MASSED DRIVE BY INSURGENTS NETS RESULTS

Rebels Struggle To Plug Loop Hole in Madrid Lines

STRATEGIC HILL FALLS TO FORCES

Government, However, Claims It Still Holds Two Important Places

Madrid, July 21.—(AP)—Insurgent forces struggling to plug a hole gouged in their lines west of Madrid by General Jose Miaja's offensives, surged on the government salient from three directions today.

Their massed drive wrested a strategic hill from Miaja's soldiers—"peak 660" from which they dominated a battle scarred village about 15 miles west of here and one of the early prizes of the government's two weeks' campaign.

The government acknowledged loss of the peak after three days of insurgent counter attacks, but asserted it still held two places at the mouth of the "pocket which Madrid's militiamen cut into the flank of the eight and a half month old siege lines in the capital's western front.

Within the "pocket" the government still held Quijorna, Brunete and Villanueva de la Canada, east of which yesterday's struggle for "peak 660" continued.

Miaja's salients extending southward in completion of its curving sweep back to Madrid either would attack insurgent siege forces on the western fringe of the city or force their evacuation.

On the other hand, a turning of the tables of "the battle for Madrid" would force Miaja's men to withdraw from the "pocket" or have the exit closed against them.

Senator Barkley Selected For Democratic Leadership Over Harrison By One Vote

NAMED DEMOCRATIC LEADER

By a vote of 38 to 37, Senator Barkley of Kentucky was chosen Democratic senate leader over Senator Harrison of Mississippi

Washington, July 21.—(AP)—Senator Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, won the Democratic leadership of the Senate today in a close contest.

The vote was 38 to 37. Barkley, who served as assistant to the late leader, Joseph Robinson of Arkansas, was chosen by the senate's 75 Democrats over Senator Harrison of Mississippi.

Barkley was supported by most friends of the Roosevelt court bill. Harrison had the backing of those against the measure.

The entire caucus took less than an hour. There were no nominations but a quick secret ballot. Harrison then moved to make the selection unanimous.

Before the meeting broke up Barkley made a brief speech in which he promised to support Democratic policies and work for the nation and party. He was cheered by his colleagues.

The Democrats then filed by and shook his hand and the hand of Senator Harrison, who stood smiling at his side.

Speaking into a radio microphone Barkley expressed his gratitude for the "honor accorded to me" and expressed confidence "we will all be able to work together."

Two Farmers Grasp Opportunity to Grab Guns When Desperadoes Stop Car

Boswell, Okla., July 21.—(AP)—Fred Tindol, escaped Texas convict, was shot to death and his companion, Pete Traxler, Oklahoma outlaw, was wounded seriously today by two farmers they were holding as hostages.

While the car in which the desperadoes were trying to escape a huge network of officers was parked on a highway eight miles northwest of here, the farmers grabbed the guns of their captors and shot them down. Traxler was shot above the right lung.

The hostages, Frank Trimmer and J. E. Benton, brought the outlaws into Boswell after the shooting.

Durant, Okla., July 21.—(AP)—Pete Traxler, the southwest Number one bad man, kidnaped a farmer near Caddo, Okla., today and fled northward after breaking through a cordon of officers in the Washita river bottoms near here.

A large posse of state patrolmen sped in pursuit and were reported close behind the fleeing desperado and his companion on a country road.

The farmer, Frank Trimmer, was held up at a home three miles east of Caddo and was forced to accompany the escaped Texas convict in the car.

Traxler's wife, dark haired, attractive 30-year-old Nell Tingley Traxler, was captured yesterday a few hours after she joined her husband, but Traxler and his fellow felon escaped in a gun battle 16 miles west of here. Mrs. Traxler fainted and was found in the abandoned bullet-riddled car. She expressed the belief her husband would never be taken alive.

The posse, numbering both Texas and Oklahoma officers, began a giant encircling movement, flanking a cordon of armed patrols along roads and through the underbrush and timber of an area about 10 miles in diameter in which the desperadoes are believed hiding.

Mrs. Traxler as "Fred" is believed to be Fred Kindel, who with Traxler and several others broke from the Huntsville, Texas prison farm July 8.

Bloodhounds from McAlester, Oklahoma penitentiary took up the hunt after yesterday's gun battle.

Mrs. Ada Mills, 65, Claimed By Death

Mrs. Mills had been ill for a year. She was a member of the Rose Hill Free Will Baptist church.

Surviving are her husband, Ed Mills, four sons, Grover, Arthur, Oscar and Thelbert Mills; five daughters, Mrs. Claude Sutton, Mrs. Bryant Scott, Mrs. Tom Sawyer, Mrs. Stocks and Mrs. Nona Stallings; two brothers, John Mills of Beaufort county, and Adam Mills of Pitt county; and three sisters, Mrs. Kathryn Mills, Mrs. Dixie Stocks and Mrs. Percie Buck all of Pitt county.

Complaints Heard By Commissioners

Halls of the county court house were practically filled with property owners this morning here to discuss with the Board of Commissioners revaluations of the property.

The task of making the revaluations was delayed here and chiefly to contend that their property had been valued at a figure too high.

Chairman Roy T. Cox, of the Board, however, said it was the aim of the commissioners to value all property in the county on an equal basis.

It was uncertain whether the Board would complete the hearings today, even though it has been in session as a board of equalization and review on several other days.

On the same day James Burks, Hillboro, Ala., became the father of twin children, two coats and calves were born on his place.

STATE BEGINS ON TESTIMONY

Evidence Offered in Alleged Cremation Slaying

Burgaw, July 21.—(AP)—The state began presentation of evidence shortly before noon today by which it is trying to convict Pete Krochmalny, his son Paul, and a son in law, Ervin Williams, of the cremation-murder of Paul Krochmalny, brother of Pete, April 4, 1935.

The state contends the trio killed the lame laborer and burned the body for $1,100 which he received from the sale of property. The jury was completed late in the morning and one witness was heard before Judge Marshall Spears of Durham ordered a recess until 2 p. m.

The witness, J. N. Starkman of Burgaw, testified he and Mike Borio came upon the elder Paul Krochmalny about a mile from Saint Helena Saturday night of the last week in March, 1936, and gave him a ride to the home of Mrs. Anna Besnyaga at Saint Helena, where Krochmalny roomed.

Before examination of witnesses began, segregation of witnesses was ordered upon motion of defense counsel, but Mrs. Stella Williams, wife of Irvin Williams, was allowed to remain in the court room.

Courts attaches said Mrs. Badaygo would be called to the stand after the luncheon recess.

Forests Being Protected By Small Corps Rangers

Raleigh, July 21.—A million acres to the man, is the burden under which the supervisory personnel of the State's Forest Fire Control organization is now working. It was revealed today by W. C. McCormick, chief of forest fire control, Department of Conservation and Development.

Actually the number of field men responsible for supervising the suppression and combating of fires in this state totals only eleven as the fourteen in the entire personnel include three officials located in the Raleigh office," McCormick stated.

In spite of this severe handicap in supervisory personnel, Division of Forestry records, kept over a period of years, show a steady decrease in the average area burned in counties cooperating with the state in forest fire control.

"In 1934, the average area burned was 89 acres, while in 1937, it had been reduced to 41 acres for

Valera Elected For Third Term By Parliament

Dublin, Ireland, July 21.—(AP)—Eamon de Valera was reelected president of the Irish Free State today by the New Dail, parliament, by a vote of 82 to 52. It will be his third term.

William Cosgrave, opposition leader, vigorously opposed the election, contending the majority of votes cast in the recent general election was against the Valera policies.

The country approved the constitution in election early this month. The Valera party won 69 places in the lower house the same number taken by all the other parties together.

Stroke Fatal For Beaufort Resident

Richard Felton, father of Mrs. L. A. Stroud of Greenville, died at his home in Beaufort early yesterday afternoon after having been in declining health for some time. He had suffered several strokes, the latest being about a week ago.

Funeral services were conducted in Beaufort this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

A life-long resident of Beaufort Mr. Felton was well known in his community and also here, where he had visited Mrs. Stroud. He was a member of the Beaufort Baptist church.

Besides Mrs. Stroud, he is survived by two other daughters, Mrs. Jerald Hill of Beaufort and Mrs. J. B. Jordan of Raleigh, and one son C. V. Felton of Beaufort.

Out of respect for Mr. Felton's family the Quinn-Miller furniture store, of which Mr. Stroud is manager, was closed today.

In the Grant Canyon of Arizona four distinct climatic and plant zones have been produced by the extreme variations in altitude from the canyon floor to the north rim.

The mercury in the thermometer at the official weather bureau station here, operated by B. T. Clark, dropped 26 degrees within less than 24 hours.

The mercury was standing at 74 degrees at 2 o'clock this afternoon, but had been as low as 72 degrees since 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon when it was at 93 degrees.

The 96-degree mark was much lower than had been recorded here within the past week, the mercury having reached 103 degrees.

A drizzling rain, which fell most of the day, almost felt cold after the recent siege of hot weather.

Report Erroneous Nazi Ship Halted

London, July 21.—(AP)—The British admiralty announced today a practice cargo dropped by the Destroyer Wolfhound to signal a British submarine off Portland while a German U-Boat passed nearby led to erroneous reports the German boat had been halted.

The (British) press association had quoted informed sources that the German submarine U-27 was detected off Britain's naval base at Portland Monday night, that the Wolfhound had ordered her to the surface, questioned the commander and then permitted her to proceed.

U.S. Business Men In Tientsin, China, Aid Regular Army

Infantry Stands By To Defend American Concessions

(By Associated Press) The 15th United States infantry stood by under full war packs at Tientsin today to defend the American concession if Sino-Japanese fighting is carried into the city.

While tension between China and Japan brought new fighting in the North China area, American business men at Tientsin organized a company, started to drill and selected squads to build fortifications.

Taking a grave view of the situation, the U. S. consulate had asked the company be formed to reinforce the regular army garrison.

Besides protecting American interests in the city the Fifteenth Infantry was ordered to keep open the eastern seaport of Chinwangtao.

What observers believed was a determination by Japanese to wipe out positions held by the thirty-seventh Chinese division in the Peiping area and a decision to attack other strategic points, also led British, French and Italian authorities to prepare protections for their nationals.

The Japanese commander south of Peiping threatened "another and more deadly blow against the Chinese."

Japanese destroyed Chinese barracks.

FOES TO DRAFT PROPOSAL FOR LOWER COURTS

Judicial Reorganization Opponents To Offer Compromise

NOT TO AFFECT SUPREME COURT

Announcement Made By Wheeler Following Conference With Vice President

Washington, July 21.—(AP)—Senator Wheeler, (D-Mont.), after a conference with Vice-President Garner, today said opponents of the Roosevelt court bill would draft a compromise dealing only with the lower courts and submit it to the administration. Supreme court enlargement would not be involved.

The significant conference between Garner and Wheeler took place in the Montana senator's office at the same time Sen. Barkley of Kentucky, the new Democratic leader, and Senator Harrison of Mississippi, his defeated opponent were at the White House at luncheon with the President.

After his conference with Garner, Wheeler said he was going to call opponents of the court bill together to "see if we can work out a proposal" for reform in the lower courts, "and submit it to the administration for their consideration."

Earlier reports of a possible drastic modification of the administration's court measure spread among senators simultaneously with the selection of Barkley to be the new Democratic leader.

Wheeler's statement was the first hint that the foes of the bill would submit an alternative for the presidential program.

Foes said meanwhile administration leaders had agreed to lay aside the pending court bill until next week to give them a chance to work out another bill. Later, they said it would be decided whether to send the administration's bill back to the committee or make the substitution on the floor.

Wheeler told reporters flatly there was no doubt his group had enough votes to recommit the present bill. He served notice they would agree to no compromise which would increase the size of the supreme court.

The opposition leader said his group was willing to work out some reform legislation for the lower courts, to speed action and permit direct appeal to the supreme court in constitutional cases.

N. C. Probation Director To Go Slow On New Work

Reflector Bureau By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, July 21.—Director of Probation Harry Sample, a young Asheville attorney who has just started on his new job, fully realized that it is a big job and that the success of the new probation experiment soon to be tried in North Carolina under his supervision, depends upon the kind of organization that is built up.

He also believes that it is going to pay to proceed slowly at first.

"I am convinced that there is a real need for this probation work in North Carolina and that if it is properly administered it will not only help thousands of young men and women who have made a mis-step get back on the right path without having to go to prison, but will also save the state thousands of dollars a year now expended in maintaining prisoners," Sample said. "For the purpose of this new probation division is different from the parole commission in that it is designed to help persons charged with crimes before they are sent to prison by giving them a chance to go straight by putting them on probation, while the parole office is concerned only with persons after they have been sent to prison.

"The judges will decide, of course who will be placed on probation, and may call on the probation officers to make an investigation of any defendant before he or she is tried, to determine whether or not the defendant should be placed on probation. It will then be the duty of the probation officers to keep a close check on each person placed on probation and make regular reports to the judge. If at any time the person on probation fails to live up to the terms of the probation agreement and to maintain the standard of good behavior required, it will be the duty of the probation

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE NERVAUD

SYNOPSIS: Fire destroys Kay Crandon's Lazy Nine ranch house and barn. Josh Hastings, owner of the Flying Six, tries to buy her ranch and court Kay. She hates him and is determined to keep her ranch and rebuild. Ted Gaylor, a puncher she impulsively hired, fights Scrap Johnson, a cow-hand who molested Kay. They shoot it out, wounding each other. Hastings finds them unconscious and kills Scrap with Ted's gun. Ted crawls to a shack where a girl named Marion nurses him through a feverish week. The gun is found and Sheriff Farley arrests Ted. Kay goes alone to the shooting scene at the central divide.

Chapter 31

Jealous Misery

TURNING back, Kay paced out the distance from the water to the spot where Scrap Johnson's body had been found. Then she searched the ground between with minute care.

Her eye suddenly caught a gleam in a small clump of grass. Pulling it aside, she picked up a steel nail head, of the type that is used to stud belts and gauntlets.

She knew that because so many people had milled over the spot, her find was of little value, but Kay slipped it into her pocket, and went on with her search.

Standing up and stretching to relieve her muscles of this strained what they were saying, but it was obviously an enraging talk.

Bright points of light flickered before Kay's eyes and a strange buzzing sounded in her ears as she gazed, as though petrified, at the unsuspecting couple before her.

Tom Runyon's words, describing Ted's fight at Kelly's, came back to her: "He won't mind boasting about it to the black haired beauty he was fighting for!"

So, it was true, then! All that time that they had been riding back in the sunset, with the pressure of his arms tightening about her, had seemed the expression of the emotion she had thought was sweeping over them both, his thoughts had really been on another girl! And the first minute he could, instead of coming back to Kay as he had promised, he had gone to her rival.

A stifled sob broke out in spite of her, and Kay saw the girl inside raise her head in sudden inquiry, and listen.

Kay shrank back from the window, and ran into the grove of pine trees that half circled the cabin. Panting as though she had been running a long distance, she bit her lower lip, and stood with her hand pressed against her heart, as she peered out.

The next instant, the willowy figure of the dark haired girl appeared on the steps of the cabin. She stood for a moment in a listening attitude, and Kay had an position, Kay suddenly noticed that the sun was sinking in the west. She glanced at her watch and saw that it was after four o'clock, and she hadn't yet followed the stream southeast.

She decided impulsively to take a chance on getting out of the mountains before dark. The trail was so well defined that there was small danger of getting lost, and now that she was here, it was foolish not to study every possible phase of the situation.

Starting along the water's edge, she came after a hundred yards or so, to such thick brush that she almost decided to turn back. As she peered ahead, however, she noticed several twigs that had been snapped off short, and pushed on with a fast beating heart.

Her excitement quickened as she thought she saw more evidences that someone had penetrated the brush fairly recently. Although it seemed impossible that any wounded man could have made such rough going, she persevered, and finally reached the clearing.

The old prospector's cabin stood at the end of it, deserted and forlorn, with its sagging boards and dark background of pines.

Giving way to curiosity that this relic of the past raised in her, Kay determined to investigate. The intense silence, broken only by the gentle rustling of the tree tops, led her to steal forward on tiptoe, so as not to disturb the magic hush. She noisily crossed the clearing and stopped for a moment at the boarded up window, before going around to the door. Cupping her hands about her face, she put her eye to a crack.

The Black Haired Beauty

KAY managed to stifle the amazed gasp that escaped her at the extraordinary sight that met her eyes, but she stood rooted to the spot, gazing with hypnotic incredulity at what she saw.

Her heart beat in uneven, suffocating jerks, and a blaze of color flooded in her cheeks.

Stretched on the cot, somewhat pale, but evidently all right, considering the animated way in which he was talking, Ted reclined, his head half turned from her toward a dark haired girl who sat beside him, with her hand feebly laid on his.

Kay couldn't hear a word of opportunity to take in her oval face, with its rather sad but sweet expression, and the transparent whiteness of her skin against the glossy black hair that dipped in soft waves on her forehead. In a moment she vanished inside.

One More Look

IMPELLED by a wild surge of emotion that was stronger than anything she had ever felt in her life before, Kay could not resist creeping back to the window for one more look. It couldn't be true! She must have dreamed this nightmare!

Hardly recognizing herself in the grip of the jealous misery that possessed her, Kay watched Marion's smile as she held her hand on Ted's forehead. Then, as she turned and moved over to the tiny stove, Kay shrank away and ran quietly back across the clearing.

She blindly pushed her way through the thick underbrush that separated her from the spot where she had left Flicker, her mind seething with inarticulate thoughts, and tumultuous emotions. She was incapable of consecutive thought, her one intelligible idea being to get away, as fast as she could, and never let anyone know what she had seen.

Forcing her way on with relentless energy, she at last came out on the grassy space that surrounded the head waters. The sluggish water that had seemed so mysterious and wonderful in the sunlight, looked dark and sinister in the fading twilight. A few streams of color from the afterglow of the sunset still streaked the sky, but the faint gleam of a planet and one or two stars told of the near approach of night.

Still animated by her wild desire to get away, Kay felt, without consciously noticing it, the changed aspect of the place, and a shudder ran over her, as she reached Flicker and prepared to mount.

As she swung into the saddle, her eye caught the fatal spot where Scrap Johnson's body had been found. Her overwrought nerves caused an involuntary cry. She gave Flicker a touch of her heel, and they raced through the narrow pass and pointed down the trail at a headlong pace.

Length Of Fall Evening Skirts Still Await Word From Paris

A DEBATABLE HEMLINE

The length of evening skirts in fall and winter fashions still is problematical. Some fashion scouts think shorter skirts, or ones with uneven hemlines, as launched by Paris last season, may have an influence. But American women, accustomed to the flattering effect of long skirts, are afraid of the shorter line. This frock of deep green faille, reminiscent of those in midseason shows, has a full skirt with a hem 10 inches from the floor.

ACT INCLUDES MOST SCHOOLS

Beauty Culture Establishments Under Compensation

Raleigh, July 21.—Most of the 31 schools of beauty culture in North Carolina, of which 21 are for white people and 10 for Negroes, come under the provisions of the State Unemployment Compensation Act. A recent official interpretation of the act indicates, it was announced today by Chairman Charles G. Powell of the commission.

In the case in which the official opinion and interpretation was based, a school of beauty culture with five employees and a beauty shop with three employees, were owned and operated by the same firm, bringing the total number of persons employed in both enterprises to more than eight, thus bringing the employees of both shops under the unemployment compensation act. This act requires that any employer of eight or more persons comes under the act and the employer must make regular monthly payments to the state unemployment fund.

Still another phase was brought into the decision, relating to advanced pupils who receive pay for their work in beauty schools while still students. Under the state law, a school of beauty culture may be operated, provided it is approved by the state board of cosmetic art examiners. To become a licensed beauty shop operator, a student must attend an approved school for Real tony folks have taken up drinking Our Family's Whiskey now!

You can't hardly set your foot inside of a store but what you hear folks asking for Our Family's Whiskey, and commenting on how mild and tasty it is. But here's a funny thing. Some way or another I never saw the real tony folks asking for it up until only just lately. Tom says they couldn't help but of heard how this is the personal recipe of our Family and how we've been a family of distillers since way back in the early days. But Tom says maybe they had their mind set on paying a lot for their whiskey, and Our Family's Whiskey didn't cost them enough. Well anyway, they've caught on now—and I say the more the merrier!

480 hours and after completing 300 hours of this work, student operators may charge for the work done, half of this charge going to the student and half to the school.

Accordingly, the official opinion holds that if the number of advanced pupils, who are entitled to charge for the work they do and the number of regular employees amounts to or exceeds the number of eight, then the operator of the beauty school must, under the law, make contributions to the state unemployment commission based upon the amount which the student operators receive for their work, in addition to the amount based on the wages of the regular full-time employees. Thus if a beauty school had four regular employees and four advanced student operators who receive pay for their work, it comes under the unemployment compensation law.

Obituary: Court actions point the road back for vaudeville, with burlesque having its teeth pulled, and the glamor-houses of 42nd street being stripped of their nudes and made ready for the comeback of hoofers. That excited chatter you hear, like a swarm of parrots in a jungle glade, is just the elated chirping of hundreds of vaudeville actors, stranded these many seasons, dusting up for the old five-a-day!

Check-up and comment: With George Gershwin in gone, who are our modern composers whose music has a chance to become classics? Off hand, I would name two—Jerome Kerns and Vincent Youmans. Ironically Youmans' greatest success came through failure. He wrote "Great Day," a show that was a complete flop, yet the score contained a dozen numbers which, individually, were gems. The best known, perhaps, is "Without a Song." Kerns, too, is out in the blue. Unrecorded by the acid of years, his "Show Boat" score has long since entered the classical lists.

$29 ahead for the day

As he went on to describe his winning "system" the maid informed him his office was on the wire. "Bill," cried the voice at the other end, "I've been trying to reach you all afternoon. There was a quick re-write on a radio sketch which would have paid you $200. You could have done it in an hour but we couldn't wait; we gave it to someone else."

Naturally, Keefe is no longer jubilant. Minus his $29 gain, he gloomily realizes that he is the loser by $196. Moral: develop intuition and stay home on the days people call!

Our true story for today: In the early 50's in a maker of hats. He is able to open one hole in the dead of night or the middle of the day he receives frantic requests from people to help them open their clothes. You know, a shirt that is a "clothes press" a man unable to open his trunk, etc.

Finally came a call from a beauty salon and there was a great deal of good natural exasperation in the proprietor's voice as she urged him to hurry. "There is a lady here here and something is the matter with the zipper on her corset," she explained. "And we can't do a thing with it."

Hurrying over, he found the patron in an annoyed state of mind. But she wasn't half so annoyed as he was surprised. The woman with the offending zipper was his ex-wife—whom he hadn't seen in three years!

HITTING THE NAIL ON THE THUMB

Robinson Goes To His Last Resting Place

In a downpour of rain, the body of Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas was lowered into the grave in Roselawn Memorial park in Little Rock. Members of his family can be seen seated at the side while attendants slowly and silently let the casket descend. The senator's widow, veiled in black, sits third from the right.

our problem in the light of experience in other states." Director Sample said. "For probation is essentially a problem of human rehabilitation. Our job is going to be to take men and women, chiefly young men, who through some careless or thoughtless act are on the very threshold of prison and give them a chance to reform and get right" without having to go to prison and get the stigma that attaches to having been a prisoner, no matter how short the sentence.

"As a result, we are going to try to select district probation officers who will have a friendly, helpful attitude towards those placed on probation and who will take a personal interest in the probationers and encourage them to come to them for help and advice. For in this way we believe we can best help those on probation get back on their feet, regain confidence in themselves and win back their self-respect."

When the probation system gets into full operation, which may require a year or more, it should greatly reduce the prison population and thus reduce the cost of maintaining the prison division. Sample pointed out. For a large percentage of the younger first offenders will be placed on probation instead of being sent to prison, as at present.
For until the law goes into effect
October 1, judges will have no discretion than to try defendants and sentence them to prison when convicted. But after that date the judges can place them on probation.

The new probation law does not go into effect until October 1, with the result that Director Sample is going to spend most of the time between now and that date studying the probation system used by the Federal government and in the 30 other states which have started probation systems. He is planning to go to Washington within the next week or so to study the Federal probation set-up, which is a division of the Department of Justice. Later on he expects to visit some of the states regarded as having very successful probation systems. He expects to have the groundwork of his organization laid and most of the district probation officers selected by October 1.

MARTINS GAIN ON BILLIES

Williamston, July 21.—Williamston's Martins slugged a 10-6 victory over Snow Hill's Coastal Plain leaders yesterday and cut to three games the Greene county boys lead in first place.

The win was gained at the expense of Emil Zak, high man among the league's hurlers. A five-run party in the fifth chased Zak and put the Martins in front by 7-6. And they stayed ahead, topping off their victory with three runs in the eighth verse—on Ave Villepleque's homer with two aboard.

The Ace's homer produced the only scores made against Vincent Ventura, who relieved Zak with one wavy in the fourth. Ventura hurled 3-hit ball.

The Billies were sporting a 6 to 1 lead when Art Houser's Martins came to bat in the fifth. Zak passed Villenotte and Stanley and Steve's tripled. Deim walked and Victoris tripled. Fields, Martins relief hurler, singled tallying Victoria and sent out Zak.

Snow Hill had a big inning, too—the third. The Billies made four tallies in this verse and chased Jefferson starting chunker for the locals. A walk to Robinson an infield out. Bistoff's single, and an error let in the first tally. A hit batsman, a wild pitch, Harry Soufas' double, and singles by Rabb and Zak counted three more.

Fields was effective as a relief chunker. The Billies made one one against his hurling—and this came as a result of a walk, an error and an infield out.

Two of the Billies were forced out of action. Horse Newburn, second-sacker had to leave the scene after an injury in a collision with Bruce McCav of the Martins; Dietrich Wall was chased by Ummire Park Phinehard for discarding the pitcher's glove on a close play on Wall at first base.

Don Victoria, Williamston best-ston collected a triple and two singles for a perfect day.

SNAKES WHIP BUGS

Goldstoro, July 21.—Tarboro's Serpents extended their advantage over Clarence Roper's Goldsboro Bugs in a battle for third place by counting a 6-2 win yesterday afternoon behind Malone's steady hurling. Malone fanned seven.

The clubs were separated by only one percentage point before yesterday's game; the result gave the Serpents a full-game lead over the Bugs.

Lefty Flora toiled on the mound for the Bugs and he matched Malone with one-run flinching for five innings. Tarboro scored in the first. Myers homered on the third pitch of the game. The Bugs tallied in the fourth on Muser's single, a sacrifice, an infield out, and Charlie Gadd's single.

The Serpents sewed up the contest with a quartet of scores in the sixth, and Malone sarked the big boys by cracking a two-bagger. Myers' infield nap was played unskillfully in an effort to catch Malone. Carnahan's single filled the bases, and a walk to Ware forced in a run. Tatum's outfield fly tallied Myers. Henry's single scored Carnahan, and Ware came home on the way-off end of a delayed steal. Ware tallied while Maisano and Ignasiak were getting Henry in a run-down.

An error gave Tarboro a run in the seventh. Goldsboro scored in the sixth as a result of Dirrman's triple and Balla's single.

Leading hitters were Tarboro's George Rimmer and Goldsboro's Charlie Gadd. Each hit two for three.

EARLY DOPE ON TAR HEEL TEAM

Prospects for Football Team About Same As In 1936

The prospects for the 1937 University of North Carolina football team are about the same as they were in 1936, may be just a bit better.

Nine lettermen will be lost by graduation. They are Captain Dick Buck and Buck McCann, ends; John Trimpey, tackle; Van Webb and Charlie McIver, guards; Dick Dashiell, quarterback; Wallie Dunham and Bobbie Stewart, halfbacks and Jim Hutchins, fullback.

The absence of Buck will be most keenly felt. There are fair replacements for Trimpey, McIver, Webb and Hutchins. Coach Ray Wolf's chief problems will be to develop capable guards, and tackles and to fill Buck's post at left end.

Junior lettermen of 1936 coming up for their final year of competition are the brilliant Andy Bershak, end, who made the Associated Press' second All-American team this past season; Henry Bartos, a tackle; Ed Palmer and Bruce Smith, guards; Pete Avery, center; Crowell Little, quarter; Tom Burnette, half-back; and Art Ditt, fullback.

Sophomore lettermen of 1936 returning are Steve Maronic, guard; Rob Adams, center; and George Watson, halfback. Tony Cermule a 1936 sophomore, who gave much promise at halfback before he was injured early last season and lost to the squad then, will also be back.

The best freshman prospects from the 1936 team include Ed Hubbard and Ed Meason, tackles; Ernest Vallencourt, end; George Radman, George Sternweiss, and Alfred Corver, backs.

The Carolina eleven should be fairly strong at most of the posts. The Tar Heels should have slightly better in reserve strength next fall.

The freshman team last season was one of the weakest in several years. The boys on the squad were comparatively small, light and inexperienced. The team beat Virginia and Wake Forest but lost to Duke, William and Mary and State.

1937 Football Schedule.

Sept. 25.—South Carolina at Chapel Hill.
Oct. 2.—N. C. State at Raleigh.
Oct. 9.—N. Y. U. at New York.
Oct. 16.—Wake Forest at Wake Forest.
Oct. 23.—Tulane at Chapel Hill.
Oct. 30.—Northham at Chapel Hill.
Nov. 6.—Davidson at Davidson.
Nov. 13.—Wake at Durham.
Nov. 25.—Virginia at Chapel Hill.

State 6, North Carolina 26, Davidson 6, North Carolina 7, Duke 27, North Carolina 14, S. C. 0, North Carolina 59, Virginia 14, Raymond (Bear) Wolf is head football coach at the University of North Carolina. He is a graduate of Texas Christian University (27) where he starred in baseball and football. At the time he resided in 1936 to come to North Carolina, he was serving as varsity football line coach, head baseball coach, and athletic director at T. C. U. This will be his second season as head football coach at North Carolina.

His first team here last year lost only to Tulane and Duke. Coach Wolf's chief assistants are Johnny Vaught, T.O.U., 33, line coach; and Bill Lange, Wittenberg, 31, backfield coach. North Carolina will have co-captains for 1937: Andy Bershak, end, and Crowell Little, quarterback. Bershak as named on the Associated Press' second All-American last fall and is generally rated as one of the greatest ends in the country. Little was noted chiefly for his abilities to put returning and broken field running. The University is a member of the Southern Conference.

Visits City

O. B. Keeler, world's best known golf authority, looked over the Greenville Country club golf course yesterday afternoon and described it as one of the best he had ever seen. Because of lack of time Mr. Keeler was unable to play a round.

SPORT WRITER VISITOR HERE

O. B. Keeler Has High Praises for Local Golf Course

O. B. Keeler, noted golf writer, was a visitor at the Greenville Country club yesterday and described the local course as "one of the best little courses I have ever seen."

Mr. Keeler is making a tour of North Carolina, gathering material for a book on North Carolina golf. He is the world's best known golf authority.

He has covered more major tournaments than any other golf writer in America, including eighteen United States opens, seventeen United States amateurs, eleven United States women's championships, three United States professional championships, three British opens, two British amateurs and one British Women's championship and six Walker cup matches. These make a grand total of sixty-one major golf events, and do not include more than a hundred state and sectional tournaments.

He traveled 120,000 miles with Bobby Jones, attending twenty-seven major championships with him in this country and abroad and is the only person in the world who saw him win all thirteen of his national titles.

Keeler has written golf for thirty years and once had a stretch of fifteen years in which the American Golfer, then the game's standard organ, was not without an article by him. He also has sold golf articles to Saturday Evening Post, Collier's Liberty, American Post, Collier's National Golf Review and in five years did five hundred golf articles for the Associated Press as features.

Keeler obtained the only golf interview ever given by the Duke of Windsor when he was Prince of Wales.

He was co-author with Bobby Jones of "Down the Fairway" and "Goodbye to Golf" and himself wrote "Autobiography of an Average Golfer" and "Boys' Life of Bobby Jones."

LAWYERS LOSE CLOSE BATTLE

Defeated by Carolina Sales in Extra Inning Game

The Carolina Sales softball team won a hard-fought victory over the Lawyers yesterday afternoon, eking out an extra-inning victory 9-8.

The game was tied up most of the way and it looked as if the Lawyers were well on their way to victory in the first half of the seventh when Charles Wheedbee hit a long one which got away from the fielder and he came home, but the hit was ruled a two-sacker on ground rules, and he was never able to reach the home plate.

The Carolina Sales team was unable to score in their half of the seventh and the game went into an extra inning. The Lawyers were held SCORELESS IN THEIR HALF OF THE EXTRA FRAME, BUT CAROLINA SALES PUSHED A RUN OVER TO BREAK THE TIE AND WIN THE GAME.

On Monday afternoon Coburn Shoe Co. team lost to Person-Garrett, 20-10, although the shoe men outthit the tobacconists, 14-10. Errors on the part of the shoe men accounted in part for their loss. '00, the tobacconists got hits when hits meant runs. Adams and Evans hits homers for Person-Garrett, while Gardner and Edmonds got three out of four trips to lead for the shoemen. Edmonds hit triple, double and single.

Sport Slants

Ray Billows is likely to have something to say about where the national amateur crown will rest after the wearer is decided in Portland next month.

Ray has his heart set on winning a place on the Walker cup team, which will compete against British amateurs in England next year. He figures the best way to reserve such a berth is to win the title now held by Johnny Fischer.

Billows' recent spurge in winning the Sweetser Victory tournament, over the 72-hole medal play route with a sparkling 283, stamped him a threat. That 283 is every impressive when one stops to consider it was made on the famous Winged Foot course where Bobby Jones took exactly 11 more strokes to win the U. S. Open in 1929.

Ray came from nowhere a couple of years ago to win the New York state amateur title on the Winged Foot course from a fine field. He won quite a following with his sparkling game and as many friends with his color. Someone dubbed him the Cinderella Boy, because he came to the tournament in a battered old fiver and without sufficient funds to hire a caddy.

He takes his game seriously enough, but the mysteries and theories of the golf swing mean little to him.

"As long as I manage to keep the club face in line with the hole in the act of hitting, I do all right," he insists.

N. Y. Stock Market
New York, July 21.—(AP)—Carriers and specialties showed stamina in the face of declines of fractions to a point or more in other sectors of the stock market today. Shares received without outward show of emotion the news Senator Barkley of Kentucky had won by a close vote Democratic leadership of the senate. He is regarded in Wall street as President Roosevelt's choice for the post.
Bonds were narrow and transfers approximated 950,000 shares.
