NEW EVIDENCE PRESENTED AT JOINT INQUIRY

Chas. Evans Hughes, Jr., Member of Firm Mentioned

TREASURY MAN PRESENT WITNESS

Joint Investigating Committee Continues Probe Into Income Tax Evasions

Washington, June 22.—(AP)—Mason Leming, attorney for the treasury, mentioned the law firm of Hughes, Schurman and Dwight, of which Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., is a member, in discussing today the creation of foreign insurance companies as a method of reducing income tax payments.

Testifying before the Congressional committee on his findings, Leming said in 1931 a Walter C. Baber, of New York city, whom he described as a citizen of Great Britain, was instrumental in organizing at Nassau, Bahamas Islands, a firm known as the Standard Life Insurance Company, Limited.

The company was incorporated, he said, with 5,000 shares of $10 par value each, of which 10 shares were subscribed for, but not paid. Baber, he said, took five shares. In late 1932, Leming said, William Bayless, who was Baber's partner in the Baber - Bayless company of New York, approached Richard E. Dwight of the law firm of Hughes, Schurman and Dwight.

Leming said he "understood" the firm of Hughes, Schurman and Dwight had been dissolved "I think last week."

Senator Harrison (D. Miss.) interrupted to instruct the witness: "Tell us what happened." "Mr. Dwight," Leming resumed, "had an income in 1932 which could be wiped out by a deduction of $143,700. He understood with the Standard Life Insurance company of the Bahamas to enter into a contract."

Rep. Treadway (R. Mass.) asked whether Dwight "had attempted to cover the contract up?" Leming replied he would come to that "presently."

Short Watermelon Crop May Result In Better Prices

Only 11,600 Acres Planted in Year As Compared With 12,000 in Last Year

Raleigh, June 22.—North Carolina farmers have reduced their watermelon acreage from 12,000 acres in 1936 to 11,600 acres this year. W. H. Rhodes, chief of the Department of Agriculture's statistical division, announced today. This should bring about somewhat better prices this year.

North Carolina melon growers receive a total of $333,000 for their crop last year, or $3,000 less than the 1935 crop brought.

Following a survey by the Department of Agriculture, the Statistical Division had reported: In the coastal counties and in the Pamlico-Mount Olive section, approximately the same acreage as last year has been planted.

Plantings in Scotland, Hoke, Robeson and Cumberland Counties are approximately 15 to 20 per cent less than in 1936.

"Growers made very little money with watermelons last year and many are turning to cotton or other crops," Rhodes said.

Watermelons brought 13 cents a piece last year or $130 per 1,000 melons as compared with $120 per 1,000 melons in 1935 and $70 per 1,000 in 1934.

Cantaloup growers have increased their acreage by 7 per cent this year over 1936 when 4,300 acres were planted. In the Lenoirburg area, where most of the cantaloups are produced, the acreage has been increased from 10 to 15 per cent this year, while most of the other sections have about the same acreage as planted in 1936, Rhodes said.

Escalator 'De-Kilt's' Visiting Scot London (AP)—More than 20,000,000 people rode London's underground railways during coronation week — and the best story is of the jaunty Highlander who lost his kilt.

The Highlander rode an escalator while sitting on one of the steps. There was a loud ripping noise. The kilt went up while the Scot continued down.

EDEN REJECTS REICH DEMAND

Refuses to Join Demonstration Sought to Warn Spanish

London, June 22.—(AP)—Great Britain will refuse to join any naval demonstration off the coast of Spain as a German-sought "warning" to the Spanish government. Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons today. His announcement followed swiftly upon an excited report that Germany, demanding punishment of the Spanish Republican regime for what the Third Reich contends was a torpedo attack on her cruiser Leipzig, had presented France and Britain with a virtual ultimatum for stringent action — perhaps a four-power naval display of warning near Valencia.

TOKYO PLANNING SHAFT TO CAP EMPIRE STATE

Tokyo (AP)—Japan wants to build a shaft higher than the Empire State building or the Eiffel Tower but—

Mediation Board Chairman Expresses Optimism Over Seven-State Steel Strike

Decisions Not to Open Youngstown Plants Significant

Cleveland, O., June 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's steel mediation board held a second conference with John L. Lewis today, and called the executives of four strike-affected companies to another meeting tomorrow.

With the seven-state walkout in "status quo" through the intervention of the President and the Ohio National Guard, Chairman Charles Taft of the Mediation Board expressed optimism as to the board's chances of bringing a settlement.

Taft said the steel executives before they left their first meeting with the board yesterday had told him of their willingness to come back at the board's request. A spokesman for the steel men had said previously they had no intention of returning voluntarily.

Taft said the decision of Youngstown Sheet and Tube and Republic not to reopen their Youngstown plants this morning also contributed to the chances for a settlement.

Meanwhile in the hills of the Monongah valley unionists chanted "we've won the strike!"

Quick moves were made last night and early today and the "status quo" which the labor secretary so eagerly pleaded for prevailed, but against the angry dissent of the steel companies involved.

Scheduled reopening of one Republic Steel plant in Youngstown and three Youngstown sheet and tube plants in the same city moved Governor Martin Davey to order 4,800 Ohio National guardsmen into the troubled area early in the day.

"There will be butchery and bloodshed if the mill gates open," union leaders had wired the president and the governor.

First the Governor talked with the President who approved, said Davey, Chairman Taft of the mediation board added his plea.

The steel companies, adamant, said the state must be responsible for keeping non-strikers from their jobs.

Dry Ranks Claim Victory As Wake Votes On Liquor

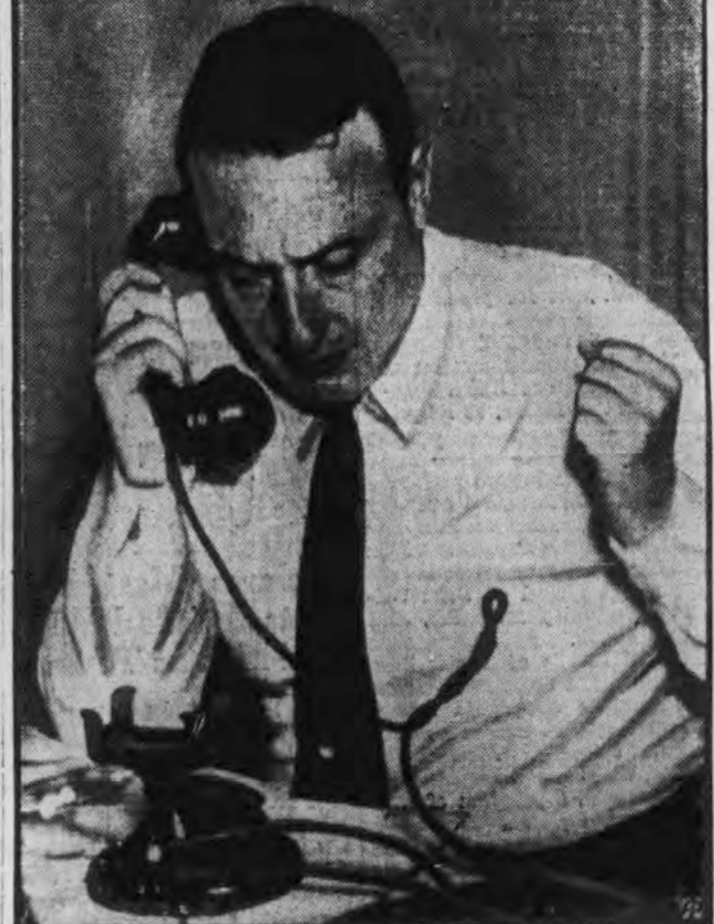

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, June 22.—Church bells are tolling throughout Raleigh and Wake county today closing the intensive campaign which has been conducted by the dries to defeat liquor control and liquor stores, a plan being voted on over the city and county today.

The dry leaders are confident they will win and defeat the liquor control movement, although those favoring liquor control maintain they have a chance — though a very slim one to win the election. The prevailing opinion in most circles here today is that the dries will outvote the liquor control forces by from 500 to 2,000 votes, depending upon the size of the vote cast. It is also generally agreed that Raleigh will vote for liquor by from 500 to 1,000 votes but that the vote out in the county will be heavily against control and thus outbalance the vote here in the city.

Both the dry and the control forces regard the vote here today as having far-reaching significance and believe it will determine to a very large extent how other counties will vote and if other counties will call elections. If Raleigh and Wake vote against liquor control and liquor stores, the dry forces are confident they will have scored a great victory and that other counties will be deterred from calling elections on liquor control. They also believe that this will have a decided effect on the next general assembly and that as a result they will be able to elect representatives to the next general assembly to repeal the 1937 liquor control law and thus make the entire state technically dry again. By defeating liquor control already in four counties and by almost defeating it in several others, the dry forces believe they have thrown a real scare into the county political leaders all over the state with the result that the "county rings" will no longer dare to oppose their efforts to elect a "dry" general assembly next year for the 1939 session.

The control forces here readily agree that if the dries manage to win in the Wake county election today it will give them considerable prestige and encouragement throughout the state and that it (Continued on page four)

CIVIL SERVICE SET UP IN CITY OF CHAUTEMPS

Five-Man Commission To Assume Duties On July 1st

Beginning July 1 a Civil Service Commission will assume control over the personnel of the Greenville fire and police departments, such action having been provided by a legislative act at the 1937 General Assembly.

Under the set-up one member will represent each of the two departments, the other three having been named by a special committee of the Board of Aldermen.

Chief G. A. Clark of the police department selected G. V. Smith and Chief George Gardner named J. Key Brown to represent the fire department.

The aldermanic committee selected Dr. L. C. Skinner, H. L. Hodges and W. W. Lee. Dr. Skinner, who was named for a three-year term, was selected chairman. Each of the others named by the board will serve terms of one year, while those named by the two departments will serve for two years each.

All applicants for positions with either department hereafter will be required to stand the standard insurance physical examination. The Commission is preparing a questionnaire as to education and other qualifications which will be submitted to all applicants.

The age limit for new employees in the police department has been set at from 23 to 34 years and that for firemen at from 21 to 31 years.

At the present time there are nine members of the police department who are already eligible and will not have to stand the examinations. They are G. A. Clark, J. L. Whitchard, S. B. Dorsey, H. E. Wooten, R. D. House, R. T. Rogerson, J. R. Mobley, W. L. Brewer and E. G. Lynch.

There are three firemen who will be allowed to retain their positions without standing an examination. They are George Gardner, Jasper Jones and A. B. Sumrell.

Hereafter, however, when a person applies for a position, either as fireman or policeman, he will have to undergo the examination and the Commission will fill any vacancies to add new members according to grades made on the examinations.

Another commission was authorized by the recent General Assembly, but members have not been named and it is not expected to start functioning until after the new fiscal year begins. It would serve as a "little social security" for members of the police and fire departments, named from the federal program because they are municipal employees.

SENATE VOTES RELIEF MONEY ASKED BY FDR

Upper Branch Approves Request For $1,500,000,000

BRINGS END TO HEATED DEBATE

Amendment by Sen. Bridges to Cut Appropriation to $1,000,000,000 Lost

Washington, June 22.—(AP)—The senate approved the administration's $1,500,000,000 relief bill today, winding up six days of heated controversy.

A few minutes before, with shouts of "No," a majority defeated an amendment to cut the bill to $1,000,000,000. The proposal was made by Sen. Bridges (R-N.H.)

Efforts yesterday to require specified contributions from communities for relief projects likewise were defeated.

In the meanwhile Postmaster General Earle contended in United States District court the postoffice department had legal authority to stop deliveries of mailed foodstuffs into strike-besieged steel plants in Ohio.

Earle made the contention to a mandamus action brought against him by the Republic Steel Corporation, by which the latter sought to compel the department to permit delivery of packages containing food and clothing to its plants in Niles and Warren, Ohio.

The postmaster general charged the corporation had offered such packages for delivery primarily to involve the government in the industrial controversy.

Elsewhere in Washington the Navy department announced it would construct its two new battleships in navy yards. One will be built in the New York and the other in Philadelphia.

Meanwhile White House officials said President Roosevelt had virtually recovered from the nasal cold which kept him away from his office yesterday.

Albright Is Chosen State Employment Service Director

Appointed to Fill Vacancy Created by Resignation of Mrs. May Thompson Evans Some Time Ago

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, June 22.—R. Mayne Albright of Raleigh has been appointed as director of the North Carolina Employment Service by the N. C. Unemployment Compensation Commission of which the employment service is a division. It was announced today by Chairman Charles Powell of the commission. Albright has been acting director of the employment service ever since the registration of Mrs. May Thompson Evans some months ago.

The appointment of Albright as director of this service is regarded as a purely non-political appointment—probably the only non-political appointment that has been made by the commission so far. The reason for this is that the Social Security Board in Washington required that the appointment be made from the three who made the highest rating in a competitive examination held for the post and in which more than 20 persons competed. Chairman Powell declined to reveal who the other two were who were among the three from which the commission selected Albright, saying that the Social Security Board would not allow the names of the other two to be made public. The examination and competition, incidentally, was open to Republicans as well as Democrats and it is understood that one or two Republicans stood the examination. But it is not known whether any of them was among the trees with the highest rating.

Meeting Attended By Local Sheriff

Sheriff Whitehurst was awarded goods made at the Biltmore worsted mills with which to make him a suit of clothes, for having traveled the greatest distance of any officer present. He travelled 450 miles, going by way of Wilmington to pick up an officer-friend there.

"The Care of Milk on the Farm"
The Pitt County Health Department issues the following statement about milk:

Milk must be handled with great care all the year around, but with special care during warm weather. Milk is a very perishable food and is easily contaminated with disease germs from both human beings and cows.

Milk should be taken only from healthy animals. The udder and the teats should be washed and wiped dry before milking. This prevents dirt and hair from dropping into the pail during the milking.

Milk should be chilled immediately after milking and kept in clean vessels and as cold as circumstances will permit.

Cows are susceptible to tuberculosis and if the cow has this disease and the raw milk is given to babies, the babies may develop tuberculosis, which means that all cows should be tested from time to time for tuberculosis.

It is also extremely important that the milk be free from disease, himself, and that he be certain that his hands are clean and that the milk is not left exposed to flies, etc. Dirty or unclean milk is one of the commonest causes of diarrhea and enteritis in infants. Diarrhea and enteritis in infants is a serious condition and if it develops, a physician should be called at once.

WORKS SPEAKS AT CIVIC CLUB

Declares Most Residents Satisfied With 4-Months Town

By WATT BROWN

Greenville has the banking facilities, brains, ability and raw material but seems with a few exceptions on the part of a few individual men to be satisfied to continue a four months town declared R. J. Works last night in a brief address to the Rotary Club. Judson Blount introduced the speaker. Greenville has grown as a tobacco market because the business men have stuck together and reached out to sell more tobacco than just that grown in Pitt county, the speaker cited in his opening remarks.

Eastern Carolina has the opportunity to develop itself as well as Western North Carolina if the Eastern Carolina towns would pull together Mr. Works stated. In the opinion of the speaker Western Carolina has developed industrially because they have looked about for their development and are benefiting from the continuous payrolls and are manufacturing raw products which are produced in the East. As a specific suggestion Mr. Works mentioned getting the research department at State College to indicate the most likely field for exploitation.

Prior to the speaker of the evening Ed Conway sang two solos in a clear, true young voice and Marie Smith did two tap dance numbers. Billy Nesbit, chairman of the Public Information Committee presented the program. Dr. C. C. Garlington of Bethel was the only visiting Rotarian and Bill Grant of Kinston the only other guest of the evening. Next Monday night the Rotary club will install the new officers for the coming Rotary year.

How's Your Health?

Eye Strain
By DR. IAGO GALDSTON

Eye strain results from any condition which obliges the eyes to extend more than normal effort to get the best vision of which the eyes are capable. A wide variety of factors, therefore, contribute to eye strain. Among these are:

Poor or bad illumination; poor posture, especially while reading; small and bad type; defective vision.

The last condition we will consider here, for strain, always exists when the eyes are not optically correct. The eyes always work automatically and invariably make every effort to see as well as they can. In attempting to compensate for their defects, they often suffer strain.

Farsightedness, nearsightedness and astigmatism are the three optical faults which commonly induce eye strain.

The farsighted eye does not, as is commonly believed, see far or distant objects well. On the contrary, whereas the normal eye looking at distant objects is completely relaxed and rested, the farsighted (hyperopic) eye must strain to bring the view in focus.

This is so because in the farsighted eye the image falls too far back of the retina, the sensitive membrane, lining the interior of

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE NERVAUD

SYNOPSIS: Kay Crandon of the Lazy Nine halts a desperate young man, Ted Gaynor, who is about to set a forest fire to get a job for flying. She offers him a place in her outfit. Riding home, Kay finds her ranch house and barn lost in flames. Seth Jordan, her faithful foreman, has saved the insurance papers. Josh Hastings, owner of the Flying Six, invites Kay there, but she distrusts him. Her younger sister, Babs, and peppery old Aunt Kate willingly accept the Hastings invitation; Kay insists on staying at her smoldering ranch to start rebuilding.

Chapter Six

New Courage For Kay

"If she won't come, she won't." To Kay's relief, Josh Hastings broke into Aunt Kate's querulous remonstrance. "We may as well be getting under way. Perhaps Kay will deign to come and see you sometime, even if you are at the Flying Six."

Kay flushed under his sarcastic tone, and she had to bite her lips and swallow hard before she could answer. It was abominable to have to be under this obligation to him, but for the moment there was no way out of it.

"I'll be glad to come, and thank you for your hospitality," she deliberately ignored his sarcasm as "There, there, honey," Seth patted her shoulder.

he hugged Babs goodbye and drew a kiss to Aunt Kate. Still unconsciously clutching Seth's arm, she stood proudly erect as she watched the buckboard wheel around and start off in the direction of the Flying Six, accompanied by Hastings and the two little girls on horseback.

After a last wave, they dipped down out of sight, and with a broken little cry, Kay turned and buried her face in Seth's shoulder. "There, there, honey," he soothingly patted her shoulder the way he used to when she had come to him with her childish woes. "You come on over and have a bite to eat, and you'll see things a heap more hopeful like."

"I'm all right now," Kay beamed at Seth and smiled at Aunt Kate. "Let's look at what's left."

Throwing herself into the excitement of feeding the fire crew and getting them off, Kay had no time for thought or feelings until she found herself at dusk on the porch of the log cabin that was to be her temporary home.

She waved goodbye to Seth and the boys, as they retreated uncertainly toward the bunk house. She had finally convinced them that she had everything she needed, and that she wanted to be alone. So they had at last reluctantly left her.

The Picture Over The Bunk

SUDDEN tears trembled on her lashes as she glanced in the tiny room behind her. The best cot the bunk house afforded was in one corner, with the clearest blanket that could be found folded neatly at its foot.

Her father's desk and his chair were in the opposite corner, and his gun rack, with its curious collection of guns and rifles, was fastened on the wall. Other odds and ends that Seth had saved gave just enough of a touch of the old spacious living room to bring a catch to her throat.

Kay clenched her hands until the nails bit into the palms. She mustn't give way now, just because she was alone!

Suddenly her eye caught a picture that had been tacked on the wall over the desk. It was an old magazine cover of a girl with hair not unlike her own, who was waving a gay greeting to the world in general.

Kay had seen this in the bunk house over Seth's bunk, and the sight of it here, with all that it told of the clumsy, affectionate attempt to try to brighten up her new home, broke down Kay's last shred of control. Leaning her head against the door, she abandoned herself to the tears that would no longer be suppressed.

"Please don't do that! Can't I do something for you?"

Kay started violently at the voice that broke in on her misery. Fumbling for her handkerchief, she wiped her eyes, and turned around to face Ted Gaynor.

"You!" she faltered, with a sudden rush of memory of the events of the late afternoon which the later catastrophe had completely obliterated from her mind.

She gazed at him with a fascinated incredulity. Was it only a few hours since she had had that strange encounter with this man? The sudden realization that she was now living in one of the cabins she had offered to him swept over her, and she began to laugh with a helpless, hysterical note that frightened her, though she was powerless to stop it.

"Don't!" He sprang up the steps and gently guided her to a chair, then grabbed up a glass and filled it with water from a pitcher the boys had left on the table. "Drink that!"

Kay reached for the glass with a trembling hand, her hysterical laughter subsiding under the influence of his compelling voice, and his dark eyes that gazed into hers. Sympathy and concern for her had replaced the tragic misery in their depths that had so moved her before, and again she felt his strange magnetism as she smiled a slow reassuring smile.

A Date For Tomorrow

"DON'T worry about anything you promised me this afternoon," he said finally. "What you did for me up there on the ridge has given me a new lease of life. I'm not going to be a burden on you, but if there is any way I can help you, you have only to say what it is."

"I can still make good on what I offered you," Kay answered impulsively. "That is, if your mother and sister can get on in the other cabin like this. You can stay in the bunk house. I'll need all the help I can get to rebuild."

An involuntary sigh of relief escaped him at this decision. "You'll have all the help I can give," he promised simply. "And if you don't need the other cabin for yourself we'll be only too thankful to have it."

"That's settled, then," Kay got up and went over to the desk. "I'll write a note and tell Seth about you."

She drew out a piece of paper, then paused as a sudden thought struck her. "I tell you what I'd like you to do," she added. "I'm riding to town tomorrow to see about the insurance. I think you had better come with me, so as to be out of the way in case that Runyon man comes over. Will you do that?"

"I'll do anything you say," Ted Gaynor answered, a curious intent look in his eyes as he watched her scribble a hasty note. "What time do we start?"

"Seven o'clock," Kay answered, handing him the note. "That will fix things up with Seth."

He took the note and put it in his pocket, as he turned to go. At the top of the steps he paused irresolutely. "You're sure you're all right?"

Kay nodded. "Sure. Somehow, you've given me new courage. So now we're quits."

A slow color crept into his face at her words.

"We can never be quits on that," he said huskily. Then he abruptly turned and made for the bunk house.

Silver Springs, Fla.—From that "dead pan" Ross Allen wears in action, you'd think snake hooking was the safest, dulllest business in the world.

A harmless little garter snake is enough to give most anyone the heebie jeebies. But Allen, armed with only a hooked stick, displays no emotion at catching black diamond rattlers for the Florida reptile institution here. And he wears only the lightest of clothes.

Thrusting his stick into the bushes he hooks a writhing reptile and throws it out into the open where handling is a little less precarious. Then while one hand grabs it midriffs to control its jurning, the other hand gets the snake by the head.

MEXICO'S NEW PRELATE LAUGHS AT TROUBLE

HIS HUMOR COMES IN HANDY... 'Hoy' Photo

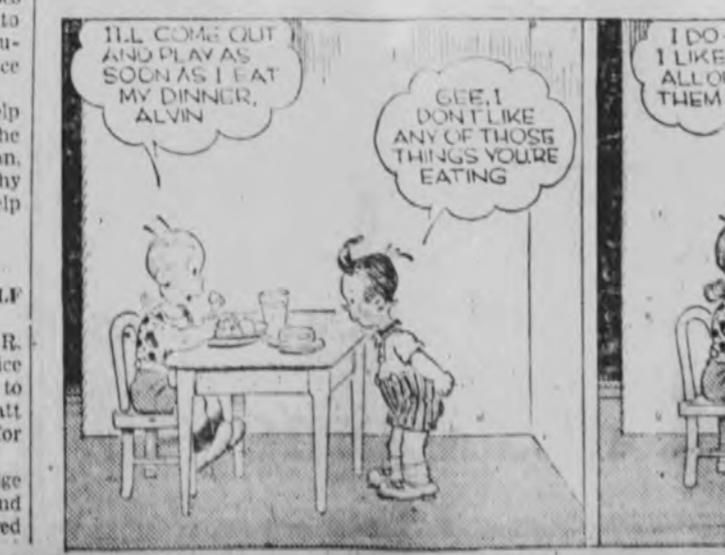

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A big part of Monsignor Luis M. Martinez' stock in trade as he confronts Mexico's still ticklish church problem is good humor.

The new head of the Catholic church in Mexico laughs easily and often. His wits are quick.

The prelate, who was named to replace the late Archbishop Paschil Diaz last February, feels things are better with the church here than they have been for many years.

President Cardenas' policy of tolerance and moderation, the new archbishop believes is gradually improving long-strained relations between church and state.

IRISH POTATO BALANCED DIET

Provides All Food Essential When Properly Cooked

Raleigh, June 22.—Irish potatoes prepared with milk and butter provide all the food essentials needed by the human body, according to Miss Mary E. Thomas, extension nutritionist at State College.

In pointing out the value of potatoes in the diet, she said they contain well balanced amounts of food essential except vitamin A and calcium.

"Add two tablespoonsful of milk and one teaspoon of butter to a medium-sized potato and you have a combination providing its share of all the essentials," she continued. "In fact, she said, this combination provides more than its share of calcium, iron, phosphorus, and vitamins B and C, and can be used to supplement rat foods which are deficient in these essentials.

Although Miss Thomas does not recommend a diet of potatoes alone, she stressed the importance of "this inexpensive food" in balancing the diet and overcoming diseases due to malnutrition.

The surplus potatoes purchased from Eastern North Carolina farmers to stabilize the market and distributed to needy families should be helpful in protecting these families from "deficiency diseases," she added.

The purchases are being made by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation in cooperation with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration and the federal and State College agricultural extension service.

THE SLEEPING HARE

Sometime ago we suggested that prior to the opening of this year's tobacco market
Greenville stage a "Tobacco Festival" or some other get-together event in an effort to attract visitors to this city that they might become better acquainted with the advantages of this city
as a shopping center and tobacco market. In addition to suggesting this in this column the matter was mentioned to certain local businessmen and representatives of the tobacco industry in this city. Frankly, some of the business men seemed interested but the tobacco market group apparently were not interested and as a result no steps have been taken in the direction of staging such a celebration
here.

Now comes a report from Wilson that that city is going to stage a "Tobacco Festival" sometime during August at which time Governor
Hoey, Secretary of Agriculture
Wallace and other notables will appear on the program. It seems that Greenville has again sit still and let one of its neighbors
get ahead of it.

Greenville is a good town
and offers advantages unsurpassed by any other town
of this section, but if we continue to sit still and take for granted that the outside world knows these things,
while our neighbors are wide awake and up and doing, we will soon find that we have been left behind in the march of progress.

The tortoise in the fable won the race by continuing to forge ahead while the hare slept. Greenville is showing progress along many lines but so far as trying to let the outside world know about Greenville and its many advantages, we are occupying the role of the sleeping hare.

DRY RANKS CLAIM VICTORY AS WAKE VOTES ON LIQUOR

will probably reduce the number of counties which have been planning to call liquor control elections between now and fall. But they do not agree with the contention of the dries that the slowing up of the control movement is going to mean that the dries will be able to get control of the next general assembly. For while it is undoubtedly true that a good many of the political leaders in the counties are trying to remain neutral and inactive in the liquor control elections, this does not mean that they are going to let the dries select the members of the 1939 general assembly, it is maintained.

The bootleggers as well as the dries here in Raleigh and Wake county have been greatly encouraged for several days, especially when it became known that Ambasador Josephus Daniels was coming down from Washington to help save Wake county for the dries. Ambasador Daniels made one of the principal speeches at the political rally held by the dry forces in one of the high schools Sunday night and for which all the churches in the city adjourned their Sunday night services. One of the bootleggers here who specializes in filling telephone orders and who makes many deliveries to the hotels, was asked Sunday night how the election was going.

"Well, it looks pretty good for the dries now, especially since Ambassador Daniels has come down to help us out," he is reported to have replied with a broad smile. "I think the wets will lose out."
Authentic reports are that the bootleggers in Raleigh and Wake county have contributed liberally to the dry cause, are furnishing many cars and workers in the election today.
The control force maintain, however, that the election is going to be much closer than the dries are predicting and that the vote out in the rural sections will not be as preponderantly dry as has been predicted. They maintain that many of the country people are convinced that it would be better to have legal liquor stores in Raleigh and perhaps in one or two other places in the county than to have bootleg liquor sold at almost every rural filling station and barbecue stand.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Crover
Washington — One of the neat tricks the wage-hour bill could perform would be to help establish a monopoly in any one industry or in several industries.

Since the bill is intended to benefit labor instead of injuring it, a wise administrator of the measure likely would attempt to avoid such an outcome—but the pressure would be there, both from owners and employees.

For instance, take spinning. Thirty years ago there were comparatively few cotton mills in South Carolina or other southern states.
New England did the country's spinning. But there was a supply of cheap labor in the south and cotton was grown near by, so mills began opening there.

Now suppose the present wage-hour bill had been law at the time
the southern drift started. Undoubtedly the New England mills, fully supported by their employees,
would have asked that minimum wage levels be established to retard,
if not prevent, the opening of new mills in the south. New England likely would argue that such a source was wise, and a good case can be made against permitting indiscriminate establishment of new competitive enterprises.

Yet when an industry is protected from competition it becomes a monopoly — and the country has long been on record against operation of monopolies.

But regardless of whether the new wage-hour bill should become an instrument of furthering monopolistic practices, the country still faces the problem. It has dealt with it with little success for 50 years.
The old-time Sherman and Clayton acts sought to break up monopoly. Some contend they merely drove it under ground beyond the reach of regulation. NRA took a step in the opposite direction by inviting it to come into the open subject to a combination of self-regulation and public regulation.
NRA bogged down for multiple reasons.

There are persons both within and outside the government who predict that, in spite of such antagonists as Senator Borah, the future will see the operation of a system of modified monopolies rather than open competition.
Growth in that direction, they predict, will necessitate increasing government intervention to prevent price fixing, excess profits and the practice of curtailing production to maintain price levels, all of which spell wider fluctuations in employment.

But that is a long time view and serves primarily to put a spotlight
on the road ahead.

The British government is spending $10,000,000 in a 3-year campaign to improve the nation's physical fitness.

hold. The match usually sets the cuff of the trousers on fire, and finally burns down to the shoe,
where, after a pause, it sends a stab
of pain into the victim's foot. Men who have been hot-footed invariably are badly blistered.

Suddenly came the inevitable
start, and Mickey quickly put out the flame, stamping his feet. But he didn't threaten to knock anybody's block off. Realizing, no doubt, that there are oats in every crowd, and remembering that he was being paid to render dance music, not fisticuffs, he grinned good-naturedly and went on about his business.

Later, it was revealed that this little practical joke had ruined the trousers of a $150 dress suit and a $21 pair of slippers.

It would be pleasant to report that Mickey later collared the pair
and tossed them into the Hudson from the lofty tower upon which the Riviera rests, but that, unhappily, isn't the case. One of these days, they'll run up against somebody who isn't in a genial frame of mind, somebody who'll forget that in such cases the source should always be considered. I'd like to be on hand, just to witness the mayhem when they do.

Incidentally, Marden announced several months ago that he was spending a half million on his new club. Most of us put that down as just a publicity story, but this is where one skeptic, at least, will have to bend the knee. High on the rim of the Palisades, with the blue Hudson in the foreground and the stars overhead, it is a dream palace
of soft lights and exotic music.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York — In a damply diffused state and with the Manhattan heat sweltering on all sides, this limpid correspondent pauses to announce that the first few weeks of summer have been made less endurable by a brand new epidemic of practical-joking.

For months it has been fondly
imagined that the bred was dying
out, but past moaning saxophones, stuffy court rooms and jangling intersections come reports that the pests have only begun to make life

a jittery experience for the trusting and the unwary.

A classic example of what these numb lads call fun occurred in the pleasantly exotic setting of Ben Marden's Riviera club the other night. As the crowd surrendered itself to the enjoyment of Mickey Albert's music, some dizzy hypochondriac engaged Mickey in conversation while his pal slipped a match in the wedge of the orchestra leader's dress shoes. He lit the match. Then the pair faded so that they could watch the fun from a safe distance. This is called givsults are sometimes startling to be-

Ayden, June 22.—Tarboro led in home runs, three to two, but Ayden did most of the talking and took an 8-6 win over the Snakes yesterday in a playoff of a deadlock recorded here a couple of Sundays ago.

The big blow in the Ayden victory was Baker's home run in the fourth. Jirak drew a walk to open the verse. With one out, Corrado and Joyner singled. Jirak tallied on Joyner's hit. A pass to Fary filled the bases, and then Baker hit one—high and far—over the left field all.

The other homer for Ayden came in the eighth—John McCormick. Ayden Ace backstop, sent a drive over the right-field wall.

Tarboros round-trippers, accounting for four runs—Milner homered with one on in the second; Ware matched this in the third; Myers homered in the fourth to score Rimmer, whose double had tallied Lehman. Lehman had opened the inning with a two-base hit.

Tarboro's other tally came in the first—on a walk to Myers, followed by hits by Carnahan.

Ayden won the game in the sixth. Joyner's single, Fary's double, and Baker's single produced the first tally. McCormick fouled out, and then Pitcher Steve Gurth, middle man among three Ayden hurlers, singled to send in what proved to be the winning tally.

Earl Webb's hitless relief, nurling checked a Tarboro rally in the 8th, and turned the visitors back in the ninth. Rimmer doubled to open the eighth, and then Gurth hit izolato with a pitch. Webb was called in—Duzza, attempting to bunt, clicked of three fouls and was out; the next two batters were easy victims via infield pop-ups.

Myers, Tarboro shortstop, was the fielding star of the game. His top contribution came in the second when he robbed Manager Joyner of an apparent hit.

Frankie Ware, with three for four, was high man for Tarboro on attack. Jirak, Joyner, and Baker made two each to lead the Aces.

What's Age To Do With Prize Fighting?

Just what age has to do with a heavyweight bout in an unknown quantity. You can find something on either side.

Jack Dempsey was 24 when he whipped Jess Willard. Jess was 36. Dempsey lost the title at 31.

But Jim Braddock was a "has-been" at 29 when he took the title from Maxie Baer. Max Schmeling was a "has-been" at 31 when he knocked out Jo Louis. 22—lavishly booked as the greatest fighter of all time.

On top of that, there was Bob Fitzsimmons. Rudy Robert was 35 when he won the belt from Jim Corbett.

SPORT SLANTS

Discounting the obvious effort of promoters to build up the champion and tear down the challenger with the idea of selling an interesting contest to fight fans, it is apparent that Champion Jimmy Braddock has gained many supporters by the spirit and form he showed in training.

Braddock meets Joe-Louis at Chicago tonight between 9:30 and 10 o'clock (EST).

There was a carefree spirit around the champion's camp. After all these years in the ring game, Braddock went through his paces with a zest and confidence that one would hardly expect to find in a man being led to slaughter. Even roadwork, a drudge and a bore to veteran fighters, was no ordeal to Jimmy. He was anxious to get into the best possible shape and willing to do whatever was asked.

Chances are Braddock will enter the ring as fit physically as is possible. If his condition, experience and punch are not enough to defend his crown then he simply is not entitled to the purple robes of ring royalty.

Experts insist Joe Louis is not the Bomber of old. But how much of his former efficiency Joe must possess to beat Braddock is a poser. He has youth in his favor. Speed. And the punch. In training Louis did not set the world on fire. His sparmates were hardly of the caliber to fit him for a long, grueling contest. The whole grind was a bore to him. But, then, Louis has not been a lion in training for any of his recent bouts. In the ring he is something else again.

Hungry fighters generally win the championship. Of the two, oddly enough, Braddock, the champion, is apparently the hungrier. Having attained a measure of affluence undreamed of two years ago, Louis seems satisfied he has collected plenty of this world's goods. He has been living like a prince. Even the chance of gaining the title does not seem to inspire him.

Ayden Aces Awarded Contest By Forfeiture

Sunday's Goldsboro-Ayden game of the Coastal Plain league goes into the records as a forfeit victory for the Aces.

The contest, played in the Goldsboro club's home park was halted in the 12th with Ayden at bat and 4 runs in. A 3-3 tie had continued from the ninth to the 12th, and the rally by the Aces led to "stalling" and other actions by Manager Roper of the Goldbugs. The tactics caused Umpire Walter Clos to forfeit the game.

Clos yesterday submitted a written report of Roper's actions and of the forfeiting of the game, and President J. B. Bare announced that he had forwarded notice to the league statistician to record the contest officially as a victory for Ayden and a loss for Goldsboro.

The umpire's report stated that Roper and Manager Joyner of the Aces, had agreed to play on thru until darkness halted play or a verdict was reached. However, when

The Sinclair H-C Gas house gang continued to win and run their streak to eight victories in as many starts. The winners got away to a good start by scoring five runs in the first inning to take the lead which they held throughout the game. The Chain Stores boys staged their famous seventh inning rally in yesterday's game but the Gas-house gang was so far ahead that the rally was in vain as Sinclair was leading 18-5 before the four run rally. The playing of Ben Harris for the Chain Stores played an important part in holding the Sinclair team to eighteen runs. The big bats of Emore Dupree, Rex Hodges, Charles Rumbley lead Sinclair, while on defense Tyson Bilbro and Jack Barrett starred for the H-C team. For the Chain Stores Nobles, Nelms and Blackman were outstanding in the hitting department, as Nickens and Harris featured afield.

Ayden put on its rally in the 12th. Roper decided that the "6 o'clock law" should be placed in effect. Failing to convince the umpire, he called on police to stop proceedings. The stalling by the Goldsboro manager and his proteges led to forfeiture of the game. The umpire's report pointed out that Goldsboro's park is not within the city limits and there is no "six o'clock curfew" law applying to games there on

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, June 22.—(AP)—Steels led a quiet stock market higher today, but they showed little heart for the advance.

Wall street circles said traders bought on the theory the longer peace rules on the steel strike front the better he chance for eventual amicable settlement of disputes.

Bonds were quiet.

Transfers approximated 550,000 shares.

KIWANIS AIDS IN MANY WAYS

Programs Outlined at Annual Meeting at Indianapolis

Indianapolis, June 22.—Kiwans clubs in the United States and Canada are continuing to give leadership and assistance for thousands of constructive civic and welfare activities," declared A. Copeland Allen, of Urbana, Ill., president, today at the 21st annual convention of the organization being held here.

"In community work the 1,918 clubs made possible an increase in health and educational accomplishments, general charity, better citizenship programs and agricultural projects," he said.

The following results were shown in a statistical survey of club work during the past year, figures showing number of clubs engaged:

- Improvement Civic Conditions, 1,637; Playgrounds, Recreation and Athletics, 1,548; Assistance to Under-Privileged Children, 1,498; General Charity Work, 1,386; Juvenile Work, 1,358; Educational Work, 1,307; Aid to Business and Industry, 1,184; Patriotic Endeavors, 1,180; Citizenship, 1,120; Agricultural Projects, 1,110; Safety First Programs, 1,024; Boy Scouts, 981; Music, 807; Vocational Guidance, 713; Red Cross, Salvation Army, etc., 690; Health, Sanitation and Hospitals, 389; Government and Allied Projects, 327; Support of Churches, 295.

Intensive child welfare work will be continued during 1937-38 by all clubs, William J. Gardiner, of Daytona Beach, Fla., chairman of the under-privileged child committee, announced today in a progress report on welfare problems in the U. S. and Canada.

"The health work planned includes clinics, hospitalization, prevention camps, and the supplying of clothing and food. For educational and moral development there is financial assistance, juvenile court work, establishment of classes for sub-normal children, vocational assistance and boys' clubs. Moral and spiritual development will call for cooperation with churches, homes, schools and business concerns in the teaching of citizenship and in character building," he said.

A statistical survey showed over 1,500 clubs are already engaged in aiding unfortunate children.

Speaking on vocational guidance, Frederick A. Anderson, of Minneapolis, chairman of this committee, urged greater activity in aiding youth of America in the field of employment to discourage crime, gangism and privation.

Over 700 clubs are now engaged in vocational conferences, personal aptitude tests, find-yourself campaigns, sponsoring of key clubs, operation of employment bureaus and providing vocational literature for the schools and libraries, according to club reports.

In educational work there are 1,274 clubs which are giving assistance to students, schools and faculties, holding spelling and oratorical contests, raising scholarship funds, supporting legislation for equalization of school taxation, improving school buildings, furnishing new equipment and sponsoring the building of new schools.

Plans for Kiwanis International to aid America's churches in their spiritual aims got underway following a conference on support of churches conducted by Thomas G. O'Brien, of New York City. He asked club members interested in social problems to mobilize action for helping churches in their religious programs. The first thing to do, he suggested, is to build up church attendance for all denominations.

It is recorded that pony express riders covered 650,000 miles of trails infested by road agents and Indians and lost but one mail.

NEW PROGRAM STARTS JULY 1

Public Assistance Division Ready to Begin Activity

Raleigh, June 22.—The Public Assistance Division of the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare virtually has completed plans for the formal inauguration in North Carolina on July 1 of the Social Security program authorized by an act adopted by the 1937 session of the General Assembly.

The new legislation will involve an outlay of approximately $1,700,000 for each year of the next biennium, according to Nathan H. Yelton, director of the Public Assistance Division.

Organizations have been formed in practically every county of the state for the purpose of aiding the State Welfare Department in administering the two most important phases of the program—Old Age

Assistance and Aid to Dependent Children. The Aid to the Blind section will be under the direction of the North Carolina Commission for the Blind.

It has been estimated by officials of the department that during the first three months of the program's operation a maximum of 15,000 persons 65 years of age or older will be aided, while approximately 10,500 dependent children are expected to receive assistance. The average monthly aid for the aged will be about $12.50 a month while that for underprivileged children will be approximately $6 a month.

Requirements for assistance to the aged are that the applicant must be 65 years of age, or older; must be a citizen of the United States, either native-born or naturalized; must have insufficient income to provide a reasonable subsistence; must not be an inmate of any public institution; must not own property from which an adequate income is derived, and must have been a resident of North Carolina for at least five of the last nine years preceding filing of an application.

The act provides that children eligible for benefits shall either have been born or resided within North Carolina for at least one year prior to application for aid.

BIG FAMILY AND A BIG MIND, GERMANY ARGUES

Berlin (AP)—Big families produce big men. A nation populated with small families therefore has a chance of developing any great minds.

So runs the "bigger and better family" argument assiduously propagated in Nazi Germany.

Charts have been prepared to show that the later children of a family seem to have a better chance of growing up into famous personages than do the first-born or second-born. For instance, it is pointed out, the artist Albrecht Duerer was his mother's third child; Frederick the Great was the fourth child in his family; Beethoven was a fourth child. Among the great German composers, Bach was last in a family of eight children; Wagner last of nine, and Mozart last of seven.
