Death Sentences Decried For Two In Disease Plot

Insurgent Military Court Orders French Citizens Executed SPANISH VESSEL RAKED BY FIRE

Two Government Tankers Also Shelled by Submarines, But Continue Trip

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier, July 30.—(AP)—Spanish insurgent authorities announced late today that a military court had quickly condemned to death two Frenchmen charged with plotting to spread disease over insurgent territory.

However, General Francisco Franco was reported to have ordered sentences stayed until an international commission could review alleged evidence of an international plot to loose typhoid and sleeping sickness germs behind insurgent lines.

French officials said they had received no formal information on the alleged plot, although insurgents said all world capitals, as well as the League of Nations, would be notified.

(By the Associated Press) Charges that international plotters sought to cause disease epidemics in insurgent Spain were put before General Francisco Franco's military court today with two Frenchmen on trial for their lives.

The two Frenchmen, also charged with espionage, were arrested in the north. The insurgents said they smuggled their disease germs across the border. The trial was at Famploana.

A member of the French chamber of deputies whose name was similar to one announced by the insurgents as part of the plot said he had never heard of the two men on trial.

In a Spanish war itself two unidentified submarines rose out of French waters to take a Spanish government freighter with gun fire and left her blazing with 23 officers and men missing.

Captain Castel, who reached shore near Nimes, France, in a small boat with ten of his crew, described how the submarines appeared one on each side and for 23 minutes pounded the vessel.

The ship, the Audus-Mendi, was en route for Marseilles to take a load of coal.

Two government tankers were also shelled by submarines but were able to continue for Valencia.

C. W. Shuff, manager of the Imperial Tobacco company, announced today the stemming department of the plant would start operations on Monday of next week.

TWO EXECUTED AT N.C. PRISON

Wake County Negro Dies For Assaulting Negress

Raleigh, July 30.—Thomas Perry, 23-year-old Wake county Negro and A. W. Watson, 21-year-old native of Athens, Ga., died by gas at state's prison in the two quickest asphyxiations on record here.

Perry was convicted of ravishing a Negress at Wake Forest and prison officials said he was the first Negro to die for attacking a member of his own race since Walter Morrison of Robeson county died as the first victim of electrocution in 1910.

Watson died for the robbery-murder of Thomas Holliday, a filling station attendant in Martin county, but contended to the end though he participated in the crime he did not do the killing.

Gas was administered Perry for nine minutes and 29 seconds and Watson for eight minutes and 58 seconds.

Sheriff Ray Hoover of Cabarrus county collapsed in the witness room while watching Watson executed.

"That was horrible, horrible to me, boys," he commented to other witnesses who helped him out. A moment later he collapsed again, falling on a pile of rocks and nail-studded boards. He was not hurt and appeared all right a few minutes later.

Watson's body was claimed by his father, W. B. Watson, of R. F. D. No. 1, Watkinsonville, Ga., and Perry's by his brother in Wake county.

This morning Watson asked to see Sheriff C. B. Roebuck, who arrested him in Martin county. The sheriff went to his cell as soon as he arrived here.

"He told me he was ready to go, was a little nervous but was a happier man than I am," the sheriff said later. "He told me that his story was true, that he kept the attention of the man they robbed, but that his companion hit him with the hammer. He said I had been good to him; more like a father than an officer."

Ayden Postmaster Gets Appointment

W. E. Hooks, Ayden postmaster and former Greenville publisher, was re-appointed a member of the board of trustees of the State Hospital for the Insane at Goldsboro, yesterday by Governor Hoye.

Mr. Hooks was named along with five other old members and three new members. Other old members re-appointed were Graham Woodard of Wilson, W. A. Dees of Goldsboro, C. P. Aycock of Pantego, Knox Johnston of Knoxville and J. Dixon Phillips of Lenoir.

Dr. John D. Robinson of Wallace was appointed to succeed Dr. W. B. Murphy, who died a few weeks ago; D. D. French of Lumberton was named to replace Culler Moore, now dead of the liquor commission; and Dr. W. P. Holt, Jr., was named to fill a long standing vacancy.

Georgia Markets, Tobacco's Harbingers, Open

South Georgia tobacco markets usually considered the harbingers of price trends in other states, opened their annual selling season with brisk trading and prices reported "good" for first sales. Here are typical seasons in the belt as auctions got under way. Left, Auctioneer E. R. Meador opens sales in one of the numerous warehouses (center) filled to the brim with stacks of golden leaf. Right, Farmer J. D. McLelland, his pockets bulging with money from his sales, quaffs a refreshing drink before going on a shopping tour.

VESSEL BURNS OFF MARYLAND

All But Four of 96 Passengers and Crew Reach Land Safely

Baltimore, July 30.—(AP)—All but four of the 96 passengers and crew driven by flames from the liner City of Baltimore in a night of horror on Chesapeake Bay reached land today with tales of amazing rescues.

Of the four, not counted among the survivors, two were known dead and two unaccounted for.

The dead: J. R. Pollock, an Aiken, S. C. lawyer, an unidentified member of the crew.

The missing: A. Paige, a passenger, address unknown. Cy Haynie, an oiler.

The liner, sliding down the bay to Norfolk burst into a floating furnace 14 miles below Baltimore.

Flames, passengers said, roared from the lower holds and within three minutes after the first alarm had wrapped two thirds of the boat in flames.

The passengers, most of whom were at dinner, scurried to the rail many clutching their napkins. Others tumbled from state rooms.

Two miles away resort residents rushed down to the water's edge, hghast at the horror before them. Boats went out from the beaches and fishing craft near the liner hurried toward her.

Additional Course To Be Offered By ECTC Next Term

Students to be Given Opportunity to Major in Physical Education Work at local College

East Carolina Teachers College will offer a major, leading to the A. B. degree in physical education, beginning with the fall term, 1937.

Although physical education has been taught since the opening of the college, this will be the first time students will have the opportunity to major in this work.

The college is making this addition to its course of study to meet a widespread demand for trained teachers in this field. Students have been requesting an opportunity to major in physical education for several years, and public school officials have shown much interest in this work; they want teachers of physical education both in grammar and high schools and supervisors of playgrounds.

Official Figures Show High Prices

Tabulations On a Score of Georgia Tobacco Markets Reveal Opening Day Average Between 26 and 39 Cents

Douglas, Ga., July 30.—(AP)—Buyers and sellers of tobacco met again today in Georgia and Florida markets after brisk opening day business which saw hundreds of thousands of pounds sold at prices described as "good."

Official tabulation of sales and prices at nearly a score of southern Georgia and northern Florida markets were incomplete today while tons of the golden weed remained on floors of the sheds and more came in by the minute.

Unofficial estimates placed yesterday's opening quotations at between 26 and 39 cents a pound with the poorer grades selling for less. The highest price of the day was reported from Hazlehurst, where some of the best grades brought 64 cents a pound.

The only state official venturing a comment on price was J. W. Sikes, of the Georgia State Bureau of Markets, and he said the opening middle grades were "slightly higher than last year."

Reports from some of the larger markets on the opening day's business follow: Valdosta, 594,476 pounds sold, averaged 24.21 cents a pound.

Hahira, 266,940 pounds, averaged 27.35. Waycross, 296,869 pounds, averaged 27.30.

Pelham, 285,782 pounds, averaged 24.21. Tifton, 692,520 pounds, averaged 24.78.

Adel, 318,924 pounds, averaged 27.19. Douglas, 625,000 pounds, averaged 25.66.

Johnson To Begin Felt Very Little Duties At Prison Realized Through On September 1st Johnston Meeting

Oscar Pitts, Acting Director at Present Time, Expected to be Re-tained as Superintendent

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, July 30.—As has been expected for several days, Robert J. Johnson of Raleigh and Burgess, member of the State Highway commission from the Third division, will become director of the prison division September 1.

The announcement of Johnson's acceptance of the appointment was made Thursday afternoon by Chairman Frank L. Dunlap of the commission after he and T. Max Watson are reported to have conferred with Johnson in Clinton Wednesday night where Johnson finally agreed to accept the job. His salary will be $6,000 a year, the same as formerly paid George Ross Poy when he was executive director of the prison division under former Chairman E. B. Jeffers.

The announcement by Chairman Dunlap also stated that Oscar T. Pitts, at present acting director of the prison division, will also be retained. Indications are that Pitts will probably be given a new title, possible superintendent of prisons, and be given immediate supervision of all prison units, including the Central Prison and all prison camps. He is also expected to be given an increase in salary.

MORE REPORTS FROM GEORGIA

Telegrams Received From Local Men On Market

Greenville tobaccoists on the Georgia markets continue to keep their county residents informed on the trend of auctions in that state through telegrams to The Reflector.

The first official figures on any Georgia market were received today from T. Ray Oglesby, who is at Statesboro. He declared that 373,668 pounds of tobacco was sold on the market there yesterday for an average of $24.44 per hundred pounds.

He added that offerings were heavy and the quality good.

B. B. Sugg wired from Waycross that the market there was averaging between $23 and $24 per hundredweight today. Mr. Sugg was in Douglas yesterday and advised friends here that the market there looked like an average of about $21.

This figure was the lowest estimated for any market heard from.

Reports from the various market centers in Georgia indicated that an average of $24 was being struck at most places. This figure compared with an official opening day average in Georgia last year of $22.

Farmers apparently are satisfied and reports indicated few tags are being turned. The Georgia opening's prices are being well received by farmers and others connected with the industry here. The Greenville market opens on August 26.

Farming Problems To Be Considered At Raleigh Meet

Hutson to Discuss Soil Conservation Program Wednesday Night of Farm and Home Week

Raleigh, July 30.—An open discussion of the agricultural conservation program, as conducted this year and planned for 1938, will be held at State College, Wednesday, August 4.

All farmers of the state are invited to hear J. B. Hutson, assistant AAA administrator, go into details of the program, said E. Y. Floyd, of State College.

Hutson will start speaking at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning as part of the men's program for Farm and Home Week to be held at the college, August 2-6, Floyd added.

Growers will be given opportunity to tell Hutson what they think of the 1937 program and what they would like to have offered in the program next year, he continued.

Chief Executive Concerned Over Chinese Situation

SMALL FIRMS NOT AFFECTED

Eliminated Under Amendment To Wage-Hour Bill

Washington, July 30.—(AP)—The senate voted today to eliminate all employers of 10 persons or less from the administration's wage and hour bill.

The amendment eliminating all small firms was adopted without a record vote. It was offered by Sen. Reynolds (D-N.C.).

Senator Harrison (D-Mass.), who lost the Democratic leadership of the senate last week by a single vote, had just ended the most severe attack yet made on the bill when the amendment came to a vote.

Earlier in the day two determined groups had rallied around administration leaders trying to push the wage-hour legislation through congress before the session ends.

A non-partisan group of house members, headed by Rep. Healey (D-Mass.), organized to stave off adjournment until the labor standards bill is passed.

William Green, A. F. of L. president threw his influence against a move which gained headway in the senate late yesterday to return the bill from the senate floor to the labor committee.

Green's action was directly opposed to steps taken by John Frey, president of the A. F. of L. metal trades department, who asked a number of senators to delay consideration.

Taken On Charge Of Embezzlement

Chief of Police George A. Clark revealed today he arrested George S. Meyers here Wednesday night and turned him over to a deputy sheriff of Hyde county.

Chief Clark said Meyers was charged with embezzlement in connection with money he is alleged to have collected in Hyde county for advertising purposes. The chief said Meyers admitted he collected the money, but contended he turned it over to N. G. Bartlett, secretary of the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce, under whom he said he was working.

Chief Clark said he did not know what disposition, if any, had been made of the case.

Red Men to Meet In New Lodge Tonight

Withlacoochee Tribe No. 39, Improved Order of Red Men, will meet tonight for the first time in its new wigwam, second floor of the Long building, on Cotanche street.

The local tribe recently leased the quarters for a long period of time, and the entire second floor has been thoroughly reconditioned and made into an up-to-date and commodious lodge room, with space provided for equipment, etc.

The Degree of Porochontas, which is an affiliate of the Order of Red Men, will also hold its meetings in the new lodge room, as will also Greenville Camp No. 13889, Modern Woodmen of America.

Each of these fraternal orders have for some years been holding meetings in the lodge rooms of the Knights of Pythias, upstairs over Penney's store on Evans street.

Committee Meets Tonight To Name Cherry Chairman

Raleigh, July 30.—The State Democratic Executive committee will meet here tonight in the hall of the house to elect a new chairman to succeed former Chairman J. Wallace Winborne, now one of the two associate justices of the state supreme court.

Declares Far Eastern Developments Very Disturbing

REFUGEE CENTER IS FIRED UPON

Grave Apprehension Felt for Americans Seeking Shelter At Yenching University

Washington, July 30.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today the Far Eastern situation was very disturbing and he would keep in close touch with developments over the week-end.

The president made this brief observation on the Far Eastern situation at his regular press conference.

Just across the street, at the State Department, coded wireless messages flying half-way around the world, brought latest reports on the safety of Americans in China.

Peking, July 30.—(AP)—Heavy artillery firing started suddenly this afternoon southwest of here at Yenching university, refuge of a group of Americans as China was reported to have ordered her central army into action to drive the Japanese army out of North China.

Grave apprehension was felt for the safety of the Americans at the university. The group was believed to number five women and three men, including President J. L. Smart, who had refused the warning of the American embassy to leave.

Fighting was general once again all about the ancient walls of the Manchou capital. The Japanese army was believed to be engaged in relentless "mopping up" operations against the remnants of the 29th Chinese army, the main body of which now holds positions across the Yungting river to the west.

All communication was severed with Yenching university as the fighting there began. The university is supported by American missions and is one of China's outstanding education institutions.

Increase Shown In Banks' Resources

Raleigh, July 30.—(AP)—Resources of commercial state banks totalled $305,489,689 as of June 30, commissioner of Banks Gurney F. Hood announced today, an increase of $2,288,469 over June 30, 1936.

The resources although lower than the $329,505,136 reported March 31, were the highest for the date since 1930, a quarterly statement showed.

Resources of all commercial banks in North Carolina including 43 national banks, totalled $415,022,546 June 30 this year, up $4,576,470 over a year ago.

Loans and discounts, usually considered an accurate business barometer, increased from $81,115,702 last year to $94,316,241 June 30 indicating a greater activity in business, Hood said.

The commissioner said 168 state commercial banks and 97 branches were being operated as against 177 banks and 87 branches a year ago.

Committee Meets Tonight To Name Cherry Chairman

Raleigh, July 30.—The State Democratic Executive committee will meet here tonight in the hall of the house to elect a new chairman to succeed former Chairman J. Wallace Winborne, now one of the two associate justices of the state supreme court.

The meeting is expected to be almost perfunctory and sparsely attended, with most of the votes sent in by proxies, since Governor Clyde R. Hoey has already indicated that he wants the committee to elect R. Gregg Cherry of Gastonia, speaker of the house during the 1937 session of the general assembly, as the new chairman. Accordingly, the election of Cherry as chairman is expected to be unanimous and to require very little time.

One of the principal reasons Governor Hoey is believed to have selected Cherry for the chairmanship of the executive committee is because he has long been impressed with Cherry's organizing ability and with the dispatch and speed with which he gets things done. It is generally agreed that 1937 session of the general assembly would undoubtedly have dragged along for a month to six weeks longer if Speaker Cherry, known as the "Iron Major" had not cracked his verbal whip over the heads of house and committee members and urged them on to greater and greater speed in disposing of legislation. As a result of this last general assembly disposal of a tremendous amount of business in an unusually short time, almost Lieutenant Governor W. P. Horton in the senate kept in step with Speaker Cherry and put on the steam just as hard as did Cherry.

There is no doubt that Governor Hoey thinks very highly of Cherry's ability and offers him several important state appointments, one of these being the chairmanship of the State Highway and Public Works Commission. But Cherry indicated that he wanted no state job that would take him away from his law practice in Gastonia, said to be growing larger all the time. But he did consent to take the chairmanship of the Democratic Executive committee, since this job will not take much of his time except in election years.

Dual Road System Talked By Highway Commission

Reflector Bureau By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, July 30.—Members of the State Highway and Public Works Commission are showing interest in the dual highway type of road construction for congested traffic roads and indications are that from now on most of the new heavy traffic highways may be built on the dual road plan or so that an additional road may be built parallel to the present road whenever traffic conditions may require it.

This became apparent during the meeting of the commission here Thursday when a delegation from the Charlotte Junior Chamber of Commerce asked the commission to give serious consideration to the building of a dual road highway from Charlotte towards Concord, rather than merely widen the present highway, as has been planned.

This interest in the dual roadway type of road, consisting of two parallel roads with a space of from eight to 16 feet between them, each road to be a one-way traffic road only, was shown later when the commission appointed a special committee to study the advisability of purchasing additional right-of-way along the new highway from Raleigh to Durham by way of Leesville, so that in the future another parallel highway could be built without having to purchase a new right-of-way. Commissioner T. Bondie Ward of Wilson brought the question before the commission and insisted that the right-of-way for the Raleigh-Durham road should be widened to 100 or even 120 feet right now and that this would save the state hundreds of thousands of dollars later on, even though the additional parallel road might not be needed for ten or 15 years yet.

Most of the members of the commission seemed to agree with Commissioner Ward and the committee to investigate the proposal and especially the cost of the additional right-of-way was named without objection. What action the committee will take with regard to dual roadway highway requested by the Charlotte Junior Chamber of Commerce, has not been indicated as yet. But those who were present while the Charlotte delegation made its argument were present while the Charlotte delegation made its argument.

Tea For Mrs. Overton

Mrs. Jonathan Overton, a recent bride, was honored yesterday when Mrs. D. D. Overton and her daughters, Mrs. Kenneth Brimm of Greensboro, Mrs. Robert Fountain Jr. of Fountain and Misses Laura and Elizabeth Overton were charming hostesses at a lovely tea for 40 thirty until six o'clock at the home of Mrs. Overton on West Fourth street.

The home throughout was beautifully decorated in quantities of gladioli, asters and a variety of other flowers, carrying out a pink and white color note. The light from numerous burning candles added to the effectiveness of the scene.

In the receiving line were Mrs. D. D. Overton, Mrs. Jonathan Overton, Mrs. J. C. Cook of Williamston, Mrs. Brimm, Mrs. Fountain, Misses Laura and Elizabeth Overton, Mrs. Reynolds May and Mrs. Joseph S. Moye, recent brides.

The dining room was especially pretty. The table, covered with a cloth of Madeira linen, was centered with a silver bowl of pink and white asters and baby's breath, flanked by silver holders with pink candles. From one end of the table pineapple ice was served from a silver punch bowl and from the opposite end silver trays of decorated cakes.

Those serving were Miss Eoline Sawyer, Miss Katherine Tyson, Miss Geraldine Harris, Miss Julia Foley, Miss Elizabeth Norman, Miss Mary Council Horne and Mrs. James Johnston.

Assisting the hostess in receiving guests were Mrs. J. B. Kittrell, Mrs. E. W. Harvey, Mrs. W. C. Harris, Mrs. W. H. Woodard, Mrs. John Fountain, Mrs. Bruce Besley, Mrs. Charles O'H. Horne, Mrs. J. H. Harrell, Mrs. J. J. Perkins, Mrs. Casper Lamb, Mrs. J. C. Tyson, Mrs. Thelma Daugherty and Miss Laura Foley.

Several hundred guests called during the tea hour.

you can, exercise moderately, sleep enough hours, avoid contact with infection, etc.

Much of this counsel, as well as much of the concept behind physical fitness, is necessarily rather vague. Both are based upon clinical experience rather than experimental evidence.

To the subject of physical fitness and resistance to disease, Dr. Arthur Locke of the Western Pennsylvania hospital has recently made an interesting contribution. This is based on ingenious experiments employing rabbits.

First he divided his rabbits into three groups on the basis of their variation in physical fitness. Their respective physical fitness was established this way:

Each animal was chilled by partial immersion in cold water, until its rectal temperature had been reduced to approximately 95 degrees Fahrenheit. The animal was then dried and was observed as to the time it required to return to normal temperature.

The most efficient rabbits showed a rise of 3 degrees within 20 minutes. These were adjudged to be the most physically fit rabbits. The animals requiring 40 minutes for a similar rise in temperature were rated as less fit, while those requiring as long as 125 minutes were placed in the third or lowest group.

Rabbits were then selected from each of the three groups. These were injected intravenously with pneumonia germs. Studies were made on the time required for the pneumonia germs to disappear from the rabbits' blood, and their subsequent history was traced.

The "best physical fit" rabbits cleared their blood of pneumonia organisms within 30 to 60 minutes. Ninety-two per cent of these animals showed no fever, and recovered from the infection.

The rabbits of the least physically fit group, however, were unable to free their blood from the injected pneumonia germs, and all died of pneumococcal septicemia (blood poisoning with the pneumonia germ) within three days.

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE NERVAUD

SYNOPSIS: Kay Crandon decides to rebuild her burned ranch house and barn, though Neighbor Josh Hastings, whom she hates, wants to buy her ranch and marry Kay. Ted Gaynor, a puncher she impulsively hired, fights Scrap Johnson, a coxhead who molested Kay. They shoot it out, wounding each other. Hastings sneaks up and kills Scrap with Ted's gun. Ted crawls to a cabin where a girl (Marion) nurses him. A week later the sheriff arrests him on a tip unconsciously given by Kay. Ted's trial for murder at Clear Water Basin is going against him without a witness in his behalf.

Chapter 39

Ted's Defense

TED remained for today only Ted's story to be told, and then the verdict. Ted had elected to conduct his own defense, in the certainty that his straightforward story would make more impression than anyone else's presentation of the facts.

But now as he thought over yesterday's proceedings, with the cards stacked against him this way, he wasn't so sure. He pulled out the heartbroken little note from his mother and sister that the sheriff had allowed him to receive, and read it for the hundredth time. Their touching confidence in his innocence was comforting, and, at least for the time being, they were being cared for by some neighbors.

Pushing away the thought of what would happen to them if he was convicted, Ted wondered what had become of Marion. He had been uneasy about her, because she had a hunch that there was something tragic about her father that she hadn't told him. And when they had announced in court yesterday that she couldn't come to testify because of the illness of her father, he had felt a presentiment that something was very wrong.

As Ted pondered bitterly on his inability to help anyone, the deputy sheriff arrived with his breakfast. He brought it in, announcing with a grin that a lady was outside and wanted to see him.

"A lady?" Ted looked up eagerly. Perhaps Marion had come after all.

"Yeah, Sam Cutter said she could see you for five minutes. He always is partial to red heads."

"Red heads!" Ted echoed, his heart beating suffocatingly against his ribs. "You mean—"

"Kay Crandon's her name, and she's coming back in half an hour, he answered.

Blood surged into Ted's face, and he gripped the iron cot until his knuckles showed white in his deeply tanned hands.

"Tell her I'm not seeing anyone, Joe," he said gruffly after a long pause.

Joe gazed at him in open-mouthed stupefaction. "Hell's bells! Why not? She's some looker, and she sure seems anxious about you. You'd better see what she has to say."

"I'm not going to see her, do you hear me?" Ted turned so fiercely on him that Joe jumped.

"All right, all right," he soothed. "Have it your own way."

He went out and locked the door, leaving Ted to the tumultuous thoughts and emotions that coursed through him.

Kay's unexpected appearance on the scene proved how little he had succeeded in putting her out of his mind, in spite of his determination to do so. He longed with all his being to see her, but the galling thought that she was the one who was responsible for his being there at all, steeled him against her.

Nothing she could say could atone for that damaging fact, and it would be folly to let himself be stirred up at this time by seeing her again.

It ever he needed all his self control and will, he needed them now, when he was fighting for his life. There was no place for Kay Crandon in the picture today!

He forced his mind away from Kay, and concentrated on his story, going over it from every angle to be sure it was straight and unshakable.

But His Eyes Seek Kay
LOST in deep thought, he failed to hear Joe's footsteps again in the corridor, and only looked up at the sound of his name, to see Joe shaking a folded piece of paper through the door.

"I said to give you that," he said. "Seems kind of upset at not seeing you. Hadn't you better change your mind?"

"No!" Ted thundered, looking up at him without moving. "And I don't want any notes, either. Take it back to her."

"Say, I kind of hate to do that. She'll feel bad!" Joe looked doubtfully at the letter in his hand. "What's got into you to be so ornery?"

"Clear out!" Ted snapped. "And don't come back until it's time for me to go to the trial!"

With a perplexed shake of the head, Joe complied without further comment, and Ted was left again to the solitude he demanded.

'Sissy' Work Around The House Is Great Way To Build Initiative

'Household tasks offer an ideal opportunity for children to assume responsibility'

It was an hour later before Joe reappeared, and this time Ted accompanied him to the big room in front that was dignified by the name of court room.

The sheriff and one of his deputies were seated at one end of the long wooden table that stood on a raised platform at the back of it. Joe motioned Ted to his place at the other end, and then joined Sam Cutter. At another table, alongside, sat the 12 men who were to decide Ted's fate.

There was a small space left before the rows of seats began. Ted could see at a glance that the room was even more crowded than it had been on the day before. Every seat was taken, and standing room was filled to capacity.

In the sea of faces before him, Ted's glance caught Josh Hastings and Tom Runyon, but he passed them by without change of expression, his eyes seeking Kay in spite of his resolution to ignore her completely.

There were comparatively few women in the room and he singled her out almost immediately. His heart gave a great throb as he caught her eye.

She was looking at him with parted lips, her head held proudly, but a hurt and bewildered expression in her eyes. She gave a hesitating half smile, but Ted allowed his eyes to drift past her, without a flicker of recognition.

Out of the corner of his eye he was conscious of the sudden rush of crimson that dyed her cheeks, then his attention was summarily drawn to Sam Cutter, who pounded on the table, calling loudly for order. The buzz of talk subsided, and in an important voice he outlined the events of the preceding day.

Ted listened attentively, even Kay forgotten, as the vital moment approached when he must make his plea.

The sheriff finished at last, and turned to him.

"We'll hear the prisoner's story now," he announced in a pompous manner.

Kay Calls A Halt
TED stood up, and in a firm voice recited his story, which he had rehearsed so many times to himself. He found his eyes unconsciously straying to Kay's face.

And when he came to tell how Scrap Johnson had stolen up on him as he had been taking a drink, and shot him down by the water's edge, he saw her blanch, and with her hand at her throat, as though suddenly short of breath, glance over at Josh Hastings.

Going on with his narrative, Ted told how he had dragged himself along the stream's bank until he had come to the clearing, and Marion had taken him in, and saved his life.

There was a dead silence as he stopped. Then, Sam Cutter cleared his throat, and rose to his feet.

"How about that fight you had with Scrap Johnson at Kelly's? Do you admit you threatened to kill him that time?"

Ted hesitated a moment. He saw clearly enough the trap that the sheriff was trying to lead him into, but he decided to stick to the absolute truth.

"I believe I did," he answered. "But that doesn't prove I did it."

"Who was the girl you were fighting about?"

A dull red crept up behind Ted's ears, as the sheriff brought out this unexpected question.

"I refuse to answer," Ted returned Sam Cutter's look with settled defiance. "That has no bearing on the case."

"I'm the judge of that!" Sam Cutter snapped angrily. "One of the witnesses yesterday said Scrap Johnson had referred to her as 'a red headed filly.' Is that so?"

"I refuse to answer," Ted reiterated stubbornly.

"The jury'll do well to make a note of that," the sheriff sneered. "Only I reckon they won't need it. All they've got to do is to take the facts into account. They've got the gun, and the bullet that came from it. They've got the prisoner's admission that he threatened to kill the murdered man. It ain't even worth my while to cross-examine his cock-and-bull story," he ended scornfully.

Turning impressively to the jury, he began, "I charge you to—"

"Wait a minute!" A ripple of excitement ran over the room, as every eye turned to Kay. Her cheeks crimson, but her head held proudly high, Kay stood facing Sam Cutter, her yellow brown eyes black with the intensity of her emotion.

"I object to this trial going any further! It's illegal!" Sam Cutter banged on the table to stop the buzz of comment that greeted this surprising interruption.

"I don't understand you, Miss Crandon," he said severely. "You'll either have to keep still or get out."

"But I protest this trial!" Kay's voice grew steeper as she went on. "Ted Gaynor cannot be tried in Idaho. Scrap Johnson was murdered in the state of Montana!"

New York—Washing the dog and raking leaves aren't just odd jobs thought up to keep Tommy out of mischief. They're really responsible tasks which will develop his initiative, and turn him into a self-sufficient individual.

At least that's the way Dr. Ruth Andrus, head of New York State's Bureau of Child Development and Parent Education, looks at it.

Don't Ask Too Much
"Household tasks offer an ideal opportunity for children to assume responsibility," she says. But, she warns nervous parents, once Tommy has been given instructions don't hector him. He'll be disturbed and won't be able to do the job well.

"Let him break a dish or two," says Dr. Andrus, who thinks the average mother is too emotional anyway. "Naturally he can't do the task as well as his mother can.

"Don't ask too much of him. Give him affection and security, so he won't mind asking for help when he needs it."

Tasks Must Be Varied
Dr. Andrus tells of a five-year-old who insisted on carrying a guest's suitcase out to her car. His mother let him try it, but halfway down the drive, he dumped his burden down, and said wistfully to his mother, "I guess you'll have to help me."

There shouldn't be any distinction in sex when allotting duties. Tommy can be as good a dishwasher as his sister Jane. And he won't turn sissy overnight because he helps his mother around the kitchen.

The psychologist warns parents against keeping their children too long at one task. "The 11-year-old daughter of a friend of mine once came to me in tears," she says, "and told me she was going to run away from home because her mother made her dry the silver after every meal."

"There's a silver drying stage in development, but it's the earliest stage—because silver is unbreakable—and the children grow out of it."

Affects Adults Life
The errand-running stage is soon outgrown, too. Children need to do the job entirely by themselves. Just bringing mother equipment doesn't help Tommy gain self-reliance.

Parents who won't allow their children to have and responsibility at all seriously endanger their adult life, Dr. Andrus believes.

An example she cites is the woman who as a child was continuously told she was "too little to cook." She hates cooking now.

GIRL LIFEGUARDS AID MALES IN DISTRESS

CLEARWATER BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Men bathers get a break here. The lifeguard corps includes a group of attractive young women.

While at most beaches a fellow has no recourse if his sweetie tries to drown herself just to be rescued by some bro-zed Adonis in a lifeguard uniform, he can get even here by staying his own act conveniently near one of the shapely girl rescuers.

Miss Myrtle (Bunny) Lowery, pretty college student, heads the squad of girl lifesavers who are all volunteers.

"Our main purpose is to keep accidents from happening rather than doing rescue work," Miss Lowery explains.

But should a young man decide to stage a drowning act, it must be a good one.

"We can usually tell when they are fooling," Miss Lowery says, "and we don't stand for any nonsense."

Washington Daybook

By Preston Green

Washington—Right at the time congress was so embroiled over the court issue a situation developed in the Kentucky court of appeals which for sheer novelty far outdistanced the proposal to put "new blood" on the U. S. supreme court.
Yet it made few national headlines.
Kentucky became only mildly excited.

Governor A. B. (Happy) Chandler recently sponsored a state income tax law which was designed among other things, to tax state office holders. It was promptly upheld by state district courts.

In the courts of time the test case on the tax was carried to the circuit court of appeals, the highest court in Kentucky. It was a ticklish situation for the court, since the members themselves are salaried state officials, subject to such a tax.

Court Sits Back
Now there is precedent for courts to act on questions of public policy vital affecting the members. State judges have been called upon to decide the validity of acts affecting the method of their election to office.

Judges have upheld or rejected various sales taxes, which, of course apply to them with the same force as to others. In turn, courts have upheld the validity of income tax laws which tax the general public while exempting judges and other public officials.

Constitutional
That course was taken by the governor. He appointed a substitute court of appeals to pass on the tax.
Its members were not subject to approval by the state senate. They were to serve only one purpose—to decide the validity of the tax.

Among the judges named by Governor Chandler were several who had been in the state employ in one capacity or another, one as special counsel in the attorney general's office.

They upheld the constitutionality of the tax.
The sequel is that quite a number of people in Kentucky could not keep up with the pace, and decided to appeal to the supreme court of the United States. Salaries of the U. S. supreme court are paid only in part by Kentucky, and that part so indirectly that the state tax won't affect the members.

The attorney perfecting the appeal is Charles I. Dawson, who was a federal district judge in Kentucky when President Roosevelt came into office. He spent a year or two battling down New Deal laws with almost unbroken regularity. A year or so ago he resigned to take up private practice.

New York—Down the aisle and

"Well, well, back on Broadway, after four years . . . And it doesn't

I hadn't unpacked before . . . I was

Kimonos Go By The Boards As U. S. Styles Sweep Japan

ALL-AMERICAN . . . Girls in Japan are crazy about American-style clothes—and ice-cream sundaes.

By JAMES A. MILLS

TOKYO (AP) — Thousands of Japanese girls and women have discarded their time-honored kimono, obi sash and geta (wooden sandals) for American-style clothes. Foreign fashion experts say that in another decade Japan probably will be completely western in its dress.

Almost all of the school girls and boys now wear American clothes, which are considered not only smarter, but more practical and hygienic.

Cheaper Wedding Gowns

But it is perhaps in wedding attire that the greatest change has come. Most smart Japanese women prefer American or European wedding gowns, not so much for the style as for economy. In Japan a native wedding kimono costs from $100 to $300, while a modish western wedding gown may be made for one-third of that price.

And when Japanese youths marry, they discard their native kimono dress, which some believe makes them look "plebian," in favor of the conventional western "morning" garb. Formerly most men in Japan regarded a foreign-style suit as a luxury, but now it is worn for business and on all formal occasions.

Ten years ago Japanese girls who wore foreign-style apparel were regarded as flappers, or even immoral. Today many Japanese parents who usually are orthodox and nationalistic, favor western garments for their daughters.

Figures Improving

With the gradual discontinuance among mothers of the practice of carrying their babies on their back—which often gave the children "pigeon-toes" or "bandy-legs"—the figures of Japanese boys and girls have greatly improved, so they wear western clothes more gracefully. But Japanese women, Americans here think, still look far better in their traditional kimono and obi because of their difference in stature and build.

in those suburbs, which enables you to return to the city, I mean Circleville, and squire your mother around . . . In San Diego I met a couple of sailors and they turned out to be Circleville boys grown up and seeing the world . . . I like Minneapolis because Detective Coch always gets me a police badge when I go there . . . In Oakland, Calif. I had plenty of fun dancing at the Athletic Club after playing a show at that beautiful theater there where the pictures of the stars are inlaid in the tile.

"I wouldn't dream of going to Texas, without hepping down to Galveston and drowsing awhile by the old sea-wall . . . Fort Worth is a great place for livestock auctions. I saw them trade away 500 mules one morning . . . One day in Portland, Ore., a drummer came up and shook hands . . . We became friends and have remained so for 18 years . . . You know him too; his name is George Olson.

"That's the way it is—here today and gone tonight . . . We'll be on the Astor roof here a month, and then I'm off again . . . Where to? . . . What does it matter? . . . Any of those towns I've mentioned, and a thousand others, will suit me fine . . . I never was much shucks at being a New Yorker anyway."

IT'S NEVER TOO LATE TO LEARN THIS!

LOWEST BUICK PRICES EVER!

WHAT if July is here—there's still plenty of summer ahead, and plenty of thrills awaiting you as the driver of a Buick.

There's still time to make the break from cars that "will do" to a car that will do things to you.

And there's still time, talking plain dollars-and-cents, to get a big, modern-looking, quick-stepping Buick at the lowest prices in all Buick history.

That means you can buy the great-powered Buick SPECIAL—with a hundred spirited horsepower in its valve-in-head straight-eight engine—for less than you're asked for some sixes!

Why not learn now what it means to pilot a man-sized car. Get acquainted with Buick's nimble and satisfying action—its steady, thrifty, mile-eating gait. Dress your family in Buick beauty, in this great car's modern, up-to-the-minute style.

There's everything to gain—so take advantage of prices that were never lower on a car built to live up to Buick's name.

Stop yearning for something that's now in your reach—go take that demonstration. You'll never regret the buy you make now—if you buy Buick!

New Bern, July 30.—Pitcher Bill Averette pulled the "iron man" stunt here yesterday afternoon as New Bern's Bears cashed in with a pair of 2-1 victories over Greenville's Greensies.

In the opening game, Fred Calliguri held New Bern to just two hits—but the Greene hurrier balked in the fifth inning to send in the winning run. The Greensies made six hits in this game.

In the nightcap, each club collected only four safeties. Karl Williams started on the hill for the Greensies and he sported a 1-0 lead when the Bears came up in the seventh—and final—inning.

A free pass to Douglas started the Bears toward the runs needed for victory. Mullinax's double-timed Douglas. Thee was given a hit-batsman ticket, and Delaney came to the mound. Sixth sacrifice. Thornton was given an intentional pass. Worliss Knowles' pinch-hitting for Melchor, singled to right-center to drive in the winning tally.

Greenville's lone tally of the nightcap came in the sixth—Powell singled, advanced to third on a sacrifice and an error, and scored on Stowe's fly.

In the opener, the Bears got a run in the second—Mullinax walked, stole second, advanced on an infield out, scored on Stith's single.

The winning run came in the fifth. Melchor walked. Averette bunted, and Roy's throw to second failed to catch Melchor. Vick sacrificed. Osley grounded out. With a count of 3-0 on Douglas, Caliguri started his pitching motion—he suddenly stopped, and the ball let in Melchor.

Andy Johnson's homer in the 4th counted for the only Greenville tally in the opener.

The Bears are in Greenville this afternoon for a contest with the Greensies. Greenville goes to Williamston Saturday and returns here Sunday.

Kinston's Eagles Win From Ayden, 6 To 3

Ayden—Tight pitching by Manager Vernon Taylor and Krim Bess and three home runs carried the Kinston Eagles to a 6-3 victory over the Aces yesterday.

The Eagles made quick work of sewing up the game, with drives over the left-field fence. In the third, Schultz—a left-hand batter—homered following a single by Wyrostek. In the fourth, Stringfellow singled and scored on Patton's double; Stoner then hit for the circuit and brought in what proved to be the deciding runs. Gillewenter opened the eighth inning with a homer for the Eagles' final tally.

Taylor started on the mound for the Eagles and didn't give a hit until the fourth inning. In that frame, singles by Baker and Johnson, sandwiched around a pair of infield outs, gave the Aces their first run. Taylor retired after the fourth under orders of Umpire Hanna, who objected to a bit of tape on one of the Kinston manager's fingers. Hanna's order was to remove the tape or remove yourself and Taylor went out.

Bess gave the Aces seven hits over the rest of the way. A double by Schuerholz and a single by Jirak produced a run in the seventh. A walk to Johnson and a double by Corrado scored the other tally, in the eighth.

Wyrostek and Schultz, with a pair of his apiece, paced the Eagles' 10-hit attack on Earl Webb, who pitched the route. Schuerholz, with two blows, was the only Ace with more than one hit.

Williamston's Martins Take Goldsboro, 2-1

Williamston — Ray Strunk, big southpaw hurler of the Martins, edged a 2-1 decision over Pete Kunis, Goldsboro righthander, yesterday afternoon.

Strunk yielded only four hits well spaced, and struck out nine. He walked two. Kunis yielded seven hits, struck out seven, and gave away a walk.

Goldsboro's run, in the third, resulted from a double by Daniels, an error, and a passed ball.

The Martins matched that tally in their half of the third. Victoria, safe on an error, went to third on Strunk's double and scored on McCay's single.

Williamston won in the fourth. Stevens opened the chucker with a single, advanced to third on Deim's infield hit and Lakotas' sacrifice, and scored on Victoria's infield out.

Strunk had a big day at bat as well as on the mound—he collected two singles and a double for 1.00. Daniels with a double and a single, accounted for half of the visitors' hits. Steve Lakotas was the leading star.

Sport Slants

By PAP

Youth may be served most of the luscious sports dishes but it is mighty difficult to keep the veterans from showing an occasional finger in the pie.

Take 38-year-old Charlie Root, for example. Right now, Charlie is doing more than his share to keep the Cubs in the thick of the pennant race. When the Cub hurling staff was riddled with injuries earlier in the season, it was Root who did yeoman's work to keep the team above water.

When the Cubs and Giants squared off at the Polo Grounds in their recent "crucial" series, it was Uncle Charlie who started the Cubs off on the right foot. Root took up the burden of beating King Carl Hubbell in the series opener after the Giants had gotten off to a flying start with a couple of runs off Curt Davis in two-thirds of the first inning.

They were counting Root out last winter. His 1936 record showed only three victories against six defeats. Charlie didn't pay much attention to his obituaries.

Another veteran campaigner, Wilmer Allison, returned to war against the rising youngsters. The Texan returned for one final fling on the tennis courts with his heart set on winning the Longwood Bowl outright. He had to knock over a very promising youngster, Gilbert Hunt, in the final round to win the historic trophy for the third time, so that he could take it home. Now Allison is ready to devote his spare moments to golf.

Gene Sarazen took his mind off his Connecticut farm long enough to show the young upstarts how golf is played when he stepped out to take first money from a fine field in the $10,000 Chicago open. It was his first major triumph since his famous double eagle earned him a tie and paved the way to victory in the 1935 masters' tournament at Augusta.

League Leaders Win From Tarboro, 5 To 2

Snow Hill—The two top men in Coastal Plain pitching averages—Tarboro's Alr Cassell and Snow Hill's Emil Zok—squared off here yesterday afternoon and presented an old-time mound duel. Zak and the Billies came out on top, 5 to 2.

The game, one of the best here this season, opened with Zak and Cassell starting like anything but

Staging a third inning rally which netted 10 runs, the Carolina Dairy team yesterday defeated the Blount-Harvey players 13 to 3 in the only softball game played in the City League.

Person - Garrett, second place team, defaulted to the league leading Tadlock Insurance team. The insurance men have not lost a game this season and have scored victories over each team and two each over Carolina Dairy and Person-Garrett, giving them nine wins. An error in the standings in yesterday's paper showed them to have won nine games before yesterday's forfeit, but the team has only won nine counting Thursday's contest.

Two homers were hit in the Carolina Dairy-Blount-Harvey contest yesterday. Moore clouted a circuit blow for the winners and Burnette homered for the Sales team.

Staunton Harvey did the hurrying for the Carolina Dairy and Bert Stancill was on the mound for the department store men.

The dairymen made their 10 runs in the third on a few hits mixed with several errors. The ground was wet and the fielders were unable to handle the ball effectively.

all new construction and in some localities is insisting upon it.

Chief Engineer W. Vance Rouse pointed out that the new highway from Concord north to China Grove was being built on a wide right-of-way so that in the future another highway could be built parallel to it, thus making it a dual roadway highway. At the present time the traffic on this highway does not warrant the dual lane construction, but is expected to in the future, he said. He also said that the engineering department is planning a dual roadway highway between Thomasville and Lexington, instead of a three or four lane single highway, such as the one between Charlotte and Gastonia. In fact, it is known that the highway plans for the future call eventually for a double-roadway highway all the way from Greensboro to Charlotte, despite the fact that there is at present a three-lane single highway from Greensboro to High Point.

The thing that is holding up the building of these super, super highways now more than anything else is lack of money, it is agreed, since they are admittedly more expensive to build.

Dual Road System Talked By Highway Commission

in favor of the dual roadway were impressed with the interest shown by the members of the commission and by the comments heard afterwards. The spokesmen for the Charlotte group stressed the fact that the dual roadway highways were superior to all other types in that they were safer, since each roadway is limited to one-way traffic and that they lend themselves better to beautification and landscaping, since grass, flowers and shrubs can be planted in the strip or mall between the two roadways. They also maintained that the construction of a 4-mile dual roadway highway out of Charlotte towards Concord, would become valuable as an experimental project for comparison with other types of roads.

"There is no doubt about it—we are going to have to come to this dual roadway type of road in congested traffic areas," Commissioner Ernest V. Webb of Kinston said later. "That is, unless we want to keep reducing the population by killing it off in automobile accidents."

Other members of the commission indicated they approved the plan in principle, especially since the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads is now advising the dual roadway plan for Staging a third inning rally which netted 10 runs, the Carolina Dairy team yesterday defeated the Blount-Harvey players 13 to 3 in the only softball game played in the City League.

Person - Garrett, second place team, defaulted to the league leading Tadlock Insurance team. The insurance men have not lost a game this season and have scored victories over each team and two each over Carolina Dairy and Person-Garrett, giving them nine wins. An error in the standings in yesterday's paper showed them to have won nine games before yesterday's forfeit, but the team has only won nine counting Thursday's contest.

Two homers were hit in the Carolina Dairy-Blount-Harvey contest yesterday. Moore clouted a circuit blow for the winners and Burnette homered for the Sales team.

Staunton Harvey did the hurrying for the Carolina Dairy and Bert Stancill was on the mound for the department store men.

The dairymen made their 10 runs in the third on a few hits mixed with several errors. The ground was wet and the fielders were unable to handle the ball effectively.

all new construction and in some localities is insisting upon it.

Chief Engineer W. Vance Rouse pointed out that the new highway from Concord north to China Grove was being built on a wide right-of-way so that in the future another highway could be built parallel to it, thus making it a dual roadway highway. At the present time the traffic on this highway does not warrant the dual lane construction, but is expected to in the future, he said. He also said that the engineering department is planning a dual roadway highway between Thomasville and Lexington, instead of a three or four lane single highway, such as the one between Charlotte and Gastonia. In fact, it is known that the highway plans for the future call eventually for a double-roadway highway all the way from Greensboro to Charlotte, despite the fact that there is at present a three-lane single highway from Greensboro to High Point.

The thing that is holding up the building of these super, super highways now more than anything else is lack of money, it is agreed, since they are admittedly more expensive to build.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, July 30.—(AP)—Stock market leaders swung upwards today in the wake of steel. While dealings were comparatively slow throughout, gains of fractions to two or more points were well distributed near the fourth hour.

Bonds and commodities failed to develop definite trends and transfers approximated 750,000 shares.

New York Cotton

New York, July 30.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened barely steady, two to seven lower with influence of steady cables offset by favorable crop and weather advices.

Toward the end of the first half hour December was up to 10.84 and the list generally showed net gains of four to eight points.

The market reacted partially toward the closes under increased hedge selling. The close was steady, one lower to four higher. Spot steady, middling 11.23.

FEL VERY LITTLE REALIZED THROUGH JOHNSTON MEETING

It is pointed out here, however, that the company built rural lines in many other counties at the request of the state Rural Electrification Authority or of its own accord and where the Federal REA had no intention of going, also that its contract is valid and will be carried out since the courts can compel the company to carry it out.

SMALL FIRMS NOT AFFECTED

(Continued from page one) creation of the wage hour bill until next year. Sending it back to committee would mean such a delay. Meanwhile the senate's house tax committee, whose hearings drew nationally famous names into the news a few weeks ago, agreed on tax law loophole plugs it will recommend to congress, but members declined to reveal details.
