Jap Planes Rain New Devastation

Densely Populated Centers of Central and South China Cities Re-visited By Bombers

Shanghai, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Fleets of Japanese war planes scattered new devastation and terror today in the most densely populated areas of central and south China.

Shanghai, Nanking, Canton and the Wuhan cities—Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang—the great centers that Japan air raiders have punished most severely, all were re-visited. Hundreds of non-combatant Chinese died. The bombers left widespread devastation.

A fleet of 36 Japanese bombers, rising from military airbases here in a bright dawn, realized the fears of Nanking's agonized populace after a rainy day's absence from China's capital.

In flying wedges of three, Japan's bombers roared over Shanghai's defense lines, blasting concrete pillboxes and driving Chinese troops below, but without telling effects.

Air raiders returned to the Wuhan cities, central China's commercial and industrial "Chicago," 450 miles up the Yangtze from Shanghai before daybreak. Chinese officials raised yesterday's estimated deaths between 200 and 500 to almost 1,000.

Canton suffered several small air raids during the night and again today. Most of the bombs fell near the Hankow railway station, terminus of a line used by many foreign refugees from the Wuhan cities.

The night raid on the Wuhan cities, centered mostly in Hankow, compressed appalling devastation within a 10-mile hall of explosives.

Bombs wrecked the city's power supply, compelling over-worked doctors to operate in candle light on unending streams of wounded.

Records continue to fall on the Greenville tobacco market.

After establishing a season's high average Thursday, prices continued to advance, all grades selling stronger, and Friday's average of $26.05 established a new high for the season.

At the close of yesterday's sales—the 22nd of the season—more than 22,000,000 pounds of tobacco had been sold, an average of more than a million pounds a day so far this season.

Offerings yesterday totalled 1,404,302 pounds, bringing $365,816.01 to set the $26.05 per hundred pounds average.

So far this season 22,390,266 pounds of the weed have been sold in the 19 warehouses of the Greenville market, bringing $4,832,780.97, or a season's general average of $21.67 per hundred pounds.

With offerings continuing heavy and prices stronger, the season's average continues to climb steadily.

Spanish Artillery Thrust At Oviedo

Open Terrific Bombardment To Capture City Before Reinforcements Reach Rebel Forts

Hendaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Spanish government artillery hurled a terrific bombardment into insurgent Oviedo in northern Spain today.

The government troops apparently sought to force surrender by the Oviedo garrison, under siege for 14 months, before insurgent reinforcements could reach the city.

An insurgent column is moving swiftly toward Oviedo and today was reported less than 25 miles to the south of the Asturian capital.

As government guns unleashed their thunder, Asturian troops fell back before an insurgent advance toward Lena, 20 miles south of Oviedo.

EUROPE TENSE AS DUCE VISITS ADOLF HITLER

Heads of Two Fascist Nations Meet for Second Time

Munich, Germany, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Benito Mussolini and Adolf Hitler met today for the second time in their spectacular careers, and Europe tensely awaited the result of their rendezvous.

The first few hours of the visit of the Italian Premier to the German Chancellor here, where Hitler started his rise to power, were taken up with a round of social activities in a flamboyant setting of bunting and banners, troops and bands, cheers and parades.

The serious "brass tack" conversations of these two men, who head the great fascist states of Europe, either were sandwiches into the nine-hour program in Munich or were put off until later.

Whenever they come, the results of these talks promised to be of deep concern to all of Europe if not actually factors in shaping the future.

Gives Description Of Pair Listed As Parsons Abductors

Russian "Mystery Woman" in Case Reports Receipt of Another Letter, Eighth in Series

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—New light on the unsolved kidnapping of Mrs. Alice McDonnell Parsons, Long Island heiress, who disappeared from her home last June 9 in company with a middle-aged man and woman, was shed today by Anna Kupryanova, the Russian "mystery woman" in the case.

For the first time the Russian woman, daughter of an estate manager for the Czar, and partner in the squab farms operated by the Parsons, gave a detailed description of the New York Post said, of the alleged kidnapers whom she named as "Mary" and "Paul Jones."

A new note from the kidnapper, she said, had been received in the past three days, the eighth in a series since the first "Paul Jones" received by the husband, William Parsons, at Stony Brook last June 12 demanding $40,000 ransom.

"I know these letters are authentic," Mrs. Kupryanova said, "because one of them enclosed a brooch which I know belonged to Alice."

Plot Made Known Overthrow Spain

Czar's Aid in Conspiracy Against the Madrid-Valencia Regime Traced Directly to Chilean Embassy

Agents of the Surete Nationale began a far-flung search in France for Gen. Eugene de Miller (above), chief of the "White Army" of Russia, following his mysterious disappearance from Paris. A note left by the general indicated the former aide of the assassinated Russian czar suspected a possible trap in accepting an invitation to a mysterious rendezvous.

Madrid, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Officials, uprooting what was described as a vast counter revolutionary movement to overthrow the Madrid-Valencia regime, declared today its ramifications reached directly into the Chilean embassy.

They asserted the general staff headquarters for the civil and military conspiracy was located there. A Chilean business man, identified as Manuel Zuria, and two men said to be employees of the Argentine embassy were among the 200 persons already under arrest in this besieged metropolis.

Zuria, accused as the chief of one of four groups comprising the counter revolutionists, was said to have had 1,650 men at his command, ready to strike at the rear of government troops defending Madrid upon a junction of the insurgent operation on the Madrid front.

The sudden drawing of the government net was reported to have brought capture of the conspiracy leaders among the 200 now jailed. The insurgent sympathizers involved in the scheme were said officially to number 7,500.

Four groups made up this anti-government army within the former capital, a government communique explained.

OFFICERS GET MEN AND STILL

Newly - Constructed Distillery Is Found Along Creek

Pitt and Beaufort ABC officers yesterday afternoon destroyed a newly constructed still, even before the plant could start operating. The still, located along Tranters creek, was being prepared to make a run and two men, one white man and a Negro, were taken in custody, and taken to Washington, where they will face trial, the still having been located just across the Pitt-Beaufort line.

The two men are Bryant Dixon, white, and Alexander M. ... The Negro, deaf and dumb, put up a chase and one of the Beaufort officers had to resort to a bicycle before he could catch him. The Negro ran to his home, about a mile from the still, with the officer hard on his heels. Seeing the officer just behind him he continued on, but the officer saw a bicycle about the house and jumped on it and finally caught up with the alleged illicit distiller.

The still was of the steam type and had a capacity of 1,000 gallons. Five vats of 500-gallon capacity each were found at the still, as was a truck load of sugar, meal and other supplies. Declaring that much of the illicit whiskey reaching Greenville and other places in the county is coming from that section, officers of Beaufort and Pitt counties are working together to break up stills along the line.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Sept. 25.—"My husband's in jail and I came in to see about getting him out," said a very attractive lady in the ante-room of the Governor's office.

"All right," replied Miss Mamie Turner, the real boss of the office. "I'll see if I can't have it arranged to parole him in custody of his wife."

All of which must have sounded a bit unusual to those waiting to see the Governor and who didn't know that the very attractive lady was Mrs. Clyde R. Hoey.

It remained to "Bob" Thompson, the Governor's private secretary, to spoil the harmony.

"That won't do, not even his wife can manage him," quoth Bob.

TOUR PLANNED TO ADVERTISE

Overnight Stops To Be Made in 10 Cities In State

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, Sept. 25. — Overnight stops will be made in ten cities in North Carolina by travel tours composed of 80 or more travel bureau executives, travel counsellors for motor clubs, travel writers and editors who will be the guests of the State Advertising committee from October 10 through October 20, it was announced today by the Department of Conservation and Development.

The hotel operators, chambers of commerce, city officials and other civic organizations in these ten cities and in the other cities and towns in which the tour will make brief stops, are cooperating with the reportable diseases, there is grave question of their value as accurate indices of anything at all.

The report for the week ending September 18, for example, shows that 101 cases of syphilis were reported in Pitt county, while none at all were reported from New Hanover county or from Wilmington. It doesn't take a Solomon to know that there's something decidedly out of focus in any such combination of figures.

Incidentally this same report lists 387 reported cases of syphilis in the state, against only 299 reported case of all other reportable maladies combined. Which is, perhaps, a very fair comparison.

The cities in which the tour will make overnight stops are: Asheville

Bryson City, Hendersonville, Lake Lure, Blowing Rock, Charlotte, Winston-Salem, Raleigh, Wilmington and Elizabeth City.

The members of the tour will spend two nights in Asheville and two nights in Elizabeth City. Neither the hotels at which stops are to be made nor the bus lines are making any charge for their services.

On the second night of the two night stop in Elizabeth City, the travel party will be entertained at a farewell banquet.

What It Means: Labor's Family Fight

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
 AP Feature Service Writer
 Washington—You'll soon be hearing a lot about the forthcoming "census" of the unemployed, but you'll need a compass to work your way through the maze of technical pros and cons.
 Here are three big points to keep in mind:
 1. The count will not be a census in the commonly accepted meaning of that word. It will be rather an official registration of the citizens who want, or are willing to classify themselves as unemployed.
 2. The poll will mark the first experiment by the United States government in this kind of census-taking.
 3. The so-called census is an excellent example of how the voice of the American public can make itself heard between national elections.
 For it was a recurring public outcry that brought both parties into the open on the question of an unemployment census. So widely varying were the estimates of unemployment that people began to wonder, and ask, why the federal government didn't find out how many people actually were unemployed. Newspaper editorials on this subject were appearing at the rate of five or six a week last January. By the time the leaves were budding the rate was 50 a week.
A Blank Check
 Last spring young Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., Republican senator from Massachusetts, slipped an amendment into the annual relief bill providing for a complete census of the unemployed by the census bureau. Without warning, he called for a vote and got it.
 Bells, sergeants-at-arms and senatorial secretaries startled the Potomac countryside immediately with an emergency call to the Democratic faithful. Breathless senators reached their seats in time to turn aside Mr. Lodge and his amendment, 48 to 30. After all, a Democratic administration shouldn't let Republicans get the popular end of public questions.
 The Democratic leadership then got busy and framed a bill giving the President a blank check and unlimited power to take almost any kind of unemployment count that appealed to him. The measure

NAME SPEAKER OF MUNI MEET

Dr. Julian Miller To Deliver Address At Banquet

Reflector Bureau
 Raleigh, Sept. 25.—Dr. Julian S. Miller, editor of the Charlotte Observer, has accepted an invitation to be principal banquet speaker for the 27th annual convention of the North Carolina League of Municipalities in Winston-Salem next Monday and Tuesday.
 Mayor George A. Iseley, of Raleigh, president of the league, in making this announcement this morning, said that Dr. Miller's acceptance rounded out the program planned for officials of North Carolina towns and cities at their convention next week.
 Outstanding experts on municipal problems from Chicago, New York and other cities have been obtained to discuss various phases of local government, Mayor Iseley said.
 The convention, which assembles Monday morning at the Hotel Robert E. Lee in Winston-Salem, will draw elective and administrative officers from the league's 150 member towns and many non-member towns and cities in the state.
 Mayor Iseley stated that the attendance this year is expected to exceed all previous conventions.

The President's Problem

The President had to keep in mind the fact that a complete census by trained census bureau men would cost $25,000,000—a sum that would put a big dent in his budget for 1938. Moreover, the regular census will answer all employment questions within a scant two years in 1940.
 A compromise was Mr. Roosevelt's obvious out. First, he decided to limit the cost so far as the federal government is concerned to $4,000,000. Then he figured out a tentative plan to have the states, counties, and towns set up election machinery for an "employment census day" late this year and presumably bear the cost themselves. (Election machinery usually costs about a dollar a vote.)
A Caggy Appointment
 That little trick will leave the federal government free to spend $4,000,000 for:
 1—A poll by extra rural mail carriers in country districts;
 2—A recheck of the 5,000,000 persons listed with the federal employment service;
 3—Elimination in the returns of 1,500,000 persons now receiving relief, and their relatives; and
 4—The huge accounting job required to keep the totals from getting diluted or clipped off by book-keeping accidents.
 Then the President promptly put political critics at a disadvantage by inviting a Toledo, O. Republican to administer the "census." He is John Biggers, a successful business executive. To avoid other snipers the President insisted the tally must be voluntary and therefore possessed of no powers to "brand" citizens. (That voluntary provision makes the tally resemble a straw vote.)
 A critic would find himself in possession of a lot of arguing material by charging that any census of the unemployed is a negative, and therefore, relatively pointless thing.
 For instance, if the medical profession wanted information about teeth-brushing, it would not ask how many people do not brush their teeth. The question would be, "Do you wash your teeth?" Similarly, in a normal census the question would be, "Are you employed?"
 And the question would be put to every citizen, not merely to those persons who actually are, or may be, or think they are unemployed.
 Admittedly the scheme is not perfect, but it is quite possible that the states, cities and the federal government will get a good $4,000,000 worth of information about unemployment.

Camera Coverage Of The World

RACQUETTE RHYTHM is her stock in trade. Pretty Kay Stammers, English tennis star, demonstrates unusual grace on the courts in a leaping backhand shot in an exhibition match on the Pacific coast. Miss Stammers is one of the most comely of the feminine net contingent.

SCHOOLDAYS came bounding back to Barbara Stanwyck of the films when she visited New York. Several photographers remembered her as a Brooklyn classmate. The actress spent much of her time on the holiday denying reports she is engaged to Robert (Don't Call Me Beautiful) Taylor, now in England.

A SIGN OF THE TIMES in Germany was this swastika formed by planes of the Nazi airforce as a tribute to Fuehrer Adolf Hitler. Glory that once belonged to the nation is of the famed "flying circus" is slowly being regained with the renaissance in aviation.

THERE'S ANOTHER MIX UP in the saddle, riding into motion pictures. This time it's Ruth, 24-year-old daughter of the famous cowboy star, Tom. Able to ride, rope and handle a gun like a veteran of the range, she'll be a real western heroine. Her earnings will go toward more land and cattle for her Arizona ranch.

AIDING ANGLERS. G. C. Leach (above), makes periodic trips about the nation to check on U. S. hatcheries needing stocking. His next visit will be to New England. The hatcheries provide stock for many fine fishing streams.

DAKOTA'S DARLING in the American Legion parade at the New York convention was 7-year-old Jean Overton of Fargo, North Dakota. The tiny drum majorette proved a big attraction in the mighty Manhattan spectacle which dwarfed all previous New York parades.

HE HATES IT, being 71, because H. G. Wells believes life is not nearly long enough to accomplish all he wishes. But like it or not, the prolific British writer has a birthday Sept. 21, predicts he'll see 97.

WHOOPING FOR HUBBY or hogs requires much the same technique, according to a demonstration of the oral arts staged in Chicago by the champions in those respective callings. Best hubby whooper was Mrs. Mary Berger of Macy, Ind. (left), while Frank Funk of Ottawa, Ill., copped the hog calling.

BY HULBERT FOOTNER

SYNOPSIS: Neill, a young federal agent, finds his beloved Janet, a gun-and-Prescott Fanning's freshly shot body locked in a cabin on Fanning's yacht at Absalom's Harbor, Md. Hiding her nearby in a disused liner, Neill joins Mark Bonniger, local investigator. Neill learns Janet didn't shoot the flashy swindler, but has to find out who did to save her. He suspects queer little Eyster, who hated Fanning, and Ira Buckless, Fanning's hulking body-guard who is arrested, but both have alibis. Neill also distrusts Kettering, a lawyer down from Baltimore to fish. Neill is in a tight spot, himself suspected by Bonniger.

Said Buckless with a hard grin: "I only have to say one word and they could go get the girl: Room 212 on the Lincoln!"

Neill said nothing.

"If I had said that word last night, she would be locked up now instead of me."

"Why didn't you?"

"I can still do it. But first-off I wanted to see you."

"Well, I'm open for an offer."

Buckless hesitated.

Neill, with the object of putting him at his ease, said as one crook to another: "Look, how did you get on to me so quick, anyhow?"

"That's easy," said Buckless. "All day Tuesday I was trailing you around Baltimore by Fanning's orders. When I seen you get on the bus for Absalom's, I let you go because I didn't know then that the boss was at Absalom's. It wasn't till after seven that evening that he called up and told me he was there. So then I gets a car as quick as I could and drives down to see what you was up to."

"And late that night you visited the yacht and discovered that Fanning was dead and the loot gone?"

Buckless scowled at him. "I'll keep my trap shut about the girl if you go 50-50," he growled.

"Fifty-fifty what?" asked Neill.

"Aah!" growled Buckless. "Don't try to play innocent with me. I mean Fanning's stuff."

"It hasn't been in my hands."

"You lie! What did you kill him for if it wasn't for that?"

"I didn't kill him."

Buckless' upper lip turned back like a dog's. "I'm damned well sick of sitting in this hole and I'm not going to waste words with you! You got my proposition. Take it or leave it. I've only got to call that cop down here."

Neill began to sweat gently. If he did satisfy Buckless that he was telling the truth, Buckless would betray Janet anyhow out of sheer disappointment. His only course was to play a double game with the brute.

"Well, I see it is no use trying to lie to you," he said grinning.

"That's what a fellow says when he's getting ready to lie some more!" muttered Buckless.

"It wasn't all lies, that I told you. I didn't kill Fanning, so help me God! I was ready to do it, but the job was done when I got aboard the yacht."

"Expect me to believe that?"

"You can take it or leave it," said Neill. "My cards are on the table now." He went on to give Buckless an exact and truthful account of the finding of Fanning's body. In spite of himself, Buckless was convinced by the wealth of detail Neill related.

"You've Got No Choice"

"I reckon Fanning was smoked just a couple of minutes before I came aboard," said Neill. "His body was warm. I reckon I scared away the killer by my coming because he didn't get the loot. I got it."

"What was it?" remanded Buckless. "In what form, I mean? What had Fanning turned it into?"

"I am not going to tell you that. Something easy to carry around."

"How much was it?"

"Over a thousand G's."

"Oh, God," groaned Buckless. "What have you done with it?"

"If I told you that, you would give me and the girl up, and get away with the whole of it. You and me have got to trust each other for the present."

"Trust!" said Buckless. "I'd trust you as far as I would a rattlesnake! You fooled me once already."

"You've got no choice now," said Neill. "If you betray me or the girl nobody in the world will ever know where the stuff is hid."

Buckless scowled, muttered, rubbed his bristly chin. "Well—what's your proposition?"

Neill relaxed a little and wiped his face. "We've got to find the murderer," he said. "When we produce the murderer we can all go free and enjoy the stuff."

"Well, who was it?"

"That's what I was hoping you could tell me. You know all about Fanning's life, who had it in for him, and all."

Buckless shook his head dumbly. "The man who did it was concealed aboard the yacht," Neill said. "He came down from Baltimore."

"A Baltimore man?"

Chapter 36 SPARRING WITH BUCKLES

During the short walk to the entrance, Neill had to do some hard thinking. He knew that he was about to be arrested. Mattingly had the car at the door. When he was arrested, what would Janet do? He must make a getaway.

In the lobby they ran into Brager, the yacht broker, coming in from the street. "Here you are," he said. "I went down to the filing station after you and they said you had come here. There's something I want to tell you that I forgot."

"What's that?" asked Bonniger.

"When Buckless and I motored down to Absalom's we stopped at the hotel in King's Green for a beer. It was then 9:45."

"Much obliged," said Bonniger.

This was a very small piece of information for the man to chase them around town with and Neill wondered what was behind it.

Brager wanted to shake hands on parting from them. When he took Neill's hand he pressed a piece of paper in it, and Neill palmed it. While Brager was shaking hands with Bonniger, Neill coolly turned his back and read:

Buckless just sent me a phone message to tell you to talk to him before you did anything.

Brager left them. Neill, having crumpled the paper in his hand, stood with bent head trying to dope out the note's significance.

"Come on," said Bonniger, beginning to show impatience.

Neill made up his mind to see what there was in it. "Okay," he said, following Bonniger.

The ride back to Absalom's was not a pleasant one. Bonniger's face was stony now. He seemed more sorry than sore, and that made Neill feel like hell. Bonniger rode with Mattingly and Neill had the back seat to himself. There was no talk on the way.

When they got out in front of Longcope's store, Neill faced Bonniger frankly. "Mark," he said. "I've got a favor to ask of you."

"What's that?"

"I want to talk to Buckless alone. We could see last night that he wasn't telling the whole truth, and I think maybe I can get something more out of him."

This request surprised Bonniger. He thought it over, stroking his chin. "All right," he said at last. "Mattingly will row you out."

Bonniger spoke quietly to the constable and went into the store to receive the reports that had come in during his absence.

The Threat To Janet

His words in the ear of Mattingly smoothed the way for Neill. The constable rowed him out to the yacht, and he and his mate remained on deck while Neill descended the fo'c'sle hatch.

Ira Buckless was sitting on a seaman's chest in the half-dark and stifling forepeak. He looked up eagerly as Neill started down the ladder, and the light from the hatch fell full on his flat and brutalized face with its ugly grin.

"So you come," he said.

"How did you get word to me?"

"When I heard you went to town I got my lawyer to telephone Brager. I didn't want you to do anything foolish until you seen me."

"Well, what do you want?"

Buckless scowled. "That cop guy will be listening on deck. Sit here beside me, and keep your voice low."

This was the man who had tried to kill him two nights before, but Neill wasn't going to refuse a dare from him. He had his gun in his pocket. He sat down beside him.

"Can you supply any Baltimore clues?"

Buckless shook his head again. He scowled and doubled his fists. Thinking was a hard business for him. "The boss, he kept me out of this Baltimore deal," he muttered. "He must have had a partner or partners in that deal."

"If he did, he never let me meet them. He kept me out of Baltimore until he wanted the yacht."

"Who gave him the lead that took him to Baltimore? Think back."

Buckless could only shake his head. "He was already there when I first heard of it. But I know it was something big, something classy."

"How did you know that?"

"Well, once I hear the boss talking over the phone when I was in his room. He never let nothing drop, but I could tell he was talking to a high-tone guy."

"Can't you give me more than mention anything like that over that to go on—a name, a telephone number?"

"No. The boss was to slick to the phone."

"This man that he was talking to may have been the killer."

"How do you figure that?"

"I know that Fanning collected over a million on this deal. There is nothing to show that he divided it with anybody. If he had a partner he may have double-crossed him."

Buckless looked at Neill with a kind of admiration. "Sure," he said. "I wouldn't put it past him. With the yacht handy for a quick getaway out of the country, and all."

FAIR TO OFFER NOTED JUMPER

World's Champion Ski Jumper Coming to Greenville

The leading attraction to be offered at Pitt county fair which will be held on the new fairgrounds on Falkland road will be the Great Siegfried, world's champion ski jumper, an act that has never before been presented in any part of the south.

Snow being a necessary part of a ski jump has made it impossible to present an act of this sort before, but the Great Siegfried uses grease instead of snow on his slide which is 215 feet long, built in two sections. There is a division of 50 feet of open space between the two sections, a space that the Great Siegfried leaps and that is the really dangerous part of his act as the slightest miscalculation will cause a dangerous accident.

The Pitt county fair is making every effort to secure the largest number of agriculture exhibits ever presented before and the premium list which will show the prizes and amounts offered for different types of exhibits will be published next week. The prizes this year amount to $1,000.

The highest inhabited house in Europe is the Mt. Etna Observatory—9,075 feet above sea level.

Greenville High Phantoms Win Season Opener

Almost Entire Squad Used in One-Sided Victory as Locals Wallop Nashville's Highs 27-0 at Third Street Stadium.

The 1937 edition of the Greenville High school football team made its debut here yesterday afternoon and convinced fans that the team probably will go places during the season.

Nashville high, victims of the local boys' initial win of the season, was unable to score while the Greenies were running up 27 points. The first touchdown of the game was scored when Thomas Parrish skirted around end to cross the goal line. To show fans that they meant business, the boys added the extra point, Bill Harris doing the kicking.

In the second period Baxter Clark darted 40 yards for the second goal of the afternoon and Parrish added the extra counter.

Harris and Rogers made the other touchdowns of the afternoon, with Kenneth Henderson making good on one for extra point.

It was a ground game throughout, the Greenies attempting only four passes, two of which were intercepted and two failing to reach a waiting receiver. Nashville attempted three passes, all of which were incomplete.

The Greenville backs were able to gain repeatedly because, in great part, to the strong line. John Vincent, tackle and Trotman Nobles, guard, looked especially good on the line.

URGE FARMERS REPORT CROPS

Asked to Furnish Information to Department

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, Sept. 25.—Farmers of North Carolina are being urged by the state Department of Agriculture to cooperate in furnishing information for accurate and complete crop reports in the state.

The department's officials are particularly anxious that the farmers fill in and return the crop survey cards which are now being distributed to them through rural mail carriers. It is pointed out that all that is necessary is for the farmer to fill in the card and put it in his mail box. No address is required and no postage is needed.

North Carolina farmers have in the past been quite careless about this matter, according to W. H. Rhodes, chief statistician of the agriculture department who reports that of the approximately 23,000 cards sent to postmasters only about 3,000 are collected by rural carriers. In western and midwestern states, he says, between 8,000 and 10,000 out of 15,000 cards are usually returned.

Frank Parker, U. S. Department of Agriculture statistician on duty with the state Department of Agriculture says:

"Few farmers realize that the large buyers of farm products keep themselves informed on trends of crops. Too often these buyers prefer that the growers know little about crop facts. Thus, unless the government collects and publishes the information the farmers are at the mercy of the buyers when selling their surplus crops. Then, too, farmers need to know this information in order best to plan for next year's acreage of various crops."

The government is generally accused of much extravagance, Mr. Parker added, but this service which was begun in 1862, is on the basis of voluntary aid and is without great expense to the taxpayers.

Ever since that wintry day early in 1932 when Coach Chick Meehan moved in on the Manhattan college campus with his military shift, toy cannon and bagful of football tricks, the Jaspers' football stock has been steadily rising. Today the kelly-green-clad gridgers appear ready to take their place among the football powers of the east.

Primarily a stay-at-home for the first four years of Meehan's coaching reign, Manhattan will go abroad in search of stiff competition in three games this fall. The Jaspers will travel to Lexington to meet the University of Kentucky eleven, which they defeated 13-7, in an inter-sectional contest last fall; to Washington to play Georgetown.

and the University of Tulsa.

The ambitious program lined up for the young men of Manhattan also includes contests with Michigan State college, Villanova, Detroit, North Carolina State and Texas A. and M. If the Jaspers can get by that array no one will deny they have arrived.

Coach Meehan has an impressive band of veterans on hand. Only one sophomore, Jerry Fall, a hardy though none-too-heavy running guard, has been able to shoulder his way into the first eleven.

The outstanding figure is Captain Jack Daly. Rated the best in Manhattan football history, Daly is a fine defensive player and a capable pass receiver. His running mate at the opposite end is Bill Dorsey. Jim Moffitt and Pete Shuha, tackles; Joe Kavacs and Fall, guards; and Jack Zuck, center, complete the weighty line.

The backfield is headed by another senior, Vic Fusia. Fusia is the No. 1 passing and running threat. He was a sensation as a sophomore. Experience he gained in two seasons of varsity play has steadied him down. This year Fusia appears headed for sectional honors. Fusia's mates in the backfield include Al Caruso, quarterback; Ed Kringle, halfback.

Then, too, Meehan has more than a sprinkling of experienced lettermen and some promising sophomore material.

SWARTZ TALKS TO KIWANIAN

Explains Proposed Improvements To Local System

Martin Swartz, superintendent of the Greenville Water and Light commission, was the chief speaker at the regular bi-weekly meeting of the local Kiwanis club last night, explaining certain phases of the city-owned utility.

Mr. Swartz's talk was aimed at informing the Kiwanians of the importance that they vote for the bond election set for October 4. It is proposed to borrow $150,000 with which to make improvements to the water and sewer systems necessary to keep pace with the growth of the city. The improvements would provide more water pressure to fight fires in certain sections of the city in which the water supply at the present is not sufficient to combat a big fire. The sanitary condition of the city also would be improved with the extensions.

Mayor M. K. Blount also was present and spoke briefly on the bond election, explaining why it was necessary that it be carried. He cited figures showing that the bonded indebtedness of Greenville was far below that of other cities of comparative size.

Post President W. E. Hooker, chairman of the under-privileged child committee, announced committees for the Collins' entertainment festival to be presented here in October under the sponsorship of the club. The committees were named as follows: advertising, S. L. Griffin, D. C. Moore, Jr., and Rev. W. A. Ryan; social, W. E. Hooker, Berry Bostic and Dr. S. M. Crisp; ticket, Berry Bostic, H. H. Duncan, D. H. Conley, Ralph C. Deal and Claude Ward.

The festival will be composed of four weekly entertainments, to be presented at the Greenville High school auditorium as follows: King's Ambassadors Quartet, male voices at their best, superb bell-ringing, Thursday, October 14; Harold D. Elde, drama story of Arctic exploration and adventure, Thursday, October 21; Lucille Elmore and Company, up-to-date music-comedy, Thursday October 28; and a play, "The Mysterious Mr. Mason," a comedy of high finance, Thursday November 4.

Benefits from the festival will be used for under-privileged children in the community.

Miss Margaret B. Kornegay and Miss Tasca Toier made talks at the start of the meeting on the hospital savings plan.

Delegates to the Carolinas district convention, to be held in Charlotte, October 28-30, were named as follows; Berry Bostic, D. C. Moore, Jr., and J. Frank Harrington. Named as delegates were Dr. J. M. Barrett, O. P. Matthews and S. A. Whitehurst.

EVER HEAR OF 'BROSTER' HERE'S WHAT IT MEANS

St. Paul, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Twist your tongue around and get ready for a new word—"broster."

Prof. F. Earl Ward of the Macalester College English department, says a former student suggests it as a word to represent "brother and sister." See how it works? Half of each word.

The Germans and Scandinavians have a word for it, but the English language is devoid of a single word to express the meaning.

An "s" on the end gives you "brosters," one brother and two or more sisters. Two or more brothers and one sister has to be "sproster." And from that easily comes "sprosters," two or more brothers and two or more sisters.

"I'm going home to see the folks and sprosters." It tells everything, except their names.

N. C. OFFICIAL VISITS COUNTY

Dr. J. C. Knox Here Relative to Malaria Control Work

Dr. J. C. Knox, director of the state division of epidemiology, which division has charge of the malaria control work in the state, visited the Pitt county health department on Thursday.

Dr. Ennett, Pitt county health officer, had taken up with Dr. Knox by correspondence, recently, the matter of his making a malaria survey of Pitt county, with the view of Pitt county being made a model malarial control county.

At the conference Thursday, this matter was thoroughly discussed. After Dr. Ennett explained that the Pitt county medical society and the Pitt county board of health had both endorsed the proposed plan that Pitt be made a model malaria control county, and that the physicians and the health department were ready to cooperate in this undertaking, Dr. Knox agreed to give Pitt county the benefit of a malaria survey.

This survey meets the full approval of D. H. Conley, superintendent of Pitt county schools.

Tentative plans call for blood smears to be made from school children under 15 years of age. Dr. Ennett expresses the hope that the parents of school children will cooperate, fully, in this survey.

Following this blood smear survey which will show the prevalence of malaria, a study will be made as to the mosquito breeding places and an engineer will determine the practicability of draining or eradicating these breeding places.

The date for the survey will probably be sometime during October. The schools will be given due notice and the homes will be informed through the children.

Unless the parents notify the principal that they do not want their children tested for malaria, it will be assumed that the parent desires that his child have the benefit of this test.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Attempts to rally the stock market today met with further resistance. Recoveries running to two points appeared shortly after the start, but leaders soon ran into inefficient offerings to halt the comeback and improvements were cancelled in many instances or converted into declines.

Bonds and commodities were uneven. Transfers approximated 1,300,000 shares.

Todd Hill, on Staten Island, elevation 430 feet, is the highest point on the Atlantic coast between Rio de Janeiro and Maine.

State Probation System Slow In Getting Started

Several Causes Responsible for Delaying Plan

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, Sept. 25.—North Carolina's new probation system will get off to a belated start and it will be some time after October 1, the earliest date permissible, before any offender against the laws of the state is given a chance to work out his future under the supervision of probation rather than that of prison officials.

Delay in getting the machine in operation has been due to a combination of causes—lack of office space, slowness in getting the budget approved and set up, necessity for building a complete organization from the very ground up, lack of experience on the part of those who have been named district probation officers and other reasons of a like nature.

J. Harry Sample, state director, wasn't named until mid-July. His district officers weren't appointed until less than ten days ago. The approval of the budget was put off for one reason and another. There wasn't office space anywhere in state buildings and so Mr. Sample's desk was set down in the center of the big room wherein are located most of the Highway department's files.

The only hurried act appears to have been the appointment of Miss Mae Oliver as woman's probation officer for the eastern district of the state, and the hurry here may have been more apparent than real. She was named during the heat of pre-convention campaign of the Young Democrats, either as a sop to her for pulling out of the race for president or as the open announcement of something that had already been decided upon.

Mr. Sample now is about ready to get going in earnest, however. His division has been given ample office space in the Carolina hotel; his budget has been approved informally, though no official setting up of it has yet been announced. Friday he sent out a complete instructional pamphlet to all his district officer appointees, all of whom will be called into Raleigh at once for at least a week's intensive training in the duties of the offices they are to hold. They'll probably need it as all seem to have had more experience in politics than in probation.

IT'S ODD, But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (AP Science Editor)

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The British inch is about four parts in a million shorter than the American.

This does not give the British any advantage in the 100-yard dash, nor does it even make the slightest difference in any industry. But it troubles scientists.

Lyman J. Briggs of the U. S. Bureau of Standards tells the Franklin Institute that everything in inches can be equalized by declaring that one inch equals 25.4 millimeters exactly.

That won't change anything in practical measurements, and it will be just one less cause for war.

The scientists are not going to stop with inches. They plan soon to change volts, ohms and amperes. Again it won't cost consumers anything. But on January 1, 1940, by international agreement, just as the New York's whistles blow, the present volt will get weaker by four ten-thousandths of one per cent. The ampere, volume of current unit, will get stronger by one ten-thousandth. The ohm measure of resistance, will have to drop five ten-thousandths.

In England, it is customary to place checkers on white squares of the board.

The earliest known express service was organized in 1836 to operate over the Boston-Taunton Railway.

BANTAM HEN SPECIALIZES IN RUSH-ORDER EGGS

Tulsa, Sept. 25.—(AP)—L. C. Stillwell thinks he has accomplished something toward solving the problem of the quickest service from producer to consumer. His pet bantam hen is matching eggs on top of the icebox.

Next year, Stillwell says, he'll teach the hen to lay eggs on top of the stove so they will drop off into the frying pan.

checkers was played by the Egyptians as early as 1600 B. C.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

Hollywood — Bing Crosby, a big corporation president, has as handsome offices as you'll find in Hollywood, but there's one thing missing: a desk for Bing.

The name on the office door isn't Bing's either. It's Everett Crosby's, his brother. "Everett Crosby, Ltd.," the letters announce. Everett is one of Bing's older brothers, and he is the fellow who says "No" when Bing says "How about this one?"

Four years ago Bing was a dance band vocalist trying to get along. He asked Everett to manage him. Everett took the job on one condition: that Bing should incorporate himself.

And so Bing became president and sole stockholder, Everett became vice-president, and their attorney became secretary-treasurer. But now there are four officers. Bing's father, H. L. Crosby, Sr., has a desk now. He's treasurer.

Everett's the 'No-Man' "All of Bing's money," says Everett, "is paid into the corporation. He gets a salary as president, no matter how much he makes from pictures, radio or records. We gave him a raise shortly after the twins were born, but that's all."

And that is where Everett, as manager, steps in with "No." Whatever is left of Bing's various salaries, after his taxes—and plenty—are paid, goes into the corporation treasury. After salaries are paid out, the "corporation" invests the residue in two "safe and sane" commodities—insurance and government bonds.

Occasionally the Crosbys take a little flit here and there—but with their own money, not the corporation's. Bing and Everett put some in an oil well a year or so ago, and were promptly cured. Larry, another brother, and Bing are interested in a Canadian gold mine. But Larry has had that interest for years, and only recently persuaded Bing to put some of his stray cash into the venture.

Bing Doesn't Miss Desk
Not long ago the singer bought a 40-acre ranch near San Diego. That is where his summer home will be. He's breeding thoroughbred race horses there now—has about 10 young ones coming along nicely. Del Mar, the Crosby race track which recently had its first season—with a nice profit, too—is Bing's business, not the corporation's. That goes for any race horses he may pick up on his trips to the country's tracks, too. Bing may court the lady luck, but the corporation, which doesn't wear plaid jackets either, sticks to insurance and government bonds.

Stories that Bing is a willing investor in a huge array of projects aren't true. Maybe he'd like to be, but he can't. He hasn't enough money of his own, and Everett is camped over the corporation exchequer.

That's why Bing doesn't even need a desk at his own office. He keeps his feet instead on the golf greens, on the guard rails at the tracks, or pacing up and down the corridors of maternity hospitals. Maybe, after they do the pacing act again soon, Bing will be due for another raise.

FRIENDLY FASCISTS will strengthen ties which bind when Italy's Benito Mussolini confers with Germany's Adolf Hitler in Berlin in September. All Europe will watch with interest sharpened by the two leaders' determination to stand together against Russian charges that Italian submarines are "pirates."

CIVILIZATION STEPS BACKWARD as war strides ahead. This was the scene of utter desolation left by a series of Japanese bombing raids on the Nantao "slums" of Shanghai. Half clothed, forlorn, appearing like prehistoric cave men, these Chinese have built themselves a crude shelter amid the ruins. Charred timbers show evidence of the fire which followed the aerial attacks.

CAUSE OF IT ALL, the fears of a new world war, is Spain's revolution in which Francisco Franco, Insurgent generalissimo, stands as the chief figure. He makes no bones about seeking aid from brother Fascists of Italy and Germany. But Russia, sympathizer with the cause of the Loyalists, protests loudly any signs of alleged intervention.

GOOD FOR WHAT 'ALES' THEM, this bottle of Chinese beer being shared by Americans and other foreign members of Shanghai's volunteer corps seems to hit the spot in late summer heat of the battle-ridden city. These workers are engaged in clearing up shell-wrecked areas, caring for wounded, assisting in evacuation of foreigners and general guard duty in international settlement.

STANDING IN THE MIDST of European crisis, struggling desperately to prevent any spread of Spain's conflict, are France's Premier Chamberlain (left) and Britain's Prime Minister Chamberlain (right). But above all they desired to rid the Mediterranean of submarine raiders.

THE HEIL-LAND FLING of troops and tanks across a sham battlefield was staged as Germany paraded her military might before Chancellor Adolf Hitler. Thousands of Nazis massed at Nuremberg to witness the drama of war in huge Zeppelin stadium. Following this the army plunged into a week of maneuvers in northern provinces. Cloaked in deepest secrecy, they were the Reich's greatest since war day.
