Spain Demands Action By League

SAYS FASCISTS AIDING REBELS

Insists Germany And Italy Aggressors In Civil War

Geneva, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Dr. Juan Negrin, Spanish government premier, demanded today the League of Nations name Germany and Italy aggressors in Spain and force an end to their intervention on behalf of insurgents in the Spanish civil war.

The Madrid-Valencia "win-the-war premier" opened debate on foreign intervention in the civil war before the League of Nations assembly with the declaration that the conflict in reality has become a "war of invasion" by Germany and Italy.

Their intervention on behalf of insurgent General Francisco Franco Negrin asserted, is the result of "nothing more than an occupational pact."

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Spanish insurgents hammering toward Gijon through the mountains to its south asserted today the crumbling Asturian defense had left them in "absolute control" of a high road into that government seaport.

Attacking infantrymen, aided by fighting and bombing planes, routed to government troops from a strategic position on Mount Pajares on the border of Leon and Oviedo provinces about 35 miles south of Gijon.

They seized a tunnel through which the road passed after the Asturians fled northward yesterday, said the report reaching this French frontier town.

Mount Pajares, a 200-foot landmark, stands near the tunnel and the town of Pajares. The Asturian positions in that section were described by insurgent commanders as the last of the defenders' "impregnable" stand.

LEAF AVERAGE SHOWING GAIN

Another Big Day Experienced in Greenville Friday

Friday brought one of the brightest days on the Greenville tobacco market of the 1937 season when 1,398,476 pounds of the golden weed was sold for $313,243.43, an official average of $22.40 per hundred pounds.

The market picture is of a more brighter hue than earlier in the season when lugs and tips constituted the bulk of offerings. With better grades being offered, the average continues to climb steadily.

Despite the heavy sales yesterday, auctions were completed without a block, leaving everything in readiness for a big day Monday. Offerings thus far on the Green-

NEW DEAL SMASHES TAMMANY IN GOTHAM PRIMARY

New Deal candidates won a double-barreled victory over the Tammany Tiger in New York City's mayoralty primaries. Jeremiah T. Mahoney, New Deal anti-Tammany coalition candidate, defeated Senator Royal S. Copeland, foe of the Roosevelt administration, for the Democratic nomination. Meanwhile, Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, anti-Tammany fusion candidate and also a staunch friend of the New Deal, won the Republican nomination. Mahoney (third from left in front row) and some of his followers are shown (top) celebrating his victory. Obviously dejected, Senator Copeland is shown (over left) watching the votes pile up against him. In gay mood, LaGuardia (lower right) hears of his smashing triumph over the Tammany candidate.

Additional Peril Added To American - Defended Area

NEW WARNING MADE BY POPE

Sees Fear of Austrian Catholics Losing Rights

Castel Gandolfo, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Pope Pius warned Austrian Catholics today their religious rights, as well as those of German Catholics are endangered by Nazi "anti-church policies."

His warning came in a general audience for Austrian, British, French and German pilgrims, attended also by several Americans.

Japs Unleash New Attack Against Shanghai

Shanghai, Sept. 18.—(AP)—Japanese artillery unleashed a new bombardment of the Markham road section today, bringing fresh peril to the American-defended sector of Shanghai's war-shocked International settlement.

Japanese shells crashed into the area close by the patrol assigned United States marines, as Japanese navy planes, taking advantage of clearing weather, resumed bombardment of Chinese positions on a wide front.

At the same time a Japanese army officer asserted Japan's land forces had repulsed Chinese counter attacks on a 25-mile front extending from the north to Shanghai's outskirts.

Bombing Plane Believed Have Been Spanish Craft

London, Sept. 18.—(AP)—The British destroyer Fearless reported today to London naval authorities it had been attacked by a bombing plane off Gijon, Spain.

Six heavy bombs fell close to the Fearless, but the destroyer was not struck.

Having completed the attack, the plane flew toward Gijon, leading to a belief in London the plane might have been a Spanish government craft.

Gijon is the government's last important position on the Bay of Biscay. There are nearby concentrations of insurgent troops and planes.

The attack took place at noon yesterday.

The Fearless carried regulation identification as a British war craft and in addition the fore gun turret was painted red, white and blue.

The destroyer has heavy anti-aircraft armament, but it was not disclosed whether she opened fire on her attacker.

The attack was another of the almost countless incidents that have occurred in the Bay of Biscay and the Mediterranean since the Spanish civil war broke out fourteen months ago.

The attack, however, was not strictly of that kind of guerilla warfare which Britain and the other Nyon powers are trying to stamp out in the Mediterranean. The Nyon protocol called for protection of commercial ships, not war vessels.

The Nyon powers invited Italy finally today to accept a minor role to help stamp out the piratical attacks on shipping.

nesday afternoon. Several items of business were discussed and passed upon by the council. The score card committee composed of Miss Nan Loy Tucker, Miss Annie Carroll and Mrs. L. G. Hardee submitted their report. A few changes were made in the score card, namely, each member making a scrap book adds twenty-five points to the club score and each member attending the state short course adds five points per day. An active member was defined: "An active home demonstration member is one who attends meetings except when she has a reasonable excuse—this is determined by officers of local club—and submits a report of club activities."

"Each club secretary shall submit club score card with totals to home demonstration office by November 1, 1937, giving number of club members." County officers are asked to assist score card committee in deciding upon winning club before achievement day. Possible points will be calculated for each club and by dividing the possible points into actual points made, the percentage will be determined. Achievement day will be held during the second week in November.

Reports

Report time is coming soon. Club members are asked to bring their individual club reports to the October meetings. Use the pages in the center of the club books, and make it as complete as possible in order that your club will rate high.

100,000 Acres On Coast Sought By Park Service

DC24-100,000 ACRES
Raleigh, Sept. 18.—The National Park service expects little difficulty in obtaining sufficient land along the Outer Banks of North Carolina to establish the south's first coastal park.

The act to create the park requires acquisition of a minimum of 100,000 acres before the area can be accepted by the Park service, but the governmental agency is expected to assume administration of the lands upon acquisition of 10,000 acres for park purposes.

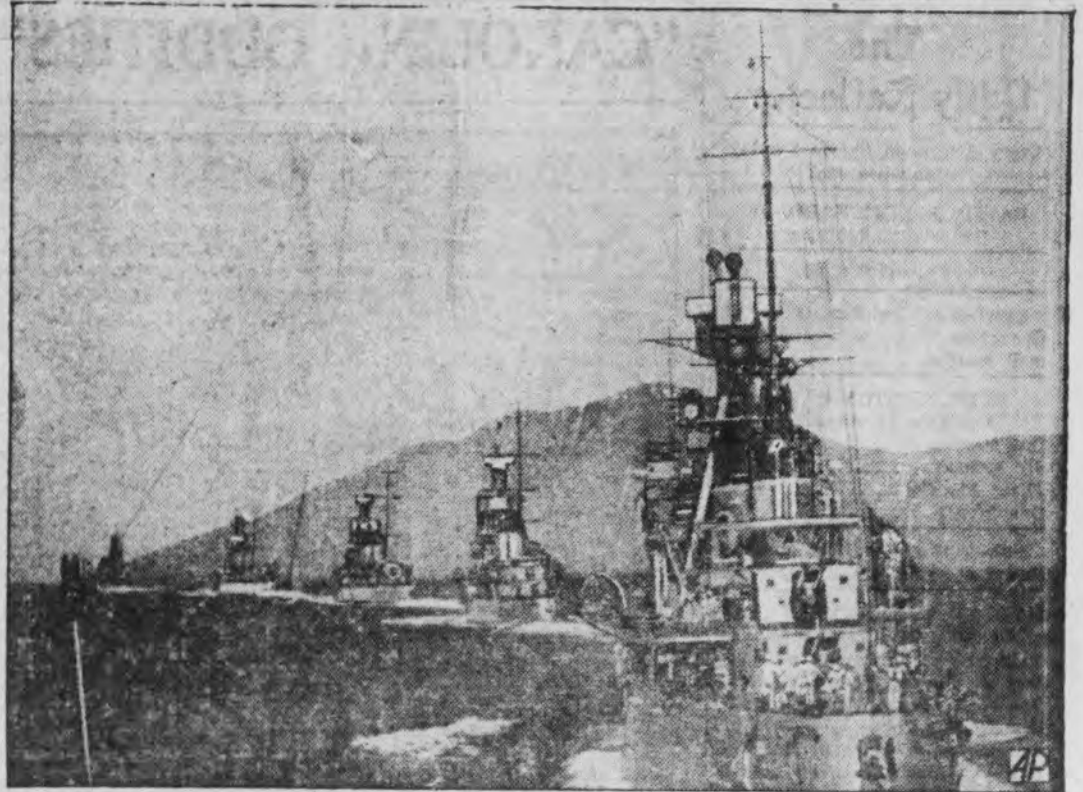

A nucleus exists in the possessions of the U. S. Biological Survey, the Cape Hatteras State Park and the national monument to the Wright brothers at Kitty Hawk. Combined these lands which will become available total 7,540 acres.

As a preliminary to drawing future plans affecting this great coastal wilderness, the National Park service has indicated its intention to send a field party into the area shortly in order to make a complete survey of the proposed park.

In scenic and historical interest, and in recreational facilities, the "Banks," extending for over 200 miles off the coast of North Carolina surpass any similar area on the Atlantic seaboard. Extending northward from Cape Hatteras, known to seafaring men the world over the "Banks" reach their climax of wild, untamed beauty.

Just what steps the National Park service will take to make this region more accessible is not known. However, should it be possible to establish roads down the "Banks" from Roanoke Island to Cape Hatteras, one of the finest recreational areas in the east will become available for public use.

ITALY'S IRON GUARD of cruisers stood ready in the Mediterranean for any eventuality after Russia had accused Fascist submarines of sinking Soviet merchant ships and threatened use of armed force to halt submarine raids, in case the conference table failed. The Italian fleet in the Mediterranean has kept increasing steadily since before the conquest of Ethiopia.

William Thos. Eaton Is Claimed By Death

Winston-Salem, Sept. 18.—(AP)—William Thomas Eaton, 73, prominent retired business man here, died at his home today after an illness of three weeks.

A native of Davie county, he was for 25 years chief field agent of the purchasing department of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company.

He retired 15 years ago. Survivors include his wife, a daughter and four sons.

San Francisco, Sept. 18.—(AP)—It was an unfortunate purchase of "scallop gelatine" that Sam Wo, Chinatown cafe owner, made twenty years ago.

The flavoring is used in a special Chinese soup and alert customers decided recently it was Japanese gelatine. With war fever high in San Francisco's Chinatown, it took a police squad to break up the ensuing demonstration.

Sam Wo explained that he had bought the gelatine in tins before the World war.

State Getting Publicity From Trade Publications

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, Sept. 18.—Not only is North Carolina getting more and more notice from out-of-state news publications since the inauguration of its new nation-wide advertising campaign, but also from special trade publications and industrial organs, it was pointed out today by the Department of Conservation and Development, which is directing the advertising campaign.

North Carolina received some very favorable advertising during August in the Esso Road News, the monthly publication of the Standard Oil company distributed to motorists at its filling stations in all parts of the country, it was pointed out.

There were seven stories about different attractions or places to visit in North Carolina in the August issue of Esso Road News, also six pictures from North Carolina. The lead story was devoted to the annual folk festival in Asheville, featuring the old-time mountain fiddlers and stringed bands and the mountaineers' dance teams. Another North Carolina story carried on the front page was about the Roanoke Island pageant and the throngs which were visiting the island to see Paul Green's symphonic play, the "Lost Colony." This story was illustrated with a picture of the Wright Memorial at Kittyhawk. On the inside pages were stories about the opening of the "Cotton Road" between Faison and Clinton; the presentation of the annual Indian pageant by the Cherokee Indians on the Qualla reservation in the western part of the state, another about the fishing being good at Carolina beach, near Wilmington; a story about Grandfather mountain in the Linville section and about the state fish hatchery, operated by the Conservation department near Waynesville.

LOCAL MEN TO ATTEND BUICK CONVENTION

Lee A. Folger, Jr., Buick dealer here, left today for Atlanta, Georgia, where he will attend a meeting of dealers throughout the southeastern area launching the 1938 program of the Buick division of General Motors.

Accompanying Mr. Folger was W. C. Braswell, member of his sales staff. The local men will hear Buick manufacturing and sales programs for the coming year and will view the complete line of new cars which it is said will be announced to the public sometime early in October. No definite time for this announcement has been set to date.

According to Mr. Folger, the program of the meeting will include addresses by Harlowe H. Curdick, Buick president, and W. F. Hufstader, general sales manager, and presentations by C. A. Chayne, chief engineer, and Thomas H. Corpe, director of advertising and sales promotion. Mr. Corpe will be remembered as the man who was responsible for the radio presentations of the last four heavyweight championship prize fights put on the airways by Buick.

"Buick has had an exceptionally successful year and is laying ambitious plans for 1938," said Mr. Folger. "Figures from the factory show that more than 220,000 Buicks were delivered during the 1937 model year, a gain of more than 30 per cent over 1936, and I understand that increased schedules are in effect for 1938."

"In Greenville we have enjoyed a very gratifying volume and I look for a good increase in business next year."

Mr. Folger said that production already is well under way on the new models and that quick retail delivery will be possible. He said that demands so far exceeded the ability of the Buick factories to produce the 1937 models that a shortage of cars existed until the closing of the plants, and deliveries to customers were in many cases delayed.

Shortly after their return from Atlanta a complete line of 1938 Buicks will be on display at their showroom at Tenth and Washington streets.

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Sept. 18.—Paul Grady of Kenly, who led the field in the first primary for lieutenant governor last year only to lose in the runoff to the incumbent, W. P. Horton, was in Raleigh Friday, but he declined to say he was here on a political survey or anything like that.

Asked if he intends to run for Governor in 1940, he said he was not thinking about it at all at the present being "too busy trying to make a living."

Mr. Grady himself gave a hint as far back as last summer that he might be in next year's race. When the McDonald and the Fountain forces were telling their troubles to the state election board, crying
"Fraud" in high pitched voices, the Johnston county man appeared with them and told the board he wanted the whole thing thrashed out because "I may have occasion to come before you later."

The visitor did go so far as to say that if Lindsay Warren is a candidate he would not be, adding
"I will not run and I will go down the line to support Lindsay Warren."

Speaking of "making a living,"
State Senator Archie Gay of Northampton, was in town Friday but gave that as his reason rather than any state business. The big, jovial total to date to 12,614.

and Miss Ruth Reticker of the So-held an executive session at which wound up; and topped off the meet-

Mr. Cromwell spoke on "Organizaand Miss Reticker on "Benefit Pay-tions for the support of their various activities have been asked to send representatives, as also have other organizations which should be interested in this effort to put our community service on a better and more business like basis.

Mr. Ryan stated that the members of the Ministerial association were anxious to eliminate, as far as might be possible, the multiplicity of general appeals to the citizens of Greenville and to consolidate in one major effort all of the askings for the support of community activities.

Any organizations anticipating making public canvass for funds during the coming year are asked to send accredited representatives to the Tuesday night meeting. If the participating agencies concur in this movement it is planned to make the canvass for the Community Chest beginning October 1st.

The meeting on Tuesday night is open to all who are interested in this movement.

DOUBLE FEATURE of a visit by Young Vittorio Mussolini (above) to America will be obtaining new ideas for Italy's motion picture industry and marking the first trip here by any of Il Duce's family.

DEATH'S LEFT-OVERS, ORPHANS OF WAR, these children of soldiers and non-combatants were herded together in huge refugee camps near Peiping, China, to await whatever fate may bring them. After the fighting some may be returned to relatives, but most of the tots will find their homes in ruins, their families missing or dead. In the meantime they present a pathetic sight, left to shift pretty much for themselves while elders are engaged in bitter conflict. Note the girl in the center, carrying a smaller child in her arms.

CHIEF HOST will be Mayor Fiorella LaGuardia, who has worked for months to prepare New York City for the arrival of America's World War veterans and their families.

Army Men Work To Place CCC Boys Facing Release

Raleigh, Sept. 16.—Army authorities at Fort Bragg are working hard to place the 2,901 North Carolina CCC enrollees who face mandatory discharge on October, according to Lieutenant Jack P. Morison, reemployment officer at Fort Bragg who has been in Raleigh in connection with these efforts.

Already jobs have been found for two hundred of the boys who must quit the government agency and take up the struggle for existence as ordinary workaday people, Lieutenant Morison said.

The Fort Bragg officer conferred with the Department of Conservation and Development from which he secured a list of the activities in which that department is active and in which there may be opportunities for placement. He also conferred at length with the North Carolina Unemployment Service which works in cooperation with the federal government and through which placements of the CCC men will be made in large part.

A large percentage of the young men who will be available for employment are now skilled workers, Lieutenant Morison said, as it has been a part of the CCC program to give the enrollees both theoretical and practical experience in work for which they showed aptitude. Among the subjects in which many of the men were trained are electrical engineering, forestry, office work, etc.

Employers who have need for workers, either skilled or unskilled are urged by the army authorities to get in touch with the N. C. Employment service, Raleigh, which has a list of the men available and of their qualifications.

To be discharged are all CCC men who have served two years or who have reached the age of 23.

The Japanese were said to have advanced within a mile of Liuhong, the powerful wireless transmitting base to the north where Chinese forces were in strong positions.

Heavy Chinese casualties were reported in the counter attack when Japanese allowed the advancing troops to push within close range before opening a withering machine gun fire that halted the Chinese.

Chinese army authorities admitted Japanese forces had recaptured Lotien, about 15 miles north of Shanghai and that Chinese troops were retreating from positions on the Liuhong sector nearer the city.

Liuhong, itself was said still to be in Chinese hands, however, as the fighting raged, China observed a day of mourning to commemorate the republic's loss of Manchuria in 1931.

WALKER PICKS FIRST ELEVEN

Wake Forest Opens Season With Tenn. Sept. 25th

Wake Forest, Sept. 18.—Although Coach Peahead Walker has had less than three weeks to look over his Wake Forest football charges, he has already decided on a first club and unless some of the No. 2 boys spring forward next week, there are not likely to be any changes before the initial contest of the season against the University of Tennessee in Knoxville, September 25.

The No. 1 ends are Fred Hoyle and Roy Evans. Hoyle is a junior monogram end, while Evans is seeing his first duty as a flankman—having been converted from guard where he was a reserve last year. Hoyle and Evans weigh 167 and 185, respectively. Eddie Woolbert, soph, John Weaver, reserve, and Forrest Glass, a letterman of 1935, are all promising prospects for end and should be in the game a great deal of the time.

Evans, Woolbert and Glass are the team's best kickers and these boys are all vying for the same side of the line. Glass starred his sophomore year, but did not try for the club last season.

Coach Walker is using Harry Beaver, 190 pounder, and Allen Powers, 210 pounder from Denver, Tenn., as the first string tackles. Powers is a product of Tennessee Wesleyan Junior College. Clem Crabtree and Vernon Sprull are holding the second tackle posts.

Rupert Bryan, letterman, and Rupert Pate, a sophomore, are the No. 1 guards. Bryan is a senior and weighs 167. Pate, Bryan's mate, scales 182. Glenn Kerley, a junior reserve, is pushing Pate hard for his position. Dick York, a soph, alternates with Bob Shell at the No. 4 guard post.

The spot on the club that is not causing any worry to Coach Walker, is center. In Captain Boots Mumford, the Deacs have the best center ever to grace a Baptist uniform—so say many of the old-timers. Captain Mumford, although weighing but 170, backs up the line with the caniness of a fox and the ferocity of a tiger. He is also a fine blocker on the offense. Besides his duties as captain and center, he will call the plays from his pivot position.

The combination of Red McCarthy, blocking back; Dave Fuller, fullback, and Walt Clayton and George Wirtz, halfbacks, forms the best quartet for the backfield and it is improbable that any shifts will be made here before the Tennessee game next Saturday.

Wheeler Dale, letter center, is understudying Captain Mumford, and although he is very small for a center, Coach Walker is very much pleased with the boy's play.

UNC TAPERING OFF FOR GAME

Tar Heels To See Action Against Gamecocks Next Week

Chapel Hill, Sept. 18.—The North Carolina football squad today closed the first week of polishing drills for the hard opener with South Carolina here next Saturday. The Tar Heels will conclude the final week of preparations next Friday.

The Gamecocks met Emory and Henry today in their season's opener at Columbia. They rated overwhelming favorites to win.

The contest will mark the 20th contest between the two teams. Although North Carolina holds a wide edge in the number of victories, most of the games have been exceedingly close. The ancient Tar Heel-Gamecock rivalry started back in 1903.

The teams have met only three times since 1926. The Gamecocks measured off their rival 14 to 6 here in 1927. North Carolina's brilliant 1929 team, one of the greatest scoring elevens in Tar Heel football history, ran roughshod over the Gamecocks 40 to 0 at Columbia.

Seven years elapsed before the two teams met again. At Columbia last season the Tar Heels again predominated. Yet they were extended to the limit in winning 14 to 0. North Carolina pushed over both scores in the first half. The first came on a 28 yard line smash by Jim Hutchins. All-Southern fullback, and the second on a 9-yard end sprint by Crowell Little, quarterback.

The second half was fought on even terms with first one and then the other threatening to score. Both Gamecock and Tar Heel linemen rose to great heights to ward off scoring threats.

Future South Carolina teams were in the making last season. The 1936 squad listed some 25 sophomores and 10 juniors. Only a handful of seniors were lost by graduation. The outlook is excellent this season. With a year's seasoning, the Palmetto "Junior Team" will be ready to shoot the works. The squad is fortified by a flock of sophomores, most of them promising, and several good seniors.

The two elevens will stack up on

The grand job of relief hurling Johnny Murphy has been doing for the Yankees all season is reminiscent of the days ten years ago when Wiley Moore was trotting out his famous snker ball almost every other afternoon to come to the rescue of some faltering Yankee hurler.

Moore just about saved the pennant for the New York club that season and right now the Yankees' margin of victories in the American league pennant race is represented by the number of games Johnny has saved by his relief hurling.

This season, as in the past, Gehrig, Di Maggio and company have managed to pound out a flock of runs off the offerings of the opposing pitchers but at the same time Manager Joe McCarthy's starting pitchers have been mauled about more than a little themselves.

So frequently has Murphy been called to hop the bull pen fence and come to the rescue of a faltering teammate that it was no wonder that a vag in the stands asked, "How much rent do you pay for leasing the pitchers' mound, Johnny?"

As a matter of fact, Murphy has worked in almost one-third of the total games the Yankees have played this season. And so successful has he been in stemming the tide when it had turned against the Yankees that he found himself at the top of the list in the pitching averages.

One of the main reasons for his success as a relief pitcher is that Johnny spends most of his time in the bull pen observing opposing batters so that when he steps out on the mound he has some definite knowledge to work on.

Murphy came to the Yankees from the campus of Fordham. After an apprenticeship with Albany, St. Paul and Newark he joined the Yankees' staff and has been a valuable member for the last four seasons.

almost even terms. The two lines will average approximately 188 pounds. The Tar Heel backs will weigh around 180 as compared to 175 for the Palmetto quartet. The extra poundage will probably be more than offset by the speed of the Gamecock backs.

LID PRIED OFF OF NEW SEASON

State and Davidson Play First Game At Greensboro

Greensboro, Sept. 18.—A crowd of more than 12,000 people will watch grid teams of North Carolina State and Davidson College open the Big Five football race when they clash here tonight at 8 o'clock at Memorial stadium.

Both clubs arrived here this morning and the rival coaches, Williams (Doc) Newton of State, and Gene McIver, Davidson, said their clubs were in good physical shape and ready to play ball. Coach McIver was happy that his star end and captain, Bailey Williams, would be ready to start. Williams has been on the injured list.

When State and Davidson met in Raleigh last fall, Newton and McEwer sat on the same bench, Newton as head coach of the Davidson team and McEwer as his chief assistant. This year they are on opposite sides of the field as last winter Newton went to State and McEwer took his place at the Presbyterian school.

McEwer has brought the same kind of Davidson club here today that has represented Davidson for years—a team that never stops battling. He has given the Wildcats a new play this year, and it is called the "Big Apple." It is expected to worry Newton's Wolves plenty.

Newton's team will flash a new signal calling system on the Wildcats. The State coach has not released for publication details of his new signal calling system, but he says it is entirely new and will speed up the ball game.

The expected lineups are:
State—Jess Tatum and Carroll Conrad, ends; George Fry and E. V. Helms, tackles; Bunnie Hines and Warren Wooden, guards; Louie Marks, center; Rooney, Berlinski, George Murphy and Paul Lozier, backs.

Davidson—Williams and Nicholson, ends; Goodman and Grahame, tackles; Hill and Johnston, guards; Purdy, center; Lafferty, Dennis, McClellan and Bolin, backs.

The dark ships

BY HULBERT FOOTNER

SYNOPSIS: Neill, a special agent, finds his beloved Janet locked in a cabin on Prescott Fanning's yacht at Absalom's Harbor. With her are a gun and Fanning's freshly shot body. Neill hides her nearby in a disused liner, then joins Mark Bonniger, local investigator. Neill learns Janet didn't shoot the flashy swindler. He suspects quacker like Eyster, who hated Fanning. Also in the picture are Kettering, a Baltimore lawyer down to fish, and Ira Buckless, tough who trails Neill. Bonniger leads a search of the dark ships. Neill leaves the searching party, reaches Janet's suite and together they slip into the dark corridors to hide.

Chapter 30 THE DUMBWAITER

They crouched on the principal stairway, listening for sounds from above. A close heavy silence lay on the ship that was like a weight on their breasts. Neill searched for Janet's hand in the dark and pressed it.

"Jen, darling, I'm so sorry I got in a rage last night."

She leaned against him. "That was nothing, Neill."

"But it was! It was! If I hadn't been such a fool, this wouldn't have happened."

"Don't!" she whispered. "I can't bear to hear you blame yourself!"

"Everything you said was right, Jen! There was a man hidden in the clothes closet of your cabin on the yacht. We found evidence of it today."

"Then you know now that I did not shoot Fanning."

"I know it—not that it makes any difference to me."

She kissed him.

After what seemed like an age, they heard doors opening above them in the ship, and subdued voices. The searchers had entered the restaurant on A deck. They did not pause, but came down the stairs. Nor did they linger on B deck. Evidently the plan of searching the vessel had been changed. Neill and Janet had to snatch up their belongings and run on down in a hurry. At one moment Bonniger was so close to them that they heard him say:

"If we cornered them in the hold of the vessel, a desperate man might shoot. It's better to work from the bottom up. We'll force them out into the open on deck."

Hand in hand, Neill and Janet flew down the stairs as silently as if they had been on wings—to D deck and on to E deck. In the grand saloon they distributed their impedimenta amongst the other litter, hoping that it would not be too closely examined, and ran across the immense room, keeping only Janet's clothes and the precious food and water. As the pantry door swung to behind them, Bonniger's light showed around the bend of the stairs.

Running across the pantry, they entered the corridor between the bakery and cold storage rooms. As they came into the galley beyond, a door on the other side opened and a light showed through. They drew back with the cold hand of fear on their breasts.

"It's no use!" whispered Janet. "We're caught between them!"

"Back this way," said Neill.

In the pantry, he switched on his light and cast it desperately around. In the middle of the room a dumbwaiter rested on a table with its ropes disappearing into a shaft overhead.

Going Up

"It's a chance!" said Neill.

"Quick! Into it!"

"There's not room for two!" gasped Janet.

"Stand on top!"

The dumbwaiter had a hinged shelf. Janet crept onto it, pressing the shelf up, and Neill climbed on top. The contraption had never been designed to lift such a weight. Neill pulled the hoisting rope and they started to rise from the table. The whole apparatus creaked alarmingly, but it held together. They disappeared into the closed shaft and Neill stopped pulling.

Listening, they heard the doors swing below them, Bonniger and Bickel met in the pantry. Each had a man with him. Bickel said:

"All of the galley there are doors into the port and starboard engine rooms. You and I can take one side, Wilson and Forsythe the other."

"Lead the way," said Bonniger. "There's a man posted on every stairway."

The door swung again, and there was silence below. After waiting a minute, Neill whispered: "Are you all right?"

"If the stairways are watched we are still trapped," said Janet.

"We're going up," said Neill.

"Where does this thing go to?"

"Darned if I know."

He started pulling again and they rose slowly. After a seemingly endless ascent through the closed shaft, one side of it opened and they looked into a room they had not seen before. A little starlight was coming through the windows. Around the walls there were sinks, racks of dishes, heating tables and other appurtenances of a pantry.

Neill stepped off his perch and, pulling the dumbwaiter higher, helped Janet out of her cramped position inside. He cautiously pushed out a swing door for an inch or two and found himself looking into the restaurant on the boat deck with its all windows, all around. A glass door looking astern stood open and outside it showed the silhouette of an armed man. He yawned audibly and stretched himself, pistol in hand.

Neill placed one of his boots between door and frame so that he could continue to watch the man. Neill and Janet sat down on the floor, leaning together without saying anything, and a long time passed—or so it seemed. Suddenly the dumb waiter gave a shake and a rattle and disappeared smartly from view. Janet almost umped out of her skin, and Neill swallowed a laugh.

"It's all right," he said. "They're searching the pantry now. They're only making sure that we're not hiding in the shaft."

The noise attracted the attention of the man on deck and he turned to listen. Neill softly withdrew his boot from the door and pulled Janet away. The pantry was L-shaped. They retreated around the corner of the wall, and crept under a serving table. The man came in. His mind as on the dumbwaiter. Sticking his head in the shaft, he called:

"Hello, down there!"

From deep below a voice answered: "Hello!"

"Did you just pull this thing down?"

"Sure."

"That's all right then. All quiet up here."

He went out on deck and Neill and Janet relaxed. Neill hung an arm around her to steady her trembling.

Back To The Royal Suite

After about a quarter of an hour, Neill said: "The search must have passed beyond the pantry by now. Let's go!"

While Janet watched the man out on deck, he very softly pulled up the dumbwaiter. They got into it as before, and he let it down inch by inch until it bumped softly on the table in the E deck pantry. All was dark and still below.

Crossing the saloon, they listened at the bottom of the main stairway. Faint sounds of the search on D deck came down. Bonniger's signal was given and his party ascended to C deck. After a long time they heard the signal again, and the search moved up another flight. Having recovered the bucket, the rope ladder, the ball of twine, etc., Neill and Janet crept up the stairway and stole back through a corridor to the royal suite.

"Home at last!" said Neill.

They bolted the doors and enjoyed a brief let-down.

They presently went out on the veranda. Neill pulled down the heavy window (it opened from the top) and they stood beside it listening. Soon they heard the search party come out on the boat deck. Bonniger's final signal was given; and they heard the whole party descending the ladders.

"They have gone," he said.

"Oh, Neill!" faltered Janet.

"What now?"

"I must go back and join them."

"How can you get out of this ship if the door at the top of the engine room staff is fastened?"

"That's easy. I'll climb out on the promenade through one of the windows on B deck. You can come with me and close it after I am out. That is, if you're not afraid to come back alone."

"I won't be afraid," said Janet. "Not after what we have already been through. How will you get back without being seen?"

"I'll climb out on the starboard side of this vessel. I'll make sure that no one is watching from above before I try to jump across. Once on the Montmorenci, I'm safe."

They set out. "Remember the signal when I come back tomorrow night," Neill said as he kissed her at the window on B deck.

He took plenty of time to make the return journey taking care to spot each guard on the boat deck, before exposing himself. The search party was now inside the Columbia. He slid down the rope to the crib that held the vessels apart and dropped into his skiff. He put on his boots and 10 minutes later was tying his skiff to the platform at the foot of the ladder. As he ran up, the policeman's head stuck out over the rail.

"So you're back," he said.

"Anything doing while I was gone?" asked Neill.

"There was an alarm raised over on the Abraham Lincoln that somebody had been seen, but they didn't find anybody. They're in Columbia now."

"I'll watch the middle gangway until they come back on deck," said Neill. "Have a cigarette?"

U. S. MAY JOIN LEAGUE TALKS

The United States was represented on the earlier committee and Geneva reports said an invitation would be sent this government to collaborate again.

There has been no official announcement as yet the invitation has actually been received here. The fact, however, that Hull was accompanied to his conference with the President by Hugh Wilson, assistant.

Secretary of State and the State department's league of nations expert, indicated to some the invitation was the subject of the White House conference.

Meantime L. W. Roberts, secretary of the national Democratic committee, said at the White House the President had accepted tentatively an invitation to confer with the newly created southeastern governor's conference at Warm Springs, Ga., about Thanksgiving day.

Other developments: Fresh outbursts of criticism and support of Justice Hugo Black, alleged to be a life member of the Ku Klux Klan, came from these public figures:

Republican Chairman John Hamilton of New York, President Joseph Shouse of the American Liberty League, Senator Connally, (D.-Tex.) Senator Glass (D.-Va.) and Senator Lee (D.-Okla.)

A survey by government experts of world cotton trade last season disclosed that the United States' share declined as that of other important cotton growing nations expanded.

The United States supplied a little less than 45 per cent of the world's total last season, the bureau of agricultural economics said, compared with 64 per cent for a 10-year period.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

Hollywood—Love, which in Hollywood is news when it isn't all a movie is about, is becoming anathema in movie titles. A year ago a title like "Love Without Reason" would have been a humdinger. Today Hal Roach is offering a prize to the studio worker who thinks up a substitute without "love" in it. Love alone—just "Love" has been title only twice. That's what they called "Anna Karenina" the first time they made it. But "love" in combination with other tricks has been a title 155 times—not counting "Lovers" and "Lovings" and "Loves." And that is up to the last official count, not including this year's releases, wherein titulary speaking love has been:

News, on Toast, under Fire, in a Basement, in a Bungalow, from a Wanger, Like That, etc., to say nothing of Love in such combinations as "Danger—Love at Work," "Ladies in Love," and the forthcoming "Live, Love and Learn" and "Love and Hisses."

It's a case of Too Much Love, which incidentally hasn't been used for a title—yet. But there's a very good opening for a few Hates. Hollywood hasn't had a mean title since 1922, when Metro made a picture called just "Hate."

The movies' opera stars (speaking of love) seem to be having a love feast these days. The Misses Pons, Moore, MacDonald and Swarthout were photographed together at the recent Basil Rathbone party, and it was supposed to be the first time in their mutual histories.

As if that weren't enough, Miss Lily Pons her slim figure clad only in a handful of ostrich feathers and trinkets for her role of pseudo-jungle girl in her new film, was rearsing bird trills from a prop-tree on her studio set when a huge package arrived. After the scene, a very funny business in which Jack Oakie, Lily's press agent, convinces Edward Everett Horton, a trophy-less big game hunter, that Lily is a wild bird-girl or girl-bird worthy of capture, Lily climbed down from her perch and went to her dressing room. Thence soon issued exclamations of delight, followed by Lily in person towing a box-taller than herself.

"Grace sent them—Grace Moore" she beamed. "How sweet of her—we should take a picture. Lilies—how sweet!"

Miss Pons' picture, whether appropriately to the incident or not, is called "It Never Happened Before." At least it never happened before that Lee-lee and Grac-ee had the same press agent, which is the case now.

FROM MISSOURI, curvacious Betty Grable was shown how to be a star in Hollywood, but she'll toss aside her career to wed Jackie Coogan.

Seawell Studying If Women Eligible To Serve On Jury

Attorney General Describes Question Under Consideration At This Time Very Interesting

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Sept. 17.—Attorney General A. A. F. Seawell is studying the "interesting question" whether women may be legal jurors and whether their names should be put in the box from which jurors are drawn.

Declaring it "very interesting," the attorney general said it had just come to his office and that he cannot now say when he will render an opinion.

A ruling from him was sought by Loretta Young and Warner Baxter starred in "Wife, Doctor and Nurse," opening at Pitt Friday.

Love that knows no distinction. Scene from "Stella Dallas" featuring John Boles and Barbara Stanwyck at the Pitt, Wed-Thurs.

the Mecklenburg county attorney after a large delegation of women, fully qualified for jury duty other than by sex, appeared before the county board there and demanded that their names and the names of all other qualified women be added to the jury lists compiled by the commissioners.

Despite the fact that the women of North Carolina have been legally qualified to vote ever since final ratification of the 19th (Woman's Suffrage) Amendment to the federal constitution, no court decision has been had in this state clarifying their status as prospective jurors. In all the years no woman defendant's attorney has ever raised the point of systematic exclusion of women from juries. It was a similar point, relating to Negro jurors, which brought reversal of the famous Scottsboro case convictions. As early as 1925, Mr. Seawell said a bill was introduced in the North Carolina legislature under which women would have been expressly qualified for jury service, but the measure was withdrawn when doubt of its validity under the North Carolina Constitution were raised. Again in 1931, he said, there was another abortive effort in the same direction.

AN AERIAL ATTACK sent U. I. Whitehead, Jr., veteran back, crashing on his head when he took a flyer over the line in scrimmage at the U. S. Naval Academy's football practice. But the ball was safe as Annapolis' future admirals oiled their grid machine for attack on a schedule which, as always, highlights the Army game in November.

CARRYING THE MALE suit pattern into women's clothes, this fall attire consists of a link-fastened black wool jacket, a pique edged waistcoat, and a striped skirt in men's suiting. The bow-tied blouse is surah and the beret is black felt. Inspiration probably came from tailoring shops for men.

LEAVING A LIGHT IN THE WINDOW, Father Knickerbocker is ready for the homecoming of 500,000 Legionnaires who will pour into Manhattan Sept. 26 for the five-day national convention. Down Fifth Avenue where they marched 20 years ago on their way to war, the veterans will again parade in a procession lasting possibly 18 hours. Music from 500 bands will echo through the skyscraper canyons. "This will be the biggest convention the Legion has had, or ever will have," predicted Commander Colmery.
