Two Powers Rush Naval Activities In Mediterranean

First Contingent Of Destroyers Sail From England

INTIMATED ITALY MUST MOVE NEXT

Neither Britain Nor France Has Any Intentions of Addressing Further Notes

London, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Great Britain and France rushed their Mediterranean naval activities to virtually a war-time basis today and intimated Italy must make the next move if she wants to join an "anti-piracy patrol" in the inland seas.

The two powers took the stand that any Italian suggestion, including Duce's demand for patrol parity, would be "considered."

But neither England nor France had any intention of addressing further requests to Rome for collaboration.

Thus the Italian demand for equality in the new Mediterranean patrol scheme remained in a tense diplomatic impasse.

Weighted with powerful depth charges and torpedoes, a mighty Anglo-French armada was mobilized to stop for good all Mediterranean pirate submarine attacks on neutral shipping. War planes became the "eyes" of the fleet.

The first contingent of destroyers to reinforce the vast Anglo-French piracy patrol sped from England toward Europe's trouble-fraught "back yard."

The five long, narrow fighting craft carried triple loads of depth charges and a full supply of torpedoes with which it is necessary to class belligerent submarines out of Mediterranean trade routes.

The munition cargoes were remnants of world war days when Britain battled to prevent German U-boats from cutting off her food supply.

Britain was building her Mediterranean fleet up to 90 ships, counting the 42 on regular duty. She and France, as her co-partner in the unprecedented job of policing main sea lanes, will have more than 150 vessels on guard against the under sea threat to European peace, already menaced for 14 months by war on the Spanish peninsula.

Navy yard sailors worked day and night loading tons of munitions on Britain's fighters.

Premium List For N. C. Fair Carries Prizes Of $14,000

Directors Appointed For 16 Exhibit Departments of Exposition To Be Held October 12-16

Raleigh, Sept. 16.—Premiums aggregating $14,000 will be offered successful exhibitors at the North Carolina State Fair October 12-16, Manager J. S. Dorton announced today.

Reflecting Bureau Raleigh, Sept. 16.—Premiums aggregating $14,000 will be offered successful exhibitors at the North Carolina State Fair October 12-16, Manager J. S. Dorton announced today.

At the same time he appointed directors of the 16 exhibit departments which the fair will present at the handsome fairgrounds near Raleigh. As in the past several years, Dr. Fred E. Miller of the State Department of Agriculture will be general superintendent of all the departments.

Manager Dorton said the total prize money represents an increase of more than 10 per cent over last year's aggregate offerings. Furthermore, the money will be limited strictly to North Carolina producers, thus eliminating the professional competition of exhibitors who "make" all of the fair circuits.

Report Filed For Tuberculosis Fund

Mrs. K. B. Pace, treasurer of the Pitt County Tuberculosis Christmas Seal Sale Fund, has just released, through the Pitt County Health department, a report on the expenditures for the month of June, July and August.

The report reveals that, among other things, 33 X-rays have been made in the case of indigent tuberculosis cases and about 615 quarts of milk furnished to persons suffering from tuberculosis who were unable to provide milk for themselves.

The health officer stated that the seal sale is making possible certain tuberculosis control measures highly important in the matter of protecting the public against this disease and he further states, in commenting on the contagiousness of tuberculosis, that "none are safe unless all are safe."

PITT WELFARE REPORT FILED

Officer Reviews Major Undertakings Since July 1st

K. T. Putrell, public welfare officer for Pitt county, today released a statement showing the various activities undertaken since the beginning of the fiscal year.

The statement follows: The major activities of the welfare department since July 1st have been: establishing claims for Old Age Assistance, aid for dependent children, assistance for the blind, supervision of paroled prisoners, issuing employment cards for minors, juvenile probation work, tubercular isolation work, state agency for crippled children, rehabilitation department, finding homes for homeless children, instituting adoption proceedings, and making about 100 outside investigations, also making arrangements for 63 persons to obtain hospitalization. Beginning with the new fiscal year of July 1st additional duties were added to the welfare department: administration of the Social Security program as it affected the aged indigent people, aid for dependent children under sixteen years of age, and assistance for the indigent blind.

Through August, 130 applications for Old Age Assistance had been verified and approved by the Pitt county welfare board. These grants will provide for 143 persons. When a husband and wife are both eligible, one application is filed with a budget large enough for two. A survey was made in 1935 to determine as nearly as possible the number eligible for Old Age Assistance under the Social Security Law. It was finally determined by this survey that approximately 444 persons were eligible in Pitt county. It is now believed the number eligible in 1936 will exceed the original quota. A survey of the blind made in 1936 for the state commission for the blind reported 64 totally blind persons or ones whose vision was so impaired that they were unemployable. Middle Markets Report Farmers Seem Satisfied

Durham, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Reports from the tobacco markets of the middle belt which opened today told of estimated prices averaging 24 to 28 cents a pound and described growers as satisfied with their returns.

Early prices here, the largest market in the belt, averaged 25 cents with sales of 900,000 pounds predicted for the first day. From 1,300,000 to 1,500,000 pounds were on the floors.

At Carthage, with 200,000 pounds on sale, prices were estimated at noon at 26 cents.

At Louisburg, unofficial estimates placed offerings at 150,000 pounds and the average at 27.

At Oxford the tobacco was averaging 25 cents a pound for about 300,000 pounds.

No One Injured In Three Minor Auto Wrecks Near City

N. O. Van Nortwick and Tarboro Attorney Involved In Accident Near Fleming's Cross Roads

N. O. Van Nortwick, owner of the Northside Lumber company, and George M. Fountain, Jr., Tarboro attorney, escaped injuries when their automobiles collided near Fleming's Crossroads last night about 8 o'clock, but both vehicles were badly damaged.

Corporal L. L. Jackson, who investigated the wreck, declared that Mr. Van Nortwick was traveling in the direction of Bethel and Mr. Fountain toward Greenville when the two vehicles collided. Both men were riding alone at the time of the accident.

Two other minor wrecks were reported in this section, but no one was injured in either and no official investigations were made as the cars had been removed before officers arrived. One occurred near the Serve-U filling station when a big oil truck and an automobile collided. The truck caught fire, it was reported, but the blaze was quickly extinguished. The other accident occurred near the flying field when the steering apparatus of an automobile broke and the vehicle nearly ran into a group of Negroes.

Advertising Censorship Reopens Row Over Liquor

Raleigh, Sept. 16.—Announcement by the state liquor board that it will in the future censor all liquor advertising in the state's newspapers has confirmed three suspicions:

(1) That the state board believes it has almost unlimited authority to control operation of liquor stores.

(2) That there is now, and likely will continue to be, a deep resentment on the part of the county boards, or a number of them, at least, against state control.

(3) That Thomas E. Cooper, mayor of Wilmington, wants to be governor of North Carolina, and that he is laying the groundwork for a vigorous campaign for that post on a "Down with the Raleigh Gang" platform.

Special Officers Hard On 'Leggers'

Dr. Charles O'H. Horne, chairman of the Pitt County ABC board today revealed recent activities of the law enforcement division, showing the officers had been hard on the heels of illicit dealers in the contraband.

Officers of Pitt and Beaufort counties arrested J. S. Collier of Franklin county with 180 gallons of non tax paid whiskey after a chase near Pactolus. The report also revealed that officers of the two counties destroyed three stills, with about 25 gallons of whiskey and 4,000 gallons of mash.

Local Firemen Called Answer False Alarm

Firemen were aroused from their slumbers last night by the first fire alarm in some time, but the call turned out to be false and the only loss was sleep.

The alarm came in from box 42 on West Fifth street.

Advertising Censorship Reopens Row Over Liquor

Mayor Cooper, who had termed the board's advertising action "insane," Mr. Moore pointed to sub-section (m) of Section 3 of the ABC act which says that the state board shall have "all other powers which may be reasonably implied from the granting of express powers... together with such other powers as may be incidental to, or convenient for carrying out... powers and duties herein given to said board."

He stressed the fact that the board will not hesitate to exercise the powers it has, but declared that it intends no abridgment of the freedom of speech and press. He also said he believes liquor houses will gladly submit to censorship.

The second point needs little said, as its truth is almost universally conceded.

Governors Guests At White House

List Includes Governor Lehman of New York, Who Opposed Court Bill; Other Washington Developments

Washington, Sept. 16.—(AP)—President Roosevelt invited 17 governors to the White House for luncheon today. They have been attending a conference in Atlantic City.

The list included Governor Herbert Lehman of New York, who took issue with the chief executive over the President's court bill. It was the first meeting of the two since the split of the two old friends.

Governor Nice of Maryland was invited, but telegraphed that he was ill and would be unable to attend.

Meanwhile in Washington, Morrison Shafroth said he had been forced out of his position as chief counsel for the Internal Revenue Bureau because he refused to join in the recent investigation of tax avoidance and evasion.

Shortly after Shafroth's resignation had been announced by Secretary Morgenthau, Shafroth issued a brief statement saying he and his assistant, Russell Ryan, had been given "the choice of participating in the presentation of the names (of alleged tax evaders and avoiders) or resigning. As a result, Shafroth said, "we tendered our resignations on the 28th of June, 1937."

Other developments: Charles Cropley, clerk of the Supreme Court, disclosed Hugo Black already has complied with the legal requirements of becoming a Supreme Court justice by taking a dual oath.

John Biggers, president of the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company accepted the job of administrator of the unemployment census.

Advocates of an acreage limitation proposal said it has the general approval of 120 farm committeemen here for conference on the 1938 crop control legislation.

COTTON HANDS HIGHWAY BODY SCARCE IN GA. HOLDS SESSION

Farmer Patrol Stands Guard in Warren County Fields

Warrenton, Ga., Sept. 16.—(AP)—A farmer patrol stood watch today in Warren county against invading trucks seeking Negro cotton pickers.

Sheriff C. P. Hogan said the patrol represented the county's "peaceful way" of stopping Glascock county farmers from raiding Warren cotton fields for help.

The patrol, a group of men with an automobile, will be on the lookout for trucks from Glascock and adjoining counties. Sheriff Hogan said, and will follow those spotted. If the truck stops and an attempt is made by the driver to entice Negroes away, "we will tell the Negroes it is an 'out county' truck and to leave it alone," he said.

Neither the sheriff or Warren nor Sheriff J. L. Kitchens of Glascock anticipated any trouble.

Hogan said Tuesday some Glascock farmers offered the Warren county Negro pickers 75 cents a hundred pounds and a "grink of liquor in the morning and evening. Warren county growers are paying 40 cents a hundred.

DOUBTFUL THESE MEN GIVEN PERMITS DRIVE

A sister or brother may be dear to most people, but to a recent applicant for a driver's license they are merely a mental defect or disease which might keep him from securing the permit.

As J. McLead, State Highway Patrol license inspector, today revealed some of the strange answers given to questions asked applicants and declares each was given in all seriousness. Miss Thelma Exum, secretary at Troop A headquarters here, also vouches for the authenticity of the following odd answers.

Question—"Have you ever been convicted of violation of any traffic law?" Answer—"No sir, policeman never said anything to me but 'good morning' or 'good evening.'"

MILLIONS PAID ON LEAF MART

More than Three Million Dollars Paid Out Here

More than $3,000,000 has been paid to farmers selling their tobacco on the Greenville market this season and approximately 15,000,000 pounds of the golden weed has been auctioned since the season opened here August 26.

The average continues above the $20 per hundred mark with it doubtful that the general price will fall below that level as a good portion of the leaf being offered now is of medium to good quality.

The leaf market started the season with the determination to regain its position as the largest auction center in the world and indications are that the goal will be reached.

Yesterday's offerings totaled 660,880 pounds and brought $132,996.98, for an official average of $20.13 per hundred weight.

Season sales through yesterday totaled 14,213,718 pounds and farmers had been paid $2,924,014.13 for their offerings, an official season average of $20.57.

Close observers of the local market declared that approximately 1,300,000 pounds was offered on the floors of the warehouses today, with medium to good grades selling stronger. Prices as high as $50 were declared to have been paid today and yesterday a pile brought as much as $52.

Final Rites Held For Wm. McArthur

Funeral services for William McArthur, 76, was held at his late home in the Bell Artour community Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, conducted by Elder Roberts, Primitive Baptist minister of Farmville. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery.

The large floral tributes and hundreds of friends in attendance attested the esteem in which Mr. McArthur was held not only in his community, but in the entire county and Eastern Carolina.

He is survived by his wife and eleven children, Robert, Elbert and Lindsey of the home, Alvin of Greenville, Stuart of New Bern, Rodolph of Farmville, Dan of Temple, Texas, Mrs. Mack Smith of Bell Artour, Mrs. Johnnie Koger of Williamsburg, Miss Annie and Emma of the home; also five grandchildren and three sisters, Mrs. Nan McLawhorn of Greenville, Mrs. Alice Flanagan of Farmville, Mrs. Richard Worthington of Winterville.

Greenville Man Explains Government Cotton Loan

The government loan on the cotton crop for this year, as explained by W. B. Warren, manager of the Warren Cotton Co., local cotton merchant, "was arranged with one particular idea in view—the movement of the crop into normal channels."

Much pressure was brought to bear on the President and Secretary Wallace to make the loan at ten cents per pound, but it was finally fixed at nine cents, so that this country could compete with foreign growers and regain some of our export trade which we have been losing for the past few years, and also that the crop might move normally to the mills in this country.

It is a similar plan to the one adopted in 1935, which worked well that year. The loan then was eleven million bale crop, only thirty-five thousand bales went on the loan, which was practically none. It is the Department of Agriculture's hope, from reports, that the loan will not be used this year unless the price of cotton makes it necessary, as the government does not want to clog the warehouses of the country with cotton held in storage when it is needed for domestic mills and foreign trade.

Farmers who will agree to abide by coming farm legislation in a special session of Congress, or at the next regular session, will be guaranteed 12 cents a pound for cotton of middling grade and 7-8 inch staple or better. The plan is for the producer to sell his cotton, keep his sales slips showing number of pounds and file them with the County Agent's office. Next (Continued on page two)

Cholera Epidemic Spreads Through City Of Shanghai

MAP CAMPAIGN CHECK DISEASE

State Health Department Waging War Against Syphilis

Raleigh, Sept. 16.—Intention to wage an insistent campaign for the prevention of the further spread of syphilis throughout North Carolina, by invoking existing laws requiring the treatment of persons infected with that disease, have been announced here by Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, state health officer.

If those who are infected do not begin treatment within forty-eight hours after receiving a first notice, Dr. Reynolds pointed out, they may be jailed and forced to take treatment, under the provisions of Section 3, Chapter 206, Public Laws of 1919.

It was further pointed out that purchasers of remedies for venereal diseases are subject to examination by health authorities and that records of the sale of such remedies by druggists may be inspected by health officials. The purpose of this, Dr. Reynolds declared, is to throw about the individual syphilitic conditions which will, if the law is strictly enforced, make it impossible for him to keep his condition a secret any longer and thereby continue to be a menace to those with whom he is thrown into contact. The indigent who cannot afford to pay for treatment, in any case, must be administered by a duly qualified physician, will be treated at public expense.

"I recently called the attention of the public to the fact that we already have enough laws and available sources of information to wage an effective campaign against syphilis in this state," Dr. Reynolds said, "had in mind, among other things the above provisions. In other words, we propose to utilize the weapons we have against 'the great killer.' I hope every health officer in North Carolina will begin at once a vigorous crusade against the spread of venereal diseases which already have reached alarming proportions. Plans for enforcing the law have just been received from the printer and are being made available to health officers throughout the state. The time for definite action is at hand."

Consider Findings In Strange Death Of Police Officer

State Industrial Commission Hears Report on Investigation Into Death of Lumberton Chief

Lumberton, Sept. 16.—(AP)—The State Industrial Commission will hear late today the findings of expert witnesses into the death of Police Chief Vance McGill, found shot to death in a storage room in town hall last November 18.

The investigation was started at the request of the Maryland Casualty company, carrier of the town's compensation insurance.

Findings of a post mortem examination of the body last February 10 will be presented. The examination was conducted by Dr. R. S. Beam of Lumberton. Dr. Henry Winkler of Charlotte, Dr. Wylie Forbes of Duke university and a ballistic expert from the Charlotte detective force.

Fire Control For Largest Tract Of Forest Arranged

130,000-Acre Plot in Columbus and Brunswick Counties Bought Under State Program

Reflecting Bureau Raleigh, Sept. 16.—The largest single tract of timberland in North Carolina under private ownership has just been brought under the forest fire control program of the forestry division of the Department of Conservation and Development. It was announced today by W. C. McCormick, in charge of this work for the division.

The tract is composed of 130,000 acres, covering almost 300 square miles in Columbus and Brunswick counties, recently purchased by the Riegel Paper Corporation, now building a pulp plant at Acme, on the Cape Fear river in Columbus county.

In addition to getting the benefit of the federal-state fire protection organization in the counties in which the tract is located, it will also get additional protection from a fire prevention organization being set up by the company which owns it. This getting double protection, McCormick said. Several days were spent by McCormick last week in going over this tract with E. A. Stirling, consulting engineer of the Riegel Paper Corporation. They recommended the purchase of forest fire-fighting equipment, selected locations for fire observers towers and intercommunicating telephone lines and laid out fire breaks and fire lines.

The company will build one forest fire observation tower 120 feet high in the center of the area and five other 100 foot towers in other sections of the area, all connected with the central tower by telephone and all manned during the fire season with observers who will constantly be on the lookout for forest fires.

A large and entirely new type of fire-lane plow, weighing 1,600 pounds and pulled by a powerful caterpillar tractor, has just been purchased by the Riegel Paper Corporation and will be put into service this week, McCormick said.

Meanwhile on Battle Fronts Chinese Gain Around Shanghai, Japs About Peiping

Shanghai, Sept. 16.—(AP)—A cholera epidemic reaching grave proportions spreading through the foreign sections of this war-racked metropolis today, striking down more than 100 additional victims overnight.

The sweep of the dread plague raised the number of cases in the International settlement and the French concession alone to 740. There are an additional 1,400 suspected cases in the two areas.

In the Chinese sections of the city where war refugees have been huddled together without even the most primitive sanitary conditions, the number of cases was believed in the thousands. Because of conditions it had been impossible even to estimate the number affected outside the settlement and the French concession.

33 have been certified as eligible for financial aid. It is the purpose of the commission and the evident need of all blind young persons to give them training for some occupation whereby they may be independent or partially self-supporting. A big part of the program for the blind is to prevent blindness. This consists of remedial work as providing for glasses, operations and training in some work that does not require eye strain. Through such services the commission hopes to prevent blindness and delay total blindness for some.

The encouraging part of the Social Security program is that which provides for dependent children. Many widows have been left with groups of children with no income and no resources. Grants for support of dependent children makes it possible to keep families together where the mother can devote her time to the training and supervision of her children. Applicants for aid to dependent children must prove to the state board that the home in which the child is maintained is a safe and fit place. Through August 29 applications for aid to dependent children were approved by the welfare board. These applications provide for 105 children.

The administration for the Social Security program has moved along rapidly in Pitt county. Many of the applications require extensive verification and correspondence with agencies, relatives and institutions in other states and counties. The program is new to the state office, but the county office and applicant, but every effort has been made to take care of applications as rapidly as the staff allotted to Pitt county can efficiently investigate and verify the eligibility of applicants.

Supervision of Paroled Prisoners
With the beginning of the new fiscal year on July 1st Pitt county had 45 paroled prisoners under supervision of the superintendent of public welfare. Since that time several reports have been filed and copies forwarded to Mr. Edwin M. Hill, commissioner of paroles. Each parolier is required monthly to file a report which must be verified by three good citizens, showing he has been engaged in gainful employment. The total unserved prison time of this group is some over 300 years.

Employment of Minors
The state law was amended effective July 1st requiring all minors under 18 years of age to obtain an employment card under the state labor department. The welfare office issues blanks preparatory to obtaining an employment card. During July and August 124 employment certificates were issued. Boys under sixteen are limited to 40 hours each week with eight hours a day while minors between 16 and 18 are given 48 hours per week with nine hours in any one day.

Isolation Tubercular Cabins
The county has now in use 11 isolation T.B. cabins. These are moved from place to place where there is a case of tuberculosis. It has been necessary to move seven of these cabins to new cases since they were placed by reason of seven deaths.

Juvenile Probation
The superintendent of public welfare is chief probation officer for the county for juvenile court. At present 68 juvenile offenders are required to report at certain times to give account of their conduct and show they are at work, attending school, or have been in no trouble. There is a large number in addition to this group who have been released from correctional institutions and who are required by the institution to report at stated times to the superintendent of public welfare to show good behavior and gainful employment.

Spring he will receive a subsidy—a check direct from the treasury—for the difference between what he sold at, and twelve cents, varying with the ten market spot average and grade assuring him twelve cents for middling and better up to 65 per cent of his base acreage. In no case will his check be for more than three cents additional a pound.

"On cotton below middling in grade, the subsidy should work the same way, and the producer should get 10 3-4 cents per pound by the time he receives his check from the government."
"Until the price of cotton drops below nine cents per pound for middling 7-8 and better, and below 7 3-4 cents per pound for grades below middling, it is the purpose of the plan that the loan should not operate, as the government, from reports, has no desire to make loans unless they are necessary."

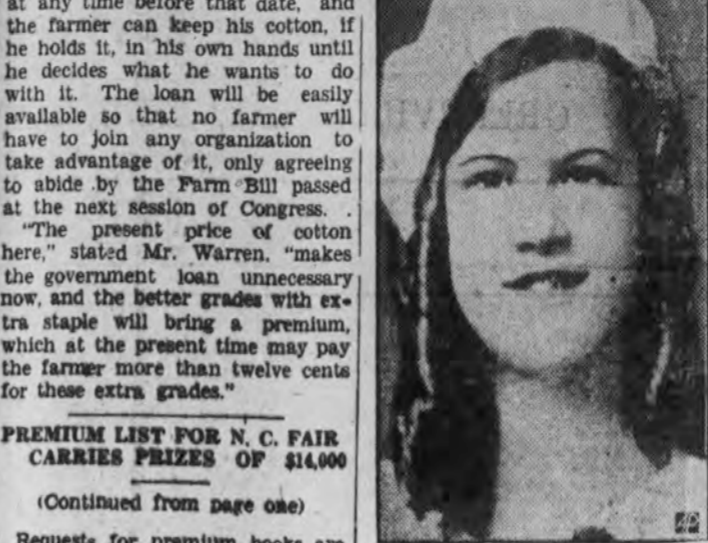

"The whole idea behind the loan on cotton is to put a bottom or a floor to the market, so that it will go no lower than that, and with the hope that the price of cotton will enable it to be sold and move into regular trade channels."
"The government, from what we can learn from Washington, has no desire to go into the cotton business and is arranging the loan only to peg the market, and cut acreage for 1938."
"Farmers," said Mr. Warren, "who want to hold their cotton can keep it on the farm or store it in any bonded warehouse and keep the warehouse receipts until such time as they want to sell. The government loan will be available up to March 31, 1938, and farmers can take advantage of it up until that time. Banks and lending agencies or Commodity Credit Corporation, will make the loans at any time before that date, and the farmer can keep his cotton, if he holds it, in his own hands until he decides what he wants to do with it. The loan will be easily available so that no farmer will have to join any organization to take advantage of it, only agreeing to abide by the Farm Bill passed at the next session of Congress."

"The present price of cotton here," stated Mr. Warren, "makes the government loan unnecessary now, and the better grades with extra staple will bring a premium, which at the present time may pay the farmer more than twelve cents for these extra grades."

Another Child Victim

New York police, confronted with one of their most bizarre cases, sought a motive for the East-West slaying of 14-year-old Alice Devine (above), whose body, a bullet through the temple, was found on a bed beside George Tong, Chinese laundryman, who was dying from gas.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Sept. 16.—Cutlar Moore, state liquor board chairman, had no sooner announced a censorship of liquor advertisements on the ground that his board does not want to push or increase liquor sales than he received from one of the leading liquor concerns a flamboyant gaudily illustrated pamphlet "Specially Prepared for the North Carolina Liquor Commission," according to its own announcement.

The pamphlet boldly announced "Another new campaign—the biggest drive ever made to make sales for you." And later "Remember these ads are timed for big fall and winter sales."

Smart people, these mail-order-house selling experts. Among the ways in which they get their list to whom catalogues are to be mailed is by contact with any agency of the state government which has lists of any group of possible buyers. For example, whenever the State Rural Electric Authority makes a survey for a possible rural line, the mail order houses send a man to its office here to get a list of those who have indicated they may become users of electrical appliances.

It pays, so it is very clearly shown in a recently completed survey of appliances actually in use by 700 customers who connected onto the 54 miles built in Currituck county. The survey lists appliances to the value of $58,409.52 and shows that the mail order houses got their share of the business.

Entirely unconfirmed and apparently none too well founded, but rather persistent is the rumor that G. Deyton will not be budget director much longer.

Thad Eure, secretary of state, has accepted an invitation to address the Woodmen. He insists he is not now interested in anything political and is devoting his time to making his office a model of efficiency, but just the same he appears to be following the well-known formula for those who seek endorsement at the polls for something or other.

Now the story is that Representative R. L. (Farmer) Bob Doughton is being considered for a high federal appointment, possibly controller general. Except for the fact that he probably wouldn't need Senator Reynolds' endorsement to get the post if he wants it, there would be much reason to suspect that Farmer Bob's recent threatening gestures in the direction of "Our Bob" were designed to get the latter's support for a soft appointive office in return for the representative's renunciation of any senatorial ambitions.

Centralization of government goes on apace, despite the opposition of everybody to any encroachment upon his own preserves. City officials and county officials complain loudly that the state is encroaching on their authority. State officials, who are doing the encroaching, wall loudly whenever the federal government attempts to enter any field previous to theirs. Witness Tom Cooper attacking the state's officials, while Governor Hoy is deploring the loss of state's rights.

Capus Wayne, director of purchase, is being ragged no end by reason of the "Tarzan" picture of him which appeared in Raleigh's morning paper. Few people realized that so few clothes are worn by hand ball players.

Tests Prove 2-Year-Old Child As Smart As Adult Chimpanzee

INTELLIGENCE TEST
The nurse hides the teddy bear behind the cardboard shield. How long it takes the baby to find it is one measure of his intelligence.

Vienna.—(AP)—Does your child reach eagerly for a toy held before him?
What does he do when a bell is rung and then handed to him?
These are among the tests methods being developed in the psychological institute of the University of Vienna by Professors Charlotte and Karl Buehler and launched as new bases for child psychology.

One of their conclusions so far is that an average 2-year-old child has the mental development of an adult chimpanzee.

That conclusion was reached by placing a toy beyond a child's reach outside his play pen and giving him a stick. His ability to retrieve the toy with the stick is a measure of his intelligence.

Laboratory for the professors Buehler is the children's receiving station of Vienna, where children from 6 months to 3 years old are placed if their home life is unsatisfactory.

During a four weeks stay at the station they are given "play" tests to determine whether some mental or emotional difficulty requires training in an institution or whether they are normal and can be entrusted to foster parents.

One of the common tests is the "grasping tests." In this a desirable object is held before the child. Whether he reaches for it or remains passive indicates his general reaction to things about him.

Social tests are given children 2 years old or over. Several youngsters are placed together in a play pen in which there is only one toy. Whether they dominate the play and seize the toy for themselves, or give it to another child etc., to the psychologists, clues to their character and social attitudes.

Alabama.—There hasn't been an "era of good feeling" in the court for several years. The sour flavor has prevailed since before the New Deal came to split the court into spluttering fragments.

Good information coming to us has it that Black can expect the usual courteous greetings from the members of the weightiest juridical body in the country. These elderly justices know and follow the ways of gentlemen—until they go to bat around the council table.

Whether Black will take his seat immediately upon meeting of the court October 4 has not been decided. In a measure, that is up to him. He has been appointed and confirmed by the senate, but a suit is pending before the court challenging the legality of his appointment.

Albert Levitt, former judge of the Virgin Islands, has filed suit in the supreme court raising the same questions about Black's standing that were raised in the senate—that no vacancy resulted from the retirement (without resignation) of Justice Van Devanter, that Black participated in increasing the emoluments of the office when congress extended retirement privileges to the justices.

The court will decide, perhaps as early as October 11, whether there is sufficient ground to consider Levitt's proposition.

Black will have a seat on the far left wing of the court. That isn't because he is a liberal. It is because the court sits according to seniority and Black is junior of them all. Justice Cardozo, now next above Black in seniority is perhaps as liberal as Black but will sit on the extreme right wing of the court. That is the next step in progression toward the seats of elegance—next to the chief justice.

When Black begins participating in the court's business, he will get the routine, unimportant cases—if the court follows precedent. Cardozo got them. Only occasionally did he rate an opportunity to write the majority opinion in a top-flight affable, who ends almost every question with "won't you please, sub." will find his court colleagues a grim bunch.

Your librarian isn't trying to make money when she charges you two cents a day for each day you keep your book overtime.

She just wants that book to stay in circulation. And the most effective way to remind you is to pinch where it hurts—in the pocketbook.

Harry M. Lydenberg head of the New York Public Library has several hints for the library user.

Lots of public library readers don't use their heads, he says. When a book isn't exactly where they think it ought to be, they don't bother to look further. It may be indexed in a dozen different ways.

It's the doubting reader who accomplishes things. Mr. Lydenberg says. If he (or she) doesn't find what he's looking for, he doesn't give up—and charge it all to the "inefficiency" of the library.

There are, for instance, those who think it's a bright idea to "cache" books—hide them so nobody except themselves will know where they are.

That doesn't do anybody any good, says Mr. Lydenberg. The person who hides the book won't find it where he left it—because the chances are that in "reading the shelves" a constant check-up procedure followed by nearly all librarians, the book will be discovered and returned to its normal place.

The best way to get the most out of the library's facilities is to be sure you know what you want. Have the exact title of the book and be able to spell the author's name correctly.

Go to the shelves, if you're accustomed to doing that in your local library. If you can't find what you want, go to the catalog.

Honey was the standard sweetener in Europe before the introduction of cane sugar from Asia.

case. Such opportunities came to him with greater frequency during the last two years, after he had been several years on the court. It is fully expected by court observers that if Black seeks to impose the dictates of the White House upon the supreme court, he will be taken apart at the council table by conservatives and liberals alike. They are masters of verbal rough house. He probably won't try it, at least not in any high-handed manner, even though he is no infant himself when it comes to verbal blistering.

At times the members of the supreme court get so heated up at the council table that they snap at each other after they take their seats on the bench, before the public. There isn't a chummy pair in the lot. Van Devanter used to get along well with most of them, but he is gone. Occasionally Stone and Cardozo talk to each other as they sit at the bench, so do Butler and Roberts. Chief Justice Hughes sometimes turns for a word or two with Justice Brandeis.

But for the most part Black, the

Slapstick By Another Name (Whimsy) Returns Films To Custard-Pie Days

THE HORSEPLAY'S THE THING
With movie scripts these days asking even the stars to "take it", Leslie Howard gets an over-ripe tomato in the puss. The cop is Herman Thies.

By ROBBIN COONS
(AP Feature Service Writer)
HOLLYWOOD — Leslie Howard gets socked full in the face with a ripe tomato in "Stand-In." Carole Lombard and Frederic March stage a knock-down-drag-out battle in "Nothing Sacred." Barbara Stanwyck and Herbert Marshall have a tilt with boxing gloves in "A Love Like That."

And "action pictures" takes on a new meaning in the Hollywood catalogue of phrases. Stardom, too, takes on new meaning, because a star, any old script now, may be asked to "take it" in a large and most undignified way.

Slapsticks Comeback
The upward surge of slapstick—or call it "modern whimsy" as does Director Elliott Nugent—in pictures, makes the glamour industry a hazardous calling.

Nugent directed what was probably the first of the new hysterical comedies, "Three-Cornered Moon," antedating even "My Man Godfrey," which floored audiences with its nut-appeal. Nugent has done another "modern whimsy" in "It's All Yours," with Madeleine Carroll and Francis Lederer.

Strangely, he points out, this type of comedy did not catch on with the public until after the depression. Then fans were looking at the "Grand Hotels" and "Les Miserables" of the film bill.

"People then," says Producer B. P. Schulberg, "didn't feel like laughing, they had too many troubles. Now they can't seem to get enough of it."

It's A Novelty To Some
But there are other theories to account for the rise of the "nut school" of comedy. One is that producers, wary of audience heckling that had greeted some of their efforts to be serious in old routine movie ways, have tried to anticipate by getting the laugh first—with the unexpected.

Another is that a new generation of movie fans, born after the popularity peak of such early slapstickers as Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle and others of the Mack Sennett custard pie school, has arrived. And this generation is finding the physical type of comedy a novelty worth paying to see, if there is smart dialogue to boot.

FINDS METHOD ROTATE CROPS

One-Year System Is Profitable for Haywood Man

Waynesville, Sept. 16.—W. F. Swift, Haywood county farmer, has a one-year crop rotation that has enabled him to grow corn year after year on the same field with steadily increasing yields.

Each fall after the corn is harvested, Swift sows the field with crimson clover which is turned under in the spring as a green manure crop, said R. R. Smithwick, farm agent of the State college extension service.

This legume crop adds more fertility to the soil than the corn takes out, he explained, with the result that the field is becoming more fertile.

The crimson clover also serves as a winter cover crop to check erosion and conserve moisture. During the past 17 years, the field has not failed to produce its annual crop of corn.

Smithwick also pointed out that Swift has been getting excellent results with alfalfa as a soil-conserving and roughage-producing crop.

Two mares on the Swift farm used for breeding purposes are fed almost entirely on alfalfa hay, and they do so well on this ration that they require very little grain, Smithwick said.

An inspection of the Swift farm by a group of Haywood county growers was a highlight of a recent farm tour conducted over the county by the farm agent.

Edna Millay, Forsaking Love Lyric, Holds Times Demand Sterner Stuff

Edna St. Vincent Millay

By CHARLES NORMAN (AP Feature Service Writer)

AUSTERLITZ, N. Y.—Once upon a time there was a young woman in Greenwich Village who wrote poems that shocked the bourgeoisie, poems that went like this:

My candle burns at both ends;
It will not last the night;
But ah, my foes, and oh, my friends—
It gives a lovely light!

A whole generation of undergraduates and Bohemians knew her verses by heart, quoted them, imitated them.

Today, Edna St. Vincent Millay is older, more serious. Her fame is universal. But as she looks around her, she sees her light-hearted world of the years after the war transformed by the political hatreds of mankind. So she has laid aside the lyric of love and beauty in which she excels, to pit down in verse the troubled thought of our time.

Critics Are Divided

Her latest book, "Conversation At Midnight," has divided her critics and readers. Some praise it as her greatest work; others wish she had continued to write lyrics with the tight-packed, singing line of which she is master. This she does not mind. What she does mind is the inference that she has just become social-conscious. To this she replies: "Nobody has ever read me."

"It's ridiculous to say that I have suddenly become aware of the life going on around me," she exclaims with passion. "I've always been aware, always been writing about it."

"What was 'Resurgence' about?"

looked thoughtful. It was a subject reviewers of "Conversation At Midnight" had touched upon.

"Yes," she agreed, "but great poetry has seldom come out of taking sides, and it is not likely to. However, that's a different matter from having a natural direction from lyrical toward dramatic poetry, and following it. It would be hard to look at the 'destiny of man' today with the eyes of a dramatist, and not find one's self at moments looking into the eyes of a politician."

Hasn't Abandoned Lyrics

"I, for instance, am moving naturally in the direction of dramatic poetry—by which I don't mean, she threw in impatiently, "that I've given up writing lyric poetry. Really, the public is very stern with the artist—it looks upon him as an insipid scater-brain, yet expects him to proceed in more rigidly methodical fashion than any banker! I've given up nothing. But the poet who is both lyrical and dramatic usually turns to drama; Shakespeare did; Shelley would certainly have done so." Shelley died young.

"If you don't change and develop between your first book and your 10th," she said after a pause, "then you just keep on re-writing yourself. And it seems to me that life should do more for you than just keep you alive. After all, a child is not merely fed by the food he eats; he is strengthened, and he grows. It's the same with the poet—that is to say, if he has a hearty appetite for life. It's no good nibbling at it. Then she added with a smile: "He must also, of course, have an excellent digestion."

VACATED POST YET UNFILLED

Merry Battle Waged For Left End Job on U. N. C. Grid Team

Chapel Hill, Sept. 16.—Admitting that North Carolina's chief strength in the line lies at the right end post held by Co-Captain Andy Bershak, Coach Ray Wolf and his associates are most concerned now with All-Southern Dick Buck's vacated position at left end.

Of the 11 lettermen lost by graduation last spring, Buck's loss will be among the most keenly felt. The 1936 Tar Heel captain was rated one of the finest pass receivers ever produced in Dixie.

Left end is the most sought-after position among the Tar Heel squad members this fall. Coach Wolf has experimented freely. As many as six candidates have been tested.

The best prospects include Gene Brickleymer, a former halfback; Kraynick, who alternated between fullback and end; and Chuck Kline and Horace Amler, junior reserves.

When fall practice started Kraynick and Palmer generally rated first preference. But the steady improvement of Brickleymer and Kline have given them the starting roles in the latest practices.

Brickleymer usually starts with the first club. Kline serves as his lieutenant.

Brickleymer is superior to the quartet in speed and pass receiving. Kline is perhaps the more rugged and aggressive candidate. Size favors Kraynick, who stands six feet two, and weighs 180, and Palmer, six feet and 183. Combine all these qualities into one man and the problem will be solved. But that's the catch. Each candidate falls below par in one or more desirable characteristics.

Bershak's understudies at right guard are Fran Gordon, six feet two inch junior reserve, and Jim Bryant, elongated sophomore. But as Handy Andy is durable, he'll stay at his post. Last season Bershak played approximately 560 of the total 600 minutes.

When the Tar Heels open against South Carolina here September 25, Bershak will be at right end. As for left end? Well, that's as much of a mystery to Coach Wolf as it is to anyone.

New Fight Boss To Stage Unusual In Champ Bouts

WANT A FIGHT?
If you're good enough and have box office appeal Mike Jacobs, pugilist's No. 1 impresario, might find an opponent for you.

By CHARLES NORMAN (AP Feature Service Writer)
New York—Mike Jacobs, who holds the biggest corner in cauliflower in the history of the ring is an imaginative fellow.

Having put on one heavyweight championship show—the recent Joe Louis-Tommy Farr surprise package—he is not going to repeat himself. What is bigger than one championship fight? Answer: two championship fights. To make sure, Uncle Mike is making it four.

As a result, the public is shortly to witness the unprecedented spectacle of four world champions defending their crowns on the same night, in the same ring.

The date is September 23, the place, the Polo Grounds, and the name Mike's trumpets have bestowed on the affair is "Carnival of World's Champions of 1937."

The lineup:
Bantamweight Champion Sixto Escobar vs. Harry Jeffra.
Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers vs. Pedro Montanez.
Welterweight Champion Barney Ross vs. Ceferino Garcia.
Middleweight Champion Marcel Thil vs. Fred Apostoli.

Both Ambers and Escobar have been beaten by the opponents they will face in the "Carnival of Champions," but that happened in non-title fights. Jeffra, in fact, turned the trick twice against Escobar. All this can be discounted in advance. Titleholders have been known to be surprisingly lax in non-championship bouts and leather tornadoes with their crowns at stake.

Bald-headed Thil, French middleweight king, has not been seen in this country during his turbulent reign, and the usual suspicion concerning foreign fighters attaches to him. In 93 battles, he has emerged the winner by knockouts 35 times, by decision 39, drew four, lost 13, and won twice on a foul (against Lou Brouillard). Most of the men he has met are totally unknown on this side of the Atlantic.

Against Apostoli, brilliant and hard-hitting battler from the Pacific Coast, he will be in for the battle of his life, all observers are agreed.

The wise boys of Broadway and Cauliflower Acre are naming the winners in advance, as usual. Apostoli, 2 to 1 over Thil. Ross, 8 to 5 over Garcia. Montanez, 8 to 5 over Ambers. Escobar, 6 to 5 over Jeffra.

All the bouts are scheduled for the championship route of 15 rounds.

Pedro Packs A Punch

Pedro Montanez won a decision over Lightweight Champion Lou Ambers but it so happened that the lightweight crown was not at stake. It was one of those over-weight affairs.

Montanez is slated to meet Ambers again in the feature event of Promoter Mike Jacobs' Carnival of Champions. This time the title will be at stake and Pedro, whose hobby is collecting boxing belts, hopes to come out of the ring with the world's championship belt fitting snugly around his slim waist.

The Little Puerto Rican is a clever boxer and a hard hitter. Together with that he is a smart ring general and rarely, indeed, does he make any mistakes. He has had eleven fights this year and has scored knockouts in eight. Only Lou Ambers, Enrico Venturi and Billy Wallace have managed to escape his finishing punch.

Montanez began boxing as an amateur under the guidance of his brother-in-law, Luis Barreiras. He turned to the professional ranks only after his sponsor had died. That was a little over five years ago.

After a successful invasion of South America the wanderlust seized the youngster and he did a lot of fighting in England, France, Switzerland and Spain before coming to this country.

Pedro is unique in that he trains for his bout exactly as he pleases. His manager, Lew Burston, never attempts to line up his training program for the simple reason that his charge is a diligent worker and feels that he knows better than anyone just how much work he needs to put him on edge.

In the past his scheme has worked out extremely well so Burston sees no reason to change. Montanez has his heart set on winning the lightweight crown and no urging on the part of his manager is necessary to make him work for it.

METAL WORKER MAKES PISTOLS OF AUTO PARTS

Grand Island, Neo.—(AP)—A 22 caliber rifle which shoots accurately at a quarter of a mile and a "homemade" 38 caliber pistol which will shoot special bullets through steel plate one-eight of an inch thick have been perfected by R. E. Davis of Grand Island, Neb.

Davis, a skilled metal worker and mechanic by trade, is a gunsmith in his spare time.

He bored the back end of a 22 caliber barrel to fit a special cartridge of that size made from a 30.06 Springfield army rifle bullet. He attached three lenses for a telescopic sight.

Now the gun shoots bullets which at 300 yards pierce a one-half inch steel plate. Crows, rabbits and other small game can be shot at distances from 300 to 500 yards he gun weighs 12 pounds.

Newton Uncertain About Davidson Game Saturday

Declares Wolves Not Familiar With All The Tricks

Raleigh, September 16.—If the N. C. State College Wolves were thoroughly familiar with their plays and if they knew all the tricks of the Newton system, Coach Williams (Doc) Newton might admit that they had a chance of beating Davidson in Greensboro on Saturday night.

"But," says Doc Newton "we do not know our plays any too well and three weeks are not long enough to teach a group of players an entirely new football system."

State is physically fit for the game. Since drills began September 1, Coach Newton has insisted on full football attire for every player with the result that there are few injuries.

The Wolves also are in the right frame of mind to give Davidson a battle until the very end. In fact, they believe that they can smash Gene McEver's new creation—"The Big Apple."

Whether the Wildcats can solve Newton's new signal system remains to be seen. The system is so unique and simple that many coaches will wonder why they had not thought of it.

State's speedy backs—Eddie Berlinski and Arthur Rooney—look fit for battle. They have been running nicely in drills this week and will seek to better Davidson's twinkles—Tenny Fafferty.

State's line boasts no particular outstanding star, but the work of Jess Tatum, end, and Bonnie Hines, guard, has been above par.

The Wolves have already begun night drills. The first evening practice was held Wednesday in Riddick Stadium. There will be another tonight and a final practice tomorrow evening. The squad will leave for Greensboro early Saturday morning and will make headquarters at the King Cotton hotel.

BEARS IN PARK DOUBLE WITHIN A YEAR

Estes Park, Colo.—(AP)—A sudden increase in the birth rate among bears of Rocky Mountain national park has rangers and naturalists puzzled.

Until last year there were believed to be only about 30 bears in the entire park. This year reports from innkeepers and summer residents indicated the number has been doubled.

In two widely separated places mother bears with triplet cubs have been seen frequently.

shaft of an automobile and the axle of a truck, he fabricated a bullet with a hollow point which gives the projectile unusual effectiveness. Cast from low grade babbitt metal it weighs 132 grains and travels at the rate of 1,600 feet per second.

Dick Thompson

Scheduled to see action when State college and Davidson meet in Greensboro on Saturday night is Dick Thompson, State end. Thompson is a senior and his home is in Mount Holly. He is one of the best defensive linemen on the State club.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Sept. 16.—(AP)—Selling in coppers, depressed by disappointing consumption statistics, stemmed an early rallying tide in today's stock market.

While a few steels, motors, rails and specialties managed to hold parts of initial advances ranging from fractions to 1/2 point, more, we had serious soft spots near the final close.

Bonds ignored the apathetic performance of stocks

Transactions approximated 900,000 shares.
