General Walk-out Called Off After Guards Stationed Around Plants

Warren, Ohio, June 24.—(AP)—Five manufacturers closed their plants in Warren and Niles today after the C. I. O. notified its unions to abandon plans for a general sympathy strike.

John McKeown, C. I. O. organizer, had said he had advised his unionists to abandon plans for a general industrial strike.

The walkout was threatened by C. I. O. leaders who, picketed at the use of National guardsmen in deference of non strikers entering and leaving Republic steel corporation's plants, had said 15,000 workmen would be out in protest.

The general strike threat was abandoned after police reserves were ordered out to protect non strikers entering the plants.

Stones were hurled at several of the 100 to 250 men carrying one to the men each as they drove by Pine and Walnut streets and through the plant gates for the 7 a. m. shift.

The window of one machine was shattered. A large stone struck the side of another automobile as the men went to work under a court order enforced by steel helmeted guardsmen.

Thirty to 50 pickets were on duty, but most were ordered away from the plant gates by police. These retreated to a nearby sidewalk. A short time later the guardsmen ordered their four city blocks away from the plant.

They complied and the non strikers, amid two squads of police reserves and the guards, entered without further trouble.

In the face of complications that a general strike here would bring President Roosevelt's three - men mediation board at Cleveland redoubled its efforts to bring truce.

Stage Open House At Church School In City Tomorrow

Parents and Friends of Community Vacation Course Student Invited to Witness Work

Miss Frances Fields, Director of the Community Vacation church school, today announced that Open House will be held tomorrow morning between 10 and 11 o'clock at the Third Street school, to which parents and friends of the pupils are invited to see what the boys and girls have been doing during the two weeks of the interdenominational project has been in session.

An ice cream treat has been promised the younger children tomorrow morning, while Saturday morning the older boys and girls will be guests of the teaching staff at a swimming party to be held in the community swimming pool.

Average daily attendance during the two weeks has been 90, with the enrollment reaching a peak-mark of 134, divided as follows by departments: Beginner, 32; Primary, 28; Junior, 46 and Intermediate, 28. Enrollment by local churches is as follows: Methodist, 55; Christian, 16; Free Will Baptist, 16; Memorial Baptist, 14; Presbyterian, 11; with Episcopal and Immanuel Baptist churches enrolling 6 each. Six have been enrolled as unaffiliated with any church school, while visitors from other towns have totaled 4.

In addition to Miss Fields, the Director, the teaching staff has been composed of Mrs. Katie Lee Gardner and Miss Elizabeth Norman, Marjorie West, Elba McGowan and Sally Brooks assisted by Misses Ethel Gaston and Dorothy Putner.

"Teachers' cooperation and work on the part of the students has been excellent," Rev. R. C. Grady, chairman of the inter-church committee sponsoring the school, reports the director as having said. He added that "with five churches financially cooperating in raising the proposed budget of $125, expenses have been kept to a minimum by the Director, the total expenses, including teachers' honorariums, materials, etc., not expected to exceed $110."

Local Officials Not Worried By 'Missing' Girl

Reports a girl who registered at a local hotel under the name of Geneva Smith had been missing for a week or more appear to be greatly exaggerated in the opinion of Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst, Chief of Police G. A. Clark and hotel employees.

In their opinion the girl merely left the hotel without paying her bill and has not been seen by anyone connected with the establishment since.

The two officers said they knew little of the case and were not conducting any investigation other than on the grounds the girl skipped her hotel bill.

Accounts that she was in dire need also apparently were exaggerated as a clerk at the hotel said this morning the girl procured a $20 bill to pay for a package of cigarettes shortly before she left in a car with a man she supposedly was acquainted with.

Both Chief Clark and Sheriff Whitehurst said they knew nothing of the river having been dragged on the belief the girl might have committed suicide. They also denied they had expressed the opinion she took her own life or met with foul play.

Governor Defers Naming State School Commission

Reflecting Bureau. Raleigh, June 24.—The new members of the State School Commission will not be appointed until some time next week, Governor Clyde R. Hoey indicated today, although he had planned to name the new members and reappoint the others this week.

"I have had to be away from my office so much recently and have had so many other things to do that I have not yet been able to get to the school commission appointments," Governor Hoey said. "But I am hoping to get to these next week."

In the mean time, the members of the present commission have been called to meet here tomorrow, Friday, June 25. Executive Secretary Lloyd Griffin said today. The commission is expected to complete the task of allotting teachers for next year at this meeting. Clerks in the office of the commission have already completed the work of figuring out how many teachers each school and school system will get for next year on the basis of the av-

WORK ON PARK SHOWS RESULT

Underbrush Is Being Cleared with Labor Provided by WPA

Work on the city park being developed on the Washington highway just beyond the city limits is progressing rapidly under the supervision of F. S. Corbett and indications that a real recreation center will be available ere another summer rolls around.

The plot was secured by Mayor M. K. Blount and members of the Board of Aldermen without cost and a $2,500 allotment was secured from the WPA to be used in hiring labor to clean up the site.

Supervisor Corbett has been at work several weeks clearing underbrush and much improvement can be noted even by riding along the road. A trip through the development, however, will show exactly how much work has been completed.

Once almost impassible the grounds are being cleared and burned over in some places.

While plans are only tentative at the present, a number of citizens have suggested the development of a fishing pond along Smith run, which courses through the center of the plot. This, however, will take considerably more money than the original allotment. Some have expressed the opinion that a fish pond would derive revenue through a small charge from fees should one be developed.

With high ground on each side of the stream, tentative plans call for the construction of three rustic bridges at the most desirable places in the park. Walkways also would be provided through the park and adequate parking space made available.

The plot is composed of approximately 35 acres and lies between the Washington highway and the Tenth street extension, upon which work already has started. It is located in the area which is growing most rapidly as a residential section.

Up to 18 WPA men have been employed on the project, but beginning Monday 24 are expected to be at work. The workers are allowed to work only 15 days a month, however. It is estimated to cost $700 of the $2,500 WPA allotment has been spent thus far. After the brush has been cleared, the task of draining the plot will be tackled.

Chauffeur For Chief Executive Given Clemency

Raleigh, June 24.—"Boy, does it seem good to be a free man again—I am going to celebrate by getting a nice, thick steak smothered in onions."

This was the reaction of Robert Samit of High Point, who has been chauffeur for Governor Clyde R. Hoey ever since the Governor took office in January, after Governor Hoey had signed and presented him with a brand new parole.

For Samit has been a "stray" from Central Prison here, where he was serving a four year sentence for receiving stolen goods. He has made an excellent record as a prisoner and was selected to drive the official state car when Governor Hoey took office as Governor. This week Governor Hoey rewarded him by giving him a parole.

But Robert is going to stay on, for a while at least, in his present job as chauffeur for Governor Hoey and his family.

"They just don't make them any finer than Governor Hoey," Robert said. "He believes that prisoners are human beings just like any one else and he always treated me as if I were almost a member of his family, even when I was a prisoner. I am going to prove to him that he has not made a mistake in granting me a parole."

REOPEN PROBE PARSONS CASE

Officers Renew Investigation as Deadline Reached

Stony Brook, N. Y., June 24.—(AP)—District Attorney Barron Hill of Suffolk county said today he would start immediately a thorough investigation of the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Alice McDonnell Parsons, society matron, to determine if any violation of state laws underlies the baffling case.

Shortly afterwards a report was flashed to police headquarters, the Bronx, that a woman's body had been floating in Long Island sound off City Island—roughly about 50 miles from Stony Brook.

The report said the body was in a condition which would make quick identification unlikely. Because of discrepancies in the height and weight of the body taken from the sound and of Mrs. Parsons, officers expressed doubt it could be that of the missing heiress. Hill made this announcement as the noon day deadline for non interference by police with the supposed kidnappers of Mrs. Parsons was reached. The deadline has been set by William Parsons, retired business man and North Shore Long Island poultry farmer.

HERE'S G-MEN'S SCORE. 12,000 ARRESTED, 9 KILLED

Washington (AP)—The European idea that G-men spend most of their time chasing kidnappers and bank robbers around the United States irks officials of the federal bureau of investigation.

J. Edgar Hoover, bureau director, dispatched Major W. H. D. Lester to the International Criminal Police Commission, meeting in London, to explain that G-men are primarily "scientific investigators."

Major Lester explained to the delegates that during the last three years G-men killed only 9 criminals, of the 12,000 taken into custody.

UNION LEADER BRANDED LIAR BY MILL HEAD

Republic Chairman Hurls Epithet At Philip Murray

SENATOR GUFFEY ALSO BELITTLED

Witness Declares During Hearing Solon 'Doesn't Know What He's Talking About'

Washington, June 24.—(AP)—Tom Girdler, chairman of Republic Steel, told a Senate committee today Phillip Murray, chairman of the S. W. O. C., was a "liar" and Senator Guffey (D.-Pa.) "doesn't know what he is talking about" with respect to the present steel strike.

Appearing before the Senate postoffice committee to answer charges made against Republic by Murray, Girdler made his assertion in answer to a question by Senator Bridges (R. N. H.). The Senator asked whether Murray's statement was true that the only issue was the question of reducing an oral agreement to writing.

Bridges said Senator Guffey had suggested the same thing at an earlier meeting of the committee.

"Mr. Murray is a liar to the best of my knowledge and belief and always has been," Girdler snapped in reply. "Senator Guffey doesn't know what he is talking about."

Chairman McKellar (D. Tenn.) immediately asked Girdler to withdraw his remark about Guffey, asserting "Senators are entitled to respectful speech by all witnesses."

Girdler remained silent.

Guffey, who is not a member of the committee, but was seated at the committee table, spoke to assert "It is alright with me if I can have the privilege of asking the witness a few questions after the others are through."

Maternal Clinics Conducted At Pitt

A maternal - infant welfare clinic is being held in Ayden today, others are scheduled for Farmville tomorrow and at the Pitt General hospital here Monday and Tuesday. The hours for the clinic are from 2 to 4 o'clock. Local physicians are conducting the clinics.

When the work was started in Greenville only one clinic was held a month, but the patients increased to such an extent two are being held monthly now. Last month, when only one day was devoted to the clinic, 44 patients were on hand and it was then decided to devote two days to this particular work.

A well baby clinic is held in connection with the maternal - infant welfare work in Greenville each month, conducted by local baby specialists for people unable to provide a private physician.

The clinic scheduled for Grimesland yesterday was postponed until June 30.

Asks Benefits For Coast Guardsmen

Washington, June 24.—(AP)—Senator Robert Reynolds predicted favorable recommendation by a Senate commerce sub - committee today of his bill providing retirement of coast guard enlisted men on half pay after 30 years' service.

The Senator appeared before the group yesterday to urge a favorable report. Rep. Graham Barden of New Bern, N. C. who has a similar bill before the House, and Admiral Randolph Riley, United States coast guard, retired, also appeared in behalf of the measure.

Navy Sends Out Call For Additional Men

Due to the exceedingly large quotas being sent in for enlistment from the local station, located in the Post Office building, New Bern, the waiting list is rapidly decreasing and the Navy-Recruiter there is calling for more men to fill the future quotas. The Recruiting office is open daily from 9:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m. except Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

The men sent in since last July include: Murray Cannon, Vanceboro; Robert Jackson, Ayden; Clinton Kirkman, Vanceboro; Herman Smith, Greenville; Jeffrey Leggett, Winterville; John Ricks, Greenville; Dalmier Sutton, Erul; McDonald McLawhon, Vanceboro; Jesse Smith, Greenville; Thomas Edwards, Vanceboro; Evans James, Winterville; Gaston Brinson, Greenville; Jackson Thomas, Erul; Alfred Morris, Erul.

German, Italian Ships Patrol Coast Of Spain

Two Fascist Powers Operating Independent of Others

(By Associated Press) Germany and Italian war ships patrolled the coast of Spain on their own initiative today, their commanders acting in apparent concert.

Italian vessels were under orders to strike back immediately at any "attack" from the Spanish government. The German battle fleet, about to be reinforced by the pocket battleship Graf Spee, was told to "protest German interests."

Uneasy fear still pervaded Britain that the joint Italian - German withdrawal from the non-intervention patrol, intended to isolate the Spanish war, was the forerunner of an attack against government Spain as "punishment" for an alleged attempt to torpedo the German cruiser Leipzig.

The German cruiser Kohn arrived unexpectedly at Gibraltar, but whereabouts of the rest of the German fleet was unreported. Reports from Tangier, Morocco, said Italian and German warships had sailed from there.

From Paris came word France and England would look askance at any Italo-German attempt to block the Spanish government coast.

Germany blamed Russia and Great Britain for the new European crisis which resulted when France and Britain refused to accede to German and Italian demands for a naval demonstration against the Virginia government.

Meanwhile a new cabinet crisis was reported in Catalonia, ally of the Central Valencia government. There also were many spy arrests there.

On the northern Spanish front, government forces merged into a single army to strengthen resistance to the insurgent threat to dominate the entire Basque and Asturian region.

Travel by dog team is still the prevailing method of transportation in Alaska.

Control Victory In Wake Regarded As Significant

Reflecting Bureau. Raleigh, June 24.—Now that Raleigh and Wake county have voted for liquor control and liquor stores by a majority of some 1,300 votes, despite one of the most intensive campaigns waged by the dry forces in any county the belief in most political circles is that a good many other counties which have been wavering and waiting to see what Wake county would do, will now call liquor control elections.

If the dries had won the election here by even a small margin, it is regarded as doubtful if any others than the two counties which have already called liquor control elections—Jones and Cumberland—would have had elections this summer. But since the control advocates carried the election by a far larger majority than anyone had expected and in the home town and county of Cale K. Burgess, Dr. W. L. Pollock and the United Deys, other counties are now expected to call control elections from now until fall.

The belief in many circles here today is that Alamance and Guilford counties will now get up enough courage to call elections on whether or not they will continue to operate under their present wide-open bootleg systems or have legally operated county liquor stores. For those here who know conditions know that liquor is just about as easy to buy in Burlington, Greensboro or High Point as it has been in Raleigh and Charlotte, that it is also easily obtainable at filling stations, road houses and eating places, out in the rural sections of Alamance and Guilford counties.

But both Alamance and Guilford counties have been waiting to find out how sentiment was in the other counties before undertaking to dive off the bootleg swimming pool. It is generally agreed. At one time Alamance county was ready to call an election and fix the date, but the dry victory in Mecklenburg is regarded as having given the county commissioners the prohibition jitters, with the result that no election.

SENATE VOTES FOR INCREASE OF SUR-TAXES

Proposal by Sen. LaFollette Applies To Personal Income

MOST SURPRISING VOTE OF SESSION

Members Override Leadership in Upper Branch in Favoring Amendment

Washington, June 24.—(AP)—The Senate voted today for a proposal by Senator LaFollette (Prog.-Wis.), to bolster federal reserves by raising surtaxes on personal incomes.

In one of the most surprising votes of the session, the Senate overrode its leadership and approved the LaFollette amendment by a vote of 35 to 31.

He offered the proposal as an amendment to the administration's "nuisance tax" extension bill which would continue a host of miscellaneous excise levies for two years.

Meanwhile two score names of persons high in business and financial fields were listed by treasury officials in the Senate-House inquiry into tax evasion and avoidance.

The list included Andrew Mellon, Pierre du Pont, John J. Raskob, Thomas W. Lamont, Alfred P. Sloan Jr., and Mrs. Ethel H. du Pont.

The names were listed in tables given the congressional investigating group by Guy Helvering, internal revenue commissioner, as the committees studied what Helvering termed the "device of personal holding companies" to reduce tax payments.

Helvering did not say at any point that the tax reducing activities of those named were in any way illegal.

Instead he said that they took advantage of tax reductions allowed personal holding companies, under the law which are not permitted on individual tax returns.

Mellon was described as having two holding companies. His name was brought into the hearing early in the day's session when treasury officials listed the names of 17 holding companies and their principal owners as examples of how holding companies were used by wealthy persons to evade tax payments.

ETIQUETTE

By JOAN DURHAM
(AP Feature Service Writer)

The entrance of women into the business world has brought some changes in the social niceties. Common sense politeness frequently is a subject for heated discussion. Some things gentlemen once did to show consideration for women is now regarded by those same gentlemen as out of date.

The hat-of-in-the-elevator problem, the shall-I-sit-or-stand dilemma, the shall-I-sit-or-stand quandary—each is good for a debate.

Giving Up Seats
One of the questions that puzzles men in business concerns is whether or not they should give their seats to women in public conveyances.

At the end of a long hard day most men feel justified in remaining seated when women enter buses, trolleys or subways. Unless a woman is very old or ill she should not expect a man to give up his seat to her. If the man recognizes a woman who is standing near him as an acquaintance, however, it would be extremely impolite for him not to offer his seat to her.

Hats-Off Problem
A good hats-off policy to follow is to make a distinction between business and residential buildings.

Hats should come off in a hotel, apartment or club elevator. They may nearly always remain on in elevators in business buildings—where the passengers often are so crowded that holding hats is impossible anyway.

Whenever a gentleman engages a woman in conversation—unless they are both in a crowded business elevator—he should remove his hat and hold it in his left hand until the conversation is concluded.

If the two are in a crowded elevator in a business building, he may merely touch his hat and then speak to her—in a voice that will not attract too much attention.

'Dutch Treats'
Most men agree that if a woman is making approximately the same salary as her masculine colleagues she should bear her share of entertainment expense—a practice commonly referred to as "Dutch treating."

But they carefully shun the woman who makes a point of grabbing the bill and presenting her share of it in person to the cashier.

How's Your Health?

By Da Iago Goldstein
NEARSIGHTEDNESS

In the nearsighted (myopic) eye we are dealing not alone with an optical defect, but also with an organ—the eyeball—which is inherently weak.

The image of the object looked at theoretically falls in front of the retina (the sensitive lining membrane of the eye) in the nearsighted eye. It is a peculiarity of the physiology of the eye that the focusing muscles come into play only when the image falls behind the retina, and never when it is in front. Hence the near-sighted individual does not see distant objects clearly, and cannot focus upon them by means of his focusing muscles.

Because of this, the nearsighted individual, notably the child, favors close work which can be seen very well. Staying at home and playing with toys or books, the nearsighted child aggravates the condition by taxing the large external muscles of his eyes. Congestion and further weakening result, and the nearsightedness tends to grow worse.

Nearsightedness is likely to increase with age. The eyeball, weak in structure, tends to become elongated, the worse the nearsightedness becomes. Here, too, arises the very serious complication of myopia, detachment of retina.

The nearsighted individual should be fitted with compensating glasses, and he should use them constantly. He should have his eyes examined periodically and his glasses changed as frequently as necessary. Properly prescribed glasses not only will give him good distant vision, but will oblige the focusing muscles to function normally, thus favoring their health and development.

All examinations of nearsighted eyes should be made by a competent medical man expert in eye work. Glasses should be obtained from reliable optometrists and should be checked by the examining physician promptly after they are obtained.

The nearsighted child should never read in awkward positions, or with print too close. That means no funny papers on the floor.

Strict attention should be paid to the general health of the nearsighted youngster. The eye is, after all, not an isolated organ, but shares the ill or well-being of the body.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Crover

Washington — First impressions of huddles of congressmen were that the treasury was serving them a dish of cold gravy as part of the supposed-to-be exciting tax evasion investigation.

It is true they expected to hit the headlines with the incorporation of a yacht and those families who arranged to pay each other salaries for "services" which might be deducted as offsets against the income tax.

But the question of the depletion allowance for oil wells, mines and the like has been threshed and winnowed ever since the income tax was set up in 1913. So, too, had been the question of division of income between husband and wife in certain "communal property states," and the business of personal holding companies was another old-timer.

No. 1 Evader
It is a fact that some of the lads on the hill would have liked whooping it up about certain slick schemes for evading taxation, such as incorporating yachts, and founding new insurance companies as fences for hiding earnings. But the house members, at any rate, had some-what of a bad conscience. Only a day or two before the hearings opened the house had committed one of the nearest pieces of tax evasion on the calendar. If the treasury had dared, it could have set up the house as horrible example No. 1.

It goes back to this. Congress helps support the city of Washington since a handsome part of the city is publicly owned and not subject to property taxes. Congress, years ago, agreed to put up 40 percent of the kitty. But not in many years, if ever, has that much been put up and the taxpayers of the city have had to put up the difference.

Just like other growing cities, Washington has its trouble raising revenue and this year was no exception. So it arranged with a congressional committee, which acts as sort of town council for the district, to impose an income tax.

The marriage of Mrs. Pauline Whitehurst Brooks of Bethel, to W. D. Pruitt of this city, was solemnized this morning in a quiet but pretty ceremony at the home of the bride's mother in Bethel.

Just before the ceremony Mrs. John Hooker sweetly sang "I Love You Truly," by Bond. She was accompanied by Mrs. Sam Whitehurst.

As Mrs. Whitehurst played the Ethel Chorus from Lohengrin, the bride and bridegroom entered together. The vows were spoken before the Reverend Miller Johnson, pastor of the Baptist Church, in a lovely setting of summer flowers in the pastel shades, against a background of green and white.

The bride wore a becoming model of white crepe with coat of Wallis blue, with blue accessories. Her flowers were a corsage of talkman roses.

Mrs. Pruitt, a very attractive woman is the daughter of Mrs. Del A. Whitehurst of Bethel, and the late J. H. Whitehurst.

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE SERVAUD

SYNOPSIS: Saving a desperate young man (Ted Gaylor) from getting a red fire to get a job, Kay Cranford offers him a place at the Lazy Nine; she believes he is decent. She rides home to find her ranch house and barn lost in flames. Josh Hastings, owner of the Flying Six, who wants to buy the Lazy Nine and marry Kay, invites her there, but she distrusts him. However, her young sister, Babs, and peppery Aunt Kate gladly visit Hastings. Ted joins Kay's outfit and rides to town with Kay and the insurance papers. Dan Steele, the banker, dashes her hopes of rebuilding—the insurance money has to go toward the mortgage.

Chapter Eight

Friend Or Foe?

"EVEN if this fire hadn't happened, you were sailing very close to the wind," said Dan Steele. "Yes, and what made this fire happen?" Kay flung out darkly. "How far is Josh Hastings ready to go to get my ranch?"

"Kay, I'm amazed at you! Do you realize what you are implying?" Dan Steele gazed sternly into the rebellious brown eyes. "Don't say that again! I don't like to see you receive a friendly offer in such a spirit."

"Friendly offer!" Kay scoffed. "If he's so friendly, why doesn't he lend me the five thousand to rebuild?"

"I suggested that to him, but he feels that for your own good, you should face the fact now that the ranch is too much for you to carry, and give up the idea once and for all. You can't afford to antagonize a good friend, Kay. He's doing you a mighty friendly turn right now, in offering his hospitality to you."

"Yes, he's got me in a trap, and he knows it," Kay sprang to her feet and faced Dan Steele with reckless abandon. "But I'll get out of it somehow. You mean to be a real friend, I know," she caught her lip to choke back a sob, "but how can you be a banker, when you can't see through that man? Why can he pull the wool over everyone's eyes but mine?"

She turned away and fumbled with the door-knob in a wild desire to escape before she broke down. Pulling the door open, she gave a little cry and recoiled a step. On the threshold, smiling and urbane, stood Josh Hastings.

How long had he been there? How much had he heard? Dimly conscious of Dan Steele's surprised and apologetic greeting, Kay pushed past the newcomer and ran out of the bank.

Preventing A Loan

WELL, well, Kay seems to be in kind of a rush," Josh Hastings gave no sign of having heard any of the conversation, but Dan Steele eyed him uneasily. He had never had much more than a passing acquaintance with Hastings, and as he looked now into his imperturbable eyes that resembled discs of bright blue china in his florid face, he wondered if possibly Kay was right in her estimate of this man. He certainly hoped that none of Kay's wild talk had been overheard.

"Reckon the poor kid took it kind of hard about the insurance," Hastings went on, and Dan Steele felt his vague suspicions dispelled by the genial sympathy of his tone.

"She did, poor child," he answered with extra heartiness to make up for his momentary unfriendly thought toward his visitor. After all, he mustn't allow himself to be influenced by a hysterical girl, which, in spite of her good sense, Kay obviously was at the moment. "She'd counted on having that money to rebuild."

"She didn't take any too kindly to my suggestion, I gather?" Hastings surmised shrewdly.

Dan Steele shot him a quick look and he added, "From the way she streaked past me I reckoned I wasn't rating very high with her right then. Poor kid!" His tolerant laugh again allayed Dan Steele's fears that he might have heard Kay's wild accusation.

"She'll probably come around, when she gets over the shock and has time to think about it," Dan Steele said. "I told her your offer was a fair one and advised her to take it. Seeing how terribly she feels, though, he went on, half-reminding himself, "I'm almost inclined to stretch a point and lend her a few thousand to rebuild myself."

"You'd be doing her anything but a kindness," Hastings argued earnestly. "It's far better for her to face the situation now, and take this chance to get out. This fire will really prove a blessing in disguise, in the end."

"Something in what you say," Dan Steele answered thoughtfully. "Still, the interest on five thousand isn't any too much to live on. And some day, the ranch will be worth a whole lot more than that."

"Sure it will, if it's properly handled," Hastings agreed. "But with a girl struggling against all the odds she'll have to meet, it's a hundred to one she'll lose the whole thing without salvaging even a nest egg of five thousand."

"Reckon you're right," Dan Steele sighed. "Raising false hopes isn't any kindness, that's sure."

"As to Kay's future, with her hair and eyes she's got no call to worry about that," Hastings gave a sudden laugh. "I'd be willing to insure that myself, if worst came to worst! And she might do worse, at that," he ended jocularly.

"You mean..." Dan Steele looked up in surprise, and gave a knowing whistle. "So that's the way the wind blows!"

"Why not?" Hastings defended. "I'm only 37. That way, she can have the ranch with me thrown in! But I didn't mean to get off on that tack," he frowned at his momentary indiscretion. "Forget I said it, will you? The time isn't ripe for that yet. I just wanted you to realize that I've got Kay's real interest at heart."

"I do realize it," Dan Steele said heartily, "and you've convinced me I'd be making a mistake to lend the money."

"Then you'll keep on persuading her to accept my offer, will you? Though I don't see how she can help herself. There isn't any one else around here right now who has five thousand, that I know of."

"You've said it," the banker agreed. "I'll do my best."

"Say," Hastings paused as he reached the door, "who was that guy that came in with Kay? The fellow who was waiting for her outside?"

"I don't know," Steele answered. "I didn't see him. One of her punchers, I reckon."

Hastings shook his head. "Not unless it's a new one, and I doubt if she's engaging any new punchers right now. He looked like a bird I had a run-in with a few years ago. Only he's grown a lot thinner, if it is the same one." His jaw set in an ugly line.

"Sorry I can't help you out," Dan Steele accompanied him to the door. "But I'll do my best in that other matter. I'll go out to the Lazy Nine in a day or so."

"Stop over and see us when you do," Hastings urged. "It might be a bad idea to drop a word or two in Aunt Kate's ear. She's a scotch!" He gave a sudden guffaw and winked at the banker. "I'm getting her on my side, all right! It was a lucky break having her show up when she did."

"You're being mighty generous and hospitable," Dan Steele said warmly.

Hastings gave a magnanimous wave of his hand. "Glad to do it," he boomed, heartily. "If you think of any other way I can help out, let me know."

Dan Steele stood in the door and watched him stride over to his horse and mount.

"Kay's all wrong about that fellow," he soliloquized. "He's got her real interest at heart. I'm glad I didn't act like a sentimental fool and commit myself to lending her that money. It would be the same as throwing it away."

He turned back into the bank as Hastings headed off toward the mesa, a shrewd smile of satisfaction on his face.

A Snatch Of Gossip

AS TED sat waiting, with Flicker's reins tossed carelessly over the pommel of his own saddle, he noticed two punchers who met in front of the bank and stopped to chat.

Not really listening to their conversation, Ted nevertheless couldn't help overhearing it. But he paid no attention—his mind was busy with thoughts of Kay, and the miraculous change she had made in him from yesterday's low ebb of despair.

Suddenly he became aware that one of the men had mentioned Kay's name, and that the two of them were indulging in that particular brand of guffaw that indicates the appreciation of some more or less ribald joke.

Galvanized to instant attention, Ted keenly watched the two as they sauntered past him and made for a large red and black sign announcing that Mike Kelly welcomed the world to his "Puncher's Paradise."

"Sure, my boss says she's up against it. Reckon she won't be so proud and haughty at the next dance."

The puncher who was announcing this news with such gloating satisfaction, suddenly leaned close to his companion's ear and whispered, a leering smile twisting his mouth.

The next minute they had passed by Ted and were pushing in the swinging doors of the "Puncher's Paradise." There was no mistaking either the expression, or the quality of the guffaw, with which the other puncher received the whispered communication.

With narrowed eyes and his mouth set in a grim line, Ted dismounted, slipped the two horses' reins over a hitching post and strode after the pair.

PLAN MEETING FOR DISTRICT

Unemployment Compensation Officials Called To Meet

Raleigh, June 24.—Members of the North Carolina Unemployment Compensation Commission will attend a regional conference of Unemployment Compensation Officials in the region 4, comprising Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina, to be held at the Raleigh Hotel, Raleigh, W. Va., June 25-26.

The conference is preliminary to a national conference of these officials to be held in Washington next year, probably in October or November, at which recommendations and suggestions of the regional officials will be considered by the national group. The meeting this month is primarily for round table discussions of problems that arise in the various state unemployment compensation organizations. Efforts will be made to bring about uniform methods of keeping records and general procedure in all the states.

North Carolina members who will attend are Chairman Charles G. Powell, Mrs. J. B. Spillman, member; Adrian J. Newton, general counsel, and E. W. Price, director of the Unemployment Compensation Division of the commission.

The next national conference, similar to the one held there March 17-19, is to be held in Washington and later meetings will be held in the west or south, in different sections, so more officials from all over the nation can attend.

Chairman Powell and Director Price plan to spend the week of July 4 in Wisconsin, the first state to adopt Unemployment Compensation and the only one that is now paying compensation. They plan to go over the entire plan and study the methods used in the administration of the act and particularly in paying compensation, which this state will begin to do early next year.

Forty-five states and the District of Columbia and Alaska have enacted Unemployment Compensation laws which have been approved, as required, by the Social Security Board.

Smithfield, June 24. — Library books are now being supplied to rural families of Johnston county under a project adopted this month by the county's home demonstration clubs.

Over 300 books are available at present, and a full time librarian has been placed in charge, said Miss Rachel Everett, home agent of the club.

"We hope to start a reading project this fall and give women and girls credit for the books they read," Miss Everett said. "One woman has reported already that she read her first book in three years, and this is the busy season for farm women, too."

Air Bread Box Often

Summer calls for diligent cleaning and airing of bread and cookie boxes, pantry and cupboard shelves and refrigerators. Since bread molds easily in the summer, it is best to buy just enough for each day's needs.

WAR Vs. HIGHWAYS

Automobile accidents in this country last year took a toll of 38,500 lives and injured in excess of one million persons of whom 110,000 were permanently injured, being left armless, legless or blind, because someone was careless on the highway. The one year's automobile deaths of the country exceeded the nation's losses in the World War and yet we permit this annual carnage to continue.

Based on statistics for the first four months of the present year this year's death toll may reach 50,000 persons.

According to the same reports, North Carolina and Tennessee tie for first place as the most dangerous states with 28 fatalities for every 10,000,000 gallons of gasoline used, while South Dakota ranked safest with 7.3 deaths for every 10,000,000 gallons of gasoline used. New York, despite its dense population and congested traffic, had one death for every 4,200 persons, while the national average was one for every 3,300 inhabitants.

North Carolina's death toll for May was about 20 per cent greater than April, the last month included in the four month report, which indicates that unless something is done to curb the slaughter on our highways our state may occupy undisputed first place as the most deadly state, by the time figures for the first six months of the year are compiled. This is one "first" of which North Carolina should be ashamed, and the co-operation of every citizen in the state is necessary if we are to remove our state from this shameful position. North Carolina has strengthened its traffic laws, it has increased its highway patrol, and yet the slaughter continues because the human element instead of using common sense on our highways prefers to gamble with death.

If the young manhood of our country was called to war tomorrow it would bring grief to the hearts of all and fear for the safety of these young men, yet statistics show that they would be far safer on the battlefield than on our highways. Wars are horrible and our nation as a whole is organizing in an effort to prevent our country ever being drawn into another such conflict. Wouldn't it be well if our nation likewise organized against this ruthless slaughter on our highways that is proving even more deadly than war?

was called. Now, however, with Durham county already having liquor stores on one side, with Raleigh and Wake county having voted for stores, observers here believe that Alamance county before long will decide to call an election — and that whatever Alamance county does, Guilford will follow along and do the same. For indications are that the powers that be in Guilford do not want to see people from Greensboro and High Point go to Alamance county for their liquor any more than those in Alamance want to give their business to the Durham county stores.

The factor that has delayed the calling of liquor control elections in both Alamance and Guilford counties more than anything else, it is understood, has been the fear that the rural vote out in the counties would be so overwhelmingly dry that it would defeat the control vote in the cities. This was what was feared by the control forces here in Wake county. But this dry vote in the rural precincts proved to be much smaller than was expected, with the result that the control majority of more than 2,000 in Raleigh resulted in a majority of about 1,300 for the control forces in the entire county. In fact, 11 out of 26 rural precincts here in Wake county voted for liquor stores, while the vote in many of the others was very close.

It is also believed that liquor control elections are likely to be called soon in Buncombe, Haywood and Rowan counties and possibly in Catawba and one or two other Piedmont counties, now that Raleigh and Wake county have broken the prohibition ice and demonstrated that the water in the "wet" swimming pool is not so cold after all. Reports from Buncombe are that liquor control will carry by a good majority in Asheville, but that the leaders there are afraid of the dry vote out in the county—but not as much afraid of it now as they were.

Tarboro, June 23—Bo Farley's Greenville Greenies broke into the win column today in taking a 5-4 verdict over Tarboro's Snakes here yesterday.

Norwood's walk, Johnson's single, Melchor's sacrifice, and singles by Al Pignataro and John Delaney produced the eighth inning runs. The Snakes came close to tying the score in the eighth—but a squeeze-play effort misfired.

The Greenies outlit the Serpents, 12 to 7, but sensational plays afield by the Tarborians kept the Greenville scoring total cut down. Great throws by Rimmer and Savace cut off a pair of runs for the Greenies.

The last of three Tarboro runs in the fourth came on a double steal with Myers pilfering home and Carnahan taking second. Rudisill, Johnson, Melchor and Pignataro with two hits each led Greenville batsmen. Seven men on the Tarboro team got one hit each.

Andy Johnson acted as manager of the Greenies yesterday on account of Manager Farley's illness. Goldsboro's league-leading Blues are playing in Greenville this afternoon.

New Bern Wins, 10-5, Over Snow Hill Nine

New Bern—New Bern came from behind Wednesday to take a 10-5 win over Snow Hill. The defeat dropped the Blues to third place a half-game back of Williamston and three games back of the league leading Bugs.

Brilliant relief pitching of Leonard Berry featured New Bern's triumph. Berry was called in as a relief for Flora in the fourth inning with bases loaded, two away, and a count of two balls and no strikes on Horse Newborn. He walked Newborn, forgave in a run, and then retired Wall. From then on, Berry pitched one-hit and one-run ball—Culler singled in the sixth to score Rhile, who had walked and moved up on a bunt. Berry fanned six.

An error let in a Bear tally in the seventh, and the locals got hot in the eighth to count four runs—on singles by Mullinax, McAbee, and Berry plus doubles by Miller and Black.

Mullinax and Miller, each with three hits, were the batting stars.

Run In Ninth Inning Gives Goldsboro Win

Goldsboro—Adamek's outfield fly scored Overton in the ninth inning with the run which gave Goldsboro a 3-2 decision over Kinston here Wednesday.

With none away in the ninth, Overton singled. He went to second on Barker's sacrifice. Overton advanced to third when Pitcher Webb threw past second in a pick-off try.

Kinston made its rallies in the second—Schultz singled, Gillenwater homered.

The Bugs got a run in the first on a couple of walks, an infield out, and Jarvis' fly. The other Goldsboro run came in the fourth—on Brennan's single, a walk, a bunt, and Webb's wild pitch.

Ayden Loses Tilt To Williamston Martins

Ayden—Williamston came out on the big end of the score in a 12-10 game with Ayden Wednesday. Seven pitchers totted.

The Martins started early, the Aces started late. A homer by Ace Villepique with two on in the sixth closed the visitors' scoring. At that stage, the Aces had only two runs. They kept trying, and the contest ended with the tying runs in the ninth. Three came against Biggie—on Joyner's double, three walks and Jirak's single. Strunk then came into the box, and Faust Johnson singled to send in a run. Corrado flied out to end the game.

Wade and Lakotas hit successive homers in the Martins' third inning. Wade's came with one on, McCormick, first up in Ayden's fifth, hit for the circuit.

Best pitching job of the day was that by Mackie, who halted the Martins' tallying in the sixth and blanked them the rest of the way. The result ended a five-game Ayden winning streak.

FARM BUREAU TO HOLD PICNIC
The picnic is held annually in Pitt county, home of the Farm Bureau Federation in North Carolina. E. E. Arnold, executive secretary, is expected to be on hand for the occasion, as well as representatives of other state Bureaus and also of the national organization. With tobacco the chief crop in this section and congressmen from tobacco states undecided yet whether to ask for legislation to control the production of the crop, this picnic is expected to be the chief topic of discussion at the picnic meeting.

The Pitt county organization has more members than any other county bureau in the state. The State Farm Bureau was organized in Greenville following two mass meetings of farmers here attended by Edward A. O'Neil, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

While the organization is chiefly for farmers, local business men who are interested directly or indirectly in farming have joined the organization and are taking an important part in its work.

Bryant was educated at Scotland Neck high school and Holmes Theological Institute, and for 10 years has been a minister and director of young people's work.

Capps will organize schools at once at Carey farm and at Central prison, Pitts said.

Bryant will direct religious work at all prison camps, trying to arrange with ministers in the various localities to conduct services at each camp each week and also organizing special work for young people.

INDIAN CAMPS MADE THE MOUNTAINS BALD
Raleigh, N. C. (AP)—The bald spots on mountains of high altitude, says Dr. B. W. Wells of North Carolina State College, were brought on by Indian camps of a former day.

In the opinion of Dr. Wells the Indian camps gave mountain oaks, grass and sedge a chance to gain a foothold and once these grasses got started they were able to "freeze out" all trees, shrubs, and other vegetation normally growing at those high altitudes.

Tourist Camps In N. Carolina Need To Be Cleaned Up
Sanitary Inspector For State Board of Health Declares Many Need to Clean Up or Shut Up

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, June 24.—Many of the roadside tourist camps in North Carolina are poorly equipped, do not conform with the state's sanitary regulations and should either clean up or close up, according to M. M. Melvin, sanitary inspector for the State Board of Health.

Camps inspected by the sanitary engineering division, when not able to make a sufficient rating, are required either to close up or make the improvements required by the law, Melvin said. The main trouble is that there are not enough inspectors to get around to these camps often enough.

"There are some very good tourist camps in the state, of course, which conform to all the regulations, and which are as good as can be found in any state," Melvin said. "But these are the exception rather than the rule."

Tourist camps are graded on the basis of ventilation, cleanliness, the condition of wash rooms, toilets, bed rooms, halls, water supply and general surroundings, also on the sewage disposal systems.

The bed rooms, or cabins, must have windows, screens, adequate lights, clean linens, shades on the windows, be clean and in good repair—and be free from vermin. The water supply must be from city water systems, artesian wells or from approved private water plants, while individual drinking cups or sanitary drinking fountains must be provided. Mattresses must be of a good quality and in a good condition.

"In inspecting a tourist camp a few days ago, I found some mattresses that were so poor that they came apart when I tried to lift them, so I threw them out in the yard and told the camp proprietor to burn them and get new ones," Melvin said. "The condition of the entire camp was terrible."

O. W. UNDERHILL

Raleigh, June 24.—He can't hear a word you say, but with a little help he can carry on a conversation that enables him to transact his business wherever he goes.

Deaf since he was one year old, O. W. Underhill, started to school at the age of eight without knowing his own name. But in time he learned to read and write and to speak, though with some hesitation. At 20 he graduated from Gallaudet College, Washington, D. C., with an A. B. degree.

He has been employed by the State College extension service, in cooperation with the N. C. School for the Deaf, Morganton, to help carry the extension program to the State's deaf farmers.

Acting as an interpreter, he helps extension specialists and county agents talk with deaf farmers, get at the bottom of their problems, and suggest methods whereby the problems can be solved, said Dean I. O. Schaub, director of the extension service.

It is estimated that there are more than 400 deaf farmers in North Carolina, most of whom are eager to adopt better farming practices so they can make a better living for themselves and their families, the dean continued.

Dr. R. L. Johns Addresses Conference On Education

Chapel Hill, June 24.—Dr. R. L. Johns, director of finance and administration for the State Department of Education in Alabama, gave four elements necessary for a balanced program of state support of public education in his address at this morning's session of the three-day Southern Conference on Education being held at the University of North Carolina.

In developing his topic Dr. Johns stated that he was not attempting to present a theoretically ideal set-up but was analyzing the state program which he was familiar in terms of how nearly it approximates a "Balanced Program of State Support."

Alabama's state support program is based upon the four principles, Dr. Johns said. He listed them as: scientific budgeting based upon sound accounting procedures; long-time planning for school building programs and the financing of hospital outlays state-wide program of equalization of educational opportunities based upon educational need and ability to pay; and sound, statesmanlike and aggressive professional leadership.

Dr. Edwin H. Reeder, University of Vermont, and Dr. Claire Zylve, New York University, are scheduled to speak at this afternoon's session. Dean W. C. Jackson of the Woman's College, Greensboro, will preside over the program which is on elementary education.

At the opening session of the conference last night Dr. Clyde A. Erwin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, gave six points for the improvement of public school education in the South after stating that the public schools had "neither met the challenges nor the imposed opportunities for service which the complexity of the social and economic structure has brought upon them."

Dean W. C. Jackson of the Woman's College, Greensboro, who was the first speaker on last night's program stressed the view that education has been a means of drawing the Southern area into the national picture again and contributing to the changing of the regional to the national pattern of life and thought.

Dr. C. B. Glenn, of Birmingham, and President of the American Association of Administrators, will be the first speaker on tonight's program opening at 8 o'clock in Memorial hall. "Human Relations" will be the topic of his address.

Second speaker on tonight's program will be Dr. Howard Odum, director of the Institute for Research in Sociology at the University and a former president of the American Sociological society, who will speak on "Utilizing Our Resources."

Local ABC Boards May Hire Officers For Outside Work
Suggested by Chairman Moore of State Board That Various Counties Exchange Detectives

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, June 24.—The counties having liquor control and liquor stores are considering a plan proposed by a nationally known detective agency to supply expert and experienced investigators to get evidence of bootlegging to the various county ABC boards and present this evidence to officers or to the grand jury. It was revealed here today by Governor C. Yde R. Hoey.

It is understood that two or three counties have already employed this detective agency or have agreed to do so and that others are considering doing so.

"The plan proposed by the detective agency, as I understood it, is that if enough of the counties will agree to the plan, it will send a different set of operatives and investigators into each cooperating county each month to get evidence of bootlegging," Governor Hoey said. "In this way it maintains it will be able to do much more efficient work since it will not be possible for the bootleggers to spot the detectives and investigators. But I do not know what counties, if any, have agreed to try out the plan. However, I think it has merit."

Chairman Outlar Moore of the State Alcoholic Beverages Control Board, said today that this plan had been presented to several county control boards by the detective agency and intimated that one or two counties were now experimenting with it, or would start to in the near future. He declined to say which counties these were, however, or to name the detective agency.

It is generally agreed that if the various county boards employ their own detectives or investigators, that they will soon become known to the bootleggers in these counties and thus make it difficult for them to get evidence of bootlegging. Some of the county control boards have had their own officers for some time and some very efficient ones, it is agreed. But these officers soon become known to the bootleggers and their customers, as well as to the other local officers. As a result, the belief here is that the best thing to do is to get outside officers from detective agencies and whom will not be so easy to spot.

CARRIER PIGEONS HOLD THEIR ARMY JOBS
Washington (AP)—Wireless has displaced the navy's gallant homing pigeons, but army officers say they will have a place forever in land warfare.

"They can be used where radio would disclose the position of an isolated body of troops," says Capt. W. R. Minckler of the signal corps, which maintains 1,100 trained pigeons at Fort Monmouth, N. J.

Minckler says over 500,000 pigeons took part in the World War.
