WANTS ACTION BY PRESIDENT TO STAY FIGHT

Sen. Gillette Would Prevent Resumption of Court Battle

MUCH CRITICISM FOR ROOSEVELT

Check-Up Shows Congress Has Already Appropriated $7,500,000,000 in 1937

Washington, July 16.—(AP)—Senator Gillette, (D-Iowa) expressed a hope today President Roosevelt would still "see fit" to take some action to forestall resumption of "hostilities" over the court reform program.

Gillette was one of four Democratic Senators who urged the President yesterday to side track the court legislation.

New echoes from the presidential letter asserting it was "the duty of congress" to act on the judiciary reform legislation at this session, were heard immediately after today's state funeral for Senator Robinson.

Senator Burke (D Neb.) a leading court bill foe, said "someone has lost his sense of proportion."

Senator McNary, Republican leader, commenting on the chief executive's letter charged the period for mourning Robinson's death was being violated, declared "it was only at the White House that conferences were held and political activity was observable."

Gillette expressed frank surprise at the presidential communication sent to Senator Barkley (D Ky.) a few hours after Gillette's White House visit.

Meantime congress has appropriated more than $7,500,000,000 this year for federal expenditures, committee records showed.

This includes an estimated $133,298,999 for the interior department which the house may cut to some extent before giving final approval next week.

Other developments:

Five petitions were circulated among members of congress appealing for early enactment of farm legislation embracing the "every normal granary" and crop control.

Harry Hopkins, WPA administrator, said WPA expenditures in the last six months dropped below the billion dollar mark. They totaled about $880,000,000.

Surgeon Is Witness At Investigation of Strike Riot Deaths

Describes Marchers at Republic Plant Memorial Day as Peaceful, Dressed in Holiday Attire

Chicago, July 16.—(AP)—A young surgeon related today shortly after he saw a "peaceful Sunday crowd" march toward a Republic Steel corporation plant Memorial Day today he was surrounded by 40 or 50 "screaming, groaning, bleeding men" who had been injured in a clash with police.

Dr. Lawrence Jacques, a doctor associated with the civic medical center, gave this testimony to a coroner's jury investigating the deaths of 10 men in steel strike rioting.

The inquest adjourned at noon until Monday morning.

Dr. Jacques had established a first aid station at strike headquarters, three days before the Memorial Day outbreak.

The marchers he described as peaceful, dressed in holiday attire and likely to be mistaken for a picnic party except for their seriousness.

Dr. Jacques said he had done strike medical duty before.

This is How Trouters Are Made

Goshen, N. Y., July 16.—(AP)—Lord Zombelle, one of 39 aristocratic candidates for the $30,000 Hambletonian trotting stake at Good Time park here August 11, dozes, his "daddy dog" hitched to a hayrack. Trainer Walter Cox thought of giving the big horse his workouts at plowing, but the spring plowing was about over, so he chose the hayrack.

William H. Cane, sponsor of the Hambletonian once had a star colt who started life pulling a milk wagon at Chester, N. Y. and the top money-winning trotter of 1911, named R.T.C., launched his career yanking a plow around.

Mercury At 103 Degrees In The City

Residents experienced hottest weather in years, the mercury in thermometer at the official weather bureau, operated by B. T. Clark, reaching the 103 degree mark by mid-afternoon.

Mr. Clark said this was the highest mark reached in several years and declared that an official reading of 103 was the highest recorded here since he has been keeping records. He explained, however, that the official reading usually is one or two degrees lower than the highest reading during the day.

The mercury has reached 100 degrees several days this summer, and, in fact, has hovered around that position for the past week.

Although the mercury reached its highest mark today, a slight breeze gave some little relief from the torrid wave.

SEARCH ON FOR NO. 1 BAD MAN OF SOUTHWEST

Kidnapped Son Of Wealthy New Yorker Is Released

GUARD HIGHWAYS FOR DESPERADO

'Pete' Traxler and Two Other Texas Convicts Sought in Oklahoma

Sapulpa, Okla., July 16.—(AP)—Possemen stood watch on blockaded highways today for Roy "Pete" Traxler, the Southwest No. 1 bad man, believed fleeing northward after releasing the kidnapped son of a wealthy New York oil man.

The youth, 21 year old Baird Markham, son of General Baird Markham, an official of the American Petroleum Institute, was seized near Ada, Okla. Traxler, a left arm shattered by a bullet, and two companions, all escaped Texas convicts, took young Markham's car and forced him to accompany them.

Markham was released near here after eight hours and 15 minutes during which time he said the men criss-crossed through the country dodging a posse from which they had escaped by abandoning their own machine and taking to the woods only shortly before.

Markham, a Yale student, is working for an oil company during the summer.

Young Markham said all the men admitted they were fugitives from the Texas prison farm at Huntsville. Besides Traxler, he identified a second man as Charles Chapman, Chapman was wounded in the "Boulder" Markham said.

The third man, Markham said, was referred to as "Fred." Fred Tindol of Jasper, Texas, was one of the nine men who, with Traxler and Chapman, escaped the farm amid gun fire July 8.

C. D. Ward, principal of the Winterville school, has charge of the books. They will be kept at Winterville until school opens, when principals will determine how many are needed in their schools and go to the storage for them.

Free textbooks for use in Pitt county schools are arriving and are being stamped and packed in the Winterville High school for delivery to the various units.

The texts are for students through the seventh grade. The high school students will continue to use their own books. It also was pointed out that if a primary or elementary pupil wishes to purchase his own books this can be arranged at the state price. The books may be purchased at the Winterville clearing house.

It was announced at the County Board of Education offices this morning that there would be only a minor change in the books to be used next session by high school students. The only change will be in mathematics. Books different from those used last year on this subject will be studied in the eighth, ninth and tenth grades. Announcement regarding the high school books was made in order that students wishing to secure used books could go ahead and get them.

DEADLY BLAST CAUSE SOUGHT

Investigators Grope For Explanation of Mine Explosion

Sullivan, Ind., July 16.—(AP)—State and federal investigator groped today through a fog of gloom enveloping this community for an explanation of a sudden underground gas explosion which cost the lives of 20 coal miners.

Scared, mangled bodies of the victims, removed from the scene of the blast 312 feet below the surface of the Glendon Coal company's Baker mine near here, were taken to Sullivan to mortuaries where relatives sadly claimed them.

Families of the dead miners were still too griefed to talk about funeral plans. Friends said however, tentative arrangements would call for separate services and burials.

Nine other miners were hurt, four seriously enough to remain in a hospital here. Two of them may die.

One hundred and seventy-four miners escaped the force of the explosion yesterday. They organized rescue efforts and brought the injured to the surface, but fire and poisonous gases prevented them from rescuing the dead.

Map Plans For Booster Meeting On Monday Night

Representatives From Each of Various Business and Professional Groups in City to Make Brief Talks at Session

Plans were practically completed for the "Booster" meeting to be held at Respass barbecue place Monday night at a meeting of the steering committee last night.

It was decided not to have any long speeches, but to allot a brief time to a representative of each of the various business and professional groups in this city. Those selected to represent their respective groups are being notified today to prepare a few remarks.

The expressed object of the meeting is to "sell Greenville to its own citizens" to them in turn can sell it to others. Much interest has been aroused in the meeting, which will be for the purpose of boosting Greenville in general and the tobacco market in particular.

Efforts are being made to have as many citizens at the meeting as possible. Business houses are being asked to purchase tickets for all their employees. Each store and office in the city is being canvassed and tickets also will be on sale at the door. The meeting is scheduled to get under way at about 7:00 o'clock. It is not expected to last long as all talks will be brief.

Following the remarks by representatives from the various groups in the city, the meeting will be opened for a general discussion of plans to develop Greenville and its tobacco market. With the two so closely associated, it is being pointed out that every firm in the city should be represented. Sponsors are hoping for a crowd of at least 250.

A similar meeting was held last year and was attended by a large and enthusiastic crowd. The various organizations of the city are co-operating in sponsoring the meeting. The Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, Merchants association, Tobacco Board of Trade and Chamber of Commerce are supporting the movement and the two civic clubs have dispensed with their regular meetings—the Rotary on Monday night and the Kiwanis tonight—in order to make the meeting a success.

Johnson Not Interested In Prison Director's Job

Reflector Bureau By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, July 16.—Reports to the effect that the State Highway and Public Works Commission is seeking some one other than Oscar Pitts to head the prison division and that Commissioner Robert Grady Johnson of Pender county, had a number of the Commission from the fourth division might be offered the job, with Pitts retained as assistant director, were spiked here today by Commissioner Johnson who declared that he knew nothing of any such plan and that he would not be interested in it, even if there were something of that nature in the wind.

"While I am interested in the prison division both as a member of the highway commission and of the special committee studying the prison set-up, the suggestion that I might become head of the prison division must have come from some one's imagination," Johnson said. "It would be impossible for me to accept the job if it should be offered to me—but it won't be offered."

Commissioner Johnson would not discuss the prison situation any further. But it was learned from an authoritative source that neither Chairman Frank L. Dunlap of the highway commission nor the special committee of which Dunlap, Johnson and Commissioner T. Max Watson of Rutherford county are members, has discussed personnel at all and probably will not for a week or ten days yet.

This committee has not had a meeting since June 29 and no date has been set as yet for a meeting, although it was indicated today that Chairman Dunlap and the committee hope to finish their work and make recommendations to the entire committee both as to policy and personnel.

So far as could be learned today, no one other than Pitts is now under consideration for director of the prison division and there is no other applicant for the post with the possible exception of L. G. Whitley, at present assistant director in charge of prison discipline. Indications are that the new highway commissioner and Chairman Dunlap are well pleased with the work Pitts has done and is doing and that the prison committee will recommend his appointment as full time prison director.

Yet the report has been going the rounds for several days that Chairman Dunlap is on a quiet hunt for some other man to become director.

FEELS ARREST DUE ANY TIME

Expects Capture Red-Haired Woman in Sowell Case

Columbia, S. C., July 16.—(AP)—Arrest of the red-haired woman in the Sowell murder case at a point "outside the state" was expected momentarily today by Lieut. Leo Jenkins, state highway patrol identification officer who has been in charge of the investigation since the Lancaster policeman was shot July 4.

"We've run down a good many red-headed women since this case started," Jenkins said, "but I think we have something definite now."

"Every red-headed woman in the south who acted strangely has come under some sort of suspicion from somebody."

Jenkins would not reveal where the search for the woman was centered, but said he would likely have a story later today.

Robert S. Smith, an escaped convict, was held in the state penitentiary for Sowell's slaying and the red-haired woman wanted was his companion when the policeman was killed.

New Clashes Reported Between China and Japan Forces

TWO COUNTRIES MOVING TROOPS

Chinese Assert Japanese Attempting To Cut Peiping Off From Rest of Nation

(By Associated Press)

Japanese officials at Peiping reported new clashes between Chinese and Japanese forces in North China today increased Japanese losses to 20 killed and 60 wounded.

They said the Japanese army was compelled "to take adequate measures" because of the intermittent fighting for the past 10 days.

Both sides were reported moving heavy reinforcements toward the Peiping area of undeclared war where Chinese accuse Japanese of attempting to provoke still wider conflict as a pretext for extending their influence there.

Japanese said 100 Chinese soldiers were dispersed 28 miles southeast of Peiping and other Chinese troops dispersed after an exchange of fire.

A Japanese official said two new Japanese deaths occurred yesterday in a clash between a Chinese force and Japanese troops at a station eight miles south of Sengtai on the Peiping-Tientsin railroad.

Chinese reports said Japanese fortifications were being rushed in a wide semi-circle to isolate Peiping from the rest of China. Japanese, Korean and wealthy Chinese residents, began to flee.

At the stroke of noon the throng of frock-coated dimitaries marched into the gold and marble senate chamber for a simple state funeral. Lined-up spectators crowded the galleries.

The dead leader's massive, silvery casket, almost hidden by wreaths, occupied the center of the hall. An arm's length away stood the embossed casket of the late President.

The widow wept as the Rev. J. T. Phillips, senate chaplain, intoned the century-old Episcopal service.

The gray-haired minister intoned a few verses from the Gospel of St. John—"in my father's house are many mansions"—as the audience sat in reverent stillness. During the reading President Roosevelt sat with his hands clasped in his lap and his eyes downcast.

Dr. James Shera Montz, merv house chaplain, pronounced the benediction.

Somewhere in the waters surrounding Howland island the aviator and navigator disappeared while attempting a $70 mile flight to the mile and a half long island from New Guinea.

FUNERAL HELD FOR ROBINSON

Nation's Great Pay Last Tribute To Senator

Washington, July 16.—(AP)—The nation's great, led by President Roosevelt, paid their last respects today to Joseph Robinson, Democratic leader of the senate.

At the stroke of noon the throng of frock-coated dimitaries marched into the gold and marble senate chamber for a simple state funeral. Lined-up spectators crowded the galleries.

Search Disrupted By Rain And Heat

Aboard Coast Guard Cutter Itasca, July 16.—(AP)—The Itasca headed back toward Howland island today after searching the Gilbert islands group for three days without finding a trace of Amelia Earhart and her navigator, Frederick Noonan, who vanished July 2 while en route from New Guinea to Howland island on their globe girdling flight.

After the chamber had been cleared of gas and the physician had returned, Jones, walked in at 9:41 and the gas was started at 9:42. He died in 10 minutes and 43 seconds, but appeared to lose consciousness after less than half a minute.

Steele, Warden Honeycutt said, admitted he fired two shots into the body of Thomas Clifford Fowler, Charlotte taxicab operator, and contended Jones shot the man once.

Jones, 21, said he was with Steele but walked off just before Fowler was shot, later rejoining Steele to go off and go to sleep. This morning the warden and Rev. K. P. Battle said Jones told them he guessed he was guilty under the law as he was with Steele, but he still contended he did not actually participate in the killing.

Ten Injured In Explosion At Gas Plant

Atlantic City, N. J., July 16.—(AP)—A series of explosions at the Pure Oil company storage plant, including two 10,000-gallon gasoline tanks, flooded a square city block with burning fluid and injured at least 10 persons today.

Beaten back by the heat of the flames and the possibility of more explosions, firemen dragged hose to the nearby editorial building of the Atlantic City Press-Union newspapers and aimed streams of water onto the streets and in the direction of the neighboring A. and P. Coal company yards, where gasoline and flames were seeping into the fuel.

The injured, including three firemen, were taken to hospitals. None was believed seriously hurt.

Occupants of tenements and business buildings evacuated as the firemen directed their efforts to confining the blaze to the immediate area.

TWO EXECUTED AT N.C. PRISON

Mecklenburg County Men Pay Penalty For Murder

Raleigh, July 16.—(AP)—Fred Steele and Samuel James Jones died in the lethal gas chamber today for the slaying of a Mecklenburg county taxicab operator. Steele went to his death first and Warden H. H. Honeycutt said he confessed his guilt and implicated Jones.

The executions started at 8:30, earliest on record here and Jones was pronounced dead at 9:54.

There was a delay between the executions while Dr. G. S. Coleman, prison medical director treated a prisoner rushed to the hospital with a severed artery received while working at nearby Polk prison farm.

Steele, 24, a native of Gaston county, walked into the death chamber at 8:40 after witnesses had watched the warden and prison attaches make last minute preparations. The gas was started at 8:42 and 10 minutes and 57 seconds later Dr. Coleman pronounced him dead.

Party For Mrs. Overton

Griffin, July 15.—Mrs. Jonathan Griffin of Greenville, who before her recent marriage was Miss Bet Nelson, was honored Thursday afternoon when Mrs. James Cooke and Mrs. R. A. Nelson charmingly entertained at bridge at the home of Mrs. R. E. Nelson.

The beautiful mixed summer flowers made a lovely setting for the eight tables of bridge.

On arrival the guests were greeted by the hostesses and presented to Mrs. Overton, Miss Laura Overton, Miss Elizabeth Overton, of Greenville; Mrs. Edward Peele, of King City; Miss Gertrude Coward of Ayden, and Mrs. Henry Oglesby, a recent bride. These were presented dainty shoulder corsages.

Fruit punch was passed during play and at the conclusion of the games a delectable frozen salad with tea and sandwiches was served.

The honoree, Mrs. Overton, was remembered with compotes and goblets in her crystal pattern.

Mesdames Peele and Oglesby, recent brides, were given attractive gifts.

The high scorer of the afternoon, Miss Bertha Johnson, was given a pair of vases. Miss Marjorie Patrick scored second high and received a dainty handkerchief. Miss Laura Overton held high among the out-of-town guests and was presented note paper.

Playing were Mrs. Overton, Misses Overton, Mrs. Peele, Miss Coward, Mrs. Oglesby, Miss Johnson, Miss Patrick, Mrs. Ben G. Tucker, Mrs. Dorman McCotter, Mrs. Cecil Cobb, Mrs. W. H. Jackson, Mrs. Bryan Davis, Mrs. Vance Wall, Mrs. L. L. Newborn, Mrs. A. D. N.C. Highway Commission Needs Wizard For Prison

Raleigh, July 16.—While the State Highway and Public Works Commission is listening to repercussions from its recent action in advertising widely about the camps the new resolution as to corporal punishment, the search is in reality for some wizard who can do more than set the prisoners to work.

The commission is seeking a man who can run the farms at a profit. There has been no audit with public statement attached, but it gets out in Raleigh that the prison runs a steady deficit on farm operations and that the prospects for a bigger one this year are good. Caledonia operated $50,000 in the hole last year, according to calculations recently made. Expert accounting might make that show up better.

It was the understanding of Governor Ehringhaus' associates that the prisons paid during his incumbency. In the days of McLean he set the prisons upon a paying basis and former governors gladly proclaimed that they had been able to show a profit in their quadrennial reports. Unhappily for the state's cash box this surplus never was found. The state would farm its prisoners out to contractors working on railroad construction. The Elkin & Alleghany, for instance, always made a handsome profit for the prison until the legislators met. Then a deficit was plugged. The process was very simple. The state would guard, clothe, feed and work convicts on these mountain railroads. The prisoners might earn $2 a day each. The state would take stock in these roads. A block of shares "par value" of $100 might get on the books for $300,000. That would go in the records as profitable operation, when as a matter of fact, the roads never were finished and the state lost every penny that it spent on food, rent and supervision.

There is no such bookkeeping possible now. The interstate commerce commission would not sanction any such roads and getting stung repeatedly, even perennially, finally taught the state something. Governor Max Gardner would not leave prisoners in the coal mines of Lee and Chatham, though they appeared to be earning their salt there. More and more the state has come to discourage prison profits on paper. And when the earnings get off paper they go into the general deficit.

The highway and public works commission is, therefore, seeking a man who can run a farm and make it pay. A few farmers in North Carolina have done that and paid good wages. Those tilers believe they could make the prison pay if they had charge of it.

But the state looks for more. It would be pleased to have a good agriculturist at the head of the state farms, but there are other needs. The highway and public works commission desires somebody besides a boss man with a club or a whip to enforce his orders. The state is seeking a man who can make men of the raw materials in the prison. It is the belief of many important men over a bull whip and a farm might not alone achieve that result.

So, the state is looking in other commonwealths for a prison director who can get work from his men and at the same time can win the prisoner. There are many partially qualified men, very good farmers, some good fellows who get along well with groups even of derelicts. There are some executives who can do and get things done; but the commission is now looking for more men than anybody has seen in a long time.

Whether there is any man in the state or without who seems to fit the demands has not been intimated by anybody in authority. The need automatically would appear to let any present person about the prison entirely out.

Building Service At State Capitol Brings Complaint

Telephone and Elevator Services Constant Source of Irritation to Those Who Use Them

Reflector Bureau

Raleigh, July 16.—The telephone service—or rather the lack of telephone service—given by the state building, located in the Revenue building, also the poor elevator service in most of the state buildings, is a constant source of irritation to those who have much occasion to use either and an increasing number of complaints have been heard recently. But no one seems to be inclined to do anything company should permit its service to get only half as bad as the service being given recently by the state exchange, it would be jerked up before the State Utilities Commission and be compelled to give better service or else sell out to some other company that would give good service," an outsider who has to make many calls to the state departments said today. "But because this telephone exchange is operated by the state, it seems to think that the type of service given does not matter, although the taxpayers are paying for it. Whatever department or division is in charge of this exchange should either get enough operators to handle the traffic or should get some one who can handle it, for the service is undoubtedly terrible."

Many complaints are also heard of the poor elevator service in most of the buildings, especially the Revenue building. It is generally conceded that the best elevator service is in the Agriculture building, where Omega Powell still acts as chauffeur of the elevator in spite of the efforts of Commissioner of Agriculture W. Kerr Scott to get her fired.

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE NEVAUD

SYNOPSIS: When Kay Crandon of the Lazy Nine loses her ranch house and barn in a fire, Josh Hastings, owner of the Flying Six, tries to buy her ranch and court Kay. She distrusts him and is determined to keep her ranch and rebuild Hastings' cowhand, Scrap Johnson, molests Kay, but Ted Gaynor, a puncher she impulsively hires, rescues her. Later they shoot it out, wounding each other. Hastings, hating both, murders Scrap, using Ted's gun. Ted crawls to an unknown shack where a girl named Marion nurses him through a week of fever and acclimation. The gun is found and Sheriff Farley gets on Ted's trail.

Chapter 27

A Narrow Escape

A FAINT call from the inside of the shack sent Marion running back. As soon as she stepped in the door and found Ted's dark eyes fixed on her, she knew she had really won the battle.

For the first time, his eyes gazed at her with a seeing look, and his pupils dilated with surprise.

"Who—what—where am I?" Ted tried to raise his head, but his strength failed him, and he sank back exhausted by even that small effort.

Marion crossed quietly to his cot and put a cool hand on his head. He still had fever, but she no longer encountered the hot, dry skin she had learned to expect through the past week.

"You mustn't try to talk yet," she warned him. "You've been very sick, but you are going to be all right now."

For some time he pondered this, his eyes fixed on her face.

"Where's Kay?" he said finally. Marion shook her head. "I don't know. I can't tell you anything, so please don't use your strength by asking questions. There is no one here but me."

"How—how long—?" His lids began to droop. Instead of answering, Marion lightly held her hand over his eyes, and in a few minutes his regular breathing proclaimed him asleep again.

Stepping to the outer door, Marion drew it to, leaving it slightly ajar and sagging on its hinges as she had first found it. Although she had been forced to break her promise to her father when she had taken in this young man, she had scrupulously kept her word in every other regard. Anyone coming unexpectedly on the shack would have unhesitatingly pronounced it deserted.

She moved quietly around the two rooms into which the cabin was divided, putting them in order while she waited for the water to boil on the single oil burner which was her only source of heat.

She had taken a chance on building a fire in the stove at night, but with the first coming of dawn she had put it out, so that no telltale smoke should betray their presence.

Humming a little tune in her relief that her patient was out of danger at last, Marion looked speculatively at the rough planks that boarded the windows on the outside.

If she could only take them off and let the sun stream in, instead of creeping through the cracks, it would be so much more cheerful! She started toward the door, with a sudden decision to obey her impulse. After all, it was ridiculous to stay cooped up this way! If any searching party had been out for this wounded puncher, it had evidently passed by this hidden spot long ago.

As she reached the inner door that led to a tiny vestibule, she suddenly stood rooted to the spot. Her hand clutched the door frame and her breath came fast. She listened with desperate intentness for a repetition of the sound she thought she had heard. A second later, she heard with unmistakable distinctness a shout in the distance, and an answering call somewhat nearer.

'Don't Make A Sound'

PUSHING the inner door shut again, Marion darted to the oil stove and turned it out, then sat down by Ted's cot, her eyes fixed on him, watching for any sign that his sleep had been disturbed. With bated breath, she waited, while the voices drew nearer, her mind torn by indecision.

Should she make her presence known? If Ted had been still in danger, she would have felt that she must get what help she could to save him. But now that she was sure he was on the road to recovery, her first duty was to her father.

If the dread suspicion she harbored as to his activities was true, it would mean certain imprisonment and possible death for him if he were taken. To find her there would inevitably put any searchers on his track, and they would wait to take him when he came back.

She put one hand on Ted's forehead and felt his pulse with the other. There was no doubt but that his fever was down and his pulse much stronger.

A sudden shout outside made Marion start violently. She saw Ted's eyes open as a man's voice exclaimed, "Look at this clearing, will you? How'd we miss it before?"

Bending swiftly over Ted, Marion whispered with compelling intensity, "Don't make a sound! It is the one thing I ask, in exchange for saving your life!"

After one wondering look at her, Ted feebly pressed her hand in acquiescence, and together they waited in breathless silence, listening to the oncoming footsteps crashing through the brush.

"Say, that's old Ten Strike's hangout! Didn't you ever run across it?" A second voice answered the first. "His shanty there's been deserted a dozen years or more. Ever since the old boy kicked out."

"We'd better have a look at it," the first voice boomed. "Gaynor might—"

Marion felt the hand in hers jerk spasmodically.

"Aw, what's the use?" the other voice broke in, impatiently. "We're just wasting valuable time. If that guy had been able to get as far as this after bumping Scrap Johnson off, he could have made a real get-away. And believe me, he wouldn't have lost any time doing it! Besides, that shanty looks just the way it did the last time I saw it, a couple of years ago."

"Just the same, I'm going to have a look," the first one insisted stubbornly.

"Suit yourself. I'll be going on. After you finish looking over deserted real estate perhaps you'll catch up and help me track down the murderer."

Marion bit her lips and involuntarily gripped Ted's hand, as she studied his bewildered expression. Then she turned her eyes fearfully toward the door.

A heavy tread tramped up the two steps, and the outside door was shoved open. Holding her breath, Marion braced herself for the next moment, when the intruder would step across the space that divided the two doors, and push open the inner one.

She could feel him peering in the small darkened space, and hear him stamp an experimental foot on the rotted flooring. Then, to her immense relief, he sprang back and shouted to his companion:

"Hi! Wait a sec! I'm coming!"

Marion could scarcely believe that she was hearing his retreating footsteps. For a full second longer, the dread tension held her. The sight of Ted's white face and closed eyelids, as he slumped back on the pillow, galvanized her to action, and she reached for some cold water to revive him.

Marion Believes In Ted

THE distant footsteps, crashing through the brush, had completely died away, when Ted finally opened his eyes again, to find Marion gazing at him with solemn intensity.

"Is your name Gaynor?" she asked.

Ted nodded. "Yes, it is. But I'm as much in the dark about this murder talk as you are. You believe that, don't you?" His eyes closed again with exhaustion.

"Yes, I do believe it," Marion answered, with conviction. "I can tell by looking at you that you are no murderer. And from what you said when you were delirious, I gathered that you'd been shot before you had a chance to aim, and your shot had gone wild."

"That's just the way it was," Ted nodded. "I don't remember anything after that. I can't separate delirium from reality. I could have sworn that I saw Josh Hastings bending over me once, but that must have been plain nightmare. But where any murder comes in—?" He suddenly raised himself on his elbow and demanded, "Why didn't you let me find out what in hell they meant by this talk of murder?"

Marion gently pushed him back. "Hush! You mustn't get excited! Whatever they meant, you're better off right where you are, until you're stronger."

"But you?" Ted fixed his eyes on her. "Why are you here, in hiding?"

Marion hesitated a moment, and a slow color came into her cheeks. "That's a long story," she said finally. "I'll tell it to you later. I have to stay here without anyone knowing my whereabouts, until my father comes back."

She paused a moment, then added, "Not even the man I'm engaged to knows where I am."

For a long moment the two gazed at each other, then Ted wearily closed his eyes.

"I don't make head or tail of it," he murmured, in a weak voice, "but I know you're square. And I know I owe my life to you. So anything you say goes."

For a moment, he sank back in a half stupor, then suddenly sat up violently, and exclaimed, "But look here! I've got to go! My mother and sister are waiting! And Kay—" he fell back on the pillow in a dead faint before Marion could catch hold of him.

Ted eagerly tells Marion about Kay, tomorrow.

REVEAL DATES FOR FESTIVAL

Tobacco Exposition is Scheduled at Wilson August 19-20

Wilson, July 14.—The First Annual North Carolina Tobacco Exposition and Festival will be held here on August 19th, and 20th, it was announced today by J. C. Pyles, Jr., chairman of the festival's executive committee.

As plans were being rushed towards completion for the two day event today a complete program of the exposition and festival which will contain many educational, as well as fun making features, was announced.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace has been invited to attend the two day affair and speak, as has Governor Clyde R. Hoey, and a number of other national and state wide prominent persons. Street parades, tobacco exhibits, a water carnival at Wilson's brand new municipal swimming pool, a street dance and various, and sundry games will be included in the exposition and festival.

Lester Rose, secretary of the chamber of commerce here, has been named as managing director of the affair, and K. W. Baldow, local business man, has been named treasurer. Various committees have been formed to take care of the more minor details of the affair.

High light of the two day affair will be the coronation ball on the last night of the festival, at which a nationally known orchestra will play for dancing and, also at which the queen of the festival will be crowned. The queen will be selected on the morning of the second day of the festival at the Wilson theater from among dozens of beautiful girls who will come here to represent their respective towns in the state. The mayor of each town has been asked to select a girl in that town to represent it, and these girls will form the court of honor for the queen after she has been selected.

The queen, in turn, will choose her own king to rule with her over the festival after the contest of the morning.

'COMPROMISE' RUMORED SCOTTSBORO TRIAL

Talk of a "compromise" in the celebrated "Scottsboro Case" was revived at Decatur, Ala., at the beginning of a new trial for Clarence Norris, one of nine Negroes facing another hearing on charges of assaulting two white girls on a freight train near Scottsboro, Ala., six years ago. Assistant Attorney General Thomas S. Lawson, who heads the prosecution staff, is shown (left) denying the compromise rumors. Norris (right) and Charlie Weems, another defendant, are seen in the Decatur jail just before court convened.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

Hollywood — It would be nice and different to report otherwise, but Helen Troy loathes telephones and doesn't know anything about a switchboard.

And she always gets the wrong number when she dials for a personal call. Which may be why the movies and the radio consider her just the type to play the languid telephone operator.

In several films so far she has played nothing else. In "Broadway Melody of 1938," true, she runs a health home, but the switchboard is still suspended, sibatross-fashion.

around her neck. She tries to keep her patients from telephonic annoyance.

She's a nice person, blonde, blue-eyed, frank. She makes no claim to beauty, but believes her husband looks like Clark Gable. She never expects to play Juliet to any actor's Romeo. Her ambition, of course, is to pay something away from a switchboard.

Her husband is Dr. Alton E. Horton. They were childhood sweethearts in Traverse City, Mich., where Helen moved from her native San Francisco. They were married when both were practically children, so in her early thirties she has a nearly grown family, Jane is 10 and Troy, the boy, is 13. She thinks that's nice, too. Instead of putting aside her career for motherhood, she has the most trying part of motherhood behind her.

"Ask Madlyn," says Sylvia Sydney to interviewers. "She'll tell you about me."

"All?" the interviewers ask. "Well, nearly all," says Sylvia Sydney. Madlyn is Sylvia's maid. It's true

—she knows about Miss Sidney. She can tell you that Sylvia always puts on stockings inside out, that she won't put a hat on the bed, that she cares little about dresses but is extravagant about hats and shoes, and that she is an inveterate doodler (doodler: one who scribbles designs while telephoning).

Madlyn has been with Sylvia for seven years, been with her to Europe twice. Sylvia trusts her implicitly. Madlyn will tell "nearly all" and no more.

HELPS FOR HOUSEWIVES

To remove rust stains from the refrigerator, rub with steel wool and then apply a coat of white enamel. This is an inexpensive and effective treatment.

One-fourth teaspoon lemon juice added to each cup of heavy cream will hasten the whipping. Have cream and utensils thoroughly chilled to prevent the mixture from turning to butter. This is particularly important in summer.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Crover

Washington— News comes from Germany which strikes in us a sympathetic chord. The Hitler government has prohibited alarm clocks which play the "Horst Wessel song." Back of that order undoubtedly is an untold human interest story. But our guess is that some loyal Nazi patriot was sleeping peacefully through the 7 a. m. hour when an alarm clock down the hallway began ding-ding off the Horst Wessel song. Instantly the loyal Nazi must have bounded, throbbing to his stand, pajama-clad, with arm outstretched in salute, until the alarm clock dinged the ditty t o an end.

On His Toes
Horst Wessel is a sort of national hero in Germany, like Sigfried, although his violent death a few years ago ended a private life that reputedly would have lifted American eyebrows from Boston to Burlington.

Such national appeal has the Horst Wessel song that the loyal Nazi unquestionably flung aside his bed covers and leaped to a shouting salute on a second morning as the alarm clock let go. And perhaps, so fervent is the patriotism of loyal Nazis, he leaped again on the third morning.

But on the fourth morning he got up with a grunt and his out-flung salute was less soldierly and he suggested to his local Nazi leader that really the Horst Wessel song was too stirring a piece to bring a man up standing at 7 a. m.

Well, this thing probably led to that and finally the protest against Horst Wessel alarm clocks got up high enough.

Our own strictly private feeling is that if some patriotic Yankee cut loose at 7 a. m. with an alarm clock playing the Star Spangled Banner it would bring us to our feet in a very military mood indeed and cause an immediate wastage of restful sleep among neighboring patriots.

Then Comes the Law
Incontestably the best hour to play the Horst Wessel song in Germany and the Star Spangled Banner in America is 5 p. m. Then if the troops come marching by with the hand-a-playing, the national anthem causes the hackles to rise pleasantly on the back of the neck and a stiff-backed salute is at once a graceful response and a helpful exercise.

But that's the trouble with loyal patriots. They are forever wanting to play the Horst Wessel song or its kin at a time when less hyperthyroidic but no less loyal patriots don't want to leap to a tingling salute. They endure it a few times but ultimately get mad about it and insist there ought to be a law. Ultimately there is a law.

Talks To Parents

By Brooke Peters Church

To know left from right is of more importance in life than one might generally suppose. Frequently especially in motoring, one's immediate safety depends on the speed with which one responds to the order "right" or "left."

In spite of this one meets with innumerable adults who hesitate before making the correct move, and some who cannot ever remember which is right and which "left." A large majority of these cases are women. One woman who has this trouble says that before she can remember which hand is which she has to imagine herself at the piano and place her right hand on the treble clef. To do this every time one comes to a turn in the road, seems an unnecessary complication, and makes driving under directions a halting process.

To know right from left should eventually be like a reflex action, and the only way to make it so habitual that it is instinctive, is to learn it in early childhood. It is never too early to begin. Mrs. Smith played games with her children from the time they were able to walk. Going through the house or in the garden or on the street, she would send the children ahead of her and guide them with orders, "Right," "Left," "Straight ahead," etc. Sometimes she pretended that they were ships being guided by radio; others that they were soldiers marching. Perhaps they were hunting for buried treasure according to a chart which she held. By the time these children reached kindergarten, they had already come to the point where they never hid to stop to consider which hand was right and which left.

Too many of the habits of life are left for kindergarten and school. They can be taught with greater ease and efficacy in the home, and the amount of time and effort the lessons require is negligible.

Grandmothers Guests At Wayne Club Meet

Goldsboro, July 15—(AP)—Grandmothers were guests of honor at the last meeting of the Rosewood home demonstration club in Wayne county.

Each year, the club holds a party for all grandmothers of the township. Miss Gertrude Bundy, home agent of the State College extension service, said today.

An appetizing lunch was provided by the club members for the party held in connection with the last meeting a few days ago and a special program was given for the older women, she continued.

superintendent, said the parties—which may become monthly affairs—are being given to provide the girls with "social experience" against their dismissal from the school. All 30 are more than 16.

Boys wish to attend must present references.

The girls will make their own refreshments—cake and ice cream— as well as their dresses.

There will be dancing for those who like it, games and fudge-making for the others. The party house will be a rambling one-story brick cottage which has a spacious parlor.

IT'S ODD, But It's Science

Cambridge, Mass.—Minds and metals, when under high pressure have a strange similarity.

Minds too hard pressed cause men to be angry, to growl and snap—or to be excited and stretch and snarl—or to be deadly earnest. Listen, now, to a description of metals under a shearing pressure of 700,000 pounds to the square inch in the laboratory of Dr. P. W. Bridgman, Harvard university. He says:

"Some substances chatter, others squeak, others make a grinding noise and one has been found to hiss. Most important is snapping."

The "protests," as Dr. Bridgman calls these noises, depend directly on the atomic and crystalline structure of the metal. The scientific explanation of the metals reads not so different from man's commonest ideas of mind structure.

By virtue and in pursuance of a decreed of the Superior Court made in the above-entitled cause on April 16th, 1935 the undersigned, a commissioner appointed for the purposes therein named (it being a suit to foreclose the lien on the hereinafter described land held by the plaintiff for the non-payment of taxes) will expose for sale to the highest bidder, at public auction for cash, on Monday the 16th day of August, 1937, at the court house door in the city of Greenville, North Carolina, at 12 o'clock, M., the following lots of land situated in the County of Pitt, State of North Carolina, described as follows:

That certain lot or parcel of land lying and being situated in the Town of Greenville, Pitt County, North Carolina, on the South side of Fifth street, and bounded on the North by Fifth street, on the East by the property of Mrs. Nannie D. Holloman, and on the West by the property of J. C. Moyer, and being the homeplace of J. F. Davenport and wife, Blanche F. Davenport. This property will be sold subject to the lien of the taxes thereon due and owing the County of Pitt. This 14th day of July, 1937.
F. C. HARDING,
Commissioner.

Do you get a kick out of a golf ball's click when you really lean into one on the tee? Does your heart beat faster when the big fish strikes, and your singing reel almost smokes? Can a brisk breeze and a taut sail make you feel like a kid again, forgetting care in the sheer joy of action? Mister, if you're like that, what a bang you'll get out of this big Buick! You'll go for the way it goes for you. You'll like the quick, eager spurt of its get-away, the buoyant, swaysless steadiness of its travel. You'll thrill to the businesslike manner in which it settles to the pull, its quiet, dogged competence in long, tough going.

You'll welcome the way it cradles you over the bumps, the neat, compact, handily mobile feel of it. You'll be proudly aware of its beauty, of the picture you make riding in its this-minute style. But don't forget this major thing—it's the buy of the season, price-wise as well as on performance! It's still selling at the lowest price in all Buick history—you can still get a big Buick eight for less than some sixes would cost you. So don't hold back. Good things, you know, can't last forever. Don't pass up a buy such as Buick is at its low prices now.

Goldsboro, July 16.—Although the Greenies outhit Goldsboro's Bugs in their game at the Wayne capital yesterday, they went down in defeat, 4-2. Greenville had eight safeties to Goldsboro's six.

Pete Kunis' masterful hurling helped the Bugs to victory. Only one of Greenville's two runs was earned. This came in the 9th on Catcher Roy's double and Pitcher Williams' single. The other Greenville tally was made in the first inning and resulted from Rudisill's single, his steal to second, and Balla's miff of Norwood's fly.

Karl Williams hurried well for the Greenies, and the Bugs could thank errors for the three tallies they put over in the third. Daniels singled, advanced on an error and an out-field fly. He tallied on an error which put Vick on second. Dirmann's double scored Vick, and Dirmann counted on Musser's single.

Goldsboro's other tally came in the next inning from a combination of a walk to Charlie Gadd, a sacrifice by Malzano, and Daniels' single. Musser and Daniels, each with a pair of hits, headed Goldsboro's hitting. Rudisill, with three for four, and Williams and Rove with two for four accounted for seven of Greenville's eight hits.

The Bugs meet the Greenies here this afternoon at Third Street Park. The box score:

Snow Hill Wallops Ayden Aces, 10 To 6

Ayden.—Five hits and two errors gave Snow Hill five runs in the first inning, and that proved too much for Ayden's Aces to overcome in yesterday afternoon's game here. The visiting Billies won by a final count of 10-6.

A homer by Hyder in the sixth inning provided Snow Hill's sixth run, and a homer by Aaron Robinson with two on in the seventh served to clinch the game despite scoring by the home club in each of the last three frames, Robinson's homer followed singles by Centura and Wall, with Mewborn's infield out in between.

Earl Webb started for the Aces and stayed on the job for eight innings. He was pulled for a pinch-hitter in the eighth. Butcher pitched hitless ball in the ninth.

Manager Monk Joyner of the Aces, top hitter in the Coastal Plain, had a perfect day at bat—he cracked a homer, two doubles and two singles for five tries. His homer came in the second—and it traveled a "country mile." Faust Johnson homered in the seventh. Joyner's homer was his third in as many games.

Scotland Neck Fans To Witness Contest

Tarboro.—President J. B. Eure of the Coastal Plain League has given approval for transfer of the Tarboro-Ayden game on Friday, July 23, to Scotland Neck. The game originally was scheduled for Tarboro.

Decision to switch the contest to Scotland Neck was reached in order to provide a sports feature for the formal opening of Route 258. Governor Clyde Hovey will preside in the formal opening of the route, and Scotland Neck folks are planning a parade, a street dance, and lots of speckmaking in addition to the ball game.

RECORD WRECKER

-By PAP-

SPORT SLANTS

-By PAP-

When Long John Woodruff, Pittsburgh's Olympic and National A. A. U. 800-meter champion, took an afternoon to play around with Glenn Cunningham, Archie San Romani, Gene Venke and the other miffers, Erroy Robinson of the San Francisco Olympic club stepped out and created a new world mark for Woodruff's favorite distance—the half-mile.

Robinson sprinted two laps around the track on Randall's Island, New York, in 1:49.6 to erase the mark of 1:49.8 set by Ben Eastman at Princeton in 1934. Robinson actually sprinted all the way. That is the way he seems to travel. But he is a racer, not a runner. He is built more like a wrestler. His every stride bespeaks power.

To Robinson, the new mark means more than a world record. It means that his comeback is complete. He was rated the top half-mile of the world in 1935, when he toured Europe without suffering a defeat after winning National A. A. U. and National Collegiate titles. He created a new mark for the 1,000-meter run on the tour.

In the spring of 1936, in a race against Cunningham at the Drake relays, he broke an ankle. With that fall went his hopes of winning a place on the Olympic team. He came back to the races last winter. He won the National A. A. U. 1,000-meter indoor title on the Madison Square Garden track. In May of this year he lowered the world mark for the 1,000-yard run to 2:09.7, three-tenths of a second below the figure held by Luigi Becali of Italy.

Robinson's new half-mile mark appears safe only so long as no one presses John Woodruff to the point that a better figure will be necessary.

HAWAII MAY SEND TRIPLE-THREAT AGAINST BEST U. S. LINKSWOMEN

Hosolitu, July 13.—(AP)—Hawaii looks to three girl golfers, all under 17, to recapture for Uncle Sams outlying territory the sports page headlines it once enjoyed through the swimming feats of Duke Kahanamoku.

Their teachers believe at least two of them—maybe all three—will invade the mainland for the women's national championship.

The newest sensation is Jackie Liwai, 15-year-old Hawaiian girl who has been playing seriously through her first three tournaments making her debut with a 20-stroke victory over a field of veteran women players.

Her best mark on her home course—a wind-swept municipal layout, is one over par—70, and at Waialeale country club, where the best pros find trouble in prevailing cross winds and great traps, Jackie carded a 76 to the Helen Hicks' course record.

Although only 5-foot-4, weighing about 115, Miss Liwai frequently outdrives men players. She so far outdistanced the feminine competition on her home course that she had to enter men's tournaments, and won an 18-hole medal event with a gross 75. Her handicap with men players is 10.

With her backyard facing a golf course and inspired by the success of her two young rivals, she was a cinch to take up brassies and niblicks. Al Pilan, French-Canadian professional here, predicts this high school girl will rank high nationally.

Jackie's most serious rivals are 16-year-olds—Codie Austin, who won her first territorial title at the age of 14, and Maude Rice.

Miss Austin, daughter of a sporting goods store owner, was schooled for golf from the time she was 12 and fulfilled her father's ambition by capturing the championship her first time out. Codie plans to enter the U. S. women's national this year or next.

Miss Rice, the daughter of wealthy parents living on the island of Maui, battled to the quarter-finals of her first tournament and to the finals of her second.

Many Changes In Local Ball Club

Management Seeks to Bolster Local Coastal Plainers

Carmine R. Barker, left handed pitcher, of Malloy, West Virginia, joined the Greenies last Sunday and pitched Sunday's game at Snow Hill. He had good curves, but couldn't show a fast ball to mix in. He got hit on his pitching arm some time ago and hasn't recovered sufficiently to show his best form. He was released Monday and left for West Virginia to attend summer school at Morris Harvey college.

Frank Lowe Mock, Jr., of Lexington, who has been with Kinston, and is attending summer school at ECTO, joined the Greenies on Monday and has been in the lineup at second base for the past three days. Over at Kinston, Mock played third base. He has been handling his position fairly well so far.

Fred K. Hambright, the big outfielder, former University of South Carolina athlete, broke in the lineup last Thursday at New Bern, and in five games failed to show much form in the field, and although he seemed to have a good eye at the bat, he failed to hit safely. He hit the ball hard on several occasions, knocking in runs with sacrifice flies a few times, and was robbed of a certain extra base hit over at Snow Hill Monday when Dwight Wall, the Billies' centerfielder made a sensational running catch to capture his line drive to left center. Hambright attributed his poor showing to the fact that he had been playing night ball under lights up at Hickory in the semi-pro league.

Hambright was released yesterday and Charlie Centura, of Chicago, played in right field. Centura failed to impress Manager Farley and he was yanked in the latter stages of the game and replaced by pitcher Freddie Caliguri. Centura was released immediately after the game.

The outfield problem is expected to be solved today when Durwood Stowe gets back in the lineup for the first time since his ankle injury several weeks ago. Stowe went in the game at Ayden on the morning of July 5th, and hobbled down to first pretty fast on a ball he hit to short. If he is able to get around as well as he did before his injury, the Greenies will once again have the best defensive outfield in the league.

Albert Pignataro, who performed creditably in the field, and came through on several occasions in a pinch at the bat, until his suspension last Friday, will be eligible to play again tomorrow.

Catcher Paul Roy, Elon College product, who has seen service with Snow Hill and Williamston during the past two years, and was with Tarboro for a short time this year, signed to join the Greenies today. Since the release of Walter Latham Manager Farley hasn't had anyone to relieve "Mope" Melchor, with the exception of a couple of days when Harbert Lee did the receiving.

Including several rained out games, the Greenies still have forty-two more games to play, and through Wednesday the locals are nine games behind Goldsboro, now in fourth place, in order to get in the semi-finals. Manager Farley's boys will have to hustle from now on.

The Greenies seemed to have Wednesday's game with New Bern sewed up when the seventh inning rolled around. Steve Kenosh, playing short stop, had a bad day in the field. His wife joined him here a couple of days ago and was watching him from the grand stand. Perhaps Steve was trying too hard.

Poor baserunning with runners on first and second, when an attempted sacrifice was turned into a double play, hurt Greenville's chances on the offense, and again New Bern went ahead 5-4. It didn't appear the proper thing to do, for the second batter to hit after the first Greenville batter walked. As a result of this another double play followed, when the runner should have been on second, with one away, and the third and fourth hitters having a chance to tie the score with a hit.

Greenville returns here for a game with the Goldbugs today. Saturday the Greenies engage Snake Henry's boys at Tarboro, and on Sunday the Greenies play their first Sunday game at home in three weeks when Tarboro comes here for a game.

Monday, the Greenies will play the Kinston Eagles at Third street park here to make up for a rained out game in their last appearance here. Tuesday the same teams play at Kinston and return here next Wednesday to play before the half holiday crowd. The Greenies at present are leading the Kinston boys by five games.

Eddie Gousetree, scout for the Detroit Tigers was here to see yesterday's game.

Tarboro Wins Again, Eagles Victims in Tilt

Tarboro.—Tarboro clicked off its fourth consecutive victory and retained its percentage grip on third place in Coastal Plain standings by defeating Kinston's cellarites, 6-3 yesterday in the opener of a series Goldsboro also won, and the Bugs remained even with Tarboro on a "games" basis but trailed the Snakes by a single point in percentage.

The battle here was a pitchers' argument between Kinston's Bill Sakeres and Tarboro's Bernard Mooney for seven innings. In the eighth, however, the Eagles reached Sakeres for a quartet of runs and removed the room for argument.

Kinston grabbed a pair of tallies in the opening inning—on Stringfellow's double and Wroste's home run. The Eagles' other score came in the second and resulted from Hick's single, Mooney's wild throw to second after fielding Wright's grounder, and Burnette's single. In those two scoring innings, the Eagles made half of their eight safeties off Mooney.

New Bern Bears Win From Martins, 8 To 6

New Bern.—Inspired by Stuart Flythe's shutout relief hurling, New Bern's Bears got to work in the sixth and eighth innings to come from behind and take an 8-5 decision over Williamston's Martins yesterday.

Flythe relieved Oscher in the sixth inning, after a five-run rally in the fifth by the Martins had wiped out an early advantage for the Bears, and set the visitors down with two hits the rest of the way. Flythe fanned six in a turn of three and two-thirds innings.

Next on the glory list came Tex Thornton, who, catching for the Bears, was playing his third position in as many games. One of the hardest workers in the league, Thornton homered in the sixth to score the tying run. Thornton has filled in successfully for Black, in left field; Miller, at third base; and Sheppard, behind the plate.

The Bears decided the game with a pair of runs in the eighth.

The biggest shark ever caught with rod and reel near Australia recently was landed by Dr. Erick Fischer, a Danish consul. It weighed 1,049 pounds.

ALL-STAR TEAM PLAYS KINSTON

Local Semi-Pro Nine To Meet Textile Mill Outfit Saturday

The Greenville All-Stars, local semi-pro team will meet the strong Kinston Textile mill's baseball team on the Third street field at 3:30 p. m. Saturday.

The All-Star team is composed of local high school and college boys. Thus far this season they have won one and lost one. They were defeated by Roanoke Rapids and then they set back the Rocky Mount mill's team by an overwhelming score.

This afternoon the All-Stars will play the Lurama club of the Central Carolina league.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, July 16.—(AP)—Stocks met mild selling pressure in today's market and many leaders tipped over fractions to a point or more.

The list started upward at the opening, but retreated later when Chrysler dropped more than two and early strength in U. S. Steels faded. There were a number of gainers in evidence near the close however, in dealings that were exceptionally quiet.

Bonds ran counter to stocks, general trends being higher in virtually all divisions.

Transfers approximated 750,000 shares.

of the prison division in the hope of getting some one who could bring harmony and cooperation out of the present somewhat muddled prison situation. For it is well known here that there is a sharp split in the ranks of the prison employes, and among the politicians to whom many of these prison employes owe their jobs, one group being very loyal to Pitts and wanting to see him reappointed, the other group being bitterly opposed to Pitts and wanting any one else but Pitts named head of the division. It is generally agreed that this faction is composed very largely of the old George Ross "Pou-State" Prison group, which have been hold-overs from the old Pou regime and from the old county convict camps. It is also generally understood that Pitts, wants the authority to clean out some of this group in order to bring about a truce between these two factions so that it will not be necessary to fire anybody and hence make a few of their political backers and factions mad as possible. Reports current for some weeks are that one of the big things that has held up the appointment of Pitts has been that the prison committee does not want to let Warden H. H. Honeycutt of Central Prison go entirely out that it is trying to find some other job for him that will be almost as acceptable.

There is no doubt, however, that there is some sentiment among some of the members of the new highway commission, in favor of trying to bring about a truce between these two factions so that it will not be necessary to fire anybody and hence make a few of their political backers and factions mad as possible. Reports current for some weeks are that one of the big things that has
