

PRESIDENT TO PROCEED WITH COURT REFORM

Spokesman Declares Executive Has Eye on Future Laws

COURT DECISIONS HAVE NO EFFECT

Speculation Had Been that Roosevelt Might Be Content to Accept Compromise

Washington, May 25.—(AP)—An administration official said today President Roosevelt, with an eye to the future of laws yet unwritten, was going ahead with his plan to revamp the Supreme court unless older justices now on the bench retire.

The President, the official said, following yesterday's validation of the social security law, has given no indication he would compromise on his proposal.

Speculation was that since the administration has won 12 important victories and suffered no defeats before the court this year, the President might be content to either compromise on the appointment of two new justices rather than the five now possible under his bill, or let his bill slide entirely into the background.

The official said a number of long-time planning policies of the President were involved in the court fight. The President was represented as feeling by increasing membership of the court as he contemplates the chances of having such policies scrapped, will be reduced proportionately.

Almost simultaneously with these administration statements, the White House disclosed the President had written to Chairman Wheeler (D-N.Y.) of the Senate Banking committee asking that the security of the identities and the duties to be assumed by the trustees acting under them.

Activity on Capitol Hill was light for the day. Few committee hearings were in progress and the main business before Congress was the final House action on the $1,500,000,000 relief appropriation.

Colonel Lindbergh Continues Silent

London, May 25.—(AP)—Colonel Charles Lindbergh established a protective veil of silence today about his wife and their new born son, whose birth on the night of May 12 was disclosed only yesterday by the famous flier to American embassy officials.

After his disclosure, Lindbergh retreated into hiding from even his closest friends who wish to extend congratulations.

The only definite information in England was that cabled from the United States of the announcements made by an aunt of Mrs. Lindbergh in Cleveland, Ohio.

Mrs. Annie Cutter, the aunt, said Mrs. Dwight Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's mother who is with her in England, had sent a letter that "only stated that a son had been born on the night of King George, VI's coronation."

At Cardiff, Wales, additional confirmation of the birth came in a brief announcement from a British relative of Mrs. Lindbergh.

STORES ADOPT HALF HOLIDAY

To Begin Closing On Wednesday Afternoons June 2nd

Stores in Greenville will begin closing their establishments Wednesday afternoons on next Wednesday, June 2, it was decided at a special meeting of the Merchants' Division of the Chamber of Commerce this morning.

The stores will close at 12:30 o'clock. The summer schedule will continue in effect until the week before the opening of the tobacco market, which date has not been set.

Indications were that most houses in the city would cooperate. The court house will be closed on Saturdays afternoons, the practice having been started several weeks ago. The lawyers also are closing their offices on Saturday afternoons.

The merchants discussed the possibility of changing the opening and closing hours for the first days of the week, but action was postponed until the fall. The possibility of changing the Saturday night closing hour also was discussed, but no action taken.

Meantime, it is presumed, most business houses will continue operating as usual, with the exception of the Wednesday afternoon closings.

GENERAL MOLA PREPARED FOR MAJOR THRUST

Insurgents Reported To Have Taken Strategic Town

WAY OPENED FOR CRUCIBLE BATTLE

Basque Defenders Claim Sufficient Fortification, But Continue Delay Test

Hendaye, Franco - Spanish frontier, May 25.—(AP)—General Mola's Insurgent army was reported today to have captured the town of Yurre and a wide region to the north, opening a way for a double thrust against a strategic highway junction Southeast of Bilbao and key to the city's "iron ring" defenses.

With two Insurgent columns hammering toward it, this highway junction, Galdacano, seemed destined to be the center of the crucible battle for possession of the Basque capital.

Several thousand troops recently called into action aided the Basque defenders.

Basque commanders declared Galdacano, perhaps the most strategic point on the iron semi-circle of fortifications protecting Bilbao, from the North, East and South had sufficiently bulwarked to bring Mola's warriors to a definite halt, but continued doggedly to delay this final test.

Sections to the Northeast of the embattled capital lapsed into relatively quiet.

Maternal Welfare Clinic In County Declared Popular

Starting With Only Few Patients Several Months Ago, Clinic Now Requires Two Physicians

The Maternal and Infant Welfare Center, held every fourth Monday beginning at 2 o'clock p. m., at the Pitt General hospital, continues to grow rapidly, declared Dr. N. Thomas Emmet, health officer, today. This clinic is provided thru the U. S. Children's Bureau and the State Health Department, the local Health Department cooperating. The clinic is conducted by local physicians.

When the clinic opened several months ago, there were only a few patients and one physician could take care of the work. Recently, it has been necessary to add a second physician and now it looks as though a third physician will have to be added. In addition to this, it will be necessary, soon, to provide two days instead of one for the clinic work.

At the clinic on yesterday, 21 new prenatal cases registered, 12 old cases (meaning those that had been at the clinic before but had not been delivered). There were also six old cases that had been delivered. Total mothers and expectant mothers, 39.

In addition to the expectant mothers and mothers, 5 new babies were brought to the clinic, ranging in age from two months to six months, making a total of 44 patients at Monday's clinic.

This clinic is for both white and colored expectant mothers and yesterday's clinic had more white patients than at any previous time.

All expectant mothers unable to have a private physician are eligible for the clinic.

The health officer expressed appreciation for the co-operation of the S. G. Wilkerson and Sons funeral home in furnishing seats for the patients.

Highway Safety Classes For High Schools Talked

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, May 25.—With the high schools of the state turning out between 24,000 and 25,000 graduates each spring and who will soon become the state's newest crop of automobile drivers — although many of these have already started driving cars before they finish high school — the time has come to give these high school graduates some definite instructions in how to drive automobiles more safely, in the opinion of Director Arthur Fulk of the highway safety division of the Department of Revenue.

Accordingly a conference was held here Monday between State Superintendent of Public Instruction Clyde A. Erwin, Director Fulk and Dr. Herbert J. Stack, of Columbia University and director of the Safety education division of the national bureau of casualty and surety underwriters, regarded as one of the outstanding figures in the safety education field today, in an effort to work out a definite safety education program for all the high schools in North Carolina. As a result, Superintendent Erwin is going to try to work out a plan calling for a definite course in highway safety in every high school in the state, beginning next year.

"What we are recommending is that every boy and girl in the junior or senior classes in every high school in the state be given a minimum of 16 periods of instruction in highway safety, or one period a week for 16 weeks," Dr. Stack said. "Experience in other states shows that this much instruction has proved very valuable in reducing accidents among the new crops of drivers each year, also that the boys and girls who have taken these courses are much more safety conscious, develop into much better and much safer drivers than those who have not had this instruction."

"At present there are 21 states in which regular instruction in safe driving and the proper operation of automobiles is taught as a regular part of the high school curriculum, with some 3,000 high schools giving this instruction. But this is hardly (Continued on page four)

Sit-Down Miners Continue Strike Under Ground

Far down under ground at Gillespie, Ill., 500 miners continued their sit-down strike while company officials and union leaders sought to agree on terms for their evacuation. The strikers demand that work be shared with about 300 idle miners. A group of the sit-downers is shown taking it easy on a mine cart.

STRATOSPHERE TRIP DELAYED

Professor Piccard's Balloon Burns During Preparations

Brussels, Belgium, May 25.—(AP)—Professor Auguste Piccard's $35,000 stratospheric balloon was destroyed by a fire today as final preparations were being made for a new ascent.

Flame from a gas burned used to heat air for lifting the balloon touched a pocket or fold in the bag just as the ground crew began attaching the basket in which Professor Piccard was to have explored the sub-stratosphere.

A fiercely burning fire engulfed the 14,000 cubic yard, rubber-silk bag in a few seconds and it was reduced to a heap of charred wreckage.

No one was hurt. Beth Piccard, and Max Cosens, his young associate, were standing close to the balloon when the lower part of the envelope burst into flames.

REFUSE ALTER STAND ON WAR

Presbyterian Church Declines Withdraw Sanction

Columbus, Ohio, May 25.—The Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. has declined, it was learned today, to withdraw its sanction of war.

The church's 276 Presbyteries failed, by nine votes, to approve a proposed amendment which would have deleted from the church confession of faith, or constitution, this sentence:

"Christians x x x may lawfully under the new testament wage war."

Defeat of the proposed amendment will be reported June 1 by the committee on policy to the 149th general assembly of the church meeting here from Thursday until June 2.

The proclamation which originated in the Presbytery of Cayuga, whose seat is Auburn, N. Y., was ratified by 175 Presbyteries. Ratification by two-thirds of the Presbyteries, or 184, was necessary to bring the overture before the general assembly for a vote. It did not specifically condemn war.

Dr. W.C. Riddick To Retire From Deanship At State

Has Been Connected With College For Past 45 Years

Raleigh, May 25.—(AP)—Dr. W. C. Riddick, oldest member of the faculty of N. C. State College and a former president of the institution, will retire next week from the deanship of the school of engineering.

Riddick has been at the college 45 years and will continue on the faculty of the engineering school although he is 72.

Years ago he coached the college's first football team and the football stadium is known as Riddick field.

He served for years on the faculty athletic committee. It was in 1922, after two years practicing his profession of civil engineer, that Riddick joined the faculty at State. He became president in 1916 and served until 1923, when he became dean of the school of engineering.

Colonel J. W. Harrison, dean of administration at State, said Riddick's successor as dean would be announced within a few days.

LEWIS FORCES SEEK TO ENTER NEW SECTIONS

Push Drives for Recognition From Independent Steel Firms

HEARTENED BY NEW CONQUESTS

Largest Independent Employer in Chicago Area, However, Refuses to Sign

Indiana Harbor, Ind., May 25.—(AP)—Inland Steel Company, largest independent employer in the industry in the Chicago area, refused today to sign a collective bargaining contract with the Steel Workers Organizing committee.

(By Associated Press) The John Lewis labor union heartened by two new conquests.

The American Steel and Crucible Steel company fell into line yesterday by accepting the Steel Workers Organizing Committee the right to represent its members.

About 3,000 workers of the Sharon Steel company in Sharon, Pa., and Lovellville, Ohio, voted today to determine whether the committee should represent them in collective bargaining.

Ven Bittner, S. W. O. C. region director at Chicago, carried the campaign for a contract with the Inland Steel corporation into a conference with company officials in Indiana Harbor, Ind., early in the day.

At Cincinnati American Federation of Labor chiefs fashioned strategy for war on the Lewis C. O. Thomas Ribick, president of the United Garment Workers, announced that unions agreements with the Amalgamated Clothing Workers were at an end because of the latter's affiliation with the C. I. O.

The American Federation of Labor executive council considered plans to augment the war chest.

John Frey, president of the Metal Trades department, charged Communists were active in the C. I. O. and the Communist party expected to control it eventually. The charge was ridiculed by Charles Howard, president of the International Typographical union, and the only C. I. O. member at the conference.

Agencies Seeking Advertise State

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, May 25.—Representatives of the 40 to 50 advertising agencies which are still seeking the contract to handle the state's new advertising campaign on which it plans to expend some $125,000 a year, are leaving no stone unturned in their efforts to gain an advantage in landing the contract and are keeping officials of the conservation department on the jump day and night.

Hardly a day passes during which Director R. Bruce Etheridge or Assistant Director Paul Kelly do not get four or five long distance calls from New York, Philadelphia or other points where agencies are located, in addition to getting scores of letters, having dozens of callers.

The special committee of the board of conservation and development, of which J. L. Horne, Jr., of Rocky Mount is chairman, completed the hearing of oral arguments by advertising agency representatives week before last, but has not yet reached a decision as to what agency or agencies the contract will be awarded. As a result, many of these agencies are still keeping up their promotion efforts and doing everything possible to turn the decision their way.

"I never before knew so many advertising men in other parts of the state as I do here," said one of the agencies, "and we are from North Carolina, or fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers, uncles, cousins or other relatives in North Carolina," an official connected with the conservation department said today. "Many of these agencies seem to think it will help them if they have lots of relatives in the state. Some of them also seem to have enlisted the help of some politicians in their efforts to get this advertising contract."

The committee is expected to announce its final decision with regard to the selection of an advertising agency in the next few weeks, since the advertising program is scheduled to get under way July 1.

Farmers Signs For Soil Conservation

R. R. Bennett, Pitt county farm agent, declared today that farmers in this section were cooperating even better than last year in the Federal Soil Conservation program.

Last year 2,235 farmers participated in the program and already this year an additional 60 have signed the work sheets. If a farmer complied with regulations last year he is eligible again this year without signing again. A survey will get under way soon in the county to determine if farmers complied with the regulations.

The deadline for farmers to sign work sheets has been extended from June 1 to June 12. Agent Bennett declared. He said he was anxious for all farmers in the county to take part in the federal program.

BOYS JAILED IN TEACHER SLAYING

Held in jail at Onida, S. D., under heavy guard, Howard Christensen (left), 16, and Norman Westberg, 17, faced possible life sentence on a charge of slaying Miss Ada Carey, school teacher, who gave them a ride in her car. Reports said the fathers of the two boys refused to take any steps to aid them. Their mothers fainted when advised.

Haller is enthusiastic enough to predict a time when there will be no "night shots" in Hollywood except those taken between the hours of 9 a. m. and 5:30 p. m.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coon

Hollywood — Ernest Haller, the cameraman, is seeing red these days. Infra-red.

He has paraphrased, too, the popular song of a few years ago. His new title is "Night in Day."

Haller, following assorted experiments over a year's time, is introducing infra-red photography to moving pictures. It is the use of infra-red sensitive film materials which makes possible the filming of night scenes at high noon.

Infra-red rays are those below the spectrum bands visible to the naked eye. An electric iron turned on in a dark room, for instance, will impress its rays on infra-red film. Pictures may be made of points many miles away because the infra-red film ignores haze and murk. The naked eye cannot see the hot iron in the dark room. Infra-red film can.

That is the basis of Haller's championing of the former laboratory material in active movie production. He used it first for a few

The baccalaureate sermon will be delivered by Dr. Paul Dwight Moody, president of Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vt., the son of Iwan L. Moody, the famous evangelist, who has been president of Middlebury College since 1921. He was ordained as a member of the Congregational church in 1912 and served pastorates in Vermont and New York before accepting his present position.

He was graduated in 1901 from Yale which conferred an honorary D. D. on him in 1924. During the World War Dr. Moody served successively as chaplain in the First Vermont Infantry, 103rd U. S. Infantry, and G. H. Q. chaplain, A. E. F.

He was Administrative Chaplain R. B. House's regimental chaplain, and the two developed a strong friendship which has continued.

CLUB SINGING MEET FEATURE

Chairman Lee In Charge of Regular Rotary Gathering

By WYATT BROWN

Shades of Apollo! Was it the melodies of that golden lyre haunting their ears or did the lyrical Caliope herself have them entranced. Anyway Bill Lee had all the Rotarians singing with great gusto last night at the regular weekly dinner meeting of the Rotary Club. Singing was they at such a pace that not one eye roamed about the room so intently were the words in the song book followed. These grizzled, serious minded business men took "leaping antelopes at play" just like it was a new selling idea—and they sang and enjoyed it.

Chairman of the Music Committee, Bill Lee, gave Judson Blount as High Lord Chief Helper to the chairman the privilege of presenting the stars of the evening. First came Johnny Overton in rare form with a beautiful ballad which was so well appreciated he had to give an encore. He was accompanied by Mrs. Shindler who also accompanied the trio composed of Doline Sawyer, Edna Perry and Helen Sawyer who did a charming number and had to give an encore.

Just to show the talent of the evening a thing or two Bill Lee presented Tom Emitt, Phil Goodson, Roy Campbell, and Alfred Schultz who without warming up and sang the "Levee" song — you know a Rotarian cannot say "no" when called on. But it wasn't as funny as it might have been because after Bill got them started one of them could carry a tune and they got clear through it without a hitch.

Then the whole club bursted loose and sang Rotary words to "Anchors Away," and "The Stein Song." Next the chorus outdid itself with "On the Range" just for Kinch Cobb—he always reminds that Roosevelt and Tunney like it too. You should have seen "Rail Disabled veterans receiving little or no government compensation are the only ones employed in the poppy program. Preference is given to those with dependent families. The work is a Godsend to these men who could not possibly find or perform other employment.

A prize of $1.00 will be given to the boy or girl selling the largest number of poppies, $1.00 to the one selling second largest and 75c to the third largest.

Poppies for Saturday
Poppies which will be with here in memory of the World War dead on Poppy Day, Saturday, have been received by the Greenville unit of the American Legion Auxiliary from the work rooms where they have been made by disabled war veterans. The flowers are crepe paper replicas of the famous poppies of France and Flanders that flourish and bloomed amid the war's desolation. They are being arranged for city-wide distribution on Poppy Day.

The Bilbos After Tense Day In Court

After a tense day at court, where he is suing Mrs. Linda Bilbo for divorce, Senator Theodore G. Bilbo (left) relaxes and sips coffee on the steps of his palatial "dream house" at Poplarville, Miss. Mrs. Bilbo, who testified that she "is still living" for her husband's return, shown (right) leaving court.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

As a wild, stormy weekend at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunt, opens with the mysterious shooting to death of attractive Jude Blinshop. A series of strange attacks is apparently explained when we find the body of Michael's mad father below the bluff. Then Aunt Martha is shot in the shoulder by an unseen hand, and the Skipper, Mike's tall, tuxedoed younger aunt, disappears. Sleeping powders nearly finish Aunt Martha. Leaving Gay Palmer, Mike's fiancée, with her, Mike and I search the cellar, desperately hunting the Skipper.

With a screech of tearing wood we tumbled pell-mell into the entry and threw open the kitchen door upon an empty room.

The picture in my mind sent me tearing up the back stairs. On the landing, Mike nearly knocked me down, attempting to pass me. I flung open M. Farrington's door, but Mike was into the room ahead of me.

M. Farrington was sleeping. Gay was sitting beside her, and in a far corner of the room William and Annie were whispering together. They all turned sharply toward us.

"All right, I think," Gay answered our unspoken question. "Mike, what under the sun—" I interrupted her. It seemed to me that this was no place for telling the story.

Chapter 34 Locked In

I TRIED the next closet and the next and the next. Splintered wood, broken glass, and a mess of fruits and vegetables. Mike took the ax from me and I stood hanging on to the light while he bashed in two more doors. Then I took another turn and he took another. Before the last closet we paused, looking at each other.

I went at it quietly. Perhaps we were lucky that it was to be in the last one. I shuddered to think of the effect our wild smashing would have had on a person inside any of the others. It took more time this way. The wood gave way slowly with a dull, tearing sound. I seized a loose

Mike took the ax and bashed in two more doors. It was drumming in my head. Well, as long as she was sleeping there was nothing more we could do. Sitting there with anxious eyes glued to the old lady's face, I went through a bad half hour.

A Conviction Gnaws Me ONE terrible conviction was gnawing at me persistently—the conviction that the Skipper alone was responsible for our weekend of horrors. Her peculiar actions had been the direct cause of our presence at the Bluff. We had only her unsubstantiated story to explain her invitation, and that story was bizarre, to put it mildly.

It was possible, of course, but it was difficult to believe that Norman Farrington had lived all these years unknown to his own son. Was it plausible that Martha Farrington, who possessed above all things a generous amount of common sense, would have insisted upon harboring a dangerous lunatic in that deserted spot?

Another stumbling block was the presence of Jude Blinshop. Surely a person of the Skipper's determination could have found a dozen pretexts for revoking a commonplace invitation when she realized the very real danger involved. And why the unusual attitude of both sisters toward poor Jude? With Michael flaunting Gay under M. Farrington's nose, the old lady had almost ignored Jude. And the Skipper's "Keep Michael away from Jude!" still rang in my ears—unexplained.

Step by step I once more reconstructed the events of the case. We had come there because of the Skipper. Her attitude had been strange, particularly in regard to Jude. She had been out of doors for an indefinite space of time on the night of the girl's death, and her actions were none too satisfactorily accounted for. She would have known more about the whereabouts of firearms at the Bluff than anyone else in the house. And Jude would have followed the Skipper into the storm without a moment's hesitation.

She had been in my own sight during the episodes of Cook, Annie and Christopher, and she had been in the sight of all the others when William and I met our assailant. But again, we had Norman Farrington to reckon with.

Three years ago Harry Allen, Jr. and Lytt Gardner, both of Reidsville, entered the University of North Carolina as freshmen. They were roommates. Last week the two roommates, now juniors, were initiated into Phi Beta Kappa scholastic fraternity with only one tenth of one point difference in their grades for the past three years. Both students are majoring in zoology and both have been recommended for jobs next year as student laboratory assistants in the University Zoology Department here.

Factional Row Smoulders Over N. C. Prison System

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, May 25.—The fate of the North Carolina prison system, now regarded as one of the most efficient and humane in the nation, is hanging in the balance as in intense behind-the-scenes fight smoulders between two factions with two opposite points of view, for control of the prison system, a god many here are convinced.

For several years now there has been a growing animosity between the "old timers" in the prison system, consisting chiefly of those which were inherited from the old state prison regime when George Ross Pou was superintendent and the holdovers from the old county

AND WHEN THEY FEEL TIRED THEY get a LIFT with a Camel

MARGARET HUTTON—freestyle and back-stroke champion and famous for her record-breaking performances as a plunger—has smoked Camels since 1935.

JOSEPHINE MCKIM—holds records in both sprint and distance freestyle events. Camels have been her favorite cigarette for 3 years now.

GEORGIA COLEMAN—made Olympic history in her spectacular springboard diving victory in 1932. She became a Camel smoker that same year.

LENORE KIGHT WINGARD—the foremost woman freestyle swimmer—holds 7 world records, 16 national ones. Camels have been her cigarette for 4 years.

DOROTHY POYNTON HILL—petite, blonde Los Angeles beauty—the incomparable Queen of the 33-foot platform dive—became a Camel fan over a year ago.

JANE FAUNTZ MANSKE started smoking Camels 2 years ago. This Chicago girl's superb diving form won her National and Olympic honors.

SPRINT STAR. Arthur Lindgren swam to a new 200-meter freestyle record. "Camels give me a generous 'lift' in energy when I'm tired after swimming," says Art.

prison camps, and the personnel added after the prison system was consolidated with the highway system. For under the administration of former Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus, first under Chairman E. B. Jeffress and then under Chairman Capus M. Waynick, an entire new note in prison administration and management was introduced in North Carolina. The first was that the prisoners must work on the roads and help pay the cost of maintaining the prison. The second was that the prison system is for the benefit of the state and of the prisoners in it, rather than for those running it, that the prisoners were human beings and must be treated as such.

The new order and new ideas injected into the prison system were well received by the public generally and immediately resulted in improved morale among the prisoners, with prison disorders and escapes falling off to the lowest figures ever recorded. The guards and other prison employees who had been inherited from the old prison camps and state prison who were able to fall in line and get in step with the new administration, stayed on. Those who did not were fired. A few who thought enough of their jobs to conform with the new plan of prison administration to carry out the holdovers from the old county in sympathy and harmony with the new system, managed to hold on and are still holding on. But this latter group, together with the scores, if not hundreds, of former prison guards and employees who had been fired and hence cut off the state's payroll, early joined forces with the contractor and others who were out to get Waynick's scalp—and who got it—in the hope that any change in the administration of the highway commission would be better for them than Waynick and Oscar Pitts, acting director of the prison division. A good many felt that since the general assembly definitely put the highway commission back on a district basis, it would be easy for the commission to put the prison administration on a district basis also, and thus open the way for the county politicians in these districts to get their fingers in the prison pie, as well as in the highway dough. It is no secret that a good many of these politicians, inherited from the old order that prevailed before the state prison system was set up, have been and still are active in an effort to break down the present prison system and have it set up on the district basis.

But whether this faction gets away with its far-fung plans remains to be seen, as both Governor Hoye and the new highway commission have the final say-so. Governor Hoye has already stated that he wants the same policies to be continued in the management and administration of the prison system as have prevailed during the past four years and if he makes this

WHAT THESE ACE MERMAIDS SAY—Dorothy Poynton Hill speaking: "I prefer Camels for their mildness. They never jangle my nerves. I can enjoy smoking as often as I wish. I think that another advantage of smoking Camels is the invigorating 'lift' they give me when I'm tired after a strenuous workout."

Lenore Kight Wingard—one of the greatest American woman athletes of our times—adds this: "I really get fun out of swimming. Hard work is part of the game. It's grand the way Camels help me enjoy my food no matter how tired or strained I may be. And I've found Camels do not irritate my throat."

PERFECT CONTROL helped Marshall Wayne win the Olympic diving crown. "I never hesitate to enjoy a Camel," says Marshall. "Camels don't get on my nerves!"

OLYMPIC STAR. Arthur Highland smashed records in the dash and middle-distance events. Arthur says: "Smoking Camels with my meals eases the strain after racing."

clear to the new highway commission, it will have little choice. For its members were appointed by the Governor. Yet it is known that some of the commissioners are in hearty accord with the suggestion that the prisons as well as the roads be administered on a district instead of a state-wide basis.

Provide Grading For Eggs Sold This State

Raleigh, May 25.—An agreement has been signed between the State Department of Agriculture and the United States Department of Agriculture whereby North Carolina eggs offered for sale may be graded by federal standards. Commissioner of Agriculture W. Kerr Scott announced today. "The agreement will be put into effect this year for the first time in the history of the State," Commissioner Scott said. C. W. Sheffield, associate marketing specialist of the Department, has already received a federal-state supervisor's license to become the first North Carolina licensee with the privilege to inspect eggs and to issue federal certificates as to quality. The marketing specialist was licensed after he had completed a ten-day course in egg grading under the supervision of the senior marketing specialist of the Division of Dairy and Poultry Products, Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York. — One of those mishaps of no consequence bobbed up in the theater the other evening and gave the big audience a giggle at what ordinarily was supposed to be a serious moment.

The play was the late Sammy Shipman's "Behind Red Lights," a drama based on recent headlines, and as the scene in question began to unfold Bruce MacFarland, playing a gangster, was supposed to whip a revolver out of his pocket and shoot Dorothy Hall, who, having in love with the district attorney, had betrayed the gang.

At the appointed moment Bruce dragged at the gun, but it stuck in his pocket, and for a moment he experienced an agony of exas-peration. "Had this happened in real life, our tough fellow would have been riddled by a return fire
— it took him that long to wrench the gun free—but in make-believe play, of course, Miss Hall faithfully stood by until he extricated the shooting iron and gave her the works.

Another incident which happened
some time ago—before Noel Coward left, in fact—gave that sharp-witted author-actor an opportunity to spray the audience with one of his extremely opportune quips.

It happened during one of the "Tonight at 8:30" playlets, and Coward was out near the footlights.
Gertrude Lawrence, down stage, crossed the "doudoir" and attempted to turn out the lights. She pressed the switch but nothing happened. Then, several heartbeats later, the lights faded out and flashed back on. "Ah," murmured Coward, "this house must be haunted."

Once again there are rumblings and threatened torrents of lava from that turbulent Vesuvius of American politics, Tammany Hall,
a circumstance which fettered tall, bachelor James J. Dooling back from a two months' quest after health in Florida. The Tammany leader was in a wheel-chair when he left his special at Pennsylvania station the other day.

The big question was: Would he resign leadership of the Hall?
Things haven't gone well for Dooling since he succeeded Boss Curry as chief Sachem in 1934. At the time it was thought he would be able to whip Tammany back into its usual high estate. He certainly had all the qualifications, being the third college bred man in history to assume the reins, and having inherited from his father a degree of political affluence waited for few men's hands.

It is a question that has Tammany stirred and it has the Dooling cohorts in earnest conclave. At the moment James J. is residing at his home in 43rd street, the house where he was born, waiting and pondering.

Often all that this point of view does is to make the child overconscientious, and convinced of his worthlessness, or else to make him indifferent and eventually impervious to all criticism.
More laughter and less correction in dealing with children would be a good policy for the perfectionist parent. Why look for trouble? Hall the time what parents do not know the girls become drivers of automobiles, while many start driving their own or their parents cars before they leave high school.

Experience has shown that not much can be done to educate adult automobile drivers to drive more safely, except by strict law enforcement, heavy fines and prison sentences, Dr. Stack said. But actual records in counties and states where there has been compulsory and systematic safety education in the public schools has shown a decided improvement in safer driving among the younger drivers.

"Our chief hope, then, is in educating the young drivers to be more careful and in how to drive safely," Dr. Stack said. "For the three main needs of a good automobile driver are accurate information about how the car operates, a proper attitude and skill in operation. We have found that young drivers who have not had definite instruction in the operation of an automobile usually do not have sufficient knowledge or information about the mechanical operation of a car to drive safely, and are lacking in skill, due to insufficient experience. We have also found that of these young drivers — and older ones, too — who have accidents, the main factor is usually a bad attitude. They do not realize the need for being careful, for observing the law and other don't care or don't realize that other people and other drivers have certain rights."

Both Dr. Erwin and Director Fulk were impressed with the facts given them by Dr. Stack and agreed to do everything possible to bring about more and better instruction in safe and proper driving in the schools of the state.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington, May 25.—Some of congress's brighter minds got an idea the other day that it would be a good plan to impose a "gin marriage" law on Washington, and if they do it will be a grand thing for nearby "midnight ministers" in Maryland who will marry just about anything in sight at any hour.

To understand just how funny such a law would be it must be understood that Maryland joins on Washington.

The streets of Washington run right on into Maryland without so much as a white line marking the intersection. The principal difference is that on the Maryland side the taxes are reported a bit higher since the people can't run to congress for help in paying police and paying bills.

Now for a very long time there has been competition among the midnight ministers and marrying clerks in Maryland for getting the Washington business. Such is the competition that sign boards along the highway greet motorists with the information that 200 feet ahead is a clerk who will perform unimpeachable marriage ceremonies at any hour.

There have been purity campaigns to stop that sort of thing but it hasn't even slowed down, and if anything could be devised to help it along it would be a gin marriage bill.

Just why it is more fun to be married in Maryland than in Washington is not clear on the record but the local ministers don't like the loss of trade and it can be expected that if the Marylanders send a lobby here to work for the legislation they will be met by a lobby from the District decrying any effort to drive a home industry into foreign fields.

Washington has had marriage troubles before. The city is filled with lads and lassies from out in the shelter-belt areas who got jobs here because their father helped the congressman carry his precinct.
They get lonesome for the sound of a quiet night and marriage is the next logical step, since both have jobs and two incomes are better than one.

In the tough days of a year or so back an edict was issued that husband and wife could not both hold federal jobs. That put a real crimp in the marrying business for a while, but apparently there were ways of getting around that. A federal employees' organization which did not like the edict came forward with information that many of the lonesome couples were simply beginning to live together without benefit of clergy.

Actually the gin - marriage talk was mostly an outcropping of the congressional yen to make the people moral by law, which suffered a setback with repeal. Besides, it is safe and comfortable to practice on Washington. The people here can't vote.

The Greensies took a well earned rest yesterday, after having defeated the Tarboro Berpents in three straight games, here Friday, there Saturday and here again Sunday. The three games were equal to the entire number the Greensies had won since the league started on May 6.

The only other teams defeated by the locals are Ayden, in the first home game on May 7, Snow Hill on

D. C. Moore, Jr., secretary of the Greenville Coastal Plain League club, announced today that Thursday would be observed as "Ladies' Day" and all members of the fairer sex would be admitted to the game free. The locals play Kinston here that day and with the women backing them a victory is anticipated. The women are admitted to the grandstand without charge every day. Colored fans will have their day on Saturday, when they will be admitted to the game free. The Greensies play the league leading Williamston Martins here and they will have plenty of support from the Negro section.

May 13 and Goldsober on May 18. The locals yet have to score a victory over the league, leading Williamston nine, Kinston or New Bern.

The week's play opened here today with the Greensies meeting Goldsober.

The Greensies' victory, lifted Greenville from the cellar position and put the locals in a tie for sixth place, along with Snow Hill.

The locals now are only five games behind the league, leading Martins, four behind New Bern and Goldsober, tied for second place, two and a half behind Tarboro and only one from being up with its Pitt county neighbors, Ayden.

The general opinion of local fans is that the Greensies have a much better team than the win and loss column would show. Many believe that they have started a climb that will put them in the first division ere the season is much older.

The breaks count for a lot in baseball and it can not be denied that Greenville had few of these in early season play. Neither can it be denied that the locals were favored with luck on several occasions yesterday.

Wayne Ambler Signs To Play For Athletics

Word was received here today that Wayne Ambler of Abington, Pa., captain and second baseman of Duke University's baseball nine, has signed with the Philadelphia Athletics. He will report to the A's about May 29.

Ambler, who's batting average this season was .470, played for the Greensies here last year.

Ambler is the fourth Duke alumnus on the roster of the Athletics. Chubby Dean and Bill Werber, infielders, and Ace Parker, outfielder are the other Duke men on Connie's high-flying A's. Dean and Parker also are former Greensies players. Both having played in the Coastal loop for two seasons. Dean has been with the A's for two years and Parker starting this spring.

A 'NIX' TO RELATIVES GAVE NIXIE A NAME

Omaha, Neb. (AP) — When Mr. and Mrs. Lysle I. Abbott's sixth daughter arrived some 21 years ago the Abbotts got letters from 40 relatives suggesting names for the newcomer.

"Nix," said Mr. Abbot, "to all of them." From Nix came Nixie and that's what the youngest daughter has been called ever since. She likes it.

Lawyers Again On Short End of One-Sided Score, 15-0

TODAY'S GAMES

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

Flanagan's	2	2	.500
Carolina Dairy	2	2	.500
Blount-Harvey	1	3	.333
Lawyers	1	4	.250

In what turned out to be a pitiless duel Blount-Harvey and Coburn's tied 1-1 in the tightest ball game yet played in the softball league.

Sam Vincent, hurling for the first time for Blount-Harvey led Coburn's down with two hits while DuBose Simpson allowed the department store men only four.

Blount-Harvey scored in the first inning when Matthews walked. Vincent singled and Matthews scored on Proctor's single.

Coburn's lone run came in the fourth after Eiks got on an error. Mann walked and Snags, running for Eiks came in on DuBose Simpson's single. Laureates, for Blount-Harvey, led at bat with the only extra base hit, a double to center field.

The lawyers again were on the short end of a one-sided score. They were defeated 15 to 0 by the Person-Garrett team. Despite the pitching of J. W. H. Roberts, and the fielding of Harry Brown and Jo Dudley, the lawyers were unable to do a thing with the tobaccoists. The score, however, was not as bad as it was the last time the lawyers took to the sandlot, when their opponents piled up more than 40 runs.

SPORT SLANTS

Someone ought to tell the Madison Square Garden folks that Jimmy Braddock is serious about passing up his June 3 date with Max Schmeling in order to meet Joe Louis later in the month. Maxie really should be told, too.

Right now Der Schlager is going through the motions of training at his Speculator, N. Y., camp. He does road work, punches the bags, maun spart mates and, appropriately, shadow-boxes several rounds daily. The last chore should fit him for the "big test." He should be ready when the gong sounds for the phantom fight.

Harry Newman, purveyor of publicity for the Garden, goes daily grinding out daily bits of copy detailing every move the challenger makes in "preparing."

To add to the goofiness, one of Schmeling's sparring partners is named Stanley Ketchell. Perhaps it is the ghost of the immortal Stanley Ketchell returned to earth to fit the German for his ghost battle with Braddock.

Joe Jacobs insists Maxie looks better than ever. Hits harder. Is faster. Boxes better. Stronger, too. In fact Schmeling's manager feels his man is a cinch to stop Braddock.

Maxie himself is much perplexed. He is here to fulfill his part of the contract that calls for a heavy-weight title bout with Braddock. He cannot understand why Braddock is ignoring the "scrap of paper." O how the champion is allowed to pass him up to meet Louis, the man Maxie knocked out.

Someone has spent $15,000 trying to meet Braddock. He will spend lots more if he has to. Meanwhile, he is getting in shape. And, five days before the date of the scheduled meeting, he will present himself in New York—just as his contract provides.

Conservation and Development which has launched a comprehensive program to save this branch of the commercial fisheries from what has appeared to be certain depletion.

One of the first measures to save the shad fishery, after a comprehensive study of the industry, was the shortening of the season for taking shad last winter and spring to the briefest period prescribed in years. This was done in an effort to permit a larger number of parent fish to reach their spawning ground and to reproduce in the natural state.

Following a recommendation of a special committee from the Board of Conservation and Development, arrangements were made with the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries for the resumption of artificial hatching operations at the Edenton hatchery. Expansion of artificial hatching to other sections, the establishment of ponds to carry some 100,000 baby fry to a more mature stage before release, and other measures which may be put into effect next season, were recommended by the committee and approved by the Bureau of Fisheries, which is also cooperating with every step in the program.

KNOW WHAT TOP-RUN MEANS TO BOURBON FLAVOR?

WHAT TOP-RUN MEANS
This diagram shows the care of quality. It pictures how the peak of whiskey goodness is secured by cutting off the raw "heads" and the heavy "tails"—and taking only the best of the run to make Crab Orchard.

The answer to that is Crab Orchard—for this genial bourbon is made like the costliest whiskeys. It's all TOP-RUN—warming as sunshine, gentle as a southern breeze, real Kentucky all the way through. It has the extra brilliance, extra head quality, extra flavor, extra strength because it's full 93 proof. Taste it—and its thrifty price will be doubly welcome.

Tuberculosis And Cancer Claim Big Toll In Carolina

Death Rate From Two Diseases Among Industrial Workers Much Higher Than Elsewhere

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, May 25.—The death rate from tuberculosis among industrial workers is 287 per cent higher than among those engaged in agricultural pursuits; from cancer, 93 per cent higher; from cirrhosis of the liver 295 per cent higher, and from heart disease, 153 per cent higher. It was pointed out in an exhibit set up at the recent statewide safety conference by the division of Industrial hygiene of the State Board of Health, of which Dr. H. F. Fason is the director.

The exhibit showed apparatus for the collection of samples of dust in industrial atmospheres, also apparatus present in the display were specimens of minerals the processing of which creates occupational disease hazards in North Carolina, and charts showing the means of preventing occupational diseases. Charts also showed the death rates which in many instances are higher among industrial workers than among those engaged in agricultural work. This exhibit was set up in cooperation with the North Carolina Industrial Commission.

The division of industrial hygiene of the State Board of Health is concerned with the health of industrial workers in North Carolina, mainly in the environments that bring about occupational diseases and in the prevention of such maladies through educational and corrective methods.

FARM OUTLOOK GOOD IN AREA

Crop Conditions All Over State Declared Encouraging

Columbia, S. C., May 25.—The general agricultural outlook in North Carolina is very good at this time, according to H. M. Guyot, of Rutherfordton, J. B. Mann, of Raleigh, and Marshall Woodall, of Raleigh, representatives of the Production Credit Corporation of Columbia, all of whom are in Columbia in attendance upon a meeting of representatives of the corporation from the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.
Messrs. Guyot and Mann reported that crop conditions all over the state were very encouraging and that the farmers of the state were in good spirits, having had a successful year in 1936.

Production credit associations in North Carolina are making splendid progress, according to Messrs. Mann and Guyot and they report a substantial increase in volume of business this year. Through April 18, the associations in the state had made loans exceeding by over $500,000 the amount made to same date last year and both predicted that the total volume of business done this year by the associations in the state would exceed $5,500,000.
The representatives said that they find a very genuine appreciation of the credit service offered by the associations and each year the number of farmers availing themselves of the service which this farmers' cooperative credit organization has to offer is increasing as more and more of them become acquainted with the methods of operation.
Mr. Woodall said the associations were being conducted in an excellent business-like manner and that the officers and directors were giving them close and careful attention.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, May 25.—(AP)—Traders had a slightly chilly attitude toward the stock market today and shares were allowed to show for themselves, at limited losses.
Trading continued skimpy. That the market was in comparatively sound technical condition was shown brokers said, by the fact of orders did not swell on the decline.
In the bond market U. S. government obligations and low yield corporates found favor.
Transfers approximately 800,000 shares.

CHOICE LAMBS SELLING HIGH

New Interest Shown In Sheep-Growing In This State

Raleigh, May 25.—Highest prices in recent years are pumping new interest in the sheep-growing industry in North Carolina, according to L. I. Case, extension beef cattle and sheep specialist at State College.
Good and choice lambs are selling for $14 and $15 per hundredweight on the Jersey City market, while wool prices are about six cents a pound higher than they were a year ago.
Prices started strengthening last October and climbed steadily upward until about the middle of January. From that time until the middle of March the price dropped slightly, then became steady for about two months before falling off slightly again.
The first cooperative shipment of lambs was made from Tarboro last week, with prices a dollar or two higher than they were a year ago. The next cooperative shipment will be made from Plymouth, June 1, when growers from Hyde, Tyrrell, and Washington counties will pool their lambs for shipment to Northern markets.
Shipments of mountain wool will begin about June 15 and will reach the highest point about July 1, Case declared. The mountain counties raise most of North Carolina's sheep.
Careful shearing and handling of wool will bring better prices. Case pointed out. Growers who are careless in their methods of shearing and handling are forced to pay a penalty through the decreased prices which they receive.
Not only is this important. Case declared, but growers should also get full value for their wool. Last year farmers who sold their wool cooperatively in pools with their neighbors received more money than did those who sold individually.

Oranges in boxes ranked first in value among the fresh fruits exported from the United States in the last year, sales abroad totaling $11,323,000. Apples in boxes ranked next with exports valued at $8,847,000.

State Unemployment Commission Sets Up Divisions

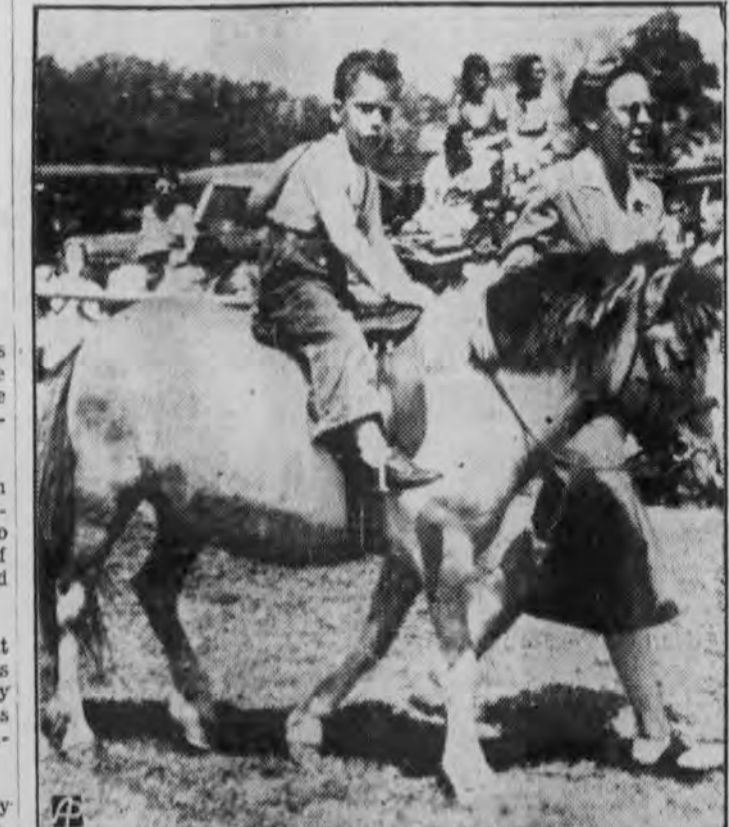

Raleigh, May 25.—Fifteen field representatives of the North Carolina Unemployment Compensation Commission, most of whom have been engaged for several weeks in covering the State for the commission, have been assigned to definite headquarters, usually in their home towns, and a definite number of counties in which to operate regularly. Chairman Charles G. Powell announced.
Most of these men have had strenuous courses in training and have spent several weeks visiting employers in the State in a once over coverage of every one of the 100 counties and their training and experience should be valuable in aiding the employers of the State in making proper reports and returns to the commission. Mr. Powell states. They will seek out all employers in their respective areas and give all possible aid to any who need assistance.
These field representatives will have office space in Employment Service Division offices in the cities and towns in which they operate, and messages for them may be left at these offices. Although they will be in the field most of the time, they will make frequent visits to the Employment offices for messages and will be at the service of the employers in their territory. Chairman Powell explains. Their residence addresses and telephones are also given so they can readily be found.
The field representatives have authority under the law to make such investigations as may seem advisable to get the information they seek and are entitled to receive, but they have explicit instructions not to abuse the authority, and to be considerate and courteous to all persons they contact for information." Mr. Powell said. "Each one has an identifying picture and authority from the commission to perform the duties assigned him. If the employer has any question as to the identity of men representing this commission, he should demand to see the picture and certificate."

Secure Valuable Experience in Dealing With Loans

Columbia, S. C., May 25.—Members of 4-H clubs and of Future Farmers of America organizations are securing valuable experience in dealing with and using cooperative agricultural credit through loans secured from production credit associations in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida, according to Ernest Graham, president of the Production Credit Corporation of Columbia.
In North Carolina loans have been made for $2,224 to finance projects in which 48 boys are participating. The grant of the Production Credit Corporation of Columbia.
Mr. Graham said that loans had been made by associations in the four states for a total of $81,250.24 to finance projects participated in by 743 boys. The groups to whom loans are made are organized by the teachers of vocational agriculture where the loans are made to members of the Future Farmers of America and by the county agents where they are made to 4-H club boys.

Frequently anorexia nervosa develops as a sequel to attempts at slimming because of excessive plumpness. The psychologic motive for overeating and the subsequent underweighting may remain fundamentally the same, though the behavior pattern of the individual swings from one extreme to the other.
In such instances, there is little to be gained by urging the underweight individual to eat more, or by pressing the overweight person to reduce his food intake. A more effective approach to both is by way of psychologic treatment.

Of course, in every case care will be taken first to rule out the existence of some physical or functional difficulty adequate to account for the patient's condition.

An X-Ray tube in St. Bartholomew's hospital, London, is 30 feet long and weighs ten tons. The patient under treatment converses through a microphone with the doctors who observe him through a mirror system.

Skinnier and Fatter
No circus is complete without the sideshow characters of the living skeleton and the mammoth lady. Strangely enough, the living skeleton is seldom female, though occasionally a "man mountain" may be shown in place of the fat lady.
Nearly all these sideshow characters suffer from some pathologic condition. The skeleton man is quite likely to have some disability affecting his fat digestion and absorption, possibly a blockage of his lymph duct. The mammoth lady probably has a disturbance in the function of the glands of internal secretion.
These types may be seen among all age groups, but are perhaps most common among young individuals. Recent studies lead to the belief that both the excessively thin and the excessively heavy young person suffer not because of constitutional disabilities, but from emotional or psychologic disturbances.
The excessively thin person whose appetite is deficient, may be a victim of "anorexia nervosa"—loss of appetite due to some psychologic disturbance. The overweight, omnivorous young person may have his or her "all-consuming" appetite because of some psychologic difficulty. The pleasures of eating serve this type of person as a compensation for other pleasures, such as at-
