JAPAN CEASES SHIPMENTS OF WAR MATERIAL

ORD'R EFFECTIVE UPON ISSUANCE

Important Secret Report on Sino-Japanese Situation Sent by Charge d'Affaires

Tokyo, July 22.—(AP)—The war office was reliably reported today to have issued orders indefinitely suspending the delivery of huge orders of war supplies and halting the shipment of such equipment to North China.

Although the meaning of this move in the tense Sino-Japanese situation was not immediately apparent, some observers interpreted it as an indication of peace, rather than war, was visible on the horizon after two weeks clouded by threat of open hostilities.

The order suspending the delivery of war necessities was understood to have been issued about mid-afternoon and immediately put into effect by the firms which have been turning out quantities of supplies for the Japanese army in North China.

A Domei (Japanese) news agency dispatch from Nanking declared a Japanese charge d'affaires had sent an important secret report on the situation to Tokyo. No hint of its contents was given.

Cochi, Japanese army officer, who arrived by airplane from North China, warned Japan would be unable to settle the North China dispute by agreements with local Chinese authorities.

Japan, he declared, must deal directly and strenuously with the Nanking (Central) Chinese government.

Renew Probe Into Disappearance Of New York Justice

Investigation of Seven Year Old Mystery Re-Opened Following Supposed Statement

New York, July 22.—(AP)—Seven year old, still as baffling as the day it happened, and fast becoming an almost legendary mystery of New York police annals, the disappearance of Supreme Court Justice Joseph Crater was a live problem again today.

Amidst a new outburst of theories that the justice disappeared voluntarily, was slain by robbers, was murdered by politicians and committed suicide, New York police reopened their investigation of what happened to him after he got into a taxi cab in Times Square on the night of August 6, 1930.

The inquiry was launched by John Lyons, assistant chief inspector in charge of detectives, on order of Acting Police Commissioner Harold Fowler after a New York newspaper (the World-Telegram) published an interview with the missing jurist's wife, Mrs. Stella Crater quoting her as charging her husband was murdered in connection with his political career and that New York police were "inefficient" in their original investigation.

Mrs. Crater, located at her summer home at Belgrade Lakes, Maine, testified last night she had mentioned "murder" and she had criticized police but the new investigation was on.

Mrs. Crater said she believed her husband is dead.

Ford Co. Attempts Disprove Charges

Detroit, July 22.—(AP)—The Ford Motor company, overruled in its move to obtain dismissal of a National Labor Relations Board complaint charging unfair labor practices, started its attempt to disprove the allegations today.

Its first witnesses at the NLRB hearing was Arthur Ozlie, Detroit news reporter, who testified he was with Harry Bennett, Ford personnel director, from 12:30 p. m. until 3 on May 26, the day United Automobile Workers Organizers were beaten and chased away from gates of Ford's Dearborn plant.

The NLRB complaint charged the Ford company instigated "brutal and malicious assaults" on the organizers.

Police Captain Matt Leach witnesses the signing. Mrs. Botts received a full pardon.

PROPOSES U. S. STATE OFFERS TAKE PROBLEM NEW EVIDENCE

Suggests Britain Hand Over Mandate as to Palestine

London, July 22.—(AP)—Geoffrey Mander, liberal member of parliament, proposed today Great Britain hand over to the United States its mandate over Palestine, Jewish homeland.

Mander gave written notice he would ask Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain Tuesday whether, "in view of the British government's unwillingness to administer its mandate for Palestine," the prime minister will "consider the advisability of proposing to the League of Nations that it should be offered to the United States."

The British plan to parcel Palestine between Arabs and Jews was subtracked in the House of Commons in a compromise vote after long and bitter debate.

A delay which would permit further study of the plan, before final parliamentary action, submitting it meanwhile to the League of Nations, was decided upon in a rising vote by the chamber. It drew general support of the house.

The number of those in favor of the plan was so great no count was taken.

Large gallery crowds watched the crossfire of argument. Some laborites asserted the petition would give Italy a foothold in the holy land.

"The guns which have been sent to the Arabs by Mussolini to fight the Jews might be sent in the future to fight someone else," declared Laborite D. Frankel.

Gasoline Trust Concerned Over Personnel Of Board

Reflector Bureau. By J. C. BASKERVILL. Raleigh, July 22.—The gasoline and oil "trust" is greatly concerned over the forthcoming appointment of the new Gasoline and Oil Inspection Board, created by the 1937 general assembly and which Governor Clyde R. Hoey is expected to name within the near future, it was reliably learned here today.

The big gasoline and oil companies are understood to be making a very strong effort to see that at least one gasoline and oil man who will be friendly to them is named on this board and reports are to the effect that quiet but very persistent pressure is being brought to bear upon Governor Hoey, insisting that one of the three appointive members of the new board is a professional gasoline and oil man.

Under the law, Governor Hoey must appoint three members of the board, while the other two members will be the Commissioner of

REBEL TROOPS SEEK TO BREAK DEFENSE LINES

Hammer Strenuously For Stranglehold West of Capital

EFFORT TIGHTEN SIEGE OF MADRID

Spanish Government Spokesmen Claim Recent Insurgent Losses of 10,000

Madrid, July 22.—(AP)—General Francisco Franco's warriors fought strenuously today for a stranglehold at the neck of the government's salient into the middle of the insurgent siege lines west of Madrid.

At the same time they hammered at the government's spearhead salient east of Villanueva de la Canada in a furious struggle to hold tight the eight and half-months old siege of the capital.

In the Villanueva de la Canada sector, some 15 miles west of the city, Franco's men held dominant positions on "Peak 660" which they swept clean of government troops for a third time last night.

A few miles to the north insurgent infantrymen drove hard against the government's eastern and western flanks at the mouth of the "pocket," slashed southward into Franco's rear guard position more than two weeks ago.

At the tip of the government's salient insurgent forces tried to level a path to Brunete to wipe out that government outpost, from which General Jose Miaja, central front commander, threatened to complete encirclement of siege forces entrenched on the outskirts of Madrid.

Miaja's aides estimated insurgent losses, dead and wounded, in the recent Madrid fighting, at 10,000.

Smith corroborated for the most part the testimony of his wife, Julia Smith, who preceded him on the stand this morning.

Julia said she saw Paul Williams and the elder Paul "boxing" or "tussling" April 4, 1936, and the three "went down to the ground but only two arose."

She said later in the day when work in the fields was finished, young Paul and Williams removed the farm tools and guano from a wagon and drove it toward the spot where the tussling occurred.

Adam Smith said he peeped into the wagon as it passed his house and saw the object which he said rolled over as the wagon rounded a curve. He said young Paul Williams and Paul's daughter, Tootles, were riding on the wagon.

Julia testified Pete Krochmalny asked her April 3 to rent him a room and quoted him as saying he wanted "to put a man in it."

She admitted on cross-examination her husband and Pete "once had had some trouble."

The State charges Pete, his son, the younger Paul, and Williams, Pete's son-in-law, slew the elder Paul 16 months ago so they could keep $1,160 in money orders he got for selling his Toledo, Ohio, home.

Mrs. Mattie Rives Succumbs at Home Of Her Daughter

Funeral Services to be Conducted at Wilkeson's Funeral Home at 3 o'clock Tomorrow Afternoon

Mrs. Mattie Tyson Rives, 69, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. O. Skpper, in Wilmington, this morning at 9 o'clock after several months of critical illness.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the S. G. Wikerson & Sons Funeral Home by Rev. T. M. Grant, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church. Interment will be in the family burial ground near the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. A. Forbes, on the Falkland highway.

Mrs. Rives is survived by four daughters: Mrs. A. A. Forbes, Greenville; Mrs. H. O. Skpper, Wilmington; Mrs. Sidney Sanders, St. Petersburg, Fla.; and Mrs. Anne Rives, of Iowa; three sons: John G. Rives, Colerain; Arch Rives, Wilmington; and Vernon Rives, New York City. Twelve grandchildren and three great-grandchildren also survive.

Mrs. Rives was born in Pitt county, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arch Tyson. In 1884 she was married to John G. Rives, who died about fifteen years ago. She was a member of the Methodist church.

Barkley Wins Party Leadership By One Vote

By a one-vote margin of 38 to 37 Senator Alden W. Barkley of Kentucky was elected Democratic leader in the senate, succeeding the late Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas. One of the first to reach his side after the election was the defeated candidate, Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi. Smiling broadly, Harrison (right) is shown pledging his support to Barkley.

CITY SCHOOLS OPEN SEPT. 6TH

Several New Teachers Employed For 1937-38 Session

J. H. Rose, superintendent of the Greenville school system, announced today the 1937-38 session would open on Monday, September 6, and declared that four new teachers would be employed, practically completing the roster for the term.

Durwood Stowe, who was graduated from East Carolina Teachers college, this year, has been secured as a teacher athletic director, succeeding Reynolds May, herman.

Mr. Rose said it was hoped that Stowe could be employed for 12 months each year and put on a summer program of outdoor physical education. He said it was hoped a permanent physical educational and athletic program could be maintained for the Greenville schools.

Miss Ruth Blanchard of Greenville has been employed to teach the fourth grade in the Third street school. She succeeds the former Miss Dixie Taylor, who recently married E. R. Walcott of Candler.

Miss Mae Joyner of Farmville, who has been teaching in the Greensboro city schools, will take over the fifth grade here, also in the Third street school, succeeding Mrs. A. B. Corey, who resigned. Miss Joyner also is a director of music and is expected to undertake much of this work.

Miss Laura Bell, who has been heading the commercial department of the Hugh Morson high school in Raleigh, will have charge of that department here. She will succeed Miss Willie Ruby Blackburn, who resigned.

Mr. Rose declared that the maintenance men have been busy throughout the summer making minor repairs and preparing in general for the new school year.

Air Labor Charge In Morehead City

Morehead City, July 22.—(AP)—A National Labor Relations board hearing of charges against the Regal Shirt company plant opened here today.

The charges were filed by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, a CIO affiliate, a few months ago and an investigation was made by Bennet Schaeffler of Baltimore, the board's regional director.

Schaeffler reported he found indications of attempts by business men and Morehead City officials to promote an employees' association, which the union charged was company dominated, through the city officials.

Schaeffler charged the company caused the plant to be closed indefinitely because a number of employees were union men and the action, he alleged, was an attempt to discourage collective bargaining.

The plant employs 200 to 300 workers.

Meet to Consider Suggestions On Tobacco Control

Washington, July 22.—(AP)—The committee of tobacco state representatives in congress called a meeting late today to receive a suggested draft of tobacco control legislation from AAA officials.

AAA attorneys have been working for a week or more on the proposed draft at the request of the tobacco states group. After its final form has been decided upon, the representatives expect to push for action on the bill before adjournment of congress.

MANY DECLARE IRWIN IS SANE

Associates During Stay in Cleveland Express Opinions

Cleveland, July 22.—(AP)—Robert Irwin, confessed triple slayer, was described as apparently sane by associates during his 83-day stay in Cleveland, detectives George Showers and John Walsh said today.

The detectives aided Assistant District Attorney Louis Capozzoli and Police Lieut. John Moffitt, New York, in questioning persons who knew him as a hotel bar boy here.

The statements will be used as rebuttal against the insanity plea which Irwin's counsel, Samuel Liebowitz, is expected to make in the trial for the killing of Veronica Geedon, her mother and a roomer in the New York apartment, police said.

Bible Courses Lack Teachers. Austin, Tex. (AP)—Texas public schools give credit for Bible study but can't supply teachers and materials for the course.

Two Negroes who were scheduled to die in the lethal gas chamber in Central Prison Friday will walk the "last mile" to the small octagonal room from which none ever emerges alive while the third will escape death as a result of a commutation to life imprisonment granted today by Governor Clyde R. Hoey. It was announced this morning by Commissioner of Prisons Edwin Gill.

The Negro whose death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment is Albertus Sylvester Grier, 27 years old, from Mecklenburg county, who was convicted of killing Waddell Mackie, another Negro, in a fight over a girl. Both Governor Hoey and Commissioner Gill felt that there was some doubt as to whether Grier was really guilty of first degree murder, since the evidence of premeditation was rather limited.

CLUE FOUND IN WEBSTER CASE

Detectives Investigate Story of Street Car Motorman

Providence, R. I., July 22.—(AP)—Following a faint trail in the Webster murder mystery, detectives today investigated the story of a street car motorman that he picked up a ruddy-faced man a short time after George Webster was mortally wounded in his home.

The motorman, Patrick Mills, said he picked up the man within walking distance of Webster's home and near the spot where a boy found a box of cartridges for a gun of the same calibre as the weapon with which Webster was slain last Friday.

The inquiry turned from Boston to Pawtucket as metropolitan police revealed they quickly had abandoned the theory three men sought for a jewel robbery had any connection with the Webster slaying.

Police said the motorman told them his only passenger got off at the Pawtucket-Providence city line. The box of cartridges from which three were missing was found by 12-year-old John Hanly, Jr., beneath a porch not far from the street corner at which the motorman said his unknown passenger boarded the street car about 20 minutes after Webster phoned police from his home to say he had been shot.

Imprisonment of 98 years was decreed late yesterday for Wright by the tenth tribunal to return a guilty verdict in the six year old case.

SENATE VOTES RECOMMIT ACT TO COMMITTEE

Action Regarded As Certain Death For Measure

REQUEST MADE BY COMMITTEE

Vice President Garner, With Tears in His Eyes, Sounds Plea For Settlement

Washington, July 22.—(AP)—The senate virtually killed President Roosevelt's court enlargement program today for this congressional session.

It voted to send the administration court bill back to its judiciary committee.

Washington, July 22.—(AP)—The senate judiciary committee voted in a dramatic session today to ask the senate to shelve the Roosevelt court bill and order a new measure dealing only with the lower courts.

The committee, with the opposition in complete control, turned aside temporarily while an alternate was drafted.

It decided instead to ask the senate to send the pending bill back to it. There were only two or three dissenting votes.

The action was taken, committee members said, after Vice-President Garner had pleaded with tears in his eyes for settlement of the bitter dispute which threatened to split the Democratic party wide open.

There was some disagreement among committee members as to whether administration spokesmen present agreed to the plan. Some opponents of the bill said they had other plans that they had not.

It was generally conceded, however, that the plan would prevail in the senate late today.

Under the proposal agreed upon by the committee the senate would return the Roosevelt bill to the committee with instruction to report within 10 days a new measure dealing only with the lower courts.

Elsewhere in Washington, however, the LaPollette Civil Liberties committee said Chicago police used "excessive force" and showed "the most careless indifference to human life and suffering" in breaking up a Memorial Day demonstration of steel strike sympathizers.

The senate enacted over President Roosevelt's veto a measure to extend "emergency" interest rates on farm loans.

Aged S. C. Justice Claimed By Death

Florence, S. C., July 22.—(AP)—Judge S. W. G. Shipp, dean of South Carolina's circuit court judges, died at a hospital here today.

He was 76 years old. Judge Shipp was brought to the hospital last Friday from his summer home at Ocean Drive beach in a serious condition after a heart attack. His condition was reported improved yesterday, but this morning he became suddenly worse and died at 8:30 a. m.

Funeral plans were not made immediately.

The justice had served on the bench since February 20, 1908. He had previously practiced law in Florence.

He was born in 1860 at Chapel Hill, N. C., where his father, the Rev. A. M. Shipp, D.D., was a member of the University of North Carolina faculty.

WHEN IN DOUBT, THEY SEND FOR MAYOR HUMPHREY

Patch Grove, Wis. (AP)—If it's a civic problem, a birth, a family fight, illness or approaching death, the residents of Patch Grove have one solution—Call Mrs. Humphrey.

Mrs. Evert Humphrey is about everything to Patch Grove. She is serving her fourth term as mayor; as practical nurse she has attended the birth of most of the residents for two generations; she has settled squabbles and listened to the last words of the dying.

"I helped them into the world, try to make them behave while they are here and help them out," Mrs. Humphrey says.

A new couple moved into Patch Grove recently. Neighbors heard them fighting and called Mayor Humphrey. She waded right in, told the husband, "you can't beat your wife in this town while I am mayor," and that was that.

Mrs. Humphrey has just celebrated her 35th wedding anniversary. She serves on the county board of supervisors, is secretary of the local parent-teacher organization and runs a boarding house.

LOBLOLLY PINE REAPS RETURN

Farmer Makes Money on Land Devoted to Production

Raleigh, July 22.—Loblolly pines grown on farm land valued as high as $50 an acre are paying the owner a good return on his investment, said R. W. Graeber, of State College.

He was referring to a tract of pines on the farm of D. F. Jarman in Lenoir county where a demonstration is being conducted in timber-thinning and forest management.

Jarman secured seven cords of wood per acre in thinning the tract so the remaining trees would have a better chance to grow.

After deducting 75 cents a cord for harvesting and $16.40 per acre for the taxes paid during the 20 years the pines have been growing, he figures a profit of $6.35 an acre.

By including the value of the timber left standing on the land, Jarman estimates that the tract had produced an annual profit of $5.36 per acre during the past 20 years.

This makes an annual return of 10.7 per cent on land valued at $50 an acre, Graeber pointed out.

Land valued at $10 and $15 an acre in eastern North Carolina is also growing heavy crops of timber and on such land the return on the investment is two to three times as great, he added.

He also pointed out that on Jarman's tract, if the trees now growing are harvested later for lumber, poles, piling or other material more valuable than fuel wood, the return per acre may be higher in the future.

How's Your Health?

Edited for the New York Academy of Medicine
By Dr. Lago Goldstein

To the tune of a radio and the beaming voice of the "exercise man," some men of 50 and over jump out of bed upon waking and go through a routine of contortions good for the young man, but rather hazardous to those whose arteries are something of unknown quality.

These early morning exercises of 50 and over were discussed by Dr. Maurice Boigey recently before the Paris Academy of Medicine. He advises them to rise more leisurely.

During sleep, blood pressure is lowered, the pulse is slowed and there is a general sluggishness of the blood. At the moment of awakening there is a rise in blood pressure. To allow the body to adjust itself to the higher blood tone, Dr. Boigey advises 20 minutes of post-waking rest in bed. Then the individual should rise and put on a bathrobe or other suitable covering to avoid being chilled. He may then proceed with his morning exercises.

These should include various movements of the head, neck, shoulders, arms and legs. The exercise should be gentle and slow. All of these exercises, Dr. Boigey urges, should be taken in the vertical, not the horizontal position.

He particularly disavows that form of exercise in which the individual lies down and draws his thighs and legs against his abdomen. Physiologic studies have shown that this type of exercise causes an increased blood tension in the cerebral arteries and in the presence of pathologic changes may induce a cerebral accident.

Dr. Boigey also disapproves exercises which bring the head below the waist line. Such movements have a congestive effect on the brain.

The doctor suggests that those over 50 should take their setting up exercises between 4 and 6 p. m. He reasons that at this time of the day the older individual's organic temperature, muscular strength and general vitality are at their best. Incidentally, exercise during these hours might also be advised for sedentary workers.

URGES AGAINST DRESS PARADE

Advices Women Not To Dress Up For Farm, Home Week

Raleigh, July 22.—Please don't come dressed "fit to kill," Miss Ruth Current of State College is urging rural women planning to attend Farm and Home week here, August 2-6.

"Serviceable dresses you can have a good time in are best for an occasion of this kind, and we don't want you to be worrying about your clothes," she continued.

A pretty afternoon dress, however, will be nice for the garden party Thursday afternoon, she added, "but please don't buy a fine, new dress for this affair."

Women attending the convention will be entertained at tea Tuesday afternoon in the Governor's mansion by Mrs. Clyde R. Hoey, "but she wants you to wear the same dress you plan to wear at the garden party," Miss Current added.

A little print dress, voile, or anything of cotton, will be most appropriate, she said, but not of a silk dress or a long, "dress up" gown.

People planning to stay in the college dormitories during the week, Miss Current went on, should bring two sheets, a thin blanket, towels, soap, tooth brush, bathing suit, comfortable shoes, and other necessary personal effects.

Valuable articles should be left at home, as there may be danger of losing them during the convention, she said.

Meals will be served at low cost.

in the college cafeteria. Rooms in the dormitories will be free as long as they last. Additional rooms will be available at Meredith college for 50 cents a day.

TO APPEAL FOR COLLEGE FUND

Methodist Churches to Request Aid For Louisburg

Louisburg, July 22.—Louisburg College and its appeal for help will be the subject of every sermon, discussion and study group in every one of the 700 Methodist churches in eastern and central North Carolina, Sunday, July 25th.

This occasion, which will be known as Louisburg College Day, will mark the time when the college will go before all of the churches in the North Carolina Methodist conference to present its case and ask for help in a time of critical emergency in the life of the institution.

Louisburg is asking for $100,000 immediately with which to wipe out its present indebtedness and to make certain minimum necessary repairs and additions. Unless its old indebtedness can be wiped out by the first of the year the college will most probably have to close its doors and hand the keys over to the creditors.

Sunday, July 25th marks the culmination of eight weeks of intensive effort throughout the length and breadth of this part of the state to set up general and local organizations, to inform all sections and parts of the conference and to get everything in readiness for the concerted appeal on this Sunday.

Local canvassing groups in all the churches will begin their work in earnest Sunday and will make their first report on Sunday, August 1st, one week afterwards. On Sunday, August 8th the Forward Movement Program will come officially to a close and that day throughout the conference a Thanksgiving Service will be held and the day will be known as Victory Sunday.

Cooperative Game Management Gets Results In State

Considerable Benefit Realized From Movement Undertaken for State-Federal Refuges

Reflector Bureau

Raleigh, July 22.—Cooperative game management in State-Federal game refuges by the State Department of Conservation and Development and the U. S. Forest Service, has reached a high degree of perfection and is obtaining most satisfactory results in western North Carolina, J. D. Chalk, Commissioner of Game and Inland Fisheries, said today.

"The state has realized considerable benefit from this cooperative management program," Commissioner Chalk said. "The present Mt. Mitchell State Game refuge has been extended from 16,000 acres of land and 37 miles of streams to include some 25,000 acres and 87 miles of fishing waters. The Fires Creek refuge, only recently established, is located in Clay county and contains 17,000 acres of land and 20 miles of streams. The Nantahala refuge, also in Clay county, contains 32,000 acres and 55 miles of fishing streams. The Wayah Bald refuge now contains 33,000 acres and Sherwood Forest refuge, 35,000 acres, and it is contemplated that the old Daniel Boone refuge will be extended to cover 45,000 acres."

"These areas are being operated jointly by the Department of Conservation and Development and the U. S. Forest Service. The purpose of the refuges is for them to serve as reservoirs to supply native wildlife to rehabilitate depleted game areas, and to aid in maintaining the supply of game in well stocked areas."

"Controlled fishing has been permitted through the present fishing season, and has apparently worked to the satisfaction of the department and the U. S. Forest Service. It is expected that controlled hunting will be permitted in the areas whenever the supply of wildlife becomes sufficiently abundant to permit it," Commissioner Chalk said.

Chinese Open Door at Last to Ice Cream

Shanghai, China (AP)—"Barbaric food." That's what ice cream was here only 10 years ago. Now, the Chinese have a word for it.

Most of China has hot summers and part of the country is semi-tropical, but the Chinese always have served tea hot no matter what the temperature, and Chinese chow is serving steaming.

When Americans began to sell ice cream, the Chinese were afraid to taste it. Then a few students, returning from American schools, brought back freezers and to the surprise of their families ate the frozen stuff and lived. Gradually the conservative members of their families were won over although most of them melted ice cream before eating it. Now ice cream is sold all over the country.

DOG NOT WANTED

Independence, Kan. (AP)—A dog has adopted the Independence fire department. Nip, owned by Mrs. Virgil Tatum, insists on spending his time around the station. Whenever firemen take the dog home, he beats them back. When they lock him out, he spends the night near the door. Firemen want to know how they can "unadopt" themselves.

Main Street Hunter Bags Coyote

Helena, Mont. (AP)—When 12-year-old John Stuphen chooses to hunt coyotes, he picks one of Helena's main streets—and brings 'em in alive.

John saw a coyote slinking by his home. He gave chase.

Finally the coyote found himself cornered in a small space between a garage and a fence. John stood guard at the only opening, until a neighbor arrived with a blanket.

John grabbed it, made a neat tackle and draped the blanket over the coyote's head.

He built a kennel. Now the coyote is a family pet.

Beaten By Muzzle

Folkstone, England (AP)—Ready to race in the Maidenstone Plate, Epicure was recalled from the starting post because his jockey omitted to weigh out with the horse's muzzle.

"Killed" By Kindness

Durban (AP)—Aberdeen football team, touring South Africa, has a grievance. Paddy Travers, manager, says the hospitality is too good and the players are feted everywhere they go.

In our cost for dependable insurance, there is no charge for experience—and experience plays an important part in dependable insurance. The benefits are yours.

Who Said This Was a Free Country?

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE NERVAUD

SYNOPSIS: Fire destroys Kay Crandon's Lazy Nine ranch house and barn. Josh Hastings, owner of the Flying Six, tries to buy her ranch and court Kay. She hates him and is determined to keep her ranch and rebuild. Ted Gaynor, a puncher she impulsively hires, fights Scrap Johnson, a cowhand who molested Kay. They shoot it out, wounding each other. Hastings finds them unconscious and kills Scrap with Ted's gun. Ted crawls to a shack where a girl named Marion nurses him. The gun is found and Sheriff Farley hunts Ted. Kay finds the shack, sees Ted and Marion together and rides off in jealous agony.

Chapter 32

Unconscious Betrayal

REALIZING the suicidal chances she was taking, but refusing to heed them, Kay urged Flicker on, in obedience to the compelling desire for speed that possessed her.

Relief at knowing Ted was safe and not badly hurt was completely overshadowed by her frustrated sense of loss. Her feeling was none the less bitter for her violent self disgust. Fool that she had been, to let herself care for a man who had obviously just been playing with her!

Probably Ted had been flattering her, and kidding her along just the way she did Tom Runyon! And she had taken it all seriously, and allowed herself to dream about him, and imagine all sorts of vague and delightful future possibilities.

"Thank goodness that's all over, Flicker!" She declared fiercely, finding relief in voicing her torturing thoughts out loud. "I've got to measure now and I'll never think for murder if they want to!" She broke off with a horrified sob. "No, no! I don't mean that!"

She pulled Flicker in as they came to a sharp curve in the trail and started up a steep rise. Flicker stopped gratefully, but stood blowing and stirring restively, as though the contagion of his mistress's mood had spread to him, setting every nerve a quiver.

Twilight was almost gone, Kay noticed, coming out of her concentration on her inner feeling to a startled realization of the present. She must at least get down across the valley between the two ridges before night overtook her. Forging the stream that raced her, fording the two ridges was no easy thing in full daylight, and to attempt it in the dark would be an insane risk.

"What do we care, Flicker?" Kay demanded rebelliously, in answer to her thought. She gave Flicker a sharp click of her heel, and urged him up the slope, then headed down again at a break-neck pace that was even more perilous than before, in the half light.

Suddenly Flicker stumbled and almost pitched headlong, but recovered in response to Kay's steady pull on the reins. Before he was able to come to a halt on the steep descent, a large rock, loosened from the cliff above them, clattered down at his feet.

This proved the last straw for Flicker's strained and quivering nerves. With a terrified bound sideways, he plunged and went down on his knees, pitching Kay over his head onto the rocky trail.

Scrambling to his feet, Flicker jumped over the prostrate form lying motionless in the trail before him, and raced on in a mad rush of terror.

Tom Considers Matrimony

FOR some time after Kay left him, Tom Runyon watched her as she threaded her way along the trail.

"Some girl!" he observed aloud with an admiring appraisal of the perfect poise of her lithe figure on Flicker's back. "The first girl I've seen in a long time that I reckon would be a good bet to corral into matrimony!"

He watched for Kay's reappearance around a curve in the trail, and added complacently, "Yes, sir-ee! I've a good mind to make her Mrs. Tom Runyon, damned if I haven't! I could go a heap farther and fare worse. Even if her ranch house is burnt down, she's got a pretty nice piece of property here," he went on, ruminating aloud. "And she's some looker into the bargain!"

Turning away, as Kay at last passed out of sight, Tom Runyon went back to where he had left his horse, a smile of fatuous satisfaction on his face. He never doubted Kay's acquiescence to the flattering prospects he was entertaining of her future, as he went on to plan his campaign to win her hand.

"Looks like she's kind of stuck on this Gaynor guy," he confided to his mount, as he headed down the trail. "But I reckon he's pretty well out of the picture now. And if he isn't, I can soon fix that up!"

He gave a conceited chuckle, then went on with his soliloquy. "All's fair in love and war! As soon as I get off tomorrow, I'll go up the way she asked me to, and then I'll hightail it over to the Lazy Nine with my findings! And oh, boy, they'll be some findings!"

Planning to stick around on the chance of seeing Kay on her way back, Tom Runyon spent a good part of the afternoon on the look-out for her, as well as scanning the ridge for a telltale smoke column.

Ever since he had come to patrol this region, the fires had ceased. Today was the first glimpse of smoke he had had, and he grinned with a satisfied memory of the cause of it.

"Reckon that firebug isn't taking any chances now he knows I'm on the job," he observed, as he drew his mount in on a promontory of rock that gave a good view of the trail that Kay would soon be descending. "I've half a mind to ride back with that little red head and pop the question, now!"

After impatiently waiting an hour or more, Tom Runyon's good humor began to be strained. He had not wanted to take a chance of missing Kay by going back to his camp to get a bite of supper, and the pang of hunger were decidedly affecting his temper.

The sun dipped behind the central divide, and the afterglow flamed across the sky, but no Kay appeared on the distant trail.

Anxiety finally got the better of Tom's ill temper, and he decided to ride on and meet her. As the twilight deepened, he found himself headed down the west slope of the eastern divide. By the time he reached the stream at its foot, it was nearly dark.

Pulling his mount in, he weighed in his mind the possible causes of Kay's delay. There was the chance, of course, that she had headed along the ridge, after coming through the pass, instead of coming back this way at all.

If that was the case, it would be a crazy wild goose chase to go up the central divide at night looking for her. The harvest moon could still be depended on to light up the last half of the night, but he didn't relish the idea of following up Kay's trail by dark if she was already safely back at the Lazy Nine.

In Flicker's Wake

A DISTANT clatter of hoofs brought him out of his musing to alert attention. With puckered brow, he listened intently, and as the sounds came nearer, he let out a puzzled oath. Kay surely wouldn't be crazy enough to take the trail at that pace, even if she was trying to beat the gathering darkness.

Putting spurs to his horse, Tom forced him into the dark waters of the stream, and made his way across, just in time to meet Flicker, wild-eyed and riderless, racing toward him. Flicker wheeled abruptly at the sight of the horse and rider waiting to block his path, and whirled to one side, but Tom Runyon rode him down, and grabbed the bit. With wary skill, he checked his plunging, and at last brought him to a quivering halt.

Tom was sure now that something had happened to Kay. He lost no time in tying Flicker to a tree beside the stream, and took the trail at a run. He figured that Kay must have been thrown at least a quarter of a mile up the trail, before he could have heard Flicker's hoofbeats. He pushed on at full speed, trusting his mount to find his footing in the dark that now enveloped them.

After covering the distance that he judged Flicker had covered from the moment when he had first heard him, Tom pulled his horse in and proceeded more cautiously. He called Kay's name from time to time, and listened anxiously for some response.

His horse plunged with a sudden snort and refused to go on. Tom swung to the ground, ran up the trail and dropped on his knees beside Kay's prostrate form.

Pulling out his pocket flash, he examined the ugly cut on her head, and felt for her heart. It was stronger than he had dared to hope, and her pulse had a reassuring beat.

Tom lifted her head on his knee and chafed her hands in the hope of reviving her sufficiently to get her back with more ease than if she were a dead, unconscious weight.

After a few minutes, she stirred restlessly, shifting her head and muttering. Tom Runyon bent close to hear what she was saying, and a grim satisfaction spread over his face as he caught her words.

"What cabin?" he prompted gently.

"The cabin by the clearing," Kay moaned, unconsciously responding to his question in her delirium. She drifted again into unintelligible mutterings, then exclaimed in clear tones, "The black haired girl! There's a black haired girl!"

"Where is she?" Again Tom's voice seemed to penetrate to her subconscious.

"In the cabin with Ted." A broken sob escaped Kay. "Both of 'em—up there in the cabin." A flicker of triumph gleamed in Tom Runyon's hard eyes. "Never mind," he soothed. "We'll fix that."

Washington Daybook By Preston Grover

Washington—Debate on the Supreme court has offered a grand opportunity for young fellows in congress to display their leadership.

Senator Minton of Indiana, of the class of 1934, glories in the debate and displayed keen ability at that most difficult senatorial feat, the give and take on the floor. It is no kindergarten trick to stand on the floor and fence with a half dozen senators, all packed with information and caustic retorts.

Minton could do it, although seasoned by two years in the senate. At times he did it almost too well and favored his debate with an occasional sub-caliber jibe.

Senator Schwellenbach of Washington occupied a quiet sector during initial stages of debate but got in on some of the heckling. He had received his filibuster training earlier. It was he who organized the "Young Turks" who broke Huey Long's filibuster.

Guffey Besieged Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania, while no youngster in age or politics, is another of the class of 1934 who, like Minton and Schwellenbach, donned his armor to war for the court bill. Guffey waxed scholarly and cited cases and precedents although few before and fewer since suspected him of such deep research into the doings of the court in 150 years past.

But Guffey recognized his limitations in the give and take of debate and prefaced his speech with a warning that he would allow no interruptions while he read his prepared piece. He didn't. But Wheeler of Montana and his cohorts were laying for him when he finished and soon had the Pennsylvanian on the ropes. Ultimately he sat down in the face of a barrage of questions, declining to answer them.

Senator Burke of Nebraska, also of the class of 1934, was the principal "youngster" trying out his mettle on the side of the opposition ranking almost with the senatorial veteran, Wheeler of Montana, in the volume of his attack. But Burke is a kindly soul and parries where he might thrust.

Maverick Warning The shining light among the fighting youngsters in the house is that volatile Texan, Maury Maverick. He grabbed the ball early in the game by tearing off a copy of the court bill as it came from the White House, signing his own name to it and flinging it into the hopper. Since then he has written and spoken for the bill and organized a following. He persistently denounces any assertion that the people are against the measure. Members of congress who oppose the bill he says, won't come back. Incidentally that is a risk any youngster takes in "getting his neck out" on a basic issue such as the court bill. History records that a number of youngsters who went in over their heads for the League of Nations subsequently lost their pants.

In order to meet the competition of the independent dealers, most of the large gasoline companies now are selling what they call a "third grade" gasoline at the same price at which the independent pumps sell their gas and have special discounts for its sale and try to persuade motorists to buy the higher priced gasoline. Most of this is "white" or uncolored gasoline, though sometimes coloring matter is added to it. The independent dealers maintain that the big companies buy the cheapest and poorest "white" gasoline they can get for this purpose and that instead of being a third grade gas, it is really a fifth or sixth grade gas, although they maintain it is of the same grade as is sold by the independents. When the new gasoline and oil inspection board is appointed, it will be the duty of this board to adopt "standards for the various grades of gasoline based upon scientific tests and ratings and for each of the hicles for which inspection is provided, to prescribe the form of label for the various grades of gasoline and to pass all rules and regulations necessary for enforcing the provisions of the laws relating to the transportation and inspection of petroleum products," the new 1937 law directs. The new law further states that "after the adoption and publication of said standards it shall be unlawful to sell or offer for sale or exchange or use in this state any products which do not comply with the standards so adopted."

This means that after standards for the different grades of gasoline are adopted, that every pump must be plainly marked and that the gas from each pump must conform with the standard indicated on it, it is pointed out. This in turn means that the companies which have been selling fifth and sixth grade gasoline as third grade gas, can no longer do this, but must sell better and hence more expensive gasoline. It will also enable the motorist to judge for himself whether this gas is as good as the first grade gasoline sold by the independents. It is generally agreed that this will cost the big gasoline companies hundreds of thousands if not millions of dollars more to handle their "white" gas in competition with the independent dealers, depending upon what standards are adopted for the various grades.

All of which explains why the large companies are said to be so interested in who are selected by the Governor as the three appointive members of the new gasoline and oil inspection board and why reports indicate they are doing everything possible to get one or two members appointed favorable to the oil companies.

Man About Manhattan By George Tucker

New York—An agent of this department who lives in Nyack, reports some weird happenings in that little hamlet on the other side of the Hudson. Nyack is a picturesque village about 30 minutes away where Helen Hayes lives and in the neighborhood where Maxwell Anderson, the playwright, also hides out. Burgess Meredith has a home nearby, too, a very pretty one they say, in the hills within sight of Anderson's abode, which, really, is only a cocoon's throw (if you're John-ny Weissmuller) of the Palisades which became famous as the name of New York's best drama of the year, all Pulitzer Prize awards to the contrary notwithstanding.

Weird happening No. 1: Just as everybody was scurrying about and whipping up breakfast one day last week, a fire broke out and the fire department came a-running. It was a mighty warm morning, discounting the fire, and the firemen began peeling off their raincoats and slickers. They dropped them on the ground, got their anti-blaze apparatus working, and in a jig time had the fire under control. Then they got ready to go back to the fire house. Reaching for their discarded slickers, they were flabbergasted to find them gone. Every single one of them. They haven't found who purloined them yet.

Puzzle No. 2: Our friends, the firemen, are starred in this too. It was another mighty warm day. The humidity was making the people moan, a dull sun blazed down, and everybody had blind staggers. Then a mass of mountainous clouds came rolling out of the east, lightning cracked, thunder rumbled, and the town was pleasantly startled to find a first class electrical storm cracking the heat wave. Smack bang in the middle of it, with tongues of lightning licking up telephone poles and curling around mountain crags, the fire alarm sounded. Out poured the department in its (reserve) raincoats, helmets, battle-axes. The red hook-and-ladder trucks snorted and trembled like cavalry horses sensing battle. "Where's the fire?" somebody inquired. That brought a pause. There seemed something screwy about the signal. Nobody could read it. Then, to the general amazement, it became patent that the signal blasts, when translated into street numbers, meant that the firehouse itself was on fire.

But it wasn't on fire, really. A brief investigation and the answer was clear: lightning, no doubt in a pucky mood, struck the firehouse, but didn't want to really harm anything. So it merely set the gong blasting away. Not even the gong was ruined. All the firemen had to do was turn it off, and go back to their posts, sadly shaking their heads, wondering what strange episode the fates would arrange next.

CRITICS ALL PRAISE "CAPTAINS COURAGEOUS"

In all the leading cities, where the motion picture "Captains Courageous" is being played, the comments have been 99% rave comments. On June 30th the Norfolk Ledger said, "Our choice of the best performance of the screen year is Spencer Tracy, for his performance as Manuel in the memorable "Captains Courageous." Insofar as the picture follows the story, it is as nearly perfect as a talking picture can be." "Captains Courageous" opens a two-day engagement in Greenville at the Pitt Theatre Sunday, July 25th.

A bill authorizing an appropriation of $11,580,000 annually for use in making payments to states for the education of physically handicapped children, has been presented to the senate.

THIMBLE THEATRE (Starring Popeye)

The Poor, Poor Fish; Yes, Those In Water

A party of 16 Greenville residents went on a fishing trip in the Gaff stream about 35 miles off Morehead yesterday afternoon, but members talked today as if their luck was nothing to brag about.

From the way they told the story, many in the party were too weak to pull in a big fish even had they hooked one. Asked if many were overcome with seasickness, one member said it would be easier to name those who did not develop the malady than those who did. And although several doctors were in the party, they were unable to do anything to help their fellow sportsmen. The doctors themselves did not fare so well. Vernon Parish admitted that he vowed he would never leave the city limits—even the old line—if he could just get back home one more time.

Luck did not absolutely desert members of the party, however, several dolphin, cero and mackerel were caught. The party went out in three boats and each group had about the same luck. Those on one boat caught eight dolphin, three cero and a number of mackerel.

Those in the party were Dr. and Mrs. John L. Winstead, Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Garrington of Bethel, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Darden, Dr. N. E. Ward, Vernon Parrish, Warren Parrish, E. L. Baker, George Woodard, R. S. McClure, William Brown, Tom Wilson, Stuart Bowen and Preston Smith.

schedule and whether or not the schedule will be revised for the next two years, due to the fact that the special committee named to study the salary schedule and make recommendations to the entire commission has not finished its work. It was indicated today by Lloyd Griffin, executive secretary of the commission.

"Indications are that most of today's session will be spent in studying the requests for teachers from sub-standard high schools and in the allotting of teachers to these high schools," Griffin said. "There are between 50 and 80 of these small, sub-standard high schools and last week we allotted 114 teachers to them."

There may be some informal discussion of the salary schedule among members of the commission, however, and especially of possible methods of allocating the funds appropriated so that the teachers may as nearly as possible receive a 10 per cent increase in their salary together with their increment in increase for experience and improved certification. For while the 1937 general assembly appropriated enough money to provide for a 10 per cent increase on the lump sum expended last year for instructional service, it did not appropriate enough to provide for a 10 per cent increase on the salary of every teacher and to take care of the increases earned by additional teaching experience and better certification, it is frankly agreed. In fact, present estimates show that the new appropriation is approximately $250,000 short of the amount needed to give every teacher a flat 10 per cent increase and an average experience increment increase of another 3 per cent.

Indications are that the commission is going to let the special committee wrestle with the problem until it has some definite recommendations to make to the commission, after which the commission will take it up.

GREENIES PLAY MARTINS T'DAY

'Stormy Weather' Blocks Two Games In Loop Yesterday

TODAY'S GAMES
Greenville at Williamston.
New Bern at Kinston.
Tarboro at Ayden.
Snow Hill at Goldsboro.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS
Goldsboro 8, Tarboro 1.
New Bern 5, Ayden 3.
Others postponed, rain.

Snow Hill	42	33	640
Williamston	39	26	600
Tarboro	35	29	547
Goldsboro	30	30	545
Ayden	32	32	500
New Bern	30	32	484
Greenville	23	40	395
Kinston	20	45	308

For the second time in as many days the local entry in the Coastal Plain League were washed out by rain. Tuesday's game with Kinston in Kinston was washed out, and yesterday's steady downpour caused the game with the Eagles here to be called off.

The Greenies journey over to the Martin county metropolis today to lock horns with Williamston's runner-up Martins. They return here tomorrow and will play the Martins at Third Street Stadium.

ABBREVIATED OBITUARY
Tarboro, July 22.—Tarboro officials and a handful of home fans made a big mistake yesterday—they erred in believing the Snakes could take Goldsboro's Bugs. Insistence of officials and fans caused the game to be started one hour after the scheduled time—and Pete Kums and the Bugs chalked up a 9-1 victory.

The result put the club back in a virtual tie for third place—even on a "games" basis but with the Snakes ahead by two points in percentage.

It was raining at four o'clock game time—but the customers stuck around. The officials hopefully waited, and the belated opportunity to play was grabbed. But they failed to take Mr. Kums into account. All he did was pitch two-hit ball while his mates were making merry to roll up runs in the five innings reeled off before a resumption of rain ended hostilities.

Tarboro started well enough. Campbell, new outfielder, walked with one away in the first, stole second, and tallied on Jim Tatum's hit by third base. Tarboro thereafter did not get a runner past first and go only three on bases—Solly Myers beat out a bunt in the fifth, and two drew free passes.

Charlie Gadd's single, a walk, and an error gave the Bugs a tally in the second. They scored in each subsequent frame. Ball's single started a three-run third inning. He came around on a sacrifice and Daniels' infield rsv. Ignasiak's double scored Daniels, and Musser's single scored Ignasiak. Ignasiak batted in two runs in the fourth.

BULL BESTS BUTCHER
New Bern, July 22.—Bull Hammons shaded Jim Butcher in a pitching duel here yesterday afternoon to give Doc Smith's Bruins a 5-3 win over Ayden's Aces.

Stuart Flythe's homer in the 8th broke a 3-all tie, and the Bears added a tally in the eighth as a result of Birch Dougllass' single. Smith's sacrifice and Knowles' single. Except for those two tallies, Butcher pitched fine relief ball after succeeding Woodrow Webb with one out in the third frame. Webb had yielded three runs. Butcher fanned 16 batters.

Doc Smith's boys got away fast. Two runs were scored in the first frame—on Bing Miller's single, a sacrifice, Birch Dougllass' double, and Webb's wild throw in an effort to pick Dougllass off second. A pair of walks and a single by Thoele added one in the second.

The Aces did all their scoring in the fifth. A walk, Schuerholz's double, and Jirak's fly scored the first tally. An infield out and an error on Fary's boulder let in Schuerholz. Joyner's Texas Leaguer to center scored Fary.

HO, FOR THE LIFE OF A CONGRESSMAN'S WIFE

Washington (AP)—Here's what the wives of new congressmen do to amuse themselves while their husbands are legislating, as reported by 50 members of the "Seventy-fifth Club" at their final luncheon: 5,000 social calls—an average of 100 each.

One won a poetry contest. Another wrote a daily column for a newspaper. One completed an art course. Six learned to ride horseback. Five studied archery.

Library Permits Smoking
Marysville, Calif. — (AP)—This town's public library is one of the few where smoking is permitted. A room where men may enjoy their tobacco was set aside at the request of John Quackenbos Packard, pioneer merchant, who presented the building.

Strikes Zooming in Japan
Tokyo (AP)—Strikes and labor disputes are increasing alarmingly in Japan. Home office statistics show in the first five months of this year controversies totalled 1,229 against some 700 for the corresponding period last year. It is noticeable that in recent labor disputes employers have been more ready than before to make concessions and labor rarely has resorted to violence.

The scheduled series of international match races between the Italian-owned Muscletone and E. J. Baker's Greyhound is the tipoff on the great strides trotting has made in its comeback to popular favor.

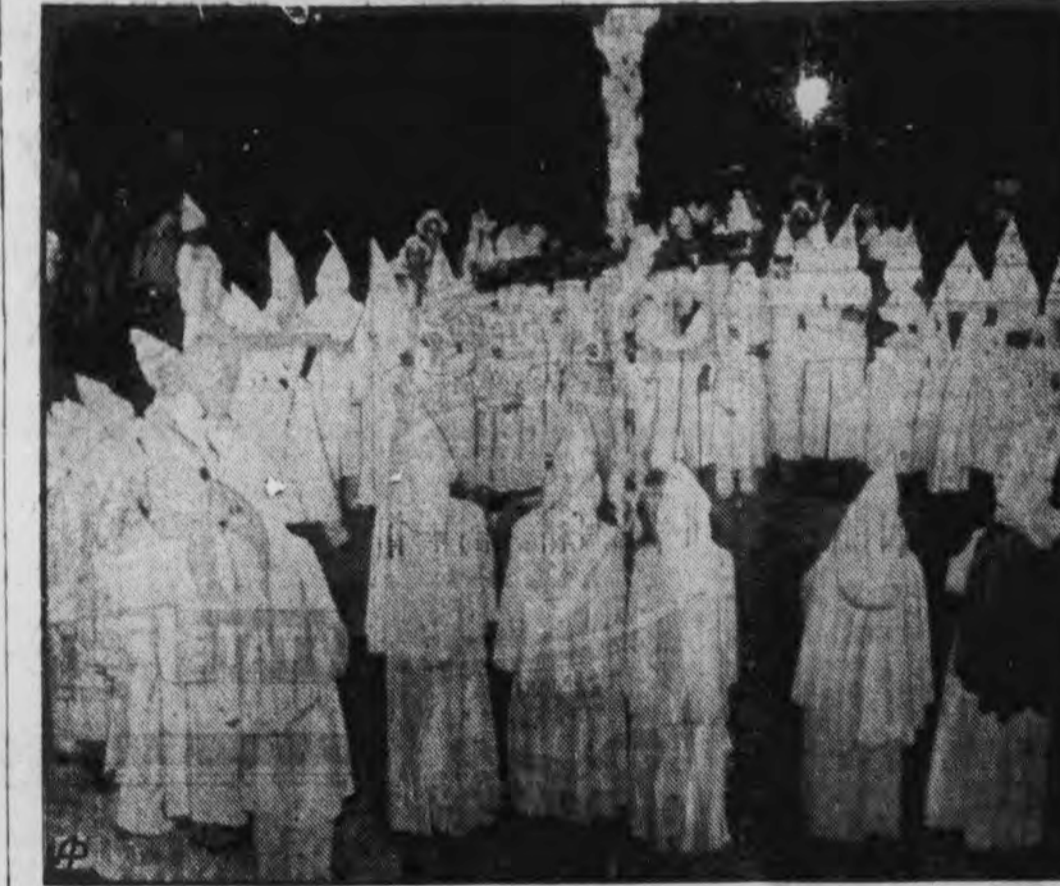

These races are probably the first of their kind ever arranged for trotters. The plan is to bring Muscletone over from Italy for a brush with Greyhound, and later to stage a return race on Italian soil. The horses will race for a minimum guarantee of $10,000, to say nothing of the sizable side bets.

Muscletone is an American bred and trained trotter. He was shipped to Italy in 1934 after placing second (behind Lord Jim) in the Hambletonian. His owner is listed as Givo Malano, but it is whispered about that Mussolini has more than a rooting interest in the trotter.

As a 3-year-old, Muscletone established a mark of 2:02, but reports from Europe say the horse has improved greatly since then. He is regarded abroad as every bit as fast as Greyhound, who set his mark at 1:57 1/4 as a 4-year-old last summer. Clockers abroad have timed Muscletone over the mile route at 1:57 and 1:58, indicating he belongs in Greyhound's class.

There seems little doubt as to Greyhound's ability to hold up his end of the argument. The grey ghost made a show of the field in the 1935 Hambletonian and established himself as one of the great trotters of all time.

MONK JOYNER LEADS HITTERS

Aces' Skipper Leading Coastal Loop By 26 Points

Ayden's Monk Joyner still is top man among Coastal Plain League hitters—and the latest averages give the former Wake Forest athlete a 26-point margin over the runner-up, Snow Hill's Aaron Robinson.

Averages released yesterday by J. Caskill McDaniel of New Bern League statistician, credit Joyner with a 394 batting percentage for games through Sunday, July 18. Monk picked up five points during last week.

Robinson and New Bern's Glenn Mullinax were tied for second place—at 368—in averages announced last week. Another week of play failed to move Robby from that mark, but Mully dropped to 363 and third place.

A newcomer to the front rank of Coastal Plain hitters is Wroctek. Kinston outfielder, Wroctek has 352 for 16 games.

Players with averages of 295 or better—and who have been at bat 50 or more times—for the period ending with games of July 18:

Japan Forges An Empire Without Resort To 'War'

By WILLIAM MCGAFFIN
(AP Feature Service Writer)
Japanese shells whistle over Peiping, China — and worried world leaders wonder if land-hungry Nippon has started a new thrust for empire.

True, there was no declaration of war. Just a sham battle that turned suddenly into a real one. But then, with few exceptions, Japan has never had to declare war to win her aims.

It took a war with Russia in 1904-1905 to clear the way for Japan to acquire Korea. Russia had been her rival for "spheres of influence" in that country and adjacent areas. With the czar's power in the Orient broken, there was none to stop the Nipponese absorption of the "hermit kingdom."

Manchuria taken in 1931. The Korean annexation which became effective in 1910 gave the Japanese a footing on the mainland — and the march of empire had begun.

In 1931 Manchuria was the victim. First, economic penetration paved the way. Then Japan attacked Chinese troops after accusing them of cutting the southern Manchurian railway. Thus the art of making war without declaring it was born. The city of Mukden was occupied September 18, 1931, "Young Marshal" Chang Manchuria's war lord, was deposed and a new nation, named Manchoukuo, was set up. Henry Pu-Yi, erstwhile "Boy Emperor of China" and now Emperor Kang Teh, was made ruler of the puppet state.

Many Chinese still blame Butcherly We, a motion picture star, for Manchuria's downfall. Chang was reported to be with her in Peiping at the time of the Mukden clash.

Fuse to Shanghai Incident
The Manchurian coup led to Japan's withdrawal from the League of Nations after a League investigating committee upheld China's protests. Japan announced herself the guardian of the peace of the Far East, refused to give up her mandates over a group of Pacific islands which she got from Germany after the World war, and denounced the 5-5-3 naval ratio treaty with Great Britain and America, claiming instead the right to naval equality.

The Manchurian coup, too, was the fuse which fired the famous Shanghai incident of 1932. Although the attack on Shanghai was one of the most spectacular moves Japan ever made, it was a punitive rather than a land-grabbing expedition.

A cry over the loss of Manchuria, Chinese in Shanghai had boycotted Japanese goods. Anti-Japanese riots flared. Several Japanese died in street fighting. So Japan plunged into another undeclared war to teach China a lesson.

Japanese blue-jackets led a surprise attack on the Chinese quarter of the city January 28, 1932. But Chinese resistance was so stiff the Japanese army had to aid the navy. Bombs were dropped by the plane load. An armistice finally was signed May 5, ending one invasion that brought Japan no material gains.

'Bandit Hunts'
It was a more profitable adven-

MARCH OF EMPIRE

Japan got Formosa out of the Chino-Japanese war of 1894-95, the Kwangtung peninsula and Korea from the Russo-Japanese war of 1904-05, then won Manchoukuo and Jehol from China by wars in fact but not in name. Now she has launched an attack on Peiping and experts believe her ultimate goal is the five northern provinces shown on map.

ture in February, 1933. On a "bandit hunt" Japanese and Manchoukuo soldiers swept across the province of Jehol and added it to Kang Teh's realm.

Chinese bandits were again the whipping boys when Japan started another sweep westward in April, 1935, this time with the North China province of Chahar as the goal. More force was used in 1936, along with the subtler weapons of economics and politics. Home rule movements began in Chahar and four adjoining provinces — Shan-tung, Suiyuan, Shansi and Hopei — but have been only partially successful.

Now comes the drive on Peiping, principal city of Hopei.

Japan, experts have said, will not rest until it brings all of the five northern provinces under its control. There's a long way to go yet.
