DECREEES MARTIAL LAW

Rebel Forces Ordered Into Bilbao

Jail, Please

Leo Oswald of Conemaugh was beaten while trying to club his way through picket lines and return to work at the Franklin Steel plant in Johnstown, Pa. He asked to be jailed for his own protection.

RULE ORDERED IN JOHNSTOWN

Expect 40,000 Miners To March On City Tomorrow

Johnstown, Pa., June 19. — (AP) — Governor George Earle declared martial law in strike-embattled Johnstown today after Eugene Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel company, refused to heed the governor's appeal to close the big Cambria steel works "to preserve peace and avoid bloodshed."

The Governor's action coincided with a report 40,000 miners would march on Johnstown Sunday to encourage the steel strikers in the 24-day-old clash between John Lewis' C. I. O. and four independent steel companies, Republic, Bethlehem, Inland Steel and Youngstown Sheet and Tube company, over refusal of the latter to sign labor contracts.

The rapidly darkening situation in the bitter "battle of steel" was emphasized in a new telegraphic appeal to President Roosevelt by Mayor Daniel Shields of Johnstown.

The mayor warned the President the crisis has reached to a point where continuance of the C. I. O. in Johnstown can "only mean bloodshed in our streets."

He said "rule or ruin, control or murder, is the policy of the C. I. O." and he sought the nation's Chief Executive

"Are you going to fail me by allowing this reign of terror to continue?"

The Pennsylvania governor had said Sheriff Boyle had informed him the 40,000 miners would march on Johnstown Sunday to encourage the steel strikers.

"With the plant open," the governor said, "the assemblage of miners and strike sympathizers would continue to constitute a powder magazine which would menace the community."

He added he was appointing Col. Augustine Janeway to be in charge as his personal representative.

BESIEGED CITY IS SURROUNDED

Three Months' Siege of Capital Apparently at End

(By the Associated Press)

Insurgent vanguards were ordered into Bilbao today.

Before patrons moved toward the center of the besieged city, insurgent commanders reported it had been completely encircled. They said the two roads westward toward Santander, the last avenues of escape, were also closed.

Thus, approximately the three month's siege against the Basque citadel, invincible against attack for centuries, approached its end.

Official reports in Berlin of two submarine attacks against the German light cruiser Leitzig on patrol off the coast of Algeria in the international neutrality fleet created a new international situation in the Spanish strife.

A communique said Ambassador Joachim von Ribbentrop in London had been instructed to make urged representations to the neutrality committee.

Germany and Italy were induced to renew cooperation with the "hands-off-Spain" committee after previous attacks on their ships by assurances that all four nations comprising the international fleet, Germany, Italy, France and Great Britain, would regard new attacks by Spanish government guns against neutral war ships in Spanish waters as the "common concern" of all.

The communique declared the four powers now were obliged to "take appropriate measures."

After Spanish government planes bombed the German pocket battleship Deutschland last month, German warships bombed Almeria, Spain, in retaliation.

Insurgent artillery shelled Madrid, possibly indicating a new attack on the long quiet front.

OFFICERS SEEK SECOND NEGRO

Funeral for Slain Patrolman Tomorrow Afternoon

Goldsboro, June 19.—(AP)—A posse today hunted Lester Cox, a Negro who, Sheriff Paul Garrison said, was the third participant in a gun battle near here which ended in the death of Cox's brother, Frank, and Highway Patrolman I. T. Moore.

The officer was shot, Sheriff Garrison said, when he stepped onto the running board of the Negroes' car before dawn yesterday to halt them from driving with one headlight. He died a few minutes later in a hospital.

CIO Requests Investigation of Steel Corporations

Washington, June 19.—(AP)—The CIO asked the treasury today to investigate what it claimed was failure of the Republic Steel Corporation and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company to register their firearms in accordance with the national firearms act.

Lee Pressman, CIO general counsel, acting on behalf of the SWOC asked Secretary Morgenthau for an immediate investigation.

He said there should be an immediate inquiry because of the "very dangerous situation which now exists in the local areas where these steel plants are and because of the wanton use of guns by agents of the Republic Steel Corporation and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company.

Before the senate postoffice committee James Musgrove, Republic Steel employee, testified at the same time pickets at Niles, O., shot at him, stripped him of his underwear, smeared him with grease and beat him.

DARING FLIERS PIONEER TRAIL

Three Russians Soar Over Top of World and Head South

San Francisco, June 19.—(AP)—Three daring Russian airmen soared over the top of the world today and headed southward on a 6,000-mile non-stop flight pioneering a new trans-polar air route from Moscow to San Francisco bay.

They flew over uncharted wastes as radio reports indicated they crossed the half-way mark and completed the most difficult part of their flight, not only the longest, one of the most hazardous ever attempted by man.

The Russian consulate at San Francisco said they passed over the North Pole or close to it (consulate officials were not sure) at 3:20 a. m. est. the fliers reported they were flying about 320 miles this side of the pole and "everything all right."

This put them at about the half-way mark and nearing the outer edge of the magnetic jungle, where the compass pointed at almost everything but the North Pole.

If they continued to hold their plane at the same speed, which averaged slightly less than 85 miles an hour for the first stages of the flight, they would bring their monoplane down on the Oakland airport about 1 p. m. Sunday (4 p. m. est.), after nearly three days in the air.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington — It took very little investigation on our part to discover that a lot of railroad and Western Union employes have been missing out on free travel and telegraph service.

It has long been a matter of public knowledge that railroad employes get free railroad trips occasionally for themselves and families and that Western Union employes can send telegrams free.

But did you know that Engineer Bill Jones on the Southern Pacific can telegraph his wife free of charge to get the car ready for a picnic when he gets back home Thursday? And did you know that the stenographer in the local Western Union office can get a free railroad pass to Florida, or California, or perhaps Paducah?

We didn't know about it until the federal communications commission became wrought up about all this free service and wanted to put an end to it. The commission didn't have anything to say about how many free rides railroad men and Western Union employes got. But the members thought they ought to have a say about how many free telegrams the railroad men and Western Union employes sent on Western Union. WU is under their jurisdiction. Railroads are not.

Moreover, they wanted to put an end to free telephone service for telephone company employes.

In an effort to end all this free business, a commission bill was introduced by Representative Lea of California.

Paul A. Walker, a commission member, was not so much incensed about the railroad - Western Union tie-up. He said somebody had to pay for it, and likely enough it was the patrons. But he was outraged by free service supplied by the telephone companies. He said too often free telephone service was given to state officials and attorneys with influence at the state public utilities commissions. He wanted it stopped.

American Telephone and Telegraph companies insisted free service to employes was essential to maintain high morale.

The bill hasn't passed yet, and is due for a fight.

WAGING FIGHT CURB MALARIA

F. M. Wooten Issues Statement Regarding Activities

F. M. Wooten today issued the following statement regarding malaria control projects underway in Pitt county:

"Our county is stressing more and more year by year the importance of health. Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, our health officer, is leading the county into one of its most important health campaigns, to-wit: the control of malaria. In this he is working shoulder to shoulder with our State Department of Health and our Federal Health Department. The three great government forces are endeavoring to present to the citizens of Pitt County the valuable scientific information and relief relative to malaria as was done by our Federal Health Department in Panama relative to yellow fever approximately forty years ago. We have that information and experience on which to control and eradicate malaria and the mosquito to which spreads it.

"Our Board of County Commissioners realizes the importance of controlling malaria and getting rid of the mosquitoes which spread it, and are co-operating with the county, state and federal health departments and land owners in several sections of the county to accomplish this great benefit to its citizens. To promote these health projects our Board of County Commissioners is exercising the authority vested in it by law to aid in preserving the health of the people. In particular in swampy areas where the land owners are pledging themselves to bear the expense of drainage for malaria control, and are assessing their own lands to pay the expense of these health projects our commissioners are loaning money as circumstances seem to require to make possible malaria control drainage. Our State Health Department is lending for this purpose its drainage engineers.

"Our Federal Department of Health has one important malaria control project, Swift Creek, and has contributed about 70 per cent of the cost of the project. This project is now about 70 per cent complete. Another large and important project of this kind that has tentative government approval is Cone-toe Creek, and still two others but smaller are Great Swamp and Indian Well Swamp. In each of these projects Pitt, Our County, is standing unitedly in cooperation, but it is not donating a dollar toward these projects. Such money as it advances toward them becomes a loan and is secured by a lien on the lands which are benefitted by such drainage and is second only to county taxes. Such liens to secure such loans come prior to mortgages, deeds of trust, and other like encumbrances.

"The money which Pitt, Our County, makes available to enable these swampy areas to receive grants of our Federal Government is represented by notes which bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent and will be paid back into the County Treasury within a comparatively short period from assessments on the lands benefitted to be collected by the County Tax Collector, and by him turned over to the County Treasury. So, Pitt, Our County, through its Board of Commissioners is aiding in these great and important health measures by lending money that is secured in the very highest degree and at a fair rate of interest. It is not using the county's money advantageously to certain sections to the detriment of other sections. It acts only after the local land owners have acted to make absolutely secure to the county the loans made which bear interest annually.

"Dr. Ennett, our county health officer, and our Board of County Commissioners, are rendering Pitt, Our County, an unprecedented service in ridding our citizens of malaria and particularly chills and fevers, our most dangerous and wide-spread health enemy.

Talks To Parents

By Brooker Peters Church

'Economizing' On Beds

The young couple were furnishing their new home. They bought a day-enport and two easy chairs, a dining room table and chairs, and a radio, lamps, a dressing table and a bureau. On the beds they saved money.

All their lives they saved money on beds. The children slept in beds that were not only cheap, with weak and sagging springs, but poorly made up. The sheets were too short, the blankets were grimy, the pillows and mattresses lumpy.

A little baby spends most of its time in bed, and even the adult is in bed for about one third or at a quarter of every 24 hours. But how many housewives consider this? How many mothers realize that their children's posture is largely affected by how they sleep? One grows, one's organs function, even while one sleeps.

A bed for a tiny baby as well as for an adult should be solid, the springs even and not too yielding, the mattress level and not too soft, the pillow—if there is one—low but firm and smooth.

Bed clothing should fit the body and the sheets especially should adequately cover and protect the mattress, which necessarily cannot be changed every so often. Blankets should be warm and light and scrupulously clean. They are a splendid breeding place for germs, and since they constantly touch the face, may easily carry infection to the sleeper.

All the bed clothes should be aired once a day, and then replaced on the bed smoothly and drawn taut.

If it is humanly possible, children should sleep alone. Almost any other detail of housekeeping can be neglected more safely than the beds in which the members of the family spend so large a part of their lives.

State Seeks Attract Homesteaders

ONE PURPOSE OF CAMPAIGN

Would Attract Home-seekers As Well as Tourist Trade

Reflector Bureau.
 Raleigh, June 19.—The attraction of new homeseekers and residents to North Carolina, as well as of visitors and tourists, is one of the main purposes of the new state advertising campaign in which $250,000 will be expended in "telling the world" about North Carolina and its advantages as a residential state. J. P. Rawley, High Point publisher and a member of the advertising committee of the Board of Conservation and Development, pointed out today.

"North Carolina's bid for homeseekers will be addressed to those of moderate means as well as those of wealth," Mr. Rawley said. "In the Sandhills, along the coast and in the mountains we have already been very successful in selling North Carolina to people of wealth and means, many of whom have established world-famous estates. In other sections, especially in areas well stocked with game, the state has been greatly benefitted by the establishment of hunting and fishing preserves. In one Piedmont county alone, it is estimated that more than 100,000 acres of land are already under lease by sportsmen from other states and that the revenue from the sale of non-resident licenses, leases, guide fees, dog hire and caretakers wages amounts to at least $50,000 a year.

"With North Carolina no definite in the forefront in the production and management of wildlife, it should not be difficult to induce wealthy sportsmen from other states to lease game inhabited acres and establish hunting and fishing clubs in the state.

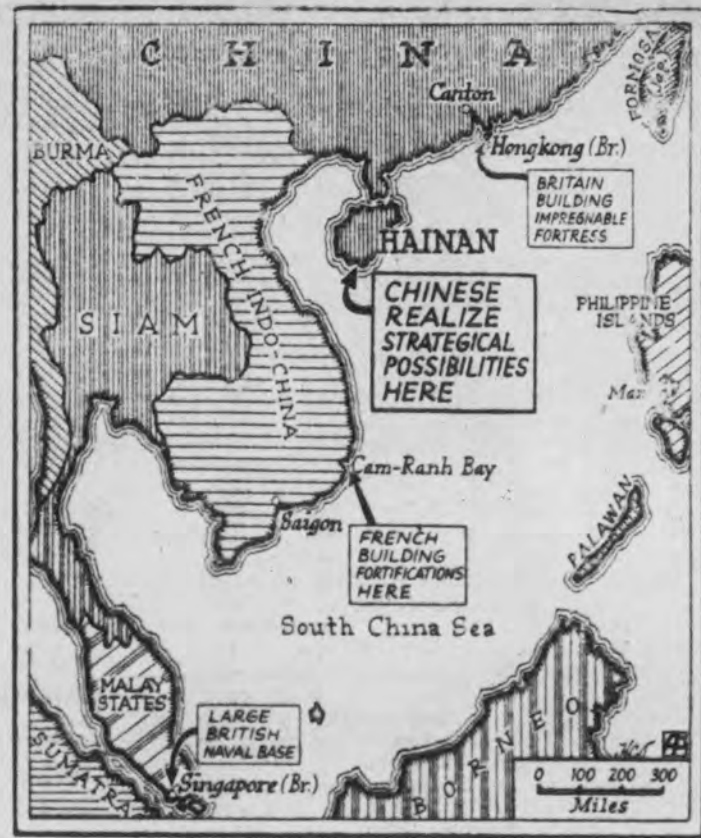

"The appeal to people of more moderate means will be economic in character and will present North Carolina as a land in which climate, topography, soils, and other resources are favorable to enterprise and to make it an ideal state in which to live and bring up a family. The soils in the vast coastal plain section have lately come to be recognized as among the most productive in the world, with crop failures from any cause virtually unknown. Anything that will grow in the temperate zone thrives here. These facts in themselves recommend this region to homeseekers who desire to produce cash crops for sale or farm and garden produce for home consumption.

"Excellent conditions also exist in almost every section of the state for dairy farming, poultry raising and the growing of truck crops. For the homeseeker who comes to North Carolina to engage in these or other similar pursuits, there is every reason to believe that he should be successful. For in addition to the ideal natural conditions found in North Carolina, such as climate, soils, rainfall and fertility, the state also has a large number of small and medium sized cities and towns, where farm and garden produce can be easily and readily marketed. The nearness of the state to the large eastern cities and markets also makes it possible for those who want to grow truck and produce on a large scale to market it quickly and easily in these larger places."

When presented from it many different aspects, the homeseeker phase of the state's new advertising program is expected to become one of the most appealing and worthwhile features of the program, Mr. Rawley said. He is confident it will bring to North Carolina hundreds if not thousands of new citizens of the most worth while type to create new wealth and help build the state into a still greater commonwealth than it is now.

Wake Up And Exploit Is China's New Motto

BACKYARD 'CONQUEST'
 Suddenly awake to its commercial and military possibilities, China has launched a "conquest" of Hainan, Chinese island strategically located near the southern mainland.

By C. Y. McDANIEL

NANKING (AP) — China, suddenly awakening to the existence of Hainan island, has caught the expansion fever. For the price of a few hundred miles of rail and highway, the island's 18,000 square miles offers a paradise for colonists, a ready source of food and raw materials, and a strategic command of southern sea approaches.

Hainan's "conquest" will require no perilous voyages for only a 15-mile strip of the south Pacific separates the island from the mainland of south China. Nor will it involve a struggle for ownership, for China's right of possession has never been questioned.

Now, thanks to Nanking's extension of authority over south China, an exploitation program is already beyond the paper plan stage.

Surveys Show Gold
 Preliminary surveys have been completed for a railway to encircle the island and for a network of motor roads. Scientific prospecting has revealed deposits of lead, silver and gold which may prove sufficiently extensive to encourage mining on a paying basis.

Investigations under way are expected to show the soil and climate suitable for growing rubber, which has to be imported now. Fish and potential salt beds add to the island's attraction to Chinese capitalists, who are considering organizing companies of exploitation.

Hainan is attractive, too. Chinese military authorities who haven't missed sight of its strategic possibilities. Three hundred miles to the northeast is Hong Kong, which Britain is converting into an impregnable fortress. A thousand miles due south is Britain's great naval base of Singapore. Midway between is Cam-Ranh bay which France is fortifying to protect its Indo-China coastline.

As soon as the railroad and highways are built, Nanking's general staff is expected to perfect a defensive system which will render the island safe from invasion.

To Educate Aborigines
 Chinese fisherman and aboriginal La tribesmen have shared the island for centuries. There are now approximately three and a half million of them but compared to the mainland, Hainan is sparsely populated and believed capable of absorbing many more millions.

Cultural rather than forceful methods are planned to subdue the aborigines, who are peaceful when treated well.

NYA OFFICIAL CLUB SPEAKER

R.S. Proctor Explains Federal Program to Kiwanians

R. S. Proctor of New Bern, superintendent of Craven County schools who is on leave of absence to engage in National Youth Administration work, was the principal speaker at the regular meeting last night of the Kiwanis club.

J. Kitchin McLawhorn, NYA supervisor for Pitt and Greene counties, prepared the program at the request of D. H. Conley, program committee chairman.

Mr. Proctor enumerated the four phases of the National Youth Administration program as follows:

1—Student aid program. He explained this was an effort to assist young people in high school and college who would be forced to drop their education unless they received some outside aid.

2—Aid of young people in distress through work projects. Mr. Proctor explained that this phase of the program was that with which Mr. Kitchin was chiefly interested. He declared that this program was designed to help youths in need of work find some form of employment.

3—Vocational guidance. The speaker said this phase of the program tied in with the aid to young people in distress. Vocational guidance is designed to aid the millions of youths out of jobs and those coming from colleges and high schools find a position for which they are fitted. The chief objective is to aid a young person in selecting his life's profession and then helping him to locate such a position.

4—Training through apprenticeship. Mr. Proctor declared this phase of the program was in the formative stages and little had been done along this line so far, but added that the NYA was looking forward to entering this field in a more determined effort.

Mr. Proctor said that he was chiefly interested in vocational guidance. He said the NYA wanted to cooperate with a local sponsor, not enter a community where it was not invited. He declared that Kiwanis clubs had sponsored such a movement in various towns and the experiment had turned out successfully. He made it clear that the NYA was a cooperative agent only and added that the sponsor was the important factor in any such program.

G. V. Smith brought before the club the proposed advertising campaign for the Greenville tobacco market and suggested that a committee be named to work with the other organizations in the city toward working out such a program.

President Berry Bostic named H. H. Duncan head of this group and promised the whole-hearted cooperation of the club with any program worked out by the committee of the various organizations.

H. A. McDougle led in club singing and Mrs. Ray Tyson, club pianist, was on hand to provide the music.

R. E. Templeton of Owings, S. C., was a visitor of the club.

Just before the conclusion of the meeting Mr. McLawhorn had a Negro quartet sing several numbers which were applauded roundly by the Kiwanians.

BOY SLIPS UP SLIPPING TIP ON SLIPS TO DAD

Meiose, Mont. (AP)—To little Bill Harvey a pink slip is a pink slip.

His father, "Big" Bill Harvey, received an invitation to a banquet and was discussing it at the dinner table. It was necessary that a pink-colored admission slip be presented. "So that lets me out," said Big Bill. "I haven't a pink slip." "But," said thoughtful little Bill, "You can wear mother's."

FATHER'S DAY

While for a number of years "Mother's Day" has been celebrated every May, it is only recently that the fathers have come into their own with a specific day in the year set aside in their honor. While we would not want to detract one bit from "Mother's Day" it is fitting that now the fathers also have a day.

Too long father has been taken for granted as the "wheelhorse" of the family with the checkbook or the cash to provide for the needs and the wants of his dear ones.

While this observance of "Father's Day" has been in effect for only a few years, it is growing each year and the time is not far off when the day will be observed as universally as is "Mother's Day."

Dad has finally come into his own for he can look forward to one day in the year when he will be the object of the affections of his family. Put forth an extra effort tomorrow to make Dad realize that you love him and appreciate all he has tried to do for you.

PUBLIC TOILETS NEEDED

There is a great need in this and other small cities of this section for public toilets for the use of visitors. Whether this matter has been considered by this or any other small city we do not know but it seems to us that it is a matter that should be given consideration.

During the course of a year there are thousands upon thousands of visitors who come to this city and there are no public toilets available to them except the court house, or at private business establishments.

A system of well kept public toilets, conveniently located in various parts of our city would prove a great convenience to the public and an aid to the health and sanitation of our city. This is a matter to which we believe our city administration should give consideration.

The huge drills and trip-hammers which disturb the night over on the east side are leaving a fine lot of insomniacs in the apartment houses along that sector. They're working on a tunnel and night gives them an opportunity to make rapid headway, to say nothing of headaches. Visitors and guests find it almost impossible to slumber, but the long-time residents say you get used to it after awhile. "Why let it get on your nerves?" they say. "There is just as much noise in the day time. Only, then, you aren't conscious of it."

An actor playing a bit in one of the summer dramas has to change clothes three times during the play. The other night his dinner jacket practically gave out and the manager advised him to get a new one. Not being in the chips, he hot-footed it over to one of the loan offices and pawned his watch for a few bucks and then looked about for a tux. He found one for $5, but when the manager glimpsed it he shook his head savagely and yelled, "Well, I'll lend you one, but you can't wear that thing." . . . The jacket the actor had obtained was of the 1890 variety. 'S truth.

It is impossible to tell a man in this town by the clothes he wears. One of the wealthiest of all novelists wears baggy pants, seldom shaves, and goes around in mud-splattered shoes run-over at the heel. Then, just the other day I dropped into a Federal court where a narcotic ring was on trial. The defendants wore fashionably cut clothes of imported tweed and other materials, and their shirts were of the newest pattern.

Newspaper men, however, continue to be the sloppiest dressers of all, despite a decade of almost constant burlesque by the movies. And New York newspaper men are the worst-dressed in the world.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York — One of the better known younger novelists was telling a luncheon club how the editor of a magazine, by wielding the blue-pencil, had abused his brain effort. The story, when it appeared, was so ragedly edited that he was trying to make up his mind to sue. "What I would like to do," he concluded bitterly, "is punch his jaw."

Just then a quiet-spoken fellow stood up and nodded agreeably. "Any time you say, old man." The editor, it seems, had wandered into the club just in time to hear the blast.

There used to be a marionette in a Broadway shop - window that captivated everybody who saw it, but I haven't seen it in nearly a year. The doll drew pictures of well-known celebrities, and if you stood there long enough it was apt to sketch your own likeness. The way it worked? An artist concealed beneath the window had a perfect view of the crowd through a trick mirror. That is, he could see you but you couldn't see him. All he did was make sketches on a pad, and a mechanical device, transmitted through a pencil in the doll's hand, reproduced the sketches on a large sheet in the windows. It was all very exciting to see for the first time.

STAGE FRIGHT AIDS SPEAKERS, SAYS PROFESSOR

Pittsburgh, Pa. (AP) — You can be scared into making a good speech, Charles W. Lomas, debate director at the University of Pittsburgh, believes.

Lomas said in an experiment with high school students he found those "scared stiff" before their speeches but calm when once started talked more fluently than those never frightened at all.

Students who were unable to control their stage fright, however, made the poorest speeches of any group.

BLUM REFUSED EXTRA POWERS

Senate Declines To Grant Virtual Financial Dictatorship

Paris, June 19.—(AP)—The Senate refused today by a vote of 240 to 73 to give Socialist Premier Leon Blum's government a virtual dictatorship over French finances.

The bill, already approved by the Chamber of Deputies, was put to a vote by Radical Socialist senators, moderate supporters of Blum's coalition, in an effort to force a showdown.

The premier did not make the passage a vote of confidence, however, thus he need not resign.

His aides said the Chamber would be asked to readopt the bill tonight and return it for another test in the Senate tomorrow.

ASKS PROBE OF FIREARMS ACT

(Continued from page 4) Meanwhile Stephen Early, secretary to President Roosevelt, said the government could not order out troops to prevent disturbances in the steel strike unless requested to do so by a governor or state legislature.

Early was commenting on a second request for aid from Mayor Daniel Shields, of Johnstown, Pa. He said he was not speaking for the President.

Elsewhere government farm leaders said prospects were bright for a bountiful 1937 harvest—both in the fields and in congress.

Agriculture department market experts said probably large crops of wheat, rye, corn, oats and other grains would cause a downward adjustment in prices to farmers. They added, however, greater volumes of these crops would offset lower prices and increase cash income.

Farm cash income for the first four months of this year amounted to $2,951,000,000, a gain of $541,000,000 over the 1936 period.

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE NERVAUD

SYNOPSIS: Kay Crandon of the Lazy Nine surprises a desperate young man preparing to set a forest fire. She thinks he is the frebug the whole county is hunting, but Ted Gaynor convinces her this is the first fire he has tried to set. His aim: to get a fire fighting job and buy food for his mother and sister. She asks him to join her outfit, and Ted gratefully accepts. They are just starting off when Tom Runyon, the fire patrol, rides up and questions Kay, eyeing Ted suspiciously. Runyon spots the brush pile Ted left, but Kay shields him and outwits Runyon.

Chapter Four:

Fire At The Lazy Nine

THE picture of the two men who had flashed so strangely into her life that afternoon rose before her, and Kay tried to reason out her reactions to them.

Superficially, the natural thing would have seemed to be for her to be attracted to Tom Runyon and not to Ted Gaynor. And yet, just the opposite had happened.

Tom Runyon was much better looking by an invalid prepossessing in every way. Yet she found herself passing him by with hardly a thought, while her mind concentrated on Ted Gaynor and the brief outline of his history that he had given her.

It was mighty hard to be handicapped by an invalid mother and a blind sister, and then have all the breaks against you, as he had evidently had.

He was no weakling, that was clear. Desperation may have driven him to an act of folly, but it was an act of defiance against material things, for the sake of those he loved, who were dependent on him.

Kay tried to picture herself in those circumstances, with Aunt Kate and Babs hungry. Hungry! She gave an involuntary shudder. He actually had said "hungry"! A man could be forgiven almost any desperate act under those circumstances.

"Thank goodness we came along first, Flicker," Kay mused aloud. "It would have been the end of him, if Tom Runyon had found him instead of me. I know he'll be good, now that he has a break at last."

Dread Discovery

TOPPING a rise in the range, Kay's eye caught a faint haze over to the east, that spread like a gray film in the clear September air.

"Flicks!" Her voice held a note of alarm, as she pulled up and gazed intently toward the strange phenomenon. She glanced quickly to right and left to get her bearings, and a tight feeling caught her throat.

"It looks like smoke," she hardly recognized her own voice, "and it's just about where the house is."

As she watched, a thin gray white column rose slowly, ending in a brown puff, as it dispersed. It was followed by another, and yet another, but Kay was no longer watching.

Leaning forward in her saddle, she was urging Flicker to his topmost speed. In a brown streak the dried bunch grass of the range flashed past, and the rushing air fanned the color into her cheeks, and brought hot smarting tears to her eyes.

Impatiently blinking them back, she gazed desperately ahead to the ever spreading cloud of smoke with its ominous portent.

"Not the ranch house, Flicks! Not that!" She was unconscious of the broken cry that escaped her. But even as she uttered it, she knew it was the ranch house! There was no longer the shadow of a doubt.

Disjointed thoughts flashed through her mind in the mad race against time. Thank Heaven, Aunt Kate and Babs were away! Were Seth and the boys back from the range? Was anyone there to fight the fire?

She could see red forks of flame now through the smoke, and suddenly, a new column of smoke rose, some little distance to the left.

"The barn!" Kay gasped. "Oh, God, not the barn, too!"

Coherent thought left her as she strained every nerve to reach the scene of disaster. Another 10 minutes, and she could feel the heat from the glowing conflagration ahead. Ducking her head, she forged her way on, and the next thing she knew, she was pounding through the gate.

Pulling Flicker back on his haunches, as Seth rushed toward her, Kay half fell out of the saddle into his arms.

Bracing herself against him, she faced the blazing ruin of her home. Nothing to be done about it now; that was clear. The boys had left it and the barn to their fate, and were concentrating their efforts on trying to save the bunk house, beating out the flying sparks, as they fell on the roof and porch.

The Insurance Papers

"HOW did it happen, Seth?" Kay hardly recognized her strained voice, as she raised it above the roar and crackle of the flames.

"God knows," Seth answered, brokenly. "It was Chung Lee's afternoon off, so the house was empty, and all the outfit was on the range. I just got back in time to save the Old Man's desk, and a few things out of the living room."

He pointed with a smudged, blackened finger to a small pile of furniture that Kay had failed to notice before. The sight of the desk galvanized her to sudden action, and she ran over to it, pulling Seth with her.

"Thank Heaven, you saved that, Seth," she gasped. "All Dad's records are there, and the insurance papers with them."

"Thank God you're insured!" Seth's face, smeared with black, and with one bushy eyebrow half singed off, was comical in its relief. "I couldn't recollect whether you'd renewed it or not."

"I paid it up a month ago," Kay answered thankfully, fumbling in the desk drawer, and pulling out the precious policy, which she slipped in her blouse.

"It might be worse, Seth. But, oh, it will never be the same!" Her voice broke, and she bit her lips hard to keep them from trembling, as she faced the charred ruins of her beloved home.

The sudden roar of a truck burst through her despairing contemplation. Turning, she saw one of the Fire Association's trucks racing along the road. Another minute, and a dozen men were pouring over its sides, hauling their fire fighting apparatus after them.

"Too late for anything but the bunk house, boys," Seth called, and without waiting for further parley, they dashed over to save the last of the ranch buildings.

tax" on income received from this country by non-resident individuals and foreign corporations.

If the "withholding tax" were boosted to 25 per cent, some authorities said, tax payers abroad might be given the option of paying this levy or the ordinary American income tax.

This alternative, they declared, probably would lead many to pay the regular income tax rate, placing them on the same basis as citizens who pay standard income taxes.

As another method of reaching persons who transfer assets to foreign corporations, officials said they could urge congress to place a "pro-rata" tax on incorporators who live in this country.

To meet another problem, they said, it would be advisable to enact a law requiring the persons who earned the income in a family report it in full.

This would override the "community property" laws of eight states which permit division of family income between husband and wife for taxing purposes.

NOTICE to TAXPAYERS

Notice is hereby given that the Board of County Commissioners of Pitt County sitting as the Board of Equalization and Review will convene at the courthouse in Greenville, North Carolina, on Monday, the 21st day of June, 1937, for the purpose of hearing complaints of any and all tax payers who own or control taxable property assessed for taxation in Pitt County in respect to the valuation of such property, and to perform other duties imposed by law. However, since very few of the township boards of assessors have completed their work, the Board of Equalization and Review, will, after convening, adjourn to meet again on Monday, July 5th, 1937, and from time to time thereafter.

The Williamston Martins eased a 7-5 win over the Greenville Greenies at the Third Street stadium yesterday afternoon.

Elon made his debut for the Greenies in yesterday's affair and after walking Earp, Villepique and Stanley—of the Martins—he was yanked and replaced by King Karl Williams, who threatened to abdicate his pitching throne on several occasions.

Continuing their half of the first against the pitching of Williams—Stevens singled to left field, scoring Earp, and Stanley was out at second. "Santa Claus" Deim was safe at first on L. Johnson's error—and Villepique scored.

The locals tallied twice in the first to knot the score when Shortstop L. Johnson was hit by the pitcher. Thoele walked and Norwood singled scoring L. Johnson. The second run of this verse was made when Andy Johnson singled to right, scoring Thoele.

The Greenies scored again in the third when Norwood was issued a free ticket, Melchor singled to right, Williams was safe on McCay's error, Norwood and Melchor scoring on the play. At this point—Jefferson, the starting Martin hurler—was sent to the showers and replaced by Biggie—the big southpaw.

In the fourth, Lakotas hit to the infield and went to second on a wild throw to first by L. Johnson. Sharkey then singled to left, Biggie reached first on a fielder's choice, Sharkey being forced at second as Lakotas scored on the play. Earp then hit to the infield scoring Biggie. Villepique scored on Stanley's double. The final run for the visitors came about when Stevens homered over the centerfielder's head with no one on in the seventh.

The locals made their final tally in the eighth when Koontz took a base on balls and tallied when Farley doubled to center.

Melchor, with three for four, and Swamp Norwood, with two for three, topped Greenville's eight-hit attack. Williamston made an even dozen safeties, and the leaders, each with a pair, were Stanley, Stevens, Deim, and McCay.

The Greenies will battle Snow Hill's Billies here tomorrow afternoon. Game time is scheduled for 3 P. M.

THESE OLD FARMERS LEARN NEW TRICKS

Stephenville, Tex. (AP)—Three bearded country gentlemen, all past 70 years of age, are learning new tricks in the farming business.

They are R. M. Ford and J. B. Burch of Johnsville and Wm. R. Carter, of Selden. Each has farmed in Erath county for more than half a century. For the first time the aged men are terracing their land, explaining that "when we came here over 50 years ago we shared the belief our farms would outlive us. Not so. We find it necessary to rebuild our soil."

The three veterans are using their own machinery in the terracing. Each is an active "farm hand."

Carolina Dairy climbed into a tie with the Carolina Sales softball team by virtue of a 15-14 victory over the Kelvinator, radio, etc., salesmen yesterday afternoon in the only regular league game played.

Tadlocks and Flanagan Buggy company played a game, but the teams already had completed their present schedule and the game was not listed as official.

Although the Carolina Sales-Carolina dairy game was a hard fought contest, loose playing and heavy hitting were the order of the day. Two home runs, one by Harvey and one by Lautares, featured the victory by Carolina Dairy.

The Sales team got off to a good start in the first inning with three runs, but the lead was short lived as the dairymen came back in the second to score five.

The salesmen made a desperate effort in the last frame and scored four runs, one short of tying the score and two short of pushing in the winning run.

Goldsboro Gets Win Over Snow Hill Nine

Goldsboro — Buck Jarvis' double sent Adamek across the plate in the ninth inning with the run which gave Goldsboro a 6-5 victory over Snow Hill here Friday.

The victory, fifth in a row for Clarence Rogers' league - leading Bugs, gave the locals a sweep of the two-game series. Defeat dropped the Billies, whose eight-game winning streak was snapped yesterday, back to third place, a half game behind Williamston's Martins and three games back of the Bugs.

A single by Adamek started Goldsboro's victorious ninth-inning finish. Irby Wright, on the hill for the Billies since relieving Cuder in the second, disposed of Powell and Coombs. Up came Dynamite I-nasak, who had hit a homer and a single, and had driven in three runs. Manager Peahead Walker gave Wright orders to issue an intentional pass to Dynamite. This was done, but Jarvis then stepped into one of Wright's pitches for the game-ending double. Jarvis' hit caromed off the left-field fence. Goldsboro was never behind in the hard-fought game.

Kinston Eagles Eake Victory Over Bears

Kinston — Bill Sekeres was in good form here Friday afternoon and hurled the Kinston Eagles to a 2-1 victory over the New Bern Bears.

Sekeres permitted eight scattered hits and had perfect control except for his third victory in as many starts.

Lefty Flora, on the hill for the Bears, was touched for only six hits, but a timely double and wildness cost him the game.

Kinston registered one run in the first frame. Maisano, was safe on a fielder's choice. Wright singled, and Frank Mock, Kinston high school football coach, doubled to tally Maisano.

Mock scored the winning run in the fourth frame. He reached first on an error and went to second on Sekeres' single. Vick walked, and Dirmann was hit by a pitched ball to force Mock home.

In the seventh, New Bern registered its lone tally. Douglass singled, stole second, and scored on Thornton's double.

Moore and Thornton, with two hits apiece, accounted for half of New Bern's eight hits. Mock, with a double and a single, was the only batter producing more than one of the locals' six hits.

87 Killed On State Highways In May

LIQUOR, SPEED CAUSE WRECKS

May Fatalities Exceed Those in April When 74 Slain

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, June 19.—A mixture of speed, gasoline and liquor was responsible for the killing of 87 persons and the injury of 570 in 496 automobile accidents during May, according to the automobile accident statistics for that month released today by Captain Charles D. Farmer, commander of the state highway patrol.

This brings the total number of persons killed for the first five months of 1937 to 395 as compared with 367 killed in automobile accidents during the corresponding five months of 1936.

The number of persons killed and injured in May of this year is less than the number in May 1936, however, when 92 were killed and 633 injured in 530 accidents. But the record is not as good as that made in April of this year when only 74 were killed and 544 injured in 579 accidents.

An increase in the number of automobile accidents is always expected from May through August and even into September, because more cars are on the highways, with more people taking trips to the beach or the mountains or going on vacations, Captain Farmer pointed out. He also pointed out that there are something like 100,000 more cars registered now than this time last year with a heavy increase in the number of out-of-state cars and trucks.

Reckless and careless driving and disregard of the highway laws and rules of the road were responsible for most of these accidents in which 87 persons were killed and 570 injured, the figures show, with 73 fatal and 234 non-fatal accidents directly attributed to excessive speed, recklessness, hit-and-run driving and passing on curves and hills. Of these, speeding was given as the cause of 30 fatal and 50 non-fatal crashes, reckless driving the cause of 19 fatal and 97 non-fatal accidents, passing on curves and hills the cause of 21 fatal and 62 non-fatal crashes. As usual, most of the accidents took place on straight stretches of road, with 42 fatal and 140 non-fatal crashes reported as occurring on perfectly straight and clear stretches of highway. Two fatal and 21 non-fatal crashes occurred at rural intersections of side roads with main highways.

There were 278 rural accidents and 218 city accidents reported. Of the 218 city accidents, only seven were fatal, 211 being non-fatal while of the 278 rural accidents, 68 were fatal and 210 non-fatal. The larger number of fatal rural accidents is attributed to the higher speeds generally attained on the rural highways as compared with the slower speeds which usually prevail in the cities. This is also believed to explain the fact that of 144 accidents at street intersections in cities, only four were fatal.

Pedestrians continued to suffer heavily as casualties in automobile accidents with 28 pedestrians killed and 52 injured. Of these, 25 were children of which six were killed and 19 injured, while 19 pedestrians were killed and four injured while walking on the roadway. Three drunken pedestrians were killed and one injured.

Drunken drivers were involved in only two fatal accidents, but were regarded as responsible for 47 non-fatal accidents.

Collision accidents continue to top the list in frequency with 27 killed and 360 injured in collisions between cars and trucks, with nine killed and 41 injured in collisions with fixed objects, such as telephone poles generally attained on the One person was killed and three injured on collisions with trains at railroad crossings and two killed and 11 injured in collisions with bicycles. In non-collision accidents only 20 persons were killed and 99 injured.

cially Sundays — continue to be the days on which most accidents occur and hence the most dangerous on which to drive, while Tuesday seems to be the safest, with fewer accidents. The accidents score by days of the week during May was: Sunday, 30 fatal, 98 non-fatal; Monday, 6 fatal, 52 non-fatal; Tuesday, 2 fatal, 50 non-fatal; Wednesday, 7 fatal, 40 non-fatal; Thursday, 7 fatal, 28 non-fatal; Friday, 8 fatal, 61 non-fatal and Saturday, 15 fatal, 82 non-fatal.

How's Your Health?

Edited for the New York Academy of Medicine
By Dr. Igo Goldstein

Chronic Illness

Approximately one in every hundred of the general population in the United States is disabled by chronic illness. And these afflicted ones do not all fall in the aged and infirm group.

In a census of the chronically ill made by Miss Mary C. Jarrett for the Welfare Council of New York City, it was found that nearly half of all the chronically ill persons were under 40 years of age, about one-third were children under 16, chiefly afflicted with orthopedic disorders, and nearly one-fourth of these children were under the age of six. Only one-fifth of the whole number were over 70.

The outlook for recovery was favorable in one-fourth of the children, and in one-tenth of the adults under 60.

The problem of chronic illness, however, is not one of recovery. A patient may never be cured, but he need not necessarily be incapacitated for work and enjoyment of life.

Among children, chronic disease is overwhelmingly caused by the late results of infantile paralysis and by tuberculosis of the bones and joints. Among adults, the most frequent causes are disease of the circulatory system and of the nervous system, chronic rheumatism, cancer and diseases of the bones and joints.

The chronically ill patient is not invariably bed-ridden. In the New York census it was found that the majority of the patients could get about. Only 30 per cent of the adults and 15 per cent of the children were confined to bed or wheel chair.

The problem of chronic illness is little appreciated by the public, and adequate facilities for dealing with it are not available. The acutely ill patient will find many resources for treatment. The acutely ill patient will find many resources for treatment. The chronically ill person, unless he is in good economic circumstances, will find few facilities available to him for treatment.

MADRID'S RAGTAIL SUPPORTERS TURN INTO A POWERFUL ARMY

LOYALIST ARMY THEN . . .

AND NOW

(Eleven Months Have Made a World Of Difference)

By ALEXANDER H. UHL
Madrid, (AP)—Out of 11 months of bitter warfare has come a strong loyalist army, well disciplined, well equipped.

It is a far cry from the ragged, poorly equipped peasant and workers militia that faced Franco's professionals last July.

The government proudly cites the new army as its principal accomplishment to date—and to anyone who saw the ragtail band it started with it is readily apparent that a tremendous task in organization has been accomplished.

Armed Mob at First

In the beginning the "people's army" was little better than an armed mob and not too well armed at that. The old army with its officers was gone and the new defenders of the government were not only ignorant of military ways but instinctively turned against any thoughts of discipline and organization.

On the road to Toledo I drove up to a disorganized mass of troops retreating from Bargas, key to the Toledo position. A dozen men rushed up, gesticulating wildly, and in broken sentences, demanding the car. Pointing to the American flag fluttering from the windshield, I refused to surrender it and demanded to see an officer.

"Officers!" they shouted. "We have no officers!"

Against Their Philosophy

And it was true. They were Catalan anarchists come to help save Madrid but the idea of some one in a position to give commands was foreign to their philosophy.

Today the bitter lessons learned on the battlefield of lack of discipline and organization have been taken to heart.

Regularly formed military units, uniformly equipped as in any army, have replaced the old brigades representing political or labor organizations.

There are officers, perhaps in even a higher ratio than in other armies, and that old fetish of every army, the salute, is rigidly observed even in front line trenches.

Young Officers

On a recent visit to the Arganda front I met a dozen of young officers recently graduated by officers' training schools. They were smartly dressed, kept about their jobs and took immense pride in their trenches and discipline. They might have been officers in any army in the world. What made them different was their youth. There were captains and even majors scarcely in their 20s.

Commissars with the troops representing party and syndical organizations have helped the government whip untrained masses into a real army. Every sector has a training school. Operating alongside is a school for the three Rs. The thirst for knowledge among Spanish peasants, some of whom have never seen the inside of a school, is enormous.

Every day the new army is being built into a more cohesive unit. On it the government pins its confidence of eventually breaking the rebellion.

in the early stages of chronic disease and the haphazard care provided are wasteful and inefficient, both from the standpoint of human values and of actual financial cost to the community.

Although many of these chronic diseases cannot yet be prevented, it is possible today to prevent much of the disability caused by chronic disease.

MOSQUITOES HELP STUDENTS PASS EXAMS

Austin, Tex. (AP) — After all other methods had failed to ward off sleep while cramming for final exams, University of Texas students tried mosquitoes.

A pre-medical student turned loose six of the insects in his room and says he was kept awake half the night by their buzzing. The rest of the night he spent in scratching. "Then there's the possibility you might become ill with malaria and earn a postponed examination," said another hopeful experimenter.

Hollywood — The worst feature of the film "Parnell" will be its strongest box - office asset. Clark Gable plays the Irish statesman.

Once you get accustomed to Ohio's Gable in the role, you may follow through with him. But the going is made more difficult by the liberal sprinkling of authentic Irish and British players in support and by the painstaking atmospheric exactitude displayed throughout.

John M. Stahl worked mightily on direction, and the result is an above - average, less - than - epic film. Myrna Loy, as the woman whose love scandalizes Parnell's fight for Irish home rule to defeat, will help the box-office too. Miss Loy, incidentally, was not the only woman who cried at the preview.

Every time Ginger Rogers has made a picture lately with another ranking woman in the cast there have been stories of feuding. . . First it was Harriet Hillard. . . then Harriet Hctor. . . Actually there was nothing to it in either case. . .

And now that she's in "Stage Door" with Hepburn, you'll hear those stories again. . . For your information, Ginger and Katie are pals and I think they'll keep on that way. . .

It's a wise movie mamma who keeps hands off daughter's personal and professional career. . . That makes Martha Raye's mamma a wise one. . . Upset at first when Martha married Buddy Westmore, she finally gave blessings. . . Last time a mother got upset that way was when Loretta Young's tried to annual the Young-Grant Withers ties. . . In that case Time and Tired fixed everything. . .
