

Japanese Effort To Smash Chinese Without Results

Tremendous Attacks Continue Along Front Lines

FIRES CAUSING UNTOLD DAMAGE

U. S. Transport Chaumont to Aid in Evacuating Americans as Peril Draws Closer

Shanghai, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Roaring flames across all northwestern Shanghai lighted the path tonight of a fierce Japanese effort to batter down the Chinese resistance that has brought their Shanghai offensive to a standstill.

Naval and heavy artillery guns roared in the Yangtze, Chapel, Kiangwan and North Station districts, laying down blankets of shell fire in advance of tremendous Japanese sunset attacks on the Chinese front lines.

Fires spread across the whole area. The Commercial Press building, rebuilt after the 1932 Sino-Japanese hostilities, was reduced to ashes again after it was struck by three Japanese bombs.

With the peril to American and other foreign residents drawing steadily closer from the fighting ringing the international settlement, the American Chamber of Commerce of Shanghai protested against President Roosevelt's warning United States citizens remain in China at their own risk.

The note, addressed to Secretary of State Hull, expressed "resentment of American missionaries and business men and urged greater protection for them and their interests."

It was disclosed meanwhile the United States transport Chaumont will aid in further evacuation of American civil and naval families.

Department Says Fall Best Fishing Season For State

Advertising Division Informing Out-of-State Anglers Sport Is At Its Height In Season

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, Sept. 7.—Fall is the finest fishing season in North Carolina, out of the state anglers are being informed by the Advertising Division of the State Department of Conservation and Development; and so it might not be amiss for the state's citizens who otherwise might be unaware of this fact.

"The fall of the year is North Carolina's most colorful season," burbles the Advertising Division. "The foliage of hardwoods intermingling in riotous hues with the more somber tones of the pines."

But this isn't all. Getting around to the fishing angle or the fish angler, the division writer says, and says truly: "The early fall is a favorite fishing time for large numbers of surf-casters and deep sea fishermen along the North Carolina coast. The weather is milder at this time, hotels are less crowded, and the fisherman is treated to the spectacle of wedges of Canada geese, flights of ducks, clouds of white whistling swans, and herds of other wild fowl."

Fresh water fishing, too, gets its mead of praise. "Fresh waters particularly recommended at this season are Currituck Sound, Pasquotank, Chowan and Roanoke rivers, Phelps and Mattamuskeet lakes, Little Alligator, Tar, Neuse, Trent, New, Cape Fear, Black, Waccamaw and Lumber rivers.

"Located in the coastal plain these rivers and lakes are populated in large numbers by large mouth black bass, striped bass, pike, red and blue drum, crappie, white perch, calico bass, warmouth, striped perch, roach and redfish."

POLICE STOP DRIVER TO MAKE HIM MAYOR

Traverse City, Mich., Sept. 7.—(AP)—L. A. Whipple of Pawtucket, R. I., started reaching for his driver's license when two Traverse City patrolmen overtook his automobile. Instead of handing him a ticket the officers gave him an engraved scroll informing him he was mayor of Traverse City for the day.

Whipple, en route to Grand Traverse bay to fish for trout, learned that his Rhode Island license had completed the list of "foreign" plates this season.

TWO CONSULS GIVEN ORDERS TO CLOSE OFFICES

Agents in Amoy And Foochow, China, Told Seek Safty

CITIES ATTACKED BY JAP AIRCRAFT

Resignation of Assistant Secretary Labor Among Other Capital Developments

Washington, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The American government today ordered its consuls at Amoy and Foochow in South China to close their offices and proceed to places of safety as soon as they have done all possible to evacuate Americans in their districts.

Amoy and Foochow have been bombed by Japanese airmen several times. Ambassador Nelson Johnson advised the department he issued instructions to the consuls as a matter of precaution.

The order was qualified to the extent the consulates were not to be closed if the situation changes definitely for the better before American citizens are withdrawn.

Meantime, the resignation of Edward McGrady as assistant Secretary of Labor was announced at the summer White House at Hyde Park, N. Y.

It is understood McGrady will become director of labor relations for the Radio Corporation of America.

In his letter of resignation, McGrady said his new employer, whom he did not name, had "cordially agreed that whenever you feel need for my services for any special work I shall always be available to your call."

In the meantime, Representative Frank Hancock, of Oxford, N. C., and a Granville county delegation protested the proposed abandonment of a CCC camp in Granville county.

They asked Dr. H. H. Bennett, soil conservation director, to urge retention of the camp, saying it had been helpful in fighting the tobacco wilt disease.

The delegation included R. T. Eakes, county commissioner; former State Senator T. G. Curran; T. W. Allen, Orange master; and Dan Paul, former county agent.

Hancock also accompanied a delegation from Creedmore, in Granville county, here in the interest of a $60,000 public works allotment to Creedmore for a water and sewer system.

Capt. E. S. Royster, town attorney, headed the Creedmore delegation.

Other developments: Attorneys for the TVA, PWA and Federal Power Commission predicted the Supreme Court would settle two major points of President Roosevelt's power program in the term beginning October 4.

The questions which have been fought back and forth between the Federal government and private utilities for four years are:

- 1. May the Tennessee Valley Authority sell power in unrestricted competition with private companies?
2. May the government help municipalities finance power plants to operate in competition with private companies?

Any Sprained Backs?

Canton, Ohio, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Police are looking for a muscular marauder, or somebody with a sprained back, as the thief who stole 5,000 pounds of waste paper. William Bennett, the dealer who reported the theft, said that even at top prices the loot was worth no more than $15.

TRIO CHARGED AIDING PAYNE

Each Ordered Held Under $5,000 Bond Pending Trial

Asheville, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Three persons named in a complaint before U. S. Commissioner Eugene Taylor were ordered held under $5,000 bond each today for Federal court charges of harboring William Payne and Jack Borden, alias Wash Turner, wanted in connection with the fatal shooting of State Highway Patrolman George Penn several weeks ago.

The three were named as Dan Cox, his wife, Betty Jane Cox, and Flossie Rice.

All were placed in jail in default of bond.

A complaint, filed by R. L. Moran, special agent of the F. D. I., before Commissioner Taylor, charged that the three violated Federal laws in "harboring and conspiring to harbor Jack Borden and Bill Payne, against whom Federal warrants were outstanding."

NEGRO STRUCK DURING TRIAL

Defendant Charged With Attacking White Girl

Marion, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A white man crept up behind Mann Smith, Negro youth, in Superior court and struck him on the head with an iron pipe today while a jury was being selected for Smith's trial on a charge of criminally assaulting a 12-year-old white girl.

The man, who Sheriff Grady Nicolis said was Frank Anderson, was taken into custody by deputies and jailed.

Judge Felix Alley said he would see the Negro get a fair trial if "it requires all the troops of North Carolina."

The incident occurred during examination of a talisman for the seventh juror.

The man was seen to walk down the aisle and lean over the bar, but spectators apparently were unaware of his intentions until Smith had been struck.

The court-room was thrown into disorder. The jurors and veniremen were withdrawn from the room.

Judge Alley remanded Smith to jail, dismissed the special venire and ordered a new trial.

He then recessed court until 2:00 p. m.

Physicians attended the Negro and said later he was notoriously hurt.

Marion, N. C., Sept. 7.—(AP)—A special venire of 106 men reported in superior court today as attorneys prepared to draw a jury for trial of Mann Smith, Negro youth charged with criminal assault on a 12-year-old Marion school girl.

Smith was arrested last March 31, the day of the attack. His trial was continued from the June term to permit county commissioners to include names of Negro taxpayers in the jury box.

Judge Felix Alley yesterday ordered the summoning of the special venire after denying defense motion for further postponement.

Sino-Japanese Conflict May Raise Weed Prices

Although some fear was being expressed that the Sino-Japanese war would cut down tobacco exports and thereby reflect unfavorably on price trends on the local market, the following special dispatch from Danville to The Greensboro News tends to discount any such fears.

The article points out that the conflict even may raise tobacco prices and goes on to point out reasons for the deduction.

Danville, Va., Sept. 6.—Wide speculation is being indulged in by the tobacco trade here, especially that branch which has business dealings with China and Japan, over the purport of sudden and heavy buying on the southern markets by the Export Leaf Tobacco company. The deduction from this activity which had been marked since the Chinese-Japanese war got under way, is that the Oriental hostilities are already affecting the southern tobacco growers and may rebound to their financial advantage. The Export company is buying heavily of every grade from the commonest type to the better medium grades which have advanced in value owing to heavy auction floor competition in a ratio exceeding the prices paid, for the high quality types. The belief here is the Export company foresees large opportunities in the Oriental situation. The Nan Yang and the Great Eastern tobacco plants in Shanghai, both financed by Chinese capital, have been either destroyed by bombs or partially destroyed to a point where they have become non-productive. The extensive buildings on the Yangtze river, where large quantities

THREE MEN IN FIND CHILDREN BOLD ROBBERY THOUGHT DEAD

Cash Register Removed from Enfield Service Station

Enfield, N. C., Sept. 7.—(AP)—A service station employe said three masked men walked into his station in the heart of town early today, held him up at pistol point and walked away, with the cash register and a quantity of cigarettes after filling their car with gasoline.

Jack Hearn, employe, said the trio made him and an unidentified marine who was waiting in the station to catch a ride, lie down on the floor while another occupant, Paul Conroy was hit on the head with a gun when he failed to lie down immediately as ordered.

Hearn said the men then emptied his cigarette case, picked up the cash register, containing about $125, filled their car, a green sedan with gas from the station tanks and drove off toward Rocky Mount.

In Rocky Mount officers were conducting a wide search, but reported they had found no trace of the car or men.

Buck Shervette, owner of the station was not on the scene at the time of the holdup, which Hearn said took place about 4 a. m.

Several stitches were taken in Conroy's head to sew up a gash made by the desperadoes' guns.

Two Man Told Police He Had Slain, Turn Up Unharmed

Philadelphia, Sept. 7.—(AP)—After a man had told police that he caused their deaths, Helen Wiebuley, six, and her brother, Frank, Jr., three, missing more than 24 hours, were found alive today near their home by their uncle, William Dilton.

They told police they had stayed with a woman who said she needed children. They spent the night in her house and were taken by a man in a car to the corner where they were found.

At first the children seemed unconcerned but when they saw their parents both started to cry.

When the children were reported missing last night police arrested a man who gave his name as Philip Krahl. He was questioned throughout the night and today Mayor Davis Wilson announced the man had told him and police officers he caused their deaths in Fairmont park. Mayor Wilson further said the man had told different stories as to what he did with the children's bodies.

Three Execution Methods Legal in North Carolina

Raleigh, Sept. 7.—There are three forms of legal execution in North Carolina, although apparently few people know about it.

And a legal execution can be held in any county seat in the state, although it would be unlawful to execute a young man or woman anywhere except in the death chamber at State's prison.

All this comes about from the fact that North Carolina's legislators have twice changed their minds about the most humane methods of taking the lives of its citizens as have offended to a degree meriting their extermination.

Prior to March 6, 1909 hanging in the common jail of the county wherein the crime was committed was the legal way of getting rid of capital felons.

Powers Determined To Proceed Even Without Italy

FASCISTS WARN'D BY SOVIET PRESS

Sinking of Vessels May Block Any New Approach to Spanish Non-Intervention

London, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Great Britain and France decided today their navy was strong enough to stop "Mediterranean piracy" without any help, and determined to go ahead with a conference on the matter with or without Italy's participation.

The decision was disclosed authoritatively after Soviet Russia had protested to Italy and had been angrily rebuffed on charged that Italian "pirate" submarines were responsible for the sinking of two Soviet freighters in the sea lanes off Spain.

Informed British sources made it plain the Italo-Soviet trouble has not changed the situation at all. This view apparently was communicated quickly to Italy.

The feeling here was that Italy, despite hints she could not now attend the Mediterranean conference, would play into Russia's hands if she stayed away from the talks.

Moscow, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Soviet press outlets warned bluntly today Italian "Fascist aggressors" have begun a game in the Mediterranean "which may have terrible consequences."

Russia, which protested directly to Italy against the sinking of Soviet freighters by "Italian" submarines, was represented, however, as viewing these "aggressors" with "cool contempt."

It is waiting action from an "anti-piracy" conference of Mediterranean powers in Switzerland Friday, the official communist newspaper, Pravda, explained.

Rome, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A new approach to Spain non-intervention and flimsy Italo-Russian diplomatic relations hung by a slender thread today as the result of the presentation and immediate rejection of a Russian demand for redress for the sinking of two vessels in general submarine warfare.

The Soviet Union blamed Italy for the attacks. Various Italian Fascist mouthpieces asserted Italy had been about to take part in the new strong intervention talks, but now would reconsider its view in the light of the Russian move.

"Man" was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, September 5, 1937.

The golden text was from Genesis 1:27: "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God." (Rom. 8:16).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, "The Scriptures inform us that man is made in the image and likeness of God. Man is idea, the image of Love; he is not physique. He is the compound idea of God, including all right ideas, the generic term for all that reflects God's image and likeness; the conscious identity of being as found in Science, in which man is the reflection of God, or Mind, and therefore is eternal; that which has no separate mind from God; that which has not a single quality undervived from Deity; that which possesses no life, intelligence, no creative power of his own, but reflects spiritually all that belongs to his Maker."

As the result of the public hearings and of investigations of the inspection division new and stringent regulations surrounding the grading of gasoline are expected to be adopted.

SCHOOL NIGHT AT CIVIC CLUB

Rev. Mr. Grant Puts Rotarians Through Question List

By WYATT BROWN

Last night was school night to Rotarians as Tom Grant posed questions about Rotary to the members—but he gave each Rotarian a book of answers and told them where to find the answer. But "Teacher" Grant had to call on Fordy Harding to stop some of his hecklers by passing sentence. Of course, Lebrun Spence as sergeant-at-arms was on the qui vive in the even "teacher's" person became endangered. Every Rotarian called on answered perfectly questions delving into even the most unusual of matters pertinent to Rotary.

The Rotary Club voted to join Mayor Marvin Bloon's special celebration of the 150th anniversary of the drafting of the Constitution of the United States on which occasion Fordy Harding is to deliver the chief oration.

District Governor John Parks will pay his first official visit to the local Rotary Club on October 4. The attendance prize given by Roy Campbell went to R. R. (Railroad) Bennett. Visiting Rotarians were Norman Winslow of Washington, John B. Bunting of Bethel, Frank Peterson of Ayden. The club had as guest one Kiwanian, A. G. Snell of Elizabeth City.

SYNOPSIS: When flashy Prescott Fanning abducts Janet from Baltimore on his yacht, she gets word to Neil, a young federal agent who loves her. Dashing to Abalom's Harbor, he boards the yacht and finds, in a locked cabin, Fanning shot dead and Janet in a faint, a gun beside her. Neil hides her nearby in a disused liner. Back at the village, he sees queer little David Eyster who hated Fanning. Neil offers to help Mark Boninger, keen local investigator. They confer with Lawyer Kettering of Baltimore. Then Neil sneaks food and clothes to Janet.

Chapter 20

The Packet of $5 Bills

"HAVE you had your supper?" Neil asked.

"No. I was waiting for you," Janet said.

"I'm not going to touch any of this food. Every crumb's for you."

"I'm not hungry now."

"Sit down and I'll feed you."

And feed her he did, mouthful by mouthful like a bird.

When she protested that she could swallow no more, Neil said she needed exercise. Taking the flashlight, they started for a prow around the ship. The silence of the long passages laid a kind of spell on them. Janet's hand stole inside Neil's and they spoke in whispers.

On B deck above, they passed through a series of immense public rooms—palm garden, lounge and smoking room—all lavishly guided and decorated with paintings. The movable furniture had been taken away, but the carpets were still on the floors and the built-in settees around the wall. The flashlight, wherever it was turned, revealed circles of dusty magnificence. And so empty!

"Imagine this scene with the lights turned on, the orchestra playing and the passengers dancing," murmured Janet.

"Sure," said Neil, "and imagine it in a storm with the ship rolling like a barrel and the passengers seasick."

She laughed. It was good to him to hear her laugh.

The most attractive room was the restaurant up on the boat deck.

"This is where the champagne corks popped," said Neil.

They went down flight after flight of stairs to E deck, because Neil wanted another piece of rope and a bucket out of the galley.

Back again in the royal suite, he showed her how to lower the bucket out of the window when she wanted water for washing.

Afterwards they sat pressed close together on the sofa, smoking comfortably while Neil gave her an account of the happenings of the day. He left out what he thought would distress her too much.

"Well, what are we going to do?" Janet asked.

"You had better stay here a couple of days longer if you can stick it out."

"The worst is over now. I can stand it."

"By then the first crazy excitement ought to have died down."

"And then what?" he asked himself. However, he wasn't going to let her see that he was at a loss.

"I'll arrange to have a car waiting for us across the river," he said confidently. "They are watching this side too close."

"How will you get a car?"

"I'll go up to town. I know a man who will help us."

Plenty Of Money

AS THEY talked things over, Neil was obliged to confess that his money was running short.

"Oh, there's plenty of money, luckily," said Janet.

Neil stared at her. "What?"

She got up and, crossing to the desk, pulled out a drawer. She brought him a packet of new $5 bills, fastened with a paper strap and a pin, and with the stamp of the bank on the strap. Neil could scarcely believe his eyes. It was the same packet that he had seen Fanning put in his wallet two nights before, and he would as lief have seen a venomous snake in Janet's hands. The sight of that money reminded Neil that Janet had not told a credible story of what had happened aboard the yacht, and because he loved her so much it hurt him as if his flesh had been torn.

"Where did you get that?" he demanded.

"I found it in the pocket of my wrap," she said, astonished at his tone.

"Who put it there?"

"I don't know."

"It's Fanning's money!"

"Well . . . I suppose it must be. But if it's a case of life and death with us . . ."

Anger swept through Neil like a gasoline fire. Snatching the money from her, he strode across the room and sent it flying through the outer window into the river.

"I'd sooner starve than touch a dollar of it!"

Janet stared at him silently.

"You are lying to me!" he said.

"I reckon you have been lying from the beginning!"

She was no tame woman. She sprang up. "I'm not lying! And I'm not going to take that!"

"I don't care whether you smoked Fanning or not," he said. "I hope you did. It was coming to him. What makes me sore is that you don't trust me. After I have risked everything for you, you are still lying to me!"

"I'm not going to talk to you," she said, starting for the bedroom.

He seized her wrist. "Oh, yes, you are! We're going to have this out here and now! . . . I'm willing to believe that you shot him without knowing what you were doing, and that you can't remember anything about it now. That's natural. But you couldn't take his money and put it in your pocket without knowing what you were doing."

"I didn't take his money!"

"Listen! I broke in that door and found you two alone in the cabin. The key was still on the inside of the door, and the portholes were closed and fastened on the inside. If you didn't take Fanning's money, who did?"

"Perhaps there was somebody else aboard the yacht. Somebody of whom we know nothing."

"Somebody else!" said Neil sternly. He dropped her wrist.

"Fanning had told me more than once that he had enemies. That night when we were having dinner on the yacht I thought I saw somebody skulking on the dock. Perhaps he slipped on board when nobody was looking and hid himself below. Perhaps he was hidden in my cabin."

"In your cabin?"

"There was a clothes closet in there. I tried the door when I first went in and it was locked. Perhaps he had locked himself in there."

Neil laughed harshly. "For God's sake don't tell that story to anybody but me! That's exactly the kind of story that every hard-pressed defendant tells when he has no defense!"

Janet looked at him strangely, and went quickly into the bedroom. He let her go, and dropped on the sofa pressing his head between his hands. Anger still entered him so that he could not think.

Chase In The Dark

WHEN she did not return, when he heard no sound from the next room, a sudden fear struck through him and he ran in to look for her. The room was empty, the door unbolting and standing open on the corridor. His anger vanished then. Snatching up the flashlight, he ran through the corridor softly calling her name.

"Jen! . . . Jen! . . . Wait!"

He assumed that there was only one way she knew down to E deck across the dining saloon and the galley and into the engine room shaft. It was the way they had first come. Surely he could overtake her before she had gone far. She had to grope her way in the dark. He ran on, occasionally pausing to listen. He could hear nothing. He plunged down the two flights.

When he reached the galley, he realized that he must have missed her. She had hidden behind some corner to let him pass. He turned back. Suppose his anger had rendered her completely deafened? Suppose she returned to the suite and threw herself out of the window? He ran on, sick with fear.

However, there was no sound ahead of him. She had not come back to this part of the vessel! He ran into the suite and, without waiting to pull up the rope ladder, closed the window upon it, and also the other windows of the veranda. They were very stiff and he knew she could not open them.

He started down the stairs again. On D deck he heard some mouse-like sounds in one of the corridors and searched it robin by cabin. She was not there. Of course while he was looking on one side, she could run through a cross passage and return on the other. It was like searching a rabbit warren.

He went down to E deck again. While he was in the galley he heard the clang of an iron door ahead of him and plunged in the direction of the sound. She had entered the engine room shaft. She was going on deck.

When he got into the shaft he heard her far above him racing up the iron stairs. "Jen! Jen!" he called. "Wait!" He leaped up the stairs, straining every nerve to overtake her before she could get out on deck. Before he reached the top she was through the door and running forward on the boat deck. He caught her by the forward ladder, and none too soon because across the decks of the other ships he could see the watchman's lantern coming toward them.

She struggled desperately in his arms. "Let me go! Let me go!"

"Quiet, Jen, for God's sake!" he implored her. "The watchman is coming this way."

"All right, let him come! I want him to come! I'm going to give myself up!"

"No! No! Think what you're doing!"

"I will give myself up; I'm not going to let you risk yourself if you don't believe in me!"

"I do believe in you! I swear it!"

"It's too late to say that now!"

Several Dread Diseases Spread In Eating Places

Unsanitary Cafes Menace to Health Of Patrons

Raleigh, Sept. 7. — Septic sore throat, typhoid fever, diphtheria, trench mouth, syphilis and tuberculosis are among the diseases cited by J. M. Jarrett, sanitary engineer, division of county health work, state board of health, as communicable through unsanitary eating places.

"There is a secondary group," he added, "such as undulant fever, which is transmitted through unsafe raw milk from cows infected with contagious abortion; trichinosis, from infected pork, and food poisoning, which may be transmitted through several different types of unclean food. It is possible for contaminated food to be brought into a hotel or cafe after a sanitary inspection has been made by the health department, but this is much less likely to occur in Grade A places."

All cafes, cafeterias, restaurants, dining rooms at hotels and other places where food is served to the public are subject to inspection by representatives of the state board of health. Mr. Jarrett pointed out: "The grades determined by the board are: Grade A, 99-100; Grade B, 80-90; Grade C, 70-80. Although hotels and cafes may operate with a score of 70 per cent, the state board of health recognizes that Grade A rates and hotels are the safest places away from home and advises you to patronize them."

The Grade A sign in hotels or other public eating places means that either the local health department or the state board of health has made an inspection of the place in question and that a numerical score of 90 per cent or more has been made. The Grade A sign, which must be prominently displayed, has blue lettering, the Grade B sign green lettering, and the Grade C sign red lettering, making it very conspicuous. "Look for the sign," Mr. Jarrett advised.

He continued in order to acquaint the eating public with the true facts about the serving of food in public eating places: "The items of sanitation checked on the official score card by the inspection, with a brief explanation of each, are as follows: 1. Wash room—it must be well ventilated, illuminated, clean and in good repair. Soap and individual towels must be provided. 2. Dining room—it must be well ventilated, illuminated, free from flies and clean. The tables and linen must be clean. 3. Kitchen and pantry—to receive full credit for this item, the kitchen must be screened against flies, well ventilated and protected must be clean.

"5. Milk supply—all Grade A cafes and hotels serve only Grade A raw or pasteurized milk in original containers.

"6. Water supply—this must be from either the municipal source or from an improved private source. It is required that samples of water from private sources be submitted to and tested by the state laboratory of hygiene.

"7. Sewage must be disposed of through a municipal sewage system or by an approved private disposal system. The toilet rooms must be well ventilated and kept clean, and they must not open directly into the pantry or kitchen. Fixtures must be clean and in good repair.

"8. Surroundings—all possible fly and mosquito control measures must be taken, to keep down the number of flies and mosquitoes. Garbage and rubbish must be stored in covered metal cans."

Thus, Mr. Jarrett described Grade A eating places, which the public is advised by health authorities to patronize. "As an extra precaution for the protection of yourself and your family," he concluded, "become Grade A conscious, and remember the public always gets what it demands. The state and local health authorities will also appreciate the traveling public's reporting any eating places in the state found to be in an unsanitary condition." He emphasized the fact that an eating place is not graded because of expensive fixtures but on the grounds of its safety and cleanliness.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York — Dear George," writes Albert Stevens Crockett from around the corner, "since I have had my office down here in Murray Hill I have been making discoveries. In the first place, this is about the cleanest section of New York. It used to be about the most restricted. But the invasion of Madison Avenue left J. P. Morgan, probably its most noted resident, almost isolated, and the great mansions of the Bakers and Lewises, in Park avenue, have been boarded up for years.

Murray Hill as a community is contained between Park and Third avenues, and between 35th and 43rd streets. It is probably the most thoroughly respectable section of New York. Lots of old families still live in it, and a hotel man tells me that in Murray Hill proper, nowadays, there are probably more private residences than in any other part of east side Manhattan. It is fringed on three sides by skyscrapers and on the fourth by the Third Avenue 'L'. No movies, no anything, and the shops even are scarce.

"I wanted to show you what is probably the most nearly unique building devoted to an advertising agency you have ever seen. Its office occupies two corner houses, dwellings adapted to business purposes. Where I sit, I think, must have been either a dining room or the drawing room. There are iron casement windows. There is a butler who serves ice tea of an afternoon, and a kitchen where a meal may be prepared. No elevators, just the wrought iron balustrades and stairways, and the offices are more like drawing rooms, save for the desks.

"But what I wanted to show you particularly was what you probably didn't know about—the capitol of Murray Hill, a very smart little hotel run like a European establishment by Gaston Laurysen, a Belgian, who had some years at the Ritz-Carlton and the Savoy Plaza. It has just opened a new bar and cafe that looks as well as anything uptown; it also has a big restaurant and a garden in the back.

"You know, uptown New Yorkers seldom come below 42nd street for anything to eat, or anything else save business. I wanted you to see and sample that new bar because Laurysen is an old friend of mine and you would enjoy him tremendously. And I found that his chef was an old friend, John Taddel, for nine years a pupil of the great Renee Anjard, of the old Waldorf, who taught the new millionaires in the late nineties what good cooking was. And they do serve good meals and reasonable.

"Now I hope you'll call me soon and keep that date."

Note: Mr. Crockett is a noted foreign correspondent, author and raconteur. He is also one of the best informed men on foods in New York.

TOBACCO REPORT SERVICE NEEDED

We are in hearty accord with the Goldsboro News-Argos in its plea for a speedy and accurate official reporting of the tobacco figures in this state. As pointed out by that newspaper in its editorial of last Friday there is no present source from which these figures can be obtained until they are so old that they are useless as a guide to growers as well as business of the tobacco producing areas.

In urging the setting up of a speedier official reporting service the News-Argos says:

The whole variance in the reports from the 16 Bright Belt tobacco markets on the average price per pound for this year's crop suggests a need for a central state office through which unbiased official averages will be cleared quickly. Present reports from the markets today, for instance, show a range of from 10 to 24.62 cents per pound. The wide difference of reports from the markets for the day has characterized each day's reports since the markets opened.

The Bright Belt has completed five full days of operations; still there is no accurate channel through which the farmer or business man can obtain information as to the price average for the belt as a whole, information vitally important to all of Eastern North Carolina. After the business prospects for the fall and winter for the section are largely bound up in the tobacco average for the belt; not the average for one market or two markets.

First complete picture of the tobacco price for the belt will come with the release by the State-Federal Crop Reporting service office in Raleigh of the official market averages for August. But this information, if it is cleared with the nonchalance that has characterized this service in past years, will not be available before the middle of this month. Near three weeks from the time of the averages reported on.
Too late to be of real value.
The state report for markets for September's sales will not be released until late in October. And so on for each month through the selling season.

In Georgia the State Department of Agriculture clears at the end of each week an official report for all markets on sales of the week. This service gives the average price for all markets, provides an actual measuring stick as to what the crop will mean to the state.

Compared to the Georgia system,
North Carolina's official state report is archaic and obsolete. Why couldn't Kerr Scott, the commissioner of agriculture, provide for North Carolina through present personnel a system like that of Georgia's?

It would be a major contribution to more than half of the state.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Sept. 7.—Convention book of the Young Democratic Clubs of America, recently issued for the Indianapolis convalescence of the Y. D.'s contained the pictures of numerous North Carolinians, a history of the North Carolina club and a two-page advertisement of the state.

Right along toward this front there was a full page picture of Tyre Taylor, founder of the clubs and a former gubernatorial secretary. Up front, too, was another full page portrait of J. A. (Lon) Bojich, Winston-Salem, who was heralded as having "started work for the Young Democrats by flying all over the United States for them."
Lon was chairman of the national finance committee.

Then there was a page devoted to pictures of N. C. Young Democratic officers, with Mae Oliver, vice-president, in the middle. Other pictures were of J. T. Gresham, national committeeman; Mrs. George C. Brown, national committeewoman; J. E. Butler, president; and Mrs. Neal Long, secretary.

An appeal which is being heard here today is that of the City of Wilson from a judgment for personal injuries to Miss Ellen Braswell. The city claims she contributed her injury to her own negligence. On that phase counsel for Miss Braswell say in their brief:
"If it be negligence, for that a lady walking along the street of one of the most modern and up to date cities of North Carolina does not keep her eyes fastened on the sidewalk under her feet as she walks to the exclusion of all other things, celestial and terrestrial, then was her failure to do what no normal woman has ever done the proximate cause of her injury."

News reports tell us that framed copies of the Virginia Dare birth certificate have been presented the President and other distinguished persons by Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, of the Health Department.

There's a Winston-Salem reporter who can swell with pride about this.
He got the first copy of the certificate, though it was other news men who were "framed," not the certificate.

"Our Bob" Reynolds has introduced a ringing resolution in some convention or other, denouncing the wicked weed from Mexico, maranaguna.

Next thing you know the courageous statesman from the mountains will be assailing forest fires and the boll weevil.

Under the head "What the State Press is Saying," Carl Gaerch's State carries five clipped items. Two of them were the product of this bureau; whereat we grow a bit proud.

A Charlotte Observer editorial carries the statement that young Arch Allen, president-o-be of the Young Democratic Clubs of North Carolina "went down the line for Hoey" in the governor's primary.

All of which is certainly news to those who were in close touch with the gubernatorial sweetstakes and who know that Mr. Allen has not to this good day raised his voice even one time for Governor Hoey—let alone during the primary. Very sensibly the Wake lawyer, who was himself a candidate in the first primary, never once stuck his head out to have it knocked off by the voters of this rickety anti-Hoey and pro-McDonald county. Nor did he once emit so much as a feeble chirp between first and second heats.

WHITE OAK MILLS BOOM ON DISTILLERY ORDERS

Harrisburg, Ill., Sept. 6.—(AP)— Saw-milling, a pioneer industry of this territory, has been revived because Kentucky's distilleries need whiskey barrels.

Landowners are shipping their white oak to two mills for from $5 to $10 a tree. One of the mills turns out staves and the other barrel heads. Nearly 80 men are employed at the two mills, which have a daily capacity of 10,000 boards.
The white oak which abounds in this section is a tall tree which requires about 100 years to mature, but officials of the forest service say it is one of the "fast growing" hardwoods. The wood resists water and is also used for ship building and flooring. It is "air-cured" about 90 days before it is shipped to the distilleries.

Psychologists say infants have no ingrained fear of such things as snakes and thunderstorms.

sert made with apples and cream.

A PUBLIC DEMAND!

League To Make Study Of N. C. Justice Department

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Sept. 7.—Major L. P.
McLendon, Greensboro, will explain to municipal officials from North Carolina cities data which has been gathered by the commission to study the feasibility of setting up a State Department of Justice.

The Guilford lawyer, chairman of the group named by Governor Clyde R. Hoey, has accepted the invitation of Mayor George Iseley, of Raleigh, president of the North Carolina League of Municipalities, to speak at the afternoon session, September 27, of the League's annual convention in Winston-Salem.
In accept, however, he made it clear he would neither advocate nor oppose the proposal to establish a Justice Department, but would confine himself to a factual discussion of information which has come to the commission's attention.

Appointment of the commission was authorized by the 1937 General Assembly after many legislators had advocated a central state law enforcement agency.

bank in Denmark was founded in

"CAN PEOPLE APPRECIATE THE CHOICER TOBACCOS IN CAMELS?"

A QUESTION FREQUENTLY HEARD...

ANSWER:

THEY SMOKE MORE CAMELS THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE IN THE WORLD

Men and women respond to the unadorned fact that costlier tobaccos play the most important part in making Camel Cigarettes milder and better

THE deeper you dig into the facts—the more you find that nothing man can do to inferior tobaccos can take the place of good tobaccos to start with. As you'd expect, naturally milder, better-tasting tobaccos cost more to buy. And Camel willingly pays millions more to get them. That's why Camels are different—why they appeal more to men and women in all walks of life—why they're the largest-selling cigarette in America... or in the world!

"Camels went 'round the world with me. I'll bet on them any time," famous round-the-world reporter, Miss Dorothy Kilgallen, says. "With Camels, steady smoking's a steady pleasure."

"I have a long record as a Camel smoker—I've smoked them for many years," Bill Tilden states. "Here's one big point I'd like to make about Camels—they're the cigarette that I've found doesn't upset my nerves."

"To me, Camels mean 'Cheer' with a capital 'C,'" the famous motorboat sportsman, George Reis, says. "I also like Camel—hearty flavor. And I like the 'lift' I get with a Camel after I've been through a tough race."

"Camels go big out our way," says Charlie Bolden, boss of the Pitchfork Ranch, Wyoming. He is shown delivering a load of pronghorn antelopes to a zoo, via plane. "Cow-boys are great Camel smokers. They like that 'lift' they get out of Camels."

"So many girls at college smoke Camels," says Miss Josephine O'Neill, co-ed. "Mental work often has an effect on digestion. I find that during meals and after, Camels make food seem twice as good."

"I've been enjoying Camels for years," the famous parachute jumper, Joe Crane, begins. "I've smoked enough of them to prove that Camels don't frazzle your nerves. Flavor? Well: 'I'd walk a mile for a Camel!' You can't bear 'em!"

COSTLIER TOBACCOS IN A MATCHLESS BLEND

Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic. The skillful blending of leaf with leaf brings out the full delicate flavor and mildness of these choice tobaccos.

Snow Hill Wins Third Straight Series Game Over Snakes

BILLIES NEED ONE MORE WIN

Latham Homers With One On; Zak Master of Opponents

FINALS STANDINGS	W.	L.	Pct.
Snow Hill	3	0	1.000
Tarboro	0	0	.000

TODAY'S CONTEST

Snow Hill at Tarboro.

Snow Hill, Sept. 6.—Snow Hill's Billies made it three in a row over Tarboro in the Coastal Plain League's best-of-seven title series by taking a 4-1 decision today behind fine hurling of Emil Zak. The game drew a bit more than 1,000 customers.

The fourth contest will be played in Tarboro tomorrow. A victory for Snow Hill in Tuesday's game will close the series and give the championship to the Billies, who finished in first place in regular season play. Tarboro will be seeking its first victory in the finals and a chance to keep the series going.

Eddie Malone opposed Zak today and offered a six-hit job. A pair of long hits—Walter Latham's homer with one on in the third and Pletcher Zak's triple with one on in the seventh—came in the right spots to assure the Billies triumph. The Serpents scored first, Campbell's single, Henry's single and Carnahan's fly produced a run in the fourth.

In the home half, the Billies sewed up victory. With one out Robinson walked, advanced on a passed ball scored on Soufas' single. Latham then hit his homer, a line drive which cleared the left-field fence at a point about 320 feet from the plate.

The fourth Snow Hill run came in the seventh. Latham walked, was forced by Longest. Rabb popped out but Zak delivered a triple. Mewborn fanned to end the inning.

Great Play Ends Rally

Tarboro offered a last-ditch bid. Manager Henry opened the ninth with a single and Biggie was sent in to run for Henry. Carnahan doubled, Biggie being held at third. Lehman popped to Soufas. Hantz then hit a long fly to center—Longest made a great catch and threw to Mewborn who had dashed out into the outfield to handle the relay, and Mewborn rifled the ball to Rabb to double Carnahan off second. The double-play was completed before Biggie, in no hurry, crossed the plate.

The game-ending double play was one of four made by the Billies and two of them were started by Zak.

There were many fine fielding plays. Pee Wee Myers, Tarboro shortstop, featured on defense for his club, while Walter Rabb, Snow Hill shortfielder, handled 10 chances in nifty fashion. Second-baseman Horse Mewborn handled seven, and third-baseman Robinson included a couple of star plays in his four chances.

Manager Fred Henry, with two for three, and Frankie Ware, with two for four, accounted for half of Tarboro's hits. No Snow Hill player made more than one safety, but Latham and Zak batted 500 on the strength of their long blows.

The Coach's Busy Day...

WORRY

The typical busy autumn day for the football coach begins when a sports writer asks about prospects. The coach assumes a faraway look. He sees no hope. These photos are of Temple's Pop Warner.

POSE

Ingenuous publicity men think up the poses for pictures taken daily. Warner began his fifth year as Temple coach this September. The team gave him a cake football. Hence this action shot.

WORK

There is some time for football in the early days of football training, strange as that may seem. Here Warner, a veteran of many campaigns, explains plays, charted on the blackboard, to his team.

WATCHING

The coach watches while his players lumber up. In this case they are jump-running down a row of auto tires. The coach did this himself once. But he doesn't have to any more.

SLEEP

The coach even sleeps football. Sometimes he gets in a little of that sleeping on the football field—after his strenuous day. Or maybe this is another publicity photo.

HE WAS 5-SPORT STAR AS SCHOOLBOY ATHLETE

State College, Miss., Sept. 6.—(AP)—George (Dogface) Carter a sophomore, was the most versatile in high school of the Mississippi State College gridder.

Carter played football, basketball and baseball; and took part in track and boxing.

Twelve football players took part in four sports in high school.

Shakespeare was the father of twins, Hamnet not Hamlet and Judith. He also had another daughter, Susanna.

CHANGES MADE IN W. F. C. TEAM

Deacons Get Down to Hard Practice For Grid Season

Wake Forest, Sept. 7.—Now that Coach Peashead Walker, Wake Forest's gridiron mentor, and his assistants, Ellis Fyval and Murray Gresson, have had several days in which to get acquainted with members of the Deacon squad, heavy equipment was issued to the boys Monday and real, honest to goodness hard work began with the morning workout that day and the first scrimmage is set for Wednesday afternoon.

Coach Walker has used these first days largely with conditioning his players in order to avoid any undue soreness when the contact work begins and in experimenting with the players as best as was possible without bodily contact.

The first major change made by Walker from the early season dope, is that of assigning to Captain Boots Mumford, scrappy Deacon center the quarterbacking job. Mumford will give the play in the huddle and a backfield man will call the snap signal that the ball will go on after the club has lined up. This move will probably be very wise in that there are no seasoned backs available to direct the team, as graduation sheared the 6 monogram backfield men from the roster last spring. Mumford has picked up 10 pounds in weight since the 1936 season and is now tipping the scales at 170.

Another change Walker has made is that of swinging Harry Beaver, 200 pounder from left to right tackle. He is now pairing with Rupert Pate, a soph., at the tackle posts. Glenn Kerley, a tackle last year, has been moved in to guard and will probably push the new first string men, Rupert Bryan and Roy Evans, two lettermen, before long.

Clem Crabtree, Ray Roberts, and Vernon Sprull are other tackle candidates who may figure in things before the season is very old.

Strangely enough, the game of golf, which offered Johnny Goodman his first opportunity to earn some money, holds no appeal to him as a career. The new amateur champ has no intention of turning professional now that he has achieved his goal.

Johnny was a little shaver when he happened to be passing the Field club in Omaha, Neb., and saw the youngsters trudging along—carrying bags filled with clubs. He inquired about a job and got one. It was natural for him to become interested in the game. It was not long before he was swinging along with the other bag-toters. At first it was a left-handed club. Someone had given him a set of southpaw utensils. They were all he had for a couple of years so for that period he was a left-handed golfer. Later he turned around. But to this day he can go out and shoot a left-handed game and turn in a respectable score.

Johnny wasn't born with a silver spoon in his mouth, as the golfing world well knows. That he has managed to fight his way to the top of the game despite being born on the wrong side of the railroad tracks is a compliment to his perseverance and to his determination. He has had more than his share of bad breaks. A less courageous youth would have dropped by the wayside, long ago.

Goodman first broke into the limelight by trouncing the great Bobby Jones in the 1929 national amateur at Pebble Beach. He won the national open in 1933. But something always happened to thwart his attempts to win the national amateur. He kept right on trying. This year he finally caught up with the title when he downed Ray Billows at Portland, Ore. So now he has joined Jerry Travers, Chick Evans, Francis Ouimet and Bobby Jones as the only men to win both the national open and the national amateur.

All through his march to fame Goodman has carried his favorite war cry, "wham dittle," his expression when a shot pleased him. "Wham dittle" is his slogan. Long may it resound on the golf courses of the land!

Washington (AP)—It's possible that a shortstop again may lead the American league at bat this season.

A year ago Luke Appling of the Chicago White Sox breezed in ahead to become the first shortstop in the league's history to win the hitting crown.

Appling is finding his scarcer these days but another shortstop, gangling Cecil Travis of Washington's Senators, may beat out the Yankees' Lou Gehrig and Joseph DiMaggio for slugging honors.

Travis' average has been in the .380's—just a few percentage points below the bludgeoning Gehrig.

Travis has been a problem child to Owner Clark Griffith ever since he came up from Chattanooga of the Southern Association in 1934.

"If He Could Field"
"I," Griffith often sighs as he talks of Cecil, "if he could only field!"

Travis ranks among the poorest shortfielders defensively, but tops them all at bat.

He came up as a third baseman. But he didn't seem to fit in there, and was tried at short. It was no go. Then he took a whirl at the outfield but, as the baseball boys say, he played it something like a plumber.

Finally, in dire need of a shortstop, Griffith and Manager Bucky Harris elected to put Travis into the slot and let him muddle around in hopes he might finally acclimate himself to the position. There He Stayed. He's been there all season and, although he makes some fine plays that a fielding master would be proud of, it's always a gamble when a ball goes his way.

He hit just around .319 both of his previous full years in the big show. Travis never was a long hitter but is of the sharp hitting variety.

Buddy Myer, Washington's second sacker, who won the 1935 batting championship, predicted a year ago that Travis would soon strike his top stride and lead the hit parade. The Georgian may bear out Myer's forecast.

ties of tobacco are held in storage, have been destroyed by fire, wiping out heavy stocks of tobacco accumulated by China to mix with her native tobacco to give flavor. The British-American plant in Shanghai is intact and if it remains so the American concern will dominate the tobacco field in China—until the war is over and Chinese capital has been able to restore the ruined workings of her native establishments.
