Tobacco Continues to Sell Good Today, But Rain Reduces Volume Offerings

(By Associated Press)

Tobacco prices on the 16 flue-cured markets of the North-Carolina-South Carolina belt continued strong today, as reports from yesterday's opening sales showed official averages better than the $25 a hundred estimated.

Mullins, S. C.'s largest market and the largest in the belt sold 1,047-140 pounds for $262.359.50, an average of $26.05.

At Dillon one warehouse reported an official average of $28.12 and another $27.10 for yesterday's sales. Prices were reported equally as good today, but rain reduced the volume of offerings.

Lumberton sold an estimated 630,000 today. Official figures for the opening day had not been compiled this morning.

At Timmonsville the initial break brought an average of $26.96. The whole group of warehouses was reported filled today.

Officials said they believed first day sales were merely "feathers" and farmers assured of good prices would begin flooding warehouse floors. The opening price exceeded by less than a cent the Georgia average.

Salary Schedules Being Worked Out By School Group

Committee of the North Carolina School Commission To Submit Report at Tomorrow's Meet

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Aug. 11.—The salary committee of North Carolina's S. C. of Commission today is putting the touch on the report it will submit at tomorrow's meeting of the full commission, when salaries for 31,000 school employees, including 23,700 teachers will be fixed.

All indications are that the committee will recommend and the full committee will approve salaries which will be increased from last year by a flat ten per cent rate, plus increments normally due by reason of length of service.

The schedules will call for salaries ranging from $87.50 for teachers holding Grade A certificates and without previous experience to $112.50 for Grade A certificate holders with eight years experience.

The entire matter of salaries and allocations to county and city school units is being studied with great care and in great detail, according to Lloyd E. Griffin, secretary of the commission. He pointed out that the task is a difficult one, involving many different angles and calling for the exercise of considerable "give-and-take" as well as "know-how."

"We have $24,500,000 to spend on the public schools, given by the legislature," he said. "If our estimates, or guesses, prove wrong and we authorize spending more than that, we catch it from the Budget Commission and the legislature. If we don't spend it all, then the teachers claim that we are holding out on them."

FOUR DIE IN FLORIDA PLANE CRASH

Taking off from Daytona Beach an Eastern Air Lines plane brought death to four and injury to five when it crashed against a power pole. Those who met death were the pilot, co-pilot and two passengers. The wrecked plane is shown above after its fatal plunge.

OUTLOOK GOOD FOR THIS BELT

B. B. Sugg Optimistic After Visit To The Border Markets

B. B. Sugg, member of the firm of Smith and Sugg, Greenville tobacco warehousemen, has just returned from attending opening sales on several markets in the Border belt and appears optimistic over the outlook for this belt.

One of the lowest averages struck was on the Conway market, where the average price was estimated by Mr. Sugg at 18 cents, with the quality only fair.

He said the quality of primings on most other markets was "very good." Medium primings were somewhat stronger than on opening day last year, but the best grades were declared to be a little lower than on the corresponding day last year.

He added that there was not much demand for real common, sun-baked, lifeless primings.

"I believe that prospects of general farm legislation at the next session of congress will sustain good prices during the entire season," declared Mr. Sugg. "Too, the Georgia and Old belts had difficulty in producing their tobacco crop this year and there is no certainty that Eastern North Carolina farmers will not have many difficulties with their 1938 crop, due to blue mold and other diseases prevalent throughout the entire flue cured territory."

Mr. Sugg called attention that the flue cured led all other belts in prices last season, "and I believe it will do so again this year by a comfortable margin."

He urged farmers to keep their tobacco dry and market it in the "very best condition" in order to secure the highest possible price.

Pitt County Court Concludes Session

This week's term of County court was completed at an afternoon session yesterday at which six cases were disposed of, following a morning session at which seven charges were aired.

Cases tried after the luncheon recess follow: Lewis Ellis, Negro, liquor for sale, 60 days; Mamie Lee Grimes, alias Mamie Lee Williams, Negro, trespass, 90 days; Jesse Moore and George Lynch, Negro boys, larceny of beans, six months sentences suspended upon payment of cost and value of the stolen property; Elijah Grimes, Negro, driving without a license, six months sentence suspended upon payment of $25, costs to be deducted and barred from driving for two years; Jesse S. Willard, driving drunk, not guilty; Heber Hardee, liquor for sale, 18 months term, appealed and bond set at $600.

Rowan Resident Takes Own Life On Wedding Eve

Salisbury, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Death early today claimed Homer L. Lyerly, 40, who according to a death bed statement made to his fiancée in the presence of physicians and officers, shot himself through the head Tuesday on the eve of a sunrise wedding service.

Plans have been completed for his funeral Thursday at 10:30 a. m. in eastern Rowan county.

He was found shortly after noon at his father's home in the county, where he lived, with a bullet hole through his head, a pistol lying nearby. At a local hospital where he was taken he told his fiancée, Miss Lena Brown of Granite Quarry, he shot himself "to help you." Despite an investigation no causes have been assigned for the act.

GERMAN PLANE BEGINS FLIGHT

Flying Boat Off On Survey Trans-Atlantic Trip

Luebeck, Germany, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The great German ocean-going seaplane, Nordmeer, flew across scenes of Spanish marine war today, beginning her maiden survey flight for a new trans-Atlantic airline between Germany and the United States.

This afternoon, six hours after she had left this city's airport, the Nordmeer was over the Bay of Biscay on her way to Lisbon.

The 16-ton flying boat took off at 7:50 a. m. (1:50 a. m. EST) from this Baltic seaport and headed southwest for the flight to Portugal, considered the most dangerous section of the journey because it is over land, spanning south Germany, part of France, Switzerland, Spain and Portugal.

Flight Captain Joachim Blankenburg said he expected to make the first leg in about 13 hours. From Lisbon the ship is scheduled to fly to the Azores, where the catapult ship, Schwabenland, is standing by to refuel and launch the plane for the 2,300-mile hop to New York.

About an hour and a half out of Luebeck, Captain Blankenburg reported his position, as over Hilversum, The Netherlands, and said the giant air boat was cruising at a speed of 162 miles and hour.

Governor Hoey Sets Mark For Hot Weather Speaking

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Aug. 11.—Governor Clyde R. Hoey is setting a new "hot weather" speaking record which is likely to stand for some time to come.

During July he made 19 talks of one kind or another in 15 different places, all but one in North Carolina. Including today's address at Wrightsville Beach to the North Carolina commissioners' convention he has delivered 11 addresses in 8 different places in the first 11 days of August.

The governor's program already calls for three more talks in three upstate places next week and there is no telling how many more will be arranged before the end of this hot month.

TEACHER LIST IS ANNOUNCED

Names of Instructors For County Schools Revealed

A list of teachers for the various schools in the county system was made available at the offices of the Pitt Board of Education today.

Only one change was made in the principalships, this being at Pacotons, where Hyatt Forrest has been turned over for the position. The teacher turned-over also was small this year.

The Pitt county schools will begin the 1937-38 session on Thursday September 2, thereby allowing time for work to be organized by the first of the following week. It has been announced that schools in the strictly rural sections will be started earlier in the morning so that class work can be completed earlier in the day and the children help in harvesting crops.

This list of teachers for the various schools in the county system follow: Arthur—Nelson Hunsucker, principal, Miss Geneva Brown, Russell Jefferson, Miss Beatrice Hammond, Miss Mary Hoover Boyd, Mrs. S. P. Pollard, Miss Ariene Parker, Miss Lillie Dare Brown, Miss Chessie Edmondson.

GREENVILLE MERCHANTS READY FOR DOLLAR DAY

Greenville merchants were prepared today for what is expected to be one of the biggest sales events in the history of the city, tomorrow—the semi-annual Dollar Day.

Thousands of bargains will go on sale in the various business houses participating in the event. With the stores closed this afternoon, clerks and others were busy arranging their stock and marking down goods.

But all the goods to be offered at drastic reductions is not overstock. Buyers report they have purchased hundreds of Dollar Day specials for this big sales event. Dollar Day always brings bargains to thrifty shoppers in the trading territory of Greenville and this year will see more than ever.

JAPS DISPLAY SEA STRENGTH IN CHINESE CITY

Advance of First Fleet Anchors in Port of Shanghai

AROUSSED OVER ASSASSINATIONS

Unconfirmed Chinese Reports Claim Japanese Army being Defeated in Battle

(By Associated Press)

Tokyo answered today with a war-like display of naval power what Japanese considered the assassinations of a Japanese naval officer and seaman at Shanghai Monday.

The advance of the Japanese first fleet anchored at Shanghai and landed a detachment of marines to reinforce the Japanese garrison.

The resulting increased tension in central China was matched by a reported major battle between Chinese and Japanese troops at Nankow pass, 30 miles northwest of Peiping.

Unconfirmed Chinese reports were that the Japanese army was being defeated. Japanese said the China city of Nankow, core of the area where forces of the two nations have been massing for two weeks, was in flames.

Arrival of the Japanese warships at Shanghai, coupled with evacuation of Japanese civilians along the Yangtze river indicated Nippon was prepared for a large scale undeclared war in the rich central China commercial region.

Tokyo considered the slaying of the two Japanese as having gravely endangered the slender chances for peace between the two Oriental nations. Chinese contended the Japanese were at fault in the clash.

Japan also cited as an indication the Chinese government intended to wage war to two disquieting reports from China—that Chinese would try to recapture Tientsin and Peiping and that the central Chinese government was ready to move its capital from Nanking to Hankow for greater safety.

N. C. Auto Dealers Plan For Meeting Set For Charlotte

Third Annual Convention Scheduled to be Held in Charlotte on August 23 and 24

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Aug. 11.—The third annual convention of the North Carolina Automobile Dealers Association will be held in Charlotte, Monday and Tuesday, August 23 and 24, it was announced today by Mrs. Bessie B. Phoenix, Raleigh, executive secretary of the association.

Convention headquarters will be at the Hotel Charlotte, with Charlotte dealers acting as a committee on arrangements. They are planning many social and entertainment features to round out the program.

A Tennessee dealer, M. P. Priest, of Huntington, will be one of the principal speakers. A number of well known speakers will appear on the convention's program. They will speak on various phases of the automobile industry.

Officers of the association, in addition to Mrs. Phoenix, are S. T. Atkinson, Charlotte, president; Frank Anderson, Raleigh, vice-president; T. B. Altmore, Washington, secretary; J. T. Mayney, Fayetteville, treasurer; and Daniel L. Bell, Pittsboro, attorney.

COPELAND PROTESTS TO FDR

Waving to a batch of correspondence which he said was in protest to President Roosevelt's court bill, Senator Royal S. Copeland, candidate in the New York mayoralty primary, (above) told Washington reporters that the President was "destroying Democratic harmony" and charged him with supporting Copeland's opponent, Jeremiah T. Mahoney.

SEEK PAIR FOR BRUTAL CRIME

Tourist Camp Operator Found Slain in Moore County

Southern Pines, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The battered body of a man identified by acquaintances as J. E. Cartwright, tourist camp operator, was found near here today and officers immediately began a search for two young men reported to have been with him Friday when he was last seen alive.

Jim Riley, a youth of the vicinity, and a companion came across the body about 50 yards from the Aberdeen-Southern Pines highway early today.

They called residents of the community, who notified Sheriff C. J. McDonald's office at Carthage, and other authorities.

A cursory examination indicated the man about 35, had been beaten on the head with a sand-bar and had either been shot or stabbed.

A rifle lay beside the body, but its ownership was not immediately established.

Mrs. Cartwright said her husband had driven away from their camp on U. S. Route 1 between Pinehurst and Rockingham last Friday morning with two young men who had been staying at the camp, and she had not heard of him since.

No City Court Held As No Arrests Made

Again, no city court was held today, no arrests having been made since the last session of the tribunal. Police officers declare this is one of the quietest times they have experienced, but they are not expecting the situation to continue and are fearful that a regular petty crime wave will break out to make up for the let-down.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Burglars who broke into the plant of a Grand Rapids Cookie Machine company got only a tummy ache for their efforts.

Detectives discovered the burglars had stolen a quantity of cookies which recently had been treated with varnish to make them suitable for display purposes.

BITTER COURT MEASURE GOES TO PRESIDENT

Congressional Action Finally Completed On Act

WAGE-HOUR BILL IS BOGGED DOWN

Administration Leaders Groping for Legislation to Occupy Immediate Attention

Washington, Aug. 11

The House ended this session's bitter court controversy today by approving the lower court procedure bill and sent it to the White House.

The legislation was embodied in a conference report which the senate accepted yesterday without a word of debate.

Deleted from the measure were President Roosevelt's recommendations about the supreme court—the cause of a bitter senate fight.

The bill followed closely the agreement reached by senate leaders when the Roosevelt high court proposals were sidetracked. It contains four major points.

Direct appeal from lower courts to the supreme court in cases involving the constitutionality of acts of congress.

Intervention by the attorney general in lower court cases involving constitutionality of acts of congress.

Three-judge lower courts to sit in suits for injunctions to block enforcement of acts of congress.

Transfer of judges, within judicial circuits, to meet congestion.

Meantime the wage and hour bill bogged down for the time being at least in the house rules committee and left administration leaders groping for legislation to occupy the house until weekend.

A meeting of the rules committee, called to consider granting the wage and hour measure legislative right of way, was canceled suddenly after a conference of Democratic leaders.

One of the group said privately there were not enough votes to the bill from the committee.

There were strong indications the measure was entangled in controversy over the crop loan-farm legislation.

The rules committee's delay, one leading Democrat remarked, may give the administration time to (Continued on Page Two)

Jesse A. Hardy, 69, Claimed by Death As Result of Injury

Funeral Services For Native of Lenoir County to be Conducted at Home Tomorrow

Jesse Alfred Hardy, 69, died at the home of his son, C. P. Hardy on West Fourth street, at 11:15 o'clock this morning as a result of a fractured hip he received in a fall recently.

Mr. Hardy moved to Pitt county about 20 years ago, coming here from Institute, Lenoir county. Up until about 12 years ago he was engaged in farming, but was forced to retire because of failing health. Since he retired he has been living in Greenville. He was a member of one of Lenoir county's oldest and best known families. He was a member of the Institute Methodist church.

Funeral services will be conducted at the home on East Fourth street at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon by Rev. T. M. Grant, pastor of Jarvis Memorial Methodist church. The body will be taken to Lenoir county for interment.

Active pallbearers will be H. J. Sawyer, Jasper Jones, J. P. Carr, S. E. Briley, Garland Hudson and T. R. House.

Surviving are two sons, C. P. and G. H. Hardy, both of this city; two daughters, Mrs. Taylor Carr of Greenville and Mrs. H. E. Thorpe of High Point; three brothers, S. P. W. H. and L. D. Hardy all of Institute; two sisters, Mrs. J. H. Koonce of Leggett and Mrs. J. H. Duke of Elizabeth City; eleven grandchildren and a number of nieces and nephews.

"I HATE WAR"

The Peace Movement must be made more peaceable, says Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick in an address reprinted in the Congressional Record, if it shall achieve peace in the world. Consider then, he says, the five sectors where peace is being sought, realizing that none is enough by itself:

HATE WAR—strip it of its glory. Out of the last conflict there came, as never before in history, a stream of journalistic reports, novels and dramas, stripping the glory from war and leaving it in all its stark naked and brutal imbecility.

PERSONAL PACIFICISM—"This whole business is so hideous in its processes and disastrous in its results that we will take any punishment society may mete out rather than participate in it."

NATIONAL NEUTRALITY MEASURES—Here, again, America makes progress. We were unmercifully sold out in the last war. The government makes positive steps to keep us out next time.

ECONOMIC RECONSTRUCTION—The War question runs into economic. Four powerful nations, Great Britain, France, Russia and the United States, want peace because they are economically satisfied. We cannot have economic war with tariffs and monetary policies and still expect peace. Peace will cost profound economic reconstruction.

INTERNATIONAL COLLECTIVE SECURITY—The consummation to which all other endeavors must tend, the secret of the American Union, where constituent states have surrendered to central authority a necessary part of their sovereignty.

NEW RECRUITS FOR U. S. ARMY

Recent Campaign In South Shown to be Successful

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 11.—Major General George Van Horn Moseley, commanding the Fourth Corps Area, announced today that the recent recruiting campaign for securing young southerners for service in the New England states and Hawaii was highly successful. Over 1,200 southern boys residing in the eight southeastern states comprising the Fourth Corps Area were accepted for service in the regular army and are now enroute to their selected stations.

The War Department has again called on General Moseley to secure enlistments totaling 550, to fill vacancies existing in the Panama Canal department.

The young men accepted for scheduled to sail from Charleston, Panama will embark on a transport S. C. August 27. Over 200 men have already been enlisted, however there are a number of choice assignments still open and prospective applicants are urged to apply for enlistment without delay in order that they may be clothed and equipped in time to sail on the August 27th transport.

Young men between 18 and 35 years of age who are unmarried, without dependents, and who are found physically, mentally and morally qualified are eligible for enlistment. Young men between the ages of 18 and 21 must furnish the written consent of their parents prior to acceptance. All young men must furnish two character references from reputable citizens in their communities.

The army offers many opportunities for practical education and advancement for young men desiring to better themselves. Service in Panama is particularly attractive to the young man interested in outdoor sports and recreation. The tropical climate affords an opportunity for participation in outdoor exercises the year around. Hunting, fishing, swimming and

Chicago, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Rattles shaken by babies in 2600 B. C. have been received by the Field Museum in Chicago from the Field Museum-Oxford University joint archaeological expedition in Mesopotamia. FARNHAM SEES NEED OF SILOS

Declares More Roughage Feed Could Be Obtained

Raleigh, Aug. 11.—More succulent roughage feed per acre can be obtained from corn made into silage than from any other known crop.

Yet comparatively few North Carolina farmers have silos that enable them to take advantage of the feed-producing possibilities of their corn, said F. R. Farnham, extension dairy specialist at State college.

The development of the trench silo, however, is remedying this situation, he added, since silage can be stored profitably in a trench on small farms where large, upright silos would be impractical.

The trend is definitely toward silage instead of dry hays, Farnham continued. Unfavorable weather is less likely to cause a loss when corn is harvested for silage than when hay is being cut and cured.

Then, too, he added, silage production requires less acreage in cultivation and permits the use of soil-building crops on land that would otherwise have to be used for growing hay.

Silage is a succulent type of roughage that keeps cows in a healthy condition during the winter feeding period and assists materially in maintaining the milk flow, he said.

The trench silo is not hard to construct, he went on. Many instances have been reported of a farmer and his son, using a team of mules with a plow and a slip-scrape digging a trench silo and filling it in three days with enough corn ensilage to feed 10 cows 6 months.

A cheap roof placed over the trench silo will help protect the feed from bad weather and also keep the walls from caving in, Farnham stated.

MOTHE DEVISES A 'CHORE CHART' FOR TRIPLET'S
Lorain, O.—(AP)—Being a triplet might be considered fun by some folks, but it's just a bore to Joy, Jean and Janet Mills, 11-year-old daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Mills.

"Too many people ask you your name too many times," says Joy. The mother of the blonde, blue-eyed girls says she, too, has had some trouble with their similarity. "I tell one of them to do something and forget which one I told," Mrs. Mills says, "so I've arranged a 'chore chart' to keep track of them."

The thing that irritates the children most however, is the common greeting of schoolmates: "Hey, Trip."

IT'S ODD BUT ITS
Pittsburgh—If man could develop eyes with the magnifying power of microscopes, the air would appear to be full of balloons.

The particles of dust which ordinary air filters catch would look as big as stratosphere balloons. More numerous would be the particles which no filter catches, such as tobacco smoke and ragweed pollen.

Particles of tobacco smoke, magnified 200,000 times, would be as large as golf balls. Ragweed pollen grains would be 17 feet in diameter.

Any particle up to 50 feet in diameter would pass through the ordinary air filter, a screen with a mesh of 200 to the inch.

The actual size of the tobacco smoke particle is thirty-nine millionths of an inch. The ragweed pollen grain, which causes so much hay fever, is eight ten-thousandths of an inch in diameter.

After getting away to a good start behind nice pitching by John Delaney, plus good stickwork, the Greenies lost a 6-3 lead to the Eagles in the seventh inning yesterday, but came right back in the ninth to knot the count at 8-8 and then proceeded to win the ball game in the tenth when, with two away, King scored on Swamp Norwood's single to left. Relieving Delaney in this stana, King set the Eagles down without trouble and then after Roye had gone out in the home half, King shot a single to center. Powell popped out but King went to second on a balk by Muhlenbein. From this position he came home on Norwood's hit.

The Greenies got three runs in the first on hits combined with loose-fielding by the visitors. They annexed another run in the second, one in the third and another in the fifth. The Eagles got one in the opening stanza and two in the third. But it was in the seventh that they broke loose with a barrage of hits which, coupled with errors by the locals, they scored 5 runs to take the lead.

The count was knotted in the ninth in this manner: Powell walked, Norwood and Thompson went out on infield taps which advanced Powell to second and then to third. Pignataro walked. Johnson singled, scoring Powell. Pignataro pulling up at third, from whence he scored on Rudisill's infield hit. Thompson and Wyrostek hit triples. Johnson got three hits for four for Greenville, and Wyrostek three for four for Kinston.

The locals go to Kinston for a game today and return here to meet Ayden Thursday. Kinston comes again Saturday.

Major Leaders

Bagging two hits in four trips to the plate against the Reds, Joe Medwick of the St. Louis Cardinals boosted his batting average back over the .400 mark yesterday. With a percentage of .401, in increase of two points, he continues to lead the major leagues' Big Six by a wide margin.

The American League pace-setter, Cecil Travis, dropped off 4 points to .385, as he hit safely twice in eight tries.

Hypnotism

IT CAN MAKE YOU DO SOME AMAZING THINGS

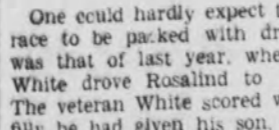

(By The AP Feature Service)

SAN FRANCISCO — Any sane person can be hypnotized, says Dr. Roy K. Johnson of San Francisco, but only by his own consent. Nor, he says, are there any ill effects from being hypnotized.

Dr. Johnson speaks from long experience. He learned hypnotism as a boy in Manila and later gave up medicine to practice it. Hypnotism, he says, has proved useful in treating certain diseases and correcting bad habits, including drug addiction.

When endangered or given a criminal suggestion, he says, the normal hypnotized person merely wakes up—"the subconscious mind protects itself."

Here's how Dr. Johnson works:

THE EYES of the operator (Doctor Johnson) are a good object for the subject (Helen Musselman) to concentrate on while going into hypnotic trance, but fixation on any bright object will work just as well.

One could hardly expect the 1937 race to be packed with drama as was that of last year, when Ben White drove Rosalind to victory. The veteran White scored with the filly he had given his son, Gibson, as a yearling. At the time Gibson was a very sick boy. Ben's plan to hasten his son's recovery by giving him a new interest worked to perfection as Rosalind won race after race as a 2-year-old. Gibson White helped train her, when he gained strength, and witnessed the 36 triumph from the stands.

Goldbugs Win Close Game From Tarboro

Tarboro, Aug. 10—Eddie Malone turned in great pitching in a relief role this afternoon, but Tarboro's cause had been damaged too greatly before Eddie swung into action—and Goldsboro won, 6-5, in the opener of a series.

The Bugs made all of their runs in the fourth at the expense of Bernard Mooney. Tarboro scored twice in the fifth to pull within one run of a tie, and staged a rally in the ninth—but the final-inning threat was ended when Pitzer made a fine stop of Rimmer's hard-hit grounded and threw him out on a close play.

Daniels walked to start the Bugs' big inning. Kniss singled Daniels to third, and Pitzer's squeeze bunt scored Daniels. Pitzer was safe at first. Elliott fanned, but Balla bunted safely. Roper fanned. Musser tripled to clear the bases, and Ignasiak homered.

Lefty Fiora relieved Ace Elliott after the third and kept Tarboro in check except in the fifth.

Lehman offered three great plays to take fielding honors.

Steals A Home—1937 Model. Kallspeil, Mont., Aug. 10.—(AP)—Kallspeil police raised their eyebrows when a request came from Sang Point, Idaho, to pick up a suspect who was believed to have stolen a house. They got their man after the Sand Point buccos explained the house was an automobile trailer. It was the first trailer theft recorded in Montana.

Both games scheduled in the City softball league yesterday ended in forfeits, victories being marked up for Blount-Harvey against the lawyers, and by Carolina Dairy over Person-Garrett.

The forfeit-victory gave the dairy team seven victories against five defeats and put them in second place, paced only by the league leading Tadlock Mutual Insurance agency team.

The victory for Blount-Harvey players put them ahead of the Carolina Dairy team.

New Bern-Ayden In 3-3 Deadlock Tuesday

New Bern, Aug. 10—New Bern and Ayden got exactly nowhere this afternoon in three hours of squabble-loaded baseball. Scoreboard showed a 3-3 count when darkness ended hostilities at the end of ten innings.

Up until the 8th, Worliss Knowles had a 3-0 margin reaped up against the Aces. Monk Joyner's boys hopped knowles for three runs in the eighth and chased him from the hill. Bill Averette took over the pitching job and matched Ayden's Mackie in hurling shout-out ball the rest of the way.

It was a drawn-out affair, and nobody realized that more than Plate-Umpire Corbett. Managers and players frequently were rushing Corbett to protest his decisions, and he didn't seem to mind.

A walk to Knowles, Stith's single, Knowles' steal of third, and Thornton's bunt scored one for New Bern in the second. Osey's double, Vick's infield hit, Douglass' Dfielder's choice, and error and Thoele's single added two in the third.

Jirak, Crosswhite and Joyner hit singles to fill the bases in Ayden's eighth. Fary's single sent in two runs. Joyner, who had gone to third on the throw-in, counted when Thornton threw wild to second in an effort to catch Fary. Knowles walked Johnson, and Averette then came in to pitch. Corrado sacrificed, McCormick fanned, Mackie walked and Schuerholz grounded out.

The Billies made eight hits off Wade, and half of them were of the extra-base variety.

Fielding stars of the game were Howard Earp, Williamston shortstop, and Bobby Robinson and Walter Rabb, Snow Hill third-sacker and shortstop, respectively.

Zak struck out seven. He has lost but three games this season.

Billies Win Again As Zak Turns in No. 13

Snow Hill, Aug. 10—Emil Zak, ace of Coastal Plain League hurlers, checked in with victory No. 13 today as the league-leading Billies made it two in a row over the runner-up Williamston Martins. The score was 5-2.

The deciding blow was Harry Soufas' homer in the fourth inning. The Wilson youngster hit one high and far, over the left field fence, right after Wall and Bistrot had put together doubles to score a run. Soufas' lick made the score 4-1.

Zak yielded seven hits, five of which went for extra bases. Doubles by Deim and Pitcher Larry Wade gave Williamston a run in the third; Victoria homered in the fifth.

Have you wondered why Blount-Harvey gives such marvelous values in new merchandise on Dollar Day?

Have You?

Many people have wondered how we can give them such really unusual bargains in NEW merchandise Dollar Day.

Here's Why—

Every year we spend thousands of dollars with certain prominent manufacturers in New York. They know we have Dollar Day twice a year, one day only, and that we must have unusual values to make it a success. So last week when our buyers went in to see them they made them up—as assortments of merchandise including samples and better goods so that we could sell them for less than cost. Come down tomorrow—and see for yourself what buys they are—

We Consider Them The Best Dollar Day Values We Have Ever Offered

SHORT SHOTS
 By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Aug. 11.—Nathan H. Yelton, Director of Public Assistance Division of the State Board of Charities and Welfare last night told the state's assembled county commissioners all about the workings of the Old Age Benefits Law in North Carolina; but it remains to be seen how the county officers, in their convention at Wrightsville Beach, will react. Libby Ward, Craven's chairman of the appropriations committee, led a brief but bitter revolt against the counties bearing any part of the cost of the program when it was being set up by the legislature. His opposition was thought to have been inspired very largely by county officials.

W. P. Hedrick, newly appointed tobacco specialist of the state Department of Agriculture, reported for duty yesterday and forthwith left for the Border Belt weed mart openings. He plans a survey of North Carolina's markets before announcing any definite program.

"WPA Official Charged with Playing Politics," reads a headline in a Raleigh paper. This widespread journal will likely soon find that leopards are charged with having spots, too.

It is nice to know that somebody thinks this bureau knows something anyway. Recently a letter came to it addressed to "State Department of Information."

Raleigh is to have a liquor store for Negroes alone, according to plans of Harry Litchford, Wake county liquor control board.

Efforts to entice North Carolina laborers, particularly Negroes, to other states is by no means something new under the sun. "Labor Kidnaping," as it is sometimes called has been practiced off and on for these many years. Major A. L. Fletcher, commissioner of labor, points out that in addition to invoking the tax laws which lay a $500 tax for every county in which operations are conducted by those soliciting laborers to go out of the state, county officials can break up the nuisance by seeing that all trucks used in hauling the laborers to their new jobs have passenger carrying licenses.

Purchasers of Resettlement Administration farms in North Carolina can pay for them at a rate of $200 annually or they have the option of paying a fixed percentage of their crops each year, according to C. B. Paris, assistant regional director of the RA.

Plans for erecting a new city-county building in Raleigh on the auditorium property at the foot of Fayetteville street are based largely on the assumption that the present city hall would sell for enough money to defray a large part of the cost of erecting another. Both the Wake county courthouse and the city hall are in the very heart of the business district and their sites would bring high prices.

Kerr Scott, commissioner of agriculture, is expected back in Raleigh tonight from his trip to Washington to join with other Southern agriculture commissioners in pleas for government aid to maintain cotton prices.

ASKING DAD FOR MONEY
 —IT'S AN OLD STORY
 Lancaster, Pa., Aug. 10.—(AP)—College students wrote home for money in 1788.

Dr. H. M. J. Klein, professor of history at Franklin and Marshall College, found a letter written one year after the college was founded in which the student made an appeal to his father for funds.

The father was Peter Rhoads, Sr., member of the Pennsylvania Assembly.

The request was written by Rhoads, Jr., who was graduated from Franklin and Marshall in 1796, and later became president of the Northampton bank.

The son wrote: "Dear Father:—Your favor of the 13th last I received on the 8th. . . . Gibson's surveying is not immediately necessary but it (the book) would greatly assist me. In this you may please yourself, and I am satisfied, I will, with the help of God, learn that the money you have advanced me shall not be lost."

'Magic Houses' Give Swedes 'Attractive Homes For $500'
 By The AP Feature Service

THREE thousand so-called Magic Houses dot the outskirts of Stockholm, Sweden—neat, efficient little homes costing from $500 to $750. They're the result of Sweden's continuing drive for low-cost housing. With owners and their families doing most of the work, the houses bob up like mushrooms. All parts are pre-fabricated. The only cash payment required is $75 for marking out the building site. Municipal funds finance payments over 20 years or longer. Here is the picture record of a four-room Magic House as built by a Swedish workman of average means with the aid of his family and neighbors.

1. THE SITE was selected in this attractive Magic House colony. Note the attention paid to roads, and the fair-sized plot allotted each family.
 2. DIGGING THE CELLAR is the first job. Mother and son pitch in while father's off to his own work.
 3. THE SON TURNS MASON under the guidance of a city expert, whose services are free. Aerated concrete blocks are used.
 4. UP GO THE WALLS, fitting together like a picture puzzle. Doors and windows have been installed at the factory.
 5. THE INTERIOR is cozy without being crowded. This is the combination living and dining room.
 6. THE HOUSE is comfortable even during the cold winters. In summer, the family can eat on this attractive porch.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York—It always puzzled us how people became ballet dancers. Determined to do something about it, we ventured in on a ballet call. The summons had been sent out by "Virginia," a massive musical show now impending, and it appeared in the newspaper wantads—a cryptic admonition for "ballet dancers—male and female—" to report with their practice clothes at the Center Theatre.

For the most part the aspirants, though extremely young, were surprisingly expert. Girls in their mid-teens were pictures of winging grace, and their ballet shoes touched the stage with a feathery lightness as they paced through the entrechat and other exercises.

Inquiry revealed that many of them were still in dancing school, and that, in fact, it is at the schools where most of the casting is done. There is no great durability to a ballet dancing career it appears, for each new season brings an almost entirely changed personnel. Marriage claims the most of them. The American preference for more violent dance forms warns the ballet devotees of the peril of rare jobs and much job hunting. Domesticity means peace of mind.

Director Florence Rogge was patient with the candidates, but it took an eye far less practiced than hers to spot a bad ballet dancer. Some argue that there is nothing quite so bad as a bad actor, but that ought to be amended. A bad ballet dancer is ineptitude at its deepest. We wandered among the rejected candidates in the hope of learning what had turned them to a career for which they seemed so singularly ill-fitted.

We accosted a girl, rather too chubby the boast the ideal ballet figure, and asked her what led her to that from of artistic expression. "Mama sent me to ballet school," she said sullenly, and that was answer enough. There were doubtless others who owed their discomfiture to "mama."

Another blithely acknowledged that she had a smidgen of talent for dancing, but enrolled in the class to do it for her cousin, who was gifted enough to be engaged for "Virginia."

The most amusing explanation came from a suburban girl, who might as well be known as Ruth. Ruth's ambition was based on envy and jealousy. It seems a neighbor's daughter came home after a season with the Mordkin group and rather lauded it over her stay-at-home friend, and in fact, appropriated Ruth's young man.

"I decided to go to school, get perfect and then go around and chase her out of every job she gets," said Ruth vehemently. It is sad to report that Ruth will not have her purpose realized immediately—at least not in "Virginia."

COST OF FARM ABOUT $3,000

Average Spent in Purchasing Land For Tenants

Raleigh, Aug. 11.—Farms purchased in North Carolina by the Resettlement Administration for tenants who wish to become land-owners have cost an average of $3,000 each, according to C. B. Faris, assistant regional director of the RA.

An additional $1,600 has been spent on each farm, on the average, for necessary repairs and new construction, he added.

In repaying the $4,600, the homesteaders are to set aside $200 a year though they have the option through which they may pay a share of their crops rather than a fixed annual amount, he said.

"Under such a sale contract," he continued, "it would be almost impossible for a client to lose his equity in the property by reason of bad crop years."

To further help assure the homesteaders permanent possession of their land, he said in an address delivered at State college, the RA works out for them systems of crop rotation and farm management that will build up the farm and make for the most profitable use of the land.

Each unit is studied with a view of setting up a schedule of improvements to be made from year to year, Faris said, so as to bring the farm gradually to its maximum state of production.

The topography of the land, drainage, cultivated areas, wooded areas, eroded areas, climatic conditions and other things are taken into consideration in working out the program for each farm.

With farms planned in include four to five acres of tobacco, seven to ten acres of cotton, 14 to 18 acres of corn, and six to ten acres of hay, the gross income will average around $1,500 a year, Faris pointed out.

Opera Tenor's Daughter Is Dad's 'Spittin' Image'

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW
AP Feature Service Writer
Guilford, Conn.—Eise Kullman can't sing arias in a rich tenor voice. But aside from that the 8-year-old is romping along in the footsteps of her Metropolitan opera star father, Charles Kullman.

PALS
Charles Kullman, opera star, romps with his daughter Eise on the beach at their summer home. Yes, both like it.

On and off the stage, Kullman is an energetic, athletic individual who'll tackle anything, and his muscularly built daughter is not far behind him.

She's learning to ride horseback, because her father does, and can't wait for Saturday to come so she can go for a canter with him. Not on a pony, either. A man-size horse for her.

Swimming? Both are good at it and take daily plunges in Long Island sound.

Fishing? Digging for oyster shells is their latest pastime.

Musical? Her father has the advantage there, but Eise is trying. She's at the "Happy Farmer" stage on the piano now. Eight-year olds can't sing very tunelessly, but she'll learn when she's older.

That is, if she wants to, her father interposes hastily. He'd like her to be musical, but he won't insist. Music as a part of a cultural background he considers essential. But music as a career cannot be forced.

However, Eise is an opera fan already.

"Daddy, what was that opera where you were a fireman?" she asks.

When he can stop laughing, Kullman explains she means "Car-men." She thought his soldier's uniform looked like a fireman's he says.

To Kullman's regret, both he and Eise love to eat—especially whipped cream. Eise laps it up, but her father must forbear, because he's trying to lose five pounds before he makes his first picture in Hollywood.

"Think I'll succeed?" he asks hopefully.

Father and daughter are alike in disposition, too. Both are calm, easy-going, unaffected, sunny of temperament, inclined to see the funny side first, maybe a bit stubborn if coaxed too much.

"You can see how much of a companion I am with Eise," says the singer, whose concert tours have taken him all over Europe. "I don't need to tell you how much I influence her. We just are alike that's all."

Eise breaks into the conversation with a jargon that her father interprets as the German equivalent of "She sells sea shells."

But the tongue-twister sounds worse in German. Mitzel, the German cook, thinks it's funny too and begins a high-pitched chatter with Eise in German. Kullman is inspired to break into a Viennese song.

And the Kullmans are off again.

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington—The capital is so used to talking billions, that it might be a refreshing diversion to discover how close the average American family actually come it all that money.

Let's take a stroll over to the department of labor statistics and see Joseph Adams who can tell you where your money goes—and mine.

Mr. Adams has been studying our pocketbook for years. He knows what's in it, and what goes out of it. He has averaged up a lot of household money jars, and here is what he and others have discovered:

Roughly half of the average American families make less than $1,500 a year—or about $25.00 to $29.00 a week. That supplies a man and his wife and two children with everything from shoes to a day at the zoo.

Well, what happens to all that money in a year's time? Here's what the low wage family spends and how it spends it:

- Gifts, donations, taxes $ 21.74
- Housing ($18.09 a month) 217.12
- Household operation 139.90
- Medical care 39.69
- Food ($1.9 a day) 398.83
- Automobile expense 43.27
- Clothing 75.96
- Other transportation 13.00
- Personal care 23.73
- Furniture and equipment 28.89
- Miscellaneous expense 7.18
- Recreation 21.22
- Tobacco 25.86
- Education, reading 20.28
- Total $1,152.72

And, say you, what of it? We don't know, but Mr. Adams has been doing some intensive thinking about the problem. Says he:

"These (low-wage) families are not unreasonable in their expenditures. They spend a little over a third of their income for food."

The rent was only about $18 a month, and they sank less than $50 in the family car during the year.

Then, what's wrong with the average American family? It's not wine, women and song, but, as Mr. Adams can tell you, the trouble is just this:

"Management of income! The average person lacks the financial training that would lead him to set aside a portion for himself . . . Hence, more than three-fourths of the people in this country, which at the bottom of the depression was worth 300,000,000,000 (there they go, getting into the billions) are financially uneducated little or no part of its wealth."

Now, what are we going to do about it? Well, first Mr. Adams wants to give the low-income people a little more of the long green all of us are chasing. But that is not all of it, by a jugful.

"I believe an educational program to teach low-income people how to advantageously use their income will have a stabilizing effect on economic security. And the economic security of any country is dependent to a certain extent upon the economic security of its citizens."

So, you see, the bold bad Communists couldn't solve our problem just by giving the underdog a bigger share in our wealth. What we've got to do is to raise everybody's salary is to teach people how to spend their money with one eye on the poorhouse.

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE NEVADA

SYNOPSIS: Kay Crandon impulsively hires Ted Gaylor, a jobless puncher. He helps her fight Josh Hastings, a "friendly" neighbor who wants Kay and her ranch. Ted and Scrap Johnson, a cowhand who molests Kay, shoot it out, wounding each other. Hastings sneaks up and kills Scrap with Ted's gun. Ted is arrested and tried for murder, but Kay stops the trial by technical protest. Ted escapes and rescues Kay from Hastings' cellar lock-up. They go to aid Marion who saved his life with her nursing. He finds her father dying at the edge of the forest fire he started.

Chapter 49 Revenge Misfires

"PITCH 'em, damn you, and be quick about it!"

Torn rudely from his musing, Ted whirled about to face Josh Hastings, gazing exultantly at him over the barrel of his gun.

Ted obeyed with a grim smile, the ironic thought flashing through his mind that here was the probable ending of his career too, beside Marion's father.

Lifting his eyes a second as he raised his hands, Ted saw a gleam in the topmost branch of the pine tree that spread over Josh Hastings. Instantly, his fatalistic acceptance of the inevitable, of the moment before, gave way to a renewed hope that reawakened all his natural instinct of self preservation.

By one of those extraordinary freaks of forest fires, a spark had been carried an incredible distance, bringing destruction with it. If he could keep Josh Hastings from firing the fatal shot until—

"Reckon you won't need that second trial!" Josh Hastings' voice brought Ted back from his desperate speculations. "I can save the state a lot of money, and nobody'll be any the wiser!"

"Why didn't you do it in the first place, up on the central divide?" Ted grasped at anything to prolong the moment.

"Because I intended to have you branded as a murderer in Kay Crandon's sight, and I expected you to die anyway," Hastings explained with brutal insolence.

Out of the corner of Ted's eye he could see the blazing branch directly over Josh Hastings' head. At all costs, he must hold his attention!

"Kay Crandon will never believe I'm a murderer!" he challenged.

"Won't she, though? Hold fit!" Hastings barked as Ted shifted from one foot to the other. "I've got a thing or two to tell you before I give you a duplicate of the shot that killed Scrap Johnson."

He gave a harsh laugh at Ted's involuntary start. "Too bad you can't use that information, isn't it?" he sneered, in evident enjoyment of his revenge, and loath to terminate it too soon. "Well, you know now it doesn't pay to try to get the best of Josh Hastings! You got the worst of it before, and this time—"

A great rending sound cut him short. Glancing up, he saw the burning branch crashing through the lower branches of the pine. With an oath he sprang back, his gun exploding harmlessly as Ted ducked.

But Josh Hastings was the fraction of a second too late. The burning branch struck him a glancing blow on the head, and he pitched forward.

Saving The Murderer

Ted sprang to his side, and dragged his unconscious form away from the fire that licked up the dry pine needles, creeping toward him. With superhuman strength, half dragging, half carrying him, Ted made his way back to where he had tethered his mount.

He seized his rope and tied Josh Hastings' wrists and ankles. Then he slung him over the saddle and, guiding his frightened horse, started to retrace his steps.

In the far distance he could hear shouts, as the fire fighters rallied to this new area of danger. But after a moment's hesitation, Ted pushed on, with an anxious eye on his unconscious burden.

One thought was uppermost in Ted's mind: He must save Josh Hastings until he could repeat that confession before witnesses. His freedom and his whole future depended on it! If Josh Hastings died now, even though Ted might escape, his name would never be cleared. Suspicion would always cling to him and he would be handicapped by this cloud on his reputation, wherever he might go.

He must get back to Marion, with the news about her father, and between them they must revive Josh Hastings enough to force the confession from him that he had killed Scrap Johnson and framed Ted for the murder.

Riding when possible, and walking over the steep places where his mount could not carry double, Ted pushed ahead over the interminable backward trail to Marion's shack.

It had been hard enough going before. Now, as he left the illumination of the conflagration behind, Ted found it almost impossible to negotiate the return trip with the double handicap of his unconscious burden and the darkness, with no stars to guide him.

After pushing on blindly for what seemed an eternity, he decided finally that he would save time in the long run by waiting for the dawn. He called a halt and lifted off the bulky form of Josh Hastings, laying him on the ground, he bent close to feel his prisoner's pulse and listen to his heart.

Reassured as to his condition, in spite of the coma into which he had sunk, Ted threw himself down beside him, and was soon lost in a sleep of utter exhaustion.

When he woke, he uttered an exclamation of amazement and dismay to find the sun so high. His exhausted frame, worn out by the strain of the last few nights, had played him false, and instead of the short nap he had expected to take, he must have been asleep for hours.

He glanced over at Josh Hastings and breathed a sigh of relief to find him about as he had been before, still breathing heavily, in the stupor in which his blow on the head had left him.

Ted rose to his feet, and went a short distance to a rocky projection to get his bearings. A long low whistle escaped him, as he gazed incredulously at the panorama stretched out before him.

Hastings Tries A Dicker

HE GLANCED UP at the sun, as though challenging its right to be where it was, then looked once more at the cloud of smoke that hung heavy over the ridges. But instead of being behind him, it was to the north and east, and the mountains Ted had expected to get his bearing by, had shifted to unfamiliar outlines.

Admitting finally the evidence of his own senses, Ted was forced to the conclusion that he had completely lost his way in the darkness the night before, and had gone off at a tangent to the southwest, instead of retracing his steps to the north, as he thought he had been doing.

Ted cursed his impetuous haste that had led him astray, as he hurried back to Josh Hastings. Before preparing for the long ride, he ate a bite of the lunch that Marion had insisted on tying to the crutch of his saddle.

Refreshed by the food and his long sleep, he hoisted Josh Hastings' unconscious body across his horse, and started back.

A fresh breeze had sprung up, and Ted glanced uneasily at the tree tops swaying above him to gauge its velocity. It was characteristic of the mountains to have a wind start up around noon, but this one seemed to be gathering alarming force. Once get a strong wind behind the fire, and there was no predicting the extent of the destruction that would most certainly ensue.

Ted resolutely pushed on, following the same method he had the night before, of sometimes riding, but more often walking. Only this time he was travelling in the right direction.

He hated to think of the added anxiety Marion would have over his delay, but there was no help for it. There was one good point, anyway. He was well out of the probable range of the fire fighters, and therefore stood a better chance to escape premature delivery to their hands.

Suddenly, as he walked up a steep incline beside his mount, Ted became aware of a groan and eyes staring at him. Glancing down, he saw that Josh Hastings had regained consciousness.

He made a tentative struggle to free himself, but Ted called a peremptory halt.

"The tables are turned, now," he explained curtly. "If you know what's good for you, you'll keep still!"

A look of hatred flashed in Josh Hastings' eyes before he closed them, and let his head flop back weakly.

"My head!" he groaned. "Water!"

Without a word, Ted took his canteen and put it to Josh Hastings' lips. He took greedy sips of the warmish liquid, then opened his eyes again.

"What's the idea?" he demanded, glancing at his bound wrists.

"Where are you taking me?"

"Where you can repeat what you told me back there, before a witness," Ted answered grimly. "It would be a hell of a lot easier to have left you to be cremated, as you planned to leave me. But you have some information that happens to be useful to me."

A shrewd look narrowed Josh Hastings' eyes.

"Suppose I give you a signed statement, will you let me go?"

"And have you deny it later? Not on your life," Ted gave a short laugh. "You've framed me once too often! I prefer a witness."

FEELS COTTON PRICE TOO LOW

J. T. Thorne Predicts Smallest Carry-Over in Years

Although the 15,593,000-bale cotton crop-forecast by the government will be the largest in seven years and the fourth largest in 23 years, John T. Thorne of Farmville, a member of the board of directors of the North Carolina Cotton Growers Cooperative association, sees through the rather gloomy outlook for cotton prices hope shining in the smallest cotton carryover in years and in the virtual certainty of favorable farm legislation before another crop year.

Mr. Thorne, who has just returned from a board meeting of the State Cotton Association and who discussed the cotton situation in detail with his fellow directors from all sections of the state, said that the general consensus of the board was that cotton prices should advance as the marketing season progresses.

Mr. Thorne said that the Cotton Association is advising farmers to store their cotton in bonded warehouses this year and draw an advance upon it if necessary and in so doing remain in a position to profit from any rise in the market. "This is one year that farmers, regardless of any government plan, cannot afford to glut the market and sell outright at prices below the cost of production," Mr. Thorne said.

"We are hoping," he added, "that the government will announce a 12-cent loan on cotton through the Commodity Credit Corporation and a resolution to this effect was passed by our board and telegraphed to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace."

At the board meeting M. O. Mann, general manager, reported that a recent survey shows that the "Re-Purchase Pool" of the cotton association, in operation now for the past two years, has been so satisfactory that the prospects for deliveries to the cooperative are "brighter than ever before."

Mr. Thorne commented that in the "Re-Purchase Pool" the cotton association, a non-profit organization of leading cotton farmers in all of the cotton-growing counties, has a plan that will benefit all types of growers. Under this plan, the cotton is graded and stapled and a price given by the cooperative and then if the farmer finds he can get more on the outside, he can get his identical cotton back and sell it where he pleases.

Oil Enriches Schools.
Austin, Tex., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Texas public schools are believed to be the wealthiest in the nation. They own between 4,000,000 and 5,000,000 acres of land, and much of it is either producing oil or is considered potentially productive.

Cop Guesses Wrong.
Allamore, Neb., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Patrolman L. E. Pilkington noticed a ladder leaning against a theatre building and scented a robbery. He removed the ladder, waiting patiently in the belief he had trapped burglars on the roof.

Next day, J. E. Hughes, theatre manager, reported the theft of a ladder which he said had been leaning against his building more than two years.

RICH BUILDER LIKES LIVING IN RAIL CAR

Pittsburgh, Aug. 11.—(AP)—George Vang, wealthy Pittsburgh contractor, lives down by the railroad tracks in summer—and likes it.

His home is a one-time army hospital car which he purchased in 1914 as his moving headquarters on construction jobs.

Vang liked the seclusion of the railroad car so well that he decided to make it his summer home. The "house" luxuriously furnished, is flanked by a rocky hill on one side and a small lake on the other.

Hot Weather is Here—Beware of Biliousness!

Have you ever noticed that in very hot weather your organs of digestion and elimination seem to become torpid or lazy? Your food sours, forms gas, causes belching, heartburn, and a feeling of restlessness and irritability. Perhaps you may have sick headache, nausea and dizziness or blind spells on suddenly rising. Your tongue may be coated, your complexion bilious and your bowel actions sluggish or insufficient.

These are some of the more common symptoms or warnings of biliousness or so-called "torpid liver," so prevalent in hot climates. Don't neglect them. Take Calo-tabs, the improved calomel compound tablets that give you the effects of calomel and salts, combined. You will be delighted with the prompt relief they afford. Trial package ten cents, family pkg. twenty-five cents. (At drug stores.) (Adv.)
