

OFFERINGS ON LOCAL MARKET LEADING BELT

Largest Day of Season on Experienced Here Monday

BETTER QUALITY BOOSTS AVERAGE

Greenville Appears Headed for Regaining Distinction As World's Largest

That the Greenville tobacco market appears headed for regaining its position as the largest auction center in the world is advanced both by the official government figures, covering sales through August, and by yesterday's figures on the local mart.

Offerings yesterday exceeded those of any other day this season—even opening day—when they totalled more than a million and a half pounds. Monday's average also was better than that of any day recently as more good tobacco was offered and less of the poorer types. More than a third of a million dollars was paid to farmers selling their tobacco on the local market yesterday.

Offerings yesterday totalled 1,562,870 pounds and brought $351,335.20, for an official average of $22.48 per hundred pounds.

More than two and one-half million dollars have been paid farmers by the Greenville market this year, $2,623,628.54 having been paid for 12,711,898 pounds of the golden weed for an official general season average of $20.63.

The Federal-Stat crop reporting service yesterday issued its first bulletin of the season, giving figures through August. The statement showed Greenville to be leading the belt in offerings with producers' sales of 3,086,890 pounds through the month. The average listed in the bulletin was $21.99 per hundred pounds, below the belt average, but above several of the market centers.

Official figures for tobacco markets through August were announced yesterday by the State Department of Agriculture as follows:

Markets	Producers' Sales	Average
Anokis	150,646	19.96
Farmville	798,666	22.49
Goldensboro	453,928	20.93
Greenville	3,086,890	21.99
Kinston	2,838,622	21.83
Robersonville	333,612	21.75
Rocky Mount	1,332,028	22.29
Smithfield	490,684	24.23
Tarboro	242,778	20.64
Washington	527,104	22.53
Wallace	171,646	22.91
Williamston	367,156	19.78
Wilson	1,909,540	21.91
Total	12,703,296	21.83

Markets	Producers' Sales	Average
Chadbourn	1,947,988	24.07
Clarkton	970,130	23.63
Blair Bluff	1,347,990	21.85
Farmington	12,465,287	25.42
Lumberton	9,967,070	23.74
Tabor City	1,612,658	23.60
Whiteville	7,158,474	22.59
Total	35,469,597	24.07

Much of the offerings thus far on the market has been jupe and tips, but some good tobacco is being sold here now and the market has assumed a much brighter picture.

The crop reporting service bulletin had the following to say in regard to the tobacco situation this year:

"There were 48,172,893 pounds of producers' tobacco sold on the warehouse floors in North Carolina during August, and the average price of all sales was $23.46 per hundred pounds. Last season the August producers' sales totalled 20,576,369 pounds and the average for all sales was $23.49. Last season only the warehouses in the South Carolina Belt (type 13) operated during August. This year the average price of sales on the border belt was $24.07 as compared with $23.49 last August and the August average this season for the New Bright Belt (type 12) was $21.73 per hundred."

Reports from North Carolina tobacco growers, based on conditions as of Sept. 1, indicate a total production of 559,890,000 pounds this year as compared with 457,375,000 pounds harvested last year and a five-year average crop (1928-32) of 469,135,000 pounds. This crop represents an increase of 22 per cent over that harvested in 1936 and an increase of 19 per cent over the five-year average crop. The condition of tobacco on September 1, reported by growers at 81 per cent of normal, represents an improvement of about 6 per cent over conditions a month ago and is 9 per cent better than conditions on this date last year.

BODY OF CADET FOUND BY SHIP

Tar Heel Flier Located in Wreckage of Plane

Granville, Texas, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The body of Cadet Flier Guy Edgerton, apparently saturated with gasoline from his wrecked plane, caught fire as it lay tangled in the wreckage early today and was partly consumed.

Origin of the blaze was not determined. The plane, missing two weeks, was found late yesterday in a thickly wooded section 12 miles southwest of here, Edgerton, Kenly, N. C., youth was reported lost when a 13-plane training flight scattered in a storm.

The craft, the object of Texas' greatest search, was found by a youth, Isaac Johnson, who was searching for stray shells.

Wreckage of the plane was strewn over an acre of cut-over timber and was not visible from the air. Edgerton had become lost in a flight from Shreveport to San Antonio two weeks ago yesterday.

Seeking Separate Peanut Test Farm

Raleigh, Sept. 14.—(AP)—R. C. Holland of Edenton, president of the peanut stabilization cooperative urged in a letter to Kerr Scott, agriculture commissioner, today that the proposed peanut test farm be made a separate project devoted to peanut and peanut disease research.

Scott will hold a hearing here tomorrow on the proposal and the state farm bureau federation plans to argue that there should be a separate peanut test farm or that the appropriation made by the 1937 legislature for that purpose should be left intact.

E. F. Arnold, executive secretary of the board and members were afraid Scott planned to put the work at one of the present test farms.

Reynolds Foes Draw Hope From State YDC Parleys

By HENRY AVERILL
Raleigh, Sept. 14.—They may be like the little boy who whistles to keep his courage up, but opponents of Senator Robert R. Reynolds who took part in the multitudinous political convention have gone home from Winston-Salem with new optimism (real or synthetic) that they can find a candidate with a chance to beat "Our Bob" next year.

How much of this is real optimism and how much of it is pure wishful thinking cannot yet be determined, but on the surface it seems that Senator Reynolds may yet draw a real rival for his seat.

Among those on whom the Y.D. Boss must have had his tongue in his cheek when he mentioned Br. Glix, he certainly couldn't have been serious. If they keep on long enough, no doubt the Reynolds foes will come up with a candidate.

Relations Broken Off At Gijon With Spanish Rule

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Border, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Anarchists have made a coupe d'etat at Gijon lone Spanish government coastal stronghold in the northwest, and have set up an Asturian dictatorship. Insurgent officers announced at Irún today.

Secret military advisers said Belarmino Tomas, an anarchist, headed the movement. He issued a decree breaking off relations with the Spanish central government and setting up a separate anarchist state in Asturias with himself the dictator.

One of Tomas' first acts was to order the imprisonment of the whole general staff of the Spanish government's retreating northern army.

Moreover, insurgent headquarters at Irún stated, he imprisoned foreign military experts with the government forces.

Several high Spanish officers were ordered executed. Two boats were loaded with Rightist prisoners, the insurgent announcement said.

Inaugurate Drive For Personal Tax

City Clerk and Tax Collector J. O. Duval declared today he had instructions from the Board of Aldermen to proceed with the collection of personal property taxes, even if he had to resort to levy and garnishment methods.

"I hope we will not have to undertake these methods, but personally behind and we have to do something," declared the veteran clerk and tax collector.

Mr. Duval added, however, that collections of these taxes were picking up some and it was possible that the levies would be paid with little trouble.

ASKS PROBE OF JUSTICE BLACK

President Asked To Set Up Investigating Body

New York, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Senator David Walsh (D-Mass.) called on President Roosevelt today to set up an "impartial" investigating committee to study statements that Supreme Court Justice Black holds a "life membership" in the Ku Klux Klan.

Amid a new storm of charges and counter-charges in the controversy, Senator Walsh further asserted Justice Black, newly appointed to the nation's highest judicial tribunal by President Roosevelt, "owes it to the president, the Senate and the country to declare publicly whether he is a member of the Klan."

Justice Black himself, now vacationing in London, neither denied or confirmed his alleged affiliation with the white-hooded "invisible empire."

In Atlanta, Ga., Imperial Wizard Hiram Evans, head of the KKK, declared the Klan "supported" Sen. Royal Copeland (D-N.Y.) in his 1928 senatorial race.

The wizard's statement came in the nature of a backfire on Copeland, who precipitated the controversy by declaring Justice Black "should resign at once" in view of allegations that he is a member of the white-robed secret order.

In an interview at Clinton, Mass., Walsh declared: "The only practical thing that can be done to prevent Justice Black from serving on the United States Supreme Court is through presidential action."

SCHOOLS IN COUNTY BUSY ON CAMPAIGN

Students and teachers of the various schools throughout Pitt county got down to actual work today of earning funds for their libraries or other school purposes through solicitation of subscriptions to The Daily Reflector.

In cooperation with the schools, the paper is offering reduced rates of $3.50 per year to its readers. The schools will be paid a liberal commission on each subscription, old or new, turned in. Thus, a person will be able to get the paper at a saving of 30 per cent and at the same time make a liberal contribution to some worthy school need.

The campaign will continue in some of the schools two weeks, while others are planning a more concerted drive for a shorter period. For instance, Fountain has announced that the drive in that school will last only through this week, closing Friday with the school week.

The various schools are handling the campaign in their own way. In Ayden arrangements have been made for the Junior class to conduct the entire drive for that community.

Japs Splash Through Mud In Massed Attack Against New Chinese Defense Line

MORE REFUGEES SLAIN IN FLIGHT

Chinese Reported Victorious in Major Naval Engagement At Canton Entrance

Shanghai, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The Japanese army splashed forward through a torrential rain today in a mass attack against Chinese second line positions northwest of here.

A Japanese spokesman reported the strong fortifications at the Chinese civic center of Kiangwan had been occupied and the Japanese troops had pushed deep into the delta. The muddy roads were jammed with Japanese reinforcements moving up to bolster the assault against the new Chinese line.

Heavy artillery and tanks slithered across country behind the advancing Japanese infantry in the flooded delta land.

New horror was added to the tragic story of undeclared war at Shanghai when the Chinese central news agency reported 400 civilian war refugees had been killed or wounded by Japanese bombs rained on the sailing boats in which they were fleeing the city. Three of the boats were said to have been sunk and six damaged.

Hongkong, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Chinese war planes and the guns of Boca Tigris forts at the entrance to the Canton river were reported today to have defeated a Japanese fleet in what was described as a major naval engagement.

A spokesman for the Kwantung provincial government said one Japanese war ship was struck squarely on the bridge by a shell and another was belching clouds of smoke where it had been hit by a bomb.

The Japanese fleet of four destroyers and one cruiser attacked the fort protecting the river entrance and the route to Canton at 5 a. m.

Though the warships rained shells around the fort the damage was said to have been negligible.

No Court in County Today Due To Mixup

Although it was announced yesterday that a session of Pitt county court would be held here today, no cases were ready for trial and the tribunal was not even opened.

A term of Superior court was originally scheduled to have been underway here, but when this was called off because of the illness of Judge W. C. Harris of Raleigh, who was to have presided, officials of the county bar decided to go ahead with recorder's court.

Due to the mix up no cases were ready and the day passed with no court having been held.

President Holds Parley With Cabinet Officials

Far Eastern and European Crises Are Chief Topics

Washington, Sept. 14.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, back in Washington today from an 18-day vacation, called in his cabinet to survey recent happenings in the Far East and Europe.

The meeting of the official family was set for 2 p. m. after a luncheon conference with Secretary Hull. Following his recent custom of interviewing overseas travelers in and out of official life, the President also was expected to talk with Governor George Earle of Pennsylvania, just back from Europe. The Governor and Mrs. Earle were invited to tea.

Several important decisions confronted the President on his return.

Meantime domestic mills opened the new cotton season with the largest consumption ever recorded for August, with one exception, the census bureau reported.

Consumption of 694,380 running bales of lint in August, was exceeded only by August 1927, when 637,520 bales were used.

Elsewhere at Washington, the commerce department said Japan purchased $16,000,000 more cotton in the United States in the first eight months of this year than in the similar period last year.

Other developments: Senator King (D-Utah) expressed the opinion congress would find it necessary to lower income tax exemptions so as to reach more taxpayers.

Tax revision is one of the administration's proposals for the next congress session.

Farm leaders brought word to AAA officials that declining crop prices had increased the sentiment on the nation for crop control legislation.

Meeting behind closed doors 100 farm leaders and AAA officials pooled together the jag-saw of a 1938 soil conservation program.

Chairman James Landis of the securities commission handed Pres. Roosevelt his resignation today.

Rehabilitation Program To Continue Operations

The rural rehabilitation supervised loan program will continue as here-to-fore, under the newly established Farm Security administration of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Z. T. Koonce county supervisor in charge of rural rehabilitation work in Pitt and Beaufort counties announced today from his office on the second floor of the Guaranty Bank building.

Dickinson avenue, following assurances received from George S. Mitchell, regional director of the Farm Security administration in Raleigh, N. C.

Mr. Koonce stated that the Bankhead-Jones farm tenant act, which the Farm Security administration will administer, provides for continuation of the rural rehabilitation and farm debt adjustment work which he represents in this section and that he has been instructed to carry on substantially as before, under the new agency.

Rehabilitation loans—accompanied by farm and home management advice from county supervisors—are made by the government to financially distressed farm families who hold out hope of making a comeback—whether on their own land or on rented land—but who are unable to secure proper credit from other sources, to make a crop or to purchase needed livestock and equipment.

In addition to the rural rehabilitation program which will be continued as an important phase of the new agency, the Farm Security administration will conduct the tenant loan program, as provided in the farm tenant act, for the purchase and improvement of farms for selected tenant farmers, and will complete unfinished farmstead projects, including those started by the Resettlement administration, and those turned over to that organization as before, under the new agency.

GOVERNORS OF UNION GATHER

Hoey Delivers Principal Address at Annual Convention

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Governor Hoey of North Carolina told the annual National Conference of Governors here today states could expect further "encroachments" on their powers by the federal government unless they meet public demand for expanded protection and service.

For 30 years or more, Hoey said, the trend has been toward increase of power of larger units of government at the expense of the smaller, and especially in recent years citizens' demand of the federal government services, formerly considered purely local governmental function.

"It is of no effect," he said, "to cry out against these encroachments upon the provinces of local government and this assumption of authority and service by the federal government where the people of the several states have been wildly clamoring for this governmental assistance and demanding enlarged service from the federal government."

He said he chose "not so much to advance my own ideas touching proper state and national boundary lines in governmental service, but rather to recount conditions as we find them and to express the view that the public now demands expanding protection and service, and unless the state is capacitated to meet these needs the federal authority will continue to increase in scope."

More people speak Chinese than any other tongue. It is the language of 400,000,000.

Representation will be in the form of a huge float in the Mardi Gras-like parade which will be held in connection with the carnival on New Year's Day.

Design for the float has been forwarded the carnival sponsors by Paul Kelly, assistant director of the N. C. Department of Conservation and Development, who has been handling most details of the state's advertising program. The design was prepared without extra cost by the advertising company which is handling North Carolina's account.

The float will follow the fashion of such things, being gaily decorated all over, with an effort being made to reproduce with more or less accuracy some of the foliage of this state's trees.

Riding on the float, as is the usual custom, will be a large number of pretty girls dressed in a wide variety of costumes, most of them scanty, appropriate to the many forms of sport and recreation which may be enjoyed in North Carolina.

The Sun Carnival organization will bear all expenses of making the float and operating it in the parade. The advertising program has lately been able to secure a number of prominent layouts and stories in some of the country's most important publications.

Envoys of Nine Nations Sign Historic Document

GREATEST NAVAL DEMONSTRATION

War Vessels of Britain and France Already Steaming Toward Mediterranean

London, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Great Britain more than doubled her Mediterranean fighting strength to hunt down and sink submarine pirates today.

New admiralty orders disclosed she will have 90 warships in the inland sea within a few days, compared with a regular patrol of 42. The latest orders sent 10 men of war from home waters into the Mediterranean to cooperate with an augmented French fleet in the piracy patrol.

Geneva, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The envoys of nine nations signed today at Nyon a historic document to suppress submarine piracy in the Mediterranean—with the war vessels of Great Britain and France already steaming toward what experts called the greatest naval demonstration of its kind ever planned.

The accord deals only with the questions of piratical submarine attacks in the inland sea, attacks which government Spain and Soviet Russia charge flatly to Italy. Italy, not a signatory, today denied this just as flatly.

The League of Nations itself will consider how to deal with other forms of Mediterranean aggression.

Great Britain and France immediately swung into action to concentrate a mighty fleet in the inland sea.

A number of torpedo boats from the French Atlantic fleet with fresh cargoes of supplies, including munitions taken on at Brest, drove quickly toward the Mediterranean patrol posts.

They augment a formidable fleet of British war craft already at Mediterranean stations.

Signatories of the pact besides Britain and France were Russia, Rumania, Turkey, Egypt, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia and Greece.

Community Chest Rotarian Subject

Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, Health Officer, Discusses Proposal Advanced for Local Charity

The idea of a community chest was presented to the Greenville Rotary club last night by Dr. N. Thomas Ennett at the request of the Ministerial association.

The community service committee of the club was immediately indicated to cooperate in the possible creation of the chest.

Dr. Ennett outlined the advantages of a united campaign for all the social agencies in Greenville. He said it would mean a committee of business men studying the budget of each agency, only one appeal, inclusion of no agencies not approved by a committee of leading business men, more economical and time saving, and more efficient in every way for the whole community.

Reverend J. J. Hobbs of the First Methodist church of Wilson, addressed briefly the club as the guest speaker of the attendance committee. He spoke on Rotary as a discoverer of men and developed the theme to show the spirit of Rotary embodies the Spirit of Christ and through that spirit, Rotary discovered men to the real powers latent in them, and thus turned them into useful citizens of the community.

practices and that problem is no longer a bother.

When hens are ranging in the spring and summer, the green grass which they pick up has a tendency to darken the yolks. Yellow corn has the same effect, but to a lesser extent.

Poultrymen who produce dark colored yolks sometimes find the yolks getting too light, especially in the fall or winter when hens are not on the range.

However, poultry husbandmen at the Georgia experiment station found an easy answer to that question. They fed hens a small amount of pimento peppers, and the yolks darkened easily.

Hens confined and fed a ration containing about 40 per cent yellow corn and 4 per cent alfalfa leaf meal will produce eggs with fairly light colored yolks, Parrish said. Or without the meal, they may be fed up to 60 per cent yellow corn.

When hens are on summer range, and feeding them white corn, the color of the yolks will tell a poultryman when he has reached the proper balance between white corn and green range.

Cottonseed meal darkens the yolks but in an objectionable way, Parrish said. It may also give the whites an undesirable pinkish color.

CATTLE PRICES OUTLOOK GOOD

Conservation Program Stimulates Feed Crops

Raleigh, Sept. 14.—An improved outlook for beef cattle breeders was noted today by L. I. Case, extension animal husbandry specialist at State college.

With feeder cattle in strong demand at prices fully $2 higher per hundredweight than a year ago, he said, the man with a good herd of breeding cattle is in a fortunate position.

The agricultural conservation program has stimulated greater production of feed crops, Case pointed out, and this is of distinct advantage to the beef producer.

He commended the growing practice of piedmont and coastal plain farmers in fattening cattle and using the manure for soil improvement.

The outlook for those who buy feeder cattle in the fall to fatten for the late winter and spring market is not quite so clear, Case continued.

Not only is the price of feeder cattle up, he explained, it is probable that the price of grain-fed cattle will not be quite so high in the first half of 1938 as during the first six months of 1937.

Farmers who plan to feed cattle this year will probably find it more profitable to feed fairly heavy cattle of the planter kind, he added.

Such animals can be gotten ready for market earlier, and the prices of the lower grades of cattle are not expected to decline as much as usual. They may not decline at all the remainder of this year, and prices are expected to remain relatively high in the first half of 1938, Case said.

feel at ease and to enjoy their stay here. "While the first duty of the patrolmen is to enforce the highway and traffic laws, their next most important duty is to aid and assist motorists in every way possible," Major Pulk said. "We are also insisting more strongly than ever that the unvarying courtesy must be shown by the patrolmen, even when it is necessary to stop a motorist or even make an arrest. There is no room in the North Carolina patrol either for 'hard boiled' patrolmen or 'hard boiled' tactics. We want both the people in North Carolina and especially the visitors from other states to feel that the patrolmen are their friends and that they will always receive courteous treatment and consideration from them."

Raleigh, Sept. 14.—The 120 members of the State Highway Patrol have been instructed to cooperate in every way possible with the Governor's Hospitality Committee and the Department of Conservation and Development in welcoming visitors from other states as they come into North Carolina and to show them every possible courtesy and consideration while they are in the state. Major Arthur Pulk, commander of the patrol said today.

The impression which a great many visitors will get of North Carolina and of its people will to a large extent be governed by the impression made upon them by the highway patrolmen and the manner in which they are treated by them, Major Pulk believes. For this reason all the patrolmen have been put on notice that they must cooperate to the fullest extent with the other state agencies in their contacts with visitors from other states and do everything possible to make them

Luncheon for Mrs. Hamric.
Mrs. Eugene Hamric, a recent bride, was paid a pretty compliment today when Mrs. Hortense F. Moye and Mrs. Aubrey E. Shackell were charming hostesses at luncheon at the home of Mrs. Moye on Evans street.

The home throughout was artistically decorated in fall shades of red, yellow and bronze.

On arrival at one o'clock guests were welcomed by the hostesses, Mrs. Moye and Mrs. Shackell, and presented to the honor guest, Mrs. Eugene Hamric, her mother, Mrs. W. L. Best, Mrs. E. S. Hamric and Miss Carolyn Hamric.

Mrs. Rose Hadley Moye and Mrs. Joseph S. Moye invited guests to the dining room. The beautifully appointed table was covered with a cloth of Madeira linen and centered with a silver bowl of red roses, flanked by red candles in silver holders.

Seated at opposite ends of the table, Mrs. S. T. White and Mrs. C. S. Forbes served a tempting barbecue luncheon. Assisting in serving were Mrs. George P. Hadley and Mrs. L. A. Brock. Coffee was poured by Mrs. G. B. W. Hadley and Mrs. Thomas McGee.

As a reminder of this lovely affair Mrs. Hamric was presented silver in her selected pattern. About fifty guests were present.

OFFERINGS ON LOCAL MARKET LEADING BELT

(Continued from page one) out the state's tobacco belt were, as a whole favorable to the crop during August particularly so in the Old Bright Belt where much of the crop is still in the fields. No change in the estimate from a month ago was made for the crop in either the New Bright Belt or the Border Belt in this state. The September 1st estimate of the crop indicates the third largest tobacco crop on record for this state, this being exceeded only by the crops of 1930 and 1935.

Based on conditions reported by growers as of September 1st, the total flue-cured crop, covering the five South Atlantic States, was indicated at 809,743,000 pounds, compared with 682,850,000 pounds produced in 1936, and a five-year average crop of 679,540,000 pounds. This crop represents an increase over last year's harvest of about 18.6 per cent, and is about 19.2 per cent more than the five-year average crop. The good rains occurring during August resulted in considerable improvement in the Old Bright Belt of Virginia and North Carolina.

REHABILITATION PROGRAM TO CONTINUE OPERATION

Details concerning the handling of applications for the new tenant loans will be announced later by the regional office, Mr. Koonce has been advised.

Land use planning and submarginal land purchase activities, further provided for in the Bankhead-Jones act, have been entrusted by the secretary of agriculture to the bureau of agricultural economics. This means that former land utilization work and that to be carried out under the new act will be continued through a land utilization division under the bureau of agricultural economics, while the Farm Security administration will conduct the tenant purchase and rural rehabilitation programs and complete farmstead projects now under development.

Thus, the functions of the former Resettlement administration and those added by the farm tenant act have been divided between the Farm Security administration and the bureau of agricultural economics, according to the statement received by Mr. Koonce from the regional office.

NEWTON SEEKS TO BOOST LINE

Only Few More Days Remaining Before First Game

Raleigh, Sept. 14.—In the few days that remain before he sends his first N. C. State Wolfpack against Davidson college, Coach Williams (Doc) Newton will seek to gain more line drive and better timing in the backfield.

The intrasquad scrimmage in the State camp last Saturday was satisfactory, Newton said, but plainly showed the need of more drive and better timing.

State meets Davidson in Greensboro, Saturday night, September 18, in the first Big Five game of the season.

Since drills began September 1, Newton has drilled his players both morning and afternoon. Beginning tomorrow, only afternoon sessions will be conducted as upperclassmen register tomorrow morning for the fall's school work.

Newton's starting backfield Saturday night will most likely list Eddie Berlinski and George Murphy, seniors, and Fred Gardner and Arthur Rooney, sophomores. This was his first string combination for the intrasquad game last Saturday.

Rooney and Berlinski are the speedy boys of the backfield and will contest Davidson's Terry Lafferty for backfield honors. Rooney and Berlinski will do most of States kicking and passing.

A probable starting State line is: Jess Tatum and Connie Mac Berry, ends; George Fry and E. V. Helms, tackles; Bunnie Hines and Dan Piloseno, guards, and Louie Mark, center.

Electric Devices Used Extensively By Rural Citizens

Only About Half Those Who Express Interest in Power Lines, However, Have Homes Wired

Raleigh, Sept. 13.—Only about half the rural folks who say they are interested in electrification will take the service after the lines are built, but this half will use more electrical appliances than all those who expressed interest estimated they would use, if a recent survey of 54 miles recently completed in Currituck county is a true yardstick.

A survey of prospective customers was made in 1934, each one of the 400 persons who said they would be interested listing the appliances he thought he would use if electricity were supplied. Recently a survey has been made by the state REA of the 54 miles of line completed within the last year and a complete tabulation of customers and appliances actually in use has been made.

This survey showed that of the 400 interested persons, only 190 have actually become customers of the Virginia Electric and Power Co., builder of the lines; but on the other hand, these 190 customers are now actually using a total of 783 electrical appliances while the remaining 400 proposed customers only estimated that they would use 600 appliance units.

REA officials feel that the total both of users and appliance units will increase rapidly, as the 54 miles of line makes electricity available to 486 buildings in Currituck.

Tabulation of the appliance units estimated in 1934 and actually bought since building the lines show several interesting facts. The 400 people surveyed in 1934 said they would probably take 90 electric refrigerators, the 190 actually getting power have bought 89; 196 radios were listed as to be bought, 180 actually have been purchased; nobody said he'd get an electric heater when the survey was made in 1934, 12 have actually bought them; only 5 thought they'd want electric toasters, 48 now have them.

Currituck was taken for the survey because it is really rural, if any county is, as it does not have even one incorporated town.

NO-HITTER? IT'S EASY FOR KENTUCKY HURLER

Chicago, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Norbert (Cyclone) Warken, from the hills of Kentucky, today achieved the remarkable accomplishment of pitching two no-hit games in succession in the national softball championships.

Warken, pitching for a Mayfield, Ky. team first shut out Little Rock 6 to 0 and then came back to defeat Grand Forks, 2 to 0. He turned in the first perfect game in tournament history when he did not allow a runner to reach first base in defeating the team from Little Rock. He fanned 14 of the 21 men to face him.

North Carolina State will elect a game captain for its tilt with Davidson College in Greensboro, Saturday night, September 18. The Wolfpack does not have a season captain.

Press box tickets for the working press for the State-Davidson tilt at Greensboro, Saturday night, are being handled by Laurence Leonard, sports editor of the Greensboro Daily News.

When football teams of N. C. State and Davidson open the Big Five football schedule in Greensboro, Saturday night, September 18, the schools will be meeting for the 30th time on the gridiron. In previous games State was the winner 17 times, Davidson eight, and four resulted in ties.

N. C. Hunters To Have Fun Soon

Raleigh, Sept. 13.—Red circles should be put around numerous dates on the calendar to help sportsmen remember that in North Carolina some of the most popular shooting in the country can be indulged in, the world in general has been informed by "Bill" Sharpe, one of the ballyhoosers of the state's advertising campaign.

"But before mutilation of the calendar begins, here is an interesting prelude," writes Mr. Sharpe. "Marsh hens, rails, gallinules and dora. The season on these spindleg-legged, still-walking shorebirds began on September 1, and will continue through November 30."

On the fifteenth of September the first of two dove seasons with powder and shot angle skyward at these speeding darts all over the state. The seasons are from September 15 to October 15 and from December 20 to January 31.

While "doodling" on the calendar, says Mr. Sharpe, heavy circles should go around October 1 to emphasize the beginning of the deer hunting season, and bear and squirrel hunting in the eastern counties. Deer are reported more numerous in North Carolina than for many years.

The day for the upland game birds—quail and wild turkey—arrives November 30. The eastern swamp lands and forests and several areas of the Piedmont furnish some of the best wild turkey hunting in the country. The season on these two great upland birds extends through February 15.

Federal regulations apply to North Carolina's migratory waterfowl season, which opens on November 27. Uncle Sam has spoken and there will be no Thanksgiving shooting this year. Hunters may bang away at waterfowl through December 25.

Big League Umps Yearn For Peace After Busiest Season In Decade

Nowadays the umpire's boss and if the boys don't like his attitude they can take a walk—but it'll cost them. In the "good old days" the ump was always wrong.

witnessed. Pictures of militant batsmen calling the ball-and-strike judge a bum have appeared with astounding regularity in the daily papers since April.

Since 1910 big league umpires have gone about their tasks with one idea in mind—to keep the baseball game moving. In so doing they see that the thousands of customers, who each year spend millions of dollars to see the spectacles, get their money's worth.

When Dizzy Dean and Jimmy Ripple drew $50 fines for their leading roles in the Cardinals-Giants fracas at St. Louis some months ago the country's papers front-paged the incident. When Barleigh Grimes was soaked $50 for umpire-baiting early this season he made the editorial pages in the press. Why? Well, such things aren't supposed to happen any more.

In the old days it was different. Half the populace went to ball games to see two teams play the game; the other half went to bait the umpire—or so it seemed. In those times "Kill the umpire" was the unfailing alibi for the home team's defeat. Then 50 per cent of all baseball was put on. This consisted mainly of players fighting the umpire, fighting their opponents sharpening their spikes, calling in the "gas house gang" when the going got too tough. It went over well.

The late John McGraw, sworn enemy of umpires along with his contemporary, Ty Cobb, banned an umpire from the park on one occasion. After his giants had forfeited one game, accordingly the president of the National league escorted the umpires into the park the following day.

It wasn't always umpires. During the mauve decade one man presided in all departments. Naturally it was impossible for him to be right every time. Then, from about 1905 until 1915, two men officiated. Since that time there have been at least three umpires on duty in all major league contests. Result: greater accuracy, greater safety.

It's not an easy life—this calling them-as-you-see-'em. Sometimes a man will make 300 decisions in one afternoon. He doesn't dare let down for a minute. And it takes an enormous amount of self-control to speak quietly to an enraged player while anger leads him to insult the umpire, the umpire's family and all his ancestors.

Scenes like those pictured here were common during the season now approaching its close. There may be more before the last game of the World's Series closes the baseball show until 1938.

The umpire, looking forward to their winter "Vacations," fervently hope not.

Lou Gehrig and his Yankee mates have kept American league arbiters busy this year.

Umpire Ballanfant has all he can do to answer both players at once in this little scene. The boys may have been right—but they lost. If they're wrong too often they land on the bench.

Bill Terry, player and manager, looks like this when he protests a decision—but you oughta hear him.

In the old days this would have marked the beginning of a grand free-for-all, but this little episode ended peacefully for the players and two ump.

SITTING PRETTY -By Pap'

Spot & Slants -By PAP'

At thirty-nine, Bill Terry is "Sitting Pretty." With a five-year contract calling for something like $40,000 a year, he is the highest salaried manager in baseball. Of course, the big boost in salary he received when the Giants' owner tore up his old contract which had a year to run places him in charge of the Giants' growing farm system as well as continuing as bench manager. And that means that Bill will very likely earn the money he receives.

Terry rapid climb since John McGraw made him manager in 1932 can be attributed to one thing—he has made himself indispensable to the Giants. He alone knows where to find things and what to do with them after he finds them. Not even John McGraw enjoyed the power that is Terry's.

No one can ever so much as hint that "handshaking" on the part of

BABY CHICK SHIPMENTS WILL BE REGULATED

Washington (AP)—The postoffice department is all hot and bothered over the C.O.D. day-old-live-chick business.

For some unexplained reason some shippers of that chirping commodity have been sending cargoes to fictitious addresses and persons who have not ordered them.

All postal officials can do in such a case is feed the chicks and talk to themselves. So from now on, a shipper of day-old live chicks will have to prove there's going to be a guardian on the other end of the line.

Two sophomores, Arthur Rooney and Fred Gardner, are expected to be in N. C. State's starting backfield when State meets Davidson in Greensboro Saturday.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Reflector Bureau.
 Raleigh, Sept. 14.—It will be at least thirty days yet before any figures will be available to show how much the new excise tax on building material produced by way of revenue in July, the first month in which it was collected. Reason, according to Bob Ward, chief of accounts for the Revenue Department, is the new central filing system being put into use by his division. It seems this will hold up matters for quite a spell.

Interest in these figures is due largely to the fight made on the new tax in the 1937 legislature. Too, it cannot be determined just how much effect exemption of basic food items had on sales tax receipts until the total shown by the Department (collected in August) has been broken down into its component parts. The report listed $844,050.13 as "Sales Tax" but this included the building material tax as well as the normal sales levies.

Director R. Bruce Etheridge and Chief Engineer T. S. Johnson, of the Department of Conservation and Development, and Assistant Attorney General T. Wade Bruton are expected back Tuesday from Washington where Monday they attended the Power Commission hearing on the Tuckertown project of the Carolina Aluminum Company to build a plant on the Yadkin river.

"So they'll have Four Roses at Four Oaks," commented one wag on permission of the Liquor Board for opening of a liquor store at the Johnston county town.

North Carolina recently rated streamer position in a full-page layout of pictures in the New York Times. The Christian Science Monitor of Boston, gave the state an article illustrated with colored photos. The Cincinnati Times-Star ran a three-column cut of Hanging Rock.

Did you ever blow up a caterpillar? It looked interesting while Dr. C. S. Brimley, curator of the state museum was doing it. He had skinned the largest caterpillar ever caught in North Carolina and was keeping the skin inflated until it dried and would then remain natural looking. He said he would have to keep right on pumping periodically for something like two hours.

Louis Wilson, publications officer of the State Department of Agriculture, unlimbered his trusty kodak and took several shots of the big insect of which photos will soon be available.

Those who attended the Young Democratic convention at Winston-Salem say that practically all the harmony connected with the meeting was on the surface. Sub rosa, sotto voce and aside there were plenty of nasty remarks made, 'tis reported.

Also it is said that there was plenty of liquor, though it was of bad quality.

In "North Carolina Today" the advertising committee was scrupulous to show waterside scenes both at Morehead City and Wilmington, one beside the other.

"IS IT GOOD BUSINESS TO BUY COSTLIER TOBACCOS FOR CAMELS?" — A QUESTION ASKED BY MANY PEOPLE

ANSWER: Camels are the Largest-Selling cigarette in America

Think of what this means! The greatest pleasure for the greatest number of smokers ever given by any cigarette

And this didn't happen by chance. Camels are the largest-selling cigarette in America—and in the world—because people can and do appreciate costlier tobaccos. Smokers trust those finer tobaccos in Camels to give them more of what they want in smoking. And that makes Camel's policy of spending millions of dollars more for costlier tobacco "good business." If you are not a Camel smoker, try them. Millions have given Camels the severest test—smoked them steadily—and have found more pleasure in Camel's costlier tobaccos.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS IN A MATCHLESS BLEND
 Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic. The skillful blending brings out the full, delicate flavor and mildness of these choice tobaccos.

Testimonials:
 "I have taken my share of big fish—marrin and tuna. I know what a rod-and-reel contest with these heavy fighters does to a man's energy. When I've gotten a big fellow safely landed, my next move is to light a Camel. A Camel very quickly gives me an invigorating 'lift.'" (Signed) REX BEACH, famous novelist and sportsman
 "Camel's rich, delicate flavor appeals to a woman's taste. I smoke nothing else. So many of the girls in our crowd feel the way I do about Camel's being extra-gentle to the throat." (Signed) JOSELYN LIBBY, private secretary
 "I can tell Camels are made from mighty fine tobaccos. There's a slight more goodness in 'em for one thing—real natural flavor that doesn't tire my taste. No sir! Camels come in handy, too, at the table. I like my Camels at mealtimes. They help my digestion keep on an even keel." (Signed) GEORGE BUCKINGHAM, ship's engineer
 "No wonder so many billiard champions, myself included, prefer Camels. I've smoked Camels for a long time. I say it was a happy day for me when I turned to Camels. For I found I could smoke a lot and never have 'edgy' nerves. I want to compliment Camels on their mildness!" WILLIE HOPPE, famous billiard champ.
 "I love the taste of a Camel. They're so mild. Even after steady smoking I notice no 'cigarrotty' after-taste." (Signed) MRS. ANTHONY J. DREXEL 3d.

 Washington, Sept. 13.—(AP)—In war-time gassing there is protection against tuberculosis, according to George E. Miller in the Chemical Warfare Bulletin.
 He quotes the surgeon general of the United States report of 1920 that the tuberculosis rate among 70,322 gassed in 1918 was 2.46 per cent.
 The same year the rate was 3.50 among those serving in France but not gassed. The next year among the non-gassed...

SYNOPSIS: Abducted from Baltimore on Prescott Fanning's yacht, Janet gets word to Neill, a young federal agent who loves her. He dashes to Absalom's Harbor, boards the yacht and finds, in a locked cabin, Fanning-shot dead and Janet in a faint, a gun beside her. Neill hides her nearby in a disused liner, then joins Mark Bonniger, keen local investigator, to keep tabs on developments. He thinks Janet shot Fanning until he learns a man was hiding in a closet on the yacht. Then he suspects, and quizzes queer little Eyster, who hated Fanning. Also in the picture are Kettering, a Baltimore lawyer down to fish, and Ira Buckless, a tough who has been trailing Neill.

Chapter 26

Following Eyster's Clue

FANNING used to go to a fine apartment house on Charles Street Avenue," Eyster said. "Sometimes I seen him go in. Sometimes I picked him up coming out. I don't know who he went to see there. I got thrown out when I went in to ask. I wasn't the kind of looking guy who could go in such a house. But you could."

This sounded like a valuable lead to Neill. "What's the number of the house?" he asked.

"3420 Charles Street Avenue." Neill made a mental note of the number. He took out his pipe and blew through it. "Stopped up. Got anything to clean it with?"

"I use a nail," Eyster said, grinning. "You'll find it or the bureau."

When he got his pipe going, Neill said: "Well, I must be moving on." "Don't go!" pleaded Eyster. "Tell me more about Fanning. Did he see you coming? Did he say anything?"

Prudence warned Neill to string him along. "Don't like to talk about it," he muttered.

A look of doubt appeared in Eyster's face. "It was you smoked Fanning, wasn't it?"

"You wouldn't expect me to admit it in so many words, would you?" Neill answered grinning. Eyster's face cleared. "No. No! You don't have to admit anything to me, fellow! You're all right! You're a grand guy!"

Neill went downstairs rubbing his lip. The theory that he had so hopefully erected on the way up was already tottering. But it had not fallen. He was far from convinced that Eyster had not shot Fanning.

He found Bonniger in the little office back of the store, engulfed in the detail of his job. Messengers were continually coming and going, reports arriving from the local search parties and by phone from the state police in other counties. Bonniger was making arrangements to have the harbor dragged for a body.

Neill's whole attitude toward the case had changed now. Satisfied that Janet was in no way implicated, he was as keen to solve the mystery as Bonniger was. Also, now he could let his real liking for Bonniger come out.

"Look, Mark," he said. "If we could find out what Fanning was up to in Baltimore, it would be a long step forward. It would lead us direct to the solution."

"Well, I'm not sure I can go as far as that with you," Bonniger said, smiling at his enthusiasm. "But at that, it's important I have a man on the job, but he hasn't got anywhere."

"Suppose I go up to town and look into it, outside of what anybody else is doing," said Neill. "Fanning had become a kind of public figure and I ought to be able to pick up something."

"Certainly is good of you to suggest it," said Bonniger. "I hate to cut in on your vacation."

"Not at all," said Neill. "I'm interested in this."

"All right, I'll give you a police car and a constable to drive you. Get something to eat first."

The Stoop-Shouldered Man

NEILL ordered an early lunch in the hotel, and sat down to eat it in such a position that he could watch all who came and went in the lobby adjoining. It was a curiously assorted crowd—villagers, county people, newspaper men and plain jays.

Finally his search was rewarded. Through the door from outside came a great hulking figure with a head disproportionately small, and repulsive flattened features. As soon as Neill laid eyes on him he guessed that this was his man. When the milling crowd opened sufficiently for him to get a look at his feet, he saw crumbs of loose earth clinging to the big shoes. Then he was sure.

The man pushed through to the desk to ask a question and afterwards turned to enter the bar on the other side where beer and soft drinks were sold. When he presented his back Neill received another shock. He had seen that back before, with shoulders so heavy they were bowed under their own weight, letting the arms hang down in front like an ape's. The stoop-shouldered man! Here was the substance of the shadow that had dogged Neill from the start. He had not yet spotted Neill. A solitary, sullen man. He spoke to nobody and when others good-naturedly joshed his size, he made believe not to hear. He drank his beer alone. Probably playing a lone hand, Neill figured. Eyster knows him, but he is in terror of him. Certainly it must have been one or another of these two who had shot Fanning.

When he had finished eating, Neill strolled out and paused at the desk. "Wickesy," he asked "who is the big fellow at the bar—the stoop-shouldered man?"

"That's the guy you was asking about this morning, Ira Buckless is the name."

"When did he come?"

"Late Tuesday night."

"How did he get to Absalom's?"

"I couldn't tell you, mister. I just see him walk in the door." The hotel keeper's face sharpened with curiosity. "Why do you ask?"

"Oh, nothing. Thought I had seen him before somewhere."

As Neill made his way to the door, Buckless happened to turn and their eyes met. An ugly look came into the big man's face; his tired and defiance. That look said: "Well, you know me and I know you! What are you going to do about it? And Neill had to take it. He and Janet were in this man's power."

He paused on the porch to think things through. He was not so keen to go to Baltimore. Still, he thought, it's clear that Buckless isn't afraid of me. He's not going to run away. I'll only be gone a few hours and I may be able to bring back the proof I need. He went down the steps.

A Rich Old Lady

AT TWO o'clock Neill was deposited at the door of a handsome modern apartment house on Baltimore's finest street. The doorman and the elevator boy were negroes. Neill showed them the photographs of Fanning, but they shook their heads. Never had seen such a person, they said. After all, the photographs of a dead man do not convey much.

"I know he was a frequent visitor to somebody in this house," said Neill. "Picture a man six feet two in height, slim and broad shouldered, black hair and eyes, rosy skin, very fine looking. Always elegantly dressed, fond of unusual shirts and cravats."

The two negroes glanced at each other, grinning. "Miss Rayner's friend," they said.

"Who is Miss Rayner?"

"Don't you know Miss Emma Rayner, boss? Everybody know her. One of the richest women in Baltimore. She real old now, and never goes out no more." They looked at the photographs again. "That's the gentleman what come to see her all right, but he look different when he's dead."

"Well, most of us do," said Neill.

"What name did he give when he came here?"

"Didn't give no name."

"Don't you have to send the names up?"

"Yes sir, boss. But the first time he come somebody brought him, and after that we was told to show him up whenever he come."

"What other gentlemen callers has Miss Rayner had recently?"

"Nobody but her lawyer, Mr. Osgood, and her agent, Mr. Barney."

Neill made a memo. "Well, show me up now," he said.

The negroes hesitated, but he faced them down. The door of Miss Rayner's apartment was opened by a neat colored maid.

"Do Miss Rayner know you?" she asked.

"No."

"Taint no use then. Miss Rayner see no gentlemen callers she don't know."

"Tell her it is somebody from Mr. Prescott Fanning."

She presently returned saying: "Please to step this way, sir."

Neill was introduced to an immense living room crowded from end to end with the furnishings and gimcracks that old ladies like to gather around them. Though it was a fine June day, all the windows were closed and there was a little wood fire burning. At first he thought he was alone in the room, but presently he distinguished a tiny figure buried in a deep chair before the fire. She looked about 80, but her sunken cheeks were bravely painted and she wore an elaborately curled auburn wig.

"You come from Mr. Fanning?" she said eagerly. "I was expecting to hear from him."

Neill was considerably taken aback, because she spoke of Fanning in the present tense. "He was a friend of yours?" he stammered.

"I know him, certainly. What word have you brought me?"

This was uncanny. "How long have you known him?" asked Neill, sparing for time.

"Oh, several months," she said impatiently. "What's that got to do with it?"

"Who introduced you to him?"

Miss Rayner sat up. "Young man, I don't know you. I don't propose to be cross-examined by a stranger in my own house! Who are you and what do you want?"

Porpoises Escape BOW AND ARROW

Juneau, Alaska (AP)—The attempt of L. A. Phillips of Sacramento to hunt porpoises with a bow and arrow was not a success.

Though he found plenty of quarry in a cruise on his yacht Kiki, he discovered the fish were powerful enough to break the tow line attached to the arrows. He described them as battlers as game as swordfish.

HISTORIC HOUSE GOING ON CRUISE

Warsaw (AP)—The German house in which the late Marshal Pilsudski once was a prisoner, is going on a cruise.

During a recent visit of the Polish veterans' leader, General Roman Gorecki, the lord mayor of Madgeburg offered the house to Poland as a gift. This was hailed in Poland as a chivalrous gesture.

The house is to be taken apart in Madgeburg and loaded on barges which will carry it up the Elbe to Hamburg. Thence the dismembered building will travel via the North Sea Kiel canal and Baltic sea to Danzig, and from Danzig up the Vistula to Warsaw.

"MISS AMERICA" ABDICATES

Spurning fame and fortune, Beette Cooper, of Hackettstown, N. J., "Miss America of 1937," has chosen a college career in preference to the rewards which the beauty prize would have brought her. Atlantic City beauty contest officials waited in vain for her to mount her throne, as did "Miss North Carolina," third-place winner, and "Miss Miami."

Cherokee Opposition May Block Blue Ridge Parkway

Raleigh, Sept. 14.—Opposition of many, perhaps a majority, of the Cherokee Indians to a proposed swap of land with the United States government looms as a serious threat to the Blue Ridge Parkway through the North Carolina section of Smoky Mountain National park.

Reports from visitors to the Cherokee reservation indicate that there is vigorous opposition among the Indians to the plan whereby the redskins would trade a right of way through their farm lands along Soco creek for 15,000 acres of valley land now owned by the federal change for the right of way as well as the big revenues which would naturally come to them from thousands of tourists passing through.

Should the election be held and the swap defeated, then there would be a strong possibility that the federal government would re-route the parkway in such a manner that it would run mostly through Tennessee. In view of this there is an apparent desire on the part of those wanting the right of way through the reservation to hold no election at all, because under the Weaver bill the poll must be called within 60 days of its enactment. If no election is held then the whole matter will rest with the tribal council.

Washington's death is ascribed to exposure during a horseback ride in a storm.
