Duce Challenged To Back Up Talk On Peace Offers

ASKED TO STOP AIDING REBELS

Italy Believed Facing Alternative of Withdrawing "Volunteers" or Seeing the French Frontier Thrown Open to Munitions and Men

London, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The determined Anglo-French move to end intervention in Spain's civil war challenged Premier Mussolini to prove he meant what he said in his loud peace offers during his visit to Chancellor Hitler.

The Italian premier was expected by certain diplomatic quarters to counter the invitation to tri-power talks, aimed at withdrawal of Italy's legations from Spain, with a blunt refusal that both ends of the Rome-Berlin axis be represented.

Whether this would constitute an insurmountable barrier to British and French policy remained to be seen.

Britain and France were reported to have agreed on a pressure move to force Duce to call Italian "volunteers" home from Spain where they have been fighting under the insurgent banner. This would be reopening of the Franco-Spanish frontier to a "rain of munitions" — a vital end to British and French intervention.

Geneva, Sept. 30.—(AP)—A League of Nations sub-committee was understood today to have reached a fateful decision to present Premier Mussolini with the alternative of withdrawing his Italian volunteers from the Spanish civil war or seeing the French frontier thrown open to arms and men for the Spanish Valencia government.

A delegate who left the session of the committee drafting a resolution on the Spanish civil conflict said this agreement had been reached after a heated three hour argument.

He reported that the draft resolution does not refer to the "foreign aggression," which Spain had charged against Italy, but rather to foreign intervention.

Enlarged Faculty Starts New Term At Local College

Additional Teachers Made Necessary by Steadily Increasing Number of Students at Institution

East Carolina Teachers college begins the work of the new year with a considerably enlarged faculty to care for the additional classes made necessary by steadily increasing numbers of students and the fact that all students now registering are entering upon a four-year course, as the last two-year class was graduated this summer.

For the first time here a major in physical education is offered. J. P. Alexander, now nearing completion of work on his Ph. D. in physical education at George Peabody college, Nashville, Tenn., will be chairman of the department. Mr. Alexander comes to East Carolina Teachers college from a similar position at Lincoln Memorial University, Harrogate, Tenn.

Dr. Daniel R. Stull, Ph.D., from Johns Hopkins university, has been added to the science faculty. Dr. Stull's special field is chemistry. He comes from a position as research worker for the U.S.I. Chemical company.

Dr. Paul A. Toll will serve as an additional teacher in sociology and education. Dr. Toll, who comes from a teaching position at the University of Ohio, has his degree of Doctor of Philosophy from that same university.

Miss Rosaline Ivey of Valdosta, Georgia, who has a master's degree from George Peabody college, is an addition to the home economics department. She has been teaching in a teacher's college in Michigan.

Other new names will appear on the college faculty list because of resignations or substitutions for those on leave of absence for the year.

Plunges Four Stories

Arriving at the home of her hostess in Washington, D. C., late at night, Mrs. Lydia Harris, 24, of Raleigh, N. C., didn't want to disturb anybody's slumbers—and so she tried to get in by swinging from one window to another with aid of a clothesline. But the line broke and she fell four stories—and survived. She is shown in the hospital with a fractured hip.

TWO TEACHERS ADDED IN PITT

Belvoir-Falkland and Arthur Get New Instructors

Two new teachers have been allotted the Pitt county school system based on average daily attendance for the first two weeks of the session. The additional teachers will go to the Arthur and Belvoir-Falkland high school.

Counting the two new teachers, Pitt schools will have a total of 124 as compared with 191 last session, a net gain of two.

Ayden and Falkland schools gained one teacher each this year, but Fountain and Stokes lost one each, offsetting the gain.

Attention was called to the progress being made by the Arthur and Belvoir-Falkland school. In 1930 the Arthur school had only six teachers, but average daily attendance has increased until it now has an allotment of 10. Interest has increased and patrons are working to build it up even more. The highway commission also has improved the roads in the community, making it easier for students to get to and from school.

The Belvoir-Falkland school also is making forward strides. Last year a manual arts shop was added and this session a home economics department was provided.

2 Million Butterflies London.—(AP)—A collection of 2,000,000 butterflies and moths, the largest private collection of its kind has been left to the nation by the late Lord Rothschild. Said to have cost more than $1,250,000 to assemble, the collection will become the property of the Natural History Museum.

Scott Facing Hard Task In Preparing Farm Meet

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, Sept. 30.—Few people envy W. Kerr Scott, state commissioner of agriculture in the task he faces trying to satisfy everybody concerned with the farm hearing in Winston-Salem before a subcommittee from the senate agricultural committee, headed by Ellison D. Cotton Ed Smith.

The latest action of the committee—adding East Tennessee and Virginia to the region from which representatives are to be heard—did nothing to decrease Mr. Scott's difficulties. Now all he has to do is to arrange it so that everybody who wants to be heard can be heard in the short span of from two and a half to three hours, the time which Senator Smith has said is all that can be given.

There are no less than four major farm agencies in North Carolina alone which are sure to want to have their say—and to have it at some length. These organizations are the Farm Bureau Federation, the state Orange, the State college extension service and the Department of Agriculture itself. Dividing

HOLDS FORMER CHIEF JUSTICE KLAN MEMBER

Statement Made By Dr. Thos. Dixon, Author of 'Klansman'

JUSTICE WHITE MAN IN QUESTION

Information Given In Discussion of Charge Against Associate Justice Black

Raleigh, Sept. 30.—(AP)—The Raleigh Times, in a copyrighted story, quoted Dr. Thomas Dixon, author of "The Klansman," as saying today the late Chief Justice Edward White of the United States Supreme Court was a member of the "old" Ku Klux Klan.

Dixon, now clerk of Federal district court here, discussed Justice White's membership in the Klan when asked for his views on the charges Associate Justice Hugo Black of Alabama had accepted a lifetime membership in the KKK a few years ago.

Asked if there had been any Klansmen on the Supreme court to his knowledge, the article quoted Dr. Dixon as saying White, who was a court member from 1894 to 1921, was "one of the knights of Camella, a part of the invisible empire."

"It was White whose opinion brought dissolution of the old Standard Oil and American Tobacco companies under the Sherman anti-trust law," the article says Dixon said.

"When a young man," said Dixon, "White rode as an officer in the ranks of the KKK."

"Klan leaders in these days numbered among the best families in the south," he said. "President Taft appointed White Chief Justice in 1910 and it was just one year later that his memorable anti-trust opinions were delivered. The former Klansman administered oath of office to President Wilson in 1913 and 1917 and to President Harding in 1921 (The year White died)."

$15,000 Damage Suit Continues In Court

The $15,000 damage suit brought against the Coppersmith Lumber company of Currituck county by V. A. Jackson continued in Pitt Superior court today with indications it would take at least all day to complete it.

The plaintiff alleges that he suffered loss to the extent of $15,000 through breach of contract on the part of the defendant. The case is being tried here after the plaintiff appealed from a referee's report.

Truck Collides With Mule-Drawn Vehicle

Tabith Whitten, Negro, driver of a large Pender's truck, is facing charges of careless and reckless driving as a result of a wreck just across the Tar river bridge in which a mule was killed and two Negro men received minor injuries.

The truck ran down the embankment after running into the mule and wagon, driven by Justice Everett of the Belvoir community. Everett and his companion, Luke Furman, suffered lacerations on the head.

ROOSEVELT MEETS A 'CONSTITUENT'

Little Marjorie Wheeler got the thrill of her life in shaking hands with President Roosevelt at Vancouver, Wash., just as his train pulled out for Seattle on his trans-continental tour. In Seattle the President and Mrs. Roosevelt set aside a day for resting in the home of their daughter, Mrs. John Boettiger, and her husband.

Black To Deliver Speech on Friday

Justice Expected To Answer Charges Regarding Klan in Broadcast Scheduled for 9:30 O'Clock Friday Night

Washington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Associate Justice Hugo Black, President Roosevelt's appointee to the Supreme court, will speak to the nation over the radio tomorrow night, presumably to reply to allegations he is a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

National Broadcasting company officials here announced Black, who returned yesterday from a European vacation, would make his address over nationwide radio facilities from 9:30 to 10 p. m. Eastern Standard Time.

Upon his arrival in Norfolk, Va., yesterday, the justice told two score news men whenever he had any statement to make on the Klan charges he would "make it in a way that can not be misquoted and so the nation can hear it."

OLD BELT LEAF LINE CROSSED MARKETS OPEN BY ROOSEVELT

Price Average Estimates Vary From $25-30 Per Cwt.

Winston-Salem, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Opening sales of tobacco on the Winston-Salem market today approximated one million pounds and the average price was estimated at $30 per hundred pounds.

J. T. Booth, market supervisor, said "the price is the best for any opening day in more than 10 years."

Roxboro, Sept. 30.—(AP)—With some 200,000 pounds on the local warehouse floors, tobacco was bringing about equal to last year in today's opening sales, the average being estimated at $25 per hundred.

Burlington, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Unofficial estimates of a price average of $28 per hundredweight were made as 240,000 pounds of tobacco went on sale in the first warehouse to open for business here today.

Reidsville, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Opening sales in the first of four on the tobacco market here brought an estimated average of $28.50 per hundred pounds today. More than 200,000 pounds were offered.

Danville, Va., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Selling was brisk as Virginia's eleven Old Belt tobacco markets opened today. Prices generally were reported as high or higher than last year's opening.

At Danville, the largest of the state's Old Belt markets, a break of more than one million pounds was offered.

An estimated 300,000 pounds of bright leaf was on the floors of Rocky Mount's two warehouses. The floors of three warehouses at Petersburg were crowded at the opening of the auctioning, and warehousemen predicted the day's sales would at least equal the 151,162 pounds moved on the opening day last year.

LISTS NUMBER FIRE HAZARDS

Urges Precaution Before Starting Winter Fires

With the advent of cold weather, Fire Chief George Gardner today urged residents to take a number of precautions in preparing to start their winter fires in an effort to keep down fires started by common causes.

Calling attention to the fact that "Fire Prevention Week" will begin October 11, the fire chief asked citizens to start taking every possible precaution now.

Advising residents to check a number of items listed by the National Board of Fire Underwriters Chief Gardner listed the following:

Items to be checked from outside the house: 1-Condition of roof—roofing that is old and warped collects sparks and flying brands.

2-Condition of chimneys—wood-supported chimneys should be checked for cracking and settlement and loose bricks and open joints should be given attention.

3-Condition of yard—dry grass, leaves and paper are readily ignited and form a fire danger to buildings.

4-Condition of garage and shed—cleanliness and good maintenance are important precautions.

5-Materials of special hazard—oil and kerosene containers should be substantial and of such type that the contents will not spill.

Items to be checked in basements: 6-Accumulation of waste and discarded material—such materials found in basements provide an unnecessary fire hazard.

7-Disorderly arrangement of fuel—papers and rags mixed in with wood or coal may start spontaneous heating.

8-Ashes in contact with wood—metal are the only safe containers for ashes.

9-Furnaces, stoves or smoke pipes close to combustible ceilings or partitions—charring of wood and blistering of paint indicate exposure to excessive temperature.

10-Condition of smoke pipes—poorly supported and corroded smoke pipes present a fire hazard.

11-Gas appliances—corroded piping and rubber tubing may result in gas leaks. Automatic gas devices without thermostatic provisions for cutting off of supply when the pilot flame is extinguished may produce an explosion.

12-Oil burner installation—burners, supply tanks and piping need to be properly installed to avoid danger of fire.

13-Chimney defects and clearances—wood beams extending into chimney walls have started many fires. Unused chimney openings should be sealed.

14-Clean out door at base of chimneys—these are needed in cleaning out the soot, which is necessary to avoid chimney fires.

15-Work rooms—removal of shavings and orderly storage of paints, varnishes, oils and turpentine is important to safety.

16-Fire stops—spaces at bottom of basement wall should be closed tightly to prevent spread of fire from basement into walls and other parts of house. Fire stops also protect against vermin.

LEAF AVERAGE SHOWING RISE

Offerings Yesterday Bring Official Average of $28.55

The Greenville tobacco market continued strong yesterday and although the offerings fell below the million pound mark, more than a quarter of a million dollars was paid to farmers selling their weed on the local warehouse floors.

The day's offerings totaled 789,856 pounds and sold for $225,503.29 for an official average of $28.55 per hundred pounds.

Yesterday's sales brought the season's offerings to 26,003,596 for the 25 days the market has been open this year, still an average of more than a million pounds a day.

So far this year farmers selling tobacco on the Greenville market have been paid $5,892,894.55. At the close of auctions yesterday the general season's average had reached the $22.66 per hundred pound mark.

With tobacco of better grades being offered here and the prices continuing strong on all types, the season's average continues to show a steady climb from the early season figure around the $20 mark.

Prices today continued strong and another good day was anticipated.

SHOW NO SIGN OF WEAKENING

Japanese News Agency Declares Soviet Russian Marshal Directing Chinese Resistance By Telephone from Siberian Headquarters

Shanghai, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Two hundred thousand more Chinese communists were ordered to the north China front today to stem the relentless advance of the Japanese army, as Chinese outside Shanghai continued to hold their positions and showed no sign of weakening.

Communist forces in Kiangsi province were urged to join nationalist troops, their old enemies as the Japanese advanced through eastern Hopeh, nearly to the border of Shantung province which has felt only light infrequent attacks from armies from the Land of the Rising Sun.

With their offensive in central and north China being pushed vigorously, Japanese sources declared their information indicated Marshal Galens-Buecher, commander in chief of Soviet Russia's Siberia forces, was advising the Chinese armies.

The Japanese "big push" against the Chinese defense lines northwest of here was fought to a standstill. Japanese hurried every weapon they could muster against the strongly fortified Chinese positions, but were unable to smash through.

The Domei (Japanese) news agency reported from Nanking Marshal Galens-Buecher was directing the Chinese resistance by telephone from his Siberian headquarters.

Twice daily, the Domei dispatch said, the Russian marshal was in communication with E. D. Lepin, military attaché of the Soviet embassy in Nanking receiving full reports and advising of troop operations.

Across Sinkiang, the Soviet ambassador, Dmitri Bogomoloff, raced aboard a special train to Moscow for a conference that observers said would have a vital bearing on Russia's future course in undeclared Sino-Japanese war. Bogomoloff was expected to arrive in Moscow today.

Hunters To Start Taking To Fields And Woods Friday

Season for Deer, Bear, Squirrel, Opossum and Raccoon to Open in Most Counties This Week

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, Sept. 30.—Guns of sportsmen will start banging away in earnest on October 1 and the fields and woods will resound to baying of hounds as thousands of hunters will take the field in search of deer, bear, squirrel, opossum, raccoon, since the hunting season for all these opens on that date in most of the counties, the Department of Conservation and Development announced today.

Seasons are already open for rails, gallinules, snipe and marsh hens, having opened September 1 and the season for doves opened September 15, hunting does not become general until after October 1, when the season opens on a larger variety of game, officials of the conservation department pointed out.

The date which many, if not most of the hunters look forward to, however, is November 20 when the quail, ruffed grouse, wild turkey and rabbit seasons open. The quail and rabbit season extends from November 20 to February 15, the ruffed grouse season to February 15, and the wild turkey to February 15, except in Alleghany, Ashe, Surry, Wilkes and Yadkin counties, where there is a closed season on wild turkey.

Only one male deer may be killed on any one day, with a bag limit of not more than three deer in any one season, except in Wilkes, Yadkin and Yancey counties, which still have a closed season even on buck. It is unlawful to kill doe at any time.

The bag limit on bear is two a day and two for the season. While the bear season opens October 1 in the eastern counties, it does not open until October 20 in Alleghany, (Continued on page eight)

Developments No Comfort For Anti-Reynolds Folks

Reflector Bureau Raleigh, Sept. 30.—Those people, politicians and otherwise, who would like to see Senator Robert R. Reynolds unseated next year have received cold comfort from recent political developments, particularly from the count of votes in New York City and a Massachusetts Congressional by-election.

The anti-Reynoldsites had hoped that all this recent agitation against Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black and against the President and the New Deal was gathering momentum and votes for their side. The overwhelming victory of Judge Jerry Mahoney, New Deal Democrat, and the accompanying sweep of Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia dealt them a severe blow, but they were big to counter with the fact that the Black Klan outcry had not then really started.

Now comes the Massachusetts race in which a brother of Representative Conner, one of the authors of the Wage and Hour Bill so desperately fought by Southern conservatives, completely overwhelmed the Republican opposition, piling up a majority which proportionately to the total vote cast was even greater than the Democratic victory in 1936.

If this election is any true criterion of the effect of the Black run-up, then the anti-New Deal folks had best start all over again on some other line.

All this affect the Reynolds candidacy—or rather the possibility that our Bob will have opposition—for the reason that it is the anti-New Deal ying of North Carolina's Democracy which wants to see the Asheville man ousted. If members of this faction see any noticeable running of the political tide against the New Deal, it's a cinch that Reynolds will have opposition, and powerful opposition at that. If, as the New York and Massachusetts elections indicate, the President and his supporters in Congress are still the darlings of the populace, then there will be no opposition of the type which would really annoy Reynolds.

Squally Weather Leads To Warning

Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 30.—(AP)—Squally weather blanketed waters off the south Atlantic states today, leaving the United States weather bureau to issue small craft warnings.

The weather bureau said 40-mile winds were blowing a short distance off the coast at Cape Hatteras, N. C., to St. Augustine, Fla.

A low pressure area hung over the northwestern Caribbean Sea and a high pressure zone covered the Atlantic states. The gusty weather, observers said, was a result of the proximity of the two conditions.

WESTERN HALF ENJOYS PEACE

Dark Picture of International Situation, However

Durham, Sept. 30.—The girls of the Woman's college of Duke university were given a dark picture of the international situation in their assembly this afternoon by Dr. R. O. Rivers, executive secretary of the Duke Press and a widely known authority on American foreign relations and Latin-American affairs.

"The horizon in international affairs appears cloudy to say the least," he said, "Concerted or organized efforts at peace or its preservation are today about as ineffective as or as inactive as they were in 1914. A look at the map will not only show the danger zones we were used to expect; it is actual fact that there is Spain every day becoming as silent as the tomb it is getting to be."

"There have been no deceptions of war. The fighting has started without the formalities of old. It partakes more of the character of the common brawl. It lacks formality and therefore the old rules do not apply. The laws of warfare which once recognized the protection of non-combatants are no longer respected and we have the civilian populations of Spain and China subjected to bomb and shell from airplane and heavy artillery."

"In Europe the war in Spain has been a source of fears from the start. And the lack of frankness on the part of some statesmen precludes any possible sensible solution. The proposition that the League of Nations should assume a mandate over Spain and hold fair elections to end the civil war was not even discussed in that august assembly."

"The continent is divided into four groups of nations each pulling its own way. First are Italy and Germany under their respective dictators in the fascist camp. To them the Communist group Russia and Loyalist Spain is anathema. But in no better regard are the democracies headed by France and Britain. The Little Entente though probably side with this group. The fourth group commonly called the Oslo group is made up of the Scandinavian countries recently joined by Belgium. This is perhaps the only group with any common sense and not associated for the purpose of making war."

"A direct development of the war in Spain has been the so called piracy in the Mediterranean. Unidentified submarines have attacked and sunk over 25 merchant vessels plying those waters. It may have been a coincidence but all of them were loaded with supplies for the leftist government of Spain. No concerted action has been possible to put down this outrage because Italy having been openly accused by Russia of being the pirate and having been assigned an obscure corner of the Mediterranean, which she considers her sea, to patrol, refused to cooperate. France and Britain are in complete accord on this question and have sent fresh reinforcements to that region."

"The Far East which had been threatening to blaze for a while has at last burst in flames in two fronts in the north of China and at Shanghai. The slow pushings of the Japanese have become a steam roller preceded by the bombardments of the civilian population by her mighty air armada. Even the ambassador of his majesty George VI was wounded by machine gun bullets fired from a Japanese airplane."

"The conflicting interests of many nations plus the presence of their nationals in the cities so ruthlessly bombarded may lead to complications with regrettable aftermaths. In the war as yet undeclared almost a million troops are already engaged and the billions of dollars invested in the region by our nationals and Europeans are in jeopardy."

"The western hemisphere is tranquil and at peace. There are no internal disturbances or international conflicts in the New World. Prosperity seems to be taking a hold of business and the outlook is rosy everywhere."

"The effects of the good-neighbor policy initiated by President Roosevelt are being felt everywhere and an era of good feeling seems to be prevalent from the north pole to Tierra del Fuego. The sentiments expressed at the Inter-American conference at Montevideo were reiterated and stressed once again at the Peace conference at Buenos Aires. For once the United States has taken the lead in the diplomatic circles of the New World and these efforts, if continued, will undoubtedly lead to a better understanding among the American family of nations."

Shadows that the casual observer thinks of as just gray or black in a painting will be revealed on close examination to be full of color sometimes quite bright.

Air pressure is used to clear the ballast tanks of water in the submarines, thereby bringing them to the surface.

The underwater propulsion and navigation of a submarine depend upon batteries which supply current to the motors.

Chapter 40
Back To The Ships

"HELLO, Johnny," said Neill. "This is the guy who passed out in your cab Monday night, and whom you took to the Stafford. You came back the next morning to see how I was. Remember?"

"Sure, I remember you."

"Are you free, Johnny? Are you free for the whole night? I want to make a trip into the country."

"Well, I could be," said Johnny hesitatingly.

"Oh, I'll make it all right with you. I've got the jack."

"Okay, then," said Johnny. "Good boy! Fill up your tank and meet me on some quiet corner off the center of town. You say where, and I'll drive there in another cab."

"Make it the corner of Lombard and Eutaw. That's quiet enough at this hour."

"Okay."

Johnny was waiting for him. He greeted Neill with a grin that spread all the way across his wizened face. They shook hands heartily. Neill felt a real liking for the little fellow. He was square. When the other cab had departed, Johnny asked:

"Well, where away, Cap'n?"

"I don't exactly know."

Johnny's jaw dropped as if he thought his fare was slightly dejected.

Neill laughed. "We must stop at arrival of Robert Taylor. "Poor guy!" he breathed, reading such headlines as "Women Shriek: Give Us Our Darling Bob!" "Poor guy," he groaned.

And I think Tyrone was never more grateful that his studio provided him with a "public relations contact man" when he braved the astern storms of feminine frenzy—a little item that usually cautious Metro neglected in Taylor's case.

Handy Southern Accent
On the same set, and working, was Marjorie Weaver, Tennessee's bright brunette—working very hard because the picture is her first real opportunity in films. After a year of study to lose her southern accent, Marjorie gets her big chance in the role of a little southern girl.

He rowed softly close to the towering steel bulk of the Abraham Lincoln. By counting the portholes he was able to take up a position immediately below the windows of Janet's little veranda. He lay on his oars and softly whistled the meadowlark's call with lips that trembled a little. He was so keen to take her in his arms!

Closed Windows
HE LOOKED up, watching for the weighted string to fall. Nothing came and he whistled again, a little louder. Still no answer. He supposed that Janet had fallen asleep and he was divided between irritation and anxiety. How could she sleep when she knew he was coming? She had all day to sleep in. And what the devil was he to do if he couldn't waken her?

After whistling again once or twice, he rowed a little way out from the hull in order to look up at the windows. Even by star-light he could pick out the four windows of Janet's suite. They were larger than the windows on either side. Suddenly with a tightening of his breast he realized that all four windows were closed. There was no mistaking it; in each window the glass was faintly reflecting the star-shine. Naturally she couldn't hear his signal. Why on earth should she close the windows when she was expecting him?

Then he remembered that it was impossible for Janet to move the stiff windows.

In the first moment the bottom seemed to drop out of everything. What had happened? Had somebody been there? Had she been taken away? How could he get aboard without the ladder?

He set his teeth, and got himself under control. He rowed around the ships to the little platform at the foot of the boarding-ladder, and tied his skiff alongside the others. He didn't know if the extra guards were aboard tonight and he didn't much care. If Janet was gone, nothing mattered. There were no lights showing in Captain Bickel's cabin.

Neill finds Janet being cross-examined by the police, tomorrow.

Hollywood—(AP)—The fall sheet—that daily studio bulletin which tells actors where they're to work at what time—is often a fascinating document.

The other day Warner's had one posted which still intrigues me. From 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. it called for scenes on eight sets, to wit: interior judge's chambers, interior courtroom, interior police station, exterior Pinky's home, exterior Cheap street, interior Pinky's home, exterior street near Pinky's home, and exterior Pinky's home.

Tyrone Is Grateful
It seems there's a character named Pink, and there is—Bonita Granville. The picture, after all this, seems appropriately titled: "To Much of Everything." But what I really can't forget is that, on the first set, Mr. Briggs, Mr. Everton, and "part of Mr. Morgan" were required. Poor Mr. Morgan! Sometimes, though, I like to think of it. Part of Mr. Morgan lolling the morning away, and part of Mr. Morgan out slaving for Jack Warner. The actor's millenium if ever there was one!

On the set of "Second Honey-moon," Tyrone Power, between the scenes, as studying a page from a London newspaper recounting the

LARGEST LINT CROP IN YEARS

Tar Heel Farmers Adding Share To Large Surplus

Raleigh, Sept. 29.—North Carolina farmers are adding their share to the flood of cotton that is going to make up the nation's largest crop since 1931.

However, declared Glenn R. Smith, cotton marketing specialist of the agricultural experiment station at State college, this year's crop should be of high spinning value because of the progress made in planting pure seed of improved varieties.

Proper harvesting and handling is necessary to secure a high grade lint, he explained. Some growers make the mistake of ginning their cotton while it is wet or damp. Ordinarily about 20 per cent of the cotton ginned at this time is slightly damaged as a result of having been run through the gin while wet or damp.

Early in the season, Smith explained, the water content of the seed and plant is high, and the lint tends to be sticky. Consequently a light rain or a heavy dew makes the cotton too damp to be ginned properly.

If picked while green or damp, the cotton should be spread out in the sun and allowed to dry thoroughly before being carried to the gin. This drying process can be speeded up if the grower will stir the seed cotton at frequent intervals.

Only about a half-dozen gins in the state are equipped with dryers, Smith said, so the average farmer can save himself several dollars on each bale by having his lint properly dried before it goes through the ginning process.

"Every dollar saved this year will mean much to the cotton farmer," Smith declared. "Prices are the lowest they have been in years, and losses subtracted from the low selling price will place the average producer in poor financial straits."

Footwear was in use more than 3,500 years ago, the ancients utilizing various materials such as pelts of animals, metals, grass, leaves, bark and wood. In some sections of the world heels were first used to keep the feet well above the burning desert sands.

Game Protectors Get Instructions To Show Courtesy

Raleigh, Sept. 29.—Sportsmen hunting and fishing in North Carolina can be assured that they will be treated with courtesy and consideration by the state and county game protectors, although they can also be sure they will be closely checked by these protectors, the Department of Conservation and Development announced today. The department for years has been insisting upon constant and uniform courtesy on the part of the game wardens in enforcing the hunting and fishing laws.

That the sportsmen generally appreciate the courtesy and efficiency of the North Carolina game protectors, is shown in a letter just received by Commissioner John D. Chalk of the game and inland fisheries division from Clayton A. Pendale, hunting and fishing enthusiast of Summit, New Jersey, who has just recently been on a fishing trip in North Carolina. In this letter, Mr. Pendale said:

"No place where I go—and I hunt and fish in five different states—are the game wardens so much on the job as they are in your state. I have been checked more in North Carolina than in all the other states combined. Yet it is done so courteously and efficiently, it leaves one with a feeling of satisfaction with your department."

All game wardens in North Carolina, where they are efficiently designated as "game protectors," have been reminded of the fact that the impression which many people from other states will get of this state depends upon the impression made by the game protectors and whether they are courteous and considerate of the visitors. They have standing orders to always be courteous and considerate of every one they come in contact with, even if it is some time necessary to make an arrest.

 Launch New Oil
 Burner Season

The fourth and last in a series of meetings held by the Carolina Sales Corporation in launching the local firm's oil-burner season was held at the Rotary Club today with a large number of Duo-Therm Oil Burner dealers present for the luncheon session.

The Carolina Sales is distributor for the burner in Virginia, North and South Carolina. There are dealers in the territory. Meetings already have been held at Charleston, S. C., Columbia, S. C., and Raleigh.

L. C. Blank of Charleston, southern manager for the Duo-Therm company, which is a division of the Motor Wheel Company of Lansing, Mich., and George Phillips of New York, district service engineer, addressed the dealers on the progress of the oil burner. The company, Mr. Blank said, manufactured more than 90,000 units in the United States last year—a four-year increase in production of 6,000 per cent. The company makes the only exclusive dual-chamber burner.

E. E. Rawl, general sales manager of the Carolina Sales Corp., spoke on the value of newspaper advertising and James T. Little, active head of the firm, delivered the principal address.

Joe L. Plasmants is head of the Eastern district, representatives of which were at today's meeting.

Reflector Bureau.
 Raleigh, Sept. 30.—School children may be glad to hear they have good company in doing many of their tasks outside the school and at their homes.

On the desk of Governor Clyde R. Hoey in the state capitol is a bulging folder. On the outside is written in pencil by the Governor's own hand: "Governor's Home Work."

His Excellency can be seen carrying it back and forth every afternoon and morning, too, and he says that he attends to much of his heavy work at the Magician.

What's in a name? John Laws, former Burlington police officer, has just become a member of the State Highway Patrol.

It seems to this bureau, which does not pose as headquarters for sports experts, that the football writers of North Carolina have gone out of their way to avoid naming the real reason for South Carolina's tie with North Carolina last Saturday.

Not a one of them has said so, but isn't it just barely possible that the Sandlappers have a Grade "A" football team this season?

State Senator Gilmer Sparger of Stokes, has assumed his duties in Raleigh as North Carolina secretary for the American Petroleum Industries Committee. He succeeds R. Grady Johnson, former speaker of the House and now head of the penal division of the State Highway Department.

Another sign of returned prosperity, Raleigh's Y.M.C.A. drive netted $8,828.50 in pledges this year against $4,020 last year. While this year's campaign may have been a bit better organized than was last year's, the principal reason for increased subscriptions was increased ability to make them.

It was no decisive test, as other factors entered into the equation, but the "Home Rule" drive started by Wilmington's Tom Cooper and others didn't get off to such a flying start at the convention of the North Carolina League of Municipalities.

Mayor J. B. Eure of Ayden, who was named by the league nominating committee, was soundly beaten by Charlotte's Mayor Ben Douglass just about 24 hours after the Ayden official had raised his voice in long and loud complaint against centralization and "bureaucracy."

When a lad keeps on wooing a lass it gives rise to the impression his intentions are serious, and if this Thad Eure, our good looking Secretary of State, keeps on making speeches on little or no provocation it will be nothing less than logical to conclude he is earnestly wooing Miss Electorate with eyes on a higher post than the one he now embellishes. Tonight Thad is to be heard by Dunn's Lions.

Press agents nowadays lose no opportunity to dress up every story with the "human touch." Latest to come to this bureau's attention is the case of Miss Myrtle Ellen La Barr, Greensboro, who has just been named national publicity chairman of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. After detailing her many accomplishments, there is added:

"She like to cook and can make jelly well enough to win a prize at the fair."

Calling cards should be in white or cream color.

Washington—The neutrality act these days is in about the same status as the prohibition act in the years immediately before repeal.

Nearly everybody was for abolition of the saloon and its attendant evils, but many, including the heads of government, came to the conclusion that prohibition merely substituted the speakeasy for the saloon and developed a whole new set of "attendant evils."

Now nearly everybody is for staying out of war and for avoiding its attendant evils, but many, including apparently the heads of government, have concluded that the neutrality act won't keep us out of war and that, if applied, it would bring on a whole new set of "attendant evils."

Before repeal you could stand in the offices of some federal and state enforcement agencies and hear the clinking of glass in the "speaks" a few doors distant. Prohibition agents would sit around the office hoping their pay wouldn't be lopped off, and occasionally would dash out into the hills and knock over a still they had known about for many months but which had been "saved up" for a time when a raid was necessary to satisfy the Anti-Saloon League.

In Shanghai, agents of the department of state can hear Japanese and Chinese shelling, see bombing planes overhead, and watch columns of ambulances hauling off civilians wounded in air raids. But the law enacted to cover such situations is not enforced.

The neutrality act, which automatically goes into effect upon the "outbreak of war," and imposes mandatory embargoes on war government, has been voided by the simple process of refusing to recognize there is war.

Furthermore, Secretary of State Hull made it clear in his speech broadcast internationally for the national peace conference that so far as Japan and China are concerned, he expects the act to remain a dead letter. Evidently only a declaration of war by one of the countries would impel him to ask the President to invoke the act.

His reason: It won't promote peace.

The neutrality act is an "isolationist" act, and, says Secretary Hull, "any nation which completely fails to show interest in and to give support for, the existence of international order would lose its influence for peace."

This country must promote peace by avoiding isolation, says Hull, or war will spread so widely that even isolation won't be safe.

Just as the prohibs knocked over an occasional still to comfort the dregs, the government now orders its own merchant vessels out of China and issues an occasional "trade at your own risk" warning to mollify the isolationists.

PAYROLL FUND IS COLLECTED

Contributions Of $7,077,280.98 Made By Employers

Raleigh, Sept. 30.—Contributions of $7,077,280.98 have been made by North Carolina employers on payrolls of their employees to the State Unemployment Compensation Fund through September 22. Charles G. Powell, commission chairman, announced. This entire amount is deposited to the credit of the N. C. fund and will all be used for payment of workers who become unemployed through no fault of their own and beginning early next year.

Contributions for 1936, amounting to nine-tenths of one per cent of the payrolls, reached $3,043,620.59 and was paid by 5,754 employers. Payments for the first quarter of 1937, at the rate of 1.8 per cent of the payrolls, amounted to $1,599,891.33, paid by 6,817 employers. After that the payments were monthly, as follows: April, $569,194.74, paid by 6,860 employers; May $578,090.50, paid by 6,656 employers; June $578,831.88, paid by 6,637 employers; July $562,913.70, paid by 6,415 employers; and probably one-fourth of August $144,790.97, paid by 2,077 employers.

Through that date, September 22, the commission had notified 177 employers who were delinquent in 1936 payments; 99 who were delinquent in payment of the contributions for the first quarter of 1937, and 729 delinquents for the month of April, 1937. Some of these reported delinquent will doubtless establish that they are not due to pay contributions, because of having less than eight employees, or for other reasons, but the most of them will be required to make the payments.

CALLING CARDS INVADING PROVINCE OF NOTE PAPER

(By Joan Durham AP Feature Service Writer)

Calling cards, originally devised to be left as reminders after paying a formal bill, now are used also for writing invitations, for notes sent with gifts and even for written orders.

Two types are in popular use; the formal, single card and a folded, informal one.

The formal one should be white or cream and have a kid or suede finish. Artificial parchment is of favor because it has a pool of writing surface. In its place stations supply a stiff, thin paper.

The informal card is generally made of a flap for notes.

The usual size of a man's card is 17-16 by 27-8 inches. The wife's card is larger; in this case about 21-16 by 27-8 inches. If they use a "Mr. and Mrs." card, it should be about 25-16 by 31-4 inches. Unmarried women use a card about the same size as that of a married woman.

As to prefixes. Men do not use "Mr." until they are the age of a college senior. Girls can start using "Miss" when they are 15 or 16.

Formal and informal cards may carry the address, in the lower right hand corner. Telephone numbers may be used on informal card, but not on formal one unless they are for business.

Script or shaded roman lettering is preferable.

Full names, not initials, are best unless the name is unusually long.

When there's doubt about whether a dress ornament or a piece of jewelry is appropriate it is best to leave it off.

To Bring Laughter

The famous "Laugh factory" of the great Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus is comprised of more than two-score of fun-makers who frequently spend many months of serious study and rehearsal in the invention of tricks and absurdities which require only a few moments in actual presentation.

Experience has taught them that while circus audiences in certain sections of the country will respond to certain antics, the thing to search for is the elusive "universal laugh-getter"—and the never failing clown "rag" which will send crowds into gales of laughter whether the circus be exhibiting in Maine or California; New York or Mississippi.

Sometimes the effect of the circus clowning is enhanced greatly by costuming and by facial make-up. Close observation will disclose the fact that no two clowns ever look exactly alike. Once a clown has perfected a makeup, none of his colleagues will duplicate it and he is granted a sort of moral copyright on his achievement.

The versatility of circus buffoons often goes unappreciated, but the fact remains that many a clown discovers he must be a musician, a dancer and an acrobat as well as a comedian in order to compete with the best of his associates. Each of these "doctors of mirthology" in the Hagenbeck-Wallace organization is a master of his craft and large portions of laughter are guaranteed when the big show serves up its feast of wonders in Greenville on Monday, October 4.

There will be performances at 2 and 8 p. m. Doors will be open an hour earlier in each instance to permit leisurely inspection of the largest circus wild animal menagerie in the world.

ENGLAND FULFILLS A 600-YEAR-OLD PLEDGE

Edinburgh—(AP)—England finally has fulfilled a pledge made to Scotland six centuries ago.

The assistant keeper of the London Public Record office has returned nine documents which should have been returned under the treaty of Northampton in 1328. They include:

The marriage contract between Eric, King of Norway and Margaret daughter of Alexander III King of Scots; and Papal bulls recognizing the independence of Scotland from England in ecclesiastical matters.

GOOD FARMING METHOD FOUND

Public Often Fails To Get Idea of Better Types

Raleigh, Sept. 30.—So much is written about poor farms in the South, the utility of the one-crop system, and low farm income that the public sometimes fails to get an idea of the other types of farming done in North Carolina, said Dr. Jane S. McKimmon, of the State College extension service.

But Haywood county with its farm tours on the Iron Duff watershed and the selection of fine farm as demonstrations of what good farming should be will do much to put the accent on good farming instead of bad, she continued.

Fifty-four families are members of the watershed organization, and all of them have toured the territory to visit selected farms in the area to see demonstrations of good farm management, production of beef cattle, and what crimson clover turned under in the spring will do to increase corn yields.

Both the men and the women were keenly interested in the improvements that had been made inside and outside the farm homes.

The Hogan home was a good example. The Hogans had built a new house. As the building took shape, they made plans for planting shrubbery, grading the yard, and making a lawn. A hedge of mountain laurel screens the work area and the vegetable garden from the road. Ivy will eventually cover the chimney and the foundation pillars. Running water supplied through a gravity system is to be installed at an early date.

At the Thurman Davis home, an interesting feature was the spring house with an entrance opening into the kitchen. Dr. McKimmon went on. Running water is also piped into the kitchen.

COLLEGE TEAM IN GOOD SHAPE

Line-up for Saturday Game Announced By Coach

By BERT MOYE

The East Carolina Teachers College Pirates are in good condition and anxious to get into the opening affray Saturday afternoon with the Guilford Quakers on the Quakers field.

Coach Joe Alexander has for the past week been holding two practices daily in preparation for the opening game and on Wednesday afternoon held a line scrimmage. The remainder of the week will probably be spent in dummy drills on offensive practice and defensive attack.

The opening game Saturday will be a most important one for Coach Alexander as it will mark his debut as athletic coach at East Carolina Teachers college. With this point in mind and with the fact that the Quakers last season nosed out a victory by a lone touchdown, the Pirates are more than anxious to gain the upper hand and give Coach Alexander a good send off for the year.

According to the words of Coach Alexander, "Much of my team's success this coming season will depend on the line, which will average around 160 pounds this season." The team has been built around a nucleus of three lettermen who returned to school this fall and is composed of mostly men of the freshman class, but all are men of football experience, having starred in their respective schools before entering the college here.

Coach Alexander, in order to perfect a good team, has in almost every instance, had to do a great deal of shifting with his former letter men, having transferred Primrose Carpenter from guard position to a half back position, and also transferring Bill Shelton from half-back position to the full back position.

The squad started with approximately 30 candidates out for the various positions and when the team leaves here Friday morning via bus for the Quaker field, Coach Alexander said that he would have a total of 20 men on the team.

As to the outcome of the game Coach Joe Alexander is very optimistic over the outcome, and word from the Quaker camp is that the Teachers have a slight edge for victory in Saturday's contest.

The following is the probable starting line-up for the Teachers in Saturday's game, according to Coach Alexander:

back who may develop into one of the greatest North Carolina has seen. He has speed, power, and plenty of football sense.

Lezier is a good punter and perhaps the best blocker on the State squad. All he lacks is experience.

The quarterbacking will be done by Little and Murphy. Both are seniors and regarded as the best generals their schools have had in some time. Murphy is a good ball carrier, too.

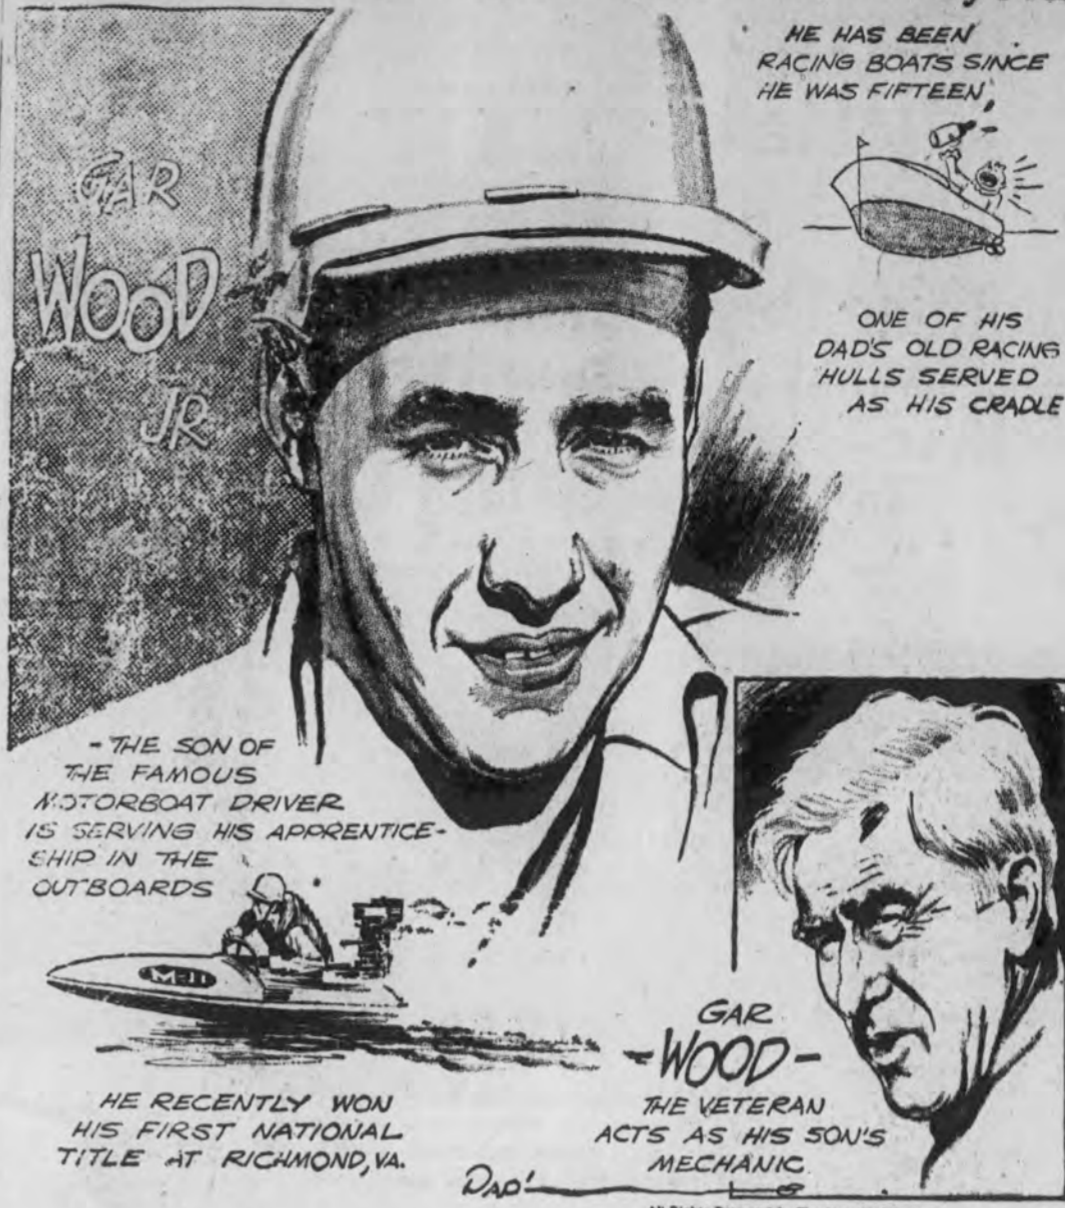

Next to Little, George Watson is the most elusive runner in the Carolina backfield.

Both clubs also have other good backs in reserve, thus assuring plenty of smashing, driving, spectacular play.

IN THE AIR —

IN FATHER'S WAKE . . . . . —By PAP

SPORT SLANTS

—By PAP

Gar Wood, Jr., may be a chip off the old cylinder block. But he is serving his speed boat apprenticeship like any other potential champion. Young Wood, completing his fourth year at the wheel of buzz-ing outboards that look and act like overgrown waterbugs, is taking things slowly. He's gaining experience.

Mrs. Wood, Sr., wife of the waterway speed king, wants it so. Mother Wood doesn't wish Junior to reach the top too quickly.

"Too much publicity is bad for a young boy," she smiled. "He still has plenty of time."

She needed all of her persuasive power and some of her boundless patience to keep Junior, who had one of Gar's record-breaking craft for a cradle, out of the races before he was 15.

Junior recently won his first naional amateur outboard championship at Richmond, Va., an accomplishment of which Mother Wood is justly proud. But she is content to see him defeated occasionally by the better professional drivers.

"They are teaching him a lot," she said. "They're good drivers and good sports. Every one of them is out to win, but there isn't a pilot who won't lend a rival some part of his motor, or offer him a hint, although it may hurt his own chances."

Mother Wood is a popular figure with the boys in the pits. She takes them sandwiches, chocolate milk and piping hot coffee, and calls them by their first names and nicknames. They call her "Mother."

Junior has raced some larger boats, but he probably won't go into bigtime championships for a while yet. He is learning the ropes in the tricky outboards and absorbing more of his father's knowledge. Other drivers say he is a keen observer. They already have a wholesome respect for his ability at the wheel.

HIGH SCHOOLS SPEEDY BACKS START SEASON TO SEE ACTION

Football Gets Under Way in Class A-B Divisions

Chapel Hill, Sept. — Three games are scheduled in the class A and B football conference this week according to the schedule released today by E. R. Rankin, secretary of the North Carolina High school athletic association.

Charlotte's 1936 state champions will begin defense of their crown Friday afternoon by tackling the strong Gastonia eleven at Gastonia.

In the eastern A division Raleigh runner-up to Charlotte last season, plays host to Wilson in the capital city and Wilmington moves to Rocky Mount for an engagement with the Blackbirds. Both games are scheduled for Friday afternoon.

Only two games are booked in the Class B circles, both in the east. In the first district Randleigh Rapids (and Elizabeth City class Friday

State-Carolina Game Scheduled for Raleigh Saturday

Raleigh, Sept. — The N. C. State-Carolina football game here in Riddick Stadium Saturday afternoon will pit two of the south's fastest backfields against one another.

Carolina's backfield of Co-captain Crowell Little, Art Ditt, George Watson and Tom Burnette is hailed as one of the best to represent the university in years.

State's starting backfield will be Eddie Berlinski, Art Rooney, George Murphy and Paul Lozier, and in these Coach Doc Newton has one of the best group of backs State has had recently.

These eight men are counted on to give Tar's defending the game Saturday all the backfield fireworks they will care to see in one afternoon, with plenty of running, passing, and kicking.

The Tar Heels, with no sophomores, have it over State in experience. State has sophomores in Rooney and Lozier.

State may have the edge in passing, as Rooney is rated as one of the best passers in North Carolina. Rooney also will do most of State's kicking, but may concede a slight advantage here to Carolina's Burnette.

The best running backs of the two backfields are Little, Rooney and Berlinski. Little looked great against South Carolina last week. Rooney and Berlinski looked equally as impressive in the Davidson game two weeks ago.

With big Art Ditt on hand, Carolina may have the edge on line-smashing. State's 1936 team considered Ditt as one of the hardest men to stop it encountered all last season. And Ditt is even better this year.

In Paul Lozier State has a full-

How's Your Health?

Edited for the New York Academy of Medicine
By Iago Goldston, M.D.

EMOIONS AND THE BODY Eliphaz the Temanite, chiding Job for his unbridled lamentations, wisely said "Vexation killeth the foolish man, and jealousy slayeth the silly one." The ancients fully appreciated the influence of emotions on bodily functions, and modern science has produced numerous proofs to support and validate their convictions.

The worth of these proofs lies in more than the honor paid to the wisdom of the ancients. They point the way to the avoidance and remedy of numerous ailments and disabilities. Indigestion or dyspepsia, for example, can in many instances be avoided by good mental hygiene, and can be cured by competent psychotherapy more effectively than by the use of drugs or special diets.

Every phase of bodily function is subject to the emotions. Respiration changes with emotional tone and tension. The anxious individual breathes irregularly, and sighs frequently. Markand has practically always placed "feeling" in and about the heart, and recent studies have shown that the heart size and also the blood volume passing through it are changed by deep emotions.

Heart pains due to grief may arise from the temporary impairment of blood circulation through the heart musculature. "Eating one's heart out" is therefore likely to be more than a poetic license.

The gastrointestinal tract is notoriously responsive to the emotions. The secretions of the stomach and intestines may become excessive or inadequate, and the motor activities of the various portions of the digestive tract may be altered radically by emotional strains. All forms of constipation are frequently traceable to nervousness.

While in most instances intense emotions alter or modify bodily functions only temporarily, sustained and prolonged emotional strain may produce lasting functional changes, and even permanent organic damage.

Good mental hygiene is therefore a basic essential of good physical health. Good mental hygiene can be acquired. Too few patients turn to their physicians for this brand of medicine. Pills and potions dominate excessively in the minds of many. Good in themselves, their effectiveness could many times be heightened by a leisurely discussion with the doctor on "what really troubles you."

Gladys Cobb: Crime Student

Charleston, W. Va. (AP)—Pretty, blonde Gladys Cobb decided when she was nine that she wanted to follow the same career as her father, T. R. Cobb, ballistics expert of the West Virginia criminal identification bureau.

She's been studying crime six years now, at 15, can take a couple of mashed bullets and tell you whether the same gun fired them, or find out with the microscope whether a dingy piece of cloth is stained with human blood. She also has studied fingerprinting.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Sept. 30.—(AP)—Stocks on the whole displayed forward leanings in today's market but extension of the recovery move lacked vigor from the start.

The list was at its best in the first hour, with gold mining issues, steels, coppers and rails taking the buying play for gains running to around two points or more. Mid-sewing appeared later and extreme gains were reduced here and there. Dealings were exceptionally quiet.

Helpful was an upturn in rail bonds and improvement in the main foreign securities market. Commodities were a trifle uneven.

Prospects Bright For 4-H Shows At State Exposition

Raleigh, Sept. 30.—Prospects are good for the 4-H and open dairy shows for the State Fair, October 12-16, and are improving each day, said John A. Arey of State College, with Dr. William Moore of the State Department of Agriculture. Arey is a director of the fair livestock departments.

The quality of calves raised by 4-H club boys and girls has been improving year by year, Arey said, and this has been reflected in steadily improving 4-H calf club shows.

On a recent trip over the state, Arey said he found the boys and girls much interested in fitting animals to be exhibited this fall, and most of the animals are in fine condition.

Arey added that he is expecting a larger exhibit more representative of the entire state this fall, since the 4-H calf show to be held in Asheville, October 8, has stimulated interest in the mountain counties, and many of the animals entered there will be brought down to Raleigh for the State Fair the following week.

Adult farmers over the state, Arey continued, are also grooming their best milk cows and herd sires
