Fresh Terror Envelops Shanghai

AT LEAST 600 DEAD OR HURT

Non-Combatants Fall Victims of Bombs and Fires

Shanghai, Aug. 28.—(AP)—More than 600 Chinese non-combatants were killed or wounded and the whole of Shanghai was plunged into fresh terror today by Japanese bombing squadrons.

Mayor Yui announced 200 persons were killed and 400 injured when 16 giant planes rained tons of explosives into the humanity-packed Nantao quarter adjoining the French concession on the southern side of the city.

Besides the normal population of the Chinese business and residential sections, thousands of natives had taken refuge there.

The attackers, divided into two squadrons of four ships each, swept over the sector several times leaving a field of death and destruction a half mile square.

Widespread fires quickly licked the debris spread by the bombs and many of those who escaped the projectiles were burned to death.

Shrieks of war-maddened Chinese populace rushing, wildly in every direction mingled with the groans of the dying and the roar of the spreading flames.

Nantao became a veritable inferno.

The raid was another of Japan's remorseless campaign to terrorize, non-combatant areas. Chinese authorities said the airmen had no particular target but were only trying "to intimidate helpless citizens."

Each of the four bombing squadrons were followed by protecting pursuit ships. Time and again they dived down out of the clouds to dart their deadly cargoes earthward.

PROTEST NOTE IS DISPATCHED

Indications Britain's Note to Japan Will Be 'Very Blunt'

London, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden today ordered delivery of a strong note to the Japanese government in protest of the machine-gunning of the British ambassador to China, Sir Hughe Knatchbull-Hugessen.

The belief grew in diplomatic quarters Anglo-Japanese relations might be suspended in the demands in Britain's note were not met with what Whitehall considered a reasonable period.

There was every indication the protest would be very blunt. Mere regrets for the attack by Japanese airmen Thursday on the Nanking-Shanghai road, it was thought, would not satisfy Britain.

PACIFISTS PICKET JAPANESE EMBASSY

This group of demonstrators, representing the American League Against War and Fascism, is shown picketing the Japanese Embassy at Washington in protest against Japan's war on the Chinese. Police restricted the picketing to the sidewalk across the street from the embassy.

CLOSING HOUR SET BY STORES

Group of Merchants To Close Saturdays At 9 P. M.

In an effort to establish standard closing hours in the city on Saturday nights, 18 of Greenville's most progressive stores have signed a petition to cease business promptly at 9 o'clock.

The rule will go into effect tonight. The merchants are requesting the cooperation of shoppers in the new move which will enable clerks and managers to complete their work before so late. After the stores are closed much work remains to be done before merchants and

JUDGE DENIES NEGROES' PLEA

Motion for New Trial For "Scottsboro" Negroes Refused

The motion for a new trial for the five Negroes under sentence in the "Scottsboro" case was denied today by Judge W. W. Callahan.

The jurist said at the end of the series of trials here in July, when four of the nine original defendants were freed, there was "an iron-clad agreement" between attorneys for the state and defense, providing there would be no appeal except in the case of Clarence Norris under death sentence.

Defense counsel already has indicated it would take the famous case on a third trip to the United States supreme court.

IDENTIFY ONE AS BILL PAYNE

Davidson County Boy Is Released Near Siler City

Siler City, Aug. 28.—(AP) Deputy Sheriff P. T. Elkins said a young man reported to him today he had been kidnapped near Greensboro last night by three men armed with machine guns, one of whom fitted the description of Bill Payne, escaped convict charged with the killing last Sunday of State Highway Patrolman George Penn.

Elkins said the man, who identified himself as V. C. Blount of Er-langer, Davidson county, said the trio, after taking him for an all night ride, burned his car near here early this morning and sped away in a high powered automobile presumably containing friends.

The information about the alleged kidnaping came hot on the heels of discovery in front of the Chatham News building here of the car that a young Swannanoa couple said was taken from them night before last by a man they identified as Payne.

The burned car (big Pontiac) was found three miles from here this morning.

Elkins gave the following account for Blount, who left immediately for his home after reporting the episode and leading officers to the burned car.

About 8 o'clock last night as he was leaving Greensboro en route to his home Blount was brusquely halted by three men armed with machine guns who leaped on his running board. He was immediately blindfolded and ordered to take a kneeling position between the seats.

Then his captors began to drive. He could not tell the direction.

Blount said the men were waiting for another machine, judging from

RIVER RISING RAPIDLY HERE

Expected To Reach Flood Stage of 14 Feet Wednesday

B. T. Clark, in charge of the local weather bureau station, estimated today the Tar river here was rising at the rate of a foot every six hours and predicted it would be in flood stage at 14 feet by Wednesday.

The stream was standing at 9.5 feet this morning and the rise was as rapid as experienced in some time. The river has been out of its banks in the upper reaches for several days, but the heavy rains experienced in some sections recently have not been felt here to any great extent before today.

Other rivers throughout Eastern North Carolina reported in flood stage, but no serious damage has been caused.

Chicod H. D. Meeting

The Chicod Home Demonstration Club met Thursday afternoon in the school annex. After the business meeting, Miss Annie Carroll gave an interesting talk on "Local History." Other clubs have met this week but their reports have not come in.

Rural Electricity.

New territories are getting electricity in the near future. For their benefit two meetings will be held Monday. The first one will be held at the Chicod School annex at 10 a. m. The second, at Farmville City Hall at 4 p. m. Letters have been mailed to those on the survey. Anyone else who is interested is invited. Miss Pauline Gordon, extension specialist in home management and house furnishings, and D. E. Jones, assistant electrification specialist, will give illustrated lectures. Mr. Jones has two installations showing the good and the bad points of each. Switch boxes, where to put outlets, etc., will be discussed. If you have questions they will be glad to answer them. These meetings will not be long and you will not want to miss attending the one nearest you.

Fall and Winter Garden Contest.

The new garden contest will start October 1 and continue until March 31, 1938. Let's pay more attention to our gardens. There should be several from each club in the contest. Will the garden leaders contact members and enroll them? The main purpose is to grow as good a variety of garden vegetables as possible and keep a report of same. Reports are easily kept with an outline in which you insert check marks or figures. At the end of the contest, questionnaires will be filled in giving your estimate of the worth of the garden.

We are to have another flower show next year and it is quite likely it will turn into a "Vegetable and Flower Show."

The Fall Garden

August is the month in which to plan for the fall garden. Your success in maturing vegetables when planted at this season of the year will depend, no doubt, on weather conditions in your particular section of the state. However, garden soil well supplied with stable manure or other organic matter and the soil prepared in a fine physical condition are factors in your favor.

Try out the following list of vegetable which may be planted the first of August: Salad Crops—Broccoli, Mustard, Swiss Chard, Endive, Lettuce, Seven top Turnip and Chinese Cabbage. Root Crops—Turnips, Carrots, Beets. Other Crops—Celery, Collards, Cabbage (Early Jersey Wakefield), Snap Beans, Lima Beans, Sugar Corn and Tomatoes.

Broccoli (Calabree Green Sprouting Italian), couiflower and Chinese cabbage may be planted in hills 15 inches apart. Use several seeds to the hill and then thin to one plant. The seed may be sown in a plant bed and then transplanted. Three to four weeks after the plants have been transplanted, side-dress them with nitrate of soda.

Sow celery in plant bed and cover the soil with old burlap bags or a layer of heavy building paper. This covering will hold moisture and hasten germination. As soon as the plants appear above the ground remove this covering. Transplant to field around 6 to 8 weeks later. Set plants in double rows 6 to 8 inches apart. Celery will not mature in acid soil. Wood ashes or hydrated lime broadcast over the soil area a month or more before setting the plants will aid in maturing celery.

If you have never eaten real sugar corn (sweet corn) why not try Golden Cross Bantam variety? This variety matures uniformly, develops ears early having 10 to 14 rows and the kernels which are sweet and tender. Planted by the first of August it should mature before frost.

Head Lettuce—Sow seed in bed which is partially shaded during the day. Cover seed bed with a layer of woods litter, and water thoroughly once a week. Transplant to partially shaded part of the garden during the latter part of August. Apply 5-7-5 fertilizer to plant row a week before transplanting. Set plants six inches apart in row. A few weeks after transplanting, give plants a light side dressing of nitrate of soda. New York Wonderful (Strain No. 12) is a good variety to plant.

Schedule For Next Week

Two-Way Evening Dress

Paris (AP)—The two-way evening dress has been launched in fall collections. It appears first as a cocktail suit with a plain black skirt and bolero, revealing a low cut bodice flashing with jet embroidery. On its second appearance the bolero is discarded showing a very low, jet strapped back. A long skirt of sheer black net is posed over the plain skirt, transforming the simple cocktail suit into an evening gown suited to the most elaborate occasions.

Paris Adopts the Bolero

Paris (AP)—A smart new outfit for fall consists of a gray mixture dress topped with a bolero of gray Indian lamb. The jacket is bordered all around with scalloped finish of the fabric worked into several rows of cording. A belt of wine red suede, and a red felt hat brighten the costume.

IT'S ODD, But It's Science

New York — Dust from freshly broken rock is alive with dangerous poisons. They die after a certain amount of contact with the air.

This discovery, made at the Imperial College of Science and Technology in London, explains some of the mystery of the lung dust disease, silicosis. Dusts from silicosis-producing rocks are sometimes found to be "dead"—that is, not likely to cause lung trouble.

The reason, the English scientists say, is loss of alkali and soluble silica, which the particles carry when freshly broken loose. The smallness of the particle has something to do with the poison effect. Only very fine particles give off the dangerous chemicals.

The confirmation came to Secretary Hull from Joseph Grew, ambassador to Japan. The ambassador sent the text of a press dispatch issued by the Japanese foreign office Thursday in which the Japanese government announced its blockade intentions.

Hull said at his press conference the government had received no formal clarification of the extent of the blockade as it would relate to any privilege of preemption that Japan might decide to exercise.

Other Washington developments: President Roosevelt, who travels much and likes it, was still nearly 10,000 miles shy of equalling William Taft's 114,000 mileage "while in office" record.

But he has invitations pending which, partly accepted, would carry him far beyond Taft's total.

Criminal Term To Start On Monday

A one-week term of criminal court is scheduled to convene here Monday morning with Judge W. C. Harris of Raleigh, who presided over a civil session this week, in the chair.

BIG CORN CROP TO FEED HOGS

Seasonal Slaughter Increase Expected To Be Smaller

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, Aug. 28. — Although slaughter supplies of North Carolina hogs are expected to increase seasonally this fall, the increase may be less than usual, declared H. W. Taylor, State college extension swine specialist.

In discussing the August hog situation report of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Taylor said that since the 1937 corn crop will be much larger than the 1936 output, a smaller than usual seasonal increase in the slaughter now seems fairly certain. The larger supplies of feed and higher hog-corn price ratio, he said, are likely to cause producers to feed hogs to heavier weights and thereby delay marketing.

Another factor in the situation, as pointed out in the Bureau report, is that storage demand for hog products is not expected to be as strong as in the fall of 1936.

Considering all phases of the situation, Taylor expressed the opinion that the seasonal decline in hog prices in the fall and early winter will be of about average proportions.

The supply of feed grains per head of livestock on farms will be the largest in several years. By late fall or early winter, Taylor declared, the hog-corn price ratio will be relatively favorable for hog production. This situation is expected to increase considerably the 1938 spring pig crop as compared with the small spring crop of 1937.

In addition to marketings of 1937 spring pigs a large number of hogs from the 1936 fall crop will be marketed this fall and early winter. Taylor explained in this connection that the finishing of 1936 fall pigs was delayed in some areas until new crop small grains become available this summer.

INDIANS LIKE PLANES — FROM DISTANCE

Valentine, Neb.— (AP) — Chief Kills-a-Horse and other Sioux braves on the Pine Ridge reservation are having their homes "air-mapped" by the soil conservation bureau of the department of agriculture.

The Indians are interested in the equipment which allows the pilots to take pictures from altitudes of 24,000 feet, but none of them have expressed a desire to go aloft.

"Se plenty from ground," one chief commented.

RAILROAD CAT KNOWS SCHEDULES

Rock Island, Ill.—(AP)—She is a railroad cat and knows her schedules.

She gave birth to four kittens on top of a box car axle housing where no one could reach them.

Then she heard trainmen say they would have to move the car in two days. When the field was clear, she began moving her youngsters, one by one, down the side of the car and into a secluded corner of the repair shop.

Cat, kittens and car moved on schedule.

Cockroaches were originally confined to the tropics. They spread with the increase of commerce.

SHORT SHOTS

Raleigh, Aug. 28.—The State of North Carolina has been paying to advertise in the news-magazine Time, but in this week's issue it gets free the most valuable boost the weekly has given Tar Heelia. It's a picture captioned "North Carolina's Hoey and Friend", showing our governor and President Roosevelt. It is the unanimous opinion of those who have commented that this is just about the best picture of the governor ever published.

Up they go. One hundred additional auto license revocations this week brought the total to date to 12,202.

Drunken driving continues to be overwhelmingly the major cause for revocation. Ages of all those on the blacklist are not given, but of those listed the oldest was 49, the youngest 18. Both were for mixing gasoline and alcohol.

The state has just issued a "Reward" sheet offering $700 for capture of each of nine escaped prisoners—three who participated in the Caledonia break early this year and six who made their getaway from State's prison recently.

Odd features of the descriptions of the nine is that not one weighs more than 151 pounds and none is more than 5 feet 9 inches tall. Maybe bigger men couldn't squeeze through the tunnel dug by the convicts under a wall of State's prison.

Senator King names N. C.'s Josiah W. Bailey as possible presidential timber; but to date this correspondent has heard of no "Bailey for President" clubs being formed in North Carolina.

The Indians used to hang scalps of their enemies in the teepees on return from the war path; but Louis H. Wilson, department of agriculture publications chief, has draped a bunch of tobacco over the door of his office upon return from a flying invasion of the Bright Leaf belt markets on opening day.

In one short day he visited the marts at Goldsboro, Rocky Mount, Wilson, Greenville, Farmville, Wendell, Smithfield and Kinston.

"The chief thing that impressed me was the absence of the little concession stands and the peddlers dealing in every sort of thing designed to get the growers' cash. There usually are literally hundreds of these, but this year only peddlers I saw were selling food," said Mr. Wilson.

Dr. C. C. Crittenden, secretary of the North Carolina historical association, is vacationing this week. He will be back in his office Tuesday or Wednesday.

The 188 candidates who took the State Bar examination several weeks ago should be able to get some sleep after tonight. The examiners resumed correction of papers yesterday and will finish sometime today, announcing the results probably late tonight.

At the time of examination the youngsters were almost 100 per cent convinced they had flunked, but H. M. London, secretary of the North Carolina State Bar, said that early papers corrected showed a higher percentage of passing marks than in recent examinations.

Executive committee of the Trustees of the University of North Carolina are meeting this afternoon for what has been billed in advance as a "perfunctory" session.

Let's Go "Mercy" Killing

HOW ABOUT all those poor insurables, who do nothing but suffer and cost a tidy sum for their upkeep. Let's get out our chloroform and lethal gas and put some of them "mercifully" away.

Here's a case in Washington, D. C.—a lady permanently injured when a school girl, lying on her back for the past 50 years—positively incurable. But hold off that chloroform! Let's scan the record. Fifty years ago this helpless girl had time to think and plan and pray and so founded the Christ Child Society, which from her bed she has directed ever since. There are branches today in 31 cities. If 50 years ago someone had "mercifully" gassed her, what about those thousands of needy and handicapped children whom her society has cared for yearly? Let's let this incurable live on, for surely hers is an exceptional case.

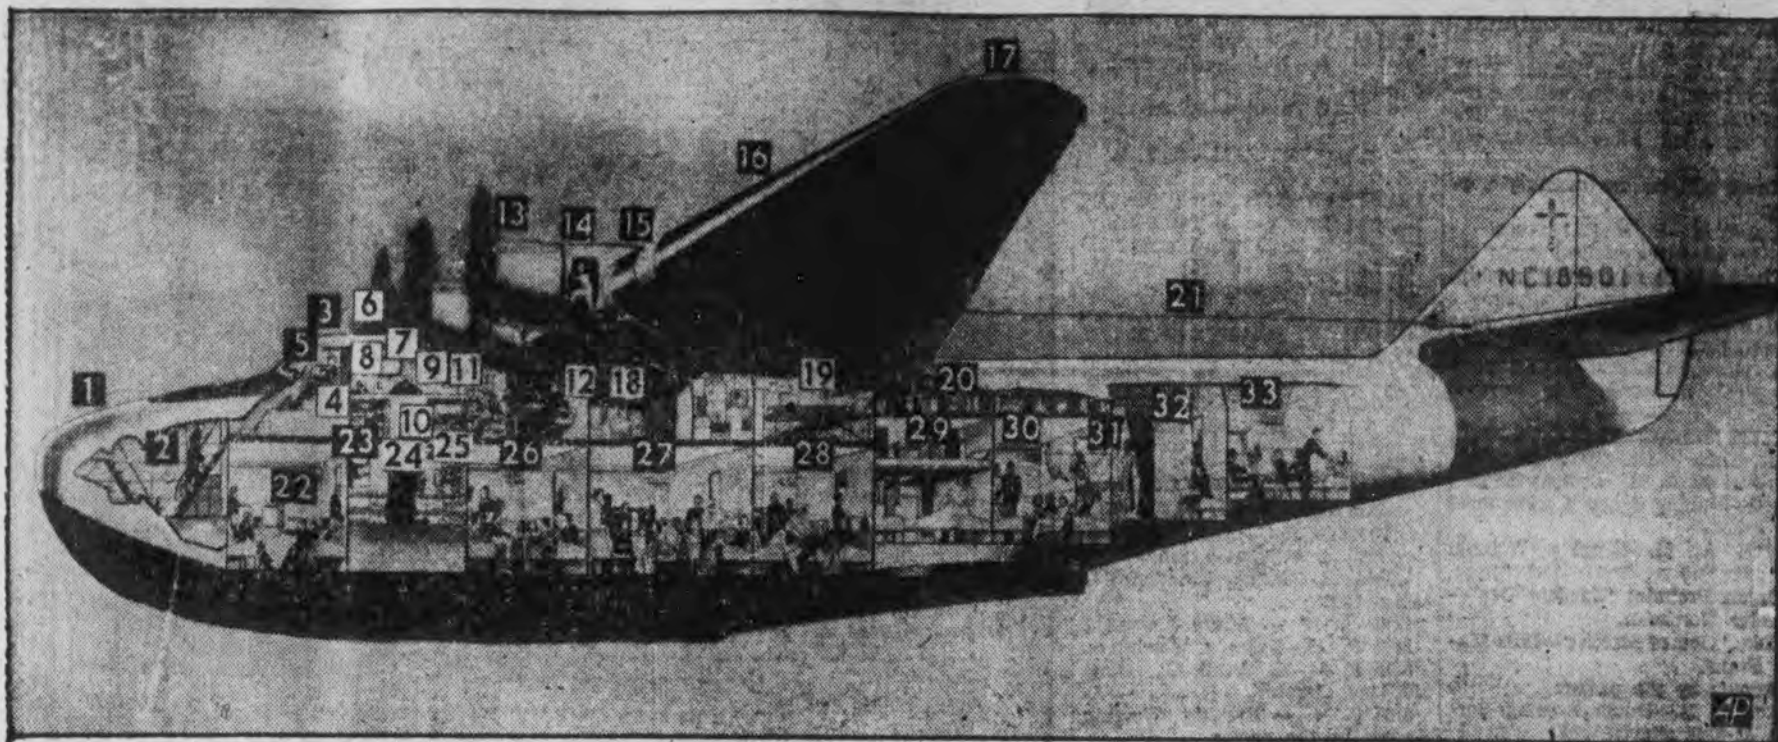

Well, here's another one—not nearly so dramatic—quite commonplace, in fact. In a home, for incurables he lies, flat on his back, unable to move aught but his head. So he has been for ten years. So he may be for forty years more. But hold off that poison just a minute. I have intimate knowledge of this case. Let me tell you. Jimmy smiles when you visit him and my how he enjoys nonsense. He's loath to talk about his illness, but should you gain his confidence, he would tell you how gladly he accepts the cramps in his immovable legs when he looks at other immovable legs over there on a crucifix on the wall—how readily he accepts the tortures of a fly walking down his face, when he thinks of blood-drops trickling down the face of the Redeemer. Who also was powerless to move His hands. Jimmy is an outstanding exemplifier of the Catholic teaching of the acceptance of the suffering which God permits—of the offering up of our own agonies with Christ's agonies in reparation for our sins and those of all men.

No, I'll not "mercy" kill Jimmy. His example and his prayers mean too much to me. No, I'll not take from any man the right to live and fulfill his destiny as God has planned it. I'll not take from the world one who suffers for the world. And besides, "mercy" killing is out-and-out killing—murder! You can't get around it. It's there in the Bible—your Bible and my Bible—in God's Own words. Look it up—Exodus 23:7—"The innocent and the just person thou shalt not put to death." Plain enough, isn't it?

BY HULBERT FOOTNER

SYNOPSIS: A lovers' tiff separates Neill, a young federal agent, and Janet in Baltimore. She won't break a date with Prescott Fanning whom Neill considers a crook. Trying to check on Fanning, Neill is doped by him. Next day a mysterious phore call tells Neill that Janet's in trouble on Fanning's yacht at Abalom's Harbor. Rushing there, he finds, in a locked cabin, Fanning shot dead and Janet in a faint, a gun beside her. Seeking a hideout, Neill rows her to the disused liners up the river. They manage to get aboard, dodge a watchman and locate the "royal suite."

Chapter 12

DIDN'T SHOOT HIM!

Neill suddenly remembered that he had not eaten anything during the past strenuous 12 hours. They bread out their provender on the cabin table and he hung the flashlight upside down from the ceiling to give them light. They feasted on cold meat, bread and butter, pickles and salad, and because they were young and in love they forgot anger for a time.

"I wonder if any couple before us ever had a whole 25,000-ton ship to themselves," said Neill.

When he looked in Janet's clear eyes he was relieved of the fear that her mind was deranged. Still some of the things she said rang queerly, as when he told her he would leave her his gun and she said:

"I wouldn't know how to use it."

Neill made no comment.

Later she said tremulously: "You're so good to me, Neill."

"Why the hell shouldn't I be good to you?" he growled.

"Not one word of reproach!"

"I'm so damn glad to get you back here's no room for reproaches."

When they had finished eating and cleared away, Neill unrolled his coil of light rope. Even had they been able to bring in down from the deck, the Jacob's ladder was too heavy for Janet to haul up after he had gone, or to lower for him when he came again, and he planned to make a rope ladder to take its place. Cutting off short lengths for the cross pieces, he showed her how to knot them so they wouldn't slip, and the two of them worked away together under the light.

"You haven't asked me what happened," Janet said with her head down.

"You don't have to tell me now unless you feel like it."

"Certainly. You have to be told . . . Fanning was just what you said he was. I was a fool."

"We all are."

"He actually planned to carry me down to Cuba on his yacht. He said that before we got there I . . . I . . ."

She blushed deeply.

"You would become reconciled to your fate and wouldn't leave him?"

Neill.

"Yes."

"He had a hell of a good conceit of himself, didn't he? . . . How did he inveigle you aboard?"

"He said that the yacht had been offered to him at a great bargain, and suggested that we have dinner aboard and look her over. There were some other people coming, a Mr. and Mrs. Westbrook, so it seemed all right . . ."

"Decoys," put in Neill.

"We had dinner and afterwards when Fanning wanted to show me over the yacht the Westbrooks said it was too nice sitting on deck, so we left them there and went below. When we had looked at everything and came back on deck, they weren't where we had left them, but I thought they were somewhere about. I suspected ro'ing. Fanning suggested that we take a little run down the harbor to see how she worked. He said I could steer her and I was as pleased as a child . . . Oh, what a fool I was!"

"Never mind that," said Neill. "Go on."

His Manner Changed

"We were tied up to the oil dock in Canton taking fuel oil. The sailors cast off the ropes and we went down to Fort Carroll. When I said we must turn back, Fanning's manner changed. He took me away from the wheel and a sailor steered. Fanning said we weren't ever going back any more. At first I thought he was joking. When I saw that he meant it, I looked for the Westbrooks. It was then that I found they had slipped ashore while we were below.

"What could I do? We were in the mouth of the river a couple of miles from shore, and it was useless to cry for help. The sailors were all afraid of Fanning and they couldn't help me. They steered away from the main channel so that I could not call for help if we passed another vessel. Fanning was rough with me at all. He . . . he . . ."

"He made out he was in love with you," suggested Neill grimly.

"Yes. He said there would be no compulsion on me. That I should be perfectly free and my own mistress until such time as I was ready to come to him. But that was all talk. However, he gave me the after cabin to myself, and there was a key in the door so that I could lock myself in. But, oh, Neill! what a terrible night!

"There was some kind of accident in the engine room. We were stopped for a long time, and then went on slowly. When it became light, I saw that we had run into a harbor alongside a village, but I didn't know where it was. Fanning was in an ugly temper because the accident had upset all his plans. He told me I would have to stay below as long as we lay in harbor."

"How did you get word to me?" asked Neill.

"McGee, the engineer, had to take up part of the cabin floor to look at the propeller shaft. He was a decent sort of man; he looked as if he was sorry for me. Fanning was with him, watching. When I learned from their talk that McGee had to go to Baltimore, I wrote your room number at the Stafford on a piece of paper. I know you were registered under an assumed name, and slipped it to him when Fanning wasn't looking."

"Good trick!"

"All day I stayed below. They brought me my meals in the saloon. In the evening Fanning sent the rest of the crew ashore to go to the movies. Through the porthole I saw them rowing away. Shortly after that Fanning came into my cabin without knocking, and I saw that he had turned ugly . . . He locked the door behind him . . ."

Janet began to shake pitifully. "That's all I can remember," she faltered. "I must have fainted through terror. The next thing I knew you were out in the saloon and you were speaking to me."

"Did you have a gun?" asked Neill.

"Yes. I forgot that. After McGee had left my cabin I found it under the sofa. I supposed that he had left it there for me."

"Where was the gun when Fanning came in?"

"Lying on the table in my cabin. . . . Why are you asking me these questions about the gun?" she asked nervously.

"When I broke in the door of your cabin Fanning was shot dead" said Neill.

She stared at him in horror. "Oh my God! What are you saying? . . . I didn't shoot him. Neill! I swear that!"

He kissed her. He didn't believe her. Most likely the truth was that she had snatched up the pistol, mad with terror, and had shot the man without knowing what she was doing. Anyhow, he loved her, and what difference did it make? In fact he hoped that she had shot Fanning.

Back To The Hotel

He could not bring himself to question her further in her present shaken state. He said lightly: "Hold up a minute until I measure off how much ladder we've got. It was 42 feet from the rail of the promenade deck to the water, and I figure we'll need 33 here."

Janet was as eager to drop the subject as he was, and so it was allowed to lie.

When the ladder was finished, he contrived a simple signal for the purpose of letting her know when to let it down to him. He fastened the twine to the catch of a wall cabinet and, leading it out across the little deck and through a window, let it hang outside. A single strand of brown twine would never be noticed. When it was pulled, the door of the cabinet flew open. They laughed at the simplicity of the gadget.

Wrapping Janet in the rug, Neill laid her on the dusty sofa and sat on the floor, soothing her like a child until her eyes grew heavy and finally closed. After kissing her to make sure that she slept, he went out on the little deck and, stripping off his clothes, wrapped them in the oilskin coat and tied it securely.

Slinging this bundle over his back he climbed out of the window, went down the rope ladder and slipped into the water. Janet could pull up the ladder when she woke.

When Neill emerged from the water, he saw a dim light a couple of hundred yards off to his left. After dressing and hiding the oilskin coat in the brush, he waded along the beach to investigate. It proved to be a night light in the upper window of an old farmhouse on the river bank. Below the bank was a little wharf and tied to the wharf was a skiff with oars in her. Neill noted it with satisfaction. This would be convenient for the coming night.

Making a detour around the house, he gained the driveway that served it, and was led out to the state road at a point about a mile from the village. The first faint streaks of dawn were beginning to appear in the east when he reached the hotel. The outer door was unlocked and he stole up to his room without meeting anybody.

Bears - Billies Stage A Rehearsal Contest

New Bern, Aug. 28.—New Bern and Snow Hill came out to Kafer Park for a dress rehearsal yesterday afternoon, and the Stars took everybody's role but their own. Today's drama will be deadly serious, but yesterday it was slapstick comedy, pure and simple.

The curtain finally fell down during a rip-roaring eighth that saw everything imaginable happen, including Robinson's left-handed homer with five Bruin bodyguards escorting him to the plate safely. This charming bit of burlesque served as a grand finale, with Snow Hill leading, 10-7. The eighth was never completed, so the official score goes down as 9-7.

All the boys played real nicely together—in fact, they were in such good humor that Umpire Closs was allowed to play first base for Snow Hill for four innings. Umpire Chewing remained behind the plate, but his decisions were so unpopular with his deserting colleague that Closs came charging in from first on one occasion and engaged in an argument that brought him a fake five-dollar fine.

Everybody contributed a specialty to the routing, but Doc Smith's was the duckiest of them all. He pulled an honest-to-goodness steal of home by walking nonchalantly in from third in the seventh. The day's only casualties occurred in the press box, where two scorers fell in a full faint, and another had running fits.

SPORT SLANTS

Even sitting around the luncheon tables at the Meadow Brook club the polo players are a rugged looking group of athletes.

On this particular occasion Bobby Strawbridge was acting the part of host on behalf of the United States Polo association. Guests were the visiting Argentine players, American players and newspapermen. The main idea was to get acquainted with the visitors from the Pampas.

On hand were Luis Duggan and his brother Heriberto, Andres Gazzotti, Juan Castex-Pradere and Manuel Andrada.

Andrada looks exactly as one might picture an Argentine polo player. The grand old man of polo in the Argentine flashes an infectious smile when addressed in English but gives no answer. He knows little English despite the fact that he has been visiting the U. S. since 1924. He is a solid, well set up individual who looks as though he could step right out and play full-back on any football team. He has been playing polo for 30-odd years and still is rated one of the best in the world.

There were plenty of rugged looking American players, too. Stewart Iglehart, for example, rated at 10 goals with Tommy Hitchcock, is not a big man but he has that solid look that makes one think he might have been chipped out of marble.

Tommy Hitchcock is a fairly sturdy individual. After all these years he is still up there at 10 goals, just as his father was before him. And little Pete Bostwick can take care of himself despite his lack of weight.

Then there is Devereux Milburn, who has two big sons playing polo and still swings a mean mallet himself, being rated at seven goals. Some years ago, when the veteran Milburn suffered a broken leg, he prematurely retired him from competitive polo. It was all a mistake. Following the luncheon Milburn took us out on the Meadow Brook golf course and did an excellent job of undeceiving this contrite person concerning any notions he may have entertained about being a golfer.

Monk Gets Watch; Aces Get The Game!

Ayden, Aug. 28.—Ayden's Aces and Williamston's Martins put on a baseball show today for the fans that saw everybody but pitchers pitching, and very few of the players on the field exempted from duty at more than one post.

When it was all over, the Aces had a victory, 16-5; and Manager Monk Joyner of the Aces had an Elgin watch, a gift from local fans. Joyner was presented with the gift as he stepped to the plate in the opening frame for his first turn at bat, and he obliged with a hit that brought in the game's first run.

The contest was just a breeze for the Aces. Williamston, letting off steam generated during the last stages of the rape, saw themselves victimized for four runs in the first inning and five in the second. The best thing they offered was a homer by Bruce McCay.

The game was scheduled as the first part of a doubleheader, but the nightcap was dispensed with by agreement.

Bugs Win 'Merry-Go-Round' From Eagles

Goldsboro, Aug. 28.—The Goldsboro Bugs swamped Kinston's Eagles, 17 to 3 yesterday in a game that was a typical merry-go-round brake-down performance after the third inning, with umpires, players and fans all taking part in the fun.

Police reserves had to be called out at the start of the Bug half of the third, when a scrap developed between Hicks, Eagle third-sacker, and Louis Woods, a fan.

While warming up for infield practice, Hicks charged Woods came down from the bleachers, picked up a stray ball, and nearly hit him in the head. Words passed between the two, then they charged at each other and exchanged a number of blows before separated.

Woods dared Hicks to meet him back of the grandstand after the inning. Hicks did so and the two squared off again, but police broke it all up in time.

Thereafter the game was a complete farce.

BALL PLAYERS FEASTED HERE

Guests at the Regular Meeting of Kiwanis Club

The Greenville Kiwanis club welcomed and said goodbye to the members of the local Coastal Plain baseball team last night.

The meeting assumed an informal air and the brief session was devoted chiefly to singing, introduction of the players and a few brief remarks.

After Secretary Dave Moore and S. A. Whitehurst had reported on the recent meeting at Wrighsville, which was declared a big success by both, W. E. Hooker reported on a series of programs to be sponsored here in the fall for the benefit of underprivileged children.

The club has contracted with the Collins Management Service for four events to be held October 14, 21, 28 and Novmbr 4. The programs will be held on Thursday nights. All profits will be used for the benefit of underprivileged children in the community. Further details on the events will be worked out and announced later.

The club then joined in group singing, with Mrs. R. A. Tyson at the piano and H. A. McDougle leading.

Dr. J. M. Barrett, head of the committee in charge of the program, then introduced G. V. Smith, president of the Greenville Baseball club. Mr. Smith spoke briefly, telling the players they had fought a good fight and added that he looked for them back again next year and "we will finish the season about the top." He urged the players to go through life giving the best they had to whatever they undertook "just as you have while playing ball here, and you will never regret it."

Secretary Moore, who also is secretary of the baseball club, introduced each of the ball players, telling his position and home city. Each received a round of applause. All players, with the exception of Manager Durwood Stowe, were present, as was Tom Dennis, official scorer for several weeks. W. W. Lee, M. O. Minges and John G. Clark, officials of the baseball club, were visitors of the Kiwanis club. Several Kiwanians, including Mr. Smith, are officials of the baseball club.

Other guests of the club were V. G. Anderson, E. B. Yearby, Ed. H. P. Johnson, H. B. May of Falkland and Dr. David L. Moon of Falkland.

BIGGER AND BETTER

Not A Greenville Player On Loop's All-Star Team

Snow Hill Places More Players Than Any Other Club

Snow Hill, Aug. 28.—Probably the smallest town in organized baseball made the biggest haul in gathering places on the 1937 all-star team of the Coastal Plain league, selected by a vote of the circuit scribes. Manager "Pea Head" Walker's step-sons landed four of the 12 positions, with New Bern, Williamston and Goldsboro getting two each and the remaining two being divided between Tarboro and Ayden.

Not a single Greenville player was named on the all-star team, but four—Johnson, Powell, Norwood and King—were given honorable mention.

Hank Soufas of Snow Hill was installed at first base for the All-stars, although he edged in by a narrow margin, being hard-pressed by Charley Stevens of Williamston.

Frankie Ware, the lone representative of the Tarboro Combs, did not have much trouble getting the assignment at second base. Powell of Greenville was the first choice of one writer, but the others picked Ware as the man for the job.

Aaron Robinson, the mythical team's third-sacker, was one of Snow Hill's two unanimous choices. Every voter went right down the line for him. There was only one other hot corner artist mentioned—Artie Deim of Williamston, who drew all the second choice ballots.

The prime favorite for the shortstop post was Howard Earp of Williamston. Solly Myers of Goldsboro and Mike Balla of Goldsboro had their followers, but none of them were strong enough to oust the Martin shortfielder.

Another unanimous selection was Lonk Joyner, the league's leading batsman, who manager the Ayden Aces and patrols left field. He wasn't named to manage the all-stars, but he was the popular choice for left field.

Glenn Mullinax of New Bern was charged with the important job of patrolling the wide expanses of centerfield. Charley Wall of Snow Hill offered some dispute, but it wasn't quite enough.

New Bern also grabbed the right field post with Worley Knowles singled out to handle the chores of the sun field. George Rimmer of Tarboro and John Wyrostek, of Kinston, were also in the running.

Joe Bistoff of Snow Hill would have been another unanimous selection had it not been for one voter who named Don Victoria of Williamston as first choice for catcher. Bistoff got the rest.

There was not much opposition to Owen Elliott of Goldsboro as the team's right-handed pitcher. What little there was came from Jim Rollins of Williamston and Stuart Flythe of New Bern.

The Goldbugs won the entire pitching staff when Lefty Bill Flora proved a heavy favorite among the southpaw chunkers; Strunk of Williamston and King of Greenville failing to make much of a dent in Flora's vote.

Out of a field of seven candidates, Lefty Wade of Williamston emerged as the winner in the fight for the utility man's job.

D. C. Walker, successfully guiding Snow Hill through the pennant race, was handed the reins to manage the loop's first annual all-star line. It was another unanimous choice, with Snake Henry of Tarboro, Art Hauger of Williamston, and Dor Smith of New Bern dividing the second ballots.

Honorable mention is given players receiving votes but not placing in the selection. Below is the team, compiled by the National Association press bureau from the vote of circuit scribes:

LINE PROBLEM BOTHERS WOLF

No Regular Guard Or Strong Reserves To Fill Positions

Chapel Hill, Aug. 28.—Coach Ray Wolf's chief problem, when he begins rebuilding the University of North Carolina's 1937 gridiron machine, will be to plug big gaps in the line.

Ten lettermen are expected to return, but in the list there is no regular guard, only one regular tackle and only one regular end.

Andy Bershak, the All-American prospect, will take care of one of the flank positions in fine style, but Dick Buck will not be at the other post and the most likely substitute, Fran Gordon, did not make his letter last year.

Henry Bartos, a veteran, will be at one of the tackles, and Steve Maronic, a guard last year, has been shifted to the other tackle post.

But this leaves a yawning space at guard. Ed Palmer, a letterman, is expected to be a strong contender, but the other candidate is yet to be selected. Leroy Abernethy, Jim Woodson, and Jack Kraynick are the outstanding reserves, and Red Megson is the most likely looking sophomore prospect.

There are two veteran candidates for center, Pete Avery and Bob Adams, with George Ralston and Red Carlton, sophomores in the supporting cast.

The Carolina backfield to start this fall probably will be composed of Crowell Little, quarter; George Watson and Tom Burnette, half-backs and Art Ditt, fullback. All of these boys are veterans.

So it is obvious that the backfield presents a brighter side of the picture.

The schedule follows: September 25, South Carolina at Chapel Hill; October 2, North Carolina State at Raleigh; October 9, NYU at New York; October 16, Wake Forest at Wake Forest; October 22, Tulane at Chapel Hill; October 30, Fordham at Chapel Hill; November 6, Davidson at Davidson; November 13, Duke at Durham; November 25, Virginia at Chapel Hill.

Probable Pitchers

Probable starting pitchers in the major leagues today:

American League
Washington at Chicago—Ferrell vs. Lyons.
New York at St. Louis—Hadley vs. Walkup.

HE COULDN'T MAKE GOOD at first base, so Rudy York became catcher for Detroit. The Tiger titan's ability at the first sack wasn't equal to Hank Greenberg's, so York took one of the other six positions he plays and made Greenberg "look like a bunter."

vs. Walkup.
Boston at Detroit—Grove vs. Poffenberger.

Philadelphia at Cleveland—Thomas vs. Allen or Whitehill.

National League
Cincinnati at Brooklyn (2)—Derriinger and Grissom vs. Hamlin and Butcher.

Pittsburgh at New York (2)—Weaver and Blanton vs. Hubbell and Schumacher.

Chicago at Boston (2)—Carleton and Root vs. Fette and Lanning or Bush.

St. Louis at Philadelphia—Harrell vs. Johnson.

Pirates were so numerous and daring in ancient and mediaeval times in the Mediterranean sea that whole navies gave them battle and emperors made reputations by cleaning them out.

WAGER OF TWO HOGS YIELDS CASH FOR COLLEGE

Edinburgh, Ind., Aug. 27.—(AP)—A wager of two hogs that she would go through college without smoking provided funds for Beatrice Farr Bradley to spend four years at Indiana University and collect her A. B.

Her cousin, Joe Gayle, bet Miss Bradley she'd puff a cigarette before she got her diploma. That was in 1933. Her grandfather, Harry Bradley, offered to keep and feed the hogs, which were brood sows, on his farm near here.

From the sows came many pigs. Miss Bradley's sisters in Pi Beta ed. And so she realized enough from the sows and their offspring to pay for her college education.

There is some evidence, though not conclusive, that camels once lived wild in America.

Camera Coverage Of The World

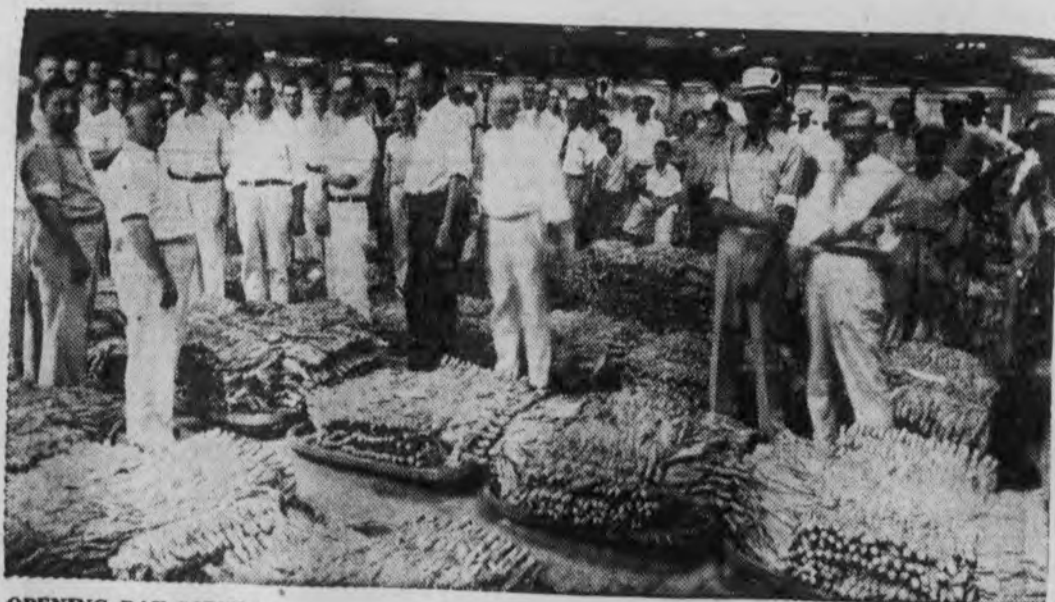

Fiery former Senator Tom Heflin of Alabama was quick to toss his hat into the ring for the seat of Hugo Black, now justice of the U. S. Supreme Court. Governor Bibb Graves appointed his wife, Dixie, to serve until the election next spring.

Chief threat to Alice Marble in defense of her national women's tennis singles crown is expected to be Helen Jacobs (left), former queen of the courts, who is making a strong comeback. She won her match with Kay Stammers in the Wightman Cup play to establish her bid.

Dapper former New York Mayor, Jimmie Walker who looks more like 36 than 56, received virtual assurance of a lifetime pension when he was named assistant counsel of transit commission, just two weeks before he would have been disqualified for absence of five years.

Little attention had been centered upon Harry M. Woodring since he succeeded the late George Dern as war secretary until the present crisis in China. Since Sino-Jap hostilities broke out, the former Kansan, thrust into the center of a busy stage, conferred often with the President.

OPENING DAY SCENES

The above pictures show a small part of the huge crowds that followed the auctioneers and buyers as the 1937 tobacco marketing season opened here Thursday morning.
