FOES TO SEEK EARLY ACTION ON COURT BILL

Issue May Be Decided This Week—Probably Tomorrow

FIRST STATEMENT BY OPPOSITION

Effort to Be Made to Recommit Bill To Committee, Burying It for Session

Aboard Special Congressional Train, July 19—(AP)—Opponents of the President's court bill announced today they would seek a senate vote on that issue early this week.

Senator Burke (D. Neb.) a leader of the opposition, said a motion to send the supreme court reorganization measure back to committee for further study would probably be made tomorrow and added "we are confident we can carry the motion by a comfortable margin."

His announcement was virtually the first public statement on the court controversy made by any members of the congressional delegation which accompanied the body of Sen. Robinson (D. Ark.) to Little Rock home for burial.

Ending the political truce declared immediately after the senate democratic leader's death last Wednesday, Burke's statement indicated the five months struggle over the judiciary legislation was nearing its end.

If the motion to recommit the bill is carried it would effectively bury the measure for the rest of this session. It's defeat, many senators agreed, might bring a speedy collapse of the opposition, which expects to muster its greatest strength on the recommitment motion.

Senator Minton (D. Ind.) one of the court bill's most vigorous defenders declared "we are ready to vote at any time and I know that we can win."

Other opposition leaders privately agreed with Burke's motion. A vote would come a few hours after this special train carrying 39 senators reached Washington. Vice President Garner, who joined the party at Little Rock, told "nature" he would take no part in the court controversy or in the senate leadership.

Books For Prison Are Being Sought Throughout State

Reading Material For Library Being Asked Through All Junior Chambers of Commerce

Raleigh, July 19.—More books for prisoners so that a prison circulating library may be established and sent from one prison camp to another, are being sought by Acting Director Oscar Pitts of the prison division. A letter is just being sent out by Pitts to all of the Junior Chambers of Commerce in the state asking them if they will not assist the prison in getting more books for the prison libraries and telling them about what the Raleigh Junior Chamber of Commerce did a few months ago, when it obtained some 2,500 books for the prison library.

"One of the most unusual things we have noticed in the last year is the increasing desire among the prisoners for more books to read—and good books," Pitts said. "We could easily use 100,000 books and send them from camp to camp, since a new batch of books is soon read in any camp where the prisoners go after new books like chickens after shelled corn."

"So I have written to the various Junior Chambers of Commerce, telling of our need for books and asking them to put on a book-collecting drive from people who have old books they are willing to give away, and give these books to the prison division. For all of the prisoners who can read are actually hungry for books and magazines."

"We have also noticed that we have very little trouble with the prisoners who like to read and spend their spare time obtaining information and instruction from good books and believe that the establishment of a good-sized circulating library will greatly help the prison morals and also help the prisoners when they are discharged. We also need these libraries in connection with the new prison educational program just being started this week."

A British inventor is reported to have developed a single-cylinder motorcycle which has attained a speed of 100 miles an hour.

Doctor

A mysterious gunman broke into the fashionable home of Dr. George W. Webster (above) at Providence, R. I., and fatally shot the society physician after waiting several hours for him to return. The doctor died before he could tell officers who shot him.

APPROVE FUND FIGHT FLOODS

House Members Adopt Measure And Send It To Senate

Washington, July 19.—(AP)—The house passed and sent to the senate today a bill to authorize a $24,877,000 flood control program for the lower Ohio river basin. The bill also would authorize preliminary flood control examination and surveys on more than 30 streams in a score of states.

It went through without a dissenting vote. During debate on the measure, Representative Jenkins (R-Ohio), praised it, but said it ought to contain "ten times more money."

He added that many communities would not be able to meet requirements of the bill, which imposes on them the responsibility of providing necessary land and paying damage cost in connection with construction of the project.

Chairman Whittington (D-Miss.) of the house flood control committee, said the bill would provide "only a partial solution of the problem" of protection in the lower Ohio river basin.

Whittington said his committee planned to bring before the house next year a "comprehensive" flood control bill, covering not only the Ohio but other rivers of the country.

Death Plot Fails On Polish Leader

Warsaw, Poland, July 19.—(AP)—An attempt to assassinate Col. Adam Koc, leader of Polish nationalist movement, failed last night. It was learned today when the bomb exploded prematurely and tore the assassin to pieces.

The attempt on the Polish leader's life was made shortly before midnight at his villa in the little village of Swidry, not far from Warsaw.

The assassin was said to have made his way into the garden of the villa with a powerful explosive.

Reynolds Urges Citizens Beware Of Heat And Sun

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, July 19.—Sun stroke and heat exhaustion are decidedly different, but each can be prevented by taking the necessary precautions, according to Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, state health officer, who expressed the belief that the public should be properly advised of the dangers that come with extreme heat waves.

"It is important to bear in mind that all cases, whether of sun stroke or heat prostration, should be classed as emergencies and that a doctor should be called immediately," Dr. Reynolds said. "In the meantime, an exercise of first aid knowledge is necessary. The person giving first aid should bear in mind the very important fact that the response to the call must be rendered promptly but not hurriedly."

Dr. Reynolds said that heat exhaustion and sun stroke may result from the same causes and have the same preventions, and are marked by different symptoms.

WORST BATTLE OF WAR RAGES ABOUT MADRID

Insurgents Launch Fierce Drive Against Loyalists

FIGHTING BOTH BY LAND AND AIR

Heavy Casualties Reported on both Sides; Rebels Appear to Be Heaviest Loser

Madrid, July 19.—(AP)—The heaviest battle of the Spanish civil war thus far raged west of Madrid today as insurgents launched a fierce drive to hurl government troops back to the capital.

Insurgent and government planes and artillery crashed bombs and shells into opposing lines near Brunete, newly-won government position 12 miles west of Madrid.

In the air an estimated 160 planes fought for supremacy with government forces gradually gaining a slight advantage.

The insurgent air forces renewed a smashing of government front lines and communication routes. A duel between big guns ranging in size from three to 19 inches raged in the capital.

Besides the Brunete spearhead into insurgent lines, government forces kept chipping at insurgent positions close to Madrid.

Government guns shelled a military camp near upper Carabanchel, outside the southern camp where insurgents have concentrated a reserve contingent in former air force barracks.

The fighting brought heavy losses to both sides, but government officers declared insurgents suffered heaviest casualties through exposing their forces in the counter attack.

NEGRO DENIES MURDER COUNT

State Highway Patrol Members Present As Trial Opens

Raleigh, July 19.—(AP)—Major Charles D. Farmer of the highway patrol said this afternoon that William Perry, 18-year-old Negro charged with the murder of Mrs. W. T. Hamlett, a Chatham county farm woman, pleaded innocent in superior court at Pittsboro early this afternoon and was returned to state prison here without trouble.

Major Farmer said Perry's trial was set for 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at Pittsboro.

Six members of the highway patrol were in Pittsboro all afternoon upon request of Sheriff Andrews and four others accompanied the three on the trip to and from Pittsboro.

There was not the least bit of trouble and the preliminaries took just a few minutes, Farmer said.

when the worker is over-fatigued or the wearer of too heavy clothing or of a hat or cap which allows the head no ventilation. In extremely hot weather, there should be provision for an air space in the head covering. All stimulating drinks such as alcohol, are conducive to sun stroke and heat exhaustion rather than a preventive.

"It is advisable to avoid exposure to the sun in the middle of the day, to see that work rooms are properly ventilated and to avoid over-fatigue. If one should feel dizzy or faint, the common sense procedure to avoid sun stroke or heat exhaustion would be to stop work temporarily, find a cool spot and lie down. The hands and face, in such a case, should be bathed in cold water, which the patient also should be required to drink freely."

"The symptoms of heat stroke are usually pain in the head, dizziness and a feeling of oppression which may extend to complete insensibility. This condition develops very rapidly. In sun stroke, the definite symptoms include a very red face, dilated pupils, hot, dry skin, no perspiration, with labored breathing and a sighing, pulse full and rapid, often spasms of the muscles and

RAID TO 'RESCUE' SON BRINGS SUIT

Thomas Warner, Sr. of Los Angeles, manufacturer of automobile accessories, faces a $510,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. Pearl Antibus, Hollywood detective, who charges he instigated a raid on her home to "rescue" his son Thomas, Jr. (left). The father claimed young Warner was held against his will in order to promote his romance with Mrs. Jean McDonald (right).

ONE ACCIDENT IN COMMUNITY

No One Hurt in This Area; Three Killed Over State

Only one accident was reported in this vicinity over the weekend and no one was injured in this, which occurred on the Greenville-New Bern highway across the county line.

Patrolman H. B. Smith, who investigated the wreck charged David Gaskins, formerly of Grimesland, but now of Craven county, with operating an automobile while under the influence of whiskey. He said Gaskins drove his car into one driven by Mrs. Guy Harris of this city. Neither Mrs. Harris nor Gaskins suffered any injuries, Patrolman Smith said.

The wreck occurred about 9:25 o'clock last night. Three persons were killed in highway accidents elsewhere in the state over the week-end. Sewell Pope, 26-year-old Morganton furniture worker, was fatally injured when his car wrecked near his home, Ralph Bendon, 74-year-old of Portsmouth, Va., police officer, died of injuries received in an early-morning crash Sunday near Wilmington. Mrs. Lendon was reported injured, but not seriously.

John Richardson, aged Moore county Negro, was killed when he was struck by an automobile as he walked along the highway five miles from Carthage late Saturday night.

Several other persons were injured in road mishaps, but the number of dead and injured the past weekend was small compared with the heavy toll of the previous weekend when a dozen persons were killed and many other injured.

Vanceboro Girl Dies After Consuming Lye

Dorothy Chandler, two and one-half year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Chandler of Dudley's crossroads, died at 3 o'clock yesterday morning at Duke hospital, Durham, where she was taken after having eaten some lye about two weeks ago.

She was taken to Duke about a week after she had consumed the lye.

Funeral services were conducted at the home in the Vanceboro community Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Besides her parents, she is survived by a brother, Robert Chandler and a sister, Lucille Chandler.

FDR Expected To Delay Appointment Of Justice

Washington, July 19.—(AP)—Some legislators expressed belief today President Roosevelt wants to await disposition of the court bill controversy before appointing a successor to Supreme Court Justice Van Devanter.

If congress should adjourn shortly after the court fight ends or is put aside, they pointed out, senate confirmation might be held up.

Not every confirmation is voted quickly. President Wilson submitted the name of Louis Brandeis on January 28, 1916, but it was not confirmed until June 1.

LEHMAN URGES OPPOSITION TO COURT REFORM

Writes Senator Robt. Wagner to Fight Proposal

SAYS PRESIDENT KNEW POSITION

New York Governor Asserts Public's Interest Will Not Be Served by Change

Albany, N. Y., July 21.—(AP)—Gov. Herbert Lehman, in a letter to United States Senator Wagner, New York Democrat, today asked him to voice opposition to President Roosevelt's Supreme Court reorganization bill.

Lehman, Democratic successor to President Roosevelt as New York's governor, told Wagner that "the President is already familiar with my views with regard to the bill."

"Several months ago I wrote to him that I believed its enactment would not be in the best interest of the country," he asserted. "In the months that have passed since then my convictions have become strengthened."

"Like many others I have frequently felt keen disappointment that important measures have been unconstitutional by a slim unconvincing margin in the supreme court and yet I believe that the orderly and deliberate processes of the government should not be sacrificed merely to meet an immediate situation."

"From the broad standpoint of the public's interest, whatever immediate gain might be achieved through the proposed change in the court would in my opinion, more than offset by a loss of confidence in the independence of the court and in governmental procedure."

SEARCH ENDED FOR AVIATRIX

Mystery Of Amelia Earhart Locked In Waters of Pacific

Honolulu, July 19.—(AP)—The mystery of Amelia Earhart lay locked in the silent watery wastes of the vast Pacific today. Four naval vessels and the 1,500 weary men who sought her and her navigator 16 days gave them up for dead and sailed for home.

More than 250,000 square miles of equatorial ocean reefs and islands were searched by ship and plane in an almost hopeless search for the aviatrix and her companion, Capt. Frederick Noonan, who dropped from sight July 2.

Somewhere near the spot which is Howland Island Miss Earhart and Noonan dropped from the skies in their fuelless land plane on a 2,579 mile flight from Lae to the mid-Pacific sandspit.

Jim Pettus, Negro, was charged with possessing whiskey for the purpose of sale after a half gallon of bootleg whiskey was found on his premises.

Chairman C. O'H. Home of the ABC board said he had had numerous requests for a raid on First street, but said his men were unable to get but one violator as the word was spread when the officers started their investigations Saturday.

The chairman said, however, that he had been informed that the raid did much good as the section experienced one of its quietest Saturday nights in some time.

Bootlegger Taken By ABC Officers

Officers J. M. Ward and J. L. Taylor of the Pitt County ABC board made several investigations of places alleged to have been selling whiskey on First street late Saturday afternoon and arrested one man.

Some authorities have contended that if a vacancy occurs while the senate is in session, as was true in the case of Justice Van Devanter, a recess appointment after adjournment is not possible.

BOOSTER MEET TO BE TONIGHT

Business and Professional Men Expected to Attend

A large number of Greenville's business and professional men are expected to attend the second annual "booster" meeting to be held at Respass barbecue place at 7 o'clock tonight.

The announced purpose of the dinner-meeting is to bring the citizens of Greenville together that they may become better acquainted and arouse a spirit of fellowship among them in order that they may fully realize that Greenville really is the best town in the world.

It is pointed out that "once we are really sold on this idea, we can then sell Greenville to others."

The various organizations who are sponsoring the meeting are the Chamber of Commerce, Merchant's association, Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade, Rotary and Kiwanis clubs. The Rotary club meeting scheduled for tonight has been dispensed with and members are urged to attend the meeting. The Kiwanis club did not hold a meeting last Friday night and its members are expected to attend the meeting tonight.

School Commission Gets Annual Salary Schedule

Reflector Bureau By J. C. BASKERVILLE Raleigh, July 19.—The State School Commission will face its biggest biennial headache this week when it will take up the salary schedule and be faced with the task of trying to stretch the appropriation intended to give the teachers a 10 per cent salary increase so that it will really provide a 13 per cent increase. For while the general assembly thought it was setting aside enough money to give all the school teachers a 10 per cent salary increase, present indications are that it failed to take into consideration the additional amount needed each year for the salary increases earned by teachers because of service and better classification, which amounts to an average of 3 per cent a year.

The result is that on the basis of preliminary estimates there is already a difference of more than $250,000 between the appropriation for this coming school year of $23,796,367 and the amount needed to operate the schools, provided the teachers are given a full 10 per cent increase in salaries and the regular 3 per cent increase for increments.

For preliminary estimates are that not less than $24,036,800 will be needed, while some estimates run in excess of $24,177,000, and without making any provision for the normal increase in the number of teachers required. If 150 additional teachers are needed, the total cost would be increased approximately $150,000 more and would increase the discrepancy between the appropriation and the amount needed from $250,000 to about $400,000. It is pointed out.

This is not the first time this has happened, since the 1935 general assembly made the same mistake. The error resulted from the fact that the committees in both the 1935 and 1937 general assemblies went on the assumption that the number of teachers remained the same from year to year and that the salary of each teacher also would remain the same.

But what actually happens is that there is usually an increase in the number of teachers from year to year and that there is a very heavy increase in the number of Grade A teachers employed each year, thus increasing the amount needed for salaries, since the Grade A teachers receive the highest salaries, ranging from $90.50 for a teacher with a Grade A certificate with one year of teaching experience to $112.50 (Continued on page three)

SINO-JAPANESE TRUCE DENIED; NEW PROTESTS

China Charges Japan Planes Fired on Supply Trains

MAJOR CONFLICT APPEARS CERTAIN

Heavy Concentrations of Troops Said to Have Been Made Near Peiping

Tokyo, July 19.—(AP)—The Chinese government vigorously protested to Japan today that Japanese scouting planes had machine-gunned Chinese troops in supply trains in Hopei province, violating China territorial provinces.

The Chinese counter charge came but a short time after the Japanese government had officially accused China of aggravating the tense Sino-Japanese crisis by a direct aggression against Japanese interests.

Despite reports of a truce being reached at Tientsin between local Chinese and Japanese military authorities, it was considered here that the strafing of the Chinese military planes might have been the first such action of a major Sino-Japanese war.

Japanese admitted their planes had fired on the trains at Yuan-shih, 170 miles south of Peiping, on the Hankow railroad, but declared the troops aboard the trains had first fired on the Japanese war craft.

"The Chinese declared their troops had suffered many casualties in the attack."

Japan, scouting reports that any truce had been reached at the Tientsin conference Sunday, charged heavy concentrations of Chinese troops had violated an agreement which the Japanese arms says forbids the Nanking Chinese government from sending troops into North China.

Particularly heavy concentrations of Chinese troops were said to have been made at Pactinifu, 85 miles south of Peiping, while armies were moving in from the northwest and south on the area where Japanese and Chinese have been fighting since July 7.

State In Need Of Greater Facilities Produce Seedlings

Forester Declares Nursery In Western North Carolina Would Improve Situation

Raleigh, July 19.—Greater facilities for the production of forest tree seedlings in North Carolina are imperative, since the enactment, by congress of the farm forestry bill, J. S. Holmes, state forester, said today.

"This bill has authorized an appropriation of $2,500,000 to be spent in all the states to aid farmers to re-establish forest covers," Mr. Holmes said. This will mean a much greater demand upon the state nursery near Clayton, Johnston county, with a probable crop of well over a 1,500,000 seedlings to be distributed this year. Control of the white grub and an adequate supply of water, both factors last year's small crop, have assured a substantial increase of seedlings for the reforestation this year.

"Our greatest need at this time," the state forester continued, "is a nursery in the western part of the state to produce such mountain species as white pine, hemlock, balsam, spruce, and native hardwoods. An area near the crest of the Blue Ridge in Henderson county has been tentatively selected as a nursery site. This area, or some other, if a more suitable one can be found, will be developed by the Brevard CCC camp, with seed being sown next winter or spring. The first seedlings from this proposed nursery would not be available until the planting season of 1939-40."

"In view of the fact that there have already been many demands for seedlings from the western counties, it is certain that with the farm forestry allotment to this state being made available, the demand for planting stock will increase manifold before the mountain nursery starts producing."

"In order to expedite the growing of adequate numbers of forest tree seedlings to supply the increasing demands, the Division of Forestry is at present laying definite plans looking forward to a greatly expanded service at the nurseries and to the landowners upon whose acres reforestation will be carried on," Mr. Holmes said.

WOMEN In The News

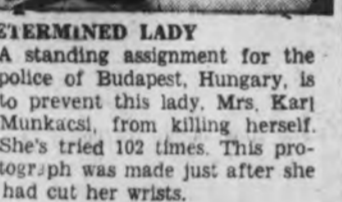

INDIANS' CHOICE
Gertrude Silver, Navajo girl from Manuette, N. M., supplied additional proof of the "Americanization" of the Indian when she appeared in her permanent wave to win the beauty contest at the Southwest All-Indian Pow-Wow at Flagstaff, Arizona.

H. D. Council Meeting
Mrs. Corneille C. Morris, Extension Economist in Food Conservation and Marketing, will be present for the council meeting to be held Wednesday afternoon. All women and older girls interested in seeing some very attractive home-made articles should be present for this meeting. A Service Club will be organized for the older girls who attend this meeting.

4-H Council
The 4-H Council will meet at Public Landing Thursday afternoon. A truck will take the group. It will load back of the Court View Service station and will leave from there at 2:30. The Council invites all 4-H boys and girls to enjoy this outing with them. Don't forget your bathing suit.

Short Courses
Letters have been mailed to club women and girls reminding them of the State Short Courses. We hope to have a big delegation at each. The information gained at these meetings will be worth much to you. For information watch the newspapers or get in touch with this office.

Garden Notes
August is the month in which to plan for the fall garden. Your success in maturing vegetables when planted at this season of the year will depend, no doubt, on weather conditions in your particular section of the state. However, garden soil well supplied with stable manure or other organic matter and the soil prepared in a fine physical condition are factors in your favor.

Try out the following list of vegetables which may be planted the first of August: Salad crops—Broccoli, Mustard, Swiss chard, Endive, Lettuce, Seven-top Turnip and Chinese Cabbage. Root crops—Turnips, Carrots, Beets. Other crops—Celery, Collards, Cabbage (Early Jersey Wakefield), Snap Beans, Lima Beans, Sugar Corn and Tomatoes.

Broccoli (Calabre Green Sprouting Italian), cauliflower and Chinese Cabbage may be planted in hills 15 inches apart. Use several seeds to the hill and then thin to one plant. The seed may be sown in a plant bed and then transplanted. Three to four weeks after the plants have been transplanted, side-dress them with nitrate of soda.

Sow celery in plant bed and cover the soil with old burlap bags or a layer of heavy building paper. This covering will hold moisture and hasten germination. As soon as the plants appear above the ground remove this covering. Transplant to field around 6 to 8 weeks later. Set plants in double rows 6 to 8 inches apart. Celery will not mature in acid soil. Wood ashes or hydrated lime broadcast over the soil area a month or more before setting plants will aid in maturing celery.

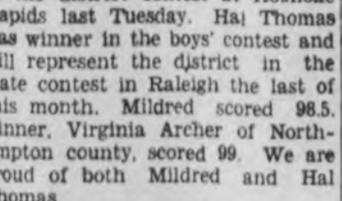

If you have never eaten real sugar corn (sweet corn) why not try Golden Cross Bantam variety. This variety matures uniformly, develops ears early having 10 to 14 rows and with kernels which are sweet and tender. Planted by the first of August it should mature before frost.

Dead Lettuce—Sow seed in bed which is partially shaded during the day. Cover seed bed with a layer of woods litter, and water thoroughly once a week. Transplant to partially shaded part of the garden during the latter part of August. Apply 5-7-5 fertilizer to plant row a week before transplanting. Set plants six inches apart in row. A few weeks after transplanting, give plants a light side dressing of nitrate of soda. New York Wonderul (Strain No. 12) is a good variety to plant.

4-H Health Contest
Mildred Edwards from the Pierce 4-H Club and Hal Thomas Erwin from the Bell Arthur Club represented Pitt County girls and boys in the district contest at Roanoke Rapids last Tuesday. Hal Thomas was winner in the boys' contest and will represent the district in the state contest in Raleigh the last of this month. Mildred scored 98.5, winner, Virginia Archer of Northampton county, scored 99. We are proud of both Mildred and Hal Thomas.

Red Banks H. D. Club
The Red Banks Home Demonstration Club met Tuesday afternoon with Misses Stella and Lillie Tucker. Miss Helen Brooks, Home Beautification Leader, gave material on "Outdoor Living Rooms."

Bethel 4-H Club
The Bethel 4-H Canning Club did not meet Tuesday as the girls are now in tobacco work.

Bethel H. D. Club
The Bethel H. D. Club had a most interesting meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Bill Manning. The August and July subjects were shifted in this club due to leaders being absent in August. The subject used was "Local History." Mr. D. L. McWhorter spoke on Pitt County History and Mrs. Ernest Ward gave material on North Carolina History. Both were very enlightening and enjoyable.

Pierce H. D. Club
The Pierce Club met at the club building Thursday afternoon. The subject was "Outdoor Living Rooms."
St. John H. D. Club
The St. John H. D. Club met at the church Friday afternoon. The subject for the meeting was "Outdoor Living Rooms," which was given by Mrs. Alton Chapman. Miss Nan Loy Tucker, of the Winterville Club was present with an exhibit and made an excellent talk.

Pierce 4-H Club
The Pierce 4-H Club met Friday night at the club building for a picnic supper and their regular club meeting. Three new members were added to the roll—Misses Mary Elizabeth, Winnie Lee and Betty Beulah Manning. Two visitors were present from the Salem Club in Nash county. Miss Nan Loy Tucker showed a vanity table and several attractive dresses she had made at a very low cost.

4-H Council
The 4-H Council will meet at Public Landing Thursday afternoon. A truck will take the group. It will load back of the Court View Service station and will leave from there at 2:30. The Council invites all 4-H boys and girls to enjoy this outing with them. Don't forget your bathing suit.

Three Southerners Out For Robinson's Job

(By The AP Feature Service)
Steering legislation through the Senate is one of the capital's hardest jobs. It killed Joe Robinson. But there's no lack of candidates for the post—Senate Majority Leader. Here are three:

ALBEN W. BARKLEY
Kentucky who's crowding 60, has the pep of 20. He speaks a flow of logic, sugarcoats it with homely stories. Doesn't need notes, has a penetrating, non-rusting voice. Ruddy face seems to smile, even when he's serious.

Eldest of a farmer's five sons, he janitored through college, graduated in law at University of Virginia. Went home to Paducah, became prosecuting attorney, then judge. To the house in 1913, shifted to the senate in '26. Swallowed the Roosevelt medicine, bottle, label and cork, then crowded about it.

Though senate leadership has been steered toward veterans heretofore, Barkley was put in line at the start of his second term. Months ago Robinson made him responsible for the heavy steering of the Supreme Court bill. Barkley dashed, flitted and bobbed all over the steaming senate trying to push it through.

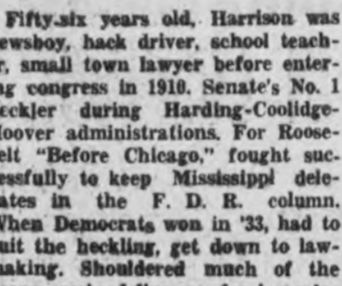

He's one of the North Carolina Barkleys who trace descent from a follower of William the Conqueror. The big Barkley family has intermarried with those of Adlai Stevenson, vice-president under Cleveland, and of Mrs. George Earle, wife of Pennsylvania's governor.

PAT HARRISON
Mississippi is the spreader of oil on troubled waters. Favored the President's court plan, but let others do most of the fighting. Result: both sides liked to confer with him. Can spread poison, but does it so graciously victim usually grins.

Seems to have only one outstanding enemy—the other senator from Mississippi, "that man Bilbo." They fell out over appointment of a judge back home. When Harrison came up for re-election last year, Bilbo stamped the state against him. Harrison won, two to one.

Fifty-six years old, Harrison was newsboy, hack driver, school teacher, small town lawyer before entering congress in 1916. Senate's No. 1 heckler during Harding-Coolidge-Hoover administrations. For Roosevelt "Before Chicago," fought successfully to keep Mississippi delegates in the F. D. R. column. When Democrats won in '33, had to quit the heckling, get down to law-making. Shouldered much of the heavy work of finance, foreign relations and rules committees. Steered social security, railway pensions and bonus bills.

Has given an almost complete okay to administration program. Got off the administration lot once this summer, though, on a relief bill amendment.

JAMES F. BYRNES
South Carolina is quick on the rhetorical trigger, slow to anger, neat in conduction. A bantam-weight bundle of well-directed energy. Seasoned southern lawyer-politician, progressive in political philosophy, one of the most loyal Rooseveltians, but called a right-wing New Dealer.

"Easy going," persuasive manner have won him good will of conservatives and liberals as well as "borderline" members of party. He and the "unreconstructive rebel" Carter Glass, are intimate friends. His relations to White House so close during President's first term that he was known as "administration spokesman" in senate.

Has a flair for sounding out views backstage, getting the low-down on prospects for contemplated legislation. Is only a second-term senator. Served in house from 1911 to 1925, took five-year recess at law in Spartanburg.

Has supported virtually every administration proposal, was among first to speak out for Supreme court change. In 1936, defended New Deal expenditures as necessary to prevent suffering, promote recovery. But this spring he launched senate drive for economy because "emergency is over." Urged 10 per cent cut in departmental appropriations to balance the budget. Wants better deal for labor, condemnals sit-down strikes.

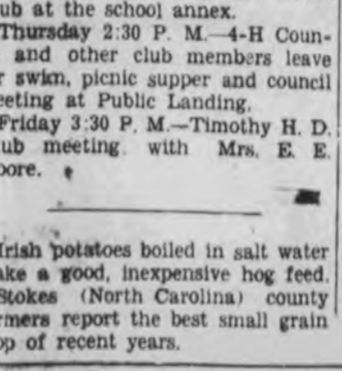

He's 58, was born in Charleston, S. C. Admitted to bar in 1903, was an editor and court reporter before entering politics.

A Way With Chinese Have Lipstick

(By The AP Feature Service)
There's a right and a wrong way to apply lipstick, says Marsha Hunt, motion picture actress, who shows amateurs how easy the right way is.

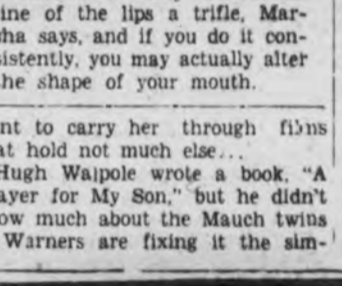

FIRST, THE OUTLINE
Take a tip from the Chinese, says Miss Hunt, and apply rouge with a tiny camel's hair brush instead of smearing it on with thick lipstick. Use cream rouge or an ordinary lipstick. The first step is to outline the natural contour of the lips, welding the brush with a steady hand.

THEN, FILL IN . . .
Then fill in the lips, applying a brushful to the upper lip first. If the coating is too thick, compress the lips. The excess will be transferred to the lower lip. Marsha warns against putting too much lipstick in the corners of the mouth. Says it's likely to cake.

AND ADMIRE YOURSELF
Here's the finished product. If you're not pleased with the normal lines of your mouth, experiment. It's easy to raise the line of the lips a trifle, Marsha says, and if you do it consistently, you may actually alter the shape of your mouth.

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE SERVAUD

SYNOPSIS: When Kay Cronon of the Lazy Nine loses her ranch house and barn in a fire, Josh Hastings, owner of the Flying Six, tries to buy her ranch and court Kay. She hates him and is determined to keep her ranch and rebuild. Ted Gaynor, a puncher she impulsively hired, fights Scrap Johnson, a coachman who molested Kay. They shoot it out, wounding each other. Hastings finds them unconscious and murders Scrap with Ted's gun. Ted crawls to a shack where a girl named Marion nurses him through a feverish week. The gun is found and Sheriff Farley searches for Ted while Kay anxiously awaits news.

Chapter 29

'Reconstructing' The Crime

BY the next morning, Kay reached a point of tense anxiety that demanded action.

There was no use denying to herself any longer that Ted meant more to her than any man she had ever known. The sympathy for his desperate plight that had first drawn her to him, had changed to admiration for the clever way in which he had helped her. And this feeling again had given way to something much deeper, as she had watched him fighting for her, and during that magic ride back in the sunset, before he had said goodbye.

She admitted now the cause of her intense restlessness when he had failed to appear at the time she had expected him. She was in love with him, and somehow she knew that he cared for her too.

The first thing to do was decided, was to ride over to the Flying Six and see if there had been any news from the sheriff. Babs wouldn't be able to come over with any message until after school, and Kay simply couldn't wait until then. After the way she and Josh Hastings had last parted, it was fairly certain that he wouldn't take the trouble to bring any message over.

In spite of her vow not to go near the Flying Six again, Kay felt she couldn't possibly wait until afternoon to hear any news there might be. Let Josh Hastings think anything he wanted to! She was going over there.

Eating a hasty breakfast, she ran down to the corral, saddled Flicker and was off.

In the morning sunlight, her fears of the night assumed less tragic shape. The fact that Ted hadn't been found anywhere would seem to indicate that he couldn't have been so severely wounded. The only thing for her to do was to have faith in him, and try to talk down the ugly rumors that were running rife about him.

To her relief, Josh Hastings was nowhere in sight as she rode up to the ranch house of the Flying Six. Aunt Kate was sunning herself on the porch. She waved a greeting.

"I'm glad to see you ain't such a fool, after all," she said complacently as Kay came up the steps.

ped it before he dragged himself over to the water! He—"

"Dragged himself over to the water?" Kay echoed. "You mean he was wounded? How do you know?"

"I don't know," Josh Hastings snapped. A dull red came into his face, and his eyes shifted from Kay's inquiring gaze. "I'm only reconstructing the picture as I imagine it must have been." His manner was suddenly blustering and confused.

"Like as not I'm mistaken. Gaynor probably wasn't wounded at all. He just shot Scrap through his arm, and then, when Scrap dropped his gun, Gaynor finished him off."

"I didn't know Scrap Johnson had been shot twice!" Kay exclaimed. A rising excitement made her breath come fast. How did Josh Hastings know so much? Why was he so red and angry?

"All I know is what the sheriff said!" Josh Hastings turned to Aunt Kate, and fixed her with hypnotic glance. "You heard him say that!" he declared.

"I don't rightly remember that," Aunt Kate pursed her lips reflectively. "But land sakes! I was so excited, I don't know half he did say."

"But you did hear him say that!" Josh Hastings persisted, his eyes still dominantly holding hers.

"I reckon I did," Aunt Kate agreed doubtfully. "Anyway, I recollect what he said about it's being my brother's gun!" Her beady black eyes turned accusingly to Kay.

"That's easy to see," Kay commented bitterly. She turned angrily toward the steps. "I may as well be going on, as long as you have your minds made up already about an innocent man's guilt."

She turned back to Aunt Kate. "If there should be any message, have Babs ride over with it, will you?"

"I will, unless someone else wants to take it," Aunt Kate gave Josh Hastings an arch look, which made Kay's blood boil.

Turning and bolting down the steps before she should say something she might regret later, she sprang into Flicker's saddle and was off.

A Plan of Action

THE same early morning sunlight that had tempted Marion Howell out into her tiny clearing on the morning that Ted finally was out of danger, shone on Kay's cabin and awakened her from the exhausted sleep into which she had fallen at early dawn, after a second wretched night.

There had been no message of any sort from the Flying Six, and, unable to stand the suspense, Kay had sent Shorty over after supper to see if any late news had come in. It was midnight before Shorty had come back, and with her first glimpse of his face, Kay had had her answer.

"No news is good news, Kid," Shorty had tried to be comforting with his clumsy sympathy. He seemed to sense, in some strange way, what Kay was going through.

"I'm with you about there being something phony going on. That Gaynor guy's no murderer, or I miss my guess."

"Thanks, Shorty," Kay had said. "I know he isn't. But everyone but you and me seems to think he is!"

Life Where Amelia Earhart's Lost Isn't Much Fun—But It's Possible

By SIGRID ARNE (AP Feature Writer)

WASHINGTON — If Amelia Earhart and Fred Noonan really found a haven on a South Sea isle, what chance have they to stay alive until help reaches them?

It depends upon which island they reached.

There are eight islands in the Phoenix group, comparatively near tiny Howland island, for which the fliers were heading when they disappeared.

Sand Piles
None of the eight is inhabited. They vary from sand bars with just enough food and water to keep two people alive for two or three weeks, to tropical islands with coconut palms.

Three if the isles—Phoenix, Enderbury and Birnie—are nothing more than scrubby stretches of sand that have grown up inside circular coral reefs. Scraggy brush covers the surface.

But the fliers could dig in the sand somewhat back from the water line and get enough drinking water to keep alive, says Samuel W. King, Hawaiian delegate to Congress. He was in charge of the U. S. navy's expedition which surveyed those islands in 1923 and 1924.

The water would be brackish, says King, and might make them slightly sick but it would prevent the agonies of thirst. Furthermore there are frequent flurries of rain.

Poison Fish
There would be only one edible dish—crab—but that would be plentiful.

Fish may be found in lagoons in the center of Phoenix and Birnie. Pounding ocean waves deposit them there. The catch is, the fish are poisonous.

But take the bigger islands: Sydney: two miles long, 1 3/4 miles wide and 20 feet high. It has wild ducks and coconut palms.

Canton: nine miles long, from 50 to 600 yards wide, 10 to 20 feet above sea. It, too, has coconut palms, which the both food and drink because of the milk inside the large nuts.

Gardner: birds, birds' eggs, rats and crabs.
Hull: green turtles and coconut palms.
McKean: coconut palms.

Dangerous Reefs
Just getting to shore, however, would be a tough job in itself if a plane came down to windward of one of these island havens.

Both current and wind drive ceaselessly against one side of most of the islands, sending a long, pounding surf up on the beach.

To reach land would require a dangerous swim through the surf and over jagged coral reef just below the surface of the water.

And the sharks? They aren't such a danger, says King—they only attack a comparatively still object.

THIS SOUTH SEA ISLE, resembles some of the coconut tree-dotted "sand piles" in the Phoenix group in the general area where Amelia Earhart and Fred Noonan disappeared.

PEOPLE COULD LIVE—for a time at least—on any of the eight Phoenix islands lying close to Howland island, the goal Miss Earhart and Noonan missed. Inset shows the island's relation to Hawaii and the mainland. Note line of flight.

Chinese side of the fence, sometimes the Japanese.

Promised To Be Friendly
After the Pieping incident, however, China courted upon him to defend the city, principal one in Hanoi. One of China's mightiest generals, he commands the famous 29th route army, which gallantly but vainly defended the Great Wall against Japan in 1933.

The political council of his Ho-pai-Chahar state, inaugurated in December, 1935, was regarded as pro-Japanese. The territory it rules is as large as Texas and has 30,000,000 residents. Sung proposed to promote friendly relations with Japan and Manchoukuo, and Japanese militarists applauded.

Traitor, Said Students
Thousands of Pieping students branded his activities as traitorous, but Nanking officially blessed the new regime—perhaps as the best way to keep even a tenuous grip upon Sung.

Last year his officers called upon him to buck Japan's expansion. At the same time, Japan increased her forces near Pieping to as estimated 10,000, as against Sung's army of 50,000 to 70,000.

There are three possible ways for the school commission to solve the salary problem. One is to readjust the salary schedule so as to absorb the difference of $2,000 or so between the amount needed and the amount available. A second method would be to refuse to grant any experience increments this year, but to grant the full 10 per cent salary increase on the basis of last year's salaries. A third would be to grant the experience increments as in the past, but reduce the flat salary increase to only eight per cent. A fourth plan might be to get a grant of $250,000 more from the emergency fund.

Once Called Traitor; Sung Defends Peiping
(By the AP Feature Service)
China's success in halting the Japanese in the Peiping area depends to a great extent upon which way one of its most adroit fence-sitters finally will jump.

The general chiefly responsible for

Chinese policy up near the Great Wall is Sung Cheh-yuan, head of the council governing semi-independent Hopei and Chahar provinces. Sometimes he has seemed on the COLD FRONT. Steamy hot and bitter cold is China's north country where an incident provoked a Japanese concentration of troops. This trench and soldiers in fur-lined helmets overlook the hilly country. China feared another incursion like that which made Manchoukuo a Japanese puppet state.

Talks To Parents

By Brooks Peters Church

NEWLY ARRIVED

If a stranger comes to town every one puts himself out to show him the rights and teach him the ropes. His friends explain customs and conventions; if he is a foreigner they teach him the language. They make every effort to put him at his ease and accustom him to his new surroundings.

A baby is more ignorant and helpless than the most outlandish foreigner. He knows nothing and can do nothing to help himself. Very few parents, however, give him the help which they would give the stranger. They like his dependence; his fumbling attempts at speech and self-help they find amusing and appealing; his questions they are apt to find a nuisance; and it never occurs to them to show him him to buck Japan's expansion. At the same time, Japan increased her forces near Pieping to as estimated 10,000, as against Sung's army of 50,000 to 70,000.

the sights and sounds of his new home, and teach him their meaning.

Children given the same opportunity that strangers are given, could go much further than they do. If parents would talk intelligently to the youngsters whom they take out with them, if they would let the child help at odd jobs, even if his help proved a nuisance, the child would gain much more from the experience.

It is not fair to the child to keep him a baby one minute longer than necessary. The parents should, from the moment of his birth begin to prepare him for independence. Baby talk is charming, but the sooner he will be able to make himself understood, to talk baby talk to him is like talking broken English to a foreigner. In either case it is unkind.

To neglect to answer a child's questions or to answer them evasively or untruthfully is also unfair. To walk with him through all the wonders of a newly-discovered world and say nothing to explain it to him is to keep him out of his birthright. Children are human beings, not toys.

DECLARES AIM HELP FARMERS

Power Company Also to Cooperate With Industry

Reflector Bureau

Raleigh, July 16.—Convinced that the agricultural and industrial development of the south in general and North Carolina in particular has just begun and that the next few years will witness tremendous strides along both of these lines, the Carolina Power and Light company has set up a new agricultural and industrial development department which will cooperate with the state and with the various sections served by the company in further developing agriculture and industry. It was pointed out here today by A. L. Monroe, who is in charge of the new division.

"We not only want to help the farmers of the state develop a new and more lucrative type of agriculture in North Carolina, but we want to help bring more industries to the state, especially new industries which will help furnish a bigger market for products raised by the farmers," Monroe said today.

"Leading economic experts agree that agricultural development must go hand in hand with industrial development, in that the farmers must grow and produce many things essential to manufacturing. If the farmers in North Carolina will grow enough of these essential materials, it will not be long before the manufacturing plants will come here, in order to be close to the source of supply."

Mr. Monroe pointed especially to the increased use of soy beans in industry, especially in the manufacture of plastics, also to the increased demand for many other agricultural products which are now essential to many industries. It will be the purpose of this department to bring the farmers and industry in closer contact so that they may cooperate to the benefit of each other. Mr. Monroe pointed out.

While the headquarters of the new department will be here in Raleigh, it will carry on its work in every section of the state and especially in those sections served by the Carolina Power and Light company, Mr. Monroe said.

Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain will get an honorary degree next autumn from the University of London.

"The distinctive symptoms of heat exhaustion are dizziness, often nausea and vomiting, depression and weakness but not unconsciousness from which the patient cannot be aroused as in sunstroke, face pale, but covered with perspiration, breathing shallow, pulse weak and rapid."

Referring to treatment which may be administered by the first aider, Dr. Reynolds re-emphasized the importance of sending for a doctor at once. In the meantime, however, the patient should be removed to a cooler and more comfortable location, all the clothing should be loosened and as much of it as possible removed. "Apply cold water to the head and body and rub ice cold water over the face, neck, chest and arms," Dr. Reynolds said.

A CHAIN ON THE DOOR!

Washington — "Roosevelt luck" suffered its first major setback in the death of Senator Joe Robinson. Unquestionably the Arkansan was Macabre's hammer in the New Deal administration. He was the hard-hitting soldier for the righteous cause. And in only one important instance did he depart from the belief that the righteous cause was whatever his chief wanted enacted. That instance was the recent unrestricted grant of $1,500,000 in relief money.

It has been "Roosevelt luck" to have good weather when he wanted it. Last inauguration day an exception. Even bad weather proved helpful, as when, last summer, in the face of an election, the drought in the Dakotas and adjacent areas presented an opportunity for demonstration of the effectiveness of the Roosevelt relief agencies.

Iron Touch Gone
 Even death came to the aid of the President on a previous occasion, when an assassin shot down Huey Long just as he was developing from a mere noisome gadfly into a genuine menace to the Roosevelt regime.

But the death of Joe Robinson is a bad break for the administration. The President has suffered a blow to his prestige in the stern reversion to the Supreme Court bill. To Robinson fell the task of putting through the substitute to "save the face" of the President with a minimum of party rupture.

There was a chance that Robinson might have done it, although to many an observer the chance seemed steadily dimming even before the majority leader died.

No other Macabre sits on the majority side in the senate. There is the husky but softer-textured Barkley of Kentucky. He stepped into the breach to lead for the administration in the defeat of Robinson on the relief bill.

There is the cajoling, teasing Pat Harrison of Mississippi. He has been the wheel-horse of the administration in putting through tax measures as chairman of the finance committee. Again there is slender aggressive Annunzio of South Carolina. Until recent months he has been shining else where with the President but, like Robinson, deflected on the relief bill.

None of these three has the iron in his touch that the administration needs in its court fight now.

Previous Heart Attack
 Incidentally, Robinson had a noticeable heart-attack on the floor of the senate little more than a week before he died. He was in the midst of his opening speech on the court fight. As usual, he had spoken violently, shouting, with arms swinging. After a momentary pause he attempted to resume his voice faltered. He appeared almost to choke but allowed no sign of real distress to reach his face. Senator Cawley of New York, a physician, quickly strode to his side, snoring to him and set beside him during the balance of his speech.

Cawley is who who protested a few days before the debate opened that it would be "manslaughter" to keep Congress in the lunatic house of a Washington summer. But Robinson was unafraid. In his opening speech he lifted at the staving power of the opposition. He said he was in better shape than Wheeler of Montana, leader of the court opposition. It seems he was mistaken.

Man About Manhattan

 New York—I remember: A morning at the St. Charles hotel in New Orleans, when Rudolph Valentino came in. And ordered cantaloupe for breakfast. White canvas shoes, spotless linen suit, with vest. WHIRLWIND COURTSHIP RECIPE: TAKE HER UP IN THE 'CYCLONE'

By CHARLES NORMAN
 (AP Feature Service Writer)

PALISADE, N. J.—Sex and fear are the thrill ingredients that go into amusement park coasters and rides.

Back of them is a basic principle that makes 'em go. The principle is: let the public in on it—people are happy when they find out what makes the wheels go round.

So say the brothers Irving and Jack Rosenthal, designers and operators of speed thrill contraptions for 34 years. They were responsible for the Cyclone roller coaster at Coney Island 10 years ago, the one with the precipitous drop that made strong men pale and women scream.

The Rosenthals are proud of the Cyclone, even at this late date, with newer, speedier projects and a new amusement park venture across the Hudson river from Manhattan.

"Why," says Irving, who is more loquacious than his brother, "Colonel Lindbergh used to come every day and ride on it before he flew to Paris. We even had customers who stayed on it for hours. It cost a dollar, too, for a minute and a half."

WE SAW THAT THE PUBLIC WAS NOSY . . . Like cosquering generals, Jack (left) and Irving Rosenthal survey the latest addition to their amusement park—the bobsled run which simulates the real-life thriller.

"We attribute a lot of marriages to the Cyclone. When a girl screamed, her bashful boy friend put his arm around her. You see? We helped break the ice."

Even in the latest, up-to-the-minute break-neck speed thrills, the romantic angle is ever-present in the form of an enclosed ascent, where boys and girls may kiss before they scream and fall into each other's arms for dear life.

Bobsled Run's A Wow
 The development of speed thrills closely parallels the advent of the automobile, the motorboat, the airplane, and finally, the bobsled run, the ne plus ultra of sensation, according to Irving who, however, didn't use the phrase.

"We saw that the public was nosy," he said candidly. "I wanted to know how things were done. That's all we needed to know."

"We developed the dodging car. When people got behind the wheel they were happy. They were driving, just like the folks with automobiles. This was when automobiles were still a novelty."

"The public, you see, wants to keep up with the Joneses. After the auto thrill, they wanted a motorboat thrill, because they had heard of it. We gave it to them, letting them drive it themselves. Then they wanted to go up in the air so we designed the flying scooter. It goes in circles, and dips and then loops.

"Now," says Irving, and his eyes light up, and even brother Jack, who has been listening quietly, seems imbued with fervor, "now it's the Lake Placid bobsled run. Who goes to Lake Placid? Only the choice few. So we give the public the thrills of the famous bobsled curves—72 miles an hour on the ride—the greatest creation yet created in an outdoor amusement park!"

Stratosphere's Next
 The bobsled run cost $135,000, the brothers say; was under construction from January to July 1, and his flashy manner and his witty conversations.

Walter Kinsley, dead now too, but remembered as the most famous press-agent Broadway ever had. He was the tops, the Ziegfeld of his profession. One of his accounts was the Emperor of Japan.

On his wall hung the slogan: "Be Hard—Live Dangerously." But this was just a slogan to Kinsley, who was the kindest and gentlest of men.

I remember Victor MacLaren and Edmund Lowe in a dressing room backstage at the Capitol theater. Somebody knocked over a glass, smashing it to fragments, and embarrassedly leaped to retrieve the pieces. But MacLaren was ahead of him: "Don't touch it," he cried. "This is wonderful luck!" Most theatrical people base their careers on superstition. The broken glass remained on the floor three days. Until the engagement was over, and MacLaren was on his way back to the coast.

James J. Walker, the first to reach Jack Dempsey's dressing room at Yankee Stadium after the knock-out of Lou Amel Firpo. And James J. Walker, the first to reach a dozen broken twisted men in a subway crash which claimed a dozen lives in the underground tunnels beneath the sidewalks of Manhattan.

Walker always the first to get anywhere, anytime anything exciting or tragic or important happened.

contains 280,000 board feet of lumber.

"It may come to $150,000," says Jack. That's because it's being covered with fake teak and splashes of camouflage paint.

The first human beings on the bobsled roller coaster were the Rosenthal brothers, but the first trial run was done with sandbags. It was only after the brothers tried it out that it was found that one some of the curves the coaster sleds went up too high. It's one of the things that make the amusement business interesting.

"What's next?" exclaimed Irving. "We're working on a stratosphere flight. We'll shoot the car out of a cannon with compressed air. Oh, boy! You'll see it at the World fair."

Lindbergh and the ticker-tape reception that has never been equaled. The vast NRA parade up 5th avenue with its flaming banners and marching thousands. The repeal night in New York and its spirit of Johnny-dance-a-jig, which even from this perspective, cannot be adequately described.

Two dead gangsters and a wounded copper, on the sidewalk at 46th street. It was eight o'clock at night. The gangsters entered a barber shop, where the cop was getting a haircut. All went for their guns at the same time. All got outside. And all went down clutching their middles. But it was the gangsters who died!

How's Your Health?

QUESTIONS PASTURIZATION
 Milk, which is an excellent food for human beings, is also good nutriment for germs. Experience has shown that milk which is neither chilled nor pasteurized will spoil promptly. This spoiling is the result of bacterial growth and activity.

The pasteurization of milk was started in the United States about 1911. Since then it has become widespread. It is estimated that 88 percent of all the milk consumed in cities of over 10,000 population is pasteurized. Public health authorities agree that the pasteurization of milk has contributed substantially to the reduction of a number of diseases heretofore widely prevalent.

For example, tuberculosis of the bones and of the glands, due to the bovine type of the tubercle bacillus has become radically reduced. The incidence of epidemic sore throat, typhoid fever and other bacterial diseases formerly spread by contaminated milk has been reduced by pasteurization.

Despite these great gains, the question whether pasteurization harms milk is frequently raised. A pertinent answer is offered by the recent report of England's National Institute for Research on Dairying which concludes that milk suffers no damage by pasteurization.

From the nutritional standpoint, a pint of pasteurized milk is substantially equal to a pint of raw milk, but much safer. The moderate heating of milk during pasteurization does not affect the nutritional availability of the calcium and the phosphorus it contains.

The digestibility of the milk proteins and their biological value is in no way altered or reduced. Neither its vitamin A nor its carotene (the yellow coloring substance which gives milk its characteristic tinge) is damaged by pasteurization. There is some loss of vitamin B, as well as about 20 percent of vitamin C, but milk is not an important source of these two vitamins.

Weighing the slight alterations effected in milk by pasteurization against the great advantages which are gained by destroying most of the harmful bacteria likely to be present in raw milk, we are forced to conclude that pasteurization is most desirable.

In some cities in the United States having a population of 10,000 or less, 70 percent of the milk consumed is not pasteurized, and in some small communities all the milk consumed is raw.

It Comes Any Way You Want It—
 Lincoln, Neb., July 17.—(AP)—If you step up to a soda fountain and find "Whey—All Flavors" on the menu, don't be surprised. New uses for the liquid that separates from the curd when milk is churned have been found, say G. A. Ramsell and G. H. Ward of the federal dairy research laboratories.

Whey, partially condensed and sweetened, can be blended with certain other foods into a nutritious and palatable new series of edibles, Ramsell and Ward report. It can be used in fruit whips, candy and confections may be substituted for egg white.

Whey makes an excellent icing with the addition of suitable flavors and colors and is "tops" when used at the corner drugstore with hot chocolate sundaes.

SEVENTY MINISTERS IN THIS ONE FAMILY
 Blue Springs, Mo. (AP)—The ministry is the favorite career in the family of the Rev. E. U. Hafemann, pastor of the Evangelical church here.

Among his relatives, in-laws, sons, parents, uncles, nephews and grand nephews, 70 became Evangelical ministers in the United States and Germany.

His paternal and maternal grandfathers and great grandfathers were ministers. His father, also a minister, had 13 children. The eight sons became ministers. The five daughters married ministers.

Greenville started a ninth-inning rally here yesterday afternoon at Third Street Park, which fell short one run of tying the score with Snake Henry's Tarboro Serpents, and the Edgecombe county boys took home a 9-8 verdict.

The Greenies won Saturday's contest from the Snakes, 3-2. The game was halted in the seventh on account of rain.

Both clubs played tight ball until the eighth, but during the remainder of the game a total of a dozen runs came across. The Serpents cut loose for six in their half of the eighth; the Greenies tallied twice in their turn, then pushed over four tallies in the ninth.

With the score standing at 3-2 in their favor, the Snakes started their merry-go-round in the eighth after two men had been retired. Big Jim Tatum at struck at two balls, when Caliguri suddenly lost control and three four balls to start the ball rolling for Tarboro. With Tatum on first Manager Snake Henry rattled the board for a double talking Tatum. Henry tallied on Lehman's single. Lehman stole second. Savage walked, and Cassell singled scoring Lehman. Myers doubled to left, and Savage and Cassell tallied. Carnahan singled Myers in with what proved to be the winning run.

Although Bob Cassell Tarboro's second hurler, fanned two in the local's half of the eighth, the locals counted twice, on singles by Roy and Kenosh, a walk to Pignataro, an error, and a wild pitch. Johnson, Melchor and Caliguri were Cassell's strike-out victims.

The Greenies renewed the assault in the ninth. Norwood walked. Stowe doubled to left, and Johnson singled to right talking Stowe and Norwood. Roye drew a walk, and Malone replaced Cassell on the mound. Malone walked Kenosh, and the bases were full. Johnson scored after Pignataro's fly, and Melchor's single brought in Roy, but Caliguri went out pitcher to first to end the game.

Carnahan with three hits led Tarboro, while Stowe, Johnson and Kenosh collected two each for the Greenies.

Kinston's Eagles play here this afternoon at 4 o'clock. This was a rained out contest.

HANDY HURLER

-By PAP'

Sport Slants

-By PAP'

Any skepticism that may have existed in the minds of Brooklyn fans concerning Luke Hamlin's right to a place on the Dodger hurling staff was dispelled when the big righthander set down the Brooklyn's most hated rivals, the New York Giants, at Ebbets field.

Tales of Hamlin's success on the Dodgers' recent road trip drifted back to Brooklyn. While the Dodger fans were delighted with reports of his victories, they did want to see him win on the home grounds. Luke won the fans over when he turned in his sixth victory of the season at the expense of the Giants. He gave the New Yorks just five hits.

Hamlin came to Brooklyn via the draft route last winter. For two seasons prior to that he did his tossing for the Milwaukee Brewers. The 19 victories he turned in for the sixth place Brewers last season caught the Dodgers' eyes.

The Detroit Tigers gave Hamlin a couple of tests, but decided he wouldn't do. He was the Tigers' bull pen ace during 1934 and contributed much towards the Tigers' drive to the pennant.

Hamlin may have had his troubles with control in the past, but at the current writing that is the one feature that marks his work on the mound. He seems to have shaken his old habit of growing careless at vital stages of a game.

His chief weapon is a fast ball—exceedingly hard to hit when he keeps it low and close. His curve is effective because it is a perfect duplicate of his fast ball until it breaks across the plate. His change of pace baffles the batters who murder fast pitches and keeps them from taking toe-holds and knocking the cover off the ball.

His Business: Proving Fish Stories

MiaPi's Al Pfeleger A Witness For Roosevelt

AL PFLEUGER, Miami taxidermist, with an exhibit that will convince many a doubter of some piscatorial tale.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Al Pfeleger makes a living and an art of backing up tall fishing tales for Presidents, wealthy sportsmen and other anglers.

He preserves and mounts the fighting sailfish and slug-nosed marlin as well as the spiny-tailed fish which he says is the largest fish-mounting place in the world. Proudly, the 32-year-old taxidermist describes his achievement of preserving some 20,000 fish in the past 11 years and converting a two-story bank building into a bustling although stony-smelling factory.

The bank vault is now a cold storage room where fresh catches are placed. The lobby houses one of the most complete collections of stuffed tropical fish, from the largest down to the small, vivid parrot and angel fish.

Many museums employ Pfeleger to assemble their collections. Both President Roosevelt and former President Hoover sent sailfish to him for mounting.

Vanderbilt A Patron
William K. Vanderbilt bought 500 mounted fish from Pfeleger for his museum at Northport, N. Y. Others who have come to the husky taxidermist to have their salt water trophies preserved are William B. Leeds, W. L. Mellon, John Wanamaker, J. Edgar Hoover and Lady Kule, whose yacht, Nahlin, was used by King Edward for a vacation cruise.

Pfeleger says he never solicits business. Yet last year he mounted about 2,500 specimens of which 800 were sailfish.

There were tuna, some of them record catches weighing over 700 pounds; a 798-pound mako shark, the largest ever caught on rod and reel; blue marlin weighing around 400 pounds; sailfish averaging 50 pounds; barracuda, dolphin, tarpon, amberjack, bonitos, grouper, albacore, grunts and tiny moonfish the size of a quarter.

Most came from Florida and Bahama waters. Some came from Nova Scotia and the Pacific coast.

'Retouch' The Fish
When the fish arrives—most are skinned before being shipped—it is stuffed with sawdust and sewed back into its original shape. A two-piece plaster of paris mold is made of the body which, in turn, models a papier mache or wooden form of the body. On this the skin is stretched. Sometimes the form is bent so the fish appears to be leaping.

Glass eyes are inserted. Pfeleger and two artists then begin the tedious, intricate work of restoring the original colors. They refer to a large library with 450 watercolor paintings for accuracy.

Wooden panels or large plaques with scenic backgrounds are prepared. Fish are mounted thereon. Pfeleger charges $5 to $25 for mounting small fish, about $75 for sailfish, which are most popular trophies, and more for marlin and tuna.

Always a hunter and fisherman, he took up taxidermy as a boy in Elizabeth, New Jersey.

Billies Take Bruins For A 9 To 5 Ride

Snow Hill—Fine relief pitching by Ventura featured as the Billies took a 9-5 decision over New Bern's Bears yesterday.

Ventura replaced Hruska in the third inning, with the score tied at 4-all, and got the Bears down with two hits the rest of the way. Both were singles and both went to Douglass—one in the sixth and one in the eighth.

Ventura gave up a run in the fifth that gave the Bears a lead, but the Billies came to his support with a pair of runs in the sixth that clinched the game. Saufas worked a single to centerfield, Glenn Mullinax let the ball get away from him and Soufas scored and Rabb went to third. Ventura brought in Rabb with a single.

In the eighth, Wall sent the ball over the left-field fence to run the Billies' lead to 7-5, and the local wound on the scoring with two tallies in the eighth.

The Bears reached Hruska for only four hits in his two innings, but they worked on him for two runs in each frame. The Billies blasted the lead, however, with a second-inning attack, featured by Mewborne's homer over the left-field fence with two men on.

Joe Bistross and Walter Rabb led the Billies at bat with three hits each. Bistross' trio included a triple and a double. Rabb had a double.

Douglass, with two hits, was the only visitor to hit safely more than once.

Kinston's Bess Hurls 4-Hit Win Over Bugs

Kinston.—Ex-Manager Krim Bess hurled four-hit ball and fanned six as the Kinston Eagles defeated the tumbling Goldsboro Goldbugs, 4 to 1, yesterday. Bunn Hearn, Jr. pitched for the Bugs and gave up eight safeties.

Four former Eagles — Thurman Vick, Charlie Gadd, Tony Malano, and Frankie Durman—navigated for the Bugs. Only one, Malano, got a hit. Musser got two hits to pace the Bugs at bat.

The Eagles scored in the first stanza. Strife scored on a walk. Wrostek forced him at second, but made second on Malano's error on an attempted double play. Schultz singled to score Wrostek.

The Bugs scored their run in the second. Ionsick made second on a single and Gillenwater's error. He scored when Hicks errored Gadd's fielder's choice.

Single by Schultz, Gillenwater and Patton and Stoner's sacrifice counted a run for the locals in the third. Gillenwater was out at the plate.

Wright's double, a passed ball and Bess' infield out produced the Eagles' third run in the fourth. Gillenwater homered in the fifth to end the scoring.

The locals' new manager, Vernon Taylor, made his debut with the celebrities yesterday. He is a right-handed pitcher from Mobile, Ala. He arrived here Saturday, too late to take charge of the Goldsboro-Kinston game at Goldsboro.

Schultz, Gillenwater and Wright got two hits each for the locals.

Aces Fall Victims To Williamston Martins

Williamston.—Larry Wade yesterday made 11 victories in 15 starts by hurling the Martins to a 9-3 decision over the Awlen Aces.

In addition to hurling fine ball, Wade led his team's attack at bat, with three hits in four turns. The Martins gave him good support with a 13-blow drive against Pittman, Howard and Steve Gurth.

Williamston opened the game's scoring in the third—Wade's single

Student Pawns His Shirt For Fur Nest-Egg

(By the AP Feature Service)
St. Louis, Mo.—Six lively little bills of fur, so valuable they rate a private air-conditioning plant to help them through a St. Louis summer, are proof that 22-year-old Robert Urian, Jr., will sacrifice his last shirt if he really wants something.

Urian wanted more than anything some of the rarest of rare fur bearings—chinchillas from South America, valued at $3,200 a breeding pair.

Before he got the little rodents home the St. Louis university senior had pawned his shirts, ties and a tennis racket.

That homeward trip was grueling. It took three weeks to remove the animals safely from their native habitat in the cold and rarefied atmosphere of the Chilean mountains to Santiago.

Through the tropics they had to be packed in ice.

Whenever Urian stopped at a hotel he kept them in the same room with him.

He would step up to the desk to register, carrying his valise, a crapsible cage, a basket of alfalfa, corn and carrots, and the animals in two small boxes.

"People thought I was nuts," he says.

In their new air-conditioned home, however, the chinchillas are thriving. There has even been an offspring Urian and his partner, Charlie Curry, hope they have a fur-lined nest egg.

to take charge of the Goldsboro-Kinston game at Goldsboro.

Schultz, Gillenwater and Wright got two hits each for the locals.

Chinese Puzzler, Grim-faced Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, for many months known to be training troops and buying warplanes for his "new China," was the international puzzle in the Sino-Japanese crisis. The "Iron Man" still may be unwilling to battle Japan.

Wright's double, a passed ball and Bess' infield out produced the Eagles' third run in the fourth. Gillenwater homered in the fifth to end the scoring.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, July 19.—(AP)—Stock market leaders climbed slowly but persistently in today's session and gains of fractions to more than three points were posted without meeting much resistance.
While smallness of the volume was a bit discouraging to commission houses, analysts seemed impressed by the ability of the list to hold near top levels approaching the fourth hour.
Brighter business hopes, rather than political or foreign developments seemed to be the motivator. There was profit selling in the final laps, but this was well absorbed and late recessives were unimportant in most instances.
Transfers were in the neighborhood of 950,000 shares.

BOOSTER MEET BE TONIGHT

business and professional groups will make brief talks tonight after which a general discussion of ways and means to boost Greenville and its tobacco market will be held. It will be a "Dutch" supper and business houses have been urged to purchase tickets for all their employees. Tickets may be secured from Mrs. R. L. Powell, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, but will be available at Respos' tonight.
The Greenville "Booster" song will be dedicated at the meeting and copies will be furnished at the meeting.
The song, entitled "Forever Boasting Greenville," is sung to the tune of "Forever Blowing Bubbles." It follows:
I'm forever boasting Greenville, Peestine Greenville everywhere. She moves so spry, not a gloom or sigh. All the knockers soon say goodbye. All good roads lead to her, I've looked all around, I'd rather live in Greenville Than own some other town.

Jesse Murphy, 67, Claimed By Death

Jesse Murphy, aged 67 years, died in the local hospital early Sunday morning after a five-weeks illness.
Mr. Murphy was a highly respected farmer of the Lang's Cross Roads section of this county. He moved with his family from Greene county when he was only nine years old and had been living in the same community ever since. He was a member of the Free Will Baptist church.
Funeral services were conducted this afternoon at 3:30 from the late home by Rev. Jack Tyson, Free Will Baptist minister of Middlesex. Burial was made in the family cemetery in Greene county.
Mr. Murphy is survived by his wife and twelve children: five sons—Kirby, Jimmie, Jesse, Floyd, Johnnie and Willie Moore Murphy; seven daughters—Mrs. Floyd Robinson, Mrs. J. R. Brady, Mrs. Ernest Gay, and Misses Seima, Luie Dell, Margaret and Ethel Mae Murphy, all of Pitt county. Also one brother, Dick Murphy, Pitt county; one half-brother, Bill Murphy, of Snow Hill, and one sister, Miss Dorcas Murphy, who made her home with him.

LEHMAN URGES OPPOSITION TO COURT REFORM

by the executive offices while he is on vacation, pointed out that he has supported most of the President's social programs both when Mr. Roosevelt was governor of New York and since he became president.
"The President's program, taken as a whole, has, in my opinion, represented the greatest step forward in social reform that any nation has undertaken for many years," Lehman wrote the senator.
"I look forward to the opportunity of continuing to support his courageous leadership in matters that are in the interest of the social well-being of the people. This bill, however, I believe to be contrary to their interest."

WORST BATTLE OF WAR RAGES ABOUT MADRID

Recapture of Brunete was regarded as vital for insurgent forces because government artillery from new emplacements is sharing insurgent positions near Madrid from both front and rear.
Insurgent planes again bombed at government airfields near Madrid, but were driven off by heavy anti-aircraft fire.
A government official said the fighting unquestionably was the heaviest of the war and that the amount of air and artillery activity was without precedent.
To keep white sauce hot and free from lumps place it in a double-boiler over a low fire, cover tightly.

SOAP SUBS 8', HOME-MADE AUTO, DITCHES DRIVER

St. Francisville, Ill. (AP)—Years back, Martin Brian, 90-year-old blacksmith, fixed a motor car. He decided he knew all about automobiles and backed the car out of the garage. But he had neglected to learn how to stop and smashed a plate glass window.
But Brian was persevering. He decided to make his own car, so he'd be sure to know how to operate it. The finished product rambles about the streets of this Wabash river town, with Brian at the wheel. It's the envy of all the children, and the grownups are interested, at least.

At first he operated it by hand-pumping, like a hand car. But now it operates like a washing machine
