ANGLO-FRENCH SKEPTICAL OF NAZI PROMISE

Duce Agrees to Send No More Volunteers To Spain

SNAG FEARED BY BRITAIN, FRANCE

Many Observers Wonder Whether Italy Is Preparing To Make Surprising Move

London, Sept. 24.—(AP)—An authoritative source asserted today Premier Mussolini had promised Britain and France he would send no more "volunteers" to Spain, making possible Italian interest in the Anglo-French diplomatic front and a new balance of power for Europe.

While Britain and France were keenly anxious to accept Italy's advances at face value, they could not help but look for a possible snag. A definite feeling of optimism prevailed in foreign office circles, but it was tempered by a slight suspicion of Duce's motives in promising such a startling assurance about Spain.

His sudden willingness to promise no further troops would be sent to aid the Spanish insurgents—coming on the eve of his departure for an important conference with Chancellor Hitler of Germany—caused many observers to wonder whether Italy was preparing some new and surprising move.

Some British observers—and Rome dispatches bore this out—were frankly considering Mussolini's gesture of cooperation with France and England as a method of strengthening his position to drive a harder bargain with Hitler.

His authoritative British source said Italy had given France and Britain a definite promise no more Italian troops would go to Spain if the three powers would agree, among other things, on Italian demands for parity with Britain and France in the Mediterranean anti-piracy accord.

New Highway Aids Fight On Erosion At Wrightsville

Destruction of Southern End Of Beach Checked as Result of Construction of New Road

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Sept. 24.—Erosion of the southern end of Wrightsville beach by wind and waves have been considerably decreased as a result of the construction of the new highway on the sound side and the dredging done to build the highway, according to Professor Theodore S. Johnson of State College, chief of the water resources division of the Department of Conservation and Development.

For several years Professor Johnson has been in charge of the beach erosion studies which the conservation department and the U. S. Beach Erosion Board have been carrying on as a joint project in North Carolina.

"Indications are that the construction of this new highway down the sound side of Wrightsville beach is going to be of tremendous value in retarding beach erosion and in anchoring the spit of beach more securely," Prof. Johnson said.

"There has already been a noticeable decrease in the erosion along the south end of the beach and the depth of the Masonboro Inlet, at the south tip of the beach, has already increased in depth to 22 feet as compared with the former depth of 13 feet before the dredging was done on the sound side and the new road built. We believe that the dredging operations in the sound, by increasing the depth of the water on the sound side, has caused an increase in the flow of water back and forth through the inlet as the tides change, thus dredging it deeper all the time."

The erosion situation on the north end of Wrightsville Beach is still serious, however, as the wind and tides are continuing to bite more and more deeply into the shore line, Johnson said. The erosion in some places has been so pronounced during the last few years that there are several cottages which now need to be moved a hundred feet or more back from the beach to keep the ocean from completely undermining them, especially if a storm should develop, Johnson said. He is convinced that the only thing that will retard erosion on the north end of Wrightsville Beach is the construction of "groins" or jetties at right angle to the beach, to catch and hold the shifting sands.

ROOSEVELT LEAVES FOR FAR WESTERN TOUR

Accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, President Roosevelt is shown leaving Hyde Park, N. Y., on his "political pulse feeling" trip to the Pacific northwest. Son John and his fiancée, Ann Clark of Boston, came down to the depot to see them off but left the rear platform before the train started.

CITY FATHERS DISCUSS TAXES

Board of Aldermen Hold Special Call- ed Meeting

A round table discussion of tax and pavement collections consumed most of the time at a called meeting last night of the Greenville Board of Aldermen.

At the same time that the city fathers were attempting to devise means to collect back paving assessments, several resolutions of request for new paving were presented. The $200,000 bond issue proposal to be decided at the polls October 4 includes $50,000 for street improvement and if the streets mentioned in the petitions are paved the funds will come from this amount. Several petitions were already on file with the board.

The board received a report from J. O. Duval on the collection of per-

Student Who Shot Principal Victim Of Hallucinations

Twelve-Year-Old Boy Is Believed Temporarily Deranged as Result of Reading Gangster Stories

Toledo, Ohio, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Police say today in the shooting of Miss June Mapes, 59, Arlington school principal, by Robert Snyder, 12-year-old pupil, the picture of a boy temporarily deranged by hallucinations of "toughness as a gangster."

"I feel sorry for the boy and his parents," the principal, lying in Toledo hospital with a bullet wound through her groin, told Police Sergeant A. W. Bernhagen. "I would rather that nothing more were said about it." Her condition was reported as favorable.

The boy was in a serious condition in Mercy hospital, with a shot through his head which Bernhagen said was self-inflicted.

Detective Lieutenant Ralph Murphy, head of the homicide squad, said he was told by James Peltz, 12, close friend of the Snyder, that Robert recently had been listening to radio programs based on crimes and reading bandit stories.

Murphy said his investigation led him to believe the boy, armed with his father's automatic pistol, wanted to show his "toughness" in the face of authority by his pretty little class-mate, Gloria Moore, 12.

North Carolina Left Out In Federal REA Grants

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Sept. 24.—The Federal Rural Electrification Administration has ignored North Carolina during the present fiscal year, so far as allotting any money for construction of electric lines is concerned, according to records of the State Rural Electrification Authority.

Congress appropriated $30,000,000 to be allotted by the REA during the 1937-38 fiscal year, but so far not one cent has been allotted to North Carolina. Last year this state's allocation amounted to $1,218,787 but less than half that sum—$571,000 to be exact—was approved and allotted by the federal agency. There are now pending before the REA in Washington seven applications from North Carolina totalling $702,300. Of these seven, three asking for $232,300 were in Washington prior to June 30, 1937. The other four, in which a total of $470,000 is requested, have been

Charlotte Pastor Ousted By Church

Concord, N. C., Sept. 24.—(AP)—The Rev. G. N. Hendry, of Charlotte, was adjudged guilty of "destroying the First Methodist Protestant Church of Charlotte" and of being "unfaithful as a pastor and guilty of mal-administration at a hearing here today before a court of the church.

The committee recommended that Mr. Hendry be suspended from all official relationship of the Methodist Board of Aldermen.

Under church rules, officials said, Mr. Hendry may appeal within 20 days.

The verdict was announced by the Rev. Clay Madison, pastor at High Point, who served as clerk.

The Rev. R. M. Andrews of High Point, president of the North Carolina Conference of the church, declined to discuss the proceedings before or after they were conducted. The names of the committee serving as jurors were not disclosed.

LIQUOR LOSES IN TENNESSEE

Prohibition Forces Acclaim Two-To- One Victory

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 24.—Tennessee dries acclaimed today their two-to-one victory in yesterday's prohibition referendum and planned an attack on legalized beer, while wetts insisted the advisory balloting was a "meaningless farce."

Prohibitionists saw a great "moral victory" in the results and announced they would move shortly for repeal of a statute that permits five per cent beer. The state is one of five whose anti-whiskey laws have survived repeal of national prohibition.

Wets noted, however, the total vote apparently would run 109,000 below that cast in 1933, when the state ratified national repeal and claimed the issue ultimately would have to be settled on a local option basis.

With 1,723 precincts reported out of 2,160 in the state, the count stood for repeal 36,022 against 99,735. The majority was 51,713. About 500,000 were qualified to vote.

In the 1933 election Tennessee voted 126,942 to 120,107 for repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Iowa has one child in school for each four persons in the population.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. SKINNER

Widow of Col Harry Skinner Succumbs in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Ella Montiero Skinner, widow of Col. Harry Skinner, died in Washington, D. C., today, after several weeks of critical illness. Funeral arrangements had not been completed late this afternoon.

The body will arrive in Wilson on an Atlantic Coast Line train at 8:44 o'clock tonight and will be brought here.

Mrs. Skinner was prominently connected with the Catholic Church here and she and her step-daughter Miss Winnie Skinner, gave their home to be used as a convent. Mrs. Skinner assumed the name of Sister Mary Frances and Miss Skinner of Sister Mary Joseph.

She is survived by three step-daughters, Mrs. A. M. Moseley and Sister Mary Joseph of Greenville, and Mrs. H. B. Bateman of Wilson. Her only child, a son, Francis Skinner, died several years ago. A step-son, Harry Skinner, also died.

Turkeys Plentiful In North Carolina For Holiday Fetes

With Production About 10 Per Cent Ahead of Last Year, Supply Is Reaching Record Levels

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Sept. 24.—Thanksgiving and Christmas tables will groan under the weight this year of one of North Carolina's largest turkey crops, according to T. T. Brown, extension poultryman at State College.

While the study of holiday birds in this state is reaching toward record levels, the indicated production for the United States is about 10 per cent below the 1936 figure.

Although traditionally a Thanksgiving delicacy, southerners seem to get away from the New England custom and serve more turkey on Christmas Day than they do on the November holiday.

However, the balance may be evened up a little this year, Brown stated. Turkey growers have indicated their intention to market their birds earlier and at slightly heavier weights than last year. Also the average date of turkey hatching appears to have been earlier this year than last.

Figures from the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics indicate that the expected average weight of turkeys this year will be 14.5 pounds for South Atlantic states. Because many small families find it unprofitable to buy these large birds, they forego the delicacy and use a smaller fowl such as chicken or duck.

In reviewing last year's bumper crop of gobblers, Brown pointed out that partly because of the reluctance of producers to accept prices prevailing at the time of the Thanksgiving marketings, and partly because of the late average date at hatching, an unusually large proportion of the crop was held for later marketing. The high cost of feed required to carry these birds to later dates and heavier weights, coupled with lower prices received, involved serious losses to many producers.

This experience is no doubt partly responsible for the much earlier dates at which turkey growers plan to market this year, Brown said.

The President's flag consists of the President's seal in bronze on a blue field, with a white star in each corner.

LEAF AVERAGE FOR THURSDAY BEST OF YEAR

Picture Much Brighter Than Same Time Year Ago

WEEKLY FIGURES ALSO ENCOURAGE

Money Paid Out This Season Nearly $2,- 000 Above That For Same Date in 1936

The highest average of the season on the Greenville tobacco market was paid here yesterday, when 1,048,286 pounds of the weed sold for $261,681.52, an official average of $24.96 per hundred pounds.

Last week's sales, both as to offerings and average price, made a substantial gain over the corresponding period last year. The general season average also continued to gain and at the close of sales yesterday this year's figure was only a few cents per hundred pounds below that for the same time last year.

The local market averaged more than a million pounds a day for the week closing yesterday. During the five sales days 5,597,738 pounds were sold for $131,017.26, an official average of $23.47, the highest weekly average thus far this season. During the corresponding week last year 4,027,090 pounds were sold for $80,187.25, an average of $20.86 per hundred pounds. The average last week was $26.1 a hundred pounds higher than for the corresponding period in 1936.

The season's offerings are running far ahead of those last year. Through yesterday the market had sold 20,983,514 pounds for $448,555.89, an official average of $21.38 per hundred. Last year 12,878,514 pounds had been sold to the same date, bringing $2,777,349.95, an average of $21.57.

The entire picture is much brighter than it was a year ago. Farmers selling their tobacco in Greenville have received $1,708,206.14 more than they had at the same time a year ago, and nearly two million dollars is no small sum even in the largest tobacco producing county in the world.

Wilson Addresses Water-Light Club At Regular Meet

Chairman of North Carolina Industrial Commission Commends Members for Promoting Safety

T. A. Wilson, chairman of the North Carolina Industrial Commission, was the chief speaker at the regular quarterly safety meeting of the Water and Light Club, held at Respass' place last night.

Mr. Wilson related several experiences in which human lives had been saved through the administration of first aid treatment by persons who had undergone training in this work.

The purpose of the club is to promote safety and Mr. Wilson commended the members for the initiative they were taking along this line. Each member of the club has been trained in first aid and Mr. Wilson declared this training would prove of value not only in the plant, but on the roads or any where the members chanced to be when an emergency arose.

He explained the activities of the commission of which he is chairman and its effects on employer and employee.

Mayor M. K. Blount made a few remarks and then introduced the industrial commission chairman.

The club, composed of employees of the Water and Light Commission, was organized as an athletic club, but subsequently turned its chief aims to the promotion of safety.

HORSE THIEF 'DETECTIVES' STILL GET TOGETHER

Garnaville, Ia., —(AP)—The Garnaville Horse Thief Detective Association, organized in 1850, still functions.

Thirty members hold annual meetings on Whit Monday (second Monday after Ascension, in May) and they pay dues, elect a captain and eleven riders.

According to original plans the captain and his riders were notified when a horse was stolen. The "detectives" started search immediately. They were allowed $5 a day expenses and stood a good chance of getting the $50 reward if the thief was caught.

GARRS FACING MURDER TRIAL

Trio Brothers Charged With Slaying of Gen. Denhardt

Shelbyville, Ky., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Rhodes Myers, before a court room jammed with spectators today described the slaying of Brigadier General Henry Denhardt here Monday night on the eve of his second trial, charged with the murder of Mrs. Verna Taylor.

Myer's attorney who had helped defend Denhardt at his first trial, which ended in a hung jury, was called as the first witness in the trial of Mrs. Taylor's three brothers, Roy, Jack and Dr. E. S. Garr, charged with murdering Denhardt. Myers came in County Judge H. P. Walker's court guarded by two state police whom Col. E. O. Huey, head of the state police, said, he had requested after receipts of letters threatening him if he returned here.

He testified he and Denhardt started back to a hotel the night of the shooting and added: "As we neared the middle of the street I saw three men standing outside a car parked on a side street. They were Dr. Garr, Roy Garr and Jack Garr."

"I said, 'General there are the Garr boys.'"

"The general took a rapid step toward the hotel, while Dr. Garr started toward us."

"Just then two shots were fired while the Garr's were about 25 feet away."

"There was a pause after the second shot."

Myers said he did not know which of the Garrs fired the first shot, but that Jack did not have a gun.

"Roy Garr went up to the general and forced a shot as he stood over the general."

Farley Postpones Leaving P. O. Dept.

New York, Sept. 24.—(AP)—James Farley's resignation as postmaster general and his acceptance of the presidency of the Pierce-Arrow Motor corporation, it was understood in informed circles today, has been delayed by the current decline in securities and the preparation of a SEC registration statement for a new issue of Pierce-Arrow stocks.

After considering numerous other offers for executive positions Farley agreed several weeks ago to become head of the motor car company.

WIFE CLINCHES AN ARGUMENT WITH SCISSORS

Arkansas City, Kas., Sept. 24.—(AP)—Add tips on how to keep your husband in evenings.

An Arkansas City man brought three pairs of trousers into a tailor shop and sadly asked if they could be repaired. He said he and his wife had an argument over whether he should go out one evening.

She won by taking the scissors and snipping off the legs of all of his dress trousers.

Expansion Of Historical Commission Is Discussed

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Sept. 24.—General expansion of the work and facilities of the North Carolina Historical Commission will result from completion of the state's new office building, Dr. C. C. Crittenden, executive secretary told the commission this afternoon at a regular session.

The entire first floor and half the basement space in the structure for which there has been appropriated $550,000 has been definitely assigned the commission. Dr. Crittenden said. There is no certainty about the date upon which the building will be completed, but plans are already going forward for expansion of the commission's work he added.

In new quarters, ample enough to take care of the material gathered, the commission will actively resume its search for historical documents and curios. At present there is no space in which to display, or even to store, material

Chief Executive Ad- dresses Group At Cheyenne, Wyo.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Sept. 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt told a crowd of thousands today he was going to continue in his second term the way he had in his first, "trying to do the most good for the greatest number."

After being welcomed by a group including Senator O'Mahoney, Democratic foe of the supreme court proposal, the President declared he had told a friend recently who advised him to "coast" from now on, that he would not take such advice.

"I don't want to coast, and the nation doesn't want me to coast with my feet up on the front wheels," he said.

"People are thinking in national terms," he asserted, adding the administration projects up to date have had the national point of view in mind.

"Don't let anybody deceive you, the government of the United States is not going broke," he added.

Sen. O'Mahoney was in the welcoming committee with Governor Leslie Miller, Senator H. H. Schwartz, a court bill proponent, and Rep. Hall Greener, all Wyoming Democrats. O'Mahoney, although he was not formally invited to board the President's special, boarded the chief's private car as the train pulled out. During the President's talk he had stood at the rear of the train in the crowd, as did Governor Miller, Senator Schwartz and Congressman Greener.

O'Mahoney told newsmen when he greeted the President inside the car they said to each other: "You're looking fine."

Sheriff George Carroll estimated the crowd gathered to hear the President at from 4,000 to 5,000.

Recently Created Community Chest Directors Chosen

Representatives of Various Organ- izations to Share in Plan Ask- ed to Meet With Board

James S. Ficklen, chairman of the board of directors of the Community Chest, today announced the personnel of the board. In addition to the chairman the members are Judson Blount, Rev. Thomas McKim Grant, Dr. Lewis C. Skinner, J. E. Winslow, Mrs. J. H. B. Moore, with an additional member to be appointed.

Mr. Ficklen announced a meeting of the board of directors to be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the library, at which time the board will complete the organizational work of the Community Chest and assign to the members their several duties.

Members of all organizations which wish to share in the chest funds have been requested to appear before the board at that time for the presentation of their proposed activities, estimated budgets and amounts which it will be necessary to raise through public subscription. The character of the board of directors assures both a sympathetic hearing and an equitable distribution of such funds as are raised through the work of the Community Chest.

The definitely favorable attitude of both individuals and groups which have expressed themselves concerning this move to put the social work on a better and more business-like basis speaks well for the success of the Community Chest campaign which will be conducted in the near future.

STATEMENT BY POLICY BOARD

Chiang Kai-Shek De- clares United States Obligated Support China; Cholera Is Spreading in China; Japanese Surround Base Near Peiping

Washington, Sept. 24.—(AP)—The United States Navy served formal notice today its Asiatic fleet would remain in Chinese waters "as long as the present controversy between China and Japan exists."

The statement was issued by the navy department as a formal announcement of Admiral Harry Yarnell, commander in chief of the Asiatic squadron.

It was made public after a meeting of the navy general board, the highest policy making body of the navy department.

The announcement said the navy's policy of maintaining warships at ports, where needed for the protection of American nationals, will continue in full force even after our nationals have been warned to leave China and after an opportunity to leave has been given.

Nanking, Sept. 24.—(AP)—General Chiang Kai-Shek, premier of China and commander in chief of the army, declared today the United States was obligated by her treaties to "support China's struggle against Japanese aggression."

Shortly before, the official Chinese central news agency had expressed on behalf of the government appreciation for the American protests against Japanese bombardment of Nanking, adding "but we hope more positive measures will be adopted against the slaughter of innocent non-combatants."

Shanghai, Sept. 24.—(AP)—The worst cholera epidemic in Shanghai's history was reported today to have struck the Japanese army advancing against the Chinese defense lines northwest of here.

—OUR DAY—

By EDW. W. HEARNE

(With Apologies to Mrs. Roosevelt)

New York City, Sept. 20.—We were fortunate in finding our same restaurant on 9th Avenue that we had visited several years ago and were glad to note the prices were still the same. It is run by an Irish family. The mother cooks, the father is the cashier and the daughter waits on the tables. Our breakfast consisted of orange juice, cornflakes, one egg, potatoes, toast and coffee—15c.

From there to Madison Square Garden where we heard Governor Lehman's splendid address. The Garden was packed to the doors, and that is a crowd—for if you put every man, woman and child (both white and colored) in Greenville in it, they would look like a small gathering.

This afternoon was spent sight-seeing and tonight the jokers are doing every conceivable thing from sitting down in the street and blocking traffic for blocks to throwing water out of hotel windows on those below. One veteran, William T. Shea of Somerville, Mass., fractured his skull when he fell from an I.R.T. elevated platform.

Our battalion of pranksters, each carrying a bottle of beer, would stop automobiles on Times Square and pour the beer in the radiators. The American Legion has certainly shown New York City a thing or two and New York will never forget this mob.

The parade tomorrow promises to be the greatest in the history of the city. Several of us will leave shortly after the march up Fifth Avenue.

So we'll be seeing you. —E. H.

The Board of Christian Education of the church recently held a meeting and made plans for this day and also plans for the years work. Also at this meeting of the board the teachers and officers for the coming year were selected and approved.

Subsequent to the meeting of this board there was held a meeting of the Workers Council at which time the plans of the board were explained to and accepted by the council. The various departments have also held separate meetings under the direction of their superintendents so that the organization is now complete for the year.

On Sunday the first thirty minutes of the Sunday school hour will be taken up with promotions and class routine, then at 10:15 the entire school will assemble in the main auditorium of the church for the remainder of the hour. Then at the regular eleven o'clock preaching service all the teachers and officers will be regularly installing by the pastor.

HELPS FOR HOUSEWIVES

Do not crowd the washing machine full of blankets or other woollens. Allow plenty of space for the articles to soak. There will then be less strain on them.

Green pepper cases make a novel container for crab or other kinds of fish; meat for fowl salads. Cut large, well-shaped peppers in halves lengthwise. Discard the seeds and pulp. Chill the cases until serving time and then roughly fill them with the salad.

To dust doughnuts with sugar place the sugar in a paper sack and put in six doughnuts at a time. Hold the top of the sack together and shake it. The doughnuts will then be quickly coated with sugar.

A wooden salad bowl of the old-fashioned chopping variety makes an attractive center piece for the autumn party if it is filled with assorted appetizers. Surround the bowl with flowers, colored leaves or evergreens.

Hickory nut ice cream makes a pleasant dessert for fall serving. Add one cup of shelled nuts to each quart of cream or custard mixture. Do not add the nuts, however, until the mixture is half frozen.

Cut peeled squash into half-inch pieces and brown two cupsful in three tablespoonful of bacon fat for ten minutes. (Other fat may also be used). Add one tablespoonful of minced parsley, one tablespoonful of minced onion, and a little salt and paprika for seasoning.

Lemon halves and slices are apt to give a bitter taste to punch if they are left in it. It is best to wait until serving time to add them.

SALISBURY BOY ELECTED PRESIDENT OF DI SENATE

Chapel Hill, Sept. 24.—John Erwin Ramsay of Salisbury has been elected president of the Dialectic Senate at the University of North Carolina. His election fills the gap left vacant by the resignation of Newton Craig of Chapel Hill who is on a tour of the British Isles.

At the time of his election Ramsay was holding the next highest position in the senate, that of president pro-tem. He has been active in various other fields, holding a manager's position on the track team and being an active official in the Sigma Nu fraternity.

KOCH WILL GIVE ANNUAL LECTURE ON PLAYMAKING

Chapel Hill, Sept. 24.—Dr. Frederick H. Koch, director of the Carolina Playmakers, will deliver his annual lecture, "Adventures in Playmaking" in the Playmaker Theatre Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock.

As has been the custom for the past several years, everyone who is interested in the theatre, whether student or not, is invited to attend the lecture which will be illustrated by more than 100 slides covering the history of folk drama.

The talk will mark the formal opening of the 1937 Playmaker season. It has not yet been decided whether the first play will be Paul Green's "Johnny Johnson," or Maxwell Anderson's "High Tor."

BY HULBERT FOOTNER

SYNOPSIS Neill, a young federal agent, finds his beloved Janet, a girl and Prescott Fanning's freshly shot body locked in a cabin on Fanning's yacht at Absalom's Harbor. Mr. Neill hides her nearby in a deserted liner, then joins Mark Bonniger, local investigator. Neill learns Janet didn't shoot the flashy swindler, but has to find out who did to save her. He suspects queer little Eyster, who hated Fanning. Ira Buckless, Fanning's hulked-up demand, is arrested. Neill also distrusts Kettering, a lawyer from Baltimore, to help. Buckless costs Fanning on Neill who knows he is in a tight spot.

Chapter 35 The Eyster Saga

ONCE again Neill and Bonniger met at the breakfast table before any of the other guests of the hotel came down stairs. Neither had had more than a couple of hours' sleep. Bonniger's manner was still outwardly friendly, but the warmth that Neill had had a glimpse of was gone. He said:

"I see that you have the same idea as me. It's the early bird that gets the ham and eggs."

"That's right," said Neill. "When the mob charges, stuff work in the kitchen breaks down."

Bonniger went on: "Our first job is to check this tough guy Buckless' alibi."

Neill was surprised. "Our first job? Evidently Bonniger expected to catch him up by making believe that nothing was changed. Neill became wary."

"Suppose you and I make a quick trip to Baltimore for that purpose?" Bonniger went on. "If we start as soon as we finish eating, we can get back here almost before we are missed."

"Sure," said Neill. He thought: He doesn't mean to let me out of his sight.

They set out in one of the police cars before the village was up and doing. Constable Mattingly drove them. Mattingly, a fine physical specimen like all his mates, was pretty sheenish as a result of his escapade up the road the night before and anxious to make good. He drove like a streak.

From the corner of the back seat, Bonniger conversed in his grave fashion. Avoiding all reference to the case in hand, he was trying to draw Neill out as to his past life. He was like a keen-eyed surgeon, scalpel in hand, and Neill in order to protect himself let his head nod as if he found it impossible to keep awake. Bonniger finally let him alone and Neill, with his eyes closed, mullied over his own problems. All depended on whether Buckless' alibi would stand up.

The address furnished by Buckless led them to the modest office of J. Harvey Brager, a young man who combined the occupations of yacht broker, shipping agent and dealer in marine supplies.

"Sure," said Ira Buckless the yacht broker. "That's where my responsibility begins and ends. I never met Fanning."

He went on to describe the trip to Absalom's on Tuesday night, corroborating Buckless in every particular. "I am a methodical kind of fellow and made note of the time. We filled up at the gasoline station on Hanover street at 8:25 and I left Buckless in Absalom's at 10:20. I was back home in Baltimore at 12:15."

They left him. So Buckless' alibi was watertight. Neill was badly let down, and perhaps Bonniger also. As Buckless was cleared, his manner towards Neill hardened.

"That eliminates Buckless. We know that the movies were out at 10:15, and that the crew immediately returned aboard the yacht. Fanning was shot before Buckless arrived on the scene."

It was scarcely necessary to go to the filling station. But they did, and the story was confirmed.

The Detective's Report
THEY sat in the car to discuss the next move. Bonniger said: "To me there is something queer in the story this fellow Eyster told. But since you and he have both testified that you spent Tuesday evening together, I reckon there is no use trying to pin anything on him."

Neill guessed from the dryness of his tone that Bonniger was only trying to draw him. He said nothing. He felt now that Eyster must be their man, but could not say so.

from which he had just now returned. The commissioner had him in to tell Bonniger what he had gathered. It was all in the day's work to Penty. He told his story without a trace of feeling.

"Eyster up to a couple of years ago was a manufacturer of straw hats in New York state and doing well. He had a hard life when young and couldn't marry till he was above 43."

"He marries a girl that worked for him in the factory. A sweet, pretty gentle kind of girl. She was poor and he gives her the nice things she never had before. For a couple of years they was as nappy as a pair of clams at high water, though she was 25 years younger than him. Built an elegant little home and all."

"Then she gets to running around with a slick, showy kind of guy, the usual thing. It was going on some time before Eyster gets on to it. When the show-down comes, she runs off with the slick guy leaving Eyster flat. He went through hell. And that was the worst of it, because a year later she comes back to her husband sick and ready to die. This slick fellow, it seems, was an out-and-out swine. Treated the girl something awful. The folks didn't know his name."

"He takes his wife back and gets doctors and nurses and all. But she dies anyhow and Eyster they says wasn't never no good after that. He sells his business and just bums around. They said when the money was spent they reckoned he would just jump off a wharf somewhere. But his sole aim and desire was to get square with that slick guy before he died."

The hard-boiled grin with which this story was told somehow gave it a sharper edge for Neill. Taken with what he knew already, it was certainly true, and his feelings towards Eyster underwent a change. He and Bonniger exchanged a look and each knew what the other was thinking.

The poor little devil! Who could blame him for shooting the man who had wronged him so?

Both Eliminated?
AS BONNIGER and Neill proceeded to the Lord Baltimore hotel, Bonniger said:

"Had you heard any of this?"

"No details, but I had guessed there was something of this sort in his life."

"But if it was Eyster, where does the girl come in?"

Nevertheless, at that moment they both felt that they were about to solve their case, and they were almost friends again.

In the hotel all this good feeling was shattered. In answer to Bonniger's question, the clerk said:

"Mr. Eyster checked out at nine o'clock Tuesday morning."

Neill stared at him incredulously. "Are you sure?" he demanded.

"Absolutely," said goodby to him when he left.

"Was he tight?" asked Bonniger.

"Oh no. Sober as a judge. Bonniger had left word at police headquarters that he could be found at the Lord Baltimore and he was now called to the phone. Neill waited outside the booth in a state of blank discouragement. If Buckless and Eyster were both eliminated, where was he to look for Fanning's killer?"

Bonniger said on coming out: "The police have found the taxi-driver who took Eyster down to Absalom's on Tuesday morning."

"So that lets Eyster out," said Neill dully.

"Not altogether. The taxi-driver said he was sober. Why should he lie unless he was implicated?"

"The man who shot Fanning was carried down on the yacht."

"That's an interesting theory. But, after all, the crumbs of bread and tobacco are not conclusive. I'm convinced that Eyster had something to do with it."

That didn't help Neill any. He knew now that Eyster was innocent of the killing.

While they were talking, a bell-boy came by. It was the boy that Neill had talked to on his first visit to the Lord Baltimore. The boy recognized him and grinned.

"Here, mister? Well, that big guy Fanning that you was asking me about, he got his didn't he? The crazy little guy that was talking to you, he beat it next day. It would be a great note, wouldn't it, if it was him got Fanning?"

Neill stared hard at the boy.

"You've got me wrong, kid. I never heard of Fanning until he was killed."

"My mistake," he said with a grin, and started on.

But Bonniger had overheard, and Neill without looking at him, knew how he was hardening.

"One moment," Bonniger said to the boy. "Give me your name, please. I may want to call you later. My name's Bonniger."

The boy, scared now, gave his name. "I don't know nothing."

"All right. Beat it."

He lost no time in obeying.

"Come on," said Bonniger to Neill without looking around.

CHEROKEES VOTE SOON ON 'PALEFACE' PROPOSAL

Still distrustful, perhaps, of some of the white man's motives, Cherokee Indians of North Carolina have thus far blocked efforts to build the Skyland Parkway through their reservation to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park. While the route of the $100,000,000 scenic highway hangs in the balance, the 3,000 Indians debate in tribal councils and prepare to vote soon in a referendum on the proposition. These pictures show the Cherokees in characteristic scenes on the reservation. Left, a group of braves in ancient regalia enjoy pageantry in the stadium of their modern school at Cherokee. Right, Indian children in a trading post appear quite puzzled over the behavior of tourists who insist on taking their pictures.

KKK: Often Down But Never Quite Out

(Here is a condensed story of the Ku Klux Klan. Facts are from various books on the Klan principally one by Professor John Moffatt Mecklin of Dartmouth College, published in 1924 by Harcourt, Brace & Co. Information on the present Klan situation was obtained at national headquarters of the Klan in Atlanta.)

(By The AP Feature Service)
On December 24, 1865, six men of the disbanded Confederate army met in the law office of Judge Thomas M. Jones in a small brick building at Pulaski, Tenn.

One of the six, Captain John C. Lester, proposed a club to dispel gloom over defeat of the south. It was proposed that the name should be "Kuklos," Greek for band or circle. Someone suggested Ku Klux, and Lester said: "Let's add Klan to this—we're all Scotch-Irish." That name was adopted.

Even Horses Wear Sheets
That night the Klansmen disguised in sheets, their horses also covered with sheets, rode through town frightening negroes. Members saw in this organization a weapon against negroes and against carpetbaggers from the north.

A year later in a ruined house outside Pulaski the Klan really was born, in its first important convocation.

A delegation was sent to General Robert E. Lee in Virginia, but while he is supposed to have given the Klan his blessing, he refused to join.

General Nathan Bedford Forrest, southern cavalry hero, became "Grand Wizard" in convention in Nashville, May, 1867, and Klansmen in full regalia paraded in Athens, Ala., and Pulaski.

Acts Of Violence Start
Acts of violence in the south by men in Klan regalia followed. Public sentiment was aroused against the Klan. The Tennessee legislature passed an anti-KKK statute in 1868. Trials of Klan members held in Alabama and South Carolina ended in non-convictions.

But lawlessness attributed to the Klan was a factor in its decline, beginning in 1869. The congressional investigation of 1871-72 also hit it hard. By 1873, KKK was a "synonym for the most sinister and dangerous forces in American life" (outside the south), according to Prof. John Moffatt Mecklin of Dartmouth. Then for almost half a century KKK was in eclipse.

Revived in 1915
In 1915 William Joseph Simmons (tall, thin-lipped, and spectacled) dreamed of a new Klan to take in all sections on credo or "basic Americanism."

On October 16, 1915, he and 34 associates signed a petition for a charter. Petition was granted.

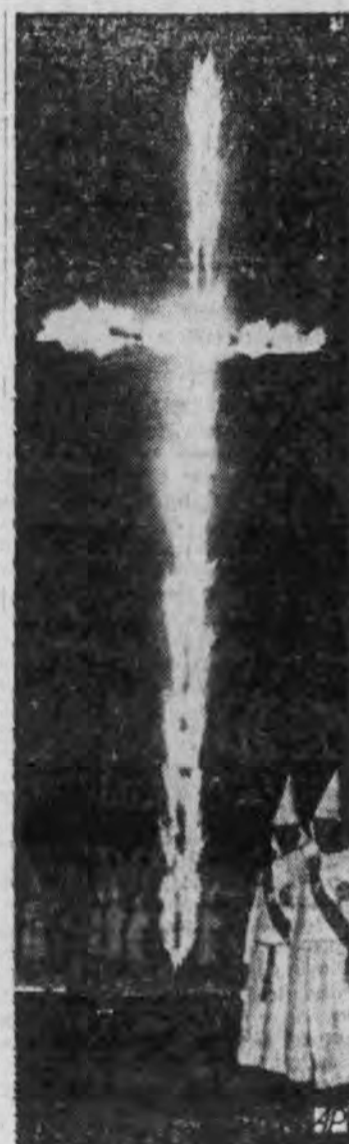

Mary E. Wilson, on May 1, 1925, deed of trust, and at the request of the estate of trust, and for the purpose of discharging the debt secured by said deed of trust, proceed to sell to the highest bidder for the power of sale contained in said

On Thanksgiving night, 1915, the Klan gathered under a blazing torch on Stone Mountain, near Atlanta, Ga., and took oath of allegiance to The Invisible Empire, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. Soon, warnings posted by the Klan revealed its presence in many southern communities, and it spread northward.

But it wasn't getting anywhere in particular until June, 1920, when Simmons conferred with Edward Young Clarke and Mrs. Elizabeth Tyler, two shrewd publicity experts who proceeded to "sell" the Klan to the country. Ten dollars was the initiation fee.

The Klan stood on a platform of 100 per cent Americanism, white supremacy in the south, anti-Catholicism, anti-Semitism, purity of womanhood.

World Investigates Klan
Between June, 1920, and October 1921, the Klan grew from an estimated 5,000 members to 100,000. In this period the New York World made an investigation of the Klan, and reported these findings for that period:

- Four killings
- One mutilation
- One branding with acid
- 41 floggings
- 27 tar and feather parties
- Five kidnappings
- 43 individuals warned to leave
- 14 communities threatened by posters
- 16 parades of masked men

Whether justly or unjustly, a way of lawlessness that accompanied Klan's growth was associated with the Klan.

Congress Acts Again
The outcry was so great that another congressional investigation followed, in October, 1921.

But exposure and investigation were just so much free publicity for the Klan. It spread rapidly from the old south to west of the Mississippi, into north and east Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, northern Louisiana, southern California, Oregon, Ohio and even to New York City, supposed citadel of all the Klan hated.

Evans Takes Spotlight
In 1922 Hiram Wesley Evans, a Texas dentist, appeared at Atlanta headquarters before the Klan's "Big Three"—Simmons, Clarke and Mrs. Tyler.

"They were $90,000 in debt," Simmons said, later. "In 60 days I had them out of debt with $90,000 in the treasury."

Evans became Imperial Kligrapp (secretary) at the Klan's first national convocation near Stone Mountain, Ga., in May, 1922. On Thanksgiving Day of that year he became Imperial Wizard. He still holds that position.

In the middle '20s he guided the Klan in its widespread political activities, a power feared or courted by politicians.

After 1925, the Klan declined again. Evans ascribes this to his illness that year. He says that at the height of its power the Klan had 1,500,000 members. He disclaimed responsibility for lawlessness attributed to the Klan.

With the passing of the depression the Klan began to take a new lease on life. Officials at Atlanta headquarters recently said the organization was growing by leaps.

Every state in the union, the Panama Canal zone and Alaska were reported to have their realms.

Canada has a separate Ku Klux Klan. Main things for which organizers say the Klan stands today are:

1. Buy American.
2. Deportation of aliens who hold American jobs "until every American is employed."
3. Eradication of communism and other isms that are enemies of democracy.
4. Better public schools.
5. White supremacy.

Says Evans: "We believe in America for Americans and we want to make this country a place of real freedom for its people. We believe in the right of property and the right of religion, and we shall do everything we can to preserve them for Americans against alien ideals, manpower and money."

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Sept. 24.—When the Supreme Court handed down a batch of 36 decisions Wednesday it cleared the calendar of more than half the cases argued before the high tribunal at its current Fall term.
At its first two weekly sessions, beginning Aug. 17 and Sept. 7, fifty-nine cases were called.

The court stood firm for "human rights" and against race prejudice (though neither was mentioned in the decision) when it overturned
the conviction of Thomas Madden, Surry county negro, sentenced to death for alleged first degree burglary in an effort to rape a white woman.

Among the cases left undecided was the Madison county tax commission against county commissioners, a case reeking with partisan politics from first to last.

Bob Thompson, efficient secretary to Governor Clyde R. Hoey, is an invererate football fan and tackles anyone and everyone who has to wait in the governor's ante-room for his opinion on coming grid battles. And Bob will bet you that Duke will beat V.P.I.—that is, if you'll spot him about 21 points.
That's just how generous a gambler he is.

Governor Clyde Hoey wants no
"horn-blowing" patrol in front of him when he travels about the state, and particularly when he goes to football games.

"I don't want a patrolman riding along in front of me, pushing people off the highway so I can get by," he says. "Those other folks have just as much right there as I have, and they're in just as big a hurry."

Coincidence or something. On the front page of Raleigh's morning paper there appeared a picture

WATCH HOW YOU GIVE!

of Raymond Kelly, boomed for national Commander of the American Legion. It looked so much like Paul Kelly, assistant director of the Department of Conservation and Development that this correspondent investigated the matter to learn if perhaps it were a brother or close relative.

It was learned that the Raymond Kelly whose likeness appeared in the paper is no relation at all of Paul Kelly, but that Paul Kelly does have a brother named Raymond Kelly.

When the state's probation system goes into operation on October 1 it may or may not have an efficient staff of district probation officers; but there's not the least doubt that it will be manned by a staff of highly efficient politicians. Even a casual glance at the list of appointees discloses that fact.

There may be more ways to kill a cat than choking it to death with butter, but there seems no possible way to kill slot machines. Despite the super-drastric Flannagan Act of 1937 which outlawed anything and everything even remotely remembering a machine in which there is an element of "chance," the well known and just famous "one-armed bandits" have been making sporadic appearances all over the state. Here in Wake this week they came briefly on the stage, but after a blast from Judge N. A. Sinclair and condemnation of about half a dozen of them by Solicitor Bickett, they disappeared. But it's still dollars to doughnuts they'll be back later.

Craven's Libby Ward, House appropriations chairman in the late lamented General Assembly, has been a recent Raleigh visitor, but he didn't say anything about running for lieutenant governor in 1940.

New York—There seem to be few "average" citizens in any of New York's foreign quarters. Either the individuals are wholly ignorant or they are surprisingly bright. Most of the alert ones, priding themselves on their adaptability, and asking no quarter in the struggle to establish themselves in a new land, make a point of keeping abreast of the times in all things possible.
They are conversant on all current topics of importance—they know who is who and are familiar with Tammany Hall and Joe DiMaggio.

However, the dull ones are amazingly in reverse. Not only are they unacquainted with doings here—they are astonishingly ignorant of conditions at home. For instance, in a restaurant which makes a speciality of Hungarian waitresses, the talk between a party of men was on European politics, and one of them turned to the girl.

"You're Hungarian, aren't you?"
She admitted this, and then the fellow said, "Well, would you favor a restoration of the monarchy?"

The girl looked at him blankly.
"What is a monarchy?" she wanted to know. She wasn't kidding. The word simply meant nothing to her.

New York's Roumanian colony is small but well-behaved. The only disorders occurring there are internal ones, brought on by arguments disputing Carol's rights to the throne.

The Italians still have a "Little Italy" on the East Side, but there are so many of them that they are all over town. Far in excess of a million, there are more Italians in New York than in Rome.

The English, as a rule, maintain their dignity and their serenity even in Manhattan heatwaves, clinging to the tradition that no Britisher worth a sardic of mutton ever permits himself to be affected by economic or climatic disorders.

Painting into the office on a recent day when the thermometer was flirting with the 100 mark, I got into the elevator with the New York correspondent of a London newspaper. He was, as usual, his immaculate self, collar freshly wholly untouched by the humidity
I noticed with some astonishment that he never wore a vest beneath his tweed jacket.

Ourselves we were in a disheveled state and carried our coat on our arm, a circumstance which seemed to leave him wildly astonished.

"Really," he said in honest protest, "does one go around in his shirt sleeves?"

Wademen Look For Tough Opener Tomorrow P. M.

Durham, Sept. 24. — Running through their final workout here this afternoon, the Blue Devils of Duke were set for their opening 1937 clash against V. P. I. The heftily Gobbler in Greensboro's Memorial stadium tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

As big and experienced as the Blue Devils, the boys of Virginia Tech loom as one of the fiercest opening foes Duke has had in years and the Wademen are ready to put everything out in an effort to successfully open defense of the Southern conference championship they have won for the past two seasons.

The Duke lineup that takes the field for the opener lists only one sophomore—Willard Perdue, Thomasville, at left guard—but four of the other players will be at positions new to them. Hudgins is a former halfback, Edwards a former center, Lipscomb, a former guard and Tipton a former fullback.

The game promises to be a fine exhibition. It undoubtedly will give fans their first indication of any

Warren Now Developing Ace Backs At Institution

Raleigh, Sept. 23.—A few years back-back in 1927 and 1928—Bob Warren was referred to as one of the great fullbacks of the nation. Today Warren is developing outstanding backs in his work with the N. C. State College Wolfpack.

Warren was the star fullback of State's 1927 team which laid claim to the Southern Conference title. Although a sophomore, he made all-State and all-Southern Atlantic all-star teams. He was such a fine player and gallant leader that he was elected to captain the 1928 team—as a junior.

Warren left State at Easter in 1929 and in the fall went to V. P. I. as trainer, assistant football coach, and basketball coach. He remained at Blacksburg only one year as State officials wanted him to take charge of State's freshman sports and to be assistant trainer.

The fall of 1930 found Warren at State as head coach of freshman football, basketball and baseball and assistant trainer.

He held these four posts until last winter when Williams (Doc) Newton, newly appointed head football coach, asked him to take charge of the varsity backfield. Warren accepted.

Before coming to State as a freshman in 1926, Warren attended and was graduated from the Kirksville School of Osteopathy, Kirksville, Mo., with a D. O. degree. When he left State in the Spring of 1929 he had a B. S. degree in biology. While at Kirksville he was a star in the three major sports.

Warren also played basketball at State and was an all-Southern guard on the 1929 team that won the Southern Conference title.

On August 29, 1931 he was married to Miss Margaret Whittemore of Reidsville. They have an infant son, Robert Sullivan, Jr.

Warren was born in Portage, Wis., on July 28, 1904. He is the quiet member of the coaching staff and is recognized as one of the best backfield coaches in the South. He plays golf and bridge and enjoys fishing.

He was outstanding student both at Kirksville and State. He belongs to the Sigma Nu social fraternity, Phi Sigma Gamma professional fraternity, is honorary member of Golden Chain, and member of the Raleigh Lions Club.

Carolinas Battle Due For 20th Meet Tomorrow

Chapel Hill, Sept. 24.—North Carolina's football squad tapered off in a light drill this afternoon in final preparations for the twentieth Battle of the Carolinas here Saturday. Kickoff is set for 2:30.

Trainer Chuck Quinlan pronounced the Tar Heel squad in fairly good shape. Only Tony Cernughe, junior halfback, will not be available. He is still hampered by an old knee injury.

Tomorrow's game is the first for North Carolina this season. The Palmetto boys will be swinging into action for the second time. They walloped Emory and Henry 45 to 7 impressively at Columbia Saturday.

The advance dope points to a battle in the skies. The Birds used their aerials freely and effectively against the Virginians. Coach Ray Wolf has spent hours perfecting north Carolina's aerial maneuvers.

Both teams are fortified with pitchers of Grade A caliber. Best among South Carolina's cratmen are Captain Jack Lyons, Ed Clary, Dick Little, Red Snider and Hober Stroud. The Tar Heel passing artists are Crowell Little, George Sturmes, Art Ditt, Randy Cramer, and Wally Winborne.

On receiving the Gamecocks will rely principally on Frank Urbant and Ed Stillwell, ends; Little and Gene Robinson, backs; the Tar Heels largely on Andy Bershak and Gene Bricklemeyer, ends; George Watson and Tom Burnette, backs.

North Carolina will have a slight edge in weight. The two lines will average approximately 188 pounds. The Tar Heels will be 13 pounds heavier in the backfield—183 vs. 170. This advantage will probably be more than offset by the speed of Palmetto backs.

Interest on the North Carolina campus in the game is particularly keen. A mammoth pep rally will be staged tonight in front of south building at 7:30 o'clock. Head cheerleader Glenn Davis will lead the cheering. Ramases IV, successor to the late Ramases III and new mascot of the Tar Heels, will be on display.

Special seats will be reserved in the South side stands for approximately 1,000 students.

Because of the type of headgear he has to wear in order to protect a broken jaw and nose, Louie Mark, N. C. State center, is being called the "Masked Marvel."

Garcia of the Philippines in defense of the world welterweight title, in 15 slashing rounds and Fred Apostoli of San Francisco had gained a technical knockout victory over France's Marcel Thil, European middleweight champion, in the 10th round.

Spot Slants

Few, if any, of the 14,000 tennis enthusiasts who jammed Forest Hills stadium begrudged tiny, S. Carolina Anita Lizana's moment of triumph when she downed the hard-nitting and husky Mile. Jadwiga Jedrzejowska of Poland to take the American singles championship.

The South American champion performed a feat no other foreign player has accomplished in twenty-two years when she carried off the title in her first bid for it. Miss Molla Bjurstedt, now Mrs. Mallory, turned the trick way back in 1915. It was also the first time in the history of the championship that two foreign entries battled it out for the title in the final round.

For Senorita Lizana the tournament was one uninterrupted march to the title for she did not lose a single set on her way to the crown. This feat was all the more remarkable when one stops to consider that the little lady from South America was playing in her first tournament on American soil.

She won all her preliminary matches with such ease that no one had a real line on her ability. Perhaps that is why the Polish star was installed an overwhelming favorite.

Senorita Lizana lost no time in demonstrating to the huge gathering that she was master of just about every stroke in the game. The drop-shots and top-spin backhands were a match for anyone.

Her backhand eclipsed the famed and dreaded forehand with which Mile. Jedrzejowska had smothered other opposition. In addition she hit with beautiful length from both and her drop-shots scored every time she used them.

In speed, too, she had a great advantage over the Polish girl. She went after everything and rarely did she fail to reach what she went after. There was little question that the best woman player in this tournament won the title.

Championship Bouts Run Off at Polo Grounds

Polo Grounds, New York, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Elusive Lou Ambers, world's lightweight champion, scored a surprisingly decisive victory on points last night over the dangerous Pedro Montanez of Puerto Rico in a drab 15-round match which had top billing on the "Carnival of Champions." Ambers outpointed his rugged rival from start to finish while a crowd of 40,000 jammed the arena.

Harry Jeffra of Baltimore captured the world bantamweight title from Sixto Escobar, little Puerto Rican, in the final 15-round match. Jeffra scaling 116½ to Escobar's 117½, got away to a big lead and saved enough of his margin despite the champion's stronger finish to take the unanimous decision.

Ambers came through with a decisive triumph after Chicago's Barney Ross had been hard pressed to turn back the challenge of Ceferino of Reidsville. They have an infant son, Robert Sullivan, Jr.

Warren was born in Portage, Wis., on July 28, 1904. He is the quiet member of the coaching staff and is recognized as one of the best backfield coaches in the South. He plays golf and bridge and enjoys fishing.

He was outstanding student both at Kirksville and State. He belongs to the Sigma Nu social fraternity, Phi Sigma Gamma professional fraternity, is honorary member of Golden Chain, and member of the Raleigh Lions Club.

WE DON'T GAMBLE WITH MOTORISTS' LIVES!

BLOW-OUTS are caused by the terrific heat generated inside all tires by today's high speeds. This heat causes rubber and fabric to separate. A tiny blister forms, grows bigger and BIGGER, until sooner or later, BANG! It's a blow-out! You can't stop—you can't steer as your car rooms out of control.

the only tires that give you GOLDEN PLY BLOW-OUT PROTECTION!

THOUSANDS are killed or injured in blow-out accidents every year. That's why Goodrich Engineers developed the Life-Saver Golden Ply. This amazing invention resists heat so that rubber and fabric do not separate—blisters do not form. Thus blow-outs are checked before they even get started.

And here's more good news! Goodrich Silvertowns cost less than other super-quality tires, so you pay nothing extra for Golden Ply Blow-out Protection—It's FREE! Come in today and let us show you this Life-Saving invention.

MARKETS NEED LOW OVERHEAD

Success of Curb Sales Depends On Operating Cost

Raleigh, Sept. 24.—The success of a farm women's curb market depends largely upon the overhead costs it must bear, said Dr. Jane S. McKimmon, of the State College extension service.

"When a farm woman joins with her neighbors for organized selling, she realizes that her marketing will be done on one or two mornings a week, and she is afraid of incurring any expense in connection with the sale of her limited amount of home products," Dr. McKimmon went on.

"I have observed that where the market place is donated and the town assures the country woman a rent-free building in which she may sell her vegetables and other products, the foundation for a successful market is laid.

"The location and adequacy of the market place has much to do with the number and types of people who patronize it.

"Locations in the center of town attract more customers, but often these locations are limited in size and there is only a restricted space for displaying the product offered.

"However, two of the three largest home demonstration curb markets in the State, at Rocky Mount and Fayetteville, are located in the center of the business district.

"The Durham market, the other of the big three is situated in the outskirts of the town. The volume of business would probably be larger in the center of town but as its present site it has the advantage of a rent-free building, a rest room, and plenty of parking space close by."

the rise in illness and mortality.

Dr. Bogen, however, advances as his major argument the belief that people eat more in times of depression and therefore are healthier, while they eat less in times of commercial prosperity and therefore die of tuberculosis and other diseases influenced by undernutrition.

In substantiation of this argument, he points out that diabetes, traditionally associated with overeating, decreases in periods of prosperity and increases in times of business depression. Again, he draws from the World Almanac the evidence that folks eat more meat during periods of depression than during prosperous years. He ascribes this not to a sudden change in people's tastes but rather to the fact that in times of so-called prosperity the purchasing power of the worker's money is reduced and that perforce the average person is compelled to subsist on foods that have a lower nutritional value.

MALARIA RAVAGES

(By Iago Goldston, M.D.)

Our compliments to the Jefferson County Board of Health on its monthly bulletin called Birmingham's Health, and notably on its issue dealing with "Malaria in Alabama."

Here's the bulletin's story in excerpts:

"Fever-ridden jungles" exist not only in Africa and Central America. There are areas in our own State almost as dangerous for the non-immune visitor.

"Of all the diseases which have ravaged humanity, there is none which is more terrible than malaria! and this in spite of the fact that we have full knowledge of its cause, the manner of its spread and the means of prevention and cure.

"Centuries ago many believed that malaria was in some way associated with insects, but the truth was not discovered until about 1896. We now know that the disease can be transmitted only through the bite of an infected mosquito. The parasite of malaria is not a simple bacterium, but is an animal parasite with a complicated life cycle passing through a number of mysterious phases.

"The world wide recorded mortality of malaria is high, but even this fact does not indicate its true drain on humanity, for it is not in the death rate that the total cost of malaria lies. It is in the sickness rate, the loss of efficiency it causes, rather than the loss of life. One death from pneumonia usually averages about 125 work days lost, one typhoid death averages 450 to 500 sick days, one from tuberculosis somewhat more among whites but less among Negroes. A death from malaria, however, represents from 2000 to 4000 sick days!

"Travelers who of necessity must enter known malarious country should keep inside a well screened house from before sunset until after sunrise; since the malaria mosquito is a night and twilight biter. Since this mosquito is thoroughly domesticated and quite skillful in seeking out points of entry the only safe house is one which is thoroughly mosquito proof; and even then, individual bed net may be desirable.

"It is sometimes desirable for travelers in a malarious country to take small doses of quinine daily as a prophylactic; usually about two and a half grains p. r. day. The advice of a physician should be secured, however, before doing this.

Massachusetts is the second most densely populated state in the union, with 514 persons to the square mile.

"Oh! It floats thru the air With the greatest of ease, The '38 BUICK— With two sets of knees."

How's Your Health?

Edited for the New York Academy of Medicine

By Iago Goldston, M.D. BAD TIMES AND HEALTH (By Iago Goldston, M.D.)

The interesting thesis that bad times favor good health, while economic prosperity engenders ill health has been advanced recently by Dr. Emil Bogen of Olive View, Calif. At first blush this thesis appears to challenge common sense. On the other hand there is a mass of facts which tends to support it. It was noted, for example, that during the first year or two of the last great war the health of the people of practically all the warring nations was generally improved.

Again, at the onset of the recent economic depression in this country many social and public health workers feared that we would experience a serious rise in illness and a corresponding rise in our mortality rates. On the contrary, the health of the people remained good and there was a continuous though gradual decline in our crude mortality rate.

How then can we account for this nomic conditions with good health and vice versa? Dr. Bogen offers a few ideas, such, for example, that during economic prosperity we use more alcohol and indulge in more dissipation. The increase in traffic, in personal contacts, with greater chances of infection, the nervous strain of boom times, the greater physical and mental exertions, he suggests, may perhaps account for

New York Stock Market

New York, Sept. 24.—(AP)—Stock market leaders crashed through supported areas today and landed in new lows for about two years. Losses of one to four points were widely distributed. Here and there declines of 10 points or so were in evidence. Large blocks of stocks were thrown overboard as the ticker tape fell behind three minutes at one time.

Bonds and commodities skidded with stocks.

Transfers approximated 2,500,000 shares.

DOCTOR TRES OF DIPHTHERIA

Hates To See Little Children Suffer From Effects

Raleigh, Sept. 24.—"I am tired of treating diphtheria, not that I mind the work, but because I hate to see little children suffer and die from the effects of a disease that is 100 per cent preventable."

Thus, a prominent child specialist living in an Eastern North Carolina town wrote Dr. J. C. Knox, director of the division of Epidemiology, State Board of Health. This physician, in his private practice, insists upon the immunization of all children coming under his care. "I agree with him absolutely," Dr. Knox said. "Diphtheria is one of our most serious childhood diseases and, as this doctor points out, it is strictly preventable. By immunizing the child we not only insure it against suffering from this disease, but cut down the death rate as well. In 1936, there were 192 deaths from diphtheria in North Carolina. These could have been prevented. Of those who died, approximately 85 per cent were under six years old. In some of our counties immunization against diphtheria is required before a child can enter school. This is a step in the right direction, and the requirement ought to be statewide, that is, every child should be made to present a certificate of immunization before entering school, but the fact still remains that a majority of those who contract the disease and dies from it are of pre-school age. The age for immunization, therefore, should not be six years but six months. It is well to bear in mind that the earlier immunization is done the less discomfort is experienced and protection is afforded at the time of the child's greatest susceptibility."

"Oh! It floats thru the air With the greatest of ease, The '38 BUICK— With two sets of knees."
