Nazi Attack on Almeria Finds Quick Sympathy From High Italian Officials

London, May 31.—(AP)—British and French warships moved into Spanish waters tonight as a swift tempo of events aroused grave fears for peace following German bombardment of the Spanish port of Almeria, and withdrawal by Germany and Italy from the 27-nation European neutrality committee.

British and French diplomats rushed between Germany and Spain to prevent open hostilities and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden made an appeal that Germany take no further action to heighten gravity of the crisis.

But there were other developments of grave concern to European capitals.

The Catalan government at Barcelona declared it had unmistakable proof that an Italian submarine launched the torpedo yesterday that sent a Spanish liner to the bottom of the Mediterranean. Fifty persons were drowned, authorities declared, and others were injured in the sinking of the passenger vessel.

Bristling guns of German warships battered the Spanish government port of Almeria today in the first open attack in the civil war by a foreign power.

Nineteen persons were killed, including five women and one child, an official Spanish government report said.

The port was destroyed, the Nazi government said, to avenge bombardment of the battleship Deutschland, in which 24 German sailors were killed and 62 wounded.

Grave international tension developed rapidly. There was danger that the 27-nation European committee to localize the Spanish war might see all its efforts collapse.

The Nazi government announced its readiness to withdraw from the committee to permit a free hand in dealing with the Madrid-Valencia government.

The German fleet was ordered to Spanish waters to aid fighting ships already there under orders to shoot at sight any Spanish government warship or airplane.

British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden appealed to Germany to take no action which would "render the present grave situation more serious."

The French naval ministry and the British admiralty hastily cancelled each other. Foreign offices of the two nations were in frequent communication.

The neutrality committee postponed momentarily an extraordinary session to hear German representations in Saturday's bombardment of the Deutschland by Spanish war planes to await developments.

The communications to the Neutrality committee observed warningly that the Reich "will decide according to its own ideas on measures to be taken toward the Red rulers."

As the attack added to the trouble or Spain's Republic government's war against insurgents of General Franco Francisco, recognized as head of Spain by Germany and Italy, there were insurgent reports that Dr. Juan Negrin's "win the war" cabinet had resigned.

Dr. Negrin, a Socialist leader, formed his cabinet May 17 after Premier Francisco Largo Caballero encountered difficulty with Anarchist adherents to the Republic.

The German attack on Almeria found quick sympathy in Italy, still resentful over Spanish government attacks on an Italian war vessel.

Spain Requests League Session

Geneva, May 31.—(AP)—Julio Alvarez del Vayo, Spanish government delegate to the League of Nations, called today for an extraordinary session of the League of Nations, called today for an extraordinary session of the League Council to take under consideration a bombardment of the port of Almeria by German warships.

Spanish circles in Geneva said they took a most serious view of the bombardment, which they said started this morning. They described the attack by the German warships as "the most flagrant and undisguised aggression so far committed in Spain."

CHAS. O'HAGAN FOR GOVERNOR

Considered For Next Chief Executive of California

Colonel Charles J. O'Hagan, native of this county and son of the late Dr. Charles O'Hagan of this city, is being prominently mentioned as a candidate for governor of California at the next Democratic campaign.

Col. O'Hagan has been living in California 25 years and has taken an active part in the various phases of the state.

In a political round-up story on the 1938 governorship race, The Los Angeles Times had the following to say of the former Pitt county man:

"Col. Charles J. O'Hagan of the North Carolina O'Hagens, who has made a deep study of politics, from both the practical and academic standpoint, is not to be passed over lightly."

The Los Angeles Republican also sang the praises of Col. O'Hagan in the following article appearing in last Monday's issue:

"But one of the most colorful figures in the entire political arena who is almost sure to appear as a candidate for the Governor's toga, according to well informed, but closely guarded sources, is that old Southern aristocrat and blue-blooded Democratic veteran of many a political battle, Colonel Charles J. O'Hagan. The name of Charles O'Hagan in California Democratic circles is as familiar as the famous Mini-Jalap in Georgia. There is perhaps no man in the State of California, who knows politics any better than the gallant Colonel. He is perhaps one of the most astute, most aggressive and clever campaigners in the entire Democratic party. Born in the sunny South 53 years ago, the fiery old aristocrat has been a dyed-in-the-wool Democrat all of his colorful life, the last 25 years of which has been spent on Bunker Hill in Los Angeles.

The Colonel is a personal friend of about everyone in the National Democratic Administration from Roosevelt and Farley, down to the precinct captains. It is reliably reported that there is now in escrow a good-sized campaign fund in case the Colonel actually decides to toss his big black hat in the ring. For the first time in many years the

FATALITIES IN STRIKE RIOTS MOUNT TO FIVE

Temporary Truce Declared by Various Participants

GOVERNOR FEELS TROUBLE IS OVER

Announces Following Conference He Is 'Quite Sure' of No Further Outbreaks

Chicago, May 31.—(AP)—The death toll of the bloody riot near the South Chicago plant of the Republic Steel Corporation mounted to five today as strikers, officials and police declared a temporary truce.

Joseph Rothman succumbed to bullet wounds at a hospital. The other known victim was Earl Hanley, who died of a skull fracture.

Three others slain in the battle remained unidentified.

At least 165 others, including 25 policemen, were in hospitals with gun shot wounds, fractured skulls and broken limbs. Witnesses estimated that more than 500 shots were fired in the course of vicious hand to hand combat which a physician said resembled a "virtual massacre."

The participants, including many women, used clubs, bricks and slingshots in their attempt to break through police lines and close the Republic plant by force.

Governor Henry Horner, emerged from a hastily called conference and announced he was "quite sure" there would be no repetition of the bloody riot.

"I don't expect any further trouble. In fact, I'm quite sure," the Governor said as he left the meeting. "We discussed the strike and the riot from every angle. Peaceful picketing is to be permitted. That's all I can say now."

Rev. T. McM. Grant Delivers Commencement Sermon

(Pictures of Class on Page Three) The 1937 High School commencement exercises got off to a good start last night with the sermon by Rev. Thomas McM. Grant, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church, attended by a crowd that overflowed the church.

The music provided by the High School Glee club and mixed chorus, under the direction of Miss Ona Shindler, was declared especially good.

The exercises were presided over by J. H. Rose, superintendent of the school. The invocation was by Rev. C. H. Patriek, pastor of Immanuel Baptist church.

In a forceful and inspirational sermon Rev. Grant discussed the values of life. He emphasized the point that progress and happiness come only as individuals learn to realize that they are co-partners with God throughout life.

"God has left much undone in this world," added the speaker, "and the only way it will ever be done is by human beings." Substantiating this thesis, Rev. Grant cited a number of human agents, such as Edison, Pasteur, Reed, and Kagawa who had assisted God in his work. His topic was "Co-Partners with God."

Senators Borah and McKellar Call For Application

DECLARE ACTUAL WAR IS AT HAND

German Ambassador To U. S. Reports Nazis Plan No Further Reprisal Acts

Washington, May 31.—(AP)—Senator Borah (R-Idaho) called today for application of the American neutrality law to "all participants" in the bombing of Almeria, Spanish loyalist port.

"From the reports I should say an actual war is on sufficient to justify application of our neutrality law to all parties now participating, both under cover and openly," Borah said.

Senator McKellar (D. Tenn.) also commented that the bombing constituted war and said the American neutrality law should be invoked to keep this nation out of the conflict.

The two senators spoke after German ambassador Hans Dieckhoff reported his government had informed him it contemplated no further reprisals against the Spanish Loyalists government in connection with the attack on the German cruiser Deutschland.

Borah issued a statement denouncing dictatorships and what he said was their inclination to make war.

"With dictatorships war is always an immediate possibility," he said, "Dictators look upon their people as so much fuel to feed the war furnace."

Berlin, May 31.—(AP)—The German government announced today it would not participate in any further session of the London non-intervention committee on the control of arms and volunteers to Spain until it was given guarantees there would be no further incident such as the bombing of the Deutschland.

The announcement came soon after the destruction of the Spanish government's port at Almeria on the Mediterranean by the bombing Saturday at dusk of the Deutschland in which 23 German soldiers were killed and 83 wounded.

The communications, issued by the German government, said "as a reprisal for the criminal assault by Red bombers on the cruiser, Deutschland lying at anchor the fortified harbor of Almeria was shelled during the morning hours by German sea forces. After the port was destroyed and the opposing Red batteries silenced the retaliatory action was broken off and ended."

"Additional ships of the German war fleet will take to sea immediately to reinforce our fighting units in Spanish waters."

Designers Pattern New Color Combinations After Those Used by Indians 400 Years Ago

TROPICAL DAISY PRINT Large tropical daisies on a black silk crepe background makes a gay spring frock. The bodice is draped slightly. A border of padded daisies is applied on the dress at the neckline. The large white pique cartwheel hat has a rough red straw crown.

Designers have found a whole new range of colors. Inspired by the Pan-American Exposition which will open in Dallas, Texas, on June 12, they have gone color-researching among the remnants of the brilliant civilization that flourished four centuries ago in the region of the Rio Grande.

Indian Names Used The first group features Aztec Red, Totee Green, Mayan Blue and Incan Gold—all used in the official exposition flag—and Desert Duck (much like the lavender-brown called "thistle"), Touch-a (a strong yellow-orange) and Chili Copper (a warm soft pottery tone).

Less brilliant hues included in the second group are Desert Dawn, a soft, rosy color; Pampas Beige, which has a decided pink cast; Sombroso, a putty tone, and Magellan Gray, a delicate pearl gray. Colors, however, are not the only "finds" made by these explorers. Geometric patterns, uncovered in ancient ruins, stripes lifted from the looms of Guatemalan weavers and large flowers plucked from the desert are the inspirations for numerous new print patterns.

The soft plinking of guitars and the clicking of castanets suggest graceful flared skirts, deep oval décolletages and romantic lace trimmings on the hem and at the neck. Accessories "Go Southwest" Accessories, too, tend to "go southwest!"

Sombroso—launched last year at the Texas Centennial—are being adapted more widely by the better milliners, and more native straws appear in their natural state. Silver and turquoise jewelry promise to find favor.

Makeup, experts say, will tend to be much darker. Darker shades of powder will be used to lend authenticity to that "brown to a turn but not to a crisp" look. Lipstick will be brighter and darker. Eyeshadow, especially in shades of green and blue, will be used both in the daytime and in the evening. Rouge, however, will be used somewhat less.

AZTEC RED AND MAYAN BLUE A striking afternoon dress is made of arrow-striped silk crepe in Aztec Red, Mayan Blue and white. The stripes are worked in, to chevrons on the sides of the skirt. A natural straw sombrero fastens under the chin with a roman striped silk ribbon.

NOT FOR US

With the bombing today
of a Spanish port by German warships it seems that the crisis in Europe is growing more acute, and it is doubtful if the long-heralded general conflict there can be averted much longer.

Of course it is to be hoped that a general conflict in Europe can be avoided, but if the worst comes to the worst, we hope at least the United States will keep its skirts clear and keep its money as well as its citizens out of the conflict. Our experience with the World war should convince us that while it is up to us to lend our aid and do everything humanly possible to keep the nations of Europe from tearing at each other's throats, once they show that they are determined to fight anyway, our best course is to take care of our own knitting and keep out of the melee.

ANOTHER PITT COUN- TIAN FORGES AHEAD

cratic gubernatorial candidates in California, Colonel Charles J. O'Hagan is promi-nently mentioned, with indications that should he decide definitely to enter the race he has a good chance of becoming governor of California. Colonel O'Hagan is a native of this city, and is well known throughout this county.

During his 25 years of residence in Los Angeles, he has been active in local,
state and national politics,
and his Pitt county friends will watch developments in the California gubernatorial race with interest. It will be a distinct honor to this county if one of its native sons becomes governor of the great state of California.

Would Establish State School For Would-Be Doctors

Commission to Decide Whether to Operate Four-Year College Independent of University

Reflector Bureau,
Raleigh, May 31.—Whether or not North Carolina will have a four-year medical school in the state and whether this school will be a part of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill or be established as a separate institution, depends very largely upon the findings of the new commission just named by Governor Clyde R. Hoey to study and report upon the advisability of establishing such a medical school in the state.

The commission, authorized by Senate Resolution 195, is also directed to draft any proposed legislation that may be needed to carry out its recommendations. It must submit its findings and recommendations to the Governor and to the 1939 general assembly.

The members of the commission
are: Dr. William Coppridge, Durham; Dr. William DeB. McNider, newly appointed dean of the University of North Carolina Medical School, in Chapel Hill, only a two year medical school; Dr. C. C. Car-

ON THE BLUFF MURDER

SYNOPSIS. The mysterious shooting to death of Jude Blinshop, my old flame, opens our story weekend at Farrington
Bluff, home of Michael's aunt.
After a series of strange attacks,
we find the body of Michael's mad father below the bluff. Aunt Martha is shot in the shoulder and then nearly dragged to death with sleeping powder. The Skipper, Mike's tall, ruddy younger aunt, disappears. Cook gets "dropped to the pits" and we find proof that William the chauffeur is an ex-convict. Mike and Gay Palmer, his fiancée, are with Aunt Martha when I go searching alone and fall noisily in the Skipper's room.

Chapter 39

The Letters Vanish

In the darkness I struggled to my knees, listening to rapid feet coming through the bathroom from Michael's room. I was discovered, but I didn't care. Rocking back and forth on my knees, I waited for the light to come through that door and disclose the body of Cook. I almost thought that I could see it in front of me without the light.

The door came open with a bang.
Michael stood on the threshold, a heavy silver box raised in his hand as a weapon. At the sight of me, his mouth dropped open. Slowly, fascinated, I swung my eyes down in the path of light streaming through the bathroom door. They encountered an ordinary rag rug, one end of which had been kicked up in the air—in all probability by my own foot. The other end was held firmly to the floor by a leg of the Skipper's bed. Of bodies—or traces of them—there was not a sign.

"What are you doing now?" said
Michael blankly.
I was becoming aware of a banged elbow and a un-ked shin, and I was also conscious of the picture I cut there on my hands and knees.

"Playing posy!" I said. "Any suggestions?"

He stepped over to a stand and switched on a light.

"Are you hurt?" he inquired without too much interest.

I got clumsily to my feet. "I'll barely live."

Michael surveyed me thoughtfully.
"Suppose we go into the other room?"
he said.

I went. The indignity of my position momentarily seemed more important to me than the mysterious disappearance of Cook. M. Farrington was sitting in a chair, clad in one of her stern lavender wraps, sharp eyes
cocked up on one elbow, her attitude thoroughly alert.

I addressed myself to Gay, the least disconcerting of my audience.
"Where's Annie?" I said.

But M. Farrington was not to be ignored. "Annie," she declaimed, "is still looking for the glasses which are over there on the dressing table.
Would you mind telling us what you were doing?"

"Someone got to William's room before I did," I said, not pausing to ask whether or not they had told her the whole story. But M. Farrington had been missing no tricks.

"How do you know? Were the letters gone?"

The letters! "No," I said quickly.
"Mike has them, haven't you, Mike?"

Michael's hands flew to his pockets and on through his vest and trouser pockets.

"Gay has them," he said.
Three pairs of eyes swung to Gay's face. It was blank.

"But I haven't. You have them yourself, Mike. You took them from Jimmie."

There was silence.
"Michael," said M. Farrington crisply, "search the hall. You may have dropped them in your excitement."

It was a forlorn hope, but it was the only one. Mike went on the gallop.
M. Farrington took command of the situation.

A Little Eavesdropping

NOW, James, you have not explained what you were doing in Barbara's room. Don't look so vague."

I tried to do as I was told. As calmly as I could, I told her what I had discovered. Gay gasped once and, when I came to the episode of the rug, giggled nervously. But M. Farrington's simpler eyes never left my face.

"Why didn't you go down to the kitchen?" she snapped before I had drawn a breath on my last period.
"I couldn't hear her. You can always hear Cook, and—"

"Humph!" said M. Farrington cryptically just as Mike came through the door.

His face told the story long before his tongue could.

"Didn't find a thing?"
"I guess it's time we looked at that kitchen," I said.

M. Farrington's smile was sardonic.
"Are you quite sure, James?"

I was.

The smaller corridor was still in semi-darkness. I listened outside of Higgins' door for the faint sound of his breathing. Cook's door was still closed, but I was taking no chances.

I pushed it open and satisfied myself
that she had not returned to her room.
Then, feeling my way carefully, I started down the back stairs.

The mumble of voices was lower and more indistinct. I could no longer distinguish one from the other, let alone any of the words. Slowly I crept down until the turn of the landing brought me within full view of the kitchen, where I halted, open-mouthed.

William stood at the end of the kitchen table, leaning over talking excitedly to Annie, who was sitting beside him. Beyond them in a capacious rocking chair, her eyes glittering and her large hands clenched tightly in her lap, sat Cook. She was not talking, but she was listening spellbound
to the other two.

"Is it proof enough?" I was obliged to start every ounce of balance I could command to avoid falling over the banisters in my eagerness to hear Annie's whisper. "If we was to fall through with this, he could make it awful hot for us. There ain't many jobs, Bill. You'd oughta know that."

William brought his fist down on the table expressively but without sound. "The guys like us is the ones that'll get blamed. It took me three years to learn that. And here's another thing. We got enough evidence on Higgins to send him to the chair tomorrow!"

'You're In A Tight Spot'

At this moment I leaned too heavily upon the railing. It wasn't a very loud squeak, but William spun around.
I tried to flatten myself against the wall, but I had been discovered.

I stuck my hands into my pocket,
and ambled down the stairs.

"What I'd like to know, William,"
I said, "is what you just said. Something about evidence against Higgins, wasn't it?"

With a ridiculous pretense of calm,
I seated myself on the table, my back to the massive figure of Cook. "If you'll take my tip, William, you'll get the whole story off your chest. What do you know about Higgins?"

He was gripping the table as if he meant to smash it to pieces.

"What makes you think I know anything?"

"You do." I strove to keep my voice level. "You're full of surprises. What,
for example, do you know about Higgins that would send him to the chair?"

I pitted the fellow. His eyes were bloodshot and his face was drawn.
"You can't prove I said nothing. You can't prove nothing. I ain't going to talk."

I took a long shot in the dark. "As a matter of fact, William," I said, "I can prove several interesting things about you. And it so happens that my evidence is very fine evidence indeed.
And it won't do you any good to dispose of me in order to get hold of it."

Cook, I really believe, would have throttled me at that point, if William's arm had not sent her hurtling back into her chair. He drew a long breath.

"All right," he said faintly. "What are you going to do?"

I shoved a chair at him with my foot. "Sit down," I said, "and tell me about it. It's all bound to come out anyway."

He sat heavily. Annie was beginning to cry.

"I been three years in the pen." His voice was slow and dazed. "I was driving for the Blinshops and a ring was pinched. They pinned it on me. The old man felt sorry for me and got me a job here with Miss Barbara. I ain't done a thing—but it's gonna look bad."

He was mumbling as if in his sleep, and his voice was weary, hopeless and sick.

"Did anyone but Miss Barbara
know about this—anyone in the house,
I mean?"

He shook his head drearly. "Miss Judith knew."

Jude! It was going to look bad! And yet, if the Skipper had known all about his record, he would have had no reason for leaning toward him.

"You know better than I do that you're in a tight spot. Your only way out is to find the guilty man."

Cook's roar this time brought me
to my feet.

"Damn you!" she bellowed. "Damn
you for a lying devil! Leave him alone!"

"Suppose you finish the story, William," I said.

His blazing eyes snapped from Cook's face to mine. For an instant I thought I would be obliged to fight my way out, but only for an instant. William's eyes fell and he sank back into his chair.

"All right, then," his words were barely audible. "Cook knew it—and my wife."

An entirely new train of thought was popping into my head.

"By that you mean Annie?"
"Yes."

The silence in the kitchen was unbroken. Annie had ceased to sniffle.
I was doing some rapid thinking.

I got William to talk about Higgins tomorrow.

AGAIN ON THE MARCH!

MORE DRIVERS LOSE LICENSES

Permits of 177 Motor- ists Revoked In Past Week

Reflector Bureau,
Raleigh, May 31.—The driving licenses of 177 drivers were revoked
this week by the division of highway safety of the Department of Revenue, of which 45 were revoked

today, it was announced by Director Arthur Fulk of the division. Most of these were revoked for driving while drunk, driving while licenses were revoked or combinations of drunken and reckless driving. The 177 revocations this week brings the total revoked to date to 10,642, without including some 3,000 suspensions.

Last week 128 drivers' licenses
were revoked by the highway safety division. The number of license revocations has averaged from 500 to 700 a month since January. The records of the division show the number of license revocations by months from January through May 29 are as follows: January, 550;
February, 625; March, 521; April, 786; May, through today, 545.

In addition to those whose licenses were revoked for drunken driving, today's list has a number who lost their permits for driving

after their licenses had been revoked,
for failure to stop after accidents, and one following two convictions for reckless driving. For under the law, any person convicted twice within 12 months of reckless driving automatically loses his license for one year.

The driver who lost his license
for one year following two convictions of reckless driving was Oliver
T. Mull of Morganton, while Wiliam S. Nirthrop of Wilmington, Robert Odell Davis of Newell and Frank Bell of Rich Square had their licenses revoked for an additional year after having been convicted of driving while their licenses were already revoked. Melvin Wood of Four Oaks and John E. Desmond

of New York City, had their licenses revoked for an additional year on a second conviction of driving drunk and driving after their licenses had been revoked.

"It is becoming increasingly difficult for drunken drivers to get by in North Carolina, also for drivers who have lost their licenses
to keep on driving," Director Fulk said.

Tarboro 4, Ayden 4 (11 innings).

The Greenies dropped both the Saturday and Sunday games to Williamston, making four losses and two victories for the week of play.

After going into a tie for fifth place with its 9-2 victory over the Kinston Eagles Thursday, the locals' victories ceased for the weekend and now they are resting in seventh place with only Kinston below them.

The Greenies only other victory of the week came on the first day of play, Tuesday, when they defeated the Gold Bugs 7-4 to stretch their winning streak to four games. The Martins won Saturday's battle here 4-2, and made it a deep sweep of the series by walloping the locals in the second game, 11-1. Kinston won over the locals Friday 6-5 in 10 frames. Wednesday's game was lost to Goldboro 3-2 on miscues in the latter part of the contest.

Starting the week tomorrow with a standing of 364 on eight wins and 14 defeats, the Greenies will play at Snow Hill Tuesday, here Wednesday, New Bern there on Thursday and the Craven county team here Friday. Ayden there on Saturday and return here Sunday to meet their Pitt County foes.

In Sunday's contest the Martins wasted little time in getting into the scoring column. Martin started on the mound for the Greenies, but after he got Earp, the lead runner out, he was started for the show. Deibetter singled and Stanley better ahead of him. That was enough to win, it turned out, but the Martins weren't satisfied. McKay singled, Martin walked Stevens, and Martin walked out.

Calegura took over at that point, and Deim greeted him with a three-run homer over the centerfield wall.

While the Martins were cutting loose with that sort of offensive, Wade was keeping the Greenies well in check. Up to the seventh inning, he allowed only two hits. In the seventh, however, he eased up, and the Greenies got their lone tally, on a single by Thode, and a triple off the bat of Andy Johnson. Over the route, Wade fanned six and did not issue a strike walk.

Conway, Greenville backstop, had to leave the game in the fourth when he suffered a finger split from a foul tip. Walter Latham finished. The release of Muto was announced today with the return of Koonz to occupy the second base position. Koonz had been to High Point to graduate at the college there.

Rudisill returned from High Point to be in the line-up yesterday and showed up good.

MONK JOYNER PACES HITTERS

Ayden Manager Retains Place as Coastal Loop's Leader

The second batch of official averages for the Coastal Plain League reveals that Monk Joyner, former Wake Forest athlete, still is showing the way for hitters.

Joyner, Ayden outfielder, who was named Manager of the Aces last week, has a .426 average for paly through May 25, period covered in statistics released by J. Gaskill McDaniel of New Bern, league statistician.

In 16 games, Joyner has 29 hits to show for 68 times at bat and his .426 average is 11 points better than the runner-up figure of Glenn Mullinax, New Bern outfielder. Mullinax has 27 hits for 65 turns.

Although Joyner is the real leader, top place in the league's big ten is occupied by a newcomer to the circuit—Tony Mainsio, Kinston infielder. Mainsio, in only five games up to the deadline on the latest official averages has a .480 mark.

Pete Kunis of Goldsboro is the top man among Coastal loop pitchers. Credited with five victories—and no defeats—for the period ending May 25, Kunis since has added another win. He turned back the Greenies, 3-2, on Wednesday.

The top man in the business of clotting circuit blows is Joe Bistrotff, Snow Hill backstop. Joe's total of seven-round rippers for the period ending May 25 was boosted the very next day when he homered with two on to feature a 9-7 win over Ayden.

The official statistics for the batting averages of the "Big Ten" and leaders in other departments, including games of May 25:

Goldsboro Wins, 9-1, To Retain 2nd Place

Goldsboro—Goldsboro maintained their hold on second place with a 9-1 victory over the New Bern Bears Sunday before 2,000 fans.

Although touched for ten safeties, Pete Kunis kept them well scattered and breezed through with his seventh victory in seven starts this season. He bore down in the pinches and got fire support from his mates.

Goldsboro rushed into a 5-1 lead during the first five frames by taking advantage of Lefty Flora's wildness. In four and two-thirds innings, Flora yielded six walks, hit two batsman and was touched for only three hits. He was relieved by Dawson, who was reached for five safeties.

Big gun in the Bugs' offense was Ignasiak, with a homer, a triple, a double and two singles for a perfect day. And Ignasiak did it the hard way—a switch hitter, he batted right-handed to get a double, the homer, and a single off Flora, then went to the other side to touch Dawson, a righthander, for a single and the triple.

New Bern's lone tally came in the first. Stray singled advanced on Black's sacrifice, and scored on Mullineaux's single.

SPORT SLANTS

Gene Mako has never been more player who was destined to support Don Budge's doubles team. Grant, Parker, Hunt, Rogers, Subin.

For all the mention—Mako received, one would hardly have suspected his presence on the 1937 Davis cup squad. Naturally, Budge was the most discussed player. America's chances of retaining the cup depended on him.

After Budge came the singles player who was destined to support Don Budge's doubles team. Grant, Parker, Hunt, Rogers, Subin.

But about Mako, vary a word. It was taken for granted that Gene would be Budge's partner because the team had won the national doubles championship in '36. They had represented the U. S. against Australia last year. They were beat-in the '36 Davis cup tests, after giving the Australians a stiff battle. Perhaps it was just as well that Gene was not in the spotlight this spring. It might have served to recall that it was his error that enabled the Australians to take the '36 match.

Under the tutelage of George Lott this year, Mako learned much about doubles play. He gradually overcame his tendency to attempt sensational "kiss" and adopted more conservative methods.

Mako has had little professional coaching. He was born in England, and took up tennis at the age of 11 in Rogers Park, Seattle. He went in for the game seriously when he moved to Glendale, Calif., a couple of years later. Elsworth Vines was his idol and Mako patterned his game after that of the then national champion. He made his way to the top via the public courts of Griffith park in Glendale.

Falkland In Victory Over Belvoir, 12 to 2

Behind the steady five-hit hurrying of Marshall Wooten Falkland trounced Belvoir 12-2 on the losers diamond Sunday.

The winners got off to a two-run lead in the first inning and were never headed. Paul Moore, with a pair of doubles, and Woodrow Wooten, with a triple and a single, led the winners' attack on three Belvoir hurriers. P. Whitley with a homer and a triple was tops for the losers.

The old policy-wise politicians who think they know their political odds had better keep a weather eye on Colonel O'Hagan. There are strange things done under California's political sun. You will hear a lot more about this picturesque Democratic old statesman before the Governor's campaign grows much older.

CHAIRMAN OF ABC BOARD REPORTS ON ACTIVITIES

ing and invite all peace officers, representatives of the press and other officials for the primary purpose of advising them of the attitude of the Board toward accomplishing the purpose of the law under which it is established in Pitt County. We held this meeting on February 10, 1936 at a total cost of $59.73. This meeting was well attended by peace officers and other citizens. The following were among those present and gave their views as to the best way to control the sale of alcoholic beverages in Pitt County: Messrs. F. C. Harding, J. M. Wooten, D. J. Whichard, J. R. Turnage and Rev. Gilbert Combs.

Realizing the task we had before us, we sought the advice of an Advisory committee to be composed of President L. R. Meadows of East Carolina Teachers College, County School Superintendent D. H. Conley, City School Superintendent J. H. Rose and County Health Officer N. Thomas Ennett. At our request these men offered their services, agreeing to serve in an advisory capacity to the Board.

This committee subsequently offered the following four-point program:

1. That your board for the purpose of complying with Chapter 404 of the Public Laws of 1935, purchase 500 copies of a pamphlet entitled "Syllabus M. Alcohol Education," or the injuries to the human body caused by alcoholism and narcotism, a copy of each to be delivered to each school teacher in Pitt County to be used in teaching said subject as contemplated by said law. According to information these pamphlets are priced at fifteen (15 cents) per copy. It is suggested that the quantity might induce a reduction in price.
2. That your board secure for a period of fifteen days or some such period a portable talking picture presentation outfit on the subject treated by the pamphlet. That this outfit, as early as practicable, present pictures and lectures in each school in the county. We are advised that the expenses will be approximately $250.00.
3. That your board secure the services of a capable and efficient man to serve the board as investigator under the executive department of the board, to investigate all reasonable reports of the violation of the liquor laws and to secure evidence to prosecute such violations by the proper officials of the county through the Courts.
4. That your board secure the services of some capable and efficient man under whose direction your board will exercise control of its liquor sales in Pitt County by lectures, conferences, and such activities as would tend to induce the people of the county to obey and respect particularly the laws relative to the sales of Alcoholic Beverages.

The Board purchased the textbooks and turned them over to Mr. Conley and we have no doubt but what each teacher in the county was provided with one. The Board feels that this action served a good purpose in educating the students in what can result from alcoholic beverages. The books cost us $65.00.

At the request of Mr. Rose, and concurred in by other members of the advisory committee, the second project was temporarily withdrawn, but later was carried out in the purchase of such a machine as suggested.

In accordance with request number three, the Board hired the services of an investigator, D. M. Sellers having been employed for the position. We employed Mr. Sellers on the recommendation of Judicial officials and others. He was employed solely as an investigator without power of arrest. Mr. Sellers served us for four months at a salary of $150.00 monthly, a total of $600.00 having been paid him. During the time he was employed he made reports on some 200 places, saying he had reason to believe these places were engaging in the illegal sale of liquor. Mr. Sellers reported to the board that Greenville, Ayden, Farmville and other police forces worked harmoniously with him, but deemed it unwise to retain the investigator since we were unable to invest in him the power of arrest. Later we found that without such power the full benefits of his efforts could not be obtained, the board decided to temporarily abandon this part of the program.

The fourth point, recommending that the Board secure the services of some capable man under whose direction the Board would exercise control of the liquor sales by lectures, conferences and such activities as would tend to induce the people to obey and respect particularly the laws relative to the sale of alcoholic beverages, was taken under consideration for later action. The Board feels that this point was embodied in the purchase of the picture machine, upon which the advisory committee guaranteed to put on an intensive program in the different centers of Pitt County, which has been mentioned above.

The moving picture machine, which has been mentioned above, was purchased by the Board upon the recommendation of the advisory committee, which declared that in the opinion of the members, would be the most effective means of reaching the children and adults of Pitt County in an educational program depicting the evils of alcohol. The machine was purchased at a cost of $747.55 and pictures have been shown to all white schools in the county, except one, a total of 3,200 children and adults attending the programs, which included a speaker at each school as promised by the committee. Similar programs are being planned for all colored schools in the counties having the necessary facilities. The advisory committee also informs us it will be glad to cooperate with all civic organizations which desire to put on the program.

Presented with a bill of $167.72 by the sheriff of the County for expenses incurred in arresting several persons, the Board, after much deliberation, authorized the payment of this amount, feeling that it had promised to cooperate with the sheriff in attempts to stamp out the illicit liquor traffic in the county.

The Board undertook what it termed the "November Program," which was suggested or recommended by mayors of Greenville and other towns in the county, as well as the sheriff, and which had the endorsement of the advisory committee. Under this plan we employed four special officers, two to work with the sheriff's office force and one each with the Greenville and Ayden police forces. John L. Taylor and L. B. Tucker were assigned to the sheriff's office at salaries of $150.00 monthly each; W. L. Knowles was assigned to the Ayden police force at $125 monthly; and Clifton Stokes to the Greenville police force at $140.00 monthly. These officers were paid by the board for the months of November and December, the total cost amounting to $1,130.00. The sheriff's office force and Ayden officials have rendered detailed accounts of the activities of the special officers assigned them, but so far the Greenville officials have made no formal report on the work by the man assigned to their police force, although the mayor and chief of police have expressed the opinion to the chairman and other members of the board that much was accomplished, with numerous arrests and convictions having been brought about through efforts of the special officer. The same assistance was tendered to the town of Farmville but no actions were taken by them, at least no reports have been made to us.

While offering no criticism of our courts, an investigation of the dockets shows that, in the opinion of the Board, that if more courts could be called a larger percentage of bootleggers convicted in lower courts would be serving time on the roads or otherwise executing judgments. It is the opinion of members of the Board that many of these defendants return to their illegal trade while their cases are pending.

The A. B. C. Board purchased posters for all schools in the county, both white and colored — setting forth Robert E. Lee's views on the use of alcoholic beverages. The County Board of Education cooperated in having vocational students in the county frame the posters. A poster also was placed in each A. B. C. store in the county. The following quotation appears on each: "My experience through life has convinced me that while moderation and temperance in all things are commendable and beneficial, ABSTINENCE from spirituous liquors IS THE BEST SAFEGUARD TO MORALS AND HEALTH."

The Sober Man Thinks Before He Act, Alcohol Makes a Man Act Before He Thinks.

NEGRO HELD IN TORCH MURDER

Shortly after the murdered body of Mrs. Birdie Fluker, 50, was found in her burning home in Atlanta, police arrested the Fluker's negro chauffeur, Milton Jackson, in connection with the crime. The negro is shown in jail. Officers said the slayer fired the home in an effort to conceal the crime.

ther the purpose of this board, in so far as we deem it wise, to spend all or as much as needed of the twenty percent net profits in the control of the sale of alcoholic beverages in Pitt County.

We feel the two officers put on May the 1st are doing very good work. A detailed report on their activities will be available to the public the first part of June and subsequently each month thereafter.

The board is pleased to learn that the criminal dockets of the various courts in the county have been relieved greatly in the past few months and are in better shape to try any and all current cases than in years.

In January of this year we turned over to the County Commissioners $20,000 in cash. Audit as of March the 31st shows a cash balance of $31,000 and a paid inventory of $40,000 and we now have on hand $20,600 available to the County Commissioners. We call attention to the fact that this was accomplished without the use of one cent of the taxpayers' money for inaugurating the business in the county.

This report was prepared by the chairman and accepted by the entire Pitt County A. B. C. Board the 21st day of May, 1937.

Alexander V. Dye of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce told a house appropriations committee it would be well worth $300,000 to analyze the mass of data gathering dust in the department files.

"It is almost every kind of information," he says, "covering construction, distribution and costs of production in many lines of activity."
