NON-STRIKERS RESUME WORK AT JOHNSTOWN

No Further Disorders as Workers Enter Steel Plants

CALM FOLLOWS SHARP VIOLENCE

Company Police Estimate Virtually Entire Normal Shift Entered Mills

Johnstown, Pa., June 17.—(AP)—An undetermined number of steel workers returned to work today in the embattled Cambria plants of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. There were no disorders.

Non strikers slipped into the huge works as Washington police appeals to intervene in the labor controversy which has made 100,000 idle in a strike called by the Steel Workers Organizing Committee.

The strike is directed against the Republic Steel Corporation, Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, Inland Steel and the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

Before President Roosevelt today were appeals from Mayor Daniel Shields of Johnstown and Governor Martin Davey of Ohio, who failed to bring the union and corporation together.

Lieut. Charles Cook, officer of the state police guards who have taken over patrolling picket lines at Cambria, said many non-strike entered the plant during the calm that followed a quick burst of violence last night in which two pickets were stabbed.

Company police asserted virtually the entire normal day shift entered the mills untroubled.

Lawrence To Ask For Elections In Lumberton Mills

Carolinas Administrator for The TWOC Announces Aim Ask Labor Board Hold Vote Soon

Charlotte, June 17.—(AP)—Roy Lawrence, Carolina administrator for the Textile Workers Organizing Committee, announced today he would ask the National Labor Relations Board to order an employee election in two Lumberton mills which have refused to recognize the TWOC for collective bargaining.

This announcement came a few hours after H. B. Jennings, president of the Mansfield mill and Jennings mill, had declared he would not negotiate with the C. I. O. union because, he said, it did not represent a majority of the employees.

Lawrence contended in his statement today the TWOC had enrolled about 85 per cent of the Lumberton workers.

The Jennings mill had been closed as a result of a strike. Operations have been continued at the Mansfield plant, normally employing 650, although a group of seven room employees went on strike several days ago.

Secretary Sets Up Board To Mediate Controversies Arising In Steel Industry

Miss Perkins Names Group With Approval of President

Washington, June 17.—(AP)—Secretary Perkins announced today appointment of a three-man board to mediate all current steel disputes.

She named Charles Taft, Lloyd Garrison and Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward McGrady.

They will serve as a Federal Steel Mediation Board authorized to investigate, conduct hearings, make findings of fact and act as "voluntary arbitrator" if both sides in the controversy so request.

Miss Perkins said the board would set up headquarters at Cleveland immediately.

She said McGrady, who is returning from Europe, would arrive in the United States Saturday night.

The secretary said she had been in communication with Taft and Garrison and they would start to work at once.

She said President Roosevelt had given his approval to her executive order creating the board.

"I discussed the matter with President Roosevelt Monday and at the time he agreed if no settlements were reached before we came to this it should be done," the secretary said.

Japan Refuses To Accept Roosevelt Armament Plan

STRIKE THREAT FELT FOR OHIO

Sit-Down Looms In Big Steel Mills Of Mahoning Valley

Cleveland, Ohio, June 17.—(AP)—The threat of a sit-down strike in the great steel mills of the Mahoning Valley developed today as Secretary of Labor Perkins announced the appointment of a three-man board to mediate the long-fought strike deadlock.

The Federal board will conduct its fact finding investigation in Cleveland. The White House move to end the bitter "battle of steel," the clash between John Lewis' C. I. O. and four independent steel companies who have flatly refused to sign labor contracts followed an urgent telegraphic appeal to President Roosevelt by Governor Martin Davey of Ohio and a similar plea by Mayor Daniel Shields of Johnstown, Pa.

Mrs. Perkins said the board would set up headquarters immediately.

Appointment Of Barnhill Regarded As Clever Move

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, June 17.—The most tasty morsel on the political plate here right now for political speculators to roll under their tongues, is speculation on the effect the appointment of Judge M. V. Barnhill of Rocky Mount to the state supreme court will have on the political ambitions of Itimous T. Valentine of Nashville, outstanding "liberal" and on the future plans of the "liberals" in the state as a whole.

Some think that Governor Clyde R. Hoey executed as neat a double play as any big league baseball player when he named Judge Barnhill to the Supreme Court and at the same time appointed Walter J. Bone of Nashville, law partner of Congressman Harold L. Cooley, the rising youngster from Nash who has been becoming an increasing worry to the "old guard" in the state, as Superior Court Judge to succeed Judge Barnhill. They do not see how the friends of either Barnhill or of Bone can now object to the appointments or how Cooley can now do anything but make peace with the Hoey administration.

A good many also think that these appointments have put liberal

Rejects 'Last Appeal' For Curb on Naval Arms Race

Tokyo, June 17.—(AP)—An authoritative source asserted today Japan had decided to refuse a secret proposal made by President Roosevelt for the limitation of naval armaments to guns of 14-inch caliber.

The substance of the Japanese reply to what was described as the United States President's "last appeal" for a curb on the world naval arms race was expected to be that Japan adheres to the point of view that reduction of gun calibers from 16 to 14 inches will not achieve disarmament.

Japan would insist, this source said, genuine arms reduction could be obtained only through a definite quantitative curtailment.

President Roosevelt was said to have initiated the proposed reduction through U. S. Ambassador Joseph Grew recently at the request of Great Britain.

Great Britain reportedly felt Japan was more likely to agree to a limitation to 14-inch guns if a "last appeal" was made by the United States.

Officers At Odds On Parsons Case

Stony Brook, N. Y., June 17.—(AP)—Sharply growing differences of opinion between the federal men and Suffolk county authorities investigating the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Alice McDonnell Parsons, Long Island society matron, was evidenced today as the government agents pursued a kidnapping theory, the others expressing the belief she was slain.

A Suffolk county official, who asked his name be withheld, said the county and state authorities and the agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation were reaching a climax in their relations.

LIQUOR BOARD FILES REPORT

Statement Shows Enforcement Activities and Financial Status

A report on the law enforcement activities of the Pitt County Alcoholic Beverage Control board also a financial statement were issued today by Charles O. H. Horne, chairman.

Of this net profit more than $26,000 was realized from the two stores in Greenville. Of the eight stores operated in the county only one showed a loss for the period, that being at Fountain, Chairman Horne said in his report, as well as the county commissioners, had decided to continue operating the Fountain store as they felt it was their duty from a control standpoint.

The five per cent set aside for law enforcement purposes has not been deducted from the $44,000 profit.

Insurgents Climb The Last Two Hills On Western Entrance to Basque Capital

London, June 17.—(AP)—Lloyd's agent at Gibraltar cabled today the Italian steamer Madda had been bombed by Spanish government aircraft off Oran, Algeria, but that she was not hit.

The Madda, a 5,181-ton steamer out of Genoa, was damaged, however, from the concussion of the bomb explosion.

(By Associated Press) Insurgent General Francisco Franco's legions pushed a broad offensive toward the edge of Bilbao today, occupying the international air field and climbing the last two hills at the western entrance to the Basque capital.

The invaders slowly closed the last gaps in their plan of encirclement and mapped a new drive on Santander, 45 miles west of Bilbao.

Indications were the march on Santander would begin at nightfall should Franco's soldiers succeed in bottling up Bilbao and occupying it by that time.

There were rumors the Basques and their Asturian allies were planning to dynamite the rich and industrial capital rather than let it fall into the hands of the insurgents.

Insurgent shock troops, fully equipped to cope with Basques, in last stand street fighting, massed at the outskirts of Bilbao ready for a quick assault to "save" the city from such destruction.

Advices reaching Hendaye, on the Franco-Spanish border, said Franco's forces had crossed the Nervion river both north and south of Bilbao.

Insurgents also reportedly captured three government boat loads of 3,000 refugees fleeing the besieged city.

Morgenthau First Witness Be Heard On Tax Evasions

Expresses Hope Publicity Will Put Stop to Tax Dodging

Washington, June 17.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau told a congressional inquiry committee today he hoped "continued publicity" on methods of alleged tax evasion and tax avoidance would help to stop tax dodging.

Morgenthau, first witness at the joint Senate - House investigation into evasion and avoidance asserted a "variety of devices to avoid taxes" have been used in recent years. "The situation calls for remedial legislation," he said.

Morgenthau's statement contained no names of asserted tax evaders or avoiders.

Treasury officials, however, reported that a list of names had been compiled for later submission to the joint committee.

In a statement read to the committee Morgenthau struck repeatedly at rich tax payers who, he said,

DECLINE OPEN LIQUOR STORE AT FOUR OAKS

One For Kenly, However, Is Authorized By State Board

DELAY DECISION AS TO PRINCETON

Rulings Rendered After Three Johnston Towns had Engaged in Warm Debate

Raleigh, June 17.—(AP)—After debate waxed warm at a hearing on the possibility of opening liquor stores at Princeton, in Johnston County, the State Alcoholic Control Board withheld a decision today in the matter, authorized opening of a store in Kenly, and declined to approve one for Four Oaks.

During the hearing Cutler Moore, state board chairman, commented no liquor stores would be allowed "in the county."

Three groups of citizens appeared before the board about the matter, though the Johnston county board had only asked permission to operate stores at Smithfield, Selma, Benson and Clayton. After the hearing the county board asked permission to put stores at the three places in question.

Dry and wets appeared at the Kenly hearing, the Rev. C. F. Allen speaking in opposition to a store and pointing out the town voted dry. Then Paul Grady of Kenly spoke for advocates of stores.

Only dries appeared in regard to a store at Four Oaks, the Rev. H. B. Bevin pointing out the township voted dry by an overwhelming margin.

Dr. B. L. Aycock and M. P. Young of Princeton, with A. M. Nobles, Smithfield lawyer, presented the case for the dries at Princeton. The township voted dry, they said, and 19 of the 24 business houses opposed a liquor store there.

Hoey's Selection Of New Chairman Pleasing To Many

Recommendation That R. Gregg Cherry Be Elected Democratic Party Head Generally Approved

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, June 17.—The recommendation that R. Gregg Cherry of Gastonia, who was speaker of the house in the 1937 general assembly, be elected chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee to succeed J. Wallace Winborne who will become a justice on the state supreme court July 1, is meeting with almost universal approval and commendation in political circles here. It is generally conceded, of course, that the committee will elect Cherry, since it is customary for it to elect whoever is recommended by the Governor.

Since it is also customary for the party to recognize the work done by committee chairmen and to eventually reward them, a good many believe that the elevation of Cherry to chairman of the party definitely puts him in line for consideration later on for a judgeship. It is generally rumored around now that Cherry could have had one of several choice appointments, including the chairmanship of the State Highway and Public Works Commission, if he had wanted it but that for the time being he prefers to stay in Gastonia and practice law. Being chairman of the State Democratic Executive committee, however, will not interfere with Cherry's law practice — it should really help it — and supervising the 1938 general election should not require very much time, it is pointed out. By 1939 Chairman Cherry might be willing to consider a post on the bench.

Not only is Governor Hoey being commended for recommending Cherry for committee chairman, but for recommending a successor to Winborne coincident with his announcement of his appointment to the supreme court. For several weeks there has been a quiet campaign going on in some quarters in favor of certain candidates for state chairman on the assumption that Winborne was going to be appointed to the supreme court. Reports here for some weeks have been that Herbert Culler and some other friends of Senator Josiah W. Bailey were quietly grooming WPA Administrator George W. Coan, Jr. for the chairmanship, while some were boosting D. L. (Libby) Ward of New Bern, secretary of the committee, for the post. But now there will be no contest.

Drys Disappointed With Success Of Liquor Board

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, June 17.—Chairman Cutler Moore of the state liquor control board, is breaking the hearts of the dries because he is insisting upon strict observance of the law and forcing county boards which had been "getting by" with some questionable practices to toe the mark, a good many observers are already convinced.

Some of the distillers — especially the rectifiers — are also down on Chairman Moore and the control board because they are insisting upon emphasizing control rather than sales volume and because the board is making it harder and harder for distillers to sell to bootleggers in the state — and because some of the distillers and rectifiers have been completely cut off by the state board in that their products have not been placed on the new price lists.

But Chairman Moore and board members of F. Webb Williams and T. J. Murphy are not in the least worried and are going on about their business of carrying out the state control law as it was written by the general assembly rather than as either the dries or the distillers think they should administer it. And according to the board, the em-

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — Mrs. B. F. Johnson, Choctaw, Okla., club woman, has devised a method of canning milk to use on the farm when pasture grasses are dead, and "Bossy" goes dry.

By thoroughly cooling whole sweet milk, putting it in jars and processing it at 15 pounds pressure for 45 minutes, she obtains canned milk that can be used in cooking. Although the milk turns pink when processed, Mrs. Johnson says the color in no way affects the value of the product.

Call For Troops Threatened In Liquor 'Rebellion'

On the heels of Georgia's vote to retain its prohibition laws, the liquor question flared up as the basis for a bitter dispute in Augusta, Ga. Col. R. L. Chambers, Sr., director of that city's police department, declared whiskey would continue to be sold there under municipal license issued to dealers at $300 each "as long as I have anything to do with it." Meanwhile Rev. Grover F. Tyner, Baptist minister, threatened to appeal to Gov. E. D. Rivers for state militiamen to suppress what he termed "an open liquor rebellion." The Rev. PROBLEM AREA PUT INTO USE

Raleigh, June 17.—The Regional office of the Resettlement Administration, in Raleigh, points to Jones and Salters Lakes project in Bladen county, now nearing completion, as one of the nation's outstanding demonstrations of how a poor, run-down "problem area" may be turned to good uses, benefitting both the people in the vicinity and the surrounding region as well.

This 30,000-acre development opens a new recreational spot to the thousands of people of the surrounding section and provides a readjustment for people who were living on land incapable of producing an adequate living, according to James M. Gray, of Raleigh, associate regional director of the Resettlement Administration, in charge of the land use projects.

A bathing beach, boating facilities, a recreation center, cabins, picnic and camping grounds and park roads are included in the development program. Game conservation and protection and reforestation are other phases of the work, through which the impoverished area is being restored to sound management.

More than 2,900,000 seedlings have been planted on the area. A fenced game sanctuary has been constructed and numerous food and cover plots have been planted.

The principal recreational development is at Singletary Lake, one of the three beautiful lakes within the project area. In connection with the building of bathhouses, boat-houses, piers, tennis courts, etc., much work has been done to make the lake as accessible and inviting to the public as possible. The three lakes are surrounded by juniper, cypress and pine trees which grow to the water's edge. Gray moss hangs from the juniper and cypress trees, making picturesque reflections in the water.

The area was selected for a demonstration of better land uses, both because of its suitability and because of the economic plight of the residents. As long as people in the vicinity can remember they have seen the evidences of the gradual undermining of the economic structure of the community by the destruction of the long-leaf pine forests, the exhaustion of soil and attempts to farm on land too poor to make a decent living. The development program has provided employment for an average of several hundred workers for the past year and a half and the purchase of the land and setting up of an rehabilitation program by the Resettlement

The Youngster's Pet
Children should have pets—preferably dogs or cats. Other animals will do in a pinch, but they serve best.

The boy and his dog can attain a friendship hard to match. So may the girl and her kitten. Birds, rabbits, horses, etc., do not allow that degree of intimate association desirable. Some are too small and too delicate. Others, like the horse, are too large, costly and exacting in the care they require.

First, one need little fear that the children will contract diseases from the pet dog or cat. It is possible for these animals to convey disease germs and parasites. But, so may human friends and household visitors. Then to be safe, one may have the animal examined by a veterinary before bringing it into the house.

What is to be gained by providing children with pets? The gain is mostly psychologic. The child has an object for its affection, a living thing for which it may care, a smaller, feebler creature, subject to its rule.

The pet animal invariably offers many concrete opportunities where-with to train the child in desirable patterns of behavior. As the relation of the child to its parents affords it a foretaste of authority, so Austrian secondary schools, whose discipline and standards have been the pride and despair of parents and pupils.

With a fine disregard for half-measures, the ministry of education decreed these reforms:

Teachers may not punish pupils by giving them written tasks, such as copying "I have been a bad boy" 100 times.

There must be no home work in chemistry, religion, history, nature study, introduction to philosophy, singing or gymnastics.

It is forbidden a teacher to dictate assignments.

Examinations must primarily be oral; quick, short tests in limited time periods are to be avoided; written examinations can be given only once a semester—and then only is there as many pupils in the class and with the principal's consent.

Teachers must teach only what is cultural and economically useful to the child.

FLOOD OF ROCKS MORE THAN HE BARGAINED FOR

Tacoma, Wash. (AP)—Walter F. Sutter needs no one to convince him of the power of the press.

He already has 1,000 tons of proof.

Two years ago, The Associated Press Feature Service distributed a story concerning Sutter's rock garden, to which visitors were admitted only if they brought rocks to add to the collection. At that time his garden consisted of one small waterfall and some 200 or 300 rocks he had collected himself.

Today, Sutter lives among rocks, on top of rocks and between rocks. In 18 months persons who read the story sent or brought him more than 800 tons of stones. In a single day more than 50 tons arrived by mail, truck and on the rear seats of visitors' sedans.

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE NERVAUD

SOPSIS: Kay Crandon, who runs her own ranch, is stricken, out on a mountain ledge when, for a moment, she spots a man rushing. She recalls the firebug the event has been hunting and her horse quietly to catch him. Pulling her gun, she orders him to "Throw 'em up!" Desperate and defeated, he explains he hoped to get a job fire fighting to buy food for his mother and sister. Kay believes him when he says it is his first attempt to set a fire. On impulse, she slips her gun back into its holster.

Flicker was patiently waiting. "I'll join you down there."
As he finished speaking, he suddenly stiffened, and following his gaze, Kay saw a lone rider at the head of the trail. He passed Flicker, and made swiftly for them at a quickened pace.
Kay noted that he had black hair and eyes like her companion, but here the likeness ended. The newcomer had a stalwart rangy figure, with broad shoulders in marked contrast to his slim hips. A healthy color glowed under his tan, and his bearing had all the assurance of success and self-confidence.

Chapter Two

Quick Thinking

AN INCREDULOUS look of surprise flashed over the man's face before he turned it away from her. Then, after a moment's tense silence, he said, in a muffled voice, still with his back to her, "Why did you do that?"

"Because I believe you," Kay answered, "and perhaps I can help you to find some other way."

With a rush of words, the man's story poured out.

"They've foreclosed on me," he explained, "and we've got to get out next week. I've got a blind sister and an invalid mother. I'm not married, thank God! My shuddered at his bitter tone. "I've sold everything we have, even my gun."

As he neared them, his gaze rested on Kay with frank admiration and approval. Then, as he glanced at her companion and took in his gaunt face and general shabbiness, a look of surprise and uncertainty flashed into his eyes.
He touched his hat to Kay as he pulled up beside them.
"I didn't expect to run into company up here," he began genially. "I'm Tom Runyon, the new fire patrol for this area."

Kay felt the man beside her stiffen as she answered the unspoken question behind the newcomer's words.
"My name's Kay Crandon." She felt the color flooding her cheeks in spite of herself at his searching look, and her mind flew from one idea to another for a plausible explanation of Ted Gaynor's presence.

Her mind raced, seeking a plausible explanation of Ted Gaynor's presence.

I figured a week's fire fighting pay would get us away—" he broke off with a despairing shrug.

Kay had inherited her father's quality of quick decision, and of standing by that decision once it was taken. Something about this man had stirred her sympathy and made her believe in him. Now, as she listened to his story, she felt her original intuition confirmed. By the time he broke off, her resolution was taken.

"It's a rotten trick to foreclose on anyone at a time like this," she tactfully let indignation take the place of sympathy in her tone, "but I tell you what you can do. There's a couple of cabins on our ranch, and you can move your family there. If you'd like to join our outfit, I can't pay much, but you won't go hungry."

'You Won't Be Sorry'

WHEN the man's answer finally came, after a long silence, it had a husky break in it.

"You're square all right," he managed to get out. "You won't be sorry, either, I—"

"That's settled, then," Kay veered away from his thanks. "What's your name? And where are you living now?"

"Ted Gaynor's my name, and I'm living over by Blackfoot creek."

"And I'm Kay Crandon, of the Lazy Nine," Kay held out her hand.

"You won't be sorry," Ted Gaynor repeated, as he gave it a mighty grip.

"I know I won't," Kay cut back through the woods to the trail, with the new member of her outfit beside her. "You'd better come on now, and have a look at the ranch," she suggested, "then you'll know what you're getting in to."

She laughed to relieve the tension, and was amazed at the difference his slow answering smile made in his drawn face. Why, he was almost good-looking, and much younger than she had taken him to be at first! He couldn't be more than 25 at the most, she decided.

"I left my horse off the trail a half a mile or so farther down," he said as they came out on the trail and he glanced up to where ence. The fact that his horse was hidden off the trail made it all the more suspicious and complicated, in case Tom Runyon should elect to go along with them.

She knew very well that if suspicion were fastened on Ted Gaynor everyone would be sure he was guilty of the other fires that had taken place. Believing, as she did, that this was his first attempt, and that he would never make another, she was determined to save him, now that she had undertaken the job.

Telltale Brush Pile

ASUDDEN inspiration flashed in her mind, and she added, without perceptible hesitation, "I'm thinking of taking up some timber land up here, and Ted Gaynor has been looking over it for me."

Without looking round, she could feel the taut figure at her side relax.

"Oh, I see," Tom Runyon focused his attention on her again, to her great relief. "You're the owner of the Lazy Nine," he went on, smiling at the picture Kay made with her brilliant coloring set off against the dark background of pines. "I've heard about you. But why don't you wait another month before you take up any timber land? You're liable to buy up a forest fire, if you get it now."

"Not with you for fire patrol!" Kay looked up demurely from under her long dark lashes. The more she could keep his attention centered on her the better, in this danger spot.

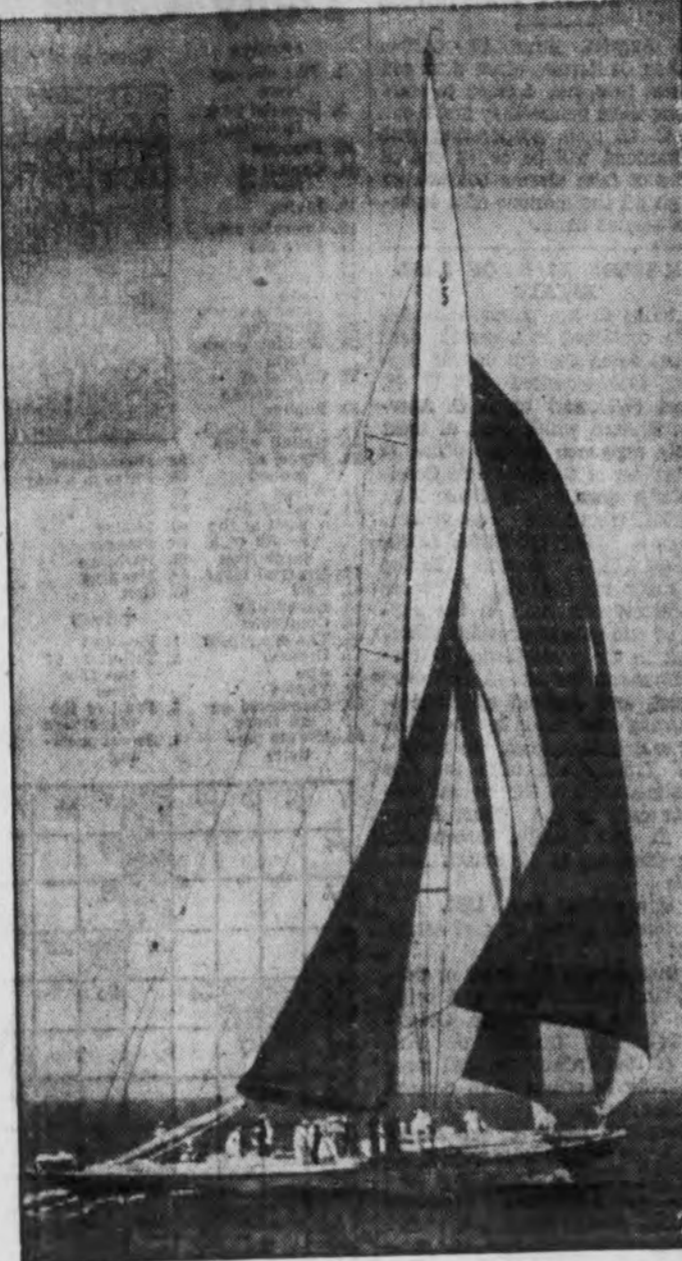

He gave an appreciative chuckle. "You've said it! Firebugs aren't going to have the cinch they've been having any more." Suddenly his eyes wandered past her, and he stiffened in his saddle, as he peered through the woods. "Hullo! What's that?"

"What? I don't see anything." "Looks to me like a pile of brush." He swung off his horse as he spoke. "Just wait a minute until I investigate."

Tom Runyon strode off through the woods.

POURING MILLIONS INTO THE SEA

Harold S. VANDERBILT'S new Ranger (above) is the undefeated leader in the million-dollar yacht race for the right to defend the America's cup against the challenge of T. O. M. Sopwith's British Endeavour I or II. Sailing under a makeshift rig after being dismasted, Vanderbilt's big Cass-J sloop won four races in the first trials against Gerard Lambert's "veteran" Yankee and Chandler Hovey's Rainbow, the yacht with which Vanderbilt defeated Sopwith's Endeavour I three years ago. The trials resume on June 19.

By TOM HORGAN

(Associated Press Yachting Writer)

NEWPORT, R. I.—Millions for defense—not a cent return. That is the story of a $50 silver trophy of dubious artistry called the America's cup.

It is battered and bottomless, the better perhaps to let the torren of bank notes pour through to the sea, but it is the Holy Grail of yachting.

Promoters of baseball, football and boxing shake their heads in bewilderment and awe. For there is no "gate" not one cent return on an outlay which would support a thoroughbred racing stable lavishly.

Even if grandstands could be built along the Rhode Island shore, there would be no "take" for the open ocean course off Newport is too distant for those who carry on solid earth to identify the competing sloops.

Race Is At Sea

Those who watch T. O. M. Sopwith's Endeavour I or II challenge the American defender late next month must make a day of it, and come in their own yacht or hire places on commercial craft. For the 30-mile course is well out beyond the unruly water where the Brenton's reef lightship stands guard, champing and tossing at her mooring like an uneasy carnival flying horse.

To determine how many millions of dollars and pounds have been spent on the America's cup, an auditor would dig into yellowed records as far back as 1851. That was the year the schooner yacht America led a big British fleet around the Isle of Wight and brought the cup to the United States. Since then there have been 15 invasions of American waters in vain attempts to take the battered old mug back to merry England.

IT HAS BECOME A HABIT IN THIS MISSOURI FAMILY

Columbia, Mo., June 17.—(AP)—Miss Emily Roach, Kansas City, is the latest to receive a degree from the University of Michigan. Nine sisters and three brothers have preceded her. Except for a period of two years, some member of the Roach family has been enrolled at the university for the past 25 years.

A very hazy idea of the grand total might be reached if it is understood construction of Ranger, leader among the prospective defenders, cost Harold S. Vanderbilt between $300,000 and $400,000. Add the wages of professional crews, cost and operation of a power tender, boatyard bills for periodic overhauling, cost of new sails and gear and sundry other expenses — and the total is nothing short of stupendous.

Morgan On Yachts

Of course, Gerard B. Lambert's Yankee was built in 1930, and Chandler Hovey's Rainbow four years later, so the original cost of those defense aspirants have long since been met, but the expense of storage, new rigging and canvas and structural changes never ceases.

As J. P. Morgan once told an inquirer who was considering the purchase of a yacht: "If you must consider cost of operation, you cannot afford one."

With some justice, scribes of other sports have called the international classic the world's worst sporting spectacle. Many lads who fancy themselves as experts of the bounding blue will admit, when their guard is down, that they are often unable during much of a close contest to say with certainty which of two yachts is ahead.

So, it would be safe to assume many landlubbers who challenge small de mer and following the international classic frequently, will be in doubt about its progress, except at the turning marks and the finish line.

The enlistment recently of H. V. and L. E. Wolf brought to five the number of brothers either now on ships of the fleet or in training.

"DO I HEAR YOU CALLING ME?"

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington — We have it on reliable authority from the culinary department that the pickings are going to be mighty lean in certain foreign capitals for those Americans who live abroad because they like the flavor of the alien social whirl.

The anti feed-the-frivolous campaign was started by one hard-headed American ambassador who became tired of endless entertaining for do-nothing Yankees abroad and decided instead he was going to spend his meat and fish money on native figures who really counted.

Here is a sample of what has happened in the past. An ambassador to a South American republic had no fancy American legation in which to entertain. So he used the British club. That meant that every party had to be thickly studded with British. It had also been the custom to pack the parties with "deserving" Americans living there or visiting for the season. The result was that few important figures of the republic were entertained, few friendships were made, and the ambassador wasn't worth his salt.
That condition hadn't changed much through the years, until recently.

Then came the example of the hard-headed diplomat who decided he was not going to be ambassador to the American colony, but to the country to which he was assigned. His predecessor had been so hard-riden by the American colony that he wound up his service with a bare fraction of the foreign connections he had hoped to establish.

Not all Americans will be cut off his guest list. Some have important connections and cannot be snubbed.
But there are lists full of rich Americans who failed to make Newport yet find that their supplies of candy make them big enough to get along in some foreign colony. So they impinge on the ambassador's time and eat his fried - cakes without contributing a penny-weight of "inside" help.

Screams of indignation from the "parasites" echoed back to Washington. But the state department, very covertly of course, was overjoyed.
It recognizes the necessity of constant and expensive entertaining by its ambassadors and ministers. It would like to see the money spent where it will count, however.
Hint to careerists: Cut more Americans, court more furriners.

Ambassadors get $17,500 a year, which seems big potatoes to most of us, but doesn't stack up very high diplomatically. It costs more than that to do the part at London and Paris. Congress used to appropriate a little on the side for the entertainment fund. But an economy wave, together with a discovery during prohibition days that some of the money went for wines and other liquor, put an end to it.

side, Can Valentine now go out and urge those he formerly urged to vote for Cooley to vote against Cooley's law partner — Judge Bone — and to vote for him instead? And if Valentine does run against Bone, will Congressman Cooley, still admittedly politically potent throughout the second judicial district, stand by his former law partner, or turn against him and support Valentine? Or will Handsome Harold try to remain neutral and let his former manager and former law partner fight it out without giving either his assistance? Can Valentine attempt to make the race in the face of conditions as they will be next spring? A good many already believe that when Valentine cools off and thinks things over a little more he is likely to decide not to run.

Another angle to this same matter is the effect that a contest between Valentine and Bone would have on the future of Congressman Cooley, now regarded as probably the most up-and-coming young politician on the horizon in the eastern part of the state and the one who is giving the leaders of the "old guard" more worry than any one else. If Cooley has any idea of seeking the Democratic nomination for Governor in 1939, as some think he has, a knock - down - drag - out fight between Valentine and Bone for the judgeship in his home district would not help his chances any, most observers agree. Or if Cooley has no intention of seeking the governorship but instead is planning to remain in congress for another five years, or until Senator Josiah W. Bailey completes his term and then to oppose Bailey for the senate, a factional fight in his home district also would not help him any, it is agreed. For if Cooley is grooming himself and laying plans now to defeat Senator Bailey in the 1941 Democratic primary, he is going to have to build solidly and surely, since Senator Bailey may not be as unpopular then as he is now.

So the political situation that has developed as a result of the Governor's appointment of Judge Barnhill and Judge Bone is going to be watched with a great deal of interest by observers here.

leaders were present. In the course of this conference, the control leaders agreed to vote for a statewide control law if the drys would go along with them. But Burgess refused to consider any compromise, with the result that the county plan was allowed to stand as already enacted.

Some of the dry leaders now frankly admit they believed the county control system would become so deeply involved in county politics and become so putrid that the people would rebel against the system. But the county control advocates realized this and in most instances saw to it that the county ABC boards were composed of the ablest and best men that could be found. The result was that the conduct of the county liquor stores in most counties has been without scandal, crookedness, graft or involvement in local politics, most observers agree.

But the 1937 general assembly enacted the new state liquor control law which gives the state control board very wide powers to supervise county stores and county control boards, with the result that this board has promulgated rules and regulations much more stringent than those formerly put into effect by the county boards. It has told the county boards that they must put the control idea uppermost, operate the liquor stores strictly on a business basis, spend more on law enforcement and the stamping out of bootlegging. And the county boards are cooperating with the state board in all these things.

All of which, is, breaking the hearts of the bone drys. For they had been confident that with legal liquor stores, there would be more drunkenness, more bootlegging, more drunken driving, more crime and more of everything that was bad and undesirable, is that liquor stores and liquor control has made it more difficult to buy liquor, has decreased drunkenness, crime and bootlegging.

During afternoon revival meetings in rural Georgia towns it is customary for stores to close.

Bo Farley's Greenville Greenies defeated Doc Smith's New Bern Bears, 10-8, here yesterday afternoon. The game—contrary to the score—was one of the most thrilling seen here this season. The victory put Greenville back into a tie with the Bears for fifth place in Coastal Plain standings.

Most of the contest was played through a drizzling rain—which, at times, seemed certain to break up the ball game.

Durwood Stowe, Greenville center-fielder, sprained an ankle in an attempt to catch a fly ball in yesterday's contest. He will be out of the line-up for a few days.

The heavy work of the game was done in the eighth inning. The Bears, who had been creeping from behind, turned in three runs in that frame to take the lead, but the locals came back with the same number of tallies to decide the contest. John Delaney—third pitcher of the day for the locals—was credited with the victory. He pitched hitless ball for one and two-thirds innings.

The Bears were trailing by 7-5 as the eighth opened. Birch Douglas started the visitors off with his third double of the day. Bing Miller walked, and Evans was safe on what proved to be an infield hit to fill the bases. Manager Doc Smith pitched for Bull Hamons, starting earlier for the Bruins. As Doc made first on a fielder's choice, Delaney scored. Evans went out, but McAbee walked and Charlie Godd singled scoring Thornton—running for Smith—and McAbee.

Pitcher Dawson—who had relieved Karl Williams in the fifth went to the showers in favor of Delaney, who walked Stith, but retired Worliss Knowles and Glen Mullinax to stop the Bruins' late-game rally.

Knowles came in from right-field to take over mound duties for the Bears as the locals started their turn at the plate in the eighth, and the Greenies combined two walks and two hits into three tallies to clinch the victory. Delaney opened with a single to center. Koonitz took a walk. Farley popped up, but Calliguri walked to fill the sacks. Wilson Thoele fanned, but Swamp Norwood rattled the boards with one of Knowles' very special slants—and that's how the Greenies made three tallies in the eighth.

Farley led the Greenies 14-hit attack on Hamons and Knowles, with three doubles. Douglas's three two-baggers set the pace for New Bern's 12-hit offense.

CHAIN STORES TO MEET GULF

Sinclair Continues To Maintain Lead In Twilight Loop

Chain Stores and Gulf today will take the form this afternoon at West Greenville school, with the chain store boys trying to bring the Gulf players down into a tie with them for the cellar position.

Neither of these two nor White and Hodges has been able to stop the pace-setting Sinclair team, but all three are to give the others their first defeat of the season.

The Sinclair team is leading the loop with seven victories against no defeats. White and Hodges is in second place, but far behind the league leaders.

Goldsboro Still Leads Coastal Plain League

Goldsboro — Goldsboro came in its one-game hold on the Coastal Plain League lead by defeating the third-place Williamston Martinsville pacemakers, 7 to 1, Wednesday.

The defeat dropped the Martinsville two and a half games back of the runner-up Snow Hill Billies. Goldsboro clinched the contest with Williamston by bombing four hits with Larry Wade's fifth five runs in the second inning. The leader other tallies came in the sixth after Villiquette's two-base miff of a fly by Jarvis.

Konniek pitched all the way for the home crowd and did a splendid job of scattering the Martinsville offense. Wade yielded only a half dozen hits, but five of these figured in the second.

An error let in the Martinsville lone run — Stevens scored as Ball's bobbled Lakotas' grounder, Stevens, first up, got on when hit by a pitched ball. Deim singled, Stevens went to third when McCay hit into a double play.

Walks to Brennan and Ball's started Clarence Roper's locals on their second — inning parade. The bases were filled when no one was retired on Overton's fielders' choice. Konniek's single scored Brennan and Balla, and then Adamek tripled to drive in two more runs. A single by Willie Powell scored Adamek.

Jarvis went all the way to second when Villiquette muffed his fly to deep center in the sixth. Brennan singled and went to second on the unsuccessful throw home to head off Jarvis. Balla sacrificed, and then Overton lofted a fly which tallied Brennan.

Bill Sefton and Earle Meadows, Trojan twin holders of the world pole-vault record, won't be handicapped by short standards at a national collegiate championship meet in Berkeley, Calif., June 18-19.

The Trojan Aces were forced to limit their record to 14 feet 11 inches because the standards were no higher at the Pacific coast conference meet at Los Angeles.

But they won't be troubled with that problem in Berkeley. Bud Hamilton, University of California track coach, says, "Our standards are 15 feet 3 inches now. We intend to make them 15 feet 6 for the title meet."

Sefton and Meadows have been putting on their twin act since they tried for first in the 1935 National A. A. U. championships.

Last year they shared the national collegiate title and finished even for the Intercollegiate A. A. A. crown. They tied again at the final Olympic tryouts, on Randall Island in winning Olympic berths.

Meadows went on to take the Olympic title in Berlin while Sefton temporarily took a back seat.

This spring the two went at the business of boosting the world mark with a vengeance. Sefton enjoyed an edge in the early record — breaking, but once Meadows rounded in form, he caught up. The boys reached their peak when knocking at the door of the dreamed-of 15-foot mark only to be thwarted by short standards. Either, or both, may hit 15 feet before the season runs its course.

Track and field coaches are taking a leaf from the football mentors' book and conducting a school during the national collegiate meet. Brutus Hamilton will assume the

Tarboro Snakes Drop Battle To Snow Hill

Tarboro — A couple of streaks extended right on through Wednesday's Coastal Plain League game here between Snow Hill and Tarboro — the Billies won to run their consecutive victories to eight, and the defeat extended Tarboro's losing string to seven games.

The score was 4-3, with Emil Zak leading the mound versus over Tommo Mooney.

The Billies got three runs in the fifth by mixing three hits with a walk and an error, and in the next inning Deigat Wain hit a homer to tie the score to 2-2.

A walk to Robinson opened the visitors sixth. Joe Bistrot doubled, and Tom Young singled. Bill Robinson and Bistrot scored, and Young went to third, with a sacrifice — from Young's hit. A single by Soufas scored Young.

Zak blanked the locals until the fifth. The Serpents tallied twice in this verse. Singles by Milner and Myers were sandwiched around a pass to Mooney to fill the bases. Milner scored as Carnahan forced Mooney at third. Myers stole third, and later scored when Meadows bobbled Ware's bouncer.

Tarboro's other run, made in the eighth, came as a result of hits by Myers and Gannan and an infield out.

Milner doubled with two out in the ninth to revive hopes of the home fans, but Roye flied out to left to end the game.

Young and Soufas, each with two hits, led the Billies. Myers, with three for four, paced the locals. Lohman, new third baseman, featured afield for the Serpents.

Kinston Sinks Deeper With 5 To 1 Defeat

Kinston — It may be only a figure of speech, but Kinston's Eagles went "deeper" in the Coastal Plain cellar Wednesday. The locals dropped a 5-1 decision to the Aces.

Ayden outdid the locals by only 7-to-five, but the Aces used five of their hits in counting four tallies after each club had made an unearned run in the second frame. The Eagles couldn't deliver in the tight spots, and in three innings Kinston threats ended with at least two sacks occupied.

Lanier, Ayden's stacking pitcher, mixed six bases on balls with the five hits he yielded before being yanked in the eighth. Webb finished out with hitless pitching.

With the score at 1-1, Manager Monk Joyner homered over the left-field fence in the fourth to put his club in front and provide what proved to be the winning run.

BORAH STEAMS UP FOR FIGHT

Senator Suspects All is Not Well in Puerto Rico

By PRESTON GROVER
 Washington, June 16.—Senator Borah exhibits signs of getting mad about the Puerto Rican situation. Even in the midst of strenuous battles on major issues the veteran senator seems always to find a moment of spare time to take a crack at persons he thinks are trampling on the downtrodden. That seems now the case with Puerto Rico.

Military governors are anathema to the senator, whose gods are orderly civil government. The police "crackdown" on the parade of the fire-eating nationalists down Puerto Rico way two months ago has stirred him to bitterness.

The first evidence of his unrest was a demand for a report from Governor Banton Winship, Winship, a former army general, submitted a lengthy document packed with stories of nationalist outbreaks. The nationalists have mixed it up with police on so many occasions that the casualty list reads like that of a World war engagement.

Principal crime laid to the nationalists was the assassination of Col. Francis Riggs of Washington, D. C., chief of the insular police, as he was returning home from church.

Pedro Albizu Campos, head of the nationalist party, and a half dozen party officials subsequently were convicted of conspiring to overthrow the government of the United States.

Although overthrowing the U. S. government by an insurrection in Puerto Rico would be quite a task, Albizu and his associates were convicted. Appeals were carried to the U. S. Supreme Court which a day or so back declined to interfere with the conviction. Atlanta penitentiary awaits them all. That leaves the party leaderless.

The civil liberties union of New York conducted an investigation after the latest of the nationalist police frays resulted in the death of 19 nationalists and two police, and the wounding of nearly a hundred nationalist and police. The committee followed up by filing a brief in Supreme Court in defense of Albizu, whose conviction preceded the latest clash.

In the brief, the committee asserted Albizu and his associates were being made the goats of a whole series of crimes, including the shooting of Colonel Riggs, without any real evidence to connect them with the actual crimes.

Not so, said Winship. Borah has been gathering data for some time without publicly indicating what he planned to do. But on many previous occasions he has expressed a conviction that army men are not trained to be good civil governors.

He will be saying things about it in the senate.

END OF TRAIL - FOR PICKETS

Special police of Monroe, Mich., fearing an advance of riot-bent pickets, strung steel cables across the highway approach to the Newton Steel company plant. Pickets, however, failed to show up and the elaborate precautions were unnecessary.

FALSE PACKED LINT DAMAGED

Shipments to European Cotton Mills Under Suspicion

Raleigh, June 17.—"False-packed" bales in shipments to European mills has been one factor resulting in damage to America's export cotton trade, according to J. C. Ferguson, of State College.

cause a few farmers fraudulently place foreign material inside the bales to give them additional weight he pointed out.

Cotton from Egypt, India, Brazil, and other cotton-producing countries is free from "false packing," he added, and it commands a higher price than that from the United States.

In examining cotton exported from this country, representatives of the U. S. Department of Agriculture have found trash, sand, a felt hat, an iron bar, pieces of machinery, rocks, oil, and other substances inside of bales that looked good from the outside.

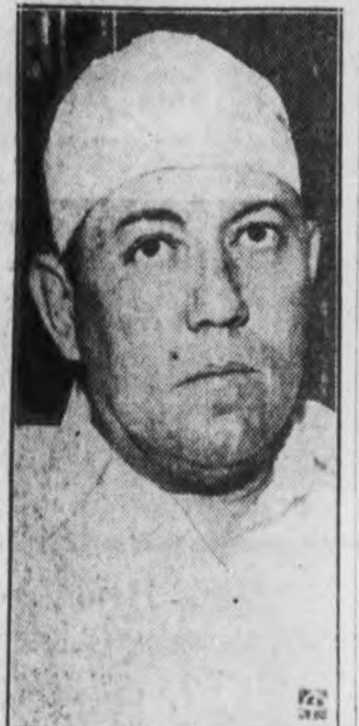

"This will make it possible to trace 'false-packed' bales back to their source, and should discourage this practice, Ferguson commented.

Most of the "false-packed" cotton comes from Texas, Oklahoma, and Mississippi, from which most of the export cotton is shipped, but some "false-packed" bales have come from this State, he said.

Although the tags may not be used here this season, they probably will be in the near future unless this practice is discontinued, Ferguson said.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, June 17.—(AP)—A slow recovery set in today in the stock market after an early selling had washed leaders down fractions to three or more points.

Rallying move was attributed partly to Washington advice. Secretary of Labor Perkins had called a press conference for later in the day to discuss the steel strike situation. Word was passed along an "important announcement" would be forthcoming.

Bonds dipped and most commodities backed water.

Transfers approximated 1,300,000 shares.

New York Cotton

New York, June 17.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, down four to seven points on lower Liverpool cables, liquidation and foreign selling.

October fluctuated between 11 9/16 and 11 9/16 and shortly after the first half hour sold at 11 9/16. Prices generally were four to seven points net lower.

Futures closed steady, four to eight higher, spots steady, middling 12 5/16.

NORTH CAROLINA STARTS BIGGEST FINANCIAL YEAR

The state will provide $23,796,367 in 1937-38 and $24,985,160 in 1938-39 for the eight-months school term.

Expansion also was authorized in many state agencies, and provision for the first time was made for social security programs.

In addition to the appropriated funds for operation and maintenance of the many state agencies, the legislature also authorized bonds to be sold to provide money for a new $675,000 state office building here and $344,000 for permanent improvements at many state institutions.

A brand new field being entered July 1 is that of advertising the state, with $125,000 made available for each year of the biennium.

Funds are set aside to operate and maintain the new western North Carolina Tubercular Sanatorium at Black Mountain and $137,500 was directly appropriated for improvements there. The institution has not opened yet.

A fund of $2,500 was authorized for use by a commission to handle the state's participation in the New York world fair of 1939 and $10-was set aside to be used when matched by the state of Tennessee for a memorial in the Great Smoky Mountain National Park to Laura Spelman Rockefeller.

JAPAN REFUSES TO ACCEPT ROOSEVELT ARMAMENTS PLAN

Historically refused to do.

The disclosure came almost simultaneously with the opening of bids at the navy department for the construction of one of two new battleships for the American fleet.

On instruction from President Roosevelt, the navy high command has withheld a decision on whether to equip these ships with 14 or 16 inches calibre rifles until Japan could make known her final stand on the matter.

licity which hearings of this sort give with respect to the game of tax avoidance may help to create an atmosphere in which men will hesitate to use these artificial devices to avoid the payment of taxes just as they hesitate to use such practices to escape the payment of private debt.

Under Secretary McGill deplored community property laws of eight states which, he said, deprived the treasury of millions of dollars a year. He said laws such as these allowed inequalities in distribution of the tax load.

Neither official named tax dodgers to whom President Roosevelt referred in his recent message to Congress asking the present inquiry. Other developments in the capital today included:

The Federal debt leaped upward to a record figure of $36,633,907,802.

The House Agriculture committee approved a revised farm tenancy bill authorizing appropriation of $10,000,000 for liberal loans in 1938 to tenants and share croppers for purchase of farm homes.

Liquor Law Copy Sought By Drunk

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, June 17.—A man who seemed to be slightly "lit up," but not by electricity, wobbled into the office of the N. C. Rural Electrification Authority here, which happens to be next door to the office of the new State Alcoholic Beverages Control Board, and said:

"I want a copy of the new 'electric law.'"

Nor knowing anything about any new electric law, Chairman Dudley

Bagley of the rural electrification authority asked him to be a little more explicit, but could only learn that R. O. Self of the Utilities Commission had sent him over. So Bagley called Self on the telephone, who told him he had sent the man over to the liquor board office, because he seemed to want a copy of the new liquor law. The man then admitted that what he wanted was the new liquor law, rather than that of an electric law. He was directed to the office of the liquor board next door.

Vorhies had adopted a wolf cub left motherless and raised it on a bottle.

Patrons of State Pleased

The work of installing the new washed air cooling system in the State Theatre has been completed and patrons of his popular cinema house are expressing delight over the entirely new degree of coolness and comfort made possible by this modern cooling plant.

Each few minutes the air in the auditorium is changed by a constant flow of washed, chilled air, circulated by a huge blower and deflected through especially designed air ducts.

The front of the State Theatre is also being dressed up with a new marquee, which will be completed in a few more days.

Improve Pitt Cooling System

The construction engineers who have just finished the installation of the new cooling system in the State Theatre, are now busy adding several late features to the mammoth air system in the Pitt Theatre, which promises to add new invigorating environments for the delight and comfort of its patrons.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

Hollywood — Deanna Durbin is a sweet child and a sweet singer but she doesn't know yet all there is to know about acting. So Henry Koster tells her, like a varsity cheer leader.

Koster, whose pleased and pleasant expression might be there even if his "Three Smart Girls" hadn't been a surprise hit, is a young man who puts his soul into his work. He's making "100 Men and a Girl," and it's the most amusing set in Hollywood today.

The set represents an enormous garage turned into an impropria rehearsal hall by Adolphe Menjou and his 110 musical recruits to symphony. Menjou plays the trombone and sponsors Deanna. The hopes of all, including Mischa Auer as a musician, are set on so impressing wealthy Eugene Pallette that he'll play angel and take over the orchestra. Pallette admits they are good but folds up his wings. He'll take over, he says, only on condition they get Leopold Stokowski to conduct. (This being a movie, and Universal having arranged all that months ago, you don't need to worry about the outcome).

Enter The 'Angel'

But this particular scene is the build-up to the angel's ultimatum: the entrance of Pallette. Menjou and Deanna are the musicians—real ones selected for type—are all overjoyed on their welcome. They play "He's a Jolly Good Fellow" and Menjou blares and flourishes on the trombone while Deanna urges more pep.

But it's Koster who has the pep. He "conducts" the orchestra, keeps time with feet, arms and body, which all seem to wave and gyrate with excitement and enthusiasm. He calls for take after take, between whiffs coaching Deanna, who seems too poised, in the art of showing real excitement. He speaks not only in a roar but gently, demonstrating what he means by getting down on his knees and pleading. His idea gets over. The last take is good. And Koster has never once lost his temper or yelled. He seems to be having too good a time to think of it.

Open To Quips

Herbert Mundin used to work for a theatrical manager who chose play titles deliberately to bait critical wisecracks. He liked especially a piece called "Yes" because the critics could say "No." (They did), picture called "That's My Story." But until the preview we won't know whether he's stuck with it.

If Jean Harlow had lived and ever become a mamma, she'd been inclined toward swing music instead of lullabies. . . . She and Gable in "Saratoga" worked with two sets of 7-months-old twins . . . and one day all four began crying at once. . . . Soft words, even an alleged lullaby by Gable, failed to soothe them. . . . Jean thought soft music might help, turned on the phonograph. . . . But the records were mixed. . . . Louie Armstrong's hot trumpeting blared forth. . . . Quickly she changed, but this time got Ray Noble's "Tiger Rag." . . . But the babies stopped yelling. . . . They liked the swing music.

SKIING AND TENNIS NOT GOOD MIXERS CLAUDETTE LEARNS

Claudette Colbert made the painful discovery the other day that skiing and tennis are a bad combination.

In spending several weeks on location at Sun Valley, Idaho, to film winter sports scenes for her new Paramount comedy romance, "I Met Him in Paris," Miss Colbert diligently skied daily.

And skiing, it appears, develops ankle and shoulder muscles that are used in no other sport. . . . Miss Colbert didn't realize this when she spent the afternoon recently playing tennis at her Beverly Hills home.

"But I found out when I woke up this morning," she said. "I feel like an overworked adagio dancer. My tennis muscles got in a fight with my skiing muscles, and they took it out on me."

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York — It was with a great deal of enthusiasm that New York greeted Paul Draper's opening at the Plaza. There was an immense show of interest, as there naturally would be in this artist who achieves an "1850 family album" mood, by tapping to minuets, and then exhibits it against a background of modern Gershwin.

And, it was this trick of changing fancy, all in tap, that made his audience clamor for more long after his weary dogs and tiring hamstrings advised him that he was a tired young man.

"What were your reactions to all this applause?" I asked him over a minor refreshment the next afternoon. . . . "I thought my performance was only fair," he replied seriously. "Three of the numbers I had never tried before."

In a measure, this gives you a fair picture of the sort of person Paul Draper is. Withal his success, he is a contradiction to the belief that egotism is a component part of affluence, and it is with surprising candor that he flashes such observations as "The only clippings in my press book are those which I haven't deserved far outnumber the uncomplimentary ones, which I have well merited. I never forget a criticism because frequently one points a flaw which should be corrected, and then again I try to improve my work so that those who have found me less satisfying will eventually come over to my side. . . . When I was in 'Thumbs Up' one reviewer referred to me as 'the hard-waving, pseudo-artist, Paul Draper.' I have never forgotten that. Some day I hope to meet the writer, but more than that I hope to alter her opinion of me."

An interesting discovery about Paul Draper, especially to one talking with him for the first time, is his almost unconscious fair for epigrams. Put sit down and begin talking and such observations as this come glittering to the surface: "The most successful artists are those persons in whom every body can see some new truth and also have something for themselves."

Regarding his contemporaries: Fred Astaire, Bill Robinson, Masine, and Verchinnia are all down in his boov as ranking artists. All but Verchinnia, who is very young, have grueling apprenticeships behind them.

SNAKES GET NEW DEAL FROM THIS FARMER

Weatherford, Okla. (AP) — J. M. Kroeker, farmer who lives near here, has a snake paradise.

Since settling on the farm 40 years ago, Kroeker has refused to kill any but rattlesnakes. He drives the reptiles safely out of the way of his farm machinery.

Kroeker said the snakes repaid him for his friendliness by eating crop destroying insects.
