Japanese Troops Pressing Toward Advancing Foes

Military Units of Two Powers Come Close Together

CHINA VANGUARD BOMBED BY JAPS

Moscow News Organ Accuses Japan Of Trying to Provoke Conflict with USSR

(By Associated Press) Japanese infantry, pressing southward from Tientsin, came close today to the line of northward-moving Central Chinese government troops.

At Tehchow, on the border of Hopeh and Shantung provinces to the south, Japanese war planes bombed a vanguard of the advancing Chinese armies. The Japanese march, however, was almost unresisted.

It followed the Tientsin-Pukow railroad about 15 miles south of Tientsin, the same route the central Chinese government forces were said to be taking north. The head of the China column was reported to have reached southern Hopeh province.

Its first function would be to bolster reorganization of the Chinese 29th army, now only a few miles from the Japanese western flank in Hopeh province, where the Japanese claim a special sphere of influence.

Chinese reported another Japanese column marching behind a screen of aerial bombardment toward Pekingfu, Hopeh province capital southwest of Peiping.

The newspaper, Izestia, official Moscow organ of the Soviet government, charged Japan was trying "to provoke a conflict with the USSR by any means."

It denounced a White Russian raid yesterday on the Soviet consulate general at Tientsin and expressed a sympathy for China.

In Tokyo the Soviet government lodged a complaint against the Tientsin raid, charging it was inspired and protected by Japanese Japanese foreign office officials denied Japan was in any way implicated.

Changes Sentence Of Forsyth Negro

Raleigh, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Governor Hoye commuted to life imprisonment today the death sentence imposed on William Jackson, a Negro, in Forsyth county following his conviction on charges of criminal assault.

Jackson was to have been executed Friday. Two other men are scheduled to die this week, both for murder.

Jackson, the statement said, was convicted for ravishing a nine-year-old girl who "had made conflicting statements about the guilt of the prisoner." Several witnesses for the defense testified the prosecutrix told them that the defendant had nothing to do with her. The prosecutrix admitted telling one witness that Jackson had nothing to do with her.

The solicitor, trial judge and foreman of the jury which tried Jackson recommended commutation, the statement added.

First Week Sales Average 25 Cents

Atlanta, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The state bureau of markets reported today opening week's sales in 51 of the state's 59 tobacco warehouses totaled 12,010,160 pounds at an average price of 25.28 cents a pound.

Receipts from sales totaled $3,035,920.05.

The bureau said three of the 59 warehouses reported that they had no sales opening week (Thursday and Friday) and five were still to be heard from.

Sales during the 1936 opening week (four days) totaled 25,318,396 pounds at an average price of 25.11 cents. Total receipts were $6,357,896.43.

Minor Wreck Monday Causes Little Damage

A minor wreck occurred at the intersection of Evans and Eighth streets about 9 o'clock last night, but no one was injured and no charges were preferred by officers who investigated the accident.

An unusual feature of the wreck was the fact that both drivers involved, Flabius Allgood and Charlie Smith, were connected with automobile firms here.

COTTON ROADS TO HELP SOUTH

New Type Highway Dedicated by Governor Hoye

Clinton, Aug. 3.—(AP)—"This dedication not only marks a new era in road building, but it opens a new, rich market for cotton," Governor Hoye told hundreds of North Carolinians today as they celebrated the opening of the cotton road from Clinton to Paison. Earlier at Goldsboro, where a motorcycle formed for the trip down the new highway, the governor had told 700 or more people he felt the cotton road "holds great significance for the farmer."

He said he was glad "North Carolina is now taking time to let the world know about the state after being so busy developing and building that it has not told of what is going on here."

At Mount Olive State Treasurer Charles Johnson and Secretary of State Thad Eure spoke, at Paison speakers were Henry Stevens, former American Legion national commander, and Kerr Scott, agriculture commissioner, and here Governor Hoye and Albert Von Dohlen, representative of Charleston, S. C., headlined the program.

"To day we come to dedicate a cotton road," said Hoye. "At other places in the state small stretches of roads have been built with the use of cotton fabric, but this is the first complete road constructed by the state under federal supervision in which this material has been used. The road from Clinton to Paison is said to be the longest cotton road in the United States."

"This dedication is of tremendous importance to the south generally, and to North Carolina cotton farmers and mill owners and operatives

CROPS VISITED BY HAIL STORM

Tobacco and Corn Crops in Pitt County Damaged

Reports of insurance agents and farmers coming into town from various sections of the county today told of fairly severe hail and wind storms throughout most of Pitt last night which caused considerable damage to tobacco and corn crops.

The fact that much of the tobacco already had been put in barns prevented a much heavier loss. One farmer C. R. Cannon said one nine-acre field on his farm was hit hard, but that he had harvested a part of the tobacco and the loss was nothing like as heavy as it would have been otherwise.

Although this county was not hit as badly as Edgecombe, it appeared that practically every part was affected to some extent by the storm.

Reports of damage came from the Winterville, Farmville, Ballard's Crossroads, Chicod, Carolina and other communities.

The farm of Herman D. Tucker east of Winterville was declared to have suffered heavy damage. That of Abe Gray in Carolina township also suffered heavy loss, it was reported. Jim Blane's farm near Winterville also was damaged seriously.

In addition to doing heavy damage to tobacco, the storm also was declared to have injured corn crops in some areas. Wind as well as hail visited the county, leaving damage in its wake.

State Probation System Is Planned By Director

Raleigh, Aug. 3.—North Carolina's probation system will be organized on distinctly statewide lines, with uniform rules and regulations for every section and county, according to the plans being laid by J. Harry Sample, recently appointed state Probation Director.

Mr. Sample today said he has not yet developed his plans to the point where anything definite can be released about their final setup, but he indicated that there will be at least one full-time probation officer for each of the judicial districts of North Carolina.

He pointed out that the probation system will extend into the province of every court of record in the state and will not stop with the superior courts alone. In this respect the system will be much wider in

REBELS CLAIM LOYALS DRIVEN FROM POSITION

Declare Defenders Forced From Mountains at Teruel

REPORT DETAILS TWO OPERATIONS

Insurgent Thrust Results in Capture of Huge Stock of Munitions and Supplies

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Two insurgent brigades were reported today to have driven Madrid-Valencia troops from their mountain fortifications on the Teruel front near Bezas and to have cut their main communications artery.

An official insurgent communique recounted in detail the two operations, the latest developments in General Francisco Franco's efforts to hammer a wedge into government territory in eastern Spain and split the liaison between inland Madrid and coastal Valencia, temporary seat of the Republican government.

The thrust brought capturing of the government field headquarters at the summit of a 4,000-foot mountain and huge stocks of munitions and supplies, the communique said, and at least 100 government dead were left in Bezas by the routed troops.

"Perhaps the most important result of the attack was the government's loss of a secondary roadway linking its forces in that sector of the Teruel front."

State Patrolmen Arrest Roy Mills

Roy Mills was arrested last night by State Highway patrolmen on charges of driving drunk both in Pitt and Beaufort counties and also with assault. Patrolmen said his driving permit was revoked at the present time for driving drunk.

When officers went to arrest the man, they said, they were confronted by Mrs. Mamie Mills, mother of Roy, who got a shotgun and ordered them from the house. Corporal L. L. Jackson of the patrol force, said today she would be charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

Guard Instructor Is Assigned To City

Major L. E. Babcock of the regular army has been assigned to Greenville as instructor of the National Guard, it was revealed today by the commanding officer of the local unit, Capt. J. H. Waldrop.

Major Babcock will serve only as a teacher. His territory also will include units at New Bern, Washington and Kinston, but he will make his home in Greenville.

He will move his wife and two sons, here. Capt. Waldrop expressed much pleasure at being able to have the officer located in Greenville.

WRITING NO KEY TO CHARACTER, SCIENTIST SAYS

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 3.—(AP)—D. A. Judge, a man's character by his portrait or his handwriting, advises Prof. Herman W. Martin of the University of Kentucky department of psychology.

While he believes there may be some truth in the old saying that the camera doesn't lie, "it doesn't say much either," Professor Martin says.

Tests conducted by his classes, the psychologist asserts, have demonstrated that it is impossible to judge general ability and character by a photograph and that handwriting is not an accurate means of analyzing character.

New Invader Attacks King Cotton

Officials of Georgia, Florida, Louisiana, Tennessee and Mississippi are preparing to wage a mighty battle against the newest enemy of King Cotton—the Argentine weevil. The repulsive little pest, (top) already has invaded some sections of the south. Below, is a stalk of cotton which he and his kin ravaged near Lockhart, Ala.

ASSAULT CASE GUARD SCORES STARTS TODAY GOOD RECORDS

No Excitement in Evidence as Nergo is Arraigned

Statesville, N. C., Aug. 3.—(AP)—Walter Caldwell, 37 year-old Iredell county Negro, was arraigned in superior court here this morning on charges of criminally assaulting a farmer's wife and his trial was set for 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Fifteen state highway patrolmen, commanded by Lieut. L. R. Fisher of the Asheville office and Major Charles D. Farmer of Raleigh, head of the patrol, were here to aid officers in protecting the Negro if necessary.

Their presence had been requested by Sheriff John Moore after a mob had surrounded the jail here yesterday and demanded the prisoner, who had, however, been removed to another jail.

There was no indication of excitement among spectators who gathered around the court house this morning.

Caldwell was accused of assaulting Mrs. Macie Smith, 28, wife of George Smith, a well known farmer of the southern part of the county. The attack was alleged to have been made last Saturday.

Vote To Continue Sunday Services

Announcement was made today following a meeting of the committee in charge of the joint Sunday evening services that the meetings would continue for the time being at least.

Previously it had been announced that the services would be dispensed with during August, but the committee decided to continue the services.

Rev. Clarence Patrick, pastor of Immanuel Baptist church, delivered the sermon last Sunday night. Mrs. J. A. Karsneck rendered a special musical number, and H. A. McLaughlin led the singing. Rev. W. A. Ryan pastor of Eighth Street Christian church, had charge of the program. The meetings are held each Sunday night in Jarvis Memorial Methodist church.

Tattooing is regarded as a fine art in Burma.

N. C. Seashore Project Gets Approval Of House

Washington, Aug. 3.—The House has passed and sent to the senate a bill by Rep. Lindsay Warren of the First North Carolina district to authorize the establishment of Cape Hatteras National Seashore, North Carolina recreational project.

The seashore representative project, which would be the only one of its kind in the United States, it would be on Chicamacomico, Ocracoke, Roanoke and Collington islands.

NAVY VESSELS JOIN HUNT FOR MISSING PLANE

Flying Boat Over-Due With 11 Passengers Aboard

SEARCH CENTERS SOUTH BALBOA

Clipper and Other Pan American Ships Taken Out of Service to Seek Vessel

Balboa, Canal Zone, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The United States destroyers Bobbitt and Taylor steamed at top speed today toward a point 20 miles off Colon breakwater, where airplane observers reported the submerged luxury amphibian Santa Maria was seen in the sea.

A Pan-American-Grace Airline spokesman said there was no indication as to whether any of the 11 passengers or three crew men had survived.

Reports to the war department from a searching armada of 65 army and navy planes described the sighting of the plane's wreckage 20 miles due west of Colon in the "mosquito gulf" of the Atlantic and said there was no sign of life.

The destroyers, in canal transit at the time the report was received, hurried at forced draft toward the spot. On board the plane were two department of commerce officials, a woman and two children and other United States citizens.

Scores of planes, naval surface vessels and submarines had entered the search throughout the day on both sides of the isthmus.

The Santa Maria, en route from Guayaquil, Ecuador, with transfer passengers from Lima, Peru, seemingly overshot its Cristobal port in a cloudy sky at dusk last night.

Two squadrons from the navy air base at Coco Solo combed the area south of here for the plane, which had not been heard from since it reported bad weather at 7:15 p. m. last night.

A radio message then indicated the ship was nearing Cristobal, its destination on the Atlantic side of the canal and was descending in search of an opening in a heavy cloud bank.

The Pan American Clipper scheduled to take off at 6 a. m. today for Miami, Fla., and with which the missing ship was to have made connections, cancelled its flight and joined in the search.

All other Pan American Grace Airways ships also were taken from regular service to hunt the big amphibian which was flying from Guayaquil, Ecuador. The pilot was Stephen Dunn.

Tobacco Barn Burns With Loss Of $500

A tobacco barn on the farm of Mrs. Hortense Moye near Bell Arthur burned to the ground last night, with a loss estimated at $500, including the tobacco.

No insurance was carried on the tobacco or the barn. Origin of the fire was not determined.

COURTSHIP 66 YEARS ENDS IN MARRIAGE

Crown Point, Ind. (AP)—Two sweethearts of Civil War days came across the state line to get a marriage license without waiting the three days required by a new Illinois law.

They were George Sands, 86, of placerville, Calif., and Mrs. Ida Stevenson, 83, of Capron, Ill. Both had been married before.

Their first engagement was broken more than 60 years ago when Sands went west to seek a fortune.

Secondary Highway Needs Far In Excess Of Funds

Raleigh, Aug. 3.—The Highway Department's official family is not having to stay away nights in order to find something to do with the $2,000,000 allocated it by Governor Clyde Hoye for use on the secondary roads of North Carolina.

"We could use $20,000,000 instead of $2,000,000 and still not be able to do all we'd like to do," Vance Baise department engineer said this morning in discussing the allocation and plans for its use.

The department plans to spend the entire allocation in repairing and rebuilding weak spots in the secondary roads over which school buses run and which last winter became impassable in many sections.

Leader Predicts End Of Congress By August 25th

CITIZENS FEEL REDUCED RATE

July Bills Reveal Slice In Domestic Electricity Cost

A reduction in domestic electric rates put into effect July 1 by the Greenville Water and Light Commission was realized today as citizens began paying their bills for the past month.

That the reduction was felt was attested to by the fact that complaints were frequent on the streets and at the commission's offices where residents were paying their bills and expressing appreciation for the slice.

It was estimated that the reduction would average approximately 20 per cent, some home-owners getting a larger cut and some less, depending upon the amount of current they used.

One example, showing the largest reduction available, was where a resident had been paying $9.25 for current. His July bill was for only $7, a reduction of $2.25. Using the same basis, a person now may use as much electricity for $9.25 as he formerly would have to pay $11.50.

With announcement of the reduction, officials of the Water and Light Commission began a campaign, chiefly through newspaper advertising urging residents to use more electricity. This drive reaped results to such an extent that the total receipts for July will exceed the amount anticipated.

If residents had used no more electricity in July than they did in June the bills for the latter month would have been approximately $5,000 less than in June. As it was the bills totalled only approximately $2,100 less than in the previous month. It was pointed out that a person may use 150 more kilowatt hours now than before the reduction was put into effect for the same amount of money. The reduced rate applies only to domestic uses.

The president may well congress has adjourned, since this would mean the senate could not confirm or reject his selection until next year, several senators have taken exception to his plan.

Senator Borah (R-Ida) said there was no vacancy on the court. "There are only three ways a justice can be separated from the court," Borah said. "By impeachment, by resignation or by death." He recalled Van Devanter had merely retired.

BIG SUMS PAID TO TAR HEELS

Ehringhaus Paid $10,000 as Aide to Justice Department

Washington, Aug. 3.—(AP)—A statement by Attorney General Cummings disclosed today former Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus of North Carolina received $10,000 compensation from January 1 to June 30 as a special assistant attorney for the justice department.

Ehringhaus handled government cases involving alleged violations of a 1934 act banning munition shipments to belligerents in South America's Chaco war.

Cummings' statements were inserted into the congressional records by Chairman Glass (D-Va.) of the senate appropriations committee. The statements were made in compliance with the act appropriating funds to defray the expenses of special assistant attorneys.

The report also said Angus MacLean of Raleigh, N. C., a former assistant solicitor general received $6,000 as a special assistant attorney in Cherokee Indian cases in North Carolina.

Clym of the Clough, legendary English archer, is said to have lived one generation before Robin Hood.

Gillikin Driver Of Vehicle In Wreck

Corporal L. L. Jackson declared today after he had conferred with W. L. Gillikin, who was injured in a train-truck wreck near Grimesland yesterday in which Joseph Nassef was killed, that the injuree man said he was driving the truck which was struck by a Norfolk Southern passenger train.

The officer said he talked to Gillikin in the Tayloe hospital and told him that he said yesterday that Nassef was driving. Patrolman Jackson quoted the man as saying that he had been travelling the road for a long time and always had counted on the railway signal to warn him. The signal was declared to have been struck earlier in the morning by another truck and knocked down. It was first stated that the damaged signal was on this side of the tracks, but Patrolman Jackson said today it was on the other side, from which way the fish-laden truck was travelling.

Coroner A. Ellwanger said that an inquest would not be held for at least a week, when Gillikin will be able to testify.

The body of Nassef was taken to his home in New Bern yesterday afternoon.

Two persons were injured and if other badly shaken yesterday afternoon when lightning struck near a tobacco barn on the farm of C. L. Allen in the Red Oak community where a group had gathered.

A nephew of Mr. Allen was burned on the foot, but the injury was not believed serious. Ollie Allen was thrown to the floor of the barn by the impact of the shock and suffered a bruised hip.

Christmas Science Church
"Love" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches and Societies on Sunday, August 1.

The Golden Text was from II Corinthians 13:11—"Be perfect, be of good comfort, be of one mind, live in peace; and the God of love and peace shall be with you."

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us, God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in Him." (I John 4:16).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Love, the divine principle, is the Father and Mother of the universe, including man. The everlasting I AM is not bounded nor compressed within the narrow limits of physical humanity, nor can He be understood aright through mortal concepts. The precise form of God must be of small importance in comparison with the sublime question, 'What is infinite Mind or divine Love?' No form nor physical combination is adequate to represent infinite Love. A finite and material sense of God leads to formalism and narrowness; it chills the spirit of Christianity." (Page 256).

Transferred to Hawaii
Major and Mrs. Bromfield Whitthorne, who have been stationed at Fort Wright, Fisher's Island, New York, are sailing tomorrow on the Republic for Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, where Major Whitthorne has been ordered. Mrs. Whitthorne was formerly Miss Virginia Arthur, daughter of Mrs. L. C. Arthur, of this city.

CLUB SPEAKER REVIEWS AIMS

J. B. Kittrell Addresses Monday Night Rotary Meeting

By W. L. NISBET, Jr. (Club Reporter)
Looking forward to the best year in Rotary, the Greenville Rotary club, at their regular weekly meeting Monday night, heard a discussion of the committee set up for the new year by J. B. Kittrell, chairman of the aims and objects committee.

Declaring that a program for every meeting was essential to the club, Mr. Kittrell pointed out that programs for the next three months had been assigned to various committees and it was their duty to make preparation for their event.

In the organization by committees of the club for the coming year, he showed by means of mimeographed charts how each committee was established and tied up to the others.

At the conclusion of the meeting Secretary Harvey distributed literature to the chairmen of the various committees that would be helpful in their work for the new fiscal year.

President T. McM. Grant presided over the meeting. Secretary Harvey read a letter from the new District-Governor, John Parks, of Raleigh, which outlined his aims for the new Rotary year.

The club voted to support J. B. Kittrell in his capacity as chairman of the Inter-City group to recommend the postponement of the Inter-City meet between Fannville, Ayden, Bethel, Robersonville and Greenville until Spring.

Visiting Rotarians and guests of the club were A. V. Sheffield, of Norfolk, Va.; Adrian Brown, of Manteo, and Bo Farley of Greenville.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coon

Hollywood—Slight variations of an old movie theme, catalogued under the "Madame X" formula, are to be found in the new Kay Francis picture, "Confession." More important to those fans who are weary of this formula, the film also contains interesting novelties in the technique of screen narration.

These, credited to Joe May's direction, save "Confession" from the "just another movie" list. Its story is banally tear-jerking, but May's method of telling it is different, and his use of the camera is interesting and often exciting. You are likely to leave the theater, therefore, wondering if you haven't seen something new, after all.

Kay plays the wife, done wrong by Basil Rathbone, the charming snake. When she discovers, years later, her own long-lost daughter being beguiled by her betrayer, she says it with bullets. At the trial comes the confession, which tells all and—here is May's camera at work—neatly ties in and illuminates scenes from the movie's earlier stages.

Miss Francis, like Ruth Chatterton when she played these roles, wears blonde hair. If you cry easily, she'll perk your tears. To me, the best acting is by Jane Bryan, as the daughter, and Rathbone, Ian Hunter is there in a brief and thankless role.

Jean's Farewell
The posthumous farewell tour of Jean Harlow is to be taken in a bright, raucous and very funny vehicle expertly tailored to her measure and Clark Gable's. Jean had practically completed her role of daughter of a horse-racing family when her fatal illness took her from the cast. Adroit editing, plus the use of a double in certain minor connecting scenes, enabled the film to be completed. And "Saratoga" with a supporting cast including Lionel Barrymore, Frank Morgan, Walter Pidgeon, Una Merkel—is good comedy. Whether in the circumstances it will be enjoyed to the fullest depends, of course, on the emotional make-up of the individual seeing it.

An Intriguing Title
Often movie titles intrigue me, far beyond their importance, by their remoteness from any connection with the picture they adorn. "One Mile From Heaven" is one of these.

This is the story of the negro who adopts a white child and fights to keep it as her own. Fredi Washington, remembered from "Imitation of Life," plays the role. Claire Trevor is the newspaper reporter (strangely minus romantic lead) who brings up the issue to make a story. To the tune of gangsters, much melodrama, and comedy relief, Fredi is dispossessed.

LASSES WHITE SHOWS HERE THIS EVENING

Headliner in Tent Attraction Tonight Includes Noted Comedians and Entertainers

Lasses White, Honey Wilds and a supporting cast of 75 entertainers arrived in Greenville this morning for one performance—tonight at 8:00 o'clock. Lasses will be remembered by the older citizens as a noted comedian with the Al G. Fields Minstrels. Honey Wilds was also with Fields.

Included in the cast is a chorus of beautiful girls, a ten-piece orchestra. Uncle Ezra himself of radio-barn dance fame, the Cannon Sisters, Red Jenks and his magic trumpet, Stan Stanley and Wyley Kippic, the dancer.

A new interpretation of Hawaiian songs and dances will be presented by "Lamoana" and her group of tropical dancers.

The big tent theatre has been pitched at the corner of Broad and Central streets, in West Greenville, and there are seats for more than 3,000 persons, it is announced. The doors open at 7, show starts at 8 o'clock.

IT'S ODD, But It's Science

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE (AP Science Editor)

Oklahoma City—Kindergarten size rainstorms in western Oklahoma have given the U. S. weather authorities new ideas on the shapes of storms.

About 250 farmers and persons on relief, operating as the Oklahoma Climatic Research Association in Blaine, Kingfisher and Logan counties, have been mapping storms for a year. C. Warren Thornwhite, U. S. soil conservation service, tells the preliminary results in the review of the American Geographical Society.

Nearly 100 reports were available on single storms. The wind, it was found, tended to blow in "channels," about 20 to 30 miles apart. The channeling effect, says Mr. Thornwhite, may explain the puzzle of some fields eroding in dry country while those next door are nearly untouched. Channels were about eight miles wide.

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE NERVAUD

SYNOPSIS: Kay Crandons of the Lazy Nine impulsively hires Ted Grady, a jobless puncher. He helps her fight Josh Hastings, a "friendly" neighbor who wants to buy her ranch and marry Kay. Ted punnels Scrap Johnson, a cow hand who molested Kay. They shoot it out, wounding each other. Hastings sneaks up and kills Scrap with Ted's gun. A girl named Marion finds Ted and her nursing saves his life. He is arrested and about to be convicted of Scrap's murder when Kay stops the trial by a technical protest. Hastings kidnaps Kay, locks her in a cellar and tries to force her to agree to marriage.

Chapter 42

Kay's In Trouble!

TED'S first reaction, when Joe had taken him back to his cell and left him, was an immense relief and thankfulness for the delay that, for the moment, crowded out thoughts of anything else.

There was no doubt in Ted's mind that if the case had gone to the jury then, the verdict would have been guilty. But for Kay, all hope would be gone.

For a few minutes, thoughts of Kay filled his mind. How sweet she had looked! And how hurt and wistful her eyes had been as they met his hard, scornful glance that passed her by. Yet, how could she expect him to look or feel any other way? In spite of his deep resentment against Kay, he felt a glow of pride as he remembered how straight and defiant she had stood, as she challenged Sam Cutter.

She hadn't stopped to measure what people might think after that remark of Sam Cutter's about Ted having fought Scrap Johnson for something he had said about a "red-headed filly!" Naturally, everyone would know she was the girl involved, after that. But, in spite of it, she had proudly ignored the possibility of gossip, and had gained him this respite.

Ted's eyes narrowed, as he focussed his thought on just what advantage the change of venue of the trial might bring him. His first instinctive relief was premature, after all. The same forces that had undermined him here, would be brought to bear at the new trial. And if the jury in Idaho had not been impressed with the truth of his story, why did he hope to impress a Montana jury?

Ted clenched his hand and struck it fiercely against his cot as though sealing a sudden decision. Just sitting passively wasn't going to get him out of this mess! He'd had proof at this trial that the knowledge of his own innocence wasn't enough; and while he stayed in jail, how was he ever going to find new evidence to convince anyone else of it?

For the thousandth time, he prowled around his cell, trying to find some loophole of escape. He could hear the crowds that had come out of the court room tramping past outside. Through the small grated window, high up in one side, he could catch bits of conversation and comments about the trial, but there was no chance there of making a break. Even if he could have succeeded in wrenching the grating out of place, the opening was too small for him to squeeze himself through.

Some way or other, he must find his chance while they were transporting him from Idaho over into Montana. He must play the role of being passively acquiescent, and then watch his chance to make a break.

For a long time he thought out the possible openings there might be. When Joe brought him his lunch, he tried to find out whether they were going to take him around by train, or over the trail on horseback. But if Joe knew, he refused to tell.

Two Voices

IT WAS along some time in the afternoon that Ted's attention was attracted by two voices, in angry altercation outside his window. The crowds had ceased to pass by, and the small alley way that ran along the side of the jail had long since been deserted and quiet.

Impelled by a sudden curiosity, Ted dragged his cot over under the window, and stood up on it to listen to what the two men below were saying. The window was too high for him to see out, but he could distinctly hear their voices, which had now dropped to hoarse whispers.

"Shut up, I tell yuh!" one of them growled. "I won't go divvies with yuh at all, if yuh're goin' to be a fool."

"The red head was a dead game little sport," the other voice protested, and at his words, Ted's idle curiosity changed to tense attention. "I'm for getting her out of a mess like that."

"Yuh do, and everything's over between us!" The first voice growled. "And when I say 'over,' I mean 'over!' Get me?"

Ted heard a shuffling movement, then the second voice gave sullen assent.

"All right. Have it your own way! Where'd you say she was?"

"I ain't just rightly sure. Here's the story. I was upstairs in Red's joint, looking out the window and I seen the kid that upset the trial running down the street. All of a sudden, she falls flat, and this Hastings guy, who's been running after her, picks her up, and pitches her into his car and heads for the north end of town. Being kind of curious, I gets down in record time and on my cayuse that's waiting there, and points after him. He's got too much head start, though, and I loses track of him."

"I'm just about decidin' that there's no business in it for me, when I sees his car headed for the station. The Overland's just about due, and I gives chase. He leaves his car this side of the track and runs over to the platform where there's quite a crowd millin' about, that's come from the trial. The train comes in, before I gets across the track, and while I'm waitin' for it to pass, I have a look at the car. It's empty."

"I hang around until the train has started, and he comes back talking with a guy. He says, 'I've just got Kay Crandon off on a train. That's where I smells a rat in earnest, because I know damn well he hasn't got her off on the train. So, I high-tails it back to the north end of town, and do a bit of investigatin on my own. And I'm satisfied, he's got her hid in Ran Simpkin's deserted blacksmith shop there. That information's worth money, boy. And he's got enough dough to pay through the nose!"

Standing at rigid attention through this recital, Ted felt a surge of rage through him that sent the blood pounding into his head, so that for a moment he was drowned out. When he heard them again, they were moving off, and had changed the subject.

"Yeah. The fire's been burning five days, now. Creepin' up toward the Bitter Root, they say. They sent out a call for Runyon—" the voices died off in the distance. Ted, after listening to the retreating footsteps, stepped heavily down from the cot.

'He'll Go Easy Enough'

THE astonishing information that he had overheard filled Ted with desperate resolve. If he had determined to make a break before, it was a thousand times more necessary now.

All memory of Kay's treacherous betrayal of his hiding place was wiped out of his mind, as Ted thought of her present predicament. The fact that she was at Josh Hastings' mercy made it all the more devastating. Somehow, somehow, he had to get free to save her.

He dragged his cot back to its original position, and paced back and forth, listening with strained nerves for any sound in the corridor. At last a door opened at the far end, and he heard Sam Cutter's voice, then the tramp of footsteps.

"He'll go easy enough," Sam Cutter was saying. "Too bad you missed taking him on the Overland, but you'll make better time now, cutting across the mountains. You can take the same horse that brought him over."

"O.K.," Zeke Farley answered.

Ted dropped down on his cot and looked up with an expression of stupid apathy as the two sheriffs appeared at the door.

"Why in hell couldn't you have finished up the trial here?" he demanded irritably. "For Pete's sake get a move on and get me over to Montana where I can get this business cleared up once and for all!"

Sam Cutter threw a significant look toward Zeke Farley as though saying, "You see! I told you, you wouldn't have any trouble."

"Believe me, we're not wasting any time," Zeke Farley stepped over to Ted. "How about my putting you on parole?"

"I got here all right, didn't I?" Ted snarled. "Ask the sheriff there."

"Sure he did," Sam Cutter answered, adding with thinly veiled sarcasm, "I'm not afraid of a prisoner giving me the slip, when I've got my gun on me!"

"Neither am I," Zeke Farley countered grimly. "Come on."

In a daring break, Ted escapes, tomorrow.

these natural instincts as vices, to call a child naughty for yielding to them, to insist that he should know better. They may not believe in the doctrine of original sin, but they act as if they did.

The only way to deal with children is to accept them as they are. A knowledge of human nature with all its possibilities for good, is essential to parents. One cannot drive ahead and force one's own point of view onto the child. The parent's function is so to guide the child as to develop its best qualities and talents.

Too many rules, too many secrets, too much oversight and restraint, only antagonize the child and stir him to rebel. Of course the ideal child would be always yielding and obedient. But the fact remains that children are not naturally either.

A child is not often wilfully naughty. He needs guidance, help and understanding in overcoming and learning to control his natural instincts.

Swaggering Ansaldo's Lead Rebel Aviators

By CHARLES S. FOLTZ

WITH THE NATIONALISTS IN SPAIN (AP) — The flying Ansaldo brothers are as firm on the nationalist side of Spain's war as the Dean brothers are in American baseball.

Juan, Ansaldo, slim and dark-haired, is the family's "Dizzy" Dean, the flyer about whom a host of legends have been told.

Brother Pablo is more quiet, but his flying prowess is none the less famed. There's a third brother, but he's on the government side, so Franco's followers have little to say about him.

Cousins And Uncles

But the brothers are not all there is a host of relatives, all bearing the name: Ansaldo, who have become flyers.

"The air practically belongs to the Ansaldo's," Juan is quoted as saying.

The Babe Ruth of the nationalist air force is Lieutenant Pombó, who flew to Mexico for a girl and married her. Now he is a proud father and were ordered to proceed there the morning.

Five Out Of Twelve

There was a race for the honor of being the first to land. Of 12 Spanish pilots in the race, five of them were Ansaldo's.

Juan got there first and landed. Both he and Jimenez were astounded when the planes that followed veered off and waved frantically at them.

Juan and Jimenez looked around. A party of men in uniform was running toward them. Looking further, they saw the flags flying over the airport were Basque government flags.

They could not start the motor, but Juan took several shots at the approaching soldiers with his revolver while Jimenez trained his machine gun on them.

Something had gone wrong with his motor. Juan was trying to fix it when the wild-eyed mechanic yelled, "Hecbre—look at the flags now!"

The soldiers had left the field, hauled down the Basque flag, and pointed to the relieved pilots.

A Little Exaggerated

Juan, airfield stories say, kills rabbits in his spare time by hitting them on the run with his landing wheels. Pablo, say similar stories, chases eagles until they fall from weariness.

Juan says the rabbit story has been exaggerated. "I don't hit 'em with the wheels. I just scare 'em to death."

fighting in Franco's air fleet. Pombó's part in the war has not been reported, however.

Juan Ansaldo's latest stunt gave his mechanic, a partly and long-suffering sergeant named Jimenez, a bad case of jitters.

On June 7 flyers at the Victoria airport were informed that land troops had captured the International air field northeast of Bilbao and were ordered to proceed there the morning.

Johnson's Stock Boosted For Gubernatorial Race

Reflector Bureau

By J. C. BASKERVILL

Raleigh, Aug. 3.—The stock of state treasurer Charles M. Johnson as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor in 1940 is definitely on the up-and-up right now and expected to get better, as time goes on, according to many political observers here. The thing that has given Johnson's stock the biggest boost of all so far has been the appointment of his cousin, Robert Grady Johnson, as director of the prison division of the State Highway and Public Works Commission, it is generally agreed here.

While those who know the back-story of the prison situation are convinced that Robert Grady was selected from the standpoint of merit and ability and because Governor Clyde R. Hoey and the members of the highway commission felt he knew more about the job and could handle it better than anyone else, it is also agreed that the appointment has some political angles that are already reacting to the benefit of Cousin Charles Johnson.

At the present time there are four potential candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor in 1940, it is generally agreed here. They are as follows: State Treasurer Charles M. Johnson, J. M. Broughton, regarded as the "Heir Apparent" or "machine" candidate; Willis Smith, former speaker of the house and believed likely to run on a middle-of-the-road liberal platform, and State Auditor George Ross. There is as yet no indication as to who will be the candidate of the McDonald "Hoerals", although the yell undoubtedly bring out a candidate eventually.

As all those who know anything about North Carolina politics know, the State Highway and Public Works Commission, together with the prison division, is the most politically potent division of the state government. For with its more than 10,000 paid employees in every county in the state and its 15,000 to 17,000 prisoners—for even prisoners have political influence with their families and relatives and when they are released to go back home—the highway department is credited with being able to swing and deliver not less than 50,000 votes for whatever candidate the chairman and the commission happens to be for. The opponents of every administration charge that this is the case and most of the administration leaders privately agree that it is the case. As a result, any prospective candidate for governor must "stand in" with the highway commission, since 50,000 votes shine gun on them.

Something had gone wrong with his motor. Juan was trying to fix it when the wild-eyed mechanic yelled, "Hecbre—look at the flags now!"

is dominated by the Standard Oil Company. Indications are that Robert Grady was only too glad to get out from under this job and that Cousin Charles was even more glad, since too many were beginning to think, if not to say, that both Robert Grady and Cousin Charles were getting to smell entirely too strong of gasoline and Standard Oil grease. Friends of both are hoping that the pungent odor of gasoline that has surrounded both for some time will completely disappear before June, 1940 as a result of Robert Grady's resignation as chief oil trust lobbyist here.

Still another factor that may react more favorably to the benefit of Cousin Charles is that some see in the selection of Robert Grady as prison director the possibility that he may be being groomed eventually for the chairmanship of the highway commission. It is no secret that there is already considerable dissatisfaction with Frank L. Dunlap as chairman and some are already predicting that he is going to find the job too irksome, if not too big and cite the fact that now since Johnson has been named to relieve him of the prison end of his job the state is now paying salaries of $13,500 a year to two men to do what E. B. Jeffress and Capus M. Waynick did alone for $6,000 a year. So looking the situation entirely from a political standpoint, State Treasurer Johnson is regarded as sitting pretty right now, as a result of ousting the other candidates for governor to the draw in lining up the highway and prison departments. The only trouble is whether he can hold on to this advantage for three more years.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington—President Roosevelt has buried a ghost that almost walked again—the "White House spokesman."

It doesn't matter much outside of Washington but when things go wrong at White House press conferences, it jangles a lot of reporter's nerves. And something went wrong the day after the senate formally knocked down the supreme court bill.

The usual hundred or so correspondents entered the executive office in the usual bleacher rush, exchanged the usual gossipy badinage with the President, and as usual got down to hard cases. What was the President's view on the court issue?

"Let this be just background," said the President. Now that is usually the prelude to an informative interchange in which the President rounds up background factors which the reporters may write on their own responsibility without directly quoting him.

Background Rule

But the President, instead of talking incidentals abruptly launched into a sort of extemporaneous fireside chat. In spite of the defeat of the court bill, he said, much good had been accomplished. The supreme court had reversed itself on several important issues, adopting "new blood" views. If not new members. The country had been made court-conscious and constitution-minded. Moreover, he said, the objectives he sought to obtain through an enlarged court were still his objectives and he would still strive for them.

But the statements were all made under the "background" rule never before imposed by President Roosevelt when really expressing his own views or giving other news. Was the old "White House spokesman" used by President Coolidge to be revived?

It will be remembered that when President Coolidge came into office he declined to be quoted directly in press conference interviews. Questions had to be submitted hours in advance and he would answer only those he chose. Moreover reporters could not say the President declined to comment on such and such questions. Unanswered questions just had to be forgotten. To cap it off, the reporters could not write that "President Coolidge said today—" They had to write that "a White House spokesman said—"

With a few modifications, President Hoover followed the same procedure, although virtually eliminating the cumbersome "White House spokesman."

Restrictions Lifted

Then Roosevelt came into office and his press conferences were a blast of fresh air by comparison. He could be quoted. He did not require questions to be submitted in advance. He took them on the fly, answering some, ducking others, declining to answer yet others by saying simply "no news on that."

Best of all the whole show could be reported—with minor exceptions, at times he talked "off the record," when nothing he said might be used. At other times he talked "for background." In such cases, the information could be used but not attributed to the President.

When he imposed this latter restriction on his comments about the court bill defeat, most reporters thought the "spokesman" had been revived even though only temporarily. It was a gruesome prospect.

New York—Most of the stinging critical barbs credited to Dorothy Parker and other town wits are not to be believed—they are usually the inspirations of professional gag writers.

Nevertheless there are moments when the celebrities themselves outdo even the gagwriters, and this seems to be one of them.

"What sort of singing is this?" Black inquired, surveying the unabashed crooner.

"I'm the wandering minstrel type," he replied. "I sing as the wandering minstrels did of old."

Snow Hill, Aug. 3.—Peahead Walker's Greene county Billies jumped on a pair of Greenville pitchers here yesterday afternoon, and when the final verse was over, the Greenies were on the short end of a 15-1 score.

The Greene chunkers yielded 20 hits. Every member of the Snow Hill club hit safely at least once, and all but two got two or more hits.

Emil Zak, Ace of the Snow Hill pitchers, was reached for five hits. All of these came in the first three innings. He hurled hitless ball for the rest of the route. Zak also gave some assistance in piling up the huge score. He homered and singled—batting in three runs. Robinson also hit for the circuit.

While on the subject of scoring, how's this for a contrast: The five games played by the Greenies prior to yesterday were like this—2-1; 2-1; 1-0; 3-0; 1-0. And yesterday's score totaled more than were scored against the locals in five games.

Yesterday's victory was the 12th for the Snow Hill Ace. He has lost only two games this season.

Calliguri, starting hurler for the Greenies, yielded five runs in the first two frames. He held the Billies scoreless in the third. But in the next verse he put a pair of Billies on bases. Earl Williams came in to pitch, and Robby Robinson homered the relief hurler first offering.

Powell opened the game with a safety. Norwood followed with another single. Thompson grounded out, but Pignataro singled to score Powell. Norwood stopping at third. On a delayed steal Bistrot threw to Metborn and the return throw caught Norwood at the plate.

Rudisill started Greenville's second with a double. Jarvis' fly put Rudisill on third. Roy walked. The Greenies attempted another double steal—but the Bistrot-Metborn combination cut off the man at the plate.

A single by Thompson in the third was the last Greenville hit of the game.

Wall, Robinson, Soufas and Latham made three hits each for the Billies. The five hits of the Greenies were divided among as many players.

Greenville is playing Ayden at Third Street Park here this afternoon.

STILL THEY WIN

Like To Snap Youngsters? Professional Tells Just How

"SHOOTING" BABY

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW
(Associated Press Feature Service Writer)

NEW YORK

Blond children should be photographed against a dark background.
Small babies should be photographed in dresses, because a tiny baby hasn't a beautiful body.

Don't plump a child down with its face turned right into the glaring sun, and expect it to look happy while it's being photographed.

Don't stand a child up with its back to the street, so that unconscious pedestrians across the way sneak into the picture, and in the finished product appear to be walking on top of your child's head.

Do's and don'ts like these for photographing children are of endless interest to Mrs. Ruth Alexander Nichols, nationally-known photographer of children. She's taken an infinite number of professional pictures of tiny babies, not-so-tiny babies, and children of all sizes.

Makes Nursery Of Studio

Most of them Mrs. Nichols photographs in her Westfield, N. J., studio, where she can tuck sleeping babies away in cribs after the picture-taking is over, and where her maid is quite capable of turning out baby meals.

In fact, her ability as a baby-pacifier is so widespread that often her friends leave their offspring with her for an afternoon, even when picture-taking isn't planned.

But Mrs. Nichols can't stay away from the camera long, so she's soon at work practicing new shooting angles on the children while they play.

She thinks amateurs could do a lot of thinking about angles, too. Most of Mrs. Nichols' shots are made from the top of a step ladder, with the camera occupying the paint bucket's place. She suggests the same arrangement for amateurs.

If you climb a step ladder, you can get a good shot of a baby who's lying on his back, she says. If he's lying on his stomach, take him from above, but shoot toward his face. Children who are playing on the floor must be photographed from above, else one gets in the other's way.

Blanket's Good Background

A comfortable position for a very young baby, who's being photographed, says Mrs. Nichols, is lying on a pillow.

As for backgrounds, a blanket makes a fine one for small babies

Hauger grounded to Myers, who touched second to force Rollins.

Mooney was opposed by Rollins, the league's strike-out king. The Tarboro boys weren't fooled by Big Jim's strike-out ball—or perhaps he left it home—and only three strike outs were recorded.

The locals reached Rollins for 8 hits, and they mixed the blows right to get three earned runs.

Sharkey's double and a pair of walks filled the bases with one out in the locals' second. Ware fled to Villeplique, who made a perfect throw to the plate—Sharkey hit the dirt, and was safe.

Williamston tied things by counting in the fourth on a walk to Harp an da triple by Stevens—but Tarboro went ahead in the next inning when George Rimmer homered.

The locals' other run—the winning tally—came in the seventh. Manager Henry golfed one to right, and he continued on to third when McCay let the ball get away from him. Henry scored on Campbell's single.

Henry and Jim Tatum, each with a pair of hits, accounted for half of the locals' eight safeties.

STOP THOSE CHILLS AND FEVER!

Take a Proven Medicine for Malaria

Don't suffer like a dog. The minute you feel a chill or fever coming on, start taking Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. This good, old medicine will soon fix you up.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic contains tasteless quinine and iron. It quickly stops chills and fever and also tends to build you up. That's the double effect you want.

The next time you suffer an attack of malaria, don't take chances with self-angled or untried preparations. Get Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. It's pleasant to take as well as effective.

All drug stores sell Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic, 50c and $1. The latter size is the more economical.

Sport Stunts

By PAP

Students of tennis form, who had been shouting to the high heavens that Frankie Parker never would amount to anything because he lacked a good forehand, have been strangely silent ever since the Milwaukee youngster's great showing in the Davis cup challenge round. Parker routed Charles Hare to give the U.S. the point that meant victory over Great Britain in the international tests.

Perhaps Frankie did not need a good forehand to down Hare in such convincing fashion. Hare showed enough to make Don Budge hustle a few days before his match with Parker, and, on the strength of that showing, was conceded a fair chance of beating Parker. What the American youngster lacked he more than made up for in court strategy. He made Hare play the way he wanted him to and won easily. After all, that's what Parker set out to do, so more power to him.

Few young stars in any field of athletic endeavor are without mechanical flaws. Remember how the experts hopped on Joe Louis after Max Schmeling took him apart and showed up his utter lack of defense against righthand punches?

Bob Feller's jerky delivery made him a target for form analysts. Their dire prediction that he would throw his arm out came mighty near being realized when a sore arm forced the sensational young Cleveland hurler to the sidelines. Feller is pitching a slightly different brand of ball since his return to action. Indications are he will prove quite a hurler before he winds up his career.

It has been pointed out that Thumping Jimmy Thomson's back-swing is entirely too fast. Maybe it is, but Jimmy stands pretty much alone when it comes to pounding the little white ball for distance. Paul Runyan has many flaws in his swing. It is only a three-quarters swing; he sways his body; he fails to keep his head down. Yet, over a period of years, Paul has done fairly well in this game of golf.

Gold Bugs Whitewash New Bern Bears, 4-0

New Bern, Aug. 3.—Doc Smith's Bruins discovered this afternoon that an ace is a hard thing to beat—especially when the ace on the hill is Owen (Ace) Elliott, Goldsboro's righthander and the league's top man in total victories.

The Ace held the Bears to two harmless hits yesterday, and his mates cashed in with a 4-0 victory by taking advantage of misuses by the locals. Elliott fanned five, walked two. Yesterday's victory was the 14th of the season for the Ace. He has lost four decisions.

Bill Averett hurled well for the Bruins, but couldn't offset bobbles made by his teammates in early innings.

Balla opened the game with a single, and stole second. Averett fanned Pitzer. Musser singled. Balla, trying to tally on Musser's hit, was trapped between third and home—he scored when Thornton threw wild.

Tony Maisano's double. Overton's infield rap which failed to bring a put-out, and an error on Elliott's grounder filled the bases in the second. Catcher Melchor poked Maisano off third. After Balla had grounded out, Overton scored when Thornton erred Pitzer's grounder.

Two walks and an error let in a Goldsboro run in the fourth, and then Overton singled to send in another.

Two more game were added to the long list of those postponed in the City softball league yesterday afternoon when the Lawyers-Carolina Dairy contest was put off by agreement and the Blount-Harvey Person-Garrett game was postponed on account of rain.

Today's schedule calls for games between the league-leading Tadlock Mutual Insurance agency and Coburn Shoe store, and Flanagan Buggy company and Carolina Sales.

No announcement has been made of any postponed games to be played tomorrow afternoon, an off day, but it is probable some of the teams will get together to play games cut off.

Thursday's schedule calls for contests between the lawyers and Person-Garrett at Third Street Stadium, and Coburn's vs. Blount-Harvey at the College diamond.

Friday Carolina Dairy is scheduled to play Carolina Sales at Third Street stadium and Tadlock's is due to meet Flanagan's at the college.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Contradictory price trends spotted today's stock market with rubbers and specialties pushing to the fore while yesterday's climbing steels and motors retreated.

Near the fourth hour favorite issues were up fractions to two or more points and those on the selling side were down as much. Activity was head of the previous session.

Bonds were inclined to edge forward. Transfers approximated 950,000 shares.

New York Cotton

New York, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, three higher to one lower with favorable weather partly offset by trade buying.

An improved demand from the trade, as well as active New Orleans buying sent prices up to net gains of eight to 15 points after the opening with contracts comparatively scarce.

December advanced to 10.79 and at midday was quieted at 10.68, with prices generally 16 to 18 points net higher.

Toward the close the market reacted partially under hedge selling. Prices ended steady, five to eight points higher. Spot steady, middling 10.04.

COTTON ROADS HELP SOUTH

(Continued from page one) in particular. Every mile of cotton road built absorbs in cotton reinforcing fabric about 10,500 square yards, which represents eight or 10 bales of cotton, or the production of 10 to 20 acres. This 14 and one-half mile stretch used cotton fabric which required 149 bales of cotton.

Marine Colonel Guards 800 Americans Marooned in Threatened City

(By the AP Feature Service)

THE PROTECTION of some 800 American citizens in bullet-pierced Peiping lies in the large, capable lands of cool-headed Col. John Marston, veteran officer of the United States Marine Corps.

Officers at marine headquarters in Washington say that Marston, commander of the detachment of 490 "devil dogs" at the American embassy in the ancient Chinese capital, can be counted on to exercise alertness and good judgment in looking after the safety of the strife-beleaguered Americans.

Long Service Abroad

Colonel Marston is a six-foot, 200 pounder, of jovial disposition who has been in "nasty situations" before and has a way of winning the good will of foreign soldiers and citizens. He has had considerable service in foreign countries at periods when the anti-American spirit it was running strong among the natives.

In 1914 he participated in the occupation of Vera Cruz, Mexico, and the engagement in connection with that expedition. From 1915 to 1918 he served in troubled Hawaii, taking part in operations against insurrectionary forces and was cited for meritorious service there.

Cited in Nicaragua

He commanded the American detachment at the American legation, Managua, Nicaragua, from 1922 to 1924, and was commended by the major general commandant of the marine corps for the energy, good judgment and fact which he displayed.

From 1929 to 1931 he was attached to the Nicaraguan national guard, and for his services received the Nicaraguan medal of distinction and the Nicaraguan medal of merit.

Colonel Marston, who is 52 years old, hails from Germantown, Pa. He was appointed a second lieutenant in the marine corps 29 years ago and was made a colonel in 1935. He has been in command of the marines at Peiping since April of this year.

Commander of Asiatic Fleet Follows Far East Dispute by Radio

(By the AP Feature Service)

HIGHEST ranking American military officer in the war-clouded Far East is Admiral Harry Yarnell, commander of the Asiatic fleet of the United States Navy.

Yarnell is a 62-year-old, Iowa-born "salt," who has sailed the seven seas and loves the life of a sailor. As a cadet engineer he was aboard the battleship Oregon when it made its famous voyage around The Horn at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war.

Student Of Foreign Affairs

His flagship, the heavy cruiser Augusta, has sailed north, but Admiral Yarnell can get in immediate touch by radio with the American embassy in Peiping where Col. John Marston and his small detachment of marines are protecting 800 marooned American citizens.

Yarnell also maintains radio contact with naval headquarters in Washington.

Fellow officers say he is an ideal combination of the sea-dog and student of international affairs which has a bearing on naval problems. He was a naval adviser at the London treaty conference in 1930 where he became acquainted with several Japanese naval officers who now have positions of his command.

Served With Sims

Admiral Yarnell has a great enthusiasm for flying and is particularly proud of the navy's air force, rated the foremost in the world.

He frequently accompanies naval fliers on scouting trips over the Pacific.

During the World war he was on the staff of the late Admiral Sims, commander of American naval forces in European waters.

Yarnell is rated one of the foremost authorities on the hydrography, as well as the economic possibilities, of the Philippines.

New N. C. Gasoline Commiss' Named By Governor Hoey

Oil Companies Get Small Comfort From Announcement of Personnel of Board Yesterday

Raleigh, Aug. 3.—There was small comfort for the big gasoline and oil companies in the announcement yesterday of the new State Gasoline and Oil Commission, if these concerns were as interested in the commission's personnel as has been repeatedly reported in many quarters.

Of the five members of the commission, Commissioner of Revenue A. J. Maxwell and Director of Gasoline and Oil Division H. L. Shankle, are ex-officio members by reason of their connection with the Revenue Department and not one of the other three is reputedly the choice of the oil and gas barons. This trio consists of Thomas S. Royster, Granville county, Robert M. Cox, Forsyth, and David M. Buck, Yancey.

Mr. Royster, who represented his county in the 1937 general assembly, was a member of the gasoline commission which reported to the last legislature and whose recommendations were bitterly fought by the oil lobby. The Granville man was one of the wheel horses in securing passage of the measure and there is no reason to suppose that the companies which fought his bill will be any too well pleased with his appointment.

Name D. R. Graham Examiner Auditor For Credit Unions

Columbus County Man Given Supervision Over 65 Firms Operating in North Carolina

Raleigh, Aug. 3.—Appointment of D. R. Graham of Tabor, Columbus county, as examiner auditor for the 65 North Carolina Credit Unions operated under the supervision of the State Department of Agriculture was announced today by Commissioner of Agriculture W. Kerr Scott.

He will examine and audit books regularly for the 8,534 credit union members and assist the superintendent of the credit unions in his present capacity. In 10 years the credit organizations have accumulated resources totaling $733,480, have made 40,917 loans totaling $4,323,420.

Born in Columbus county June 27, 1894, he attended the Tabor public schools and was graduated from the high school in 1921. After a year at the University of North Carolina he entered the tobacco business and served as a clerk on the markets of the Carolinas.

He was employed as gasoline tax auditor in the Department of Revenue from May 9, 1927 until September 30, 1934 when he resigned to become assistant secretary of the North Carolina Petroleum committee. With the dissolution of the NRA, the petroleum committee position was abolished and for several months he was employed by the State Allotment Board at State College.

The first woman suffrage convention was held at Seneca Falls, N. Y., in 1848.

Have you Eyes that can read between lines?

Penetrating Eyes

Eye large and searching. A characteristic of this type of eye is its resemblance to the Oriental "slant". This narrow appearance is partially due to the almond shape of the eye, but also to the contraction of the muscles they draw the lids tautly over the eye.

The clarinet was developed by Joseph Christopher Denner at Nurnberg in 1690.
