Edsel Ford Will Be Investigated in Riot At Plant

SPECIFIC CASES FILED IN CHARGE

No Indications of Any Substantial Progress Toward Ending Steel Plant Strikes

Detroit, June 2.—(AP)—A subpoena was issued today for Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor Company, as a one-man grand jury began an investigation of last week's fight between company employees and members of the UAWA.

Duncan McCrea, Wayne county prosecutor, said process servers who called at the Ford Motor Company offices were unable to find either Ford or Harry Bennett, personnel director.

Six witnesses appeared today before Common Pleas Judge Rouse Liddy, conducting the grand jury inquiry on the petition of McCrea. In the meantime at Washington Homer Martin, president of the U. A. W. A., announced charges of unfair labor practices had been filed with the National Labor Relation Board against the Ford Motor company.

Martin said more than 150 specific cases were sighted in the charges at the Detroit and Somerville, Mass., regional offices of the board. He said the charges alleged men were discharged for union activities.

Initial Shipment Of Texts Already Beginning Arrive

First Orders For Free Books For Use in Elementary Grades Placed Some Three Weeks Ago

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, June 2.—The first shipment of the 2,000,000 or more textbooks which will be distributed through the state's new free textbook system this fall are already beginning to arrive. E. N. Peeler, executive secretary of the state free textbook commission, said today. The first orders for the new books were placed some three weeks ago and shipments are expected to come in rapidly from now on.

The only textbooks which will be furnished free this year are the basal books in the elementary grades only, since the general assembly did not provide an appropriation sufficient to supply free textbooks to the high schools, or to provide any free supplemental books for the elementary schools. Children in the elementary schools will be able to rent the supplemental books as in the past, however, Peeler said. High school students will also be able to rent both basal and supplemental books, as in the past.

It is expected that the new free textbook system will reduce the cost of books to elementary children approximately 75 per cent, and in some cases even more, since the rental cost of the supplementary books will be very slight. The textbook commission has written to all county and city superintendents asking them to send in their orders for the various texts needed by the schools in their counties for the school term opening this fall, but these orders or estimates have not yet started coming in yet. Many of the schools already have most of the books they will need, since the books that heretofore have been a part of the rental system will automatically become a part of the new free textbook system.

City school systems which already have had free textbook systems and which have the required basal books, will be reimbursed by the state textbook commission for these books. Where they have been furnished free supplemental as well as free basal books, they will be permitted to continue doing this if they desire to, Peeler said.

WILL CONDUCT BIBLE SCHOOL

Daily Vacation Study To Be Provided Again This Year

Parents and children of the community will be interested to know that plans are definitely under way for the holding of another community Daily Vacation Bible School this summer. This will be a one month's school to be held from June 14-July 9 in one unit, instead of two units as last summer, the place to be the Third Street school.

Miss Frances Fields, director of Religious Education of the local Presbyterian church, has been chosen by the committee-in-charge to direct the school.

Although plans for the school are not as elaborate as in the past, due to a greatly reduced budget, it is expected that a most successful school will be held through the cooperation of the parents of the community. The school, as before, will be open to all white children of the community with five of the local churches sharing the financial and teaching load of the school.

The above plans are the result of a recently-held meeting of the local Ministerial Association and representative laymen of the churches involved, at which meeting the following committee was appointed to handle the details of the proposal: Rev. R. C. Grady, Presbyterian church; Rev. Clarence Patrick, Emmanuel Baptist, Mrs. W. A. Ryan, Eighth Street Christian; J. H. Rose, Jarvis Memorial Methodist and Ed Waldrop, St. Paul's Episcopal.

Advocates Of Legal Liquor Stores Win In Washington

Raleigh, June 2.—(AP)—Dry forces claimed today to have defeated advocates of legal liquor stores in Mecklenburg and Wayne counties yesterday, although original unofficial returns placed Wayne in the wet column by a slim margin. In Washington, the third county holding a referendum, the unofficial returns indicated a clear victory for the stores.

Colonel John Langston, a spokesman for Wayne county prohibitionists, announced today the Buck Swamp town precinct vote had been first reported as 48 wet and 120 dry, whereas, he said, the figure for the dries should have been 220. As a result, he contended, the vote for the county stood: 2,959 for stores and 3,040 against.

First unofficial returns were 2,959 for and 3,040 against, Washington, with one precinct unreported, voted 532 to 263 for the stores. Mecklenburg remained in the prohibition column by a vote of 8,233 to 7,812, although Charlotte, the state's largest city gave a majority of 1,440 for the stores. The rural part of the county voted overwhelmingly against legal sale of whiskey.

JONES COUNTY TO VOTE ON LEGALIZATION OF LIQUOR 29th

Kinston, June 2.—(AP)—Jones county, completely surrounded by wet counties, Lenoir, Onslow and Craven, will hold a referendum to decide whether to join in the legalization of liquor stores June 29.

Britain Attempts Prevent Blockade Of Spanish Coast

Italians Seek To Halt Russian Ships Bearing Arms

Rome, June 2.—(AP)—Italian warships established a virtual blockade of eastern Spain today to prevent Russian vessels from carrying war supplies to the Madrid-Valencia government.

A reinforced German battle fleet was understood here to be cooperating with the Italian men-of-war in their determined move to stop Soviet ships from running munitions to the Spanish government.

Grave views of Premier Mussolini's decisions in effect to blockade Spanish government ports were taken in diplomatic quarters. There, experts pointed to the dictates of international law.

The stoppage of another power's merchant men on the high seas, they said, is one of the most serious situations contemplated by the international code. In peace time, they declared, a naval vessel may stop only a merchant man flying the same flag. Even in war time, they added, only a belligerent may halt foreign shipping without taking the risk of an "incident" in one of the most serious aspects of international usage.

Great Britain Considers Ways to Offset Plans

London, June 2.—(AP)—Great Britain was reported today to be considering a plan for joint naval action against Spain to offset the establishment of a virtual Italian blockade of ports held by the Spanish government.

Convinced of the necessity of preventing any new critical incidence in the civil war, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden was understood to have taken under advisement the plan which would grant Italy's and Germany's demands for guaranteed protection of their fleets in Spanish waters.

The British admiralty was reported to be considering dispatch of additional troops to the troubled area.

Under the proposal Eden was said to have before him for immediate action, the warships of Britain, France, Germany and Italy would unite as an international fleet against Spain in the event of any further molesting of vessels of the "hands off Spain" committee.

STATE TO GET OYSTER PLANT

WPA Funds Would Be Used In Erecting $7,000 Project

Raleigh, June 2.—(AP)—North Carolina will soon have another in the series of "firsts" if plans for a municipal oyster shucking plant at Washington, N. C. as announced today, are followed.

Director of Sanitary Engineering Warren Booker said construction would begin at an early date. He said the city would own the plant, and it would rent stalls to oyster men employing only a few shuckers.

Plans were being drawn, he said, and he estimated it would cost between $7,000 and $8,000.

E. C. Hubbard of the State Health Board will work with Federal authorities on the plant.

Banks Of North Carolina Reach Peak Of Condition

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, June 2.—The banks in North Carolina are in better condition than they have been since the first banks in the state were opened in 1804. Commissioner of Banks Gurney P. Hood said today. At the present time, the 264 state banks, consisting of 168 banks and 96 branches, have resources amounting to $129,505,156, an all time seasonal high peak for state commercial banks in North Carolina, Hood said. The highest previous peak reached by state banks was in March, 1929 when the resources amounted to $124,034,302.

But these figures do not include the resources of either the industrial or the national banks in the state, Hood said. The 33 industrial banks and branches have resources amounting to $15,474,157 at the present time, while the 48 national banks and their branches have resources amounting to a total of $115,277,000, according to the latest figures available.

CARDS NEEDED KEEP RECORDS

Wade Explains Reasons for Issuing Cards To Aged Persons

Raleigh, June 2.—Stacey W. Wade, manager of the Social Security Board's Raleigh office, said today that the issuance at this time of social security account numbers to workers who are 65 years of age or over is for record purposes of the North Carolina Unemployment Compensation program and not for the Federal Old-Age Benefits program.

Many workers 65 and over are now applying for account numbers, Mr. Wade pointed out, believing that they are now eligible for account numbers. Mr. Wade pointed out, however, that they are now eligible for Federal old-age benefits. This is a false impression and (Continued on page six)

Midday Sun, An Outsider, Comes In First In Derby

Second Place Also Won by Rank Outsider, Sandsprite

Epsom Downs, June 2.—(AP)—Midday Sun, an outsider owned by Mrs. G. B. Miller, today won the 158th Derby before a crowd of between 250,000 and 500,000, including the king and queen. Mrs. F. Nagle's Sandsprite was second and the Aga Khan's Le Grand Duc third.

Ridden by Mike Beary, veteran English jockey, Midday Sun finished the one and a half miles in front of Sandsprite, a rank outsider. Le Grand Duc was another one and one-half lengths back.

William Woodward's Perfox, only American-bred horse in the race and the last-minute favorite, was fourth in the field of 20 colts and one filly.

The American-bred son of Gallant Fox just managed to beat Marcel Boyassa's Goya, II, out of fourth money.

In winning the course of about $50,000 Midday Sun ran the distance in the comparatively slow time of 2:37 3-5.

Mrs. Miller was the first woman owner to win England's most famous race. Her colt went to the post at the odds of 100-7.

ROBERT JACKSON IS FIRST WITNESS

Objection by Rep. Maverick Delays Selection of Committee On Tax Evading

Washington, June 2.—(AP)—A joint congressional committee started public hearings on the administration's wage and hour bill today, receiving from its first witness assurance the bill has a fair chance of being held constitutional.

The witness, Assistant Attorney General Robert Jackson, recounted Supreme Court decisions broadening federal power over interstate commerce.

"During this flash of liberalism that illuminates a judicial record, otherwise pretty black for labor," Jackson said, "we may reasonably hope after being balked a score of years, Congress will now be sustained in adding to the list of interstate contraband what Mr. Justice has so aptly called 'the product of ruined lives' and establishing commerce among the states on the basis of industrial justice of disadvantaged men."

Senator Reynolds Believed Getting Stronger In N. C.

Opinion Growing That Doughton, For a Time Regarded as Candidate, Will Not Run

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, June 2.—The many visits Senator Robert R. (Our Bob) Reynolds has been making to the state recently and the numerous speeches he has been making, have been helping him greatly with the result that most observers here regard him as being in a very strong position for winning the renomination in the Democratic primary next spring.

The suggestion made in recent news dispatches from Washington to the effect that former Governor Senator Cameron Morrison of Charlotte might become a candidate against Reynolds and seek to wrest from "Our Bob" the senatorial toga which he took away from Morrison in 1932, is being more or less humorously received here.

Those who attended the barbecue given in Anson county last Saturday afternoon in honor of Frank L. Dunlap, new chairman of the state highway commission, and Jim Harrison, former member of the old commission, and at which Senator Reynolds was one of the honor guests, are convinced that "Our Bob" already has the inside track and is going places fast.

They point out that the political elite of several counties including Anson were present at this barbecue and that almost without exception these men assured Senator Reynolds of their support, also told him he would be renominated without any trouble—probably without any opposition.

"It is always interesting to watch Bob Reynolds in action—and it was especially interesting to watch him at this barbecue," a man who was there Saturday afternoon said. "There were between 500 and 600 men there and Bob knew almost every one of them by name, from the younger ones on up to the old men with whiskers—and most of them the 'king bees' in their communities. All of those men have gone back home and started working for Bob already, for he knows how to make friends and to win their confidence."

The opinion is growing in many circles here that Congressman R. L. Doughton, for a time regarded as a potential candidate against Reynolds, may not have any opposition at all.

Bride's School Teaches Girls How To Master A Household

By JOAN DURHAM AP Feature Service Writer

New York — Balancing the budget will be a neat trick for the June bride. But if she's a graduate of New York's Bride's School, she isn't doing much worrying.

Students at the school, opened two years ago in a five-story building, learn all the fine points of household management by working out actual problems in saving labor, time and money.

Learn How To Cook
They prepare everything from omelets to custards in the kitchen in a floor below the street level. They practice making beds, dusting and general cleaning in the upper floor rooms. They receive guests in the living room and set tables in the dining room—to learn the why and wherefores of a well managed home.

The Dorcas Boardman kitchen is named for Mrs. Richard Boardman, president of Scientific Housekeeping Inc., of which the Bride's school is an outgrowth.

'Forward March' Plan
Divided for raw materials, cooking and serving, the kitchen is based on the "forward march" idea. Foods are brought in and continue around in one direction until they are ready for serving.

Pots and pans are all pegged in full sight so that they will have to be kept spotless.

A few students come from as far west as Denver, but most from the New York area. "While we do have many society girls," says Mrs. Boardman, "we're glad to teach any girl who is aware that running a home is a profession."

MOTHER'S HELPER
In eleven days mother used to teach a bride-to-be all she needed to know about running a house. Now many girls get the low-down from instructors in the Bride's school in New York.

Mrs. Sidonie Gruenberg (left) keeps busy straightening out the family problems of divorced parents who flock to her New York office for advice. (An office assistant portrays divorcee in this picture.)

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW AP Feature Service Writer

New York—A divorced mother isn't just being mean when she tells her children that papa is a rascal. She is using poor psychology.

"Two children had been living with their divorced mother, and visiting their father, who had remarried. The mother hated the new wife and would use the children as pawns to find out what her successor was like."

"She was anxious to get the children away while the father was trying to keep them nearby. So the youngsters were being pulled back and forth."

The problem finally was solved to the satisfaction of both parents. The children live in California with their mother, but will spend summers with their father.

Ordinarily, however, Mrs. Gruenberg tries to arrange for the children to live permanently with one parent, in order to give them stability.

Back To The Wall, Graduates; That's The Way To Get Posture

By LYDIA GRAYSHAW (AP Feature Service Writer)

This year's girl graduate may curve as she will to conform to the newest Victorian dress fashion. But there is no new style for posture when she stands to receive her diploma.

Shoulders back, hips in, hands relaxed at the sides are requisites for good carriage now, as in Victoria's day.

Seniors who will be getting diplomas in June would do well to check up on their posture.

One of the best tests is to watch your feet as you walk down the street. If the tips of your shoes are not visible when you bend your head, you score 100 per cent.

Back Against Wall
Another good test is to stand with your back against the wall—head, shoulders and hips just touching it, feet about four inches from the wall. Then move slowly away, holding the same position.

You'll be surprised to find how unattractive the new position seems. If your shoulders, hips or neck feel stiff, that's where the trouble lies. Beauty experts are agreed that an easy, natural carriage is the most desirable. But until good posture is attained, a definite effort must be made to maintain an erect position. Grandmother advocated the broomstick cure. The stick securely pinned the elbows back, and did help the shoulder position. But the new fashion shot the chin of the posture-seeker forward, hurting matters more than it helped.

Use Traps Bar
A traps bar is better. Standing flat on the floor, raise the hands above the head, grasp the bar firmly. Pull in the stomach. Hips and shoulders will then automatically adjust themselves.

Self-consciousness on the commencement platform often results from poor posture. The girl who continually clasps and unclasps her hands, who restlessly shifts her feet, is not at ease because she realizes she does not stand well.

Often the very tall girls try to disguise her height by slumping, only to make herself more conspicuous. Likewise the short girl wants to appear taller, and thrusts her chin forward deliberately. In both cases, an easy, graceful carriage would make observers forget the height eccentricities.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

SYNOPSIS: The mysterious shooting to death of Jude Blinshop, my old flame, opens our stormy weekend at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunts. After a series of strange attacks, we find the body of Michael's mad father below the bluff. Aunt Martha is shot in the shoulder, then nearly drugged to death with sleeping powders. The Skipper, Mike's tall and tweedy younger aunt, disappears and we search for her frantically. Finally I talk with Cook, William, the chauffeur, and Annie, the maid, who strongly suspect Higgins, the elderly butler.

Chapter 41 Queer Actions

I COULDN'T decide whether William was rambling in an attempt to gain time or because he really considered the details of his story important. There was nothing to be gained from the faces of the others. They were both seemingly engrossed in the story.

"Is that all?" William plunged on eagerly. "All? Gaud, no! After we'd went to bed, we couldn't get to sleep, like I told you. The noise was awful and Annie was pretty scared. We was in my room. Along about 11 o'clock or a little after Annie got so excited I went out to see if I could get something to make her sleep. Cook didn't have anything, so I knocked at Higgins' door.

"There was a light inside, but nobody answered. I figured he couldn't hear me on account of the wind, so I open the door and walks in. Higgins wasn't in that room and neither was anybody else. I didn't think nothing of it then. I figured he was out fastening up blinds and things, and thought he was a stubborn fool not to ask me to help him. But next day I done considerable thinking when he tells you he went to bed at 11 o'clock."

"I restrained a snort of impatience. But that doesn't mean a thing. William Higgins only made a rough guess at the time. It would really be suspicious if he'd hit it right on the dot."

William shook his head stubbornly. "Not for Higgins. The bird wouldn't think of rolling over in bed without looking at the clock to see if it was the right time for it."

"There was an idea in that. Just how does it happen that you are so sure of what the time was when you went into his room?"

"That's why I went out at all. I'd been kidding Annie to make her think there wasn't nothing wrong in her not being asleep yet. She made me turn on the light and look at the clock. And then I went out."

William was no slouch himself as an artist. "Any you think you can turn Higgins over to the police," I said, "because he happened to be a few minutes off in his calculation of the time he went to bed? Use your head."

"I am using it!" doggedly. "Annie finally got to sleep, but by that time I was jumpy myself. I thought, 'Maybe I'd oughta go out and help the old euse. This is a hell of a night and no mistake.' So I got into my pants and shirt and started after him."

"There'd been a light on in the hall before, mind you, but it was out now. You couldn't see your hand in front of your face. I was looking for the light and I hear a door downstairs being hard. I turn toward the stairs, thinking that something had been blown open and better be fastened, and all of a sudden I hear someone coming down the main hall like a house afire.

"I thought someone was sick or something, but before I could more than turn around, the door into our hall swings open and Higgins comes tearing through. There was a light in the big hall and I could see him plain as day. He had all his clothes on and he looked like all hell was after him. Before I could open my mouth, he'd tore into his room and I could hear him locking the door."

William paused for breath.

Higgins' Pretense

"GO ON!" said Annie and I simultaneously. William frowned. "I didn't know what to do. If he'd needed help he could of woke me easy as not. And he didn't. He'd locked his door. I think he's cracked for fair, that's what, and I'd better tell Miss Farrington first thing in the morning." So I start to go into my own room, but before I could close the door I hears someone else sneaking down the main hall. I opens my door just a crack and sees Mr. Michael come rushing in and begin to pound on Higgins' door. He was oaking wet and pretty excited. I open my mouth to sing out and ask what's up and just then Higgins opens his door. Damned if he ain't in his night-clothes, blinking like he'd been asleep since noon. "I wasn't going to get caught listening, not with Higgins the way he'd been lately. I closed my door, but I stood there listening, and the first thing I hear is Mr. Michael saying, 'Wake up everybody in the house! I can't find Miss Barbara and Miss Blinshop!'"

"I knew right off that the first thing the old boy would do would be to come through the bathroom after me, and there was Annie sound asleep. I routed her out quick and got her over by the door. The minute she hears Higgins' door close, she skins across the hall into Cook's room. With Mr. Michael only halfway down the hall, it was a tight squeak, but it worked!"

"William," I said roughly, "if you'd told this story in the first place, you might have saved at least one life. Do you realize that?"

The man's face was troubled. "Jobs is scarce."

"Lives are scarcer!" I snapped. "Is there any more?"

It was a stupid attitude to take, and I realized it the minute the words were out of my mouth. William's lips set in a grim and stubborn line. He was silent.

"He ain't been withholding no facts," rumbled Cook indignantly.

"He has been withholding facts—important ones," I said. "Now look here, William, I'm not blaming you. You've had a rough time. But your negligence has caused plenty of trouble. The best thing you can do now is to be sure that you haven't overlooked anything."

William's voice was sullen. "I don't know nothing more."

I took a wild chance. "It will be interesting," I said, "to find out what a fingerprint expert thinks about who locked Mr. Michael and myself in the cellar."

There was dead silence. William's eyes were fixed on the floor.

"All right," he said at last. "I ain't denying it. I went off my nut. It—it seemed like you was the guy that knocked me, and I thought you'd just tried to burn off the old lady. When we was looking for Miss Barbara you acted like you was stalling, and—Well, you didn't say nothing about where you was going."

I stared at him. "You're not very consistent," I said. "I thought you were just now accusing Higgins?"

"I was wrong about you maybe. I got to thinking while I was sitting with the old lady, and I admit I was wrong. But there's too much fishy business about Higgins."

"Such as—?" I knew he was ready to continue.

"Well, yesterday, when he was supposed to stay in the kitchen till you sent for him—when you were in the living room and the rest was in their rooms—he went upstairs. I saw him."

The Key Case
SO Higgins slaughtered that cat! My throat tightened and there was ice at my back.

"Why didn't you say so?" His eyes were still on the floor.

"Where I've been, sir, if you don't learn nothing else, you learn to keep your mouth shut."

"Not when it may cost you your life!" I said savagely.

I was certain that Higgins had removed those letters from William's room. All the years that I had known the old man, all the years that I had considered him as much a part of Farrington Bluff as Long Island Sound itself, fell away from me. Higgins owned the only revolver known to be on the bluff. He had lied about his whereabouts on the night of Jude's death, and certainly he has been out of his room when it occurred. He had had opportunity for mutilating the cat and dismantling that bedroom.

The Skipper was missing, and she would have followed him anywhere. Poor Norman Farrington would have trusted him implicitly. He had been among the first on the scene of the shooting of M. Farrington. I had found him with the gun in his hand, and he had almost tricked me into planting my own fingerprints on it. My head was spinning with the mass of evidence.

I again asked William if there was anything else. Getting slowly to his feet, he plunged a hand into his back pocket and drew forth a leather case which he flung upon the table.

"That!" I picked the thing up gingerly. It contained about two dozen keys of all sizes and descriptions. They conveyed nothing to me.

"That fell out of his pocket when he was getting the dinner and I nailed it. Higgins always carries a key to every room in the house," said William slowly.

We imprison Higgins in his room, tomorrow.

Three Terms Give Baldwin Own Big-Time 'News Reel'

STRIKE

Baldwin smashed the general strike in 1926 by backing the police and appealing to the public; then refused to punish the leaders.

WAR

Baldwin guided his ministers in trying to stop the Ethiopian war in 1935 until native flags of surrender did the trick instead.

ABDICATION

Baldwin helped force Edward's abdication in 1936—while devoted followers of the king "picketed" the houses of parliament.

Three terms of office have given Britain's retiring prime minister, 69-year-old Stanley Baldwin, a finger in some of Britain's most stirring events. Not a brilliant man, the pre-raising, pipe-smoking Conservative, who passes his job to Neville Chamberlain, has accomplished much by steady work. Here are some of the "pics" he has helped bake since he first took office in 1923.

REARMAMENT

Baldwin supervised the present rearmament drive, pushed by his cry: "Britain's new frontiers are on the Rhine."

CORONATION

Baldwin proved his heart's desire by holding office through the recent coronation. Baldwin was ready to turn over his job to another.

NEW BUILDING IS AUTHORIZED

To Erect Laboratory Building for Health Department

Raleigh, June 1.—The Council of State has authorized the State Board of Health to issue revenue bonds in the sum of $160,000 for the erection of a modern laboratory building, which will be located on the Jones Street side of Caswell Square, in Raleigh. It will be known as the Clarence A. Shore Memorial Building, in memory of the late Dr. Shore, first director of the State Laboratory of Hygiene who served in that capacity from December, 1907, to February, 1933. His successor, Dr. John H. Hamilton, was named in May, 1933.

Action by the Council of State followed a conference with Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, State Health Officer, and Dr. Hamilton. Work on the new building, which will have a ground area of 130 by 30 feet, will begin as soon as the necessary formalities are gone through, and it is expected it will be ready for occupancy within the next year. It will be three stories high and will, if possible, be built entirely of North Carolina material, the exterior to be either of stone or brick, but, in any event, the entire structure will be fireproof, also vibration proof.

Following the Council of State's action, Dr. Reynolds said:

"Two years ago, the Legislature enacted a law allowing the Board of Health to issue revenue bonds in the sum of $140,000 for the erection of a laboratory building. In addition to this amount, there was a PWA grant applied for in the amount of $12,000, but certain corrections in the original law had to be made before the federal government would approve the grant. While this grant was and is yet on the preferred list, it took legislative action for the corrections that were deemed necessary. Hence, the delay," Dr. Reynolds explained, continuing:

"The last Legislature passed a bill embodying the corrections and authorizing the issuance and sale of $160,000 revenue bonds by the State Board of Health for the erection of a modern laboratory building. The increase was due to the rise in the cost of labor and materials, with the hope of an additional grant from the government. We are still on the preferred list in Washington, and the grant, we take it, will depend on the action of Congress relative to the disposition of funds allocated to the PWA." Dr. Reynolds concluded. He added that there would be no delays in procedure pending settlement of this point, but that plans would proceed on the basis of the $160,000 bond issue just authorized.

SOON THEY'LL HAVE GAS IN FRAGRANT ODORS!

Chicago (AP)—Don't sniff now—but the refiners are "sweetening" your gasoline to make it smell better.

Perhaps soon you can say: "Make mine orange blossom today—I'm driving to a wedding."

The new step in sweetening is explained by the American Petroleum Institute by W. A. Schultze and A. E. Buell of Bartlesville, Okla. The sweetening gets rid of mercaptans, sulphurs which are the world's worst smells.

But along with the odor the gas lost power. To be exact, the power loss has been up to three octane numbers for each smell. Now the problem can be solved, say the Oklahomaans, by using a bit of copper for sweetening. The copper kills the mercaptan, with no power loss.

Snow Hill, June 2.—The Snow Hill Billies went on a slugging spree here yesterday to run their winning streak to six games. The victims of the onslaught happened to be the Greenville Greenies. The score? Well here it is—you can see for yourself that it was a spree, alright—16-7. The win lifted the Billies into the first division. The Greenies are playing the Snow Hill boys here this afternoon—and are going to attempt to get revenge—and break the winning streak of the Greenville county lads.

Peahead Walker's boys opened the every first inning with six tallies. This first inning just about cinched the game for the Billies. The contest was featured by two-base hits—there were 11 two-baggers, and Dwight Wall set the pace by clouting three of these. The Billie centerfielder also hit a single and outh on the game's top hitter, with four for five. Durwood Stover of the losers, hit a double and three singles for six efforts.

The Greenies used three hurries in a futile attempt to halt the Billies. When the game was all over, Snow Hill had 19 base hits to their credit.

Emil Zak started on the hill for the Billies, and was yanked with none out in the sixth. He gave up 11 hits and six runs. Anderson finished, giving three hits and one run.

Horse Mewborn's single in the first inning started the Billies on a merry-go-round. Alexander was safe on Stover's error, and Wall's first double of the day tallied the Horse. Robinson hit scored another run, and then Bistoff walked, loading the bases. Wall tallied as Lujack beat out an infield hit. Tom Young flied out; Culler grounded out, with Robinson scoring; Zak's single drove in two runs; Mewborn, up the second time in this inning, popped up.

The Greenies scored two runs in the second, fifth and sixth innings, and one run in the ninth. They gathered 14 hits off the two Snow Hill hurlers.

 Williamston, June 1.—Manager Kray Bass of Kinston held Williamston to seven hits, but the Martins collected a half-dozen of those in three scoring innings and edged a 3-4 victory over the cellarites here yesterday. The triumph kept Williamston on top in the Coastal Plain standings, 15 points in front of the Goldbros.

Great relief pitching by Jim Rollins enabled the Martins to come off with victory against the Eagles. He came to the hill with three on and none out in the seventh. Malzano hit to Third-Baseman Deim, whose throw to the plate forced Bass and Sharkey then threw to first to nail Malzano and complete a double play. Schultz ended the inning by lofting to left. Rollins set the Eagles down in one-two-three order in the eighth and ninth—thus turning in the unusual performance of pitching to only eight batters in his three inning turn. He received credit for the victory.

Cellarites Cop 1-Run Margin Victory Over Carolina Sales

The cellarites lawyers defeated the learu-leading Carolina Sales team yesterday, 8 to 7. The losers scored one in the last half of the seventh, but were unable to knot the count and force the game into extra innings. Kitchin McLawhorn pitching for the lawyers for the first time showed up good. Carl Pierce, also playing with the winners aided in the lawyers' second victory of the season.

Troy Burnette, hurtled for the losers and did a good job of it. He also starred in fielding hit balls and at bat.

Carolina Dairy won over Flanagan Burgis company in the other game of the day, scoring a 24-7 victory on hard hitting. Nelson Banks and Bill Moore made homers for the winners.

Goldsboro Bugs Beat Ayden Aces, 9 To 1

Ayden — Dynamite Ignasiak, recent Goldsboro acquisition who swings a mean bat, swung that mean bat to the tune of two homers and a double to pace the Bugs in a 9-1 victory of Ayden yesterday.

Ignasiak batted in five runs and furnished the big punch for the Goldsboro triumph, but Konick turned in a fine brand of pitching to limit the home guard to a single tally. Ayden's score came in the fourth—Johnson and Corrado singled; Corrado was picked off first; Overton to Ignasiak; Joyner popped out; Settle singled.

Except for that fourth stanza, Konick kept Ayden to seven hits. The Bugs made only seven safeties off Lefty Dunn, local boy—but that Ignasiak fellow kept banging long wallops in the clutch.

A smok by Willie Powell opened the game. Coombs flied out, and Jarvis walked. It was here that Ignasiak offered his first homer of the day. A walk to Pitzer and an error added another run in the Bugs' first.

Ignasiak's second homer came in the third with the bases empty. His double drove in a run in the fifth, and he later scored. Pitcher Konick also contributed a double to the Bugs' three-run party in the final verse.

Back Jarvis, Goldsboro third-sacker, turned in fine work afield. Scherholz, Ayden shortstop, did the same. And Brother Ignasiak did right well by the Ignasiak family on defense, too—he handled 18 chances at first base.

Braddock Is Busy

SPORT SLANTS

Watching Jimmy Braddock prepare for his June 22 bout with Joe Louis.

But that is not what interests us. It is Braddock's legs we try to study. If there is any sign of wear in them it is not visible as he boxes sparmates. The champion boxes right up on his toes.

From sparring partners nothing is learned that might lead to believe Braddock's underpinnings are weakening.

"Don't worry about the champ's legs," Sparmate Charlie Massera says. "They're O. K. I do eight miles on the road with him every morning. He's not at all tired at the end."

Tarboro Scores Win Over New Bern Bears
 New Bern, June 1.—Tarboro had three big innings at the expense of three Bruin pitchers and coasted to a 3-1 victory here yesterday.

Pelham, New Bern's starting flinger, grew generous in the second. He filled the bases—on two walks and a hit batsman ticket—with one away. Roye then doubled to send in two runs, and Pelham was through for the afternoon.

Flora, who followed Pelham, got by until the fourth. An error put Runner on first; Henry sacrificed, and then Davis, Carnahan and Roye hit successive singles to account for two runs. Mr. Flora bowed out, and in came Berry. Hautz doubled off, but Carnahan scored on the play.

Berry held the visitors hitless until the eighth. In that inning, Rummer doubled with one away. Henry was safe when his liner was dropped by Thornton and Davis walked to fill the bases. Carnahan

OPEN HEARINGS UNDER WAY ON NEW LABOR BILL

bill introduced last week after President Roosevelt sent a new labor standards legislation message.
Meantime, an objection by Rep. Maverick (D. Tex.) blocked an attempt to get immediate House consideration of an administration resolution to create a House-Senate committee to investigate tax evasions and avoidances.
"I'm tired," he said, "of people coming up here and giving me some mysterious reason why I should do something. I want to know the real reason."
Chairman Doughton (D. N. C.) of the Ways and Means committee had sought a unanimous agreement to bring the measure before the chamber.
Rep. Maverick had urged the House authorities also to authorize an investigation of unemployment and the administration of relief.
He introduced a resolution to create an investigating committee of five and then took the floor to ask members to support it.
Congress, overriding the President's veto, granted World War veterans another five years in which to convert temporary life insurance policies into a more permanent form.

One of the earliest United States patents was granted to John Moon in 1825 on a corn sheller.

PLAN TO TRAP BEAN BEETLES

Campaign Against Plant Enemy to Be Start Shortly

Raleigh, June 2.—Trapping of Japanese Beetles, enemy of more than 200 different kinds of plants, grass roots and grasses, will begin next week when the Department of Agriculture's entomology division staff will place 10,000 "beetle traps" throughout North Carolina.
Green buckets, or beetle traps containing bait for the pests, will be scattered throughout the state as follows:
Wilmington, 200 traps; Wilson, 200 Rocky Mount, 400; Charlotte, 800; Raleigh, 400; Salisbury-Spencer, 800; High Point, 400; Durham, 400; Winston-Salem, 1,200; Greensboro, 800; Elizabeth City, 200; Burlington, 200; Asheville, 400.
Nineteen college students who live in or near the towns in which the traps will be placed, have been employed as trap inspectors. C. H. Brannon, head of the entomology division, announced today. The trapping project is sponsored by the State Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture.
Traps will remain in the fields or on lawns for five or six weeks. Inspectors will examine every trap at least every other day and send in the insects collected for positive identification. "If as many as ten beetles are found in each of the traps, scattered over a wide area, North Carolina will undoubtedly be placed under federal quarantine," Brannon said.
Forsyth, Guilford and Rowan counties, where the beetles are most prevalent, have already been placed under quarantine.
In areas where the beetle quarantine is declared, shipments of plants or plant products are carefully inspected for beetle infestation and must be certified before they can be transported.
The Japanese Beetle first made its appearance in North Carolina five years ago.

but also employees and employers, because only one number will be needed for the old-age benefits plan and the State unemployment compensation plan.
"In announcing that social security account numbers would be issued to workers who were 65 or more, I emphasized that filling of applications by these workers was purely voluntary so far as the Social Security Act was concerned. A great many workers apparently have failed to understand the reason for the Boards extension of registration."
Attempting to clarify some of the tax matters, Mr. Wade explained that no Federal tax for unemployment compensation is levied on employees in commercial and industrial groups in our state.

should be corrected immediately. He said:
"A few weeks ago the issuance of social security account numbers was extended to include workers beyond 65 years of age. This was done in order to aid North Carolina and other states in setting up records for unemployment compensation programs. State unemployment compensation laws cover employees of all ages; whereas the wages received by workers for employment after they reach 65 are not counted toward old-age benefits under the Federal program.
"The use of the account number cards will help not only the States
