SINO-JAPANESE BATTLE RAGES BY MOONLIGHT

Japanese War Planes Crash Bombs On Chinese Posts

SNIPERS PEPPER U. S. MCKINLEY

Passengers on Refugee Vessel Drop To Deck, Afraid Run For Protection

Shanghai, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Japanese war planes crashed bombs into Chinese positions in a moonlight attack tonight against the Chinese hordes that are pushing Japanese land forces toward the sea.

While Japanese war ships shelled Chinese positions north and east of here, eight high flying bombers passed westward over the foreign area to drop explosives in the direction of the Chinese airbase.

The planes appeared as a full moon illuminated the cloudless sky. They flew over both the French concession and the international settlement, bringing thousands of foreigners to roof tops to watch the raid.

On land, Japanese were outnumbered almost four to one and were reportedly giving away slowly in the northeastern sector of the international settlement. Japan combined first and third fleets into the battle to keep land forces from being hemmed in completely.

Chinese snipers' bullets meanwhile, three times as many as American while the Dolra liner McKinley evacuated 294 American women and children refugees of Shanghai during the day.

Near panic broke out on the tender carrying the refugees to the President McKinley when the snipers, evidently mistaking the craft for a Japanese vessel despite waving American flags, peppered it with rifle fire.

Passengers on deck flopped to their stomachs, not daring to stand long enough to race for protection below.

Twice shore snipers opened fire on the tender. Once Chinese bullets whistled over the President McKinley's decks and through her rigging when riflemen along the shore began peppering the river full of Japanese destroyers.

No More Hearings For County Court Before Sept. 7th

Only Four Cases Tried at Afternoon Session; Three of Four Defendants White Persons

Only four cases were tried at yesterday afternoon's session of County court, after eight charges had been disposed of during the morning.

No more County court will be held until Tuesday, September 7, as a week each of Superior civil and criminal court will be held here the weeks of August 23 and August 30, respectively.

Elmer Wiggins, white, was given a six months suspended sentence for assault with a deadly weapon on his father. The sentence was suspended for two years upon condition he remain of good behavior and not molest his parent in any way.

Alonzo Squire, white man, entered a plea of guilty to assault with a deadly weapon and prayer for judgment was continued. A plea was ordered confiscated.

Roy Mills, white man, was acquitted of a charge of driving drunk Assistant Court Clerk E. F. Tucker said Mills' driving license already is suspended pending an appeal from a similar charge from County court to Superior court.

Heber Coward, the only colored defendant tried at the afternoon session, was given a 90-day road sentence after having entered a plea of guilty to assault.

The National Resources committee found that public affairs in the United States, in 1936, were administered by 175,000 separate federal, state and local agencies.

CONFER ON SINO-JAPANESE SITUATION

Possibility that the United States might rush reinforcements to China to protect Americans and invoke the neutrality act against both China and Japan, was seen in Washington when President Roosevelt called high government officials to the White House to confer on the Far East situation. Among those summoned were Secretary of State Cordell Hull (left), and Secretary of War Harry L. Woodring (right), shown as they reached the executive mansion.

REBELS DRIVE ON SANTANDER

Says Insurgent Army Built Around Italians

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Aug. 18.—(AP)—An insurgent army, described by the Spanish government as built around the Italian "black arrow" brigade and bolstered by 200 German planes, battered toward Santander today in what may prove the critical campaign of Spain's civil war.

Columns operating on parallel highways into Santander, the government's last Biscayan seaport stronghold, were reported within 25 miles of Santander's outskirts.

That was the distance in straight line northeast, but each unit faced the task of covering some 33 or 40 miles of curving highway flanked by the barbed wire and concrete fortifications of Santander's defenders.

The fourth day of General Francisco Franco's big push through the mountain lands brought into play yesterday large numbers of tanks, field guns and planes.

The Valencia government seemed to regard the Santander offensive as the pivotal action of the 13-months old conflict.

Roosevelt Hailed In Elizabeth City

Elizabeth City, Aug. 18.—(AP)—President Roosevelt embarked on a coast guard cutter shortly before 10 a. m. (EST) today for Roanoke Island, where he made an address this afternoon.

Hundreds of spectators lined the streets over which the President rode after leaving the special train which brought him here from Washington and joined in the welcome.

Bus Situation 'In Hand' As Schools Prepare Open

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, Aug. 18.—When the coming school year opens, the school situation will be "well in hand," according to Lloyd Griffin, executive secretary of the state school commission.

Final delivery of busses, scheduled to be completed before September 1, will give every county an adequate number of busses in good operating condition, he said.

How long the condition will continue satisfactory will depend largely upon the "kind of winter the weather man gives us," Mr. Griffin added.

Since the opening of the fiscal year the commission has ordered 700 busses, Mr. Griffin said, many of which have already been delivered and have been allocated to various counties. In addition, there were some 50 busses delivered between the passage of an emergency appropriations measure by the 1937

GOVERNOR MAY APPOINT WIFE FILL VACANCY

Possible That Mrs. Graves Will Succeed Senator Black

LEGAL ACTION MAY BLOCK PLAN

Senate and House Work Toward Adjournment, Expected Saturday Night

Washington, Aug. 18.—(AP)—The possibility developed today that appointment of Senator Hugo Black of Alabama to the Supreme Court may result in another woman becoming a member of the Senate.

Alabama congressmen said they understood Governor Bibb Graves of Alabama had decided to appoint his wife, Mrs. Dixie Graves as a temporary successor to Black.

There was some belief this might be delayed because of a legal move by Albert Levitt, former federal judge in the Virgin Islands to prevent the senator from taking his seat on the bench.

Levitt asked the Supreme Court for permission to file a petition requesting Black be required to show why he should be permitted to serve as an associate justice.

It was understood Mrs. Graves might be here tomorrow to be sworn into the Senate. She would be one of only two women in the Senate. The other is Mrs. Hattie Caraway, Arkansas Democrat.

Mrs. Graves could do little more than look the Senate over this session for leaders worked today toward adjournment by Saturday night.

To this end the House sought to wind up action on the Wagner low cost housing bill. Chairman O'Connor (D-N. Y.) opened debate on the bill this morning by asking a limitation against allotting any one state more than 10 per cent of the housing aid fund be removed.

The Senate devoted considerable time to wiping minor bills from its pre-adjournment slate. It has yet to act on the tax loophole-plugging bill and the third deficiency appropriation bill which the House passed yesterday.

The Senate agriculture committee decided to begin hearings October 1 in the south and west on new crop control legislation. Cotton, rice and tobacco producers will be heard by a group under the chairmanship of Senator Smith (D-S. C.) while another under Senator McGill (D-Kan.) will interview corn and wheat producers.

State REA Seeks Bell Still Fears Security Program Has Many Dangers

Early Reports on Workings of Act in North Carolina Fails to Allay Skepticism of Senator

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, Aug. 18.—Early returns from the workings of North Carolina's Social Security program have not allayed the fears of State Senator James A. Bell, only member of the 1937 upper house to vote against its adoption.

The Mecklenburger, chairman of the senate's appropriation committee, was in Raleigh yesterday and in conversation made it clear that he still believes that danger lurks behind every check sent out to the old people of the state.

"I want to make it clear that I am not opposed to the spirit of the bill," he said, "but I am afraid that its operation will make necessary a new tax on land if the real spirit is to be carried out. And if the true spirit isn't carried out, then what we do depend on it will be just that much money thrown away."

In the General Assembly last winter Senator Bell contended that the Social Security program would have a tendency to foster and develop a spirit of dependency and lack of initiative. He felt then, and still feels, that it will rob many of their pride.

The Charlotte solon won the reputation of being "Watchdog of the State Treasury" in the legislature, taking the floor against practically every appropriation not specifically recommended by his committee. In the committee he was considered the tightest fisted of them all.

He did not say so, in just so many words, but he indicated yesterday that he is thoroughly "fed up" with continual encroachments of the federal government into fields he believes should be for the state alone, and his manner left the impression that he may not "choose to run" again for the state senate in 1938. He has served in the last two legislatures.

FOUR ARE DEAD IN EXPLOSION

Steam Pipe Bursts on U. S. Destroyer at Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Four men were killed and ten injured by a steam explosion aboard the U. S. Destroyer Cassin today at the Philadelphia navy yard, the commandant's office announced.

The dead were civilian workers in the navy yard. One of those hurt was Lieut. Henry Marshall, engineering officer of the vessel. Six others injured were navy enlisted men and three were civilian employees. Their identities were not immediately available.

The Cassin, one of the navy's newest destroyers, was in dry dock at the navy yard for repairs when an exploding steam pipe showered a crew of workmen in the fire room with metal and scalding steam.

The announcement was made by Rear Admiral W. T. Cluverius, commandant of the Fourth naval district, after a board had inquired into the causes of the accident and the casualties.

Philadelphia, Aug. 18.—(AP)—A steam line on the U. S. Destroyer Cassin exploded today at the Philadelphia navy yards. Three men reportedly were killed in the blast.

Workmen had developed a high steam pressure to test safety valves in the vessel's equipment when a pipe near them burst. Several men were taken to a hospital, suffering from burns and the navy said three may have been killed.

A board of inquiry will be named immediately to determine the cause of the explosion and the casualties.

Grows Tobacco Stalk Nine Feet in Height

Greenville's tobacco market rightfully claims to be the best in the world. Pitt county farmers have an equal right to claim the best bright leaf tobacco in the world.

As evidence of the latter statement, a stalk of tobacco nine feet high and bearing 49 priming leaves was brought to the city today and left in the offices of The Reflector for the skeptical to see.

The unusually large stalk was grown on the Joe James farm north of the Tar river. The farm is owned by the heirs of R. E. Harris.

Two Fliers Killed When Plane Crashes, Explodes

Airman in Virginia Tragedy Believed Be Navy Men

Maidens, Va., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Two airmen, believed to be army fliers, were killed when their disabled plane crashed and exploded in flames within the grounds of the Virginia Industrial School for Boys near here today.

Gordon Rudd, acting assistant superintendent of the school, said the low-winged monoplane smashed to the ground when the pilot tried to avoid a deep ditch in the school's dairy pasture.

"It literally exploded into flames as it struck within 100 yards of the dairy barn where several boys were at work," he said.

Rudd ordered the charred bodies in the wreckage of the airship be left untouched while he called officers at Langley Field.

Officers at Langley Field, after a brief investigation, stated: "We understand that Bolling Field army base near Washington is taking care of the wreck." This led school officials to revise an earlier opinion that the plane was from Langley air base in Virginia.

A Spokane hotel washes all metal money it takes in and makes change only with clean metal and fresh currency.

It is contended that Senator Black has "prejudged" issues which will come before him and that he will interpret the constitution so as to give all power to the federal government.

In 1852, according to Dr. London's manuscript, one of the senators said: "As a politician Mr. Badger is distinguished for his extreme federal notions, which lead him always to interpret the constitution so as to derogate from the rights of the states and to augment the powers of the general government."

Typical of the more abusive comment, such as has been heard in remarks that Black's nomination is an "insult," one newspaper opposing Senator Badger referred to him as a "Green-gilled Federalist."

President Roosevelt was the main attraction at the 350th anniversary celebration of the "Lost Colony" on Roanoke Island today, which attracted thousands of visitors from North Carolina, Virginia and elsewhere. The President went to the island from Elizabeth City by a coast guard cutter. He was scheduled to leave after witnessing the historical pageant, following his address.

Typical of the more abusive comment, such as has been heard in remarks that Black's nomination is an "insult," one newspaper opposing Senator Badger referred to him as a "Green-gilled Federalist."

And the Wilmington Journal of that day remarked that while Mr. Badger ought not to be confirmed, it almost wished he could be so as to get rid of him in North Carolina.

The convention was held at Greensboro and it was voted to meet next year in Winston-Salem.

Sheriff Whitehurst, who voluntarily retired from the presidency after two years of service, was named chairman of the organization's steering committee, in which capacity he will wield much power as to the policies and activities of the association.

The sheriff was awarded with an expensive deep-sea fishing outfit—even including scales. The weighing device was included with the instructions that the sheriff was to weigh each fish he caught and record the figure accurately. The sheriff was presented the rod and reel by his associates just before the meeting closed.

"I feel that I am retiring in president of the association with its affairs in fine shape," declared Sheriff Whitehurst.

PLACES FAITH IN DEMOCRACY

Nation's Executive Quotes From Letter Written in 1857 by Lord Macauley Declaring Government Could Not Exist; Adds Macauleys are With Us Today.

Manteo, Roanoke Island, N. C., Aug. 18.—(AP)—President Roosevelt declared today "democracy — and more democracy" is the answer to "Tory insistence that salvation lies in the vesting of power in the hands of a select class."

"I seek no change in the form of American government," he said. "Majority rule must be preserved as the safeguard of both liberty and civilization."

The President, renewing his criticism of the Liberty League and others, who he said, "thunder today," spoke at a celebration marking the 350th anniversary of the "lost colony."

He based much of his address, broadcast nationally, on a letter which Lord Macauley, English historian, sent in 1857 to an American friend, Sam Randall, a New York writer.

Macauley wrote democracy would not succeed in the United States, adding:

"Either some Caesar or Napoleon will seize the reins of government with a strong hand and your republic will be laid waste by barbarians in the twentieth century."

Mr. Roosevelt dubbed "American Lord Macauleys" persons who "tell you that America drifts toward the scylla of dictatorships on the one hand or the charybdis of anarchy on the other."

After quoting a long portion of the historian's letter, the President said:

"Almost methinks I am reading not from Macauley, but from a resolution of the United States Chamber of Commerce, the Liberty League, the National Association of Manufacturers or the editorial written at the behest of some well known newspaper proprietor."

"I conceive it to be true that I am just as strongly in favor of the security of property and the maintenance of order as Lord Macauley... and in this the American people are with me, too."

He referred at another point to that assertion:

"My friends, I am of the firm belief that the nation by an overwhelming majority supports my opposition to the vesting of supreme power in the hands of any class numerous, but select."

Sheriff Declares N. C. Association Meet Successful

S. A. Whitehurst, Retiring As President After Two Years of Service, Presented Gift

Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst, just back from the fourteenth annual convention of the North Carolina Sheriffs' association, declared this year's meeting to have been the best in the history of the organization.

The convention was held at Greensboro and it was voted to meet next year in Winston-Salem.

Sheriff Whitehurst, who voluntarily retired from the presidency after two years of service, was named chairman of the organization's steering committee, in which capacity he will wield much power as to the policies and activities of the association.

The sheriff was awarded with an expensive deep-sea fishing outfit—even including scales. The sheriff was presented the rod and reel by his associates just before the meeting closed.

"I feel that I am retiring in president of the association with its affairs in fine shape," declared Sheriff Whitehurst.

While the local officer was president of the association, Miss Eleanor Barr served as secretary of the association and also attended the Greensboro meeting.

Row Over Senator Black Recalls Former Contest

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, Aug. 18.—Coincidentally with the battle over confirmation of Senator Hugo Black as a member of the U. S. Supreme court, a manuscript telling how a United States Senator from North Carolina was denied confirmation to the same lofty post has been received in the office of Dr. C. C. Crittenden, secretary of the State Historical Commission.

It deals with the rejection of President Millard Fillmore's nomination of Senator George S. Badger, Whig from North Carolina, whose confirmation was "indefinitely postponed," February 11, 1853 by a one-vote margin, 26 to 25.

The manuscript, written by Dr. Lawrence A. London of Chapel Hill, indicates that there is little new under the sun in the matter of issues. The same reasons for refusal to confirm were advanced then as are being advanced now. In 1837

Man About Manhattan

New York—This fight night at Madison Square Garden . . . Much of New York is on hand, and much of Hollywood . . . It is 8:30 o'clock and a murmur of excitement ripples across the house as Jack Dempsey moves down the aisle and grabs himself a ringside pew . . . Jack Dempsey has only one thing to get to the whole garden—tingling with reminiscences of Jack-the-killer of other days . . . Yet, it is ten years since Dempsey pulled on a glove . . . That is one thing about the fight mob in New York . . . It never forgets its idols.

Sonja Henie, the Norse lass who has made everybody skate conscious, has the fight fever, too, that pleasant malady having been acquired in Hollywood, where everybody takes in the scraps . . . She has been in New York only six hours, but she is at the ringside.

Al Jolson is talking earnestly with the manager of a new heavy-weight . . . Al is a tight manager himself and seldom misses a match . . . Eddie Garr, the mime, and Maxmillian Berger are shouting the virtues of their favorite bruisers . . . Owen Davis, back from Skowhegan, wends his way through the crowded aisles.

The real business of the evening is at hand now . . . A coal black dock-walker in a flaming scarlet robe slips through the ropes . . . In the opposite corner is another ebony lad, fat and rusty looking . . . You wouldn't give him much chance against the lithe, muscle-rippling Harlemite in the scarlet robe . . . His middle is too thickish . . . He has that flabby look that isn't good for prizefighters . . . Yet, the fight is over in the whistle of a couple of right hand punches . . . The admiral from Harlem bounces in and the fat boy from the other side of the ring jars him back to the ancient sleep of Africa . . . It is as simple as that . . . He drops as if a sawed-off pool cue had been laid behind his ear.

Next comes a deacon, who is slightly less black than his predecessors . . . He is merely two shades deeper than an Abyssinian midnight . . . The deacon isn't having such a good night, and as one of the sports writers aptly wisecracks, the deacon is in need of prayer as early as the third round.

Presently the champion of Italy crawls through the ropes . . . He has the high cheek-bones of Primo Carnera, and is a swartly olive in complexion . . . The first pop out the box his eye is closed . . . It gets angrier and more gory with each punch . . . Yet, the fight is tame . . . Until the fifth round . . . From then it Italy begins to show something . . . They carry on to a rousing finish with Mussolini's man winning.

There are some five or six fights and 40 rounds in all . . . In row 4, with pet black hair and eyes that flame with excitement . . . An odd place, you think, this arena of western rowdyism, for one so emblematic of the Rising Sun . . . But Anna May Wong is as western as you . . . "Bliff him, Joe!" she shrieks, "Bliff him!"

And, mister, Joe bliffs him!

HELPS FOR HOUSEWIVES

Pineapples may be used for holding appetizers, salads or desserts. Use pineapples of uniformly medium size. Cut them in halves lengthwise and, using a fork, scrae out the pulp. (It may be used later). Wash and chill the cases. Stuff them with fruit, melons or berries.

Press woolen materials on the wrong side. Use a damp cloth between the iron and the material. The iron should be moderately hot and should be applied until the cloth is dry.

Crystals sometimes form on grape jelly. Although they are cream of tartar crystals and are, therefore, harmless, many people do not like their appearance. To get rid of the crystals place the drained juice in a jar and let it stand over night. The crystals are likely to form on top, and may be removed easily.

Use sugar syrup instead of granulated sugar for sweetening chilled beverages and punches. Boil together for three minutes, two cups of granulated sugar and three cups of water. Allow the syrup to cool, then store it in a covered jar in the refrigerator.

Bake cheese biscuit dough in a ring mold. Unmold and spread it, while warm, with butter. Fill the center with a crisp salad. Pass additional salad dressing in a bowl.

Overcooking jelly will cause it to have a strong acid flavor and is likely to prevent proper congealing.

How's Your Health?

Edited for the New York Academy of Medicine
By Iago Galdston, M.D.

Are Viruses Alive?
The medical dictionary defines virus as "a living virulent cause of disease." Recent studies, however, have cast some doubt on this definition, for certain viruses—notably those causing plant diseases, and also one causing disease in an animal—have been shown to belong to the world of "non-living things."

And thereby hangs a most interesting problem. When solved, it may revolutionize our ideas on the causation of morbid conditions.

Why the emphasis on living cause of disease? The following may explain it:

There are numerous non-living causes of disease, such as the heavy metals (lead and mercury), poisonous substances (arsenic, bichloride) toxins (diphtheria, botulinus). When these non-living substances gain entrance into the body they do not multiply. Only so much of any of them will be present in the body as originally gained entrance—assuming of course that none has been eliminated. But when a living disease-producing agent enters the body, one single unit (a single germ of tuberculosis, for example) can theoretically at least, cause a fatal illness. This single germ can in a short time multiply to produce millions and millions of its kind.

The capacity to reproduce its kind is one of the distinguishing characteristic of living things. And yet crystals can also multiply and reproduce themselves, and crystals are not considered to be alive. Biologists make this distinction between the reproduction of living things and of crystals: living things reproduce by "inner growth," and crystals by "outer growth." But this distinction loses much of its significance when we are dealing with the ultra-minute things.

It has been definitely shown that certain plant viruses can be crystallized. Thus treated they form crystalline proteins. These proteins are capable of reproducing the disease, from which the original virus was abstracted. Crystalline proteins are non-living. How then do the viruses of these diseases grow and multiply and spread?

Here is a fascinating problem. Perhaps in its solution we may find the answer to the unsolved problems of the virus diseases in man.

Goering Founds School of Art.

Kronenburg (Eifel), Germany, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Hitler's prime minister, General Hermann Goering, has founded a school of painting here "to express the German character in art." Professor Werner Peiner of the Prussian Academy of Arts has been named director.

According to the statutes drawn up by Goering himself, ability decides who may teach and who may learn. The goal may be considered reached when masters and students have "laid the foundations for a present-day German school of painting closely knit with a great past and passing on a valuable tradition to the coming generation."

The school is called the "Hermann Goering Conservatory of Painting."

BY HULBERT FOOTNER

SYNOPSIS: Neill a resolute young federal agent, comes to Baltimore to spend a week's vacation with his girl. But they quarrel, Janet, who is tall, attractive and independent, refuses to break a dinner date with Pre-cott Fanning. Angriily Neill says Fanning is too old for Janet, too slick and spends too much money. Both peeved, they part and Neill sets out to check up on Fanning. He interviews an acquaintance of Fanning's, and a bellboy. Then a strange little gray man, David Eyster, slides up to talk evasively about Fanning, calling him "a devil to women."

Chapter Three

Cocktails With Fanning
"WHAT'S Fanning's business here?" Neill pressed.
"I haven't been able to find out," said Eyster. "After all, I'm only one year older and I can't let him get on to me. But he's up to no good, you can be sure of that."

"What's his record?"
Eyster shook his head. "I won't tell you . . . yet."
"Why can't we work together on this?" asked Neill. "We both distrust the man and want to prevent him doing any further harm . . ."

"I don't care how much harm he does," Eyster interrupted.
Neill looked at him in exasperation. He seemed part madman, part child and scarcely human.

Eyster moistened his lips. "The rottener he acts, the more fun it is to watch him," he said softly. "And the more satisfactory his finish will be."

"What do you mean, his finish?"
Eyster declined to explain. "I like you, young man," he said with a grin. "You won't let anything on, but I can see that you hate him. I'll tell you something, he suddenly went on with a spurt of venom. "My hatred of Fanning is all I live for. And my business, that you asked me about just now, is to follow him around and watch him and feed it."
"Good God!" muttered Neill. "Why?"

Eyster turned cautious again. "I'm not going to tell you anything more until I've tested you out," he said. "I don't want my plans interfered with."

"What's going to be the end of this?" asked Neill.
"The end may be slow in coming," said Eyster, grinning, "but it's certain!"

Neill looked at him, wondering how to deal with such a crack-pot. "Do you know about his yacht?" asked Eyster.

Here was a bit of real information. "No. What yacht?"
"He has just bought a yacht called the Nadji. I can't figure what he wants a yacht for."

"Won't it be difficult for you to follow him if he goes off on a yacht?" suggested Neill, fishing.
"I have made my arrangements," said Eyster grinning. "Where's the yacht living?"

"At the City pier, foot of Broadway," Eyster got up abruptly. "Have you ever seen Fanning?" he asked.

"No."
"Well, here he comes. I'll leave you."

Over The Bar

FOLLOWING the direction of Eyster's glance, Neill saw a tall, dark, handsome man coming in from the street. At first glance he scarcely looked like a crook, but Neill judged him about five years more than that. He was in the pink of condition with a skin as fresh as a baby's. His black eyes were set close together, giving him a foxy look; they were the kind of eyes that turn continually and overlook nothing. A hard face, but rendered superficially attractive by a good-natured smile. A crook and a slick one, thought Neill.

Fanning, nodding pleasantly to his acquaintances in the lobby, strolled on into the bar. After giving him a moment or two, Neill followed.

He found Fanning leaning negligently on the mahogany, watching the bartender stir him up an old-fashioned cocktail. Neill lined up nearby and looked him over in the mirror without appearing to.

Fanning was wearing a perfectly-cut gray flannel suit and an expensive Panama hat. His shirt and tie were just a little different from anybody else's. Evidently a man who gave a good deal of thought to his dress. Neill, who bought good clothes without thinking about them, resented it. Just the sort of thing to catch a woman's eye!

Since it was the hour before dinner when nobody is in a rush and each of them was alone at the bar, it was natural to fall into talk. When Neill also ordered an old-fashioned, Fanning said with his ready smile:

"Great minds think alike!"
"Great ones and small ones too," said Neill.
Fanning laughed. "Are you registered here?"

"At the Stafford."
"My name is Prescott Fanning."
"I'm Walter Patton."
"Where from?"
"New York."
"That's my town too, but the thinking of retiring and settling in Baltimore."

"You're a young man to be talking about retiring."
"Oh, well, I'm not ambitious," said Fanning. "Forty or fifty thousand a year is ample for my needs. I'm looking for a place in the Green Spring valley. Nothing opulent or showy, you understand. A small place, but perfect in every appointment. That's my ideal. Two or three blooded horses in the stable, a flat field where I can land and take off in my own plane."

Blow-hard! thought Neill. "Are you married?" Pleasantly.
"No, indeed," said Fanning laughing. "I'm too fond of the sex to tie myself down to one. Women are like wines—you want a different type with every course. I wouldn't give up champagne just because I like Johannisberger."

Neill fingered his glass longingly. He had a terrible year to fling the contents in the man's face.

Shrewd Questions
"TELL me, how did you make enough to retire so early?" he asked laughing. "That's something every man is interested in."

"In the Street," said Fanning.

Neill looked at him in exasperation. He seemed part madman, part child and scarcely human.

Eyster moistened his lips. "The rottener he acts, the more fun it is to watch him," he said softly. "And the more satisfactory his finish will be."

"What do you mean, his finish?"
Eyster declined to explain. "I like you, young man," he said with a grin. "You won't let anything on, but I can see that you hate him. I'll tell you something, he suddenly went on with a spurt of venom. "My hatred of Fanning is all I live for. And my business, that you asked me about just now, is to follow him around and watch him and feed it."

"Good God!" muttered Neill. "Why?"

Eyster turned cautious again. "I'm not going to tell you anything more until I've tested you out," he said. "I don't want my plans interfered with."

"What's going to be the end of this?" asked Neill.
"The end may be slow in coming," said Eyster, grinning, "but it's certain!"

Neill looked at him, wondering how to deal with such a crack-pot. "Do you know about his yacht?" asked Eyster.

Here was a bit of real information. "No. What yacht?"
"He has just bought a yacht called the Nadji. I can't figure what he wants a yacht for."

"No."
"Well, here he comes. I'll leave you."

As Fanning entered, Neill thought: A crook, and a slick one.

carelessly. "Things are coming back."
"As an operator or a broker?"
"Both. . . . You hear a lot about the cleverness of Wall Street men, but believe me it's all a myth. They're so dumb that a fellow of just ordinary intelligence like me can go in and clean up in short order," he laughed. "What's your line?" he asked.

"Contact man for a firm of contractors. What's your firm?"
"I'm out of the Street now. . . . Have you heard this one?"

He told a funny story about Wall Street. While his mouth was full of humorous friendly talk, the foxy black eyes never relaxed their vigilance. Neill had the sense that he was being keenly sized up in his turn.

He matched Fanning's story with another. Fanning laughed and clapped him on the back. "I like you, Patton! You and I speak the same lingo." He beckoned to the bartender. "Set 'em up, Jim. This round is on me."

Neill reciprocated. By the time they had had three, a perfect bar-room friendship had developed. But while the drink appeared to loosen Fanning's tongue, he made no disclosures about himself. When Neill asked a question, he told a funny story. From time to time he slipped in a shrewd question of his own. Neill answered with seeming frankness, but Fanning's sharp eyes hardened.

He is suspicious of me, Neill thought, and he doesn't mean to let me go until he's found out what I'm after. Well, two can play that game.

WILL EXPLAIN N. C. SEED LAW

Series of Meetings Called to Explain Statute

Raleigh, Aug. 18.—A series of meetings for the purpose of explaining the new North Carolina state seed law and emphasizing the value of using seed of known origin will be sponsored by the State Department of Agriculture beginning August 23 and continuing until September 11.

Meetings will be held in 40 North Carolina counties in cooperation with the North Carolina extension service. Speakers will be D. S. Coltrane, assistant to Commissioner W. Kerr Scott; J. W. Woodside, chief of the Department of Agriculture's seed laboratory division and A. D. Stuart, field inspector for the North Carolina seed improvement association.

"All seed dealers and all farmers who raise seed for sale will find these meetings invaluable insofar as they are designed to inform the grower and dealer of the changes in the law and to better acquaint the farmers with the free services offered farmers looking toward the prevention of poor quality seed dumping in North Carolina," Woodside said.

The schedule of meetings for the first two weeks follows:

- August 23, Lexington, 3 p. m. and Salisbury, 7:30 p. m.; August 24, Pittsboro, 1:30 p. m. and Carthage, 7:30 p. m.; August 25, Sanford at noon and Asheboro at 7:30 p. m.; August 26, Albemarle, 3 p. m. and Charlotte at 7:30 p. m.; August 27, Concord at noon and Monroe at 7:30 p. m.; August 28, Wadesboro at 10 a. m.
- August 30, Durham at 3 p. m. and Hillsboro at 7:30 p. m.; August 31, Graham at 10 a. m. and Reidsville at 3 p. m.; September 1, Winston-Salem at 10 a. m., Mocksville at 3 p. m., Statesville at 7:30 p. m.; September 2, Taylorsville 10 a. m., Lenoir at 3 p. m. and Newton at 7:30 p. m.; September 3, Lincolnton at 10 a. m., Gastonia at 3 p. m. and Shelby at 7:30 p. m.; September 4, Rutherfordton at 10 a. m., Columbus at 3 p. m.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

Toronto—The spheroidal state of a liquid, the thing you see when water touches a very hot stove, is beginning to give trouble to industry.

When water is poured upon a red hot stove, it ought to flash up into steam instantly. It ought, that is, under the physical laws of boiling. But it doesn't. Little drops of water dance across the hot iron without even wetting it.

The reason—the drops are surrounded by steam. This is the spheroidal state. It will happen anytime water is heated too fast.

It happens too to the liquids chemists boil in stills, evaporators and fractionating devices. Thomas B. Drew and Alfred C. Mueller of the Du Pont company have informed chemical engineers that the spheroidal state troubles can be met by proper design of boilers.

BOO: Here's A Technique For Razzing Movie Ads

Mr. Blackman shows a delivery guaranteed to confuse an usher.

For volume, he recommends the bird—raucous but conspicuous.

If caught, you simply look innocent and ask: "Who, me?"

Women movie-ad razzers may use the program as a shield.

By T. S. ADAMS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Good booting, like good golf, requires technique, practice, perfect timing. Take that from M. C. Blackman, an expert.

Blackman is the organizer and crusading executive secretary of The Society for the Booing of Commercial Advertisements in Motion Picture Theatres.

Members attend theatres en masse—and that's where the technique comes in.

Differs From Baseball
"The art of gentle booing in motion picture theatres, requires a different technique from the art of raucous booing, such as the mass lunging exhausts that brighten the lives of umpires," explains Blackman, a professional writer.

"At a baseball game, where the show is strictly visual and the dramatic development is spasmodic, the only way you can be conspicuous is by sitting perfectly still and reading an old copy of the Congressional Record. You can boo until you dislocate your ears and strip your teeth and nobody will notice you."

"But in the theatre, where the actors must be heard as well as seen and the dramatic development is continuous, you become conspicuous if you cross your legs more than twice in one performance."

Solo Booing Hardest
"Hence the booing must be performed gently, subtly, and with perfect timing."

"The most difficult of all such manifestations of displeasure is solo booing. That is the true test of a bona fide movie-ad booper's courage, determination, skill at dissembling and control of the vocal chords."

"The amateur solo booper is likely at first to make the mistake of trying to conceal his boo behind a hand discreetly cupping the mouth. The combination of movement and sound is likely to cause a wave of neck-craning and lead to embarrassment, dejection and loss of crusading spirit."

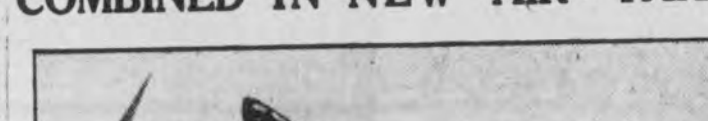

"But as the amateur grows more proficient, he learns to modulate his boo out of one corner of the mouth and he may even develop a talent for ventriloquism. This not only adds zest to the booper's pleasure but creates confusion among the staff. If the management can be tricked into admonishing of ejecting an innocent person, so much the better for your cause and so much the worse for the management."

SPEEDY LIFT, SLOW LANDING IS COMBINED IN NEW 'AIR-TAXI'

GERMANY'S STORK No trouble at all for this plane to get off the ground. It takes off so fast that it seems to stand on its tail.

Kassel, Germany (AP)—An aircraft built to complete with the wind-mill plane in ease of landing and with ordinary airplanes in speed has been developed here.

The Stork, as Gerhard Fieseler calls his plans, takes off so steeply that it seems to stand on its tail. It can hurtle down to from 130 to 30 miles an hour in straight flight and land at 24 miles an hour.

Small supplementary wings, projecting slightly beyond the forward surface of the main wing, "trap" the air stream from the propeller and force it to exert a greater lifting power.

In landing tests the Stork has been brought to a halt in less than seven yards after its wheels touched the ground. In take-off tests it has attained an altitude of 500 feet within 100 yards from a standing start.

There's a New Swing To Knitting For Fall

There are some lovely new designs. For instance there's a beautiful hand-knit which uses Irish Crochet for trim. It lifts it out of the class ordinarily seen and makes it ideal for cocktail hour or even more formal occasions. Then there's another hand-knit bedecked with French Knots . . . a grand looking dress, too. We know you'll love any of the many designs we'll show you, but . . .

With these smart patterns it is more important than ever to use a good yarn. To get that truly distinguished look use Bernat. Bernat garments keep their shapes and wash superbly. Bernat yarns have a dual personality . . . beauty, plus wear.

Here's a treat for you knitters: We're showing tomorrow and Friday a collection of fifteen hand-knit garments from Bernat Yarns in our Art Shop. Come in and see them. They are a challenge for you to turn your leisure moments into hand-knits you'll wear most every waking hour!

Hot Weather is Here— Beware of Biliousness!

Have you ever noticed that in very hot weather your organs of digestion and elimination seem to become torpid or lazy? Your food sours, forms gas, causes belching, heartburn, and a feeling of restlessness and irritability. Perhaps you may have sick headache, nausea and dizziness or blind spells on suddenly rising. Your tongue may be coated, your complexion bilious and your bowel actions sluggish or insufficient.

These are some of the more common symptoms or warnings of biliousness or so-called "torpid liver," so prevalent in hot climates. Don't neglect them. Take Calomel, the improved calomel compound tablets that give you the effects of calomel and salts, combined. You will be delighted with the prompt relief they afford. SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, Aug. 18. - Mrs. Vivian Stevens, Indian town, first woman ever to serve on the state Board of Agriculture, will deliver her first speech in that official capacity at the Mountain Test farm field day at Swannanoa tomorrow.

Commissioner Kerr Scott, Publications Director Louis H. Wilson and many other big wigs of the department will attend.

According to Tommy Gresham himself reports that the Warsaw national committeeman of the Young Democratic Clubs of North Carolina will not run for presidency of the state organization as a bit premature, to say the least.

On the eve of his departure for the national convention of the Y. D. S. at Indianapolis, Mr. Gresham said he would not definitely make up his mind until his return to North Carolina.

"Most Young Democratic politicking is done in the last 24 hours before any of our conventions," he added, perhaps significantly.

North Carolina's first "Gin Inspector" was named by the Department of Agriculture and not by the state Liquor Control Board. He is Fred P. Johnson, of Hoke county, whose duties will be to give technical advice to and "generally see to make the standard of North Carolina cotton better," according to the announcement of his appointment.

That baseball as well as football can aid materially in advertising North Carolina is proved by the Asheville Eagles, semi-pro team which has just been eliminated from the national tournament at Wichita, and by the Charlotte American League Juniors who have won a regional championship and will soon play for the championship of the east.

Both these teams have brought the state favorably before the newspaper readers of the nation.

"The Governor wants some people on the board who know something about it as well as some experts," cracked a state official, who pleaded hard for anonymity.

Dudley Bagley, state REA head, was yesterday paroled in the custody of his telephone by lawyers engaged in the boiling power battle being waged before Judge Henry Grady in Clinton. Attorneys did not put him on the stand during the first day of the Johnston county row which has brought three farmers into prominence as plaintiffs trying to restrain the County Co-operative from making a contract with the Carolina Power and Light Company. Mr. Bagley was instructed, however, that he must not get out of phone bell range.

Recent rulings by Major A. L. Fletcher, commissioner of labor, are to the effect that provisions of the old maximum hour law for women have not been repealed and are still in effect except where specifically revoked or amended by the 48-hour bill of 1937. "But," interposed Fields, "how can a Spaniard go for Southern dishes?" "Well," replied Senor Collada, "my family comes from the south of Spain."

PLANT OF GREENVILLE TOBACCO CO.

Located in the heart in the tobacco district, the Greenville Tobacco Company's plant is one of the most modern and well equipped for the handling and redrying of tobacco to be found in Eastern North Carolina. The factory and storage plant cover approximately two city blocks, with 80,177 square feet of floor space, and a storage capacity of approximately 5,000 hogheads of tobacco.

Officers of the Greenville Tobacco Company are:—C. W. Howard, president and treasurer; G. O. Tuck, vice-president; Rucker Penn, vice-president; A. C. Monk, vice-president; W. C. Glass, secretary.

The buyers who will represent the company here this coming season are:—E. D. Roberson, Jr., E. K. Howard, E. C. Wilson, J. T. Cheatham, Jr., and W. G. Clark.

A big day is planned at Third Street stadium tomorrow afternoon when the Greensies meet the Williamston Martins here. Officials of the club are making plans for an unusually large crowd and special features have been arranged.

The Greensies have been going strong since new talent was added. The locals have not lost a home game in about three weeks. One contest scheduled during that time was rained out and one tied. The last game left on the home field was on July 25.

Greenville's Don King, southpaw hurler, whose mound work has been so good that he has won the last four games in which he hurled—did it again yesterday. He held Doc Smith's Bruins to four-hits, and kept them from scoring, while his team-mates gathered 12 hits and 8 runs off three New Bern hurlers.

Birch Douglas got two of New Bern's four hits. He singled in the first and sixth. The other two hits came in the seventh and eighth.

The Greensies went to work right away to chase Pitcher Averette in the second. A bit later Berry, who had relieved Averette was pulled for a pinch hitter and Thornton hurled the remainder of the game.

In the first the locals tallied two times and three more were added in the third.

The Bears offered only one threat in yesterday's tilt. Thole was safe on an error by Thompson in the seventh. Stith singled. Doc Smith forced Stith at second. Flythe fanned, but a walk to Osley filled the bases. The next two batters were easy outs.

A great catch by Shortstop Thole in the eighth robbed Wee Willie Powell of a base knock.

Powell, Thompson, Johnson and Roy with two hits each led the hitters.

The Greensies journey to New Bern this afternoon for the second game of a two-game series with the Bears. They return here tomorrow for a game with Art Hauger's second-place Williamston Martins.

Aces Outlook Eagles To Win Erratic Game
Kinston, Aug. 17.—Scorekeepers and spectators were given a headache as Ayden's Aces defeated the Kinston Eagles, 12-9, here this afternoon in a game that literally was "walked to death."

Kinston's four pitchers gave up a total of eight walks, while Ayden's three permitted nine. In addition, the Eagles, just to make it harder for the scorekeeper, used three catchers, one pinch-hitter and an extra centerfielder.

Ayden registered one run in the opener when Jirak walked, and tallied on Baker's single that Gillenwater let get away from him. The Aces added three runs in the 3rd when Scheurholz homered, Baker singled and Joyner homered.

Kinston tied the score in that frame on two errors, a walk and three singles.

Ayden sewed up the game in the fifth, with seven runs on four hits a homer to clear filled bases.

Kinston got four runs in its shaft. Butcher waked three batters to fill the bases. Woodrow Webb, former Kinston hurler, came to the mound and walked three more to force in three runs. Cooper's outfield fly brought the other home.

Ayden added one in the eighth, and Gillenwater homered in the ninth for Kinston's final tally.

Intentional Passes by Ace Elliott Gets His Longest Beats Billies 17th Win Of Season

Tarboro, Aug. 17.—Cecil Longest, Snow Hill hurler, developed a bad habit late in the ninth inning of this afternoon's game with Tarboro—and he could not get out of it in time to save the game. The result: Tarboro 2, Snow Hill 1.

The victory enabled the Serpents to return to third place, a half-game ahead of New Bern and Ayden, joint occupants of the fourth rung.

Longest brought on his own troubles by issuing intentional passes. With one out in Tarboro's ninth, Campbell singled. Longest decided to walk Tatum, and did. Lehman filed out. Carnahan, a left-handed hitter, was given an intentional pass to get to Cassell, who hits the other way. But Manager Snake Henry replaced Cassell with Doug Hautz who hits left-handed. Longest tried, and tried hard, but he couldn't do better than two strikes in six pitches to Hautz—and Campbell was forced in with the winning run.

Cassell pitched in fine style to get the nod over Longest. The league-leading Billies' lone run came in the first inning. With two out in that verse, Wall doubled by third. He scored when Robinson rapped a slow pitch for a single. After that Cassell stayed out of trouble except in the ninth—and then a double play, Lehman to Ware to Henry, took care of matters.

The Serpents were outhit, 7 to 5, but they weren't outplayed or out-fought. They tied it up in the 5th. With two out, Cassell and Myers hit successive doubles.

Tarboro fans, 350 of them, attended a pep meeting in the courthouse last night. Members of the ball club were guests. The meeting was called to give fans an opportunity to assure the boys that—win or lose—they are with the team.

And the boys responded today by knocking off the first-place Billies, and going back to third place.

Sales Team Wins To Tie-Up Series

Play-Off Series to Be Resumed on Thursday Afternoon

The Carolina Sales softball team evened things up in the seven-game play-off series yesterday afternoon at Third street stadium, defeating the Tadlock Mutual Insurance agency team 3-2.

The insurance men won the first game Monday afternoon. The two teams will rest this afternoon, but are scheduled to resume play tomorrow afternoon at 6 o'clock on the Third street stadium.

Carolina Sales came out in front in the first half and Tadlock's was ahead at the close of the final half. Yesterday's victory for the Carolina Sales team came when L. G. Hamilton poled out a homer to break a 2-2 tie in the sixth.

Tadlock's insurance men got off to a good start, scoring two in the first frame, but they were never able to add to these and the Caro-

REICH TO HONOR DEAD AMERICAN TREE

Berlin — (AP)—The American great-grandmother of all the German acacia trees is dead.

In 1710, when acacias were unknown in Germany, this tree came to the court of Frederick I in a pot from America. The king gave it to his minister, Heinrich Rudiger von Igen, who planted it on his estate. In 227 years the tree mothered hundreds of thousands of others all over Germany. It reached a height of 82 feet.

The trunk is to be preserved as a botanical memorial of the "grand old American lady."

Kennebunk Beach, Me., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Kenneth Roberts, purveyor of historical truth in fiction, no longer rubs the stomachs of round Chinese idols for luck when sending manuscripts to publishers.

But in his earlier and learner years, the author of "Northwest Passage" and his wife managed images of Hotel, god of happiness, before mailing stories.

Roberts has about 40 of the smiling idols, fashioned from China, bronze and other materials, in his Kennebunk Beach home and in the roomy and book-crammed studio which once was an old stable. There the learned, six-foot writer does most of his work.

The novelist, whose "Northwest Passage" is now in its eighth edition, sets himself a daily stint of 1,200 to 2,000 handwritten words, which he rewrites and revises several times.

"Northwest Passage," he says, "required three years work for the reader to understand in two days."

He delved into the hardest kind of research, sifting out mistakes, piecing scattered accounts, collecting historical detail through innumerable sources to arrive at the truth of the time and its people.

He checked his source books and documents, one with another, annotating each with pertinent marginalia, pungently caustic at times in his hunt for the truth.

One historian, he discovered, had written that the retreat of General St. Clair from Fort Ticonderoga in July, 1777, occurred during a full moon.

Roberts found a contemporary almanac which disclosed the moon was new on that date and therefore set early in the evening. On such regard for historical accuracy his writings are built.

"You have the feeling you've done something when you've done a historical novel," he says. "In putting fact into fiction, it's got to hold water."

FACT FINDER

Novelist Kenneth Roberts' biggest job in writing "Northwest Passage" was to check up on the historians. In many cases he found they were wrong.

Body Drowned Man Recovered In Sound

Plymouth, N. C., Aug. 18.—(AP)—The body of Will Nixon, Winfall man, who slipped overboard Thursday between Reid's Point and Laurel Point, was found Tuesday afternoon in the Albemarle Sound just below the new bridge sit by B. F. Twiddy of Pea Ridge.

DEER CAUSES PANIC IN RESORT TOWN

Charlevoix, Mich. — (AP)—Citizens of this resort town hurried for cover recently when a large eight-point buck strayed into town, became frightened and fled, leaving a trail of wreckage behind.

The deer hurdled an automobile in the business district, narrowly missed a plate glass window in a store and dashed through the front door of a garage and plunged out the rear window, smashing the EXPERIENCED TRAINERS can usually break any horse of bucking or rearing. Frank J. Sayre (left) is an excellent rider and an authority on breeding and training. "Being a native Kentuckian, I just can't help knowing a good deal about whiskey, too," Mr. Sayre admits. "And if there's a better Bourbon than Kentucky Pride, I don't know what it is."

"KENTUCKY'S REPUTATION for horses and whiskey might lead you to think all we do is ride and (above). "Actually, we're very conservative drinkers. And incidentally, if you like a smooth whiskey, try a little Kentucky Pride."
