OPERATION OF MILL RESUMED AT LUMBERTON

Mansfield Plant Re-opens Without Incident

RELATIONS BODY CALLS WITNESSES

Loyal Workers File Through Lines of Officers as Pickets Stand on Sidelines

Lumberton, June 11.—(AP)—The Mansfield cotton mill reopened without incident today as the Textile Workers Organizing Committee marshalled more witnesses before a Federal Labor Relations Board examiner in its attempt to show the mill management dismissed workers for union activity.

The plant, scene of a weave room strike, had suspended operations yesterday afternoon. Scores of pickets, many of them women, were at the mill entrance as the workers filed into the plant between lines of highway patrolmen and sheriff's deputies.

A mill official, who declined to be quoted by name, said 132 workers, 35 or 40 less than normal, were at their jobs, but Myles Horton, T. W. O. C. organizer, said 64 employees, "one third of them bosses," were in the plant. One mill official said some entered by a back door.

Horton said the closing of the plant at 2 p. m. yesterday was not a new procedure because, he said, the mill had not had enough workers for that shift for some time.

The management denied this, however. The pickets cheered as the highway patrolmen arrived today. They sang and hurled good natured banter as they passed between the lines into the mill.

Capt. Charles Farmer of the State Highway Patrol directed the patrolman at the mill.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY SEEKS CLUES IN SOCIETY KIDNAP

District Attorney Lindsey Henry (center) of Suffolk County, N. Y., took charge of the investigation into the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Alice Parsons, 38-year-old society woman, from her fashionable home near Stony Brook, L. I. He is shown discussing the case with reporters in front of the Parsons home.

No Outside Aid Wanted By Abducted Woman's Family

Stony Brook, N. Y., June 11.—(AP)—In an atmosphere of increasing tension, the husband and wealthy relatives of Mrs. Alice McDonald Parsons, socially prominent Long Island heiress, made a new plea today to be left alone in their efforts to contact supposed kidnapers of the 38-year-old matron.

The request was voiced by Roy McDonnell, brother of the woman missing since Wednesday afternoon. Rain drenched the north shore country side and there were no signs of activity around the house. Two miles away in the Stony Brook village Federal officers awaited word from J. Edgar Hoover, reported en route from Washington to take personal command of the investigation.

A coast guard seaplane came to anchor in a nearby cove of Long Island sound this morning and a man reported to resemble Hoover came ashore. Throughout the night William H. Parsons, gentleman poultry farmer and Yale graduate, waited nervously, hoping each time the telephone rang that he would get word from his wife or abductors.

Eyes red from lack of sleep, he went about his farm duties this morning automatically. Talking to reporters he said "I am in a jam, an awful jam." He declined to discuss the situation further.

The Steel Workers Organizing Committee called a strike for 11 p. m. (EST) in the huge Johnstown, Pa., Cambria mill of Bethlehem Steel to "cooler a walkout."

Home Martin, National President of the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers, ended a motor caravan procession to Monroe from Pontiac, Mich., where automobile workers declared an industrial holiday to protest routing of pickets last night from a Republic Steel corporation subsidiary at Monroe.

The vanguard of about 750 automobile workers turned back from their rallying point 10 miles north of Monroe after cars were halted at the city limits by sheriff's deputies and special officers. They left 34 persons, including two women, in the Monroe county jail as a result of clashes with heavily armed law authorities.

David Watkins, S. W. O. C. sub-regional director, estimated 12,000 of 15,000 employees in Bethlehem vast Cambria mill would be affected by the strike order.

Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt Honor Guest At Annual N. C. Strawberry Festival

First Lady Also Speaks at Nearby Penderlea

Wallace, N. C., June 11.—(AP)—This center of commercial strawberry growing in this part of the United States celebrated one of its best years today with Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, wife of the President, as its honored guest.

From near and far came North Carolinians and others to see a big pageant at the nearby Penderlea homesteads of the resettlement administration and hear Mrs. Roosevelt speak over a national radio hook-up from the strawberry festival here.

Greeted by a United States Army band from Fort Bragg and three unidentified airplanes flying low over a crowd of about 3,000 persons, the nation's first lady went immediately from the train to the residence of Mrs. J. R. Robinson, where she will be a guest for the day.

She was accompanied in an open car by Governor Hoey and Mrs. Robinson. As Mrs. Roosevelt arrived this morning a guard of honor of hundreds of school children and Boy Scouts greeted her.

She breakfasted on food which nearly all was produced in North Carolina as a guest at the State Department of Agriculture's coastal plain test farm, she had grape juice, her choice, of four kinds of berries produced at the test farm, chicken, ham, potatoes and tomatoes from surrounding counties, cream and milk from the test farm dairy. Coffee and rolls rounded out the meal and did not originate in this state.

The first lady of the land visited the Penderlea homesteads and saw some 350 men, women and children now making their homes there transient "from settlement to resettlement."

The three-part show first depicted pioneer settlers petitioning the colonial governor, in 1771 for help in getting established. Colonial costumes were worn by the actors. Moving rapidly to modern times, the next part showed something of the way some of the descendants of those first settlers were reduced to "Gao over Equatorial Africa."

The blazing sun glinted on her plane as it took off at 6:15 a. m. Greenwich mean time (1:15 a. m. EST).

Arrival at Fort Lamy would put Miss Earhart back on her original course she plotted over the wild, sparsely populated Sudan section of Central Africa.

Tempestuous weather had forced her to fly to Gao, slightly north of the direct eastward route from Dakar, French, Senegal, to Khartoum, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, some 2,200 miles from here.

The motion endorsing the program was made by Dr. K. B. Pace, seconded by Dr. W. I. Wooten and unanimously adopted by the entire society.

Dr. Ennett said his program, for the present, would be carried on through: 1—newspapers of the county; 2—women's clubs, which would be provided with speakers upon request; and 3—moving pictures, the films to be provided by American Society for Control of Cancer and American Journal of Cancer.

The report on activities-of the county health department during the past month showed that chief emphasis was placed on typhoid clinics, maternal and infant welfare work, venereal disease clinics and clean-up campaigns in the various towns in the county.

The report, in part, follows: Contagious disease statistics showed for May: diphtheria, three cases, tuberculosis, five cases. No typhoid, scarlet fever, measles, whooping cough nor smallpox.

typhoid clinics for the western half of the County have been completed. Attendance at these clinics was not as large as had been anticipated. Total vaccinated, white 334, colored, 271, grand total 605.

France Drafts Proposal To End Spanish Conflict

Germany And Italy May Return to Naval Patrol

(By Associated Press) A new effort to end the Spanish civil war was drafted officially today by France as non-intervention powers seemed on the verge of winning Germany and Italy back into the neutrality naval patrol.

France suggested the "Hands-Off-Spain" committee, as soon as Germany and Italy resume cooperation with it, seek an end to the nearly year-long Spanish strife by:

- 1—Reinforcing the control plan for far foreign fighters and arms from Spain.
- 2—Withdrawal of all foreign soldiers now in Spain.
- 3—Mediation between the Spanish government and insurgent in London meanwhile, the return of Italy and Germany to the committee, necessary for an effective patrol and for France's plan seemed assured.

An official British spokesman predicted they would agree to Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's four-point plan today and said "no points of disagreement" marked a conference Eden held with the French, German and Italian ambassadors.

Clearing skies in Northwest Spain signaled a new insurgent attack against Bilbao, besieged Basque capital. Aerial forces of General Davila dropped tons of explosives on the city's steel and reinforced concrete "last line" of defense.

No Clean Sweep Expected In State's School Set-Up

Raleigh, June 11.—No clean sweep of the present personnel of the State School Commission is expected to be made by Governor Clyde R. Hoey, despite the fact that strong pressure has been brought to bear upon him by a certain faction of the school forces which would like to have an almost entirely new commission appointed, according to reliable information obtained here today.

But Governor Hoey is understood to have indicated quite forcefully that he has no intention of discharging all the eleven members of the present commission or of turning over the business of alloting $25,000,000 a year of the state's money to the public schools to an entirely new and inexperienced commission.

He is also understood to have indicated just as forcefully that he has no intention of permitting the school commission or the allotment of the school appropriation to be used for the building of a political machine or to further the ambitions of a small group of political ambitious school people.

As a result of these intonations, it is now expected that Governor Hoey will reappoint at least six of the present eleven members of the State School Commission, possibly even more, so that there will be a majority of experienced members on the commission. It is a known fact that Governor Hoey regards money to the public schools to an

ASKS INQUIRY INTO EVASION BY PRESIDENT

Suggestion of Tax Dodging Made By Rep. Fish (R.-NY)

DECLARES 'FARM' PALATIAL HOME

Senator Says He Has Been Informed FDR Deducted Losses On New York Estate

Washington, June 11.—(AP)—President Roosevelt signed a resolution authorizing a broad congressional inquiry into tax dodging today.

The investigation will be conducted by a joint congressional committee of six senators and six representatives, yet to be named.

At about the same time the President signed the resolution, Rep. Fish (R.-N.Y.) suggested on the house floor that the committee should look into the income tax return of President Roosevelt.

Fish said he had been "informed on reliable authority" that Mr. Roosevelt had deducted the losses on "his so-called farm at Hyde Park in my district, which is not a farm, but a palatial residence."

Fish said if the committee was going to investigate anyone, "I suggest that it investigate him."

Fish spoke during a debate on the bill to extend "nuisance" taxes and the three-cent postage rate. He did not amplify his remarks to any great extent.

Meanwhile the senate postoffice committee voted a broad preliminary inquiry of charges of interference with the mails in steel strike areas and of the activities of the steel companies.

Without acting formally either on the Bridges resolution for an inquiry into the mail situation of the Guffey amendment to include activities of the steel companies, the committee voted to call witnesses of both points.

Senator Bailey (D.-N.C.) asked that the Guffey amendment be broadened to include a general investigation of labor conditions and industry generally, but Senator Guffey (D.-Pa.) said it should be confined to the steel industry.

Before taking action the committee was told by W. W. Howes, assistant postmaster general, his department would not become a "commissary delivery department" for steel companies in Ohio's strike bound plants.

The senate was in recess while its postoffice group looked into the mail troubles in the strike area, but the house, in session, took up extension of the "nuisance" tax measure.

Republicans were outspoken in opposition to the $625,000,000 revenue bill, contending common sense in spending would obviate the need for extending the "nuisance" taxes and the three cent postage rate.

Chairman Doughton (D. N. C.) of the Ways and Means committee asserted:

"We require the revenue. Unless we extend the taxes it will be necessary to raise the revenue from some other source."

SURPLUS FOOD USED BY NEEDY

More Than 8,250,000 Pounds Distributed Last Year

Raleigh, June 11.—More than 8,250,000 pounds of surplus farm products were distributed last year to the needy of North Carolina, according to Dean L. O. Schaub, of State College.

These commodities were taken off price-depressed markets in an effort to increase returns to producers and were distributed to families on relief rolls that had little or no buying power, the dean said. The task of removing the surplus was done by the AAA and the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation in cooperation with various state relief agencies, he continued.

The products thus distributed not only helped bolster market prices, the dean said, but also tended to stimulate domestic consumption of agricultural commodities and to prevent waste.

The commodities distributed in North Carolina included: Canned beef, 240,000 pounds; dry skim milk, 120,150 pounds; flour, 1,827,781 pounds; enriched oat meal, 40,000 pounds; rolled oats, 200,000 pounds; fresh apples, 2,760,000 pounds; dried beans, 300,000 pounds. Citrus fruit, 1,538,081 pounds, onions, 280,500 pounds; dried peas, 300,075 pounds; dried prunes, 720,000 pounds; mill feed, 538,381 pounds; raw cotton, 761,828 pounds; and cotton ticking, 134,051 yards.

The dean pointed out that the distribution of these commodities helped needy families, yet did not compete with those who are selling commodities, since these families had no money with which to buy on the open market.

Mrs. Roosevelt on her trip of inspection. Mrs. Roosevelt returned from Penderlea here for luncheon, then visited the strawberry festival and spoke. She was to be entertained at a buffet supper and was to return to Washington by train, leaving at 7:40 tonight.

Wallace is a little town with around 850 population, situated some 50 miles from the Atlantic ocean in Southeastern North Carolina, but city officials claim the berry market here shipped more berries than any other market in the world this year.

This year marked the third time a strawberry festival was staged. Three years ago, just as this section was starting to emerge from the depression, Mayor Aubrey Harrel proposed an annual show to celebrate the strawberry season.

The Port Bray band, 50 uniformed state highway patrolmen and thousands of visitors lent color to the festivities today, the big day of festival week.

Urges Caution In Selecting Site For Summer Camp State Board of Health Official Advises Citizens to Choose Places With Official Approval

Raleigh, June 11.—There is no finer or more healthful recreation in the summer time than vacation camping trips and nothing better for children than to send them to summer camps, according to Dr. George M. Cooper of the State Board of Health.

But it is vitally necessary to select camps for children with great care, in order to know that the drinking water, milk and food supplies are safe and that the camp sanitation is adequate and in accord with the state health laws, Dr. Cooper said. It is also very important for camping parties to select the proper sort of camp site and to be sure that there is no contamination of water milk or food supplies. For those interested in summer camps for children, the Board of Health has prepared a list of approved camps which it will be glad to send to any one on request, Dr. Cooper said.

"For those who like to go on camping trips, either with tents or in the increasingly popular trailers, now becoming so numerous, the larger and more liberally patronized camping places are generally more dangerous, from the standpoint of health, than those where only two or three camping parties can locate," Dr. Cooper said.

"The reason for this is that diseases like typhoid fever and other communicable diseases are spread by carriers or by flies or by direct contamination more easily where larger parties and a larger number of persons congregate and circulate—and especially where most of the cooking and eating is done out of doors, where flies may reach the milk and food.

MURDER ON THE BLUFF

SYNOPSIS: A mysterious shot kills Jude Blinshop, my old flame, at the start of our stormy week-end at Farrington Bluff, home of Michael's aunt. Strange attacks follow; then we find the body of Michael's mad father below the bluff. Stout, Victorian Aunt Martha is shot in the shoulder and nearly finished with sleeping powders. The Skipper, Mike's tall, tweedy younger aunt, disappears; we find her six hours later, bound in the loft, all but dead. Higgins, the old butler, is shot to death, apparently a suicide. Then I notice the gun is in his right hand. And Higgins was left-handed.

Chapter 49

I Set My Trap

I CHECKED them off on my fingers. Gay, Michael, M. Farrington, William, Annie and—yes, and Cook. Ill as she was, Cook could have crossed that hall, fired, pushed the old man over on the bed, placed the gun in his hand and beat a hasty retreat. Any one of them could. And all my efforts at cross-examination only led to lies and defiance. They were shielding either themselves or someone else—every one of them.

I wanted a trap—a trap that no alibi could spring. And I wanted it before they all collected for breakfast and the murderer had a chance to suspect that his plan had not worked.

There was only one question on which any trap could hinge—the reason for the presence of the revolver in Higgins' right hand. It could have been put there because the murderer was ignorant of the fact that it should have been in the left hand, because the murderer forgot in his excitement, or because the murderer desired to throw suspicion on someone else. They all seemed good possibilities. The choice depended entirely upon the identity of the culprit.

Of all the people in the house, Gay was the only person who could have done it out of ignorance. She was also the one person in the house against whom there had been not one shred of evidence at any time. She was impulsive and headstrong. The murderer might or might not be either.

The murderer certainly was cold, logical and capable of swift action. In a crisis Gay was all of those things. It was possible that her rows with Michael had been a safety valve for more nerve strain than she had realized. Yes, Gay was capable of those murders, but I could not remotely guess at a reason behind them.

Michael, on the other hand, certainly knew all of Higgins' characteristics. If Michael had placed that gun in the butler's hand, he had done it because he lost his head. And Michael in such a situation would be quite apt to lose his head.

His aunt, on the contrary, would be very cool. And M. Farrington did not like Gay. I could not help feeling that if M. Farrington were ever aroused to the point of committing a murder, she would not hesitate to cast suspicion on any luckless soul who had incurred her dislike.

It seemed as though both Cook and Annie would have lost their heads in such a situation. But William would be cool as ice. But, without exception, every one of them knew that Higgins was left-handed.

I sought a trap that would hinge around those characteristics as I saw them and around the peculiar circumstances in which the body was found. The sight of the body was not much help. I covered it.

Then I started methodically and worked my way from the bed around the room, under the rug, under the bed, through the pitifully few possessions in the dresser and wardrobe. Not many spoils to show for 70-odd years of hard work. For my purpose, nothing to show at all.

It was a quarter of seven. At any time now the round-up for breakfast was apt to start and something told me that I must question the suspects individually or give up the whole attempt. Hopelessly I stared at that round-up trying to wring its secret from it. A trap! I must spring a trap—now. And my mind was a blank.

I stared down at the figure on the bed and the idea came. Three strides took me into the hall. Conclusive proof or otherwise, I knew what I was going to do.

Panic Seizes Gay

ALL the way to Gay's door I was thinking of only one possibility. What if she wasn't there? But she must be!

"Come in!" called a cheerful voice. "Oh—hello, Jim. I was just going to start down. Why—what's the matter?"

I put a finger to my lips. "Shhhh!" I said hoarsely. "Don't let the others hear you. Come quickly."

She gave me one awful look and the brush in her hand fell clattering to the floor. "Jimmie, what is it? Oh—"

But I clapped a hand over her mouth before the scream was fairly started.

"Quiet!" I hissed. "I've just discovered something they'll all have to see. You'll have to show me how to break it to them."

I had not underestimated Gay Palmer. She was suddenly as calm as if I had merely come to escort her to breakfast. When the panic was completely gone from her eyes I removed my hand.

"Is it Mike?" she demanded levelly. "Don't fool with me, Jim. Is he all right?"

"He's all right," I said, leading her into the hall. That short silent walk to Higgins' room was ghastly. I was obliged to concentrate on all the worst features of the crimes before I could force myself to push open his door. Gay walked in without a sign of alarm, and I followed her closing the door and putting my back against it. Swiftly her eyes swept the room from the bed to the far wall and back to my face.

"Why—what is it?" she said blankly.

There was a dead, heavy weight in my chest. Whatever she had done this was the girl that Michael wanted to marry. Violently I wished that my slow wits had been able to devise something quick and conclusive in place of my slow, questionable scheme.

I was banking desperately on the Skipper's evidence. Briefly, I had reasoned that if one of the servants was the culprit, the Skipper's evidence added to the circumstantial chain which I had built up against them, would be all that was necessary. However, if a member of the Skipper's family or a person who might shortly become a member of it was guilty, the Skipper would lie and also to prove their guilt.

Going back over the scene of the finding of Higgins' body, I had realized that not Michael, Gay or M. Farrington could possibly have seen the body as it lay on the bed. Annie and William had been standing in the doorway, completely blocking off their view. Consequently, if any one of them knew in what position both the body and the gun had been found, that person was the murderer.

I intended to ask each one in turn to help me prove that Higgins was a suicide. The murderer had had plenty of time to ponder over his or her blunders. Therefore, if any one of the three could reconstruct the scene of the crime, satisfying in full all of its peculiar circumstances, that person was the person I wanted. If not, we had simply to wait until the Skipper was well enough to tell her story.

We Hunt the Bullet

"JIMMIE! What ails you? Are you sick?"

I shook my head to clear it. "No," I said. "Just tired. Listen. We'll have to send for the police as soon as someone gets here from shore. And there's something wrong with this. If Higgins killed himself in here, the bullet ought to be here. It's the first thing the police will look for. And I can't find it anywhere."

"Hmmm," said Gay slowly. "That's so." She paused a moment and then her face brightened. "Well, look! He must have been either standing by the bed or sitting on it. If he was standing, the bullet ought to be in the door. If he was sitting, it must be in the wall above or behind the bed. The darned thing could have gone right between those iron bars."

She was assuming that Higgins had used his right hand, and that there was nothing peculiar about the wounds in his head. Hedging for time, I examined the door carefully, felt along the wall above the bed, and even moved the bed to look at the dusty surface behind it.

"That's funny," said Gay. "I had some thinking to do. 'Wait,' I grunted, moving the bed back into place. 'Let me think. Yes, of course! The door was open!'"

If there was anything in her face but an unflattering opinion of my intelligence, I couldn't see it.

"Then the thing must be in the hall, you say?" she said scornfully. I followed her into the hall and examined the wall solemnly. My head wouldn't seem to clear. I had the impression that my bright little scheme was flopping.

Gay's face was worried. "This is ridiculous, Jim. It must be here!"

Was she acting? I played my last card. "Good Lord! Am I a lunkhead! The old boy was left-handed."

Sincere or feigned, there was plenty of disgust in the look she leveled at me. Perhaps I was gullible, but at that moment I was sure that my information meant nothing to Gay Palmer.

PROFESSOR CRUSADES WITH A PILE OF JUNK

York, Neb. (AP)—Tin cans, odd pieces of lead, bits of wire and miscellaneous junk went into the making of Prof. Chris Keim's seismograph.

All he needs now is an earthquake for a real test, "not a big one, of course, just a little one will do."

The York college physics instructor mounted his home-made instrument on two cement blocks and geared it to record only low frequency vibrations. Thus high-frequency tremors which might be caused by a local disturbance will not be charted.

Two 45-inch metal arms, pointed with a phonograph needle, extending to slowly revolving smoke drums which make one revolution an hour. The other ends of the arms, which extend both east and west in order to record quakes from any direction, are attached to 16-pound lead weights suspended from a pair of uprights.

"You see," Keim explains, "the duration and intensity is recorded on the smoked paper, not by the movement of the arm itself, but by the movement of the cement blocks."

Keim constructed the device mostly for fun but now he hopes his experiments will lead to the establishment of a federal seismological station here. There is none in Nebraska now.

The school dentist gave services to 155 pupils unable to provide this service for themselves. He worked only part of the month.

LOOKING FOR TROUBLE

All Prof. Chris Keim of York, Neb., needs is a "little earthquake" to test his home-made seismograph.

The attendance upon the maternal and infant welfare centers shows gratifying improvement. Attendance in March was 40, April 50, May 59. The number of new patients for March was 25, April 25 and May 27.

The Greenville Center has grown to where it is now necessary to use two days a month instead of one day and two physicians instead of one physician. The attendance at the last clinic was 21 new prenatal cases, 12 old prenatal cases and 6 postnatal cases, making a total of 39 maternity cases. In addition, 5 clinic babies were registered. A privies having been constructed with private funds during the month of May. The program will be expanded considerably if, and when, the WPA restores the privy project.

The Greenville and Farmville venereal disease clinics continue to grow in popularity. It is probable that in the near future, a clinic will be opened in Bethel under the auspices of the Health Department, but conducted by the Bethel physicians.

The State Orthopedic Clinic held monthly in Greenville, is rendering gram as rapidly as possible. 32 a great service to this clinic area.

grand total of 44 patients. The Pitt County Well Baby Clinic, heretofore held independent of the maternal clinic will, hereafter, be held in conjunction with the Greenville maternity clinic at the Pitt General hospital.

K. T. Futrell, Welfare Officer, is giving the Health Department fine cooperation in tuberculosis control by furnishing Burr cottages for the segregation of advanced cases. Eight cottages are now in use and three more have been assigned. These cottages, are placed on the yard of the patient. Of course, the Burr cottage, from the standpoint of segregation, protecting others, is worth a good deal, but it cannot take the place of a local sanatorium.

The season for malaria is approaching. The Health Department is working with certain groups of citizens in an effort to get certain malarial drainage projects started through the WPA.

Another item he reported with satisfaction was the dental service recently given the inmates of the County Home by Dr. Paul Fitzgerald.

STATE LAWS BOOST LIVING COST... The Supreme Court of the United States, as justices have often pointed out, does not approve or condemn any legislative policy. It does not decide or consider the wisdom of contested laws. It deals only with the question of whether or not a disputed law passed by government is in accord with the Constitution.

This should be remembered in considering Supreme Court decisions such as the one holding the Louisiana Chain Store tax constitutional. The Louisiana act follows similar acts passed by other states, in levying a progressive tax against chains, based on the number of operating retail outlets. It goes farther than most, in that it considers the number of stores a chain operates in other states as well as in Louisiana. For example, if a chain system has a thousand stores outside Louisiana and 20 stores within, it is taxed on a basis of 1,020 stores.

WHY ORIENTALS BUY GALL STONES STUMPS PACKERS... Chicago. (AP)—A puzzle in the meat packing industry which even the packers cannot solve is — what do orientals do with the gall stones they buy? The stones, one of more than 126 cattle by-products, sell at prices ranging from 75¢ to $125 a pound. Japanese and Chinese buyers snap up all they can get and never haggle the cost.

When asked why they are willing to pay so much, the buyers merely smile and shrug their shoulders. One explanation is that orientals, especially the Chinese, use powdered gall as a base for medicine to build strength, keep themselves awake, reduce fever, revive dying persons and to drive evil spirits from the body. It is also said they use it as a dye for tinting chinaware. The stones, found in the gall bladder of mature cows and steers, vary in size from a pinhead to a bird's egg. Packers say that 100,000 cattle yield about one pound of gall stones.

THE KING'S WHISKERS For a Trademark, Card Companies Twist 'Em

(1) CUTTING Playing cards are printed on big sheets and then go through a brass of cutters.

(2) SMOOTHING Next they are clamped into decks while their edges are carefully sandpapered.

(3) BEAUTIFYING Cheap cards are prettied by having liquid "gold" sprayed on their edges.

(4) CHECKING The final step is inspection by a girl who "fans" them out as though playing bridge.

Chicago. — How to foil folks who'd like to read their opponents' hands—that's a fundamental problem in making playing cards. The answer, says a Chicago company, is black paste. Used to glue together two sheets of heavy paper, it prevents the spots from showing through.

It's 'Women's Fault' The company, which says it sells three million decks a year, blames women for the size of bridge cards. Poker players want, and get, their cards large—two and one-half by three and one-half inches. This was regulation size for all cards until women took up bridge and found it made a fan too large to hold comfortably. So bridge decks were designed a quarter of an inch narrower. Instead of using a patented trade mark, manufacturers earmark their designs by giving the king's whiskers an original curve, or the jack a slightly different smirk.

What Determines Cost How much you pay for a deck depends on how many colors are used for the backs, whether the cards are run through a linen press to give them a rough surface and whether the edges are sprayed with imitation gold dust or laid with real gold leaf. If you're interested in quality, keep a record of your deals. A deck that holds up for 500 must have been made of pretty good paper. It takes first-rate stuff to make a 1,000 deal deck.

DELIVERS LETTER HE PAID TO MAIL Bristow, Okla. (AP)—It cost RAY Miller 39 cents to send a letter to a girl living in the same town and then he had to deliver it himself. Miller, a rural mail carrier, said he wrote asking the girl for a date. He paid one cent for a stamp, 15 cents for registry, 10 cents for an address—only designation and three cents for a return receipt. When time came for delivery,

Hollywood Sights And Sounds By Robbin Coons

Hollywood — Judith Allen feels no excess friendliness for her second ex-husband, Jack Doyle, but she says she could have been persuaded to do that British picture with him if they'd met her price—$10,000, plus expenses for herself and mother.

"They wanted to capitalize on my personal affairs," she said, and that's worth money. Oh, I wouldn't have minded if they'd seen him, I wouldn't have had to see him except on the sets, a variety business.

This was novel, finding an unfriendly divorcee in Hollywood. So many of our divorces turn sugar after the charges and blows have been exchanged in court. Some of the divorcees, like the former Mrs. James, Lombard and Powell did it swimmingly, so did Sullivan and Fonda—even if Ariel and Callan couldn't get together. The Alphen-Doyle combination — he's the Irish fighter—would have been interesting in the circumstances: a real test in Judith's acting talents.

Instead she's trying them out again in a series of four pictures for the new Standard company, leading with "The Dear Enemy" of James Fenimore Cooper. Judith, who's had more real career than reel, is counting on the frontier-life yarn to accelerate the latter. She's been in pictures ever since De Mille gave her the big send-off, but she's aiming for the bigger features. A British tour amazed her: she hadn't known they liked her there.

While we were talking — Judith, her mother and I—a British correspondent phoned to check on reports that Judith was adopting a baby. Judith said it wasn't so, but she planned to adopt one some time — she was crazy for a little girl, for a girl and a boy, in fact. Mother opined that four baby-dogs were enough for mother to take care of at present, and that Judith ought to wait until she got married and had children of her own.

"I guess," said Judith ruefully, her blue eyes clouded. "I'm not the marrying kind. I mean," she corrected hastily, "I'm not the stay-married kind." Not even DeMille knew that his "discovery" for "The Day and Age" was really Mrs. Gus Sonnenberg until a reporter unearthed the facts. Gus was in town, and he spilled it when the publicity mill ground out a fabrication about a Gary Cooper romance with Mrs. Gus. Judith denied the marriage as long as she could, and then fled from DeMille's expected wrath. DeMille, remember, had billed her as a "virginal Diana." I thought DeMille always got sorer than a strike picket's heel when an actress fooled him that way, but Judith said he was kindly and paternal and even laughed about it as a joke on himself. As for Judith's mamma, I think the revelation must have been a relief. She'd been going to see Judith's movie four or five times a week, just sitting and looking, and never telling a soul that the girl was her own daughter. Just a dog story. Actor down on his luck finally got a break. Had a sick dog, convalescent from pneumonia. Took dog to studio to give it personal care while working. Friends discovered extent of personal care: actor ordered one lunch, ate the soup and salad, asked the waitress to put the entire, beef stew, in a bag "to take out." Dog took all.

New Plant at Fifth and Albemarle to Open Saturday

Greenville's newest automobile service station will begin operation tomorrow morning when the Fifth and Albemarle Esso station will open officially.

The new station, as its name implies, is located at the intersection of Fifth and Albemarle streets. It will be prepared to care for many needs of automobile owners. Besides handling gas, oil, grease, etc., it will be equipped for washing, polishing and minor mechanical adjustments.

Robert Dowd, a graduate of East Carolina Teachers College, and Edgar Leonard, who received his high school training at Kansas State College will operate the station as partners.

As an added attraction on its first day of operation the two managers announced today they would give a card to every person purchasing 10 gallons of gasoline tomorrow which would entitle him to one gallon of motor oil any time during the month. A person buying five gallons of gas will be entitled to a card worth one-half gallon of motor oil.

Students Edit Readerless Paper Gainesville, Fla. (AP) — When the Florida Argus is "put to bed," the staff can, if it wishes, go along to bed, too.

The Argus is the state's only unpublished newspaper. The class in journalism at the University of Florida, with the cooperation of the Gainesville Sun and The Associated Press, makes up everything just as if the paper would appear on the streets.

And then they're finished. No presses roll or newsboys wait, and there is no next edition coming up for a week.

If one shallow irrigation well does not give a sufficient water supply, then several such wells should be installed in a straight line about 40 or 50 feet apart.

Musical Summer At Duke Being Planned

Durham, June 11.—Students of the 1937 summer sessions of Duke university will enjoy a full and varied program of music. There will be regular carillon, organ, and choral programs throughout the summer.

Anton Brees, carillonneur to the university, began his sixth summer series of recitals on the Duke chapel organ last Sunday. He is to give carillon programs on Thursday evenings and Sunday afternoons throughout the summer.

Paul S. Robinson will return as summer organist. He is to give recitals in the university chapel twice a week, on Sunday and Thursday afternoons. He has a graduate degree in music from the Curtis Institute and is musical director at one of the Philadelphia churches.

The summer school choir will be under the direction of W. M. Upchurch, Jr., who during the past winter directed the choir of the Duke Memorial church in Durham. The choir will be heard at Sunday morning worship services in the chapel. Last year's group numbered more than 100 voices.

The popular Sunday evening sings are to be continued under the direction of Miss Mary Grace Wilson of the summer school staff, and J. B. Gentry, graduate student from Simpsonville, S. C. The weekly songfest, held during the summer on the campus near Crowell clock tower, is one of the newer Duke traditions. The programs were held during the last academic year on the Woman's college campus.

Allen Thompson Rabe, soloist with the summer school choir and teacher of singing, will offer vocal instruction on the campus throughout the summer. Prof. W. P. Twadell, director of the Durham Choir school, is to give an intensive course for supervisors of music, choral conductors, and church choir directors during the week of June 14-19.

Farmers in Cheyenne County Nebraska, have formed precinct organizations — not for political purposes but to fight grasshoppers. Crews will scatter poison bait over the entire county.

Dividing the pasture and allowing one part to grow while the other is being pastured will increase the total yield, says H. W. Cave, Kansas State College dairy husbandryman.

BLUEBLOOD DOG SCHOOL OPENS DOORS TO MUTTS

(By the A. P. Feature Service)

FENCE-STRADDLING
Pittsburgh's swanky club for teaching police dogs everything from guarding to parlor tricks has let down the bars. So now all kinds of dogs—even mongrels—may get the same instruction as smart scholars like the hind-legged trotter and his hurdling colleague who really can take the 10-foot jump when he doesn't stop to admire the view. The change was made for the sake of fairness to dog owners but an assistant trainer says "I've often felt that mutts are even more intelligent than the highly touted thoroughbreds I've been training for years."

FUN AT RECESS
President Frank Freeman's dog likes to play leap frog with him when classes are not in session. The club, which has 20 members, holds school every Sunday. Each member owns from one to five dogs, pays $5 year dues. Secret of the training, which starts at six months, is patience. Kiplidy teachers help the dogs learn through repetition by guiding them with a heavy chain collar.

RESISTING TEMPTATION
When the school is finished with him, the dog is more loyal to his master than ever. He will attack anyone who raises a hand at his master, will refuse food from anyone but him. Even Chief Trainer Fritz Freude cannot tempt Mrs. Helen Hilton's dog into taking a bite. Mrs. Hilton is the only woman member of the club.

Machines Pick Men For Austrian Army

PENCIL PUSHERS
Leading a small pencil through the roads mapped on these rotating drums—without touching the margins—is just one of the intricate tests the Austrian soldier must conquer if he is to become an officer.

VIENNA (AP)—The Austrian soldier ambitious to become an officer or specialist must wratch his wits against a tough array of men and machines.

To investigate his emotional stability, the prospective officer is shown pictures of a murder, a badly mutilated war victim, an airplane crash, and various erotic subjects. His breathing tells his reactions through an apparatus strapped to his chest.

All Kinds of Gadgets
To ascertain concentration, he is taken before a revolving belt covered with circles, squares, crosses and lines. Only a part of the belt is exposed at a time. Whenever a bell rings he is expected to do three things at once, such as covering blue squares with red discs, counting all yellow squares as they appear, and transferring other discs from one compartment to another.

If he wishes to become an aviator, he must look into a strong light and then read a series of letters in a dark room while the time he requires is clocked off. This is the night blindness test.

Then he goes to a long table where three foot-high pins at one end are attached to pulleys at the other end, 20 feet distant. Sighting through narrow slits, he must move the pulleys until the pins are even. If he can't do this satisfactorily he hasn't the ability to discern ground objects from airplanes.

Tough Examination
If we want to become a chauffeur, he must get into a modified automobile and steer, stop and accelerate according to instructions flashed on a screen before him.

Finally he must indicate his intelligence and book knowledge in a written examination administered by a battery of officers and psychologists.

Between 4,000 and 5,000 soldiers take the tests every year, perfected by Major Kurt Feshner on the basis of findings by American and German psychologists and military men.

BAR TENDER
Sifting heavy bars according to quickly flashed orders is another test for the prospective Austrian officer.

WAGE CONTEST FOR JUDGESHIP

Governor Hoy Expected Name Superior Jurist Soon

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, June 11.—The contest for the appointment as the new superior court judge in the new Twenty-first Judicial District, created by the 1937 general assembly, consisting of Surry, Stokes, Caswell and Rockingham counties, is becoming both hotter and closer as the date for the appointment to be announced draws nearer. It is agreed here.

Governor Clyde R. Hoy is expected to make the announcement some time next week. There is now considerable doubt here as to whom he will appoint.

Most opinion here is that the new judgeship will be given either to Allen H. Gwyn of Reidsville, Rockingham county, the present solicitor of the eleventh district, or to E. C. Bivens of Mount Airy. Until recently most observers here felt that Gwyn was way out in the lead for the appointment and would undoubtedly get it. But recently reports indicate that Gwyn by no means has the appointment sewed up, that Bivens has been getting and still is getting very serious consideration.

In the first place, Bivens was a Hoyey-for-Governor supporter in the first as well as the second primary, despite the fact that Surry county went for Lieutenant Governor A. H. (Sandy) Graham in the first primary by a good sized majority and that A. D. (Lon) Folger of Surry was Sandy's campaign manager. For during the time that the Folger-Llewellyn faction, which is conceded to virtually control Surry county and Surry county politics, was beating the drums and the woods for Hoyey and didn't care who knew it, according to the reports going the rounds here. And as things finally turned out, Bivens bet on the winning horse, while the Folgers and the Llewellyns didn't come out so good.

Evidently realizing that the 1936 primary is water over the dam and under the bridge and that there is no use in trying to keep old political scores from healing, it is understood that John Folger, his son, Fred Folger and Harry Llewellyn have now openly endorsed Bivens for the judgeship and don't care who knows it, although it is a well known fact that the Folgers and Llewellyns. But politically potent A. D. (Lon) Folger has not yet joined with his kinsmen in endorsing Bivens. It is understood. One reason for this, observers here believe, is that Lon feels he cannot endorse any one who opposed Sandy Graham in the primary campaign since he was Sandy's manager. Another and some believe a more potent reason for Lon's failure to endorse Bivens, is that Lon is more interested in seeing Senator Gilmer Sparger of Stokes appointed solicitor than in who is named judge, and that Sparger can't hope to be named solicitor unless Gwyn is appointed judge, according to reports going the rounds here.

All of which is believed to have Governor Hoyey is something of a strut. For many believe that he would like to appoint Bivens, who was his strong supporter in a county where most of the leaders were for Graham, and where most of these leaders are now urging the appointment of Bivens. Some believe that the appointment of Bivens would now bring Surry county snugly into the Hoyey fold and heal all the old bad feeling that developed during the 1936 primary—except for Lon. For Lon is National Democratic Committeeman and in addition to his influence in Surry county has a following all over the state. And by failing to endorse Bivens, Lon is believed to be giving his consent if not his indorsement to the naming of Gwyn.

Then Gwyn has a considerable following, not only in his home town of Reidsville and county of Rockingham, but throughout the old eleventh district, from which this new district has been carved. And Gilmer Sparger up in Stokes also has his friends a following of note. So Governor Hoyey could take away a large following from Rockingham and Stokes counties into his vest pocket by appointing Gwyn judge and Sparger solicitor, as just observers here have expected him to do until recently. In addition, he could retain the good will of Lon Folger.

Admittedly, the Governor is in something of a tight spot with regard to the appointment of this new judge and solicitor and political circles here are waiting eagerly to learn what his decision finally will be.

Artificial radium can be produced in nearly all the 92 natural chemical substances by stream bombardment. But it can't always be extracted. At the Imperial College of Science and Technology in London it has been discovered that artificial radium particles, trying to get away from a hot wire, fall back into dust or gases containing them.

Ayden, June 11.—Monk Joyner's Ayden Aces backed up the latest the local additions to their mound staff. Fieber and Andreoli with a 20-inning attack to subdue Greenville yesterday, 14-6. The defeat was the first for the Greenies in five starts, and served to drop them into a tie with Doc Smith's New Bern Bears for fifth place.

Fieber, obtained from the Charlotte club of the Piedmont league, blanked the Greenies for five innings and during his turn of a little more than seven frames, allowed only five hits. He turned wild in the eighth, however, and gave way to Andreoli, Belhaven boy, with none out, the bases full and one run in.

The Aces started right in to work on John Delaney, Greenville starter, and hammered the Richmond lad for 10 hits and six runs in four and one-third innings. Freddie Calliguri fared even worse as relief hurler. After blanking the Aces for four innings, the Aces again broke loose in the eighth for an eight-run splurge which sewed the old ball game up for Ayden. The Aces batted around in this inning. Monk Joyner hit for the circuit with two on bases. Faust Johnson homered in the first inning, following Jirak's single.

Jirak, Ace Third-Sacker of the Aces, led the Ayden club with the willow. He hit safely four times in five turns. Faust Johnson collected two singles in addition to his homer for runners-up honors. Webster Koozts and Rudisill of the Greenies with two hits each paced Greenville.

Ayden plays Greenville this afternoon at Third Street park, and you can bet your bottom dollar the locals are out to get even for the defeat handed them yesterday by the Aces.

TOBACCONISTS IN 11 TO 8 WIN

Defeat Tadlock Mutual Insurance Nine Yesterday

TODAY'S GAMES

Farrigan vs. Lawyers (College Diamond)

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
Person-Garrett 11, Tadlock 6.
(No other league game)

STANDINGS

Carolina Sales	7	2	778
Person-Garrett	6	3	667
Tadlock Ins.	5	4	556
Carolina Dairy	5	4	556
Person-Harvey	4	5	444
Coburn's	2	4	333
Person's	2	5	286
Lawyers	2	6	250

Person-Garrett proved entirely too much for Tadlock Mutual Insurance agency's softball team yesterday and walked off on the long end of a 11 to 6 count.
The insurance men were never able to cause the tobacconists any trouble. Getting the lead early in the game, the Person-Garrett players never relinquished it. They batted effectively at bat to pile up its runs and were alert in the field to bring down runs by their foes.
Carolina Dairy won over Blount-Harvey, 8-6, in a game yesterday afternoon by consent of both sides the contest was counted only to the sixth inning. The teams already having played the contest needed no further play. The contest did not count in the club standings.

A contested game between Coburn Shoe store and Farrigan Buggy company never has been decided in this town, it is not being counted in the standings. League officials are expected to try to get a meeting in the near future.

New Bern Edges Win Over Goldsboro Nine

Goldsboro—New Bern tallied six runs in each of the last two innings to edge a 4-3 win over Goldsboro yesterday.

The contest, opened with Williamston at the top place, dropped Goldsboro from top place in the league standings. The Bugs now are tied with Williamston on a game's day but trail by eight points in percentage.

Bill Hamons got the pitching assignment with Whitehead in yesterday's battle here. The locals dealt the six on Ignasiak's side, a walk, and a pair of sacrifices. He pitched the Bears held on in the seventh and then proceeded to win Whitehead's run. Knowles singled to start this verse. Evans bunted, Whitehead failed to cover, and the ball rolled slowly into right-field. Powell, second-sacker, had gone over to cover first. This put Knowles in a hole, and he scored on Bing Miller's fly.

Hamons by Black, Mullinax, and Knowles' first hit New Bern's ninth-inning run.

A walk by Knowles drove in a run for the Bears in the opening inning. Black singled in the second, advanced on an error and an infield out, and scored on Evans' fly.

Goldsboro scored in the second on a walk to Adairick, his stolen base, and Bana's double.

Hamons and Whitehead were even in walks—each passed five. Hamons fanned seven; Whitehead, three.

Balls, with two for two, topped the Bugs' attack. Knowles, with three for four, and Black, with three for four, and Black, with three for five, led the visitors in hitting.

Snow Hill Cets Win From Kinston, 5 to 3

Kinston—Superb relief pitching by Iby Wright, former Carolina star, featured Snow Hill's 5-3 victory over Kinston Thursday afternoon. Wright gave up only two hits in four innings.

Each club scored a run in the first. Hits by Wall and Robinson followed a walk and gave the Billies their lead; the Eagles' resulted from two walks. G. Gilenwater's single, and a pass which forced in a score.

Snow Hill scored twice in second. Young singled, and Rabb doubled. Gilenwater's single sent Rabb home, and Rabb's double out scored Young, and Rabb's single sent Rabb home.

Snow Hill got this back in the seventh—Robinson and Bistoff singled, and Robbie scored on Young's outfield fly.

Kinston also got one in its half of seventh—Gillenwater walked, and scored, and talked on Wright's single.

Robinson homered in ninth to clinch the win for the visitors.

TOUGH ON TONY

THE OPEN TITLE USUALLY GOES TO THE GOLFER WHO IS HOT ON THE RIGHT PAYS—LIKE MANERO A YEAR AGO

Sport Slants

By PAP

Tony Manero will have a big job on his hands. When he defends the national open golf title the odds will be very much against him.

The open dates back to 1911. Only three champions have successfully defended in 1904 Willie Anderson shot 303 to retain the title he had won the year before. He won again in 1915, with 314.

J. J. McDermott was in 1911 after finishing in a tie with Mike Brady and George Simpson. He was too good for the field the following year when he scored 291 over the Buffalo C. C. course.

In 1930, the year of the grand slam, Bobby Jones retained the championship he had won at the Windward Foot G. C. in 1929. No other champion since Jones has won two in a row.

Still, it would be unwise to sell Tony short. Remember his amazing finish at Baltusrol last June? From the moment Manero teed off in the sectional qualifying round, until he scored that amazing 67 to take the title, he played a kind of golf that bordered on the unbelievable.

Playing at Charlotte, N. C. in the sectional test, Tony was forced to shoot a 33 and make a birdie on the last hole to get to the open championship.

In the qualifying round at Baltusrol he had to play off a tie for one of the last places available. It took a birdie three on the third extra hole to get in.

Going into the final 18 of the championship, he needed a 68 to win. Tony's answer was a record-breaking 67. A man playing that way cannot be defeated.

The open title usually goes to the golfer who happens to be "hot" on the days the tournament is played. He need not necessarily be the best golfer in the land over a long

STUDENTS PAY TUITION COSTS IN BLOOD MONEY

Austin, Tex. (AP)—Blood money helps pay the tuition of some University of Texas students. Hospitals frequently call for blood donors — at $25 a pint — from the student body. Some donors have given as many as five transfusions in nine months.

"It doesn't hurt," said one. "You just feel a little sleepy when you get through."

For half an hour after the student has given blood he rests, sips orange juice, and then returns to his room.

"It's just another way to earn money," commented one donor.

Williamston Regains Coastal League Lead

Williamston—Grant Jefferson pulverized Tarboro Thursday afternoon as the Martins went about the business of getting back into the picture in Coastal Plain League play. The resulting 3-0 win put Williamston eight percentage points ahead of Goldsboro, which lost to New Bern and fell from second to the runner-up spot.

Jefferson opposed Danny O'Yrk in a hard-fought hurling duel. Jefferson yielded eight hits, fanned four, walked one; Yark yielded four hits, fanned three, walked one and made a wild pitch, which in the first run of the game, the Martin batter had a chance to edge on his rival in the count.

Williamston won in a hurry. McCay doubled off the left-field fence to start the second inning. Stevens lost out an attempted sacrifice. A wild pitch by Yark let Stevens and two walks put Stevens on third, and Jefferson's infield out scored Stevens.

The other score came in the eighth. Staney singled, stole second and continued on to third when Carter's bunt went to the cut-field, and scored on Motley's second out of the day.

The Serpents' best chance to score came in the second. Rimmer singled, Henry singled Hammer to third, and then stole second. Lou-nie flied out, Flint fanned, and Rye went out on a grounder.

Solly Myers, and Howard Eep, rona shotstopper, took defensive honors.

Rimmer, with two singles and a double, topped both clubs in hitting. He turned in a circus catch to get a share of the fielding laurels.

Stanley and McCay, each with a double and a single, paced the Martin's attack.

BEST GARDENS CONTEST ENDS

Individual Winners Declared and Cash Awards Made

Raleigh, June 11.—Winners in the annual fall and winter garden contest, conducted each year among home demonstration club women, were announced today by Miss Mary E. Thomas, extension nutritionist at State College.

The individual state-wide winners and the cash awards which they will receive are: Mrs. Albert Bridle, Stokesdale, Rockingham county, first prize, $20; Mrs. India Quinn, Rich Square, Northampton county, second prize, $12.50; Mrs. Annie F. Sewell, Jonesboro, Lee county, third prize, $7.50, and Mrs. Unie Hamric, Shelby, Cleveland county, fourth prize, $5.00.

The County Councils of home demonstration clubs in the four counties having the highest percentage of women enrolled in the contest and completing the most records also were given prizes in similar amounts as the individual winners. These counties are Rutherford, first; Pamlico, second; Cumberland, third, and Union, fourth.

The garden contest which began October 1 and ended March 31, is held each year to stimulate greater interest in year around gardens. Miss Thomas declared. It is conducted by the State College Extension Service in cooperation with the Chilean Nitrate of Soda Educational Bureau, which donated funds for the cash awards.

The contest is sponsored by the County Council of home demonstration clubs in each county with the president of the council and the county garden leader, assisted by the garden leader in each local club, directing the contest.

Any home garden grown by a rural white family in North Carolina is eligible for entrance into the contest, Miss Thomas said.

New York, June 11.—(AP)—Bearish forces had things much their own way in today's stock market and leading issues dipped fractions to two or more points. Dealings were at a crawling pace throughout.

High grade bonds did better but secondary loans were without recovery vigor. Commodities were uneven with the majority down.

Leading issues were sold at losses of fractions to three or more points. Near the close volume picked up a bit over Thursday and transfers were around 700,000 shares.

IT'S HARD TO COLLECT FROM U. S. CLAIMS COURT

Washington (AP)—Claims for some $3,150,000 pending against the government in the United States court of claims look like a potential body blow to budget balancing—if you don't look at the record.

But in the last four years the court has awarded an average only of from 1.03 to 5.24 per cent of the amounts claimed. In 1935 awards totaled $8,642,161, after deducting counterclaims won by the government in 409 suits demanding $145,000,000.

Biggest single case on the docket, filed in 1921 by the late Robert Lee Wright, claims $122,250,000 for alleged patent infringement by the government in the manufacture of all shells fired in the World-war.

Duke Sweeps Spring Sports Durham (AP)—Sweeping three of four championships in Big Five and Southern Conference circles, Duke University teams had the most successful spring sports season in their history.

As far as can be determined, it marked the first time one institution made off with so many titles in one season. The Blue Devils won baseball, track and golf laurels.
