Britain Protests Attack On Envoy By Japan Planes

Reported To Be Considering Breaking Off Relations

CONDITION OF AGENT CRITICAL

Meanwhile China and Japan Engage in a Furious Battle Along Shanghai Defenses

London, Aug. 27.—(AP)—

The British government was reported today considering breaking off diplomatic relations with Japan unless full satisfaction is obtained for the wounding of the British ambassador to China in an attack by Japanese war planes.

Sir Hugh Knatchbull-Hugessen, his back broken by a Japanese machine gun bullet, was in a critical condition in a Shanghai hospital.

Indignant foreign officials were said to have taken a grave view of the attack made on the envoy's car by the Japanese bombers in the Shanghai area.

Explanations for the Japanese government were awaited momentarily before a formal decision was made on just what would constitute the "appropriate action" the government has pledged itself to take.

Shanghai, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Crack Chinese and Japanese divisions fought a furious and costly battle today to turn Lutien, key point in China's defense lines about Shanghai, into a smoking heap of ashes.

The tide of battle saw from side to side. Both Chinese and Japanese rushed reinforcements to the desperate fighting 12 miles northwest of Shanghai. Thousands of casualties were sustained by both sides.

Japan, after first being hurried back into Lion forests, reported they had rallied and occupied the town late this afternoon, gaining a foothold for a drive into a district just northwest of Shanghai proper.

While the battle raged, Great Britain's ambassador to China lay dangerously close to death from wounds suffered when his car was attacked by a Japanese war plane. His life, and possibly relations between Japan and Britain, depended on the success of a blood transfusion from a United States sailor.

One Bandit Slain; Another Captured

Chatanooga, Tenn., Aug. 27.—(AP)—Acting Chief of Detectives Robert Ryatt said today one of two bandits who wounded two policemen here early today had been killed during an attempter store hold up at Big Springs, Tenn., and the other captured.

He gave the slain man's name as Gus Hunter, 27, and that of the other as Willard Holloway, 24, both of near here.

Ryatt said Hunter was shot by Jack Barger as the men were holding up a drive into a district just northwest of Shanghai proper.

Four Meet Death As Plane Wrecks

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 27.—(AP)—The bodies of State Assemblyman Pritchard H. Strong, wealthy Rochester aviation enthusiast and three companions were found today in the twisted wreckage of Strong's airplane a mile south of the Albany airport.

The bodies were so badly mangled that positive individual identification was impossible.

Sales Tax Collections Up Despite Exemptions

Raleigh, Aug. 27.—Sales tax collections for August, made on July sales will show an increase over the corresponding month of 1936, despite the fact that exemptions from the levy were allowed for the first time since June, 1935.

This fact is clearly shown by figures up to and including collections of August 24, the latest available. On that date sales tax collections for August, 1937, amounted to $786,153.77 against $781,032.39 for the corresponding period of August 1936, showing an increase, therefore, of $5,121.38.

The August, 1937, figures include the new excise tax on building materials imposed by this year's general assembly, making it plain that but for this new levy there would

YOUNG COUPLE KIDNAPPED BY N.C. DESP' RADO

Pair Later Freed By Man Said To Be Bill Payne

MURDER CHARGE FACES ESCAPEE

Ex-Convict Is Sought For Murder of State Highway Patrolman Penn Last Sunday

High Point, Aug. 27.—

(AP)—A young man and his girl companion reported today, Detective Sergeant Jack McMahon said, they had been "kidnapped" at Asheville by a man they identified as Bill Payne, escaped North Carolina convict, charged with the killing of a state patrolman and with a price of $900 on his head.

McMahon said the young couple identified themselves as Miss Lawrence Hedges, 16, and Sam Wolfe, 19, both of Swannanoa.

The pair, McMahon said, reported on photographs as Payne, forced them at a point of a gun to drive him to Thomasville from Asheville recreation park as they entered their car at 9:15 p. m. last night.

At Thomasville the detectives said the two reported the kidnaper took their car bearing North Carolina license number 222-609 and left them with 25 one dollar bills at 5 a. m. today.

The man, the pair reported, said he had been in the rain several days. They said he carried a large number of small bills.

McMahon said the pair told him the man wore a black suit, a light blue shirt, dark blue tie, black shoes and a gray hat.

The automobile, McMahon said the two reported, was a gray 1936 model.

Payne and a companion, Wash Turner, alias Jack Brown, escaped from Caledonia prison farm last February where they were serving long sentences for bank robbery.

The search for them was intensified several days ago when charges of murder were lodged against them.

Sheriff Laurence Brown at Asheville reported finding Payne's finger prints on the bullet-riddled sedan carrying the killers of George Penn last Sunday when the 22-year old state patrolman tried to halt the car at a weighing station near Asheville. Borden's prints were identified on a patrolman's car.

CITY DECIDES ON INSPECTOR

Southampton, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Andrew Mellon, who built one of the world's greatest fortunes out of banking, oil and aluminum and who spent his late years in the nation's service as secretary of the treasury and as ambassador to Great Britain, has passed from the American scene.

The financier, whose eleven years of service under three presidents was surpassed only by one of his predecessors as head of the treasury department died peacefully last night in his 83rd year.

He died in the home of his daughter, Mrs. David Bruce, after a month's illness from uremia and bronchial pneumonia. At his bedside were his son-in-law, his son, Paul, and his daughter, Ailsa, Mrs. Bruce.

Mellon made no last statement or request as he passed away.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon in Pittsburgh in the East Liberty Presbyterian church, a magnificent edifice which Mellon and his brother, the late R. E. Mellon, made possible by their benefactions.

The city sanitary inspector will work under the county office, but under the agreement one man is to be assigned to Greenville all the time.

The city will provide $125 monthly for the inspector, and this sum will be supplemented by the state. Funds will be available for employing the officer the first of next month, but it is not known whether an efficient man can be secured by that time, however.

W. P. Stowe was employed as city inspector part of last year, the city and state each paying half of his salary. The state has discontinued matching city funds, however, and this plan had to be dropped. When the city made out its budget it appropriated a sum for an inspector and one is expected to be on the job within a short time.

The loss from farm fires in the United States amounts annually to the equivalent of $16 per capita tax on every farmer in the country.

BRITISH ENVOY SHOT IN CHINA!

A grave international turn was added to the Sino-Japanese war when Sir Hugh Knatchbull-Hugessen, British ambassador to China, was seriously wounded by machine gun bullets fired from Japanese airplanes as he traveled by automobile from Nanking to Shanghai. The ambassador (right) is shown with the Chinese commander, Gen. Yu Han-Mou who is in charge of defending China's southern coast.

ECTC Graduates Receive Diplomas

Miss Pauline Worthington of Winterville was presented the last diploma to be issued to a two-year graduate at East Carolina Teachers college at the twenty-seventh summer school commencement this morning and afterwards was given the pen with which the diploma was signed.

Nineteen students were presented with Normal school diplomas this morning, the last to be given, as the two-year school will be discontinued. In addition 53 graduates were presented with A. B. degrees.

It was recalled that Miss Pattie Dowell, now of Raleigh, but formerly of this city, was the first to receive a two year diploma from E. C. T. C. She was awarded the diploma in 1911.

The commencement address was delivered by Dr. L. R. Meadows, president of the college. He discussed the "Obstacles in the Way of Education and How to Overcome Them."

He outlined the obstacles as follows: indifference, tradition, inadequate curriculum and insufficient funds. He declared the way to overcome these difficulties was to educate the public with the importance of proper training, building a curriculum to meet both the cultural and economic needs of the day, adding that if these were accomplished funds will not be lacking.

The diplomas were presented by Dr. Meadows and Dr. R. J. Slay, head of the Science department. The exercises were held in the Robert Wright Memorial auditorium and the seniors were dressed in full regalia, caps and gowns.

BOARD FAVORS SPENDING SUM IMPROVE CITY

Calling Bond Election For Required Funds Necessary

WOULD EXTEND WATER, SEWERS

Proposed $200,000 Bond Issue Also To Provide Money To Improve Streets

Declaring that Greenville was making rapid progress and expressing the belief improvements were necessary in the water and sewer system to take care of the additional load, members of the Board of Aldermen last night unofficially went on record as favoring a bond election for $150,000 to provide the necessary extensions.

It was also unofficially decided to include in the issue $50,000 for street improvements.

Last night's meeting being a called session, formal action of calling the election will not be taken until next Thursday night, date of the regular September meeting.

The unofficial decision last night was taken in order that the public may be advised of the proposal and given an opportunity to express an opinion.

The proposal has been pending for some time. Additional territory was taken into the city limits at the last legislature and extensions of water and sewer to these sections will be included in the improvements. Another argument advanced in behalf of the proposal was that of fire protection. Sections of the city at present do not have the proper water pressure to successfully combat a large fire. It is proposed to erect two overhead water tanks of 300,000 gallons each. This would give the proper protection to the section of the city from Eleventh street and Columbia avenue to the southern limits of the city. Protection also would be provided for the extension in College View.

Adequate sewer facilities would be provided for the same territory.

If the bond election is called and upheld, the Water and Light Commission will assume full responsibility for retiring the bonds. Martin Swartz, superintendent, said this could be done without any increase in rates. He also added that it would not prevent the commission (Continued on Page Six)

At Smithfield, Dixon Wallace, Board of Trade member, said tobacco sales for the day would be about 125,000 pounds. The price average, he said, was not as high as yesterday when 172,234 pounds yielded an average of $25.97 a hundred.

At Wendell, Dallas Maljison, sales supervisor, said the volume amounted to about 100,000 pounds for an average of approximately $22.70.

Nine Wilson tobacco warehouses closed 500,000 pounds of the weed, clearing all floors. Sales Supervisor George Wainwright said prices averaged about $23.

REBELS DRIVE FOR ZARAGOZA

Motorized Column Is Sent Aragon Front By Franco

Hendaye, Franco - Spanish Border, Aug. 27.—(AP)—General Francisco Franco, worried by the Spanish government's drive near Zaragoza, was reported by insurgent forces today to be speeding a motorized column from conquered Santander to the Aragon front.

These reports said the column packed up and rolled out of the Bascayan seaport which it helped occupy yesterday, leaving other brigades of Franco's 100,000 strong northern army to prosecute a clean up operations east and west of Santander.

The motorized force will be thrown against the Madrid-Valencia army in the northeast, where Zaragoza was being attacked from two directions.

The insurgent communique itself admitted there was fighting on the Aragon front both north and south of the Ebro river.

Franco's column on wheels had more than 200 miles to cover in its drive southeast from Santander to Zaragoza.

An insurgent communique said yesterday's attack in the Zaragoza sectors had been repulsed, but reports told a different story.

A Valencia communique said crack troops had swept into within four miles of the heavily fortified city, flanking it from the north and south to squeeze out the insurgents.

Average Of 23.62 Paid Thursday On Greenville Mart

Total Of 1,317,484 Pounds Sold Here First Day

PRICES HIGHER THAN LAST YEAR

All Greenville Warehouses Cleared In Preparation For Big Break Monday

Greenville tobacco warehouses were cleared this afternoon in preparation for another big day Monday after auctions the first two days of the 1937 season brought prices above those of last year and most farmers left the city apparently satisfied.

Yesterday a total of 1,317,484 pounds of the golden weed was sold for $311,553.73, or an official average of $23.62 per hundred pounds. The average yesterday was nearly one dollar higher than for the opening day last year when $22.60 was paid.

Bank tellers, who usually are good judges of the mood of a depositor, declared farmers were all smiles today and yesterday as they came to the banks to deposit their checks or get them cashed.

The $311,553.73 paid out on the Greenville market yesterday was soon reflected in business activities. Everybody was doing a good business from hot dog stand operators to bankers. The streets were crowded both days and parking spaces were filled with cars in most sections of up-town Greenville as well as in the tobacco district.

Greenville had the largest break of any market in the belt and the average paid is thought to be the highest paid on any of the larger centers.

After two of the biggest and best days in the history of the market the warehouses were cleared and ready for another big day Monday.

Farmers from a wide area brought their tobacco here the first two days and one farmer who sold a border of his crop here and part on a Border market said the portion he sold here brought an average two or three cents higher than that sold on the Border market.

Carlton Moore, 37, Dies At Home Here

Carlton Moore, 37, died at his home, 504 East Ninth street this afternoon at 3 o'clock after a lingering illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home. Burial will follow in Greenwood cemetery.

Mr. Moore is survived by his mother, Mrs. Gammie F. Moore; two sisters, Miss Sonora Moore, of the home place, and Miss Eliza Moore of Richmond, Va.; seven brothers, T. M. Moore, Jr., of Brooklyn, N. Y., Hugh and David Moore of Washington, D. C., Meredith Moore of Durham, Luther, William and Ray Moore of Greenville.

Farmer Of County Claimed By Death

Jim Wooten, 53, died at his home in the Sharpshoot community of this county this morning from an illness of two years. He was an influential farmer and was held in high esteem. He was reared in Edgecomb county and moved to Pitt county after he was married in 1918 to Miss Sudie Corbett of Sharpshoot and had lived there until the time of his death.

Funeral services will be conducted from the late home Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Rev. Linwood Manning, Free Will Baptist minister of the Kings Cross Roads section. Burial will be in the Corbett cemetery near the home.

Mr. Wooten is survived by his wife and the following children: Annie Ruth, Gladys, Buddie, William Amos, Franklin Roosevelt, and one adopted daughter, Mary. Also two brothers, Stephen Wooten of Pitt county and Willie Wooten of Edgecomb county, and two sisters Mrs. Esther Moore and Mrs. Joe Moore both of Pitt county.

In 1910 the total white population of the territory which since has become the United States was 210, and practically every other crop are in excellent condition and promise abundant yields.

The boll weevil has ruined a large percentage of the late cotton, he said, and has even been making inroads upon the larger and nearly full-grown bolls; but against this infestation he listed the fact that the early cotton has never looked better; and he predicted that the cotton crop will be well up to the average.

Mr. Parker declined to make any forecast or do any speculating as to the price farm products will bring this season. He declared that is one one subject he prefers to dodge.

"I'd much rather keep records of what was paid for crops than to make predictions about what will be paid," he said.

Teachers' Head Foresees Peace In The Classrooms

PROPHET—Miss Caroline S. Woodruff, new president of the National Education Association, says the progressive-conservative split among teachers is narrowing.

supplement textbook dogma—it's a draw. In addition, there's been a great awakening among American educators, Miss Woodruff predicts. They are going to get away from petty details, like the kind of report cards to use, and the number of fire drills to hold, and take a look at educational methods in other countries. The National Education Association will lead the way, she hopes, and eventually will incorporate into American educational methods the best elements of education abroad. Mexico should be a starting point. Miss Woodruff feels, for there under the Cardenas administration as much money is being spent on national-wide standardized education as on the army or navy. The aim of the government is to have every adult Mexican literate by 1940. Emphasis is also being laid on vocational courses. Cuba, she says, is making great strides under General Juan Batista, who has trained his soldiers to assist in making rural dwellers literate. National differences should be forgotten, while educators explore systems of countries like these, Miss Woodruff says. Probably her background accounts for her world view. She holds the degree of master and doctor of education, was the first woman president of the Vermont State Teachers Association, has held innumerable offices in the National Education Association, and is consultant on the Educational Policies Commission.

Young Vogler Has Job In Drug Store Dealing In Wines

Son of Mecklenburg Colon Opposing Ruling of Labor Department Caught in New Regulation

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Aug. 27.—John Vogler, 17, son of Representative J. B. Vogler of Charlotte, is employed in the Yates Pharmacy, 306 East Morehead St., Charlotte, a concern which handles wine and beer, according to the report of Miss Lona Gildewell, inspector, made to Major A. L. Fletcher, commissioner of Labor. Representative Vogler has been complaining in the press against the Labor Department's interpretation of the law banning employment of minors under 18 in places handling either wine or beer. Mr. Vogler has publicly estimated that the interpretation would throw 500 boys out of employment in Charlotte alone and 25,000 in the state. Miss Gildewell's report, made after inspecting 156 of Charlotte's 201 places to which wine or beer licenses have been issued, showed that in 95 cafes 81 minors were released, with 25 violations discovered; in 35 drug stores, 31 minors were released while there were 10 violations; in 12 grocery and fruit stores there were 10 releases, no violations; in nine services stations and clubs there was one release, no violations; and in the five hotels there had never been a minor employed in the wine or beer selling department. Miss Gildewell reported that 8 of the 201 places had closed, 24 could not be located and 13 in the country were not inspected. Of the Vogler case she reported: "Yates Pharmacy, 306 E. Morehead St., is employing John Vogler, son of one of the representatives from Mecklenburg. Mr. Bigsbee, part owner, was very courteous. . . he quoted Mr. Vogler as saying the law was a 'damn shame' and that it was only meant to apply to ABC stores. . . He says he never opens his store that he does not violate some law and that we just had to have a showdown. . . He asked if I was notifying him he must stop working this minor. I answered I was notifying him he was violating the child labor law."

The O'Briens got a terrific shock several months ago. The O'Briens groaned. Since 1895, they had been throwing away the tails.

HOLLYWOOD ACTIVITY ASSURES GREATER SEASON OF ENTERTAINMENT

Recognizing that the theatre-going public is becoming increasingly difficult to satisfy because of changing and varied tastes, Hollywood producers are applying more ingenuity to their product this year than ever before, stated Manager Walker of the Pitt Theatre, as he enthusiastically spoke of the excellent product that becomes available for this theatre for the 1937-38 season.

It is interesting to note that 17 of these features are planned in technicolor, thereby enhancing the beauty of the production and giving added variety to the screen fare of which Manager Walker boasts. As evidence of his justified enthusiasm, Manager Walker speaks of the string of attractions that are on the way, such as "The Firefly," beautiful opera by Rudolf Friml, with Jeannette MacDonald supported by Allan Jones and Warren William.

"The Big Broadcast of 1938, with the popular comedy stars, W. C. Fields, Burns and Allen, Martha Raye.

Eleanor Powell and Nelson Eddy in "Rosalie," with music by George Gershwin and Sigmund Romberg.

"Love Under Fire," an interesting drama with music, with Loretta Young.

"Thin Ice," an outstanding musical, featuring the world famous skater, Sonja Henie, Tyrone Power, Arthur Treacher and others.

"Wild and Woolly," a splendid Jane Withers attraction.

"All Baba Goes To Town," Eddie Cantor's first picture in many months.

"Artists and Models," with Jack Benny and a great supporting cast.

"Souls At Sea," starring Gary Cooper and George Raft.

"Double or Nothing," starring Bing Crosby, Martha Raye and a host of others adding to the laughter, music and gay love of the picture.

Marlene Dietrich and Herbert Marshall in "Angel," as directed by that outstanding German director, Ernst Lubitsch.

"Ebb Tide" in technicolor, a Robert Louis Stevenson story, with Frances Farmer, Ray Milland and others.

"High, Wide and Handsome," starring Irene Dunne, Randolph Scott, Dorothy Lamour, now playing in New York at a $2.00 admission scale. Music by Jerome Kern, the original story and lyrics by Oscar Hammerstein II, assuring the unusual merit of this attraction.

Jeannette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy again together in "Girl of the Golden West," based on David Belasco's famed gold rush drama.

Robert Taylor, Spencer Tracy and James Stewart in "Three Comrades" a Cosmopolitan serial by Erich Maria Remarque.

John Crawford in "Heavenly Sinners."

the dark ships

BY HULBERT FOOTNER

SYNOPSIS: A lovers' tiff separates Neill, a young federal agent, and Janet of Baltimore. She won't break a date with Prescott Fanning whom Neill considers a crook. Trying to check on Fanning, Neill is doped by him. Next day a mysterious phone call tells Neill that Janet is in trouble on Fanning's yacht at Abalom's Harbor. He rushes there. In a locked cabin he finds Fanning shot dead and Janet in a faint, a gun beside her. Seeking a hide-out, Neill rows her to the disused liners kept up the river. When he returns to the skiff after exploring the decks, Janet tells of seeing a man watching her.

Chapter 11

Into The Black Ship

NEILL suspected that this was a hallucination. Janet had been talking wildly ever since he had found her. If anybody had become suspicious of their movements, he would naturally raise an alarm. Just to hover around them watching wasn't good sense. . . . But there might be something in it! However, the die was cast now. It was too late to look for another hiding place. He intended to sink the skiff, and he hoped that they couldn't be traced aboard the ship anyhow.

"It's all right, Jen," he said with assumed cheerfulness. "Just an accidental meeting in the dark. Probably a fireman visiting his neighbors. . . . He went right away so he means us no harm."

He cast off the line and rowed back toward the ship. Before approaching the ladder, he lay on his oars listening. There was no sound. Satisfied that nobody was watching them, he rowed on and, tying the skiff to the Jacob's ladder, started up, telling Janet to follow him.

On deck he had already picked out a coil of steel cable as heavy as he could lift and a light rope. Tying the rope to the coil, he lowered it overboard, and hitching the rope to a stanchion, set Janet to watch at the corner of the deck-house. He tied the steel cable to a seat of the skiff, and thrust the oars under so that they could not float free. Then tying the box of food and the rug to the end of the rope, he stood on the gunwale of the skiff until she took water, filled and sank.

Returning to the deck, he pulled up their supplies and drew in the ladder. As he was rolling up the ladder, Janet came to whisper:

"There's a man coming across the decks. He has a light."

"Take off your shoes," said Neill. He stood the rolled-up ladder alongside the others and, snatching up their belongings, ran aft with Janet at his heels. As they reached the after ladder and went up, the light was visible up forward. They ran forward on the boat deck. With his pocket-knife, Neill cut one of the ropes that fastened the canvas cover of a life boat. Helping Janet under it, he followed her into the boat.

Peeping under the cover, he saw the light mounting the ladder astern and coming towards them. He ducked. Soon they could hear the leisurely footsteps of the watchman. He stopped alongside where they lay, and Neill held his breath. Janet's hand convulsively gripped his. There was a moment of horrible suspense; then the man puffed at his pipe and moved on. Neill quavered with inward laughter. "He might as well catch us as scare us to death," he said.

Looking under the cover, he saw the man going down the forward ladder. After giving him a moment, he climbed out of the boat and, creeping forward, peeped over the edge of the deck. He saw the watchman returning over the gangplank with his lantern, and let out a long breath of relief.

Down The Iron Stairs

WHEN Neill had changed to dry garments, they set about finding some way into the ship. All the cabin doors were locked, but alongside the engine room skylight above the boat deck they found a booby hatch with a door which had no lock. Neill opened it, and cast his light down into the bowels of the ship. A spidery iron stairway descended into the pit. Far at the bottom gleamed the cylinder heads of the engine.

"Come on!" he said.

"Not down there!" murmured Janet, hanging back.

It was as forbidding as the entrance to hell and Neill could not blame her. You had the feeling that there was something at the bottom of that blackness waiting for you. But he laughed it off.

"The whole ship is ours," he said.

"We can go where we like."

"There's no place to sleep in the engine room."

"There must be some way down here of reaching the engineer's quarters, and from there the rest of the ship."

He started down the ringing iron stairs with Janet following gingerly. Back and forth and ever deeper into the hold without finding any opening in the smooth steel walls of the shaft. However softly they stepped, the place was full of echoes. Finally, when they had almost reached the top of the engine, they came to a steel door on a landing, and upon opening it found themselves in a little corridor. Various cabins opened off it with enameled signs over the doors: Second Engineer; Third Engineer; Engineers' Mess.

"If this is their mess, there must be some way of reaching the galley from here," said Neill. "And from the galley we can get into the dining saloon."

The cabins had been stripped of movables, but there were still quaint reminders of the officers who had once occupied them; pictures tacked to the walls, rusty pens on the desks, a stained pen-wiper. Behind one of the doors Neill found a good oilskin coat.

The air of the corridors was close and dusty. Though the vessel had long been out of use, the characteristic ship's smell still clung to her, a smell compounded of paint, oakum and grease with a faint admixture of bilge-water. As they pushed through doors and turned corners, Janet murmured fearfully: "Will we ever be able to find our way back again?"

Neill laughed. "Our motto is 'Forward, Honey!'"

They found the galley, an immense room with a cooking range extending almost the whole width of the ship.

Black Sees Constitution Flexible Enough To Fit Needs Of The Twentieth Century

When these views of Senator Black, unpublished until now, were taken shortly before his nomination for the Supreme Court, he apologized for being too busy to get a hair cut.

HOBBY

By MORGAN M. BEATTY (AP Feature Service Writer) WASHINGTON, D. C.—Like a lot of other folks, Hugo Black has a pet idea.

He thinks old Dame Democracy can go modern without losing her place in the hearts of the American people.

But unlike most of us, Hugo Black doesn't stop with the idea. He has tried to prove he's right.

Whether he has succeeded is a matter of opinion. But at least he has fought to keep old Lady Democracy "in style," and consequently he has won a nomination to the United States Supreme Court.

He Cites An Example

About that idea: Senator Black believes the language of the constitution is sound enough and broad enough to fit modern economic conditions, without tampering. In his opinion, the whole thing is a matter of interpretation by the Supreme Court.

His favorite example is interstate commerce, that undefined something which the constitution says the congress shall regulate.

"When our country was young there was very little commerce among the states," explains the champion of advanced labor legislation.

"In fact, the roads were so bad interstate commerce on a large scale was impossible, but now some statisticians contend 90 per cent of our commerce is interstate."

"Anybody can see that much of our trade is carried on nationally without regard for state lines; so why should we not state the thing in so many words, and proceed to have congress regulate it?"

"All we have to do is face the fact. And, mind you, the Supreme Court will face that fact!"

Those words were spoken quietly in the Senator's office a few months before the Supreme Court did just the thing he said it was going to do. It upheld the Wagner labor law, and broadened its view of interstate commerce to do so.

But don't get the idea that Hugo Black is going to the Supreme Court and trample down the rights of the states and try to create an ogre of a central government. No such thing, if he carries out that pet idea.

Easy On Small Towns

He believes rural and small town America should have the right to determine how and when it shall keep up with the commercial parade along the national arteries.

The corner grocery and the barber shop in Dothan, Alabama, for instance, should yield only to local public opinion when it comes to wages and hours.

Consequently all the liberal labor legislation sponsored by the Alabama leader has avoided laying a heavy hand on small town America. He says that's true of the 30-hour week bill he failed to get through the Senate for five years.

Likewise he thinks the wage and hour law he succeeded in getting through the senate this year, will not abruptly alter the lives and business of millions of Americans who love their small town homes.

All of this philosophy has not been easy to explain to the voters who sent Black to the Senate.

WORKS WHILE HE PORES

The Alabama senator was completely lost in his task. He seldom stopped to eat at meal time, but constantly whipped away at the well-nigh impossible task.

One day a photographer asked him to pose and Black consented, but went on working.

"Your hair—" began the photographer, proffering a comb.

"Oh, yes," rejoined the nearly bald Black. "My wife's been telling me to get a hair-cut for a week."

And then with that twinkling eye and puckering dimple that distinguishes the Alabamian in the Senate:

"Just goes to show a man ought to do what his wife tells him to."

But Hugo Black was at work two minutes later on wages and hours.

FINDING THE ROYAL SUITE

FROM among the litter of things stored in the big saloon, Neill picked a coil of thin strong rope and a ball of tarred twine that he said would come in handy. Adding these things to his burdens, he led the way up the grand stairway.

He figured that the saloon was on E deck, starting with the boat deck as A. On D deck they found sleeping cabins, but they were narrow and cramped.

"The most expensive accommodations are above," he said. "We might as well take the best."

On C deck the rooms were bigger and arranged en suite, each with its bathroom. They confined themselves to the port side of the vessel, that is to say the side with windows looking away from the shore. Neill would not be satisfied until he had opened each door and looked in. Amidships they found a suite larger and more luxurious than any other. It consisted of a parlor with a bedroom on either side. The parlor had two pairs of French windows opening out on a little private veranda or deck, with a row of heavy plate glass windows overlooking the water.

"This is certainly the royal suite," he said. "Just our style."

Janet who had borne herself with good courage since coming aboard, began to shake when the strain relaxed. "Oh, Neill!" she faltered.

He took her in his arms and, dropping on a sofa, held her close until she quieted. What she had been through was too terrible to be talked about yet. Whatever had happened, she was dearer to him than his life.

Afterwards he opened the windows to sweeten the air. The whole suite was paneled in rare woods. The movable articles had been carried away, but the thick carpets still covered the floor, the luxurious overstuffed couches were in place, also the built-in furniture which matched the paneling—wardrobes, cabinets, dressing tables, desks. He called Janet's attention to the stout bolts on the inside of every door.

"You will feel safe behind those when I have to leave you."

"Leave me?" she said apprehensively.

"We can't stay here indefinitely. We only have food enough for two days and two bottles of water. I have to find out what is going on, and get you clothes and make arrangements for a complete getaway."

"Well . . . I can do it if I must."

"You'll be safe here," said Neill. "The fact that they keep all the doors locked proves that they never trouble the cabins of the ships. The decks and the engines keep them busy."

(Copyright, 1937, by Hulbert Footner)

getaway any story about the difficulty of getting away from this state's hoosegow may seem somewhat far-fetched, Oscar Pitts acting director of the penal division, agrees, but he is confident that there will be no repetition of any such incident.

Included in the construction now going on at the prison—most of it already completed—is installation of four complete new cell blocks in which to confine the approximately 700 inmates. There will be a block of two and four-prisoner cells for white, a similar block for Negroes, a tier of one-prisoner cells for those who are "put on the shelf" by way of punishment and a fourth block of single-prisoner cells on a new "Death Row."

All these cells will be constructed of the finest material and which will have the latest and best type locking devices.

Convicts To Find It Hard To Escape From State Prison

New Cells Being Constructed at Penitentiary Will Have Latest Type of Locking Devices

Raleigh, Aug. 27.—The federal prison at Alcatraz is called escape-proof. Pennsylvania, current news stories tell, is getting to have a circular penitentiary just about as hard to get out of, but right here in Raleigh the central state's prison is going to be a hard nut to crack when present improvements and work are finished.

MICRO-PHOTOGRAPHER

With this microscope, Sig Ruman of the movies takes pictures of things too small for the eye to see.

Hollywood—Sig Ruman film character actor, rides a hobby horse that already has cost him $35,000—microscopic research and micro-photography, a field singularly lacking in what Hollywood calls "glamour."

Between pictures and in other spare time the heavy-set German comedian spends hours in the laboratory behind his Brentwood home.

His hair tousled his clothes protected by a dirty rubber apron, his hands stained with the dyes used in microscopy—he is dissecting the pupae of a vinegar fly.

With glass needles, one one-thousandth of a millimeter in diameter, Ruman digs into the salivary gland of one of his flies. In the center of any one of the cells of this gland is a nucleus and in this nucleus are chromosomes.

Under the microscope these chromosomes look like an irregular pile of disks. Each of these "disks" is a gene, the basis of life itself.

The gene determines the characteristics and future of the cell—whether, roughly speaking, the individual which grows from it will have blue eyes or brown, spindly legs or chubby ones.

Theoretically, if a scientist could go into the single cell from which human life springs and rearrange these genes, he could change the characteristics of the human being.

"But that," Ruman explains, "is too far in the future to be considered as yet."

GOOD BUSINESS AHEAD

The official figures on opening day's sale on the Greenville tobacco market show an average price of $23.62 per hundred pounds, which means that when the good tobaccos begin to appear on the market the daily average price should show a substantial boost. Based on the usual upward trend as the season progresses the present crop should establish a season's average price of between 25 and 30 cents a pound. Considering the year's yield in this county these figures indicate that Pitt County growers will receive probably ten million dollars or more for their tobacco crop this fall. This is certainly a most favorable outlook for business generally in this county during the fall and winter months.

FOR A BIGGER AND BETTER GREENVILLE

The matter of calling a special election for the adoption of a $200,000 city bond issue for extension of water, light and sewerage facilities and street improvements is being discussed by the Board of Aldermen. Of course there are those citizens who naturally shudder at the thought of a bond issue, but it is our opinion that the expenditure of this money at this time is an investment in a bigger and better city.

Of the $200,000 issue, $150,000 is to be used by the Water and Light Commission for the extension of sewerage system into those sections recently brought into the city by the legislature and for increased water facilities throughout the city as a safeguard against fires. The remaining $50,000 of the issue would be used for the improvement of city streets.

Better streets, greater facilities for sanitation and greater fire protection would certainly make Greenville a better place in which to live and we see no trouble ahead for the proposed bond issue especially when one takes into consideration the fact that the Water and Light Commission will retire its portion of the bonds without an increase of electric rates, or a decrease in the $50,000 annually now being turned over to the city fund by the Commission. Two-thirds of the remaining $50,000 would be retired by the property owners along the streets included in the improvement program, so in the end the bond issue should mean no increase in the present tax rate. Greenville needs these improvements and we feel that the citizens will see it that way when the matter is presented to them in the form of an election.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, Aug. 27.—When Greek meets Greek they start a restaurant according to the somewhat moth-eaten adage but whenever a publicity man gets into a department of the state government, he starts a paper.

Latest is the monthly news bulletin of the Commodity Distribution Division of the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare. It appeared late yesterday afternoon for the first time. W. J. Sadler, one-time newsman who is now doing ballyhoo for S. B. of C. and P. W., is the man behind the mimeograph.

Foglieman is not an ordinary name, yet of nine victims of the men now on death row awaiting execution for murder, two were named just that. They were Henry J. Foglieman, killed by Melvin Coggins in Nash county and Herman W. Foglieman, slain by two Forsyth Negroes, T. J. Jefferson and Tom Linney.

"How do you like those apples?" Well, if they are too big, judges at the State Fair are likely to like them well enough. No, not them apples, according to the Georgia Extension Service, but the State college.

"Unusually big apples are likely to have poor quality defects," he says.

Syphilis again led the venereal diseases in North Carolina. The week ended August 21, according to the report of Dr. W. C. Knox, state epidemiologist, but the figures dropped to 212 from 329 in the preceding week. Whooping cough cases reported totaled 206, pushing the dread venereal disease a close second.

And there's still something wrong with the reporting system. Forty-four counties report no diseases at all which is preposterous.

There are probably 100,000 more motor vehicle drivers in North Carolina now than there were at the same time last year; and this increase is likely responsible in large part for the fact that last month there were more fatal accidents in the state than ever before in its history, according to Major Arthur Funk, head of the Highway Division of Safety. This year's vehicle registration has already equalled that for the entire year 1936.

Paul Kelly, assistant director of the Department of Conservation and Development, is getting a rest from the onerous job of talking to numerous people who want to horn in on the state's advertising program; but all is not beer at skittles, at that. He's on a trip to western North Carolina—business not vacation.

They do say that all these meetings of the ladies throughout the state are not altogether concerned with the assigned purpose, which is organize them for general political activity in behalf of the Democratic party. There's sneaking suspicion that more than a bit of political "hay" is being cut for Miss Mae Oliver, Sanford's candidate for president of the state Young Democratic organization.

Certain it is that the engaging Miss Mae has been fitting hither and yon addressing these sessions, while a number of other active workers in these meetings are known to be extremely friendly to her.

N. C. Market Chief Sees Good Price On Eastern Marts

Randall B. Etheridge Predicts Averages Will Be as High as Those Paid on Border Centers

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, Aug. 27.—Tobacco prices on the markets of the New Bright belt, will be as high as those realized in the Border belt, Randall B. Etheridge, chief of the division of markets, state Department of Agriculture, predicted today.

The markets at Ansocks, Farmville, Goldsboro, Greenville, Kinston, Robersonville, Rocky Mount, Smithfield, Tarboro, Wallace, Washington, Williamston, Wilson and Wendell open today," he said.

"The price for tobacco on the Border markets has been quite pleasing to the growers who sell on those markets and it is expected that tobacco sold on the eastern markets will bring a price equally as good as that on the Border markets."

The department's tobacco specialist, W. P. Hedrick is in the field making a thorough survey of existing conditions of tobacco growing and marketing. He will visit practically all the markets during the coming autumn; preparing to work out a well-rounded program of aid for North Carolina's tobacco growers.

SAFE FROM ENTANGLING ALLIANCES!

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington—It was at the price of a do-nothing session, but during the eight months just ended congress reasserted its legislative position. In the next two months or so the members will be able to sense enough of the temper of the folks back home to determine how well congress can hold its regained position.

Unquestionably the President held the whip hand over congress during his first term. He not only led, he ruled. There were notable exceptions when he, as self-styled "quarterback," called for plays that were not performed. He lost in an effort to have the St. Lawrence power and navigation treaty ratified.

But in the main, when he called a play the congress responded, and the public in the bleachers yelled loud approval for the team and loudest of all for the quarterback. Advent of the supreme court issue early in the senate ended that sort of harmony. It was not surprising that the opposition to the President controlling hand arose principally among the elder members. They could remember the days when congress was "bigger and better." They wanted it that way again.

You can get into many arguments in these parts by asserting that the opposition to the President's court plan grew out of the simple belief of its foes that it was wrong. New Dealers aplenty will tell you that the principle of the thing had nothing to do with it, but that the court bill offered an opportunity long awaited for launching an attack on the President.

But for the moment that is beside the point. The 531 members of congress are going back home now to learn whether they were on the right side of the debate, or whether they can convince their constituents before it is too late that the side they were on was the right side. Or, if they were on one side at all, they will try to learn which side to get on.

On that point rests the issue as to whether the President or the congress will emerge with the winning cards.

Actually Mr. John Q. Voter won't be much concerned whether the President or congress is to be the government strong man. That likely will not be raised as a campaign issue between now and November of 1938. To Mr. John Q. it sounds too flimsy to be of importance. But whether his congressman or senator was for or against the President on the court bill has become something fairly solid to talk about, and to think about.

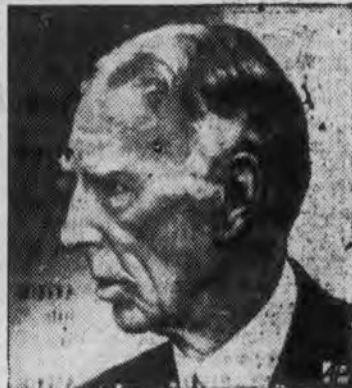

If John Q. and a majority of his neighbors think the President should have had the support of their congressmen, even on the court bill, the remained ascendancy of the congress will be short-lived. But if the reverse is true, and John Q. and his neighbors feel that the President has become too all-fired high handed in his tactics, the homegoing congressmen will get wind of it soon enough.

If that hour has arrived—and many observers think it has—the President will have a hard time consolidating his support into anything like a working majority in the next session. But even those observers who think the President has the short end of the stick are confident of one thing, that the President will make an issue of his leadership. And, man, oh, man, how that fellow can make an issue!

Special ropes strong enough for the job had to be made to haul the hull of the burned Morro Castle from the beach at Asbury Park, N. J.

The President's flag consists of the President's seal in bronze upon a blue background, with a large white star in each corner.

The Greenies lost their last home game of the season to Tarboro here yesterday, the victory for the visitors being their 8th in a row. The game went but seven innings by agreement, and the score was 5-3.

The Serpents scored in the very first frame, and the count was evened by the locals in the second. In frame three the visitors coupled lucky base knocks with clever baserunning to get two more runs, and they were never tied, headed less headed, although the Greenies had ten runners left on the bags.

Caliguiria started to pitch for the locals, but gave away four innings in favor of Karl Williams, who allowed a pair of runs. Cassell started for the visitors, but was relieved by Hautz in the fourth, who, although hit frequently, was master of the locals.

Carnahan for Tarboro, got three hits in four trips. Pignataro hit two for three for Greenville, and Johnny Rudisill hit two for two.

The Greenies go to Tarboro this afternoon for the final game of the season, and most of the players will have gone home before the first of the week.

Parking Tests Stump Many In Maryland

Bethesda, Md. (AP)—After all these years the state of Maryland has decided that the holder of a driver's permit should know how to park his car.
And so, behind the new gadget the motor vehicle department's examiners are carting around with them:
The thing looks very much like a plumber's nightmare, with a lot of elbow joints. Set up along a curb the gadget marks off a parking area a little longer than the average automobile.
The trick of the examiner is to tell the applicant for a license to park his car within the bounds of the iron frame.
It sounds easy, but 20 applicants missed the target in one day, and failed to get a driver's license.

FIELD DAY WAS HELD THURSDAY

Tarboro - Greenville Ball Players Entertained Fans

Greenville and Tarboro baseball players put on field day for the spectators in a program of field events preceding the scheduled game between the Greenies and the Serpents Thursday afternoon.
In funo hitting, Campbell of Tarboro won for accuracy, while Caliguiria for Greenville won for distance.

In a throwing match for accuracy, Pitcher Cassell of Tarboro was best. Pignataro for Greenville took honors in the 50-yard dash, while Thompson for Greenville, finished first in the strenuous potato race. The spectators selected Buck Jarvis as the ugliest man on the local team, and the judges unanimously awarded Dutch Moser the prize as the handsomest.

Andy Johnson won the prize as the Greenies' outstanding "ladies' man."
Rudisill for Greenville, won the prize for making the first safe hit for Greenville, and also the prize for the first stolen base. Willie Powell got the prize for making the first error.
Judges for the contests were Ty Wagner, Reynolds May and Boland Farley. Awards were given to the individual winners by local merchants, and fans and directors contributed cash prizes for "firsts" in the regular game.

Eagles End Home Play With 7 to 6 Win

Kinston, Aug. 26.—The Eagles today closed their 1937 home season with a bit of dramatic baseball. They defeated the Goldsboro Bugs in the ninth inning, 7-6, when Caulden Gillenwater slammed one of Lefty Flora's offerings over the fence.

Goldsboro had tied the score in the seventh frame on a bit of clever base-running by Daniels. He took second on an error, stole third and, according to the record books, stole home. But in the view of Kinston fans, it was a gift run from Umpire Corbett, who ruled the runner safe, although tagged at the plate by Catcher Strinifellow. The decision brought on a fifteen-minute argument in which the ump was called everything imaginable by players and spectators.

The Bugs registered a tally in the third frame on Overton's single. Flora's sacrifice and Balla's single, but the Eagles tied it in their half, on Morris walk—one of the eight Flora dished up while fanning 10 batters—and singles by Wyrostek and Patton.
In the fourth Goldsboro went ahead when Dynamite Iznasick homered after Malsano singled. But Kinston came back in the fifth and took a 6-3 lead with 5 runs. Morris, Wyrostek and Patton singled to fill the sacks. Gillenwater was walked, forcing Morris home and then Claude Wright socked one over the fence.

The Bugs got one tally in the 6th and tied the count in the seventh, when Dennis singled to tally Malsano and then went into his base-stealing performance.

Bears Lost Game But Will Be In the Playoff

Snow Hill, Aug. 26.—New Bern's Bears today moved into the Coastal Plain League play-off with a back-hand shot.
Although they dropped a 4 to 1 decision to the Billies the Bears were assured of a first division berth by Ayden's loss at Williamston. The Bears have a two-game lead and have only game left on the schedule; the Aces pay a double header tomorrow to close the season, but will even a twin triumph for the Aces and a loss for the Bears will put the Aces even.
The Bears' Worliss Knowles and the Billies' Bertram offered a nice hurling duel in today's game, and each pitcher went through only one bad inning. Each yielded six hits.

Glenn Mollinx homered in the first inning to give the Bears a temporary lead, but Knowles had inning—four times as bad as Bertram—came in the second and sewed things up for the Billies.

Robby Robinson started things with a single. He made third on Slith's error of Bistrot's grounder. A wild pitch by Knowles let Robinson in. Latham walked and Walter Rabb brought in Bistrot with a single. Bertram singled Latham home, and Rabb scored after Mewborn's fly was taken.
The fielding of Robinson and Harry Soufas of the Billies featured defensive work. The Billies pitched five double plays, and Robinson was in on three of them.

Ancient Deed Protects $161,000 City Cowpath

By the AP Feature Service
Chicago—Chicago has a $161,000 cowpath in the heart of its Loop but cows can't use it.

In 1834 Farmer Willard Jones pastured his herd of cows on land now the site of a 20-story building at Clark and Monroe streets.

During subsequent selling and deeding unalterable provisions were made to keep an open pathway so that cows and hay wagons could get to the cow barn from the Monroe street side.

The barn has long ceased to exist, but the path remains—a useless passage 10 feet wide, 18 feet high and 88 feet long.

When architects designed the present building in 1925 they forgot the cowpath provision and had to alter their plans later to include it. The elevators and entrance had to be shifted because of it.

Owners of the building estimate the cowpath's land value is $161,000 that they lose more than $12,000 annual rent on the space.

TIRING OF TENNIS

By PAP

HELEN HULL
-JACOBS-

THE FOUR-TIME NATIONAL SINGLES CHAMPION IS GIVING SERIOUS THOUGHT TO QUITTING THE GAME AFTER THE COMING TITLE TOURNAMENT

IF SHE WERE TO REGAIN HER TITLE SHE WOULD VERY LIKELY POSTPONE HER RETIREMENT

SHE HAS WON JUST ABOUT EVERY POSSIBLE TENNIS HONOR, INCLUDING THE WIMBLEDON TITLE, IN A DOZEN YEARS OF COMPETITION

Sport Slants

By PAP

It is likely that the coming national tennis tournament at Forest Hills will see Helen Jacobs' last competition—as far as big tennis is concerned—unless the Luxembourg should regain the crown she lost to Alice Marble in '36.

The chop stroke artist, who won the U. S. title in 1932, '33, '34 and '35, has not been very active on the courts this summer. She returned only to score the winning point in the Wightman cup contests after she had been eliminated in the semi-final round of the Wimbledon championships by Dorothy Round.

For one thing Miss Jacobs' physical condition has been none too good. She had hardly recovered from an early season illness when she took the court at Wimbledon. Against Ruth Mary Hardwick in the Wightman cup tests, Miss Jacobs was handicapped by a bad knee.

Her tennis career has been marked by successes scored over handicaps that would have stopped one less courageous. Time and again she was forced to enter important matches handicapped by such things as a strained side or an injured ankle. In the U. S. singles finals last year she faced Alice Marble with a sprained thumb. This year she has been plagued by injuries.

The recent death of Miss Jacobs' father may have had something to do with her failure to campaign as vigorously as she has in past summers.

Her chief stock in trade has been a chop stroke on the forehand. With this weapon she was able to withstand the assaults of hard-driving opponents. She was able to win the national singles title four times and top it off with victory at Wimbledon in 1936.

The only time Miss Jacobs was able to catch up with Mrs. Helen Willis Moody, her California rival, was in the 1933 U. S. meet at Forest Hills. Mrs. Moody defaulted in the third set—because of illness. In 1935 Miss Jacobs allowed Mrs. Moody to snatch the Wimbledon crown from her hands when she had their match all but won.

Martins Knock Aces Out Of First Division

Williamston, Aug. 26.—The Martins defeated Ayden's Aces today, 5-4, to knock them out of any chance at a first division berth and a place in the post-season series.

A three-run rally in the eighth inning brought victory to the Martins. With one away, Bruce McCay singled and moved up on Charlie Stevens' third hit of the day. Don Victoria was out on an infield fly, but Ace Villepique came through with his specialty—a long double—to bring in two runs and tie the score at 4-4. Steve Lakatos then singled Villepique in with the deciding run.

Up to the eighth, Earl Webb had done a good job of holding the Martins down. In the meantime the Aces had worked on Stroud for singletons in the first, third and fifth, and Baker finished Larry Wade for a homer in the seventh that tied the score. He replaced Fields at the start of the seventh.

Scheurholz's single, a passed ball, and Faust Johnson's infield hit gave the Aces a run in the first; in the third, walks to Jurak and Johnson, a wild pitch and Victoria's wild throw let in another tally; in the fifth a walk to Johnson and Baker's long single produced Ayden's third run.

The Martins got a win in the first on hits by Howard Earp and McCay, and added one in the second on Lakatos' triple and Fields long fly.

A tip-off of one of the Aces' lack of power this afternoon was the failure of Manager Monk Joyner, the league's leading batsman, in four appearances. Joyner fanned thrice and drew a hit-batsman threat. During the game, Manager Art Hauger of the Martins was presented with a shotgun, a gift from the club and fans.

The Union Jack, as applied to the flag of Great Britain, is a misnomer. "Jack" is a diminutive on the sea, so that only a small flag is rightly termed a "jack."

WHEN YOU TACKLE DANDRUFF YOU MUST BE PERSISTENT

By BETTY CLARKE (A P Feature Service Writer)

If you have a scalp that takes to dandruff more enthusiastically than it does to a finer wave, don't feel too miserable...

Brush Thoroughly

Healthy Scalps Fit! There's no sure cure for the dandruff condition, but hair-dressers have suggested ways to relieve it.

First, try for a healthy scalp. That means a lot of shampoos. At least one a week for oily scalps, and one every ten days for oily scalps.

Use An Antiseptic

Rinse well, and don't have quails about lemon or vinegar rinses. They don't change the color of your hair, but used in small quantities and they do not cut the soap.

If you have an oily scalp, go without a hat. Let the breezes blow through your hair, and the sun dry it. Dry scalps get even dryer in the direct sunlight, so better wear a light covering...

Use Your Brush Often Brush the hair often and thoroughly. Healthy hair is glossy, and 25 brush strokes every night will keep it that way.

Shampoo Energetically

Now it's the time to get after the dandruff with any antiseptic lotion. Put it on with dabs of cotton, and rub it in well with a rotary motion.

It will clean the scalp, and bring the dandruff up from the roots. A few strokes of the hair brush and the dandruff is gone—at least, temporarily.

Here's the dandruff treatment in pictures. First, a thorough brushing. Then the antiseptic treatment, with a bit of brushing to clear away the loose dandruff. Finally an antiseptic shampoo.

FARMER SAVES WINTER FEEDS

Catawba Farmer First To Construct Silo In State

Newton, Aug. 27.—P. G. Herman, 84-year-old Catawba county farmer claims the distinction of being the first to construct and fill a silo in North Carolina.

More than 50 years ago, he told Earle Brintnall, farm agent of the State College Extension service, he got the idea from an agricultural paper.

He read about a beef producer in Virginia who had gotten good results with corn silage, and he decided the same thing would be good on his farm. So Herman dug a pit silo seven feet deep and four feet square and filled it with cut corn. That was a year before the Billmore Farms, Asheville, constructed a silo.

Herman found that silage made an excellent winter feed, and he continued to make use of it. During the years, he has seen the popularity of silos spread over the state.

Every farmer with livestock needs a silo, he said.

Brintnall pointed out that while some of the farmers with larger herds prefer the upright silo, the trench silo now recommended is easier and cheaper to construct.

And while a trench silo can be made big enough to feed a large herd through the winter, it can also be made small enough to serve a small herd where an upright silo would be too expensive, he added.

Corn silage is a succulent feed that keeps animals in good health through the winter, he continued, and it increases the milk flow of dairy cows.

Public's Mind Purer, Says First Fan Dancer

SHE INVENTED THE FAN DANCE

(By The AP Feature Service)

Cleveland, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Faith Bacon, the original fan dancer, who must have a "strictly ethereal atmosphere" for her performances, is very happy about the cleaning up of burlesque shows. She thinks the public is growing "cleaner minded."

"When they first came to see the female form they came out of curiosity," she says. "Now they're more interested in the artistic side of it."

Nudism? Faith frowns.

"It isn't natural," says she. "If they were serious, they would segregate the sexes or raise their children together so there would be no curiosity about it."

Bitter Aftermath To Dry's Victory

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, Aug. 27.—Victory of the dry forces in Alamance county has been followed by an aftermath of bitter wrangling in which the sheriff has been accused of owning a half interest in a road house and during which the suggestion has been made that the City of Burlington "secede" from the county and set up its own ABC stores, as State liquor board authorities here say the suggestion is quite out of the range of possibility as there is no authority anywhere in the law for setting up stores in individual municipalities when the county in which they are located votes down stores. The sheriff has been charging that drys have failed to cooperate with him in efforts to enforce the liquor laws, while anonymous correspondents to the Burlington paper have charged him with owning an interest in a road house. Sheriff H. J. Stockard has denied these charges vigorously and denounced his anonymous critics as perpetrators of "a low, cowardly trick."

"The story is even being spread by preachers in the county," he is quoted as saying.

To prevent disease entering the United States, the public health service last year inspected 15,981 incoming vessels carrying 1,919,727 persons.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Attempts to give the stock market a rallying push met with little success today, although selling dried up in some departments.
Steels, higher at the start soon, turned downward. A forward movement of rails failed to hold. A few utilities and specialties did well, but near the fourth hour losses of fractions to a point or more predominated.
Bonds and commodities were mixed and transactions approximated 850,000 shares.

Former News Man Given State Post

Raleigh, Aug. 27.—(AP)—R. Bruce Etheridge, director of Department of Conservation and Development, announced today John Baskerville of Raleigh had been appointed to the department's advertising division.
Baskerville, former Raleigh correspondent of the North Carolina Association of Afternoon Newspapers, will receive a salary of $2,400 a year. He will assume his duties September 1.

N. C. SOLDIERS TO GO ABROAD

Legionnaires To Be Guests of France and Italy

Considerable interest is being shown by North Carolina Legionnaires in the Third A.E.F. to France and Italy. They will sail the latter part of September as part of a delegation of some 10,000 Legionnaires and their families who will be the guests of French and Italian governments in visits to World War battlefields.
They will be received by Mussolini on October 4th and by Pope Pius XI on October 5th in Rome and will also be the guests of the French government for six days during which time they will visit the battlefields, tour the Chateau country and see the Paris International exposition.

A large number of Legionnaires have already signed up and many inquiries are being made which indicate a record attendance. Extremely low steamship rates and the hospitality of the foreign governments have reduced the cost of the trip to Legionnaires and their families to approximately half of the regular rates.

LARGE APPLE NOT THE BEST

Uniformity and Good Color of Greater Importance

Raleigh, Aug. 26.—It isn't always the biggest apple that wins first prize at the State Fair, said H. R. Niswonger, extension horticulturist at State College.

What sizes do count, he added, uniformity of apples in the individual exhibit, good color, and true-ness to type are of greater importance.

Unusually big specimens of a certain variety are likely to have poor coloring and other defects.

Niswonger suggested that growers who wish to enter apple exhibits at the State Fair, October 12-16, select specimens in good physical condition free from blemishes caused by insects, diseases, or by bruises.

The stems should be intact. Each apple should be wrapped separately to prevent bruising in shipment, and extra specimens should be sent along to replace any that may be damaged.

Label each variety carefully. Niswonger continued. It is not advisable to polish the fruit though the apples may be wiped lightly with a soft cloth to remove any spray residue that may be present.

000 annually to the city's general fund.
Under law a city can not issue more than two-thirds of the amount of bonds in any one year than it retired the previous year without calling a special election. Therefore it will be necessary to hold an election before the money can be secured.
The city's present bonded indebtedness is only $911,000, divided approximately equally between the Water and Light Commission, the schools and the city. This figure is considered unusually small for a city of this size. As a comparison, it was recalled during the meeting last night that Rocky Mount only recently voted overwhelmingly to sell a $500,000 issue.
The $500,000 which would be included for street improvement is needed for paying for which petitions already are on file in the city clerk's office. On piling projects the city pays for the work, but property owners are charged with their proportionate part in a lump sum or over a number of years.
