POWERS AGAIN QUIT NEUTRAL NAVAL PATROL

Warships of Germany and Italy Ordered to Return

EASTERN COAST LEFT UNGUARDED

Two Nations, However, Remain in European Non-Intervention Committee

London, June 23.—(AP)—Germany and Italy ordered their warships completely out of the international neutrality patrol of Spain today.

Rebuffed by Britain and France in a German demand for a naval demonstration by all four powers to "warn" the Spanish government away from neutral patrol warships, the Nazi and Fascist states quit the non-intervention control scheme in strict concert.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, announced the German decisions to the House of Commons. Count Dini Grandi, the Italian ambassador then informed him of Italy's concurrence.

Italy and German ships have patrolled the eastern coast of Spain. Their withdrawal left that coast unguarded by vessels watching for violations of 27-nation ban on the arming of foreign arms and fighters to Spain.

Britain and France are the other powers in the neutrality sea patrol. They refused to join a naval demonstration against the Spanish government after an alleged torpedo attack on the German cruiser Leipzig.

Despite the withdrawal of their ships, both Italy and Germany will remain in the European non-intervention committee, which has directed the four power neutrality patrol. Both insist they wanted a "neutral" conclusion of the Spanish civil war in which they are on the side of the Fascist insurgents.

In Rome it was reliably reported the Italian warships had been ordered completely out of Spanish waters.

Reynolds Advises Public To Beware Of Black Spiders

Although Black Widow Bite is Rarely Fatal, Health Officer Warns Public to Exert Care

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, June 23.—A warning to the public to be careful and to guard against being bitten by spiders, especially the black widow spider, was issued today by Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, state health officer. For while the bite of the black widow spider is rarely fatal, it is painful and can be very serious as a contributory cause of death, Dr. Reynolds said.

"Very few cases are on record where the black widow's bite has been the immediate cause of a death," Dr. Reynolds said. "But it is a wise precaution to be careful around spider webs or places where they are known to be or breed should be cleaned up and the spiders eradicated. For it is entirely possible that the bite from one of these spiders might set up an infection or a toxic condition that might lead to death. So it will pay to take no chances."

Children should not be allowed to play in old buildings, barns or basements where they might run into spider webs and thus invade the homes of the ill-natured black widow spiders, Dr. Reynolds said. The spiders are also frequently found under old, rotting boards or logs. They can be easily recognized because of the bright red spot on their bellies. When they are disturbed, the black widows are quite vicious.

In support of his contention that the bite of the black widow spider is rarely fatal, Dr. Reynolds cited figures compiled from the records of the Fresno County general hospital and the Los Angeles general hospital, in California, where 112 patients were treated after being bitten by black widow spiders and without a single death.

Any person when bit by a spider or any other insect should go to see a doctor at once or call a doctor, since any delay in the treatment of a bite of this sort may cause serious complications, Dr. Reynolds said. Painful cramps in the stomach and abdomen and even convulsions can result from the bite of the black widow spider unless it is promptly treated.

Of the 11,000,000 homes in Japan, less than 20,000—and these in the remote places—are not equipped with electric lights.

All Quiet On Johnstown Front

Washington, June 23.—(AP)—Rep. Graham Barden of New Bern, N. C., said today he probably would relinquish his membership in the House Copyrights and Patent Committee in view of his election to the committee on labor.

WAKE TO HAVE LIQUOR STORES

Unofficial Returns Reveal Victory For Control Forces

Raleigh, June 23.—(AP)—The Wake board of elections today officially canvassed returns from yesterday's liquor vote. It gave advocates of control stores a majority of around 1,300 in unofficial returns from 44 of the 45 precincts.

No word of any protests had been heard today. The unofficial vote stood at 7,811 for control and 6,351 against. The election was the tenth held in the state this year under the 1937 liquor option law and watched with much interest as this is the seat of the state as well as the county government.

Wake county has been legally dry for 39 years, but as soon as a county liquor board is named and can make arrangements one or more stores to sell alcoholic beverages will be opened.

Drivers Required Report Wrecks Within 24 Hours

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, June 23.—Drivers involved in automobile accidents must now make a report of these accidents within 24 hours after their occurrence or be guilty of a misdemeanor, under the terms of a new law enacted by the 1937 general assembly and ready in effect. It was pointed out here today by Director Arthur Funk of the highway safety division of the Department of Revenue. There are indications that this new provision, contained in Section 128 of the revised motor vehicles law, is not yet generally understood and is being violated daily by hundreds of motorists who are failing to report accidents as the law requires, Director Funk said.

This law requires that all accidents in which any person is injured or killed or in which the property damage exceeds $10 must be reported at once to the police. If the accidents is in a city or town, or otherwise direct to the highway safety division of the Department of Revenue. Funk pointed out. The police department of every city and town are required in turn to report the accidents reported to them to

Smokeless Stacks Also Plea for Strike Settlement

Cleveland, June 23.—(AP)—Payless pay days and smokeless stacks, serious things for worker and employer alike, stood forth today as silent but earnest pleaders for settlement of the 28-day-old steel strike.

It was pay day at Bethlehem Steel's Cambria works in Johnstown, Pa., but there was no such payroll today as when the big mills were running at their 15,000-men capacity. For the plant is closed by martial law and pay due workers is comparatively small.

What checks there are, said a company representative, will be mailed during the week. Much more crucial, however, is the situation at Youngstown, Ohio, where 25,000 men have earned no wages since May 26, and in the Chicago area where Inland Steel's 13,000 workers can look forward to no more until some pence again from the company's stocks; President Roosevelt and three mediators, aware of the great loss the strike is entailing each day it continues—losses in pay in profits and in the extraordinary, peering measures which have brought state troops out in Michigan, Pennsylvania, and Ohio—sought today to find a threat of compromise.

They called before them again the heads of the four steel corporations against whom John Lewis' C. I. O. is striking—Republic Steel, Inland Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube and Bethlehem Steel.

"There is hope," said Charles Taft, II, chairman of the mediation board, "if there wasn't I'd go home."

Coffin Welcomed As Gift. Shanghai, China, (AP)—General Ho Chien, popular governor of Hunan Province, recently was given 30 logs of coffin wood as a good will token by some of his admirers. General Ho, it is reported, was delighted with the gift.

Governor Earle's recent action in closing the Bethlehem steel mills in strike-embattled Johnstown with a decision of "modified martial law" brought a statement from J. W. Leland, Jr., a writer of North Carolina and New York that he was raising a $2,000,000 fund to prevent Earle's "possible nomination" in 1940.

POST OFFICE CLERK KEEPS POSTED ON SOCIETY. Augusta, Ga., (AP)—It is the duty of one of the clerks at the Augusta post office to see that wedding gifts reach the right bride.

All coroners are also required to make a report by the tenth of every month of all deaths investigated by him resulting from automobile accidents with full details and circumstances of such accidents.

All of the reports made under this section of the law shall be for the use of the department only and cannot be used as evidence in any trial or any criminal action that may result from any of these accidents.

"The primary purpose of the law is to provide the highway safety division with more information concerning accidents and to assure the reporting of more accidents," Director Funk said.

"Until this new law was enacted, only law enforcement officers were required to report accidents—but there were hundreds if not thousands of accidents which they missed.

SUPPORTS FDR FOR 3RD TERM

Governor Earle Of Pennsylvania Makes Stand Known

Harrisburg, Pa., June 23.—(AP)—Gov. George Earle came out "unqualifiedly and finally" today for the re-election of President Roosevelt in 1940.

"I'm for Franklin Roosevelt for President in 1940 unqualifiedly and finally," said Earle who has been mentioned as a possible candidate in 1940.

"Nearly everything I do is falsely attributed to personal ambition. This can not but result in hurting the reforms I am fighting for. Therefore I want my position definitely understood. There are many leaders of intelligence and honesty in the Democratic party. There are, however, no man in the Democratic party or any other party who reach knee high in stature, mentally and morally, to Franklin Roosevelt."

"I have never discussed this matter with the President and this statement is made without his permission."

Congressmen From Tobacco States To Test Sentiment

PLAN ORGANIZE LEAF INDUSTRY

Officials of CIO To Send Organizers Into Tobacco Manufacturing Centers

Washington, June 23.—(AP)—Congressmen from tobacco states awaited today an expression on sentiment on general farm legislation before deciding whether to seek specific legislation to regulate tobacco production.

Rep. Harold Cooley of Nashville, N. C., who called a meeting of tobacco states' congressmen yesterday, said a committee named to consider the possibility of tobacco control legislation would not meet until after Congress is sounded out on a general farm program.

Cooley said Rep. John Flanagan, Jr. of Bristol, Va., author of a general farm bill, had informed him he would call a meeting of congressmen to obtain expressions of sentiment on such a measure.

Elsewhere officials of the C. I. O. said organizers were being sent into the southern tobacco manufacturing sections to form a tobacco worker's union.

Headquarters for the campaign, they said, would be the Richmond, Va., offices of John H. Suttle, regional director of the C. I. O.

J. E. Rush of this city today displayed two old pieces of paper money he said had been in his family for years. Both bearing a 1771 date, one was of five shilling denomination and the other for two shillings and six pence.

Inserted on the five shilling was "Province of North Carolina is indebted to the possessor here of five shillings per money to be paid out of the public treasury according to act of Assembly, 1771."

The piece of money bore several signatures, but that of "Casswell" was the only one which could be distinguished.

FRANCE FACES SERIOUS CRISIS

$450,000,000 Stabilization Fund Virtually Exhausted

Paris, June 23.—(AP)—Virtual exhaustion of France's 1,000,000,000 francs (about $450,000,000) gold stabilization fund was disclosed today, indicating the gravity of the financial crisis which Premier Camille Chautemps' new cabinet has been called on to solve.

"The stabilization fund soon will be obliged to call for gold from the Bank of France," Professor Charles Rist and Paul Baudouin wrote in their joint letter of resignation from the fund management, its publication disclosed.

"Already for several weeks the directors have been powerless to relieve the pressure against it. Our daily meetings are of almost no further use," they said.

Rist and Baudouin, who resigned June 15 from the commission appointed to govern the exchange stabilization fund, explained today for the first time they believed the plan of Former Finance Minister Vincent Auriol to raise $5,000,000,000 francs (about $225,000,000) from increased direct and indirect taxes would be "insufficient to reverse the current of capital."

Auriol was replaced by Georges Bonnet, recalled as ambassador to the United States in the Chautemps cabinet which took office today.

Mr. Welch said that he and Mr. Parker would be here for the next few days checking on the Social Security taxes, but that tomorrow probably would be the only day could be found in the Chamber of Commerce offices.

He added that all employers hiring one or more employees were subject to the tax.

Long Beach, Calif. (AP)—Talking mail boxes, a feature of the California postmasters' convention, startled pedestrians in this city. As one woman started to post a letter a voice from the box belted: "Why not use air mail?"

Aboard the S. S. Reliance, June 23.—(AP)—Angus D. MacLean, Raleigh attorney and former United States Assistant Attorney General, urged lawyers and industrialists today to "keep alive our great tradition as conservators of democracy."

in an address at a joint session of the North Carolina press and bar associations.

"To the extent to which this is not true, or much less so, in Great Britain and in the United States is due in large part, let us venture to believe, to the legal profession and the profession of journalism."

The attorneys and newspapermen, who left Norfolk, Va., Saturday on a vacation cruise to Bermuda, will land at Norfolk tomorrow. Some members of the associations, however, will remain aboard the Reliance until Friday, when the ship will dock at New York.

Members of the bar association heard committee reports today and participated in the finals of the deck sports. Egbert L. Haywood of Durham presided over the junior bar program.

Two Deputy Collectors to Be in City for Balance of Week

J. F. Welch and Nate Parker, deputy collectors for the Internal Revenue department, offices in Greensboro, will be in this city for the next several days for the purpose of checking up on employers who are delinquent in paying Social Security taxes.

One man will be located in the Chamber of Commerce offices in the Post Office building tomorrow from 9 until 4 o'clock to confer with any employer who for one reason or another has not paid the old age and unemployment taxes.

The two deputy collectors are making a canvass of the city, calling on various business firms. They declared, however, it would be impossible for them to make a thorough check and added that if any employer had not made his payment and could give a satisfactory excuse it was probable that the penalty, already in effect, could be avoided.

Mr. Welch said that he and Mr. Parker would be here for the next few days checking on the Social Security taxes, but that tomorrow probably would be the only day could be found in the Chamber of Commerce offices.

He added that all employers hiring one or more employees were subject to the tax.

Indian Jonah Had a Hot Time. Quebec, Wash. (AP)—Quillayute Indians have their own Jonah story, says Chief Howatt.

They relate that the brother of Qua-Ti, the Benevolent, was swallowed by a giant fish in the Raft river and that Qua-Ti threw heated stones into the stream to make the fish disgorge his kin.

When the stream receded with the tide, Qua-Ti found the fish had been cooked, as anticipated. Unfortunately his brother had been cooked, too.

Beginning July 1, the various county welfare superintendents and welfare boards will begin accepting applications from persons more than 65 years old for old age pensions under the new 1937 law. The application forms have already been printed, according to Director Yelton, and will be ready for distribution next week. Each application will be thoroughly investigated and the amount each applicant will get per month will be determined by the county board of welfare. As soon as an application has been approved, the pension checks will be sent out.

If at any time an applicant is not satisfied with the amount of his or her monthly allotment as decided by the board of county welfare, he or she may appeal to the State Board of Allotments and Appeal for a review and for a special hearing. The decision of this board, composed of the chairman of the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare, who is Colonel William A. Blair of Winston-Salem, Mrs. Bost and Mr. Yelton, is final.

While the old age pension payments may run as high as $30 a month, it is expected that they will average about $12.50 a month. It is not expected that more than 18,000 persons over 65 years of age will qualify under the law during the first three months it is in operation.

CINEMA MOGUL CHARGED WITH EVADING TAXES

Name of Cecil B. deMille Before Investigating Committee

GUY HELVERING WITNESS HEARD

Congressional Group Takes Recess Shortly After Producer's Name Introduced

Washington, June 23.—(AP)—Commissioner Guy Helvering of the Internal Revenue Bureau told a congressional tax inquiry committee today the government believed Cecil DeMille, movie producer, had made a "purposeful attempt" to evade sur-taxes on his income through creation of a personal holding company.

Helvering testified DeMille some time ago formed a corporation "which he completely dominated consisting of himself, members of his family and his attorney."

"His," he added, "was an incorporation of what may be called the 'earning personality' of Mr. DeMille."

"In other words, Mr. DeMille's earnings power was almost the sole corporate asset."

"DeMille, the individual, then went to work for DeMille as incorporation at a salary far less he knew he could command as a director."

"The corporation then said DeMille's services to producing companies. The difference between DeMille's salary from his own corporation and his actual earnings as a motion picture director was put into the corporation."

To the governor's claim the accumulation of this surplus was unreasonable and for the purpose of evading sur taxes, Helvering replied DeMille said his corporation was saving up money to go into the production of motion pictures at a later date.

Shortly after DeMille's name was introduced the hearing recessed until tomorrow.

Talks To Parents

Non-Medical Advice
One of the newest and least known discoveries of medicine is the function of the glands. At the moment there is a tendency in the lay mind, which has absorbed much of the patter of medicine, to regard glands as miracle workers.

A mother, looking at a child who is overfat, may decide that his glands are the cause of the trouble. From the latest book on popular medicine, she gleaned the idea that thyroid is what he needs, and at once secures some preparation of which a friend tells her and proceeds to administer it in the dosage prescribed on the bottle. She might as well give the child arsenic or strychnine and be done with it. To use gland extracts without first having the case diagnosed and then prescribed for by a doctor, is extremely dangerous and may do permanent harm.

Even iodine, which affects the thyroid gland, should not be used except by doctor's orders.

The popularization of medicine, like the popularization of psychology, while it has helped to make the world health-conscious, has also put into the hands of quacks and

NEW STATUTES READY GO OUT

Several Hundred Copies of '37 Laws Have Been Printed

Reflector Bureau, Raleigh, June 23.—Several hundred copies of the public laws of the 1937 general assembly have at last been printed and bound and delivered to the office of the Secretary of State for distribution to the "free list" or those who are entitled to receive these laws without charge.

Secretary of State Thad Eure announced today. Under the contract, the printer had to complete and deliver at least some of the laws within 90 days after the adjournment of the 1937 general assembly — and today was the last day of grace under the contract.

The first of the new volumes of the 1937 laws will be sent to the superior court judges, special judges, supreme court judges and the solicitors. Secretary of State Eure said, since the law requires that the judiciary be supplied first. Those next in line to get the new laws free of charge are the sheriffs, clerks of court, registers of deeds and other county officials. When these have been supplied, the Secretary of State can then start selling the books to the thousands of lawyers over the state who for weeks have been eagerly waiting to buy copies of the new laws.

The new volume is remarkably free of errors, a careful search having brought to light only two. One Democratic member of the house was listed as a Republican while one

BOOK-PIRATING CHINESE NOW TURN TO PHOTOSTATS

Shanghai (AP)—Photostatic copies of American and European books are flooding Shanghai markets and doing holders of copyrights out of large sums.

Although sale of pirated editions is banned and they are not advertised to any extent, persons in the know can get foreign books at one-fourth the published prices. More than 1,000 titles are listed, most of them on technical subjects.

This form of pirating started in Tientsin when an engineering school printed photostatic copies of textbooks for its own students. Then the college began to supply schools all over the country. Bookstores, recognizing a good thing, soon followed suit.

British Rearmament Hits Italian Factories
Milan, Italy (AP)—Great Britain's rearmament program willingly or unwillingly is squeezing Italy industrially through producing a scarcity of heavy raw materials, business circles say.

By buying up all the available steel and several other primary products on the world markets, Britain is throwing Italian manufacturers into some embarrassment and is causing Mussolini's government to take steps to alleviate the situation.

A ministerial decree has just been issued to restrict building operations because of the "desirability of limiting the use of iron to quantities strictly necessary."

Manufacturers are particularly uncertain over the situation because they know that the military needs of the nation have first call on raw materials. The Fascist Grand Council declared on March 2, with regard to raw materials, the principles of "sacrifice, even total, if necessary, of the civil requirements for the military requirements."

A factory in Liverpool, England, plans to manufacture rubber boots for sheep to protect them against "foot rot."

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE NEVAUD

SYNOPSIS: Saving a desperate young man (Ted Gaynor) from setting a forest fire to get a job, Kay Crandon offers him a place at the Lazy Nine because she intuitively knows he is decent. She rides home to find her ranch house and barn lost in flames. Seth Jordan, her faithful foreman, has saved the insurance papers. Josh Hastings, owner of the Flying Six, invites Kay there, but she distrusts him. Her young sister, Babs, and peppery Aunt Kate gladly accept the Hastings invitation; Kay stays in a cabin on her ranch. That night Ted shows up and encourages her, offering his help in rebuilding.

Chapter Seven

An Unexpected Blow

IN spite of her exhaustion and loss, Kay slept well. As she met Ted Gaynor at the corral the next morning, life seemed vaguely exciting and full of promise.

Ted had Flicker saddled and waiting for her, and a few minutes later they were pounding across the open bench of the mesa toward Red River.

"Was Seth surprised when you turned up last night?" Kay glanced over at Ted with that strange feeling that she had never seen him before. It seemed incredible that he was the desperate man she had encountered yesterday. His whole bearing had changed, and he seemed years younger.

"He certainly was," Ted answered with a laugh, "but he made the best of it."

"I fixed things up this morning so that he'll know what to say if Tom Runyon shows up."

"Did you think Runyon suspected anything?" Ted asked after a pause.

"He did at first," Kay answered frankly, "but I think he got over it."

"To think you'd do that for me, and then come home to find your golden brown eyes wide with surprise. "Rid of what? The ranch?" She shook her head at him reproachfully. "You don't suppose I'd be so easily discouraged as that, do you? Of course I'm going to rebuild. That's what I came in to see you about—the insurance."

She pulled her policy out of her pocket, and laid it on the table. "Aren't you proud of me for being a good enough business woman to renew it?"

Dan Steele looked from Kay's bright face to the policy, and his eyes clouded. He picked it up and examined it, as though playing for time. When he finally looked up, his face was grave, and he cleared his throat several times.

"The trouble is, Kay," he said finally, "that this insurance money has to go toward paying off the mortgages."

"I don't understand!" Kay took a quick breath. "The house and barn are insured for ten thousand, aren't they?"

"Dan Steele nodded. "Yes. But—"

"Why can't I have the money, then?" Kay interrupted. "They're burned to the ground, and I've paid all the premiums."

"I know, my dear," Dan Steele's voice was as troubled as his face. "I wish I didn't have to be the one to break this news to you, but the law says that any insurance money must first be used to pay off the mortgage. And the ranch is mortgaged for $20,000."

"But we've always met the interest," Kay protested. "Why can't it stay just the way it is?"

"With present values, twenty thousand is a good deal bigger mortgage than the property really rates," he answered. "So the bank will insist on that ten thousand being used to reduce it."

Hastings' Offer

"BUT that's plain robbery! They can't do that!"

"I'm afraid they can, my dear. And it isn't robbery," he explained patiently. "I'm thankful own house burned to the ground!" Ted burst out with savage rebellion. "It certainly is hard to figure out where there's any justice in this world!"

"It would be pretty bad if I didn't have the insurance," Kay observed gravely. "But as I have, there is some justice after all."

'Uncle' Dan

SPECULATING together on the cause of the fire, and discussing her plans for the future, it seemed no time at all to Kay before the first straggling houses of Red River came in sight.

They clattered down the main street and stopped at the one-story building that housed the bank. Kay sprang out of the saddle and handed the reins to Ted.

"I won't be long," she promised gaily, and with a wave of her hand, turned into the bank.

Going at once to the office of the president, who had been one of her father's best friends, she tapped on the door lettered "Daniel Steele." She opened it in response to the booming "Come in," and stood a moment in the doorway, waiting for her host to look up.

"Kay Crandon!" He caught sight of her, and stood up, coming around the desk to grasp her hand. "You poor child! I heard about the fire last night, and I was going out to see you the minute the bank closed."

"That was awfully good of you, Uncle Dan, but you see, I beat you to it."

Dan Steele glanced at Kay's flushed face and sparkling eyes that still shone with the exhilaration of the ride. "I'm glad to see you taking it like such a brave girl," he said, "but perhaps, after this hard year, it will be a relief to be rid of it."

"Rid of it?" Kay echoed, her my bank doesn't hold the mortgage, but if it did, in fairness to my depositors, I'd have to make the same decision."

Kay bit her lip and faced him with flashing eyes, not daring to speak for the moment. A sudden memory of Josh Hastings' triumphant look when she had spoken of the insurance, came to her mind. So he'd known about it all the time!

"What am I to do then, Uncle Dan?" She made a brave attempt to be calm under this unexpected blow. "Can I borrow enough money to rebuild?"

Dan Steele shook his head. "Not a chance, Kay. I may as well be frank with you, and not raise false hopes. You'll have to put any thought of rebuilding out of your mind. But there is a way out that is pretty lucky, considering the hard times."

"What is it?"

"Josh Hastings was talking with me on the phone last night, and he's ready to take over the remaining mortgage, and pay you five thousand cash. That's a fair offer and my advice is for you to take it. You could invest that five thousand now, so as to—"

"It isn't a fair offer!" Kay blazed, her eyes dark and enormous with anger. "Josh Hastings has been trying to make me sell ever since Dad died. And now he's taking advantage of my trouble to force me into it. Never, never, never! I'd rather give it away than let him have it."

"You're talking like a child now, Kay," Dan Steele reproved. Then his look softened at the misery in Kay's eyes. "I know how much the ranch means to you, but as I've told you before, it is too big a load for you to carry."

Banker and rancher discuss Kay's mortgage.

Fulk said, "We know, for instance, that owners of cars damaged in accidents frequently refrain from reporting accidents to the police if the drivers responsible for the accident will agree to pay for all the damage. The result is that literally thousands of accidents are never reported to the police and hence not reported to us, in the course of a year.

"But under this new law now in effect, drivers will be subject to arrest and prosecution unless they do report all accidents — yet these reports cannot be used against them in court. In other words, the best way for a driver involved in a minor accident to keep from going to court is to make a full report of the accident within 24 hours; either to the police, if it occurred in a city or town with a police department, or direct to us here in the highway safety division. FOR A MORE BEAUTIFUL NORTH CAROLINA

With North Carolina getting ready to venture on its campaign to advertise the state to attract more visitors, Guy A. Cardwell, Agricultural and Industrial Agent of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad gives some good advice when he says that the job of selling North Carolina is one that rests upon every man, woman and youth in the state.

In his comment on the subject, Mr. Cardwell says:
"We must each do our part towards state beautification. We must be thoughtful of the appearance of the home premises and the landscape along the highways and railroad rights-of-way.
We should avoid littering the face of the earth with paper, tin cans, bottles and other trash. These do not improve the scenery; on the contrary they often make an otherwise lovely roadside look like a dump.

"While nature has done much for North Carolina, the aspect of some regions is unattractive; though progress has been made during recent years in landscape beautification and home improvement. Unpainted, un-white-washed houses, ramshackle fences with gates off the hinges, broken down shacks, and the absence of flowers and shrubs and well-conditioned lawns all add to the visitor's disappointment.

"There are lovely spots and attractive homes thro-out the South that impress one as being occupied by people taking pride in their surroundings, but these are far too infrequent.

"If we want to make a good impression on tourists, home seekers, and industrialists, we must beautify our State so that it will be attractive when it is viewed through New England, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Wisconsin eyes."

Mr. Cardwell has given some good advice which, if heeded, will not only make our state more attractive for the visitors, but will make it a much more beautiful place for those of us who live here.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover
Washington — One of the possibilities critics see in the new wage-hour bill is that, extended to a degree, it could be used to exercise vast control over industry.
Some of the problems involved in such control were suggested in this column yesterday.
The wage-hour bill contains some of the machinery of a real planned industry in which a central planning board might conceivably be called upon to determine the whole production of all industry. Planned industry, as usually defined, goes that far. The country is no wise near that yet, but NRA, AAA, the Guffey coal act, TVA and some of the measures now before congress seem to point speculatively in that direction.

The wage-hour bill would permit a federal board to fix standards of minimum wages and maximum hours for industry engaged in interstate commerce.

A planned industry would require a decided step farther. It would require a board with authority to enmesh wages and other costs of production upward and downward in order to achieve the near-Utopia of a country without unemployment and with adequate production of all needed things.

Now some very conservative economists believe that if a federal board had such authority, it could really make headway in tempering booms and depressions. Give the board, for instance, the power to regulate rail rates, interest, and wages. With such power it could check unwarranted plant expansions in time of booms. Such expansions are one of the perils of booms, for plants built for boom trade are usually the first to fold up when the recession starts.

In time of depression, a board with authority to adjust wages, rail rates and interest downward during a period of depression could give a real fillip to new industry.
Business men and investors, assured of low costs while getting a new enterprise started, would be all the more willing to take a fling if they could see some profit in the offing.
But just contemplate the storm a board would encounter if it explained it was lowering wages and rail rates so a few business men could make a profit! They could argue their heads off that it was the smart way to get out of the depression and give more employment.

Such a board by law or constitutional amendment could be given such authority, but it is doubtful if the country would then be a democracy.

So on this front, too, the obstacles to successful operation of a planned industry seem tremendous, if not insurmountable. The plan which economists concede has some possibility of success is politically impossible — in a democracy.

Tests by Purdue University Agricultural experts show that toxic gluins in young cocklebur sprouts are poisonous to livestock.

German scientists have designed a $500,000 factory to produce sugar, vinegar, alcohol and cattle feed from sawdust.

Peace Prize Sought For Jailed Frenchman

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

PARIS (AP)—An imprisoned French royalist leader has become President Roosevelt's rival for the 1937 Nobel peace prize.

Frail, deaf Charles Maurras, serving concurrent sentences of eight and three months for provocation to murder Premier Leon Blum and other French socialists, is scheduled to be released late this month.

To celebrate his freedom and rebuke the government, a committee of writers, scholars and professors is booming him for the prize.
After the Cuban government nominated Roosevelt for his good neighbor policy and the Pan-American conference, Maurras' colleagues nominated him for his editorials in the royalist newspaper, L'Action Francaise.

Sharpen Your Knives
The editorials which brought about Maurras' imprisonment called his followers to sharpen their "kitchen knives" for use against the socialists unless they eased their sanctions campaign against Italy.
Followers of the 69-year-old royalist maintain he prevented a war with Italy.

Maurras was imprisoned October 29, 1936, but remained active in his small, comfortable cell of the Sante prison. He wrote steadily and received groups of his followers daily.
When his prison term ends, he will return, his associates say, to L'Action Francaise, of which he is a political director with Leon Daudet. The paper still bears his name proudly at the top of page one under the slogan:
"Head of the house of France, I claim all its rights. I assume all its responsibilities. I accept all its duties. The Duke of Guise, heir to 40 kings who, in a thousand years, made France."
Fighting The Government

The peace prize, which went to Carlos Saavedra Lamas of Argentine in 1936, is worth about $40,000.

While the paper's eventful goal has been coronation of the Duke of Guise, who is pretender to the throne, it has turned more directly to the task of fighting the people's front government.

The longer the government lasts, the hotter the paper's tirades have grown. The premier, first called simply "The Jew Blum," has now become "the Camel-Jackal-Donkey

Goose-eggs have become popular with the Greenville Greenies lately. Tarboro's Malone offered a great pitching job yesterday afternoon and turned back the Greenies for a 9-0 victory, he allowed only two hits.

The visitors hopped the offerings of Elton—recent addition to the locals—for 11 safeties and scored in five of their nine turns.

Fred (Snake) Henry's Tarborians clinched the game in the opening stanza when they scored three tallies off hits by Wagner and Henry, a walk, an error and an outfield fly.

Ware's double in the fifth drove in a pair of runs, and then Henry doubled to score Ware.

John Rudisill and Freddie Calliguri were the only Greenville batsmen to get hits. Ware, Wagner, Rimmer and Henry, with two each, led the Serpents' with the willow.

The Greenies are in Tarboro this afternoon and will return here on Thursday for a contest with the league-leading Goldsboro Goldbugs.

The Greenies are tied for sixth position with the New Bern Bears.

Aces Register Sixth Consecutive Victory

Ayden — Ayden's Aces registered their sixth win in a row by turning back the Martins, 9 to 5, Tuesday afternoon.

Bill Lanier relieved Pittman Harward, Ayden's starting hurler, with two away in the fourth and allowed only three hits over the remainder of the route. Lanier received credit for the win.

Jim Rollins, Williamston hurler, struck out 10 but was reached for 13 safeties.

Today's defeat dropped Williamston to third place, a half-game back of Snow Hill.

Lakota's double and Rollins' single gave the Martins a run in the second inning.

The Aces broke into the scoring column in the fourth. Johnson's double, a walk, Joyner's single, a sacrifice, and Baker's single produced two runs.

Williamston concluded its scoring for the day by tallying four times in the fourth. Hits by Lakotas, Sharkey, and Stanley were mixed with a hit-batsman ticket, a wild throw, and an outfield fly.

Baker's homer, with Joyner on added two tallies for the Aces in the sixth, and Faust Johnson homered for another in the next inning.

What proved to be the winning run came in the eighth and resulted from a walk, a sacrifice, and Schuerholz's single.

The Aces finished off with three runs after two were away in the ninth — Fary homered, Baker and McCormick singled and both scored when McCray threw wild on Lanier's rap.

Schuerholz and Baker, each with three hits, led Ayden; Stanley made three for the Martins; Schuerholz featured afield.

Person-Garrett defeated Carolina Dairy 10-0 yesterday to take second place in the City softball league, while Blount-Harvey was getting a 12-2 decision over the lawyers to a clear title to fourth place.

The entire Person-Garrett team looked good to take the shut-out victory over the Carolina Dairy. The two teams, along with Carolina Sales, have been running close for the league lead, held by the Carolina Sales team, which is now standing out in front by one full game.

The Blount-Harvey team advanced to fourth rung by handing the lawyers the 12 to 2 defeat.

Blount-Harvey opened the first frame by scoring four runs, while the lawyers collected one. The second inning produced two runs for the department store men while the lawyers scored once again. Scoring two more runs in the sixth, the Blount-Harvey team with two down in the seventh went on a hitting spree coupled with several errors by the lawyers and scored five more runs.

Lautares with three hits, one a home run, took batting honors for the day. Proctor for Blount-Harvey started afield making several difficult catches and making two double plays. Dudley and Roberts were outstanding in the field for the lawyers.

Goldsboro Victorious Over Kinston Eagles

Kinston — Goldsboro's pace-setting Goldbugs, trimmed Kinston's Eagles, 1-0 Tuesday. Pete Kunis was over hurling duty.

The run came in the ninth. With one out, Dynamite Ignasiak hit a long fly to center — the ball appeared worthy of a triple or a double. The scorers decided it was a triple, but the blow turned out to be as good as a home run. Center-fielder Glennwater checked the ball on the first bound and attempted to throw it in for a relay, but the ball flew out of his hands and rolled to right field. By the time it had been retrieved, Ignasiak was over the plate.

The error really made little difference. After Jarvis grounded out, Brennan hit a double — a blow which would have permitted Glennwater to walk in from third.

Kunis, returning to the win column after tough going following the close of an eight-game streak and Mullebein's three-pipe pinch hit. Each yielded six hits, Kunis walked four fanned six. Mullebein walked two, fanned two.

Adamek and Balla made two hits apiece for Goldsboro; Wright made two for Kinston.

Charlie Gadd, former N. C. State athlete, played left field for the Eagles. Gadd recently joined the New Bern club as a fill-in for the injured Ed Black. Black returned to action today, and Gadd changed to a Kinston uniform.

Homers Aid Billies To Defeat New Bern

Snow Hill — Home runs by Aaron Robinson and Joe Bistoff accounted for six Snow Hill tallies as the Billies defeated New Bern, 8-7, here Tuesday.

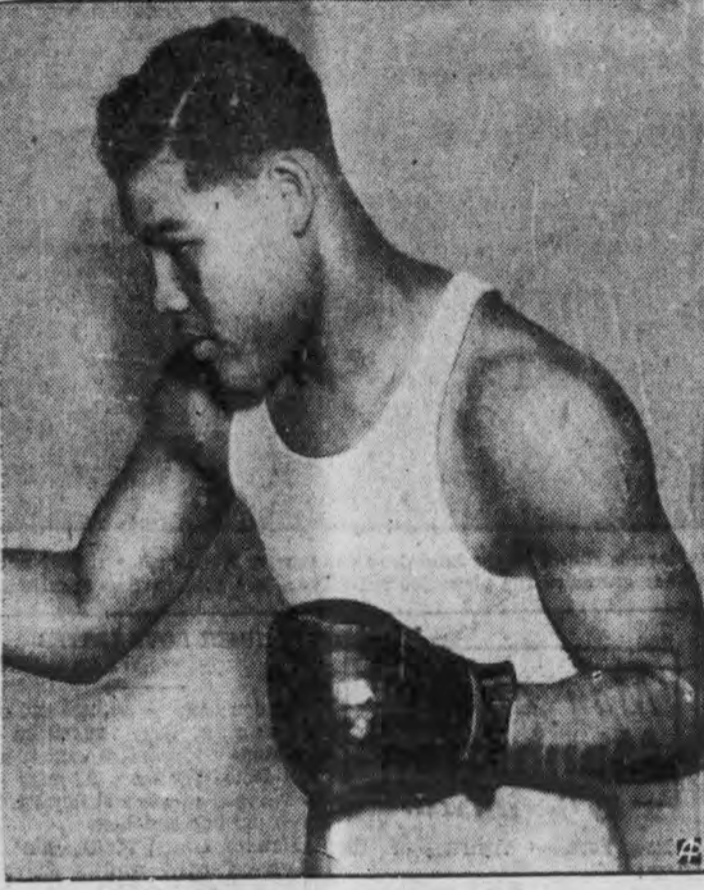

Robinson homered in the first to score Culler and Wall, both of whom had walked. Bistoff then walked, and Manager Doc Smith decided he'd been very unwise in electing Lefty Flora for the starting assignment on the pitching hill. Dawson relieved Flora and walked Tatum. A single by Rabb filled the bases, and Bistoff scored on Rabb's infield out.

After the Bears had tied the count at 4-all in the second, the Billies came back in their half to get three tallies when Bistoff homered to score Mewborn, who had walked, and Robinson, who had singled.

What proved to be the winning run was made in the fifth—Rabb singled with one out, and he scored when Relief Pitcher Irby Wright hit a double.

Horace McAbee was the batting star for the Bears. Dropped from the lead-off to the No. 8 spot in the batting order, the diminutive short-stop hit a double and a single and drove in five runs. His double came with the bases loaded — as a result of a single by Stith and a pair of walks — in the first inning. McAbee went to third on the throw-in, and scored on a wild pitch. Dawson then singled, and Miller walked — and that ended the afternoon's labors of Adamo, new Snow Hill hurler.

NEW WORLD'S CHAMPION

Joe Louis, the Brown Bomber (from Detroit), last night defeated Jimmy Braddock via the knockout route in the eighth round of a scheduled 15-round battle, and won the heavyweight championship of the world.

Blow-by-Blow Description Of Braddock-Louis Fight

Chicago, June 23. — The world's heavyweight crown today rests atop the head of Joe Louis, the Brown Bomber who rose from the floor at Cocksack park here last night to knock out Jimmy Braddock and wrest the title from the Cinderella man.

The time was one minute and ten seconds of the eighth session in their scheduled 15-round bout.

A short straight right, that exploded on the gory champion's chin like an artillery shell, smashed Braddock backward to the floor. Jimmy lay there on the canvas like a man who had been shot. He never moved as Referee Tommy Thomas tolled the full count over his prostrate form — for the first time in his 12-year career.

When the count was over, the former champion's handlers rushed up the ring steps and out of the corner to carry the still unconscious warrior back to his stool. It was many more seconds before he was revived sufficiently to regain his feet.

In winning this battle, which made him the second Negro heavyweight champion in ring history and the 13th title-holder, under the Marquis of Queensbury rules, the Bomber himself was felled in the first round.

Braddock's short right uppercut caught the challenger under the chin and dumped him backward to the canvas. Although dazed considerably by the blow, Joe leaped to his feet without a count.

Braddock came out on his toes and landed the first punch, a left to the ear. Joe sidestepped and gave ground. The Negro took a left to the body as he countered with left hook to the head. The challenger worked both hands to tie face, but the champion kept crowding forward. Jm kept his chin well-guarded but took a hard right to the head. Louis tried hard to force an opening, but the champion was boxing beautifully. They circled in mid-ring without much action until Braddock found the range with both hands to the jaw Jim tied up Joe with a brief clinch and took a snappy left jab to the nose. Louis landed three light lefts just before the bell. Braddock's round.

Joe bounced back to the ropes as he took a left hook with his upraised arm. The champion connected with a hard right to the head but was wild with his left. Blood trickled from the Negro's nose as they exchanged punches at close range. Braddock's head bounced back, from the impact of the challenger's left hand, and the champion's left eye started to bleed again. Louis worked both hands to the body, but Braddock scored with a right smash to the jaw. The pace was faster as they kept firing both hands. Both the champion and the challenger were well-smeared with blood as they exchanged hard lefts just before the gong. Braddock's round.

They circled for several seconds before Braddock let fly with a right that that Joe took on the shoulder. Louis worked a left jab to the face, but Braddock closed and clinched before the Negro could swing his right. Braddock forced Louis to the ropes and let fly with both hands. The crowd was in an uproar. They punched furiously for a few seconds. Louis landed with a right and started blood coming over the cham-

Braddock came out fighting and drove Louis around the ring, swinging his right hand from a crouch. The champion's face was in bad shape and his legs were getting wobbly. Louis landed both hands hard to the head but Braddock refused to give ground. Joe crossed, with a hard right to the face and Braddock clinched. The Negro punched systematically, but Braddock kept countering and forcing the right. Jim stuck a light left to the chin and forced Louis to the ropes. But the champion was tiring fast and the left side of his face was a bloody and bruised spectacle. Louis gave ground under Braddock's gallant attempts to rally. The challenger took two hard punches to the head just before the bell. Louis' round.

Braddock's handlers worked furiously during the intermission. Louis landed the first punch—a straight left—an backed the champion away as he scored with both hands to the face. They exchanged lefts to the body but Braddock ran into a sharp left hook as he attempted to sidestep. Braddock went down in a heap as Louis rammed home a terrific right to the side of the head. The champion collapsed in the middle of the ring and took the count.

AS SOVIET PLANE ENDED HISTORIC FLIGHT

Soviet Russia's pioneering monoplane is shown as she landed at Vancouver, Wash., after a 5,500-mile non-stop flight from Moscow by the far northern route. Bad weather grounded the plane 500 miles from her goal in San Francisco.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York — Vignettes of the town:
A down-at-the-heels straggler in 42nd street whistling "This is My Lucky Day".... The optimistic manufacturer who has bought a ticket on every sweepstakes during the last 10 years.... The barber in that subway station shop who gives piano lessons three nights a week.

The literary-minded otager who adopts a new protege every three or four weeks.... The gaunt in evening clothes eating hot dogs in Grand Central at 4 a. m.... John O'Hara, the writer, discussing Irish politics with a Jewish producer.

The drivers of buses who are referred to as "salesmen".... The implicitly clever electric sign near Loew's State which has comic strips and galloping insects (in lights) Benny Fields telling everybody, "This is your minstrel man."

British correspondents dining in Twenty-One (they're here to report American shows, foods and hotels.) And, from what one of them confessed to me, they can't get back to Haymarket any too soon.

The Japanese editor of an American-published paper who is sponsoring a revival of oriental music.... The blank frames in beauty parlor windows that use to contain pictures of the late Jean Harlow.... The porter at one of the Erie R. R. stations who sells "live bait" to fishermen as a side line.

CHINESE GROUP BEGINS WAR ON 'CHASTITY HALLS'
Nanking, China. (AP)—China's traditional glorification of widowhood is blamed by Madame Chiang Kai-shek's "New Life Movement" for turning "halls for encouragement of chastity" into "hells on earth."

In the old days widows who lived out their lives without remarrying were honored by the erection of stone arches at the emperor's expense or with his sanction. The "face" gained by the deceased family because of this lasting mark of imperial favor was so coveted that families made every effort to prevent the re-marriage of their widowed women folk.

Sometimes they even went to the extreme of placin such unfortunate relatives in "halls of chastity" whose barred windows and bolted doors prevented contact with the outside world.

Comin in for special condemnation by the "New Life Movement" is one such chastity hall in Hankow, where 680 widows are deprived of their freedom as completely as if they were criminals serving life sentences. One elderly inmate of this hall has neither seen nor heard from her family for 36 years.

OLD IRISH LOVE LETTER

WCVS BRITISH

London (AP)—Authors and other celebrities have applauded as literature a love letter written by a bare-footed Irish boy 30 years ago. It was read at a recent Royal Literary fund banquet here.

Maurice Healy, K. C., said the letter, originally read at an assize trial at Cork, "could not be written today in London or Boston, and the trial judge at the time was so struck by its beauty he supplied funds for the boy and girl to get married."

"Far away from where I am now, there is a little gap in the hills and beyond it the sea, and it is there I do be looking the whole day long for 'tis the nearest thing to yourself that I can see."

ONLY 50 PER CENT OF BRAINY COEDS MARRY

Grinnell, Ia. (AP)—Super-intelligent coeds are estimated to have about a 50 per cent chance of getting married.

Records of a Grinnell college scholastic honor society show that since 1918 only 75 of the 145 members were married. None of the coeds married during the last two years belonged to the organization.

SHE DESERVES 'E' FOR EFFORT ANYWAY

Atlanta, Ga. (AP)—The bureau of entomology and plant quarantine of the U. S. department of agriculture is warring against Japanese beetles, which feed on the flowers, fruit and foliage of many plants.

Traps to en-nare the beetles are being placed throughout this section.

Not At All Gun Shy

Gary, Ind. (AP)—Nobody could accuse two bandits here of being afraid of guns. The two got $19 in a holdup of a shooting gallery equipped with many rifles and a counter full of ammunition.
