigation of ambassador Dodd and his dictatorship idea, while a committee of ambassadors opened an investigation of Senator Nye and his plan for slapping a neutrality embargo on Germany and Italy.

Am assador Dodd, who has spent far more years being a college teacher of history than a diplomat, really gave the senators a fine kick-off for an investigation. It isn't altogether likely such an investigation will be ordered, but the letter may cost Dodd his post. The air has been a-tingle for months with rumors he was to be reappointed. He may have heard the counting and so decided on a final fighting fling.

But a senate hunt for the conviving billionaire suspected by Dodd would be a thrill-hunt unmet by Rockefeller, Morgan and Ford have been the only ones publicly menaced by the title of billionaire. But times change, and no telling what might be shaken out by a senate investigation.

Raleigh, May 20.—Methods of applying for relief under the Old Age Assistance and Aid to Dependent Children Act adopted by the 1937 General Assembly of North Carolina may not be clearly outlined in the minds of many persons who may wish to secure the aid made possible through passage of the legislation, which goes into effect on July 1.

The procedure is simple. Applications must be made to County Departments of Welfare in the county in which the applicant resides and must be preceded by interview with Department workers. They must be in writing, prepared in duplicate (two copies), and they must be sworn to by the applicant. The services of a notary public or of some authorized county official may be utilized for the latter purpose.

In the event applicants are unable to write, or cannot, for any other reason, fill out their applications, they may call upon friends or employees of the County Welfare Departments, who are required by law to prepare applications for those who are unable to do so for themselves.

All applications must contain a statement of the amount of property, if any, both real and personal, in which applicants may have an interest, and of all income applicants may have at the time of the filing of the applications. Such additional information as the State Board and individual administering agencies may require also must be furnished.

Following the filing of an application, an investigation of the applicant will be made by the local department, in order to ascertain all facts in each case. This is a routine procedure, designed to see that justice is accorded all applicants, and at the same to prevent the possibility of fraud. The investigations are not intended to cause offense.

The investigations will be made by employees of the local departments, and the results will determine the amount of assistance the applicant is entitled to receive, should the application receive final approval.

The amounts applicants may receive will range as high as $30 per month for Old Age Assistance. In the case of children, there is a maximum of $15 per month for the first child, with each additional child of the same family receiving not more than $12 per month. The maximum for children's aid for a single family is $54 per month, except in particular cases of merit where the need is found to be greater. Decision of this character will be made by the State Board, which will receive recommendations from the local departments.

Following the investigations, applicants are to be promptly notified by local boards as to whether their applications have been approved or rejected. In the event of an unfavorable report, the applicant has the right of appeal from the decisions of the local departments to the State Board of Adoptions and Appeal.

None of the payments made through the Social Security program according to the law, shall be subject to execution, levy, attachment, garnishment, or other legal process, nor to the operation of any bankruptcy or insolvency law. Neither shall any of the funds be transferable or assignable in any manner.

These safeguards were embodied in the Act for the protection of recipients of assistance, but there are other provisions which tend to protect the county and the state from would-be fraudulent persons. The Act, in that respect, reads as follows: "Whoever knowingly obtains, or attempts to obtain, or aids or abets any person to obtain by means of wilfully false statements or representation or by impersonation, or

All Liquor Stores To Handle Brands At 50 Cents A Pint

To Offer Cheap Whiskey in Attempt to Compete With Bootleggers Operating Over State

Raleigh, May 20.—All of the county liquor stores in the state will be required to sell at least one brand at 50 cents a pint, probably a corn liquor, while an effort is also being made to find a good quality of gin that will also sell at 50 cents a pint. Chairman Cutler Moore of the state liquor board said today.

"The members of the board feel that a good quality corn liquor—at least much better than the bootleggers sell for 50 cents a pint—and a good gin at 50 cents a pint will do more to put the bootleggers out of business than anything we can do," Moore said.

"For we know that most of the customers which the bootleggers have in counties where liquor stores are operating are those who cannot pay more than 50 cents a pint for liquor, but who are willing to pay that much even for bad bootleg liquor. So by requiring all of the liquor stores to stock and sell one brand of corn liquor of known quality and a fair grade of gin, both to sell at 50 cents a pint, we feel sure we will take most of the bootleggers' customers away from them."

"For the bootleggers cannot sell even bad corn liquor for less than 50 cents a pint and stay in business. Besides, those county boards which have been experimenting with these cheaper brands have showed the great majority of those who have been buying from bootleggers will buy from the liquor stores when the prices are brought down to 50 cents a pint."

Keeping the liquor stores open until 8 or 9 o'clock at night has also greatly reduced the bootlegging in the counties already having liquor stores. Moore said. When the stores were required to close at 6 o'clock, many working people were not able to get to the stores. As a result, local bootleggers bought the 50 cent and 65 cent brands, bootlegged them after store hours for from 75 cents to $1 a pint.

"Now that the stores are staying open at night, these same people are coming to the stores and buying the 75 cents and $1 brands, instead of the cheaper brands," Moore said. "This has also put most of the bootleggers out of business."

Talks To Parents

By Brooks Peters Church

Straining The Voice
 In this day of youthful prima donnas, a word of warning to the parents of children who can sing may be in place.

The voice that can be trained in the early teens is a rare one, and many lovely voices are ruined by premature exploiting. The vocal cords have to develop like any other part of the body. A girl's voice, like a boy's, though not so noticeably, goes through a period of change. Until the adult voice is established, the vocal cords fully developed, the voice should not be strained, and indeed as far as possible should be allowed to lie fallow.

As far as possible — there is the difficulty. The child who can use her voice acceptably wants to sing, and is apt to be allowed or even encouraged to do so. The best way to give her an outlet with the least danger to the voice, is to find her

Retiring June 2

An opportunity for group singing in a choir or glee club. In the group the individual voice is lost and there is no incentive to overstrain. The young girl singing alone is apt to be shy, and as a result her vocal cords and nerves and muscles are all rigid. Before she knows it, she has developed bad singing habits, which are far harder to overcome than to prevent. She is more than apt to flat her high notes because, tense with embarrassment, she must force herself to reach them, and of course falls short.

The natural voice which needs little or no training is rare. Everyone who can carry a tune does not necessarily have a good voice, so considering many of the voices so widely heard today, parents may be forgiven for mistaking their own robin for nightingales. Time alone will show whether a voice is good or not. The more vocal promise a child shows, the more chance should be given for time to do its work. Even if singing lessons are delayed until the age of 20, nothing has been lost.

Young Democratic Committee Parley Set For Saturday

Executive Body to Decide on Convention City and Attend to Other Routine Business

Raleigh, May 20.—The meeting of the executive committee of the North Carolina Young Democratic Clubs, also the dinner and games to be held in connection with the meeting, will be held in the St. Walter Hotel ball room here Saturday night, May 22. It was announced today by S. Brown Sherberd, president of the Wake County Young Democratic Club, which will be host to the executive committee. About 150 delegates from Young Democratic clubs in different sections of the state are expected for the dinner, which will start at 6:30 and for the dance, which will follow. The meeting of the executive committee will be held between the dinner and the dance.

The two principal tasks before the executive committee are the selection of convention city for the state convention this summer and the selection of a principal speaker.

Spirited competition is now going on between Wilmington, Winston-Salem and Sanford for the convention and large delegations are expected from all three at the meeting Saturday night to present their various claims. Charlotte and Asheville are also regarded as wanting the convention, but so far do not seem to be making any active effort to get it.

The committee is expected to invite James Roosevelt to be the principal speaker at the convention.

Costly errors by Klasa enabled the Goldsboro Gold Bugs to obtain a 3-2 win over the Greenville Greenies at the Third street stadium here Wednesday afternoon in an 11-inning affair.

The Greenies scored the game's first tally in the third frame on singles by Delaney, Rudisill and Muto. In the seventh the visitors scored two and gained a one-run lead when Bella walked and later scored on an error by Klasa and a single by Overton. Overton tallied on a base hit to right field by Elliot.

Greenville tied the score in the ninth inning when Latham was hit by the pitcher, Hinton reached first on an error by Bella and scored. Latham. A base hit and another error filled the bases. Farley then pinch-hit for Delaney, and lined to short stop Balla, who caught the runner off second to make it a double play and retiring the side.

The tenth was a thrilling inning, although neither team scored. In the eleventh, Coombs of the visitors singled. Overton hit a double and Coombs scored on a wild throw by Klasa from right field to third base to give the Bugs the victory.

BOOK TO TELL SPORTS STORY

Record of University Gridiron To Be Published

Chapel Hill, May 20.—Back in the fall of 1888 on the Fair Grounds at Raleigh, two football teams met in the first intercollegiate game in North Carolina. In this exciting game Wake Forest defeated Carolina.

Prior to that day the game had been played in the colleges between "pick-up" teams and later class teams. Since then the sport has developed into the top-ranking field of athletics.

The University of North Carolina has played a great part in the success of football in this state. It had one of the first teams and has played the sport every year since 1838 except two, football in the state and even in the South runs side by side with the story of the game at the University.

Under the sponsorship of the University Monogram Club, an illustrated story of football at Carolina is being written and compiled, to be ready for sale just prior to the 1937 football season. The book, with over 75 pages within handsome heavy covers, is to be titled "On Carolina's Gridiron." It is approved as official by the University Athletic Council.

The author, Smith Barrier, was formerly sports writer for the University sports Bureau and is at present sports editor of "The Alumni Review."

Snow Hill Billies Win From Ayden Aces

Snow Hill — The Snow Hill Billies backed up good hurling by Cecil Lonest Wednesday with an 11-hit attack that gave the locals an 8-4 verdict over Ayden's Aces. The victory pulled the Billies into a tie with the Aces for fifth place in the league standing.

Longest limited the Aces to four hits, fanned five and walked four. He already had the game won before the visitors could get into the scoring column. The Aces' hits were divided equally by Faust Johnson and Girard Corrado.

This illustrated history will include among its features an all-time Carolina eleven and the "five greatest Tar Heel teams, to be selected by a representative committee. Short summaries of every game, individual scoring records, a highlight story of football and the general developments of athletics at Carolina; names of all men who have participated in a game; long-term runs passed and field goals; record with each opponent; freshman team results; and the story of American football, tracing the development of the game mainly through the changes in the rule.

Tadlock Mutual Insurance softball team ran roughshod over the Lawyers yesterday to win 17 to 6, while Person-Garrett was handing Blount-Harvey an equally decisive defeat, 10 to 1.

The insurance men were masters throughout the contest and had little difficulty in setting down the diamond once again. He displayed some fancy fielding at third base. Arthur Corey was out of the mound for the losers. Each of the insurance men showed up good in field and at bat to score the one-sided victory over their foes.

Ed Wells, hurler for the Person-Garrett team, had the Blount-Harvey men eating out of his hand throughout the contest, while his teammates were scoring 10 runs.

The only tally scored by the merchants was gained when Sam Vincent stole third and then reached home in the same manner. Harold Forbes was especially active at bat for the winners, making one home run and several other safeties.

The Blount-Harvey vs. Person-Garrett game was originally scheduled for today, but was moved up by consent. The Lawyers vs. Tadlock game was rained out last Friday. No games are scheduled for Wednesdays and Saturdays.

Bears Take Victory Over Williamston

Williamston — New Bern's Bears hopped Lirry Wade's pitching for nine hits and four runs to account for most of the damage in a 5 to 2 victory over Williamston Wednesday. The defeat was the second for Art Hauger's club in 10 contests.

Doubles by Mullinax and Knowles with none away in the fifth, ended

Wade's activities for the day. Jim Rollins replaced him and hurled 3-hit ball the rest of the way. The Bears counted one against Rollins in the ninth—McAbee doubled and Black singled.

Lowell Hamons pitched the route for the Bears and limited the locals to seven hits. He fanned seven.

The Bears opened scoring by tallying twice in the opening inning. With one away, Black doubled. He counted on Mullinax's single.

The second run was scored when Stanley left Knowles' single get away. Successive hits by Loc Smith, Evans and Thornton added one in the third.

Williamston's first run came in the fourth and resulted from an error by McAbee on Sharkey's rap, plus singles by Wade and Earp. An error, a passed ball, and Kakotas' hit drove in the other Martin tally in the eighth.

No Williamston player made more than one hit against Hamons' hurling. Five Bears collected two hits apiece.

N. Y. Stock Market New York, May 20—(AP)—Stocks moved and opened led a broad stock market advance today for upturn of fractions to around three points.

The upswing, which was accompanied by a spirit which left the stock ticker behind for a time was attributed by some to a momentary lifting of clouds on the labor horizon.

Bonds were firm and transfers approximated 1,300,000 shares.

DEADLINE SET ON CONTRACTS

Farmers Must Sign Work Sheets Before June 12th

Raleigh, May 20.—The deadline for North Carolina farmers to sign work sheets for the 1937 soil conservation program has been set at June 12.

No payments can be offered this year to farmers who do not sign work sheets on or before that date, said E. Y. Floyd, of State College, head field officer for the program in this State.

However, he pointed out, growers who signed last year will not be required to sign again this year. But if they have bought land or made other changes in their farms, they should notify their county agents at once.

The work sheet is not a contract, Floyd explained, and a grower who signs one is not placed under any obligation to comply with the program if he changes his mind after signing.

But the work sheets are necessary for the county committee to help the farmers plan their farming operations so as to take advantage of the payments offered and at the same time build up their soil.

Unless the work sheets are signed right away, Floyd pointed out, they will be too late to be of any value this year.

The work of checking growers' compliance with the program will be started in June in some counties, he continued, and work sheets are necessary to determine how much a grower is complying with the program and how large a payment he is earning.

County soil conservation offices have been instructed not to accept any work sheets after June 12.
