ANGLO-FRENCH EFFORT AIMED AT SHOW DOWN

Move Is Designed To Force Duce's Hand On Spain

London, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Great Britain and France today sought a show-down with Italy on the Spanish question despite a Soviet maneuver, apparently designed to force their hand and anger Rome.

Diplomatic quarters reported the Soviet Union demanded abandonment of the Spanish non-intervention scheme in a note to Lord Plymouth, chairman of the 27 nation non intervention group. The move would permit shipments of arms and volunteers to Spain.

Paris and London went ahead with plans for a three party conference by inviting Italy to participate in an "attempt to deal promptly and effectively with issues relating to foreign intervention in Spain.

Despite pessimistic reports from Rome, British and French were hopeful Premier Mussolini would accept the invitation.

Diplomats said the Russian move should form the basis for further Russian negotiations to obtain greater equality of opportunity to help the leftist-inclined republican government of the war-torn nation.

The note said the old non-intervention patrol ceased to be effective when France and Britain withdrew their warships—following a similar action of Germany and Italy.

Warships of the four powers had comprised the cordon around Spain to prevent shipments of water of volunteers and war materials.

RECORDS SHOW BETTER TIMES

Picture Is Bright As Year Enters Final Quarter

Charlotte, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Gains in retail trade, a good agricultural season, mounting postal receipts and bank debits told a story of increasing prosperity in the southeast today as the year entered its fourth quarter.

Reports to the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, Va., indicated a consistent gain in retail trade throughout the first nine months of the year over the same period in 1936, its monthly bulletin said.

A good agricultural season also brought prospects of higher income to the farmer. Georgia tobacco growers this year sold nearly 80,000,000 pounds for $15,570,000, an average of $19.58 a hundred.

The tobacco season is about over in South Carolina and relatively high prices were reported. The same held true for the eastern and middle North Carolina belts, where the bulk of the nation's cigarette type tobacco is produced.

The old belt markets in North Carolina and Virginia opened this week with prices averaging in most instances above the opening prices last year.

In the fifth federal reserve district commercial failures declined sharply in September and employment increased slightly. The valuation of building permits the past month also was higher than in September, 1936, although the number of permits was less.

Revenue collections were up generally.

PICTURESQUE CANADIANS HAIL ROOSEVELT

It was a warm and colorful welcome the picturesque city of Victoria, British Columbia, gave President Roosevelt upon his brief visit there. Attended by the 16th Scottish bagpipe band, the President is shown at Governor's mansion. Left to right: Mrs. E. W. Hamber, wife of the lieutenant governor; the President, James Roosevelt, Mrs. Roosevelt and Lieut. Gov. Hamber.

FIFTH DAY OF BATTLE RAGES FOR SHANGHAI

Chinese and Japanese Fight Each Other To Standstill

Shanghai, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Chinese and Japanese troops fought each other to a standstill today in the fifth day of battle for Shanghai's north station, where the Chinese defense line is anchored only a stone's throw from the foreign settlement.

While Japanese war ships in the Waangpoo blanketed the area with a barrage of shells, planes dropped demolition bombs on Chapei and several burned blackened areas formerly in Shanghai's foreign districts.

At nightfall the Chinese still were stubbornly holding the Pantheon theatre despite a series of Japanese thrusts to dislodge them.

The heavy fighting in the Chapei district resulted in the destruction of one of Shanghai's gayest white light districts.

Chinese commanders declared 200 Japanese were killed in close quarter fighting around the North station.

The Sixth United States marines, also on the edge of heavy fighting in their sector along the Soochow creek, completed a new row of machine gun nests, giving them a complete sweep of the embattled district on Shanghai's north side.

On the other fronts in Central and South China, Japanese war

FDR LEARNS OF BLACK SPEECH

Acquainted With Acknowledgement Of Klan Affiliation

Aboard Roosevelt Train Enroute to Grand Coulee Dam, Oct. 2.—(AP)—President Roosevelt was fully acquainted with Justice Black's acknowledgement of former Ku Klux Klan affiliation today as he travelled to inspect Grand Coulee dam, but he made no comment.

En route home from his trip of inspection and speech-making on New Deal aims in the northwest, the President received word of Black's radio denial of present klan connection from his son and secretary, James Roosevelt. The latter heard Black's address over an automobile radio.

At the exact minute Black went on the air the President stopped 16 miles out of Tacoma to receive full military honors at the gates of

Call Is Believed From Kidnappers

Investigators Feel Attempt Made by Abductors of Charles Ross to Start Negotiations

Chicago, Oct. 2.—(AP)—A telephone call from a gruff voiced man was regarded today by investigators as a possible attempt by the kidnapers of wealthy Charles Ross to start negotiations for a ransom.

The call was received at the Ross home shortly after the arrival in Chicago of Earle Connelly, investigator for the federal bureau of investigation. Connelly was informed the man said:

"Take this down. This is Bob of New York. We have Ross but the federal agents have the wires tapped and we cannot make contact. This is not a prank."

Connelly said the man would be assured if he called again that the wires were not tapped and that he was free to contact the wife of the kidnaped victim.

Mrs. Ross was reported anxious to have police and federal agents withdraw from the case in the hope that her husband's abductors then would reveal their terms.

Five Meet Death In Detroit Sewer

Detroit, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Five workmen were reported killed in a new interceptor sewer here this afternoon when hydraulic pressure destroyed an air lock. Reports to police said 30 other men were trapped underground.

A workman on the project said a huge shield was being pushed through clay when sand was struck, five feet from a contemplated part of the sewer. What the workers call a "sand boil" apparently resulted and the shield collapsed.

PLAN DRAFTED HELP FARMERS

Secretary Wallace Outlines 'All Weather' Farm Program

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace outlined an "all-weather" program to assembled throngs of farmers from Kentucky, Tennessee and Southern Indiana here today.

Introduced by Judge Robert Bingham, Louisville's U. S. ambassador to Great Britain, Wallace urged farmers to adopt a six-point program, which he said in the words of President Roosevelt is "intended to level the peaks of over-supply into the valleys of shortage and disaster."

Principles and recommendations, Wallace said covered at a February meeting of farmer leaders were:

"First, that agriculture has a right to a fair share of the national income.

"Second, that consumer as well as farmer interest should be safeguarded through an ever normal granary.

"Third, that conservation of soil is vital to the nation.

"Fourth, that farmers ought to be secured on security to tenure of farms they occupy.

"Fifth, that farmers cooperative movement ought to be encouraged.

"Sixth, that provisions ought to be included in any national farm program favoring the family-sized farm."

ANOTHER HIGH AVERAGE MADE

Friday's Offerings Bring Highest Prices Of the Season

Another record tumbled on the Greenville tobacco market yesterday as the highest average for the season was paid for more than a million and a half pounds of the weed.

Yesterday's average of $29.86 per hundred pounds exceeded the previous high figure of $29.46 set here Monday. Yesterday's offerings, however, fell a little short of Monday's poundage, the highest ever sold on the Greenville market.

Friday saw 1,602,944 pounds sell for $47,582.09, an official average of $29.86.

Yesterday's good average brought the general season's average up to $23.33; the first time this year it has exceeded the $23 figure.

So far this season 28,833,154 pounds of tobacco has been sold on the Greenville market, bringing farmers a total of $6,726,211.64.

Blame Two Deaths To Short Circuit

Blowouts of Transformers at Halifax County Fair at Weldon Responsible for Electrocutions

Weldon, Oct. 2.—(AP)—A short circuit caused by the blowout of a transformer was blamed today for the electrocution of two men at the Halifax county fair grounds last night.

Officers identified the victims as Leonard Chamberlain of Olean, N. Y., ferris wheel operator where the tragedy occurred, and Ernest Tidwell, 21, of Roanoke Rapids.

Marks on the bodies of the men indicated they received the shocks while standing against the metal chain installed to keep fair visitors from pressing too close to the riding device.

Lights on the fair grounds and in this town went out of commission. Tidwell's body was not found until after Chamberlain was discovered unconscious on the ground.

The ferris wheel operator was rushed to a hospital at Roanoke Rapids hospital, but was dead before arrival there.

DELUGE VISITS NEW ORLEANS

More Than 12 Inches Of Rainfall in 20 Hours

New Orleans, Oct. 2.—(AP)—Twin storms in the Gulf of Mexico off the Louisiana coast today brought to New Orleans a tropical deluge of rain of more than 12 and one-half inches in 20 hours.

The area of the disturbance extended from Florida to Texas.

The rain, still continuing here at noon, was the second heaviest on record for New Orleans and was near the 14.01 inches mark of the downpour that flooded the city in 1927.

The Tulane-Auburn football game scheduled this afternoon was postponed because the gridiron was under three feet of water. The game was set for 2:30 p. m., Monday.

Many residents had to wade to transportation lines to get to their homes and others were temporarily marooned. Sewer and water board officials said minor flooding was general throughout the city and detours had to be made by traffic in some low sections.

Weather For the Week

South Atlantic States: Showers beginning of week and possibly again toward close. Scattered showers in Florida all of week; cooler over north portion at beginning, otherwise temperatures near normal.

Before the United States of America was five years old, embargoes were invoked for the purpose of keeping us out of foreign disputes.

Announcement Party.

As guests arrived at the home of Mrs. Charles Woodward this afternoon they were presented miniature nosegays with cards bearing the announcement: "Frances-Will, October 27th, 1937," thus announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Frances Morton to Dr. William Kitchin McDowell of Scotland Neck.

Sharing honors at this lovely affair was Miss Carrie Wiggins of Tarboro, who will be married to Carey B. Mayo, Jr., of this city and Hopkinsville, Ky., on November 4th.

The home throughout was beautifully decorated in gladioli, asters and dahlias in variegated colors. The Hallowe'en idea was effectively carried out in the table appointments, and the tempting salad course served at the conclusion of the game. Individual frosted wedding cakes surmounted with miniature brides and grooms, were served after the salad course. Favors were Hallowe'en baskets filled with candies.

For high score, Mrs. Iverson Skinner was given a nosegay in an iridescent bowl, and Miss Anna Holderness of Tarboro, a crystal perfume bottle for second high. Miss Morton and Miss Wiggins were remembered with mirrors framed in mahogany in colonial design.

Guests included the honor guests Miss Morton and Miss Wiggins, Miss Martha Simmons, Miss Anna Holderness, Mrs. A. E. Shackell of Tarboro; Miss Zelle Foley, Miss Elizabeth Skinner, Miss Ramona Staples, Mrs. Iverson Skinner, Mrs. Troy Burnette, Mrs. N. E. Ward, Mrs. F. D. Duncan, Mrs. J. H. Harrell, Mrs. J. H. Halloween Party.

Misses Frances and Elizabeth Kittrell and Master J. B. Kittrell Jr., entertained at a lovely Halloween party, Friday night, from 7:30 to 10 o'clock at the Greenville Country Club.

The occasion of the party was the eleventh birthday of Miss Elizabeth Kittrell. Sharing honors with her were several of her camp friends who are week-end guests of Misses Frances and Elizabeth Kittrell. They are: Misses Harriett Whitaker of Kinston, Sybil Gorch and Ann Goehagan of Raleigh, Martha Boatwright of Roxboro, and Patsy McLawhorn of Winterville.

The club rooms were beautifully decorated with yellow flowers, jack-o'-lanterns and big red apples.

The real feature of the evening occurred when the two big red apples hanging from the chandeliers burst open showering the happy guests with hundred of many-colored cellophane balls. A real snow-ball battle ensued.

During the evening fortune telling, games, bobbing apples and dancing were enjoyed.

Dainty refreshments were served to the large number of guests who enjoyed the lovely occasion.

Entertains Contract Club.

Grifton, Oct. 2.—Mrs. H. P. Quinerly entertained her contract club on Thursday evening at a delightful party.

Four tables were placed for play in the living room where lovely arrangements of red dahlias and blue daisies were used as decorations. Guests were invited for 7:30 o'clock and found their places by novelty tallies.

After four progressions songs were added and Mrs. Ivan Bissette holder of high, was given handkerchiefs. Second high, tea towels, went to Mrs. L. L. Mewborn. The floating prize was held by Mrs. Alton Chapman.

Mrs. Quinerly served delicious fruit salad with sandwiches and coffee.

Players were Mrs. Bissette, Mrs. Mewborn, Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Vance Wall, Mrs. Bryan Davis, Mrs. Johnnie Smith, Mrs. J. S. Chapman, Mrs. R. A. Nelson, Mrs. Henry Oglesby, Mrs. Robert Mewborn, Mrs. Jack Tucker, Mrs. Dorman McCotter, Miss Louise Mewborn, Miss Jean Harvey, Miss Bertha Johnson, Miss Marie Chapman.

Grifton School Fair.

Grifton, Oct. 2.—The Grifton school fair sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association got away to a big start on Friday afternoon at the community building.

An amateur contest, taking the place of the usual grandstand acts, with master of ceremonies Jimmie Carr, was well worth the ticket of admission. The McDanel sisters, Rebecca Wall and Betsy Hodges, were winners of the cash awards.

Following this program, fun and frolic was had on the midway where the Bingo stand, hot-dogs, fortune tellers and even the freak show with the wild man of Borneo, the two-headed man and the midgets proved to be quite an attraction.

The exhibit hall was the same as any county fair. The farm produce, canned goods, fancy work and especially the flowers, were a credit to any community. There were no premiums awarded but a blue ribbon entitled the winner to a free pass for the major performance.

This is the second fair the school has sponsored and was met with even greater success than the previous year. The association is planning even now for a bigger and better 1938.

While the early submarines took 25 minutes to submerge, modern war-time submarines can submerge in from one to two minutes. The sub-mergence time has come to be a vital factor in providing rapid escape from gun ramming and attack.

REVEAL PLANS OF MOVEMENT

Advisory Committee Appointed for New Thrift Shop

The voluntary welfare service, which is known as the Thrift Shop, announced the names of its advisory committee today. They are as follows:

Mrs. J. H. Blount, Mrs. S. J. Everett, Mrs. E. W. Harvey, Mrs. W. E. Hooker, Mrs. T. A. Person.

These outstanding women of the community will give leadership to the volunteer movement.

Woman's organizations in the community, such as the Junior Woman's club, the literary clubs, and the church circles are having the Thrift Shop idea presented to them within the next few days. From such organizations volunteers will be enlisted.

The volunteers will be enlisted for two different purposes. One is to operate the Thrift Shop, and the other to volunteer as "motor messengers." The Thrift Shop will be kept open from 10 to 12 in the morning and from 2 to 4 in the afternoon. Volunteers will be requested to give one or two hours either morning or afternoon each week.

The volunteers for "motor messengers" will be subject to call for transporting indigent citizens to and from clinics and the hospital, etc. The list will include sufficient numbers so that the convenience of volunteers can be considered.

The Thrift Shop will have for sale at nominal prices, furniture, clothes, dishes, magazines and bric-a-brac. The supply will come from the gifts of second hand things of this nature donated by the public. Everything in the shop will be cleaned, renovated, and repaired so as to be satisfactorily useable.

The Thrift Shop approaches welfare from the long time point of view. Goods will be available free of charge on order from proper authorities. But, the Thrift Shop has primarily in mind that large group whose respectability will be substantiated by being able to secure necessary articles at a small price. The price will be one which they can afford. There are a large number of people who can afford a small price and are willing to pay for it, and it will preserve their respectability by paying although only a nominal price.

The Thrift Shop proposes to initiate no giving of its own. All purchasers or recipients of free goods must come approved from the Welfare Department, Health Department or other approved and expert welfare agencies.

The Thrift Shop is a Community Chest supported welfare activity. Its budget has been approved by the board of directors of the Chest, and all policies and activities are under the constant surveillance of its advisory committee.

DESIRES LAWS GOVERN RADIO

McNinch to Seek Legislation to Cover Broadcasts

Washington, Oct. 2. — (AP) — Frank McNinch, new chairman of the communications commission, indicated today he would seek legislation to bring radio rates under commission regulation.

"I question the wisdom of any policy which would leave free from regulations charges made by public utilities," he told his first press conference in his new capacity.

Previously he had declared radio was a public utility.

McNinch asserted his policy would be one open at all times to the public.

"There will be no covering up of anything by me," he said. "I care not how far or high up it goes."

"My own conscience and judgment shall be my only guide," he said. "I shall do what I can to prevent or break up any trafficking, if any, in broadcast licenses."

In response to a question he said in his opinion there had not been "covering up" in the commission in the past.

Other Washington developments: The treasury reported its deficit for the first three months of the fiscal year was $273,823,482.

Government experts said cotton from this year's crop, classed during the first few months of this season, was inferior to that classed during the same period last season.

The bureau of agricultural economics reported cotton classed to September 3 was lower in grade and a little shorter in staple than the corresponding period last year.

It is said 64 per cent of the upland cotton this year classed white middling and better in grade, compared with 73 per cent last season. Spotted grades constituted 20

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Oct. 2.—When Justin Miller, former Duke Law School dean, was named judge of the Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, he told his fellow-members of the Watauga club "keep my place for me," but few thought that he really meant it. They envisioned him as becoming a permanent resident of the District.

But now Judge Miller has bought himself a fine place in Watauga, and has written friends that he intends to spend his summers there, retaining his North Carolina citizenship, together with all the prerogatives, prerequisites, and hereditaments thereunto appertaining.

Next week there isn't even going to be next week," said Supreme Court Clerk Edward Murray when this correspondent asked him for next week's calendar.

Elucidating, he explained that the court will not only take a recess so far as hearing argument is concerned, but it will hand down no decisions. The period will be given over to study of those cases already argued. Next batch of decisions will come down October 13.

J. M. Grainger, engineer for the State Rural Electrification Authority, is on a trip through the Piedmont making contact with various and sundry groups of ruralists who want electrical service. Pushed by State Board of Health dairy regulations many milk producers are yelling lustily for power. They feel it is practically impossible to produce state-accepted Grade "A" milk without electricity.

What with the past governors of North Carolina hobnobbing with the present chief executive of the state down at Shelby, it seems that the Cleveland county folks lost quite an opportunity by not inviting the "Futures Governors" club members to attend.

Let's see, there'd be J. M. Broughton and Henry Stevens, Harold Cooley and Thad Eure, Charlie Johnson and Itimous Valentine, Tom Cooper and Willis Smith, and almost any number of others.

When a reporter expressed surprise to Mr. Eure that he wasn't in Shelby, Thad fired back quick as a flash:

"Well, I just couldn't get there, but I sent 'em a red hot telegram."

Despite some effort to belittle his achievement, young DeWitt Carroll, Raleigh Times reporter, uncovered the hottest story Raleigh has produced in a long time when he interviewed fire-eater James Dixon and learned that one Chief Justice of the United States was a member of the K

Stokestown Farmers Entertain At Dinner

Jimmie Edwards and Bob, Dewey and Thomas Stokes, farmers of the Stokestown community, were hosts at a bountiful barbecue and chicken supper at Mr. Edwards' home last night.

The feast was attended by a large number of warehousemen, buyers and others connected with the Greenville tobacco market.

K. W. Cobb, sales supervisor of the local market, served as toastmaster and introduced a number of the guests.

The feast was spread picnic style under the shed of one of Mr. Edwards' modern tobacco barns.

Chapter 42 "THERE'S YOUR MURDERER"

Sergeant Wilson sneered. "This bit of camouflage isn't going to do you any good, miss. We know all about him."

Then Neill understood. She was denying him for his own sake. A wave of feeling swept over him. He flung his arm around her and drew her hard against his side. "Janet, dear, what's the use?" he murmured. "We're up to our necks in this thing! For better or worse."

She still tried to push him away. "No! No!"

"Tell the whole truth now. It is better."

The unnatural strain relaxed. Her lips began to tremble. She clung to him and hid her face. "Oh, Neill, you shouldn't! You shouldn't!" she whispered. "This will ruin you!"

"If it does, it's my own fault, dear!"

"Stand apart, please," said Sergeant Wilson. "I'm conducting an examination here."

Neill kept an arm around Janet. "It is all right, Sergeant," he said grinning. "We admit everything except the shooting of Fanning. I found Miss Emory lying in a dead faint on the yacht. I took her off. I carried her up to the ships and hid her there. I lied to all of you. So make what you must of it."

The examination went on. Since there was to be no further brow-beating of a woman witness, Bonniger returned to the office. Wilson questioned Neill as to every detail of the past three days. Neill answered with entire candor. Bonniger frowned at his attitude, and said more than once:

"Remember, anything you say can be used against you later."

"That's all right," said Neill.

When Wilson had finished, Neill said: "Is it proper for me to ask a few questions now?"

"Certainly not!" said Wilson staring.

"You are one of the accused now. Buckle up today was trying to shield you, but, by your own confession, you were back of the whole thing!"

Neill laughed.

"This flip attitude will do you no good," said Wilson angrily.

"If he can throw any further light on the matter, let him speak," said Bonniger.

The sergeant was obliged to submit. "Go ahead," he muttered.

Neill addressed Kettering. "You didn't know, did you, that on Monday night I was trying to get hold of you, and again on Tuesday before I came down here?"

"Why no. Were you?" was the smiling answer.

"Where were you?" asked Neill.

"What's that got to do with the case?" Kettering laughed.

"Do you refuse to answer?"

"Certainly not. I don't want to waste anybody's time, that's all. Let me see: on Monday night I didn't go home to dinner, I dined in a restaurant and went over to Washington by train later, to see a client. I stayed at my client's house all night and returned to Baltimore on Tuesday afternoon."

"Do you mind telling us the name of your client?"

"I can't do that," said Kettering politely. "Our business is of a confidential nature."

"You dined with your family on Tuesday and spent the night at home?" Neill went on.

"Yes. That is to say the greater part of the night. My son and I got up very early to prepare for our fishing trip."

"This is a waste of time," put in Wilson impatiently.

"Oh, let him go on," said Kettering. "It doesn't bother me."

The Pipe Cleaner

The man's manner was perfect and Neill became secretly uneasy. Was he, after all, on the right track? However, he perceived that Kettering was sweating a little, and pushed him harder. "Is Mr. A. Lanza, the banana importer, a client of yours?"

"Surely. A client of many years' standing."

"Is there any other banana importer in Baltimore?"

"No."

"Are you his only lawyer?"

Kettering didn't see any danger in this question. "No," he said easily. "He employs others from time to time. But I'm his only personal attorney."

"What was in the little package that you mailed from Absalom's been one-third of what Fanning postoffice on Wednesday morning?" asked Neill suddenly.

"I have mailed no package from Absalom's at any time."

He kept his easy manner, but Neill perceived signs of an inner panic and knew that he had made a strike. "I expect to produce the wrapper of the package in due course," he said quietly.

"This is good comedy," said Kettering, laughing. "Why don't you tell us right out what you are getting at?"

He was visibly shaking now. In order to recover himself, he pulled his pipe out of his waistcoat and blew through it. It was clogged, and he felt in another pocket for something to clean it.

"Mary," said Neill quietly, "notice what he has in his right hand."

Bonniger's eyes almost started out of his head. "By God! The pipe cleaner!" he cried. Leaning forward he snatched the tool from the astonished Kettering's hand.

"What's the matter with you?" Kettering demanded angrily.

Feeling in his own pocket, Bonniger produced the little spoon-shaped piece they had found on the yacht. He put the two articles together with fingers that shook a little. "It fits!" he cried.

"There is your murderer," said Neill.

Kettering stared wildly, and his jaw dropped. He sagged forward, then suddenly collapse. Flung his arms out on the desk, he dropped his head between them.

Janet broke into a nervous weeping. "Oh, Neill!" she faltered.

Wilson, Bickel and Forsythe gaped at the stricken man. They had difficulty in taking it in. A slow smile spread across Bonniger's face. He rose and approached Neill with outstretched hand.

"This is grand!" he said. "I knew you were a good fellow! You had me badly worried, but after all a man can trust his instincts."

They gripped hands.

How Neill Checked Up

One word of the stranger's speech as reported by Heinrich had given Neill the clue which finally led to his identification as Kettering. "He said he had a client who was a banana importer."

From a servant in the Kettering home, Neill had adroitly fished the information that: (a) her master had not been at home since he had left for the office Monday morning; (b) Horace, junior, and his wife lived with the old folks; (c) Horace junior, was out of town with his father; (d) Mrs. Horace, junior, was quite well.

A filling station near the Kettering home had informed Neill that Horace, junior, had started out alone at 5 a. m. Wednesday, with the camping stuff.

The question about the package mailed from Absalom's was a shot in the dark that found its mark. Neill had deduced that the clever Kettering would dispose of the loot in this manner.

After his primary breakdown, Kettering was unable to recover his grip. Before daybreak Wilson got the whole story from him.

A month or two before Kettering and his son, prominent and successful lawyers, had found themselves in money difficulties. Securities entrusted to them by clients had been hypothecated, and, faced with ruin and disgrace, they were ready to do anything.

Kettering had got into conversation with Fanning on a Baltimore-New York train. Attracted by the man's good style and frank unscrupulousness, he had followed up the acquaintance.

The upshot was that Kettering told Fanning of the golden goose that awaited plucking in Baltimore. And when Fanning came to Baltimore he engineered his meeting with Miss Rayner through the unsuspecting estate agent Barney was guiltless of any wrongdoing.

For obvious reasons, Kettering and Fanning kept their association a secret, and when they met in Baltimore it was as casual acquaintances. All their communications were by telephone. It was part of Kettering's job to keep Fanning informed of what went on in the old lady's household. Kettering never approached Miss Rayner direct, but kept lines on her lawyer, her estate agent and her servants, unknown to them.

Kettering's share was to have obtained. Towards the end he began to suspect that Fanning was deceiving him and set about watching him. Fanning made various excuses to delay handing over Kettering's share of the money. On Monday night the lawyer followed Fanning to the yacht. He knew, as soon as he saw it, that Fanning was preparing to double-cross him and make his getaway.

When he thought of all he had risked to win his stake, Kettering went mad with rage. He stole down the after companionway while Fanning and his friends were dining forward, and locked himself in the clothes closet of the principal cabin. Having had no opportunity to eat while he was following Fanning around, he had stuffed a couple of sandwiches in his pocket.

During the night, while Janet slept in her cabin and Fanning in his, Kettering prowled through the yacht looking for the loot which he knew must be aboard. But he did not find it then. On Tuesday he was forced to remain shut up in his closet for nearly the entire day while the yacht lay at Absalom's. He could only venture out on the occasions when Janet was permitted to leave her cabin.

Designate Friday Of Fair Week For Children Of State

900,000 Tickets Mailed to Superintendents of Schools Bear Personal Invitation of Governor

Raleigh, Oct. 1.—Thousands of North Carolina children will convert the midway of the State Fair into a juvenile gladway on Friday, October 15, which has been set aside as Children's Day at the state exposition.

Manager J. S. Dorton announced today that he has completed mailing 900,000 free tickets to school superintendents in every one of the state's 100 counties for distribution to pupils next week. Enrollments registered at the State Department of Public Instruction have been checked carefully so that no school child will be overlooked in this vast endeavor to have as many children as possible attend the State Fair in Raleigh.

On each pupil's ticket is a personal invitation from Governor R. Hoey urging the youngsters not to pass the opportunity to see their state no parade in one of the finest arrays of exhibits and entertainment attractions the exposition has offered in its half-century of existence.

No strings are attached to the free passes. Children may attend the fair free on Friday, October 15, with or without their parents and teachers. As Manager Dorton stat-

CIRCUS COMES ON TWO TRAINS

Hagenbeck - Wallace To Offer Two Performances Monday

The circus arrives tomorrow. Travelling aboard two special steel railroad trains with a population of over seven hundred, scores of horses, caravans of camels, herds of elephants, and countless specimens of wild animal life, the great Hagenbeck-Wallace circus will arrive in Greenville from Kinston over the Atlantic Coast Line railroad.

There will be two performances here Monday, starting at 2 and 8 P. M. and the doors to the big tent will open an hour earlier to allow visitors to inspect the huge double menagerie carried with the circus this season. Twenty-two tents will be erected at the old fairgrounds. It will be the first time in years that Greenville has had the opportunity to play host to a big railroad show over Sunday. Thousands are expected to throng to the grounds Sunday to get a preview of the circus.

Have you ever watched a gigantic circus awaken? There is nothing in all the world like it. Do not miss this opportunity, it is close at hand, tomorrow early the big cars will come rolling into the depot. Elephants will proudly step from their side-door pullmans, the horses, zebras, ponies, camels and other lead stock will be brought out and taken to the grounds. The vast dining tent will be opened up for the first meal of the day. Over 2,000 meals are served every day to this great family. Everyone eats three times daily with consistent regularity—the hours of each meal are the same every day, breakfast, lunch and dinner. Tomorrow when you go out to the grounds you will see the elephants pulling great wagons around, pushing cages containing wild animals into place in the menagerie, the horses straining under great loads to get the circus into place for the first performance. It's a great sight, one long to be remembered, and tomorrow it will all be happening right here in Greenville.

Many new stars with the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus this year include Hoot Gibson, well known moving picture cowboy, hero in over 300 pictures on the screen; Terrell Jacobs, the new Lion King, with an arena filled with black mane lions and lionesses; Poodles Hanneford, the world's greatest comedy riding clown, and his family; Alicia Villa, daughter of the famous Mexican General, Pancho Villa; the great Wong troupe of Chinese acrobats, coming to this country for the first time; Jeannette May, doing the seemingly impossible, high up in the dome of the big tent; and over four hundred other great circus acts.

Seventy thousand dollars was spent by Howard Y. Bary, manager of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus this spring to equip the striking spectacle, which precedes the circus proper, with gorgeous wardrobe. Hundreds of men, women and animals take part in this beautiful extravaganza. Dancing girls, singers, special musical scores played by the massed bands under the direction of Henry Kyes, the greatest band-leader the circus world has ever known, all this and more goes to make the opening pageant a sight long to be remembered by all who witness it.

Scores of clowns will furnish fun and entertainment for the youngsters of all ages. All the old jokes will be polished up and new ones added. Sixty dancing horses, sixty beautiful girl riders, the Bedini school of high school horses, Hoot Gibson and his congress of cowboys and cowgirls, and the world's largest travelling zoo are among the many features carried with the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus this year. General admission tickets and individual numbered grandstand seats will be on sale Monday at Bissette's Drug Store, 427 Evans Street and the white wagon will be open all day at the grounds for the purchase of reserved seats.

The periscope was introduced into the submarine about 1902.

PLAY FOR KANSAS STATE —AND SEE THE WORLD

Manhattan, Kas.—(AP)—Boston College at Boston in 1937; Northwestern at Evanston and Indiana at Bloomington in 1938; and a Pacific coast foe in 1939.

That's the intersectional program of the Kansas State College football team. At least one long trip each year with ample time for sight-seeing in major cities is the policy of the college athletic officials.

Boston College will be played on October 2nd.

Notre Dame Learned Fast.

Phantoms Defeat Rich Square 25-7 For Second Win

The "Flying Phantoms" of Greenville High School won their second victory of the season yesterday at Rich Square by a score of 25-7. This victory kept Greenville's record clean so far for the season.

Greenville started out fast and scored their first touchdown in the first minute of play. The touchdown was made on a series of line bucks after Captain Hodges had covered a Rich Square fumble on the opening kickoff.

The touchdowns for Greenville were as follows: Hodges on a forward pass, Parrish on an end run, Harris on a line buck, and B. Clark on an off-tackle play. Rich Square scored in the last two minutes of play on an eighty-yard run after intercepting a Greenville pass.

Outstanding among Coach Dally's players were Howard Hodges and Robert Earle Clark on defense, and William Harris and George Tyndall in the offense.

Substitutions: Babcock, Fleming, Collins, Hardy, Swain, Moyer, Joyner, Simpson, Lautares Tyndall.

Spot & Slants

By PAP

The famed "thin red line" of the Texas Aggies is not so thin, judging from the lengths and breadths of 53 players who reported to Coach Homer Norton when practice began. Totaling almost five tons, the football talent averages 181 pounds a man in weight and 5 feet 11 inches in height.

More than three of the five tons are wrapped up in 34 linemen who total 6,540 pounds, averaging 193 pounds a man. The average weight is 6 feet.

Roy Young, all-southwest guard last season, takes the ribbon for weight, scaling 216 pounds. Young wears the largest shoes on the squad; 14 inches long and 4 1/2 inches wide, they are tailor-made and cost the Aggie athletic association $40 a pair. Young is not at all proud of this distinction. Opposing linemen will do well not to bring the matter up.

Roy is a senior, with two football letters already to his credit. He also earned varsity letters in track in 1935 and 1936, and held the international heavyweight boxing title in 1935.

Of course, the star of the Aggies line is Joe Routh, the school's first full-fledged all-America player. He is finishing his eligibility, having been ineligible in 1934. For a player who was unable to win his letter as a freshman, in 1933, he has done pretty well in climbing to the top of the stack of all-time Aggie "greats."

Southwest conference critics began beating the all-America drums for Routh early last fall. Pacific coast writers were greatly impressed by his playing, summing it up with "Routh was a riot at guard." Utah football scribes declared the coast writers were too conservative after having seen him in action against the University of Utah in Salt Lake City. A 60-minute player, the more he played the better Routh seemed to be.

Routh laughingly describes himself as "the toughest man in Texas." That's taking in a lot of territory. But opponents are none too keen to seek a demonstration of his hardness.

Commercial cars and motorcycles included, there are 14 vehicles for every mile of road in the United Kingdom. In the United States there is one automobile for each eight miles of road.

Spirited To Indian Ocean Island By British Vessel

Jerusalem, Oct. 2.—(AP)—British warships were reported today to have spirited four high Arab leaders toward Seychelles island in the Indian ocean after a secret transfer at sea while motorized troops and police kept the Holy Land quiet at machine gun point.

The cruiser Sussex, which left Haifa at dawn with Dr. Khalidi and three others deported, returned late and it was believed the four had been transferred to another vessel that steamed directly to the island.

At the same time Jacob Hussein, leader of the Arab youth organization who was previously thought to have fled Palestine, was arrested.

The grand mufti came to the protective walls of the mosque of Omar protected by a life guard of 200 Arabs sworn to defend the moslem spiritual leader to the death.

Whatever the mufti's ultimate fate, he had lost his office as head of the supreme moslem council, his $3,000 annual salary for the job control of funds estimated at $335,000 a year and power of appointment over 1,500 moslem clerics.

The troop cordon which had been thrown around the mosque area was withdrawn today and British authorities insisted the mufti was legally free to come and go. The mosque remained under close police surveillance, however.

All the gates of the old city were guarded and Arabs over Jerusalem began closing their shops at noon, and it was believed emergency regulations might be issued to force them to reopen.

SAWMILL TOWN GOES TO HIGHEST BIDDER

Manning, Texas.—(AP)—M. B. Tyre of Lufkin, has bought this entire town.

More than 250 buildings—theatres, lodge halls, business houses and residences—are being razed for lumber.

Manning, serving almost exclusively the employes of a lumber mill, once had 1,500 inhabitants. Civic tragedies such as fire and abandonment of a railroad sent residents away.

The company decided to salvage the lumber in the old buildings and looked for a bidder. Tyre made the best offer and bought the town.

ROTARY GOVERNOR COMING

JOHN A. PARK

Fresh from an extensive journey through Europe, when he and Mrs. Park attended the annual Rotary convention in France, John A. Park, Raleigh publisher, civic, business and religious leader, and Governor of District 189, is scheduled to make a formal visit to the local club next Monday. He will spend part of the day here, conferring with President Thomas Grant, Secretary Wesley Harvey and other officers before he attends the club's dinner. Meeting at 6:30 o'clock at the Rotary building.

Mr. Park is the official representative of Rotary International, now in its 33rd year, embracing some 185,000 members of 4,400 clubs in 82 different countries of the world. District 189, under his jurisdiction since July 1, has 35 clubs, extending from High Point to Englehard in Hyde County through the central and north eastern sections of North Carolina. The Greenville Club, with 39 members has maintained a splendid record of accomplishments from year to year.

TO OPEN DRIVE FIRST OF WEEK

Community Chest Campaign To Get Started Monday

Everything is in readiness for the Community Chest campaign to begin on Monday morning. The breakfast for workers will be served at the Woman's club building at 8 o'clock. Following breakfast assignments of territory will be made. Final instructions given to workers—and the campaign is on!

When the campaign will close depends upon several factors: How many workers there are and how many times they have to repeat a call before getting a response. Citizens can assist materially by reducing the work through their cooperation. Don't make canvassers return unless absolutely necessary; if you expect to be away from home during the week see either Rev. W. A. Ryan, Miss Jane Hall or anyone at the Reflector office and hand in your contribution or pledge. Our total budget for all participating agencies is $5,200—a most modest amount for a city the size of Greenville. With even half-way interest this goal should be reached and passed. Just do your share and we will over-subscribe the amount needed. Headquarters during next week will be in the office at 326 Evans street. Through the kindness of Mr. Tadlock we shall have a central place for a clearing house. "Let's Go! and Let's Give!"

Two types of menus are in use in restaurants today: table d'hotel and a la carte. Meals ordered from an a la carte menu cost the sum total of the individual dishes. Meals ordered from a table d'hotel menu cost one set price.

Mrs. Stokes Rites Set For Tomorrow

Mrs. J. M. Stokes, 72, died suddenly at her home yesterday afternoon of a heart attack.

Mrs. Stokes spent her entire life in this county, and was held in high esteem. She was the daughter of the late Stephen and Julia Nobles Williams, the old homestead being two miles from Greenville on the Farmville highway.

Funeral services will be conducted from the late home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock by Elder J. B. Roberts, Primitive Baptist minister of Farmville. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery beside her late husband, who died two years ago.

Mrs. Stokes leaves two sons and one daughter: Mrs. C. W. Williams of Greenville, Bunnie and Clarence of the home place; also two brothers and one sister; Mrs. Annie Moore of Grimesland, J. L. Williams of Grimesland, and Will Williams of Washington, and the following grandchildren: Eunice, Norman, Doris, Olive and Melvin Porter; Kathleen, Billy and Hazel Williams.

Active ball-bearers will be C. H. Mills, H. H. Porter, E. W. McGowan, A. L. Gray, W. M. Page and J. R. Tucker.

Honorary pall-bearers: William Fornes, Lloyd McGowan, Junior McGowan, Sam Baker, Henry Page, Leon Fornes, H. H. Laughinghouse, Alonzo Evans, S. T. Porter, Herman Keeter, C. H. McGowan, Henry Eke, J. N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 2. —(AP)—The stock market shifted sluggishly from one position to another in today's brief session with rails and a few oils, coppers and specialties managing to creep forward.

Dealings were the lowest in around a month. Minor losses were also plentiful at the close.

Lastness of the proceeding was attributed partly to some further apprehension over continuation of the French cabinet, including a break in the franc, terms of the dollar, to the low point in 11 years.

Transfers approximated 250,000 shares.

HABITUAL DRUNKARDS GET NEW HOME

Milwaukee, Wis.—(AP)—Dr. H. W. Sargeant, superintendent of County General hospital is fed up with free treatments of from three to ten days for chronic alcoholic complaining of "the jitters."

In the future, the "patients" will get an opportunity to recuperate at the house of correction, with "confinements" of from 30 to 90 days.

X-rays generated by voltages up to 200,000 have been actively used in this country and abroad since 1918 in the treatment of cancer, tumors and other serious diseases.

Hour Of Worship Changed To 7:30

The attention of the public is called to the fact that beginning tomorrow night the union worship services held in Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church will revert to the fall and winter schedule of 7:30.

Visitors to the city are especially welcomed to these services, now in their ninth successful month, which are under the joint sponsorship of six of Greenville's Protestant churches: St. Paul's Episcopal, Presbyterian, Eighth St. Christian, Memorial Baptist, Immanuel Baptist and Jarvis Memorial Methodist. As in the past, the custom will be continued of making no advance announcement as to the preacher for the services. Familiar hymns and selections by the union choir are features of the services.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York — Sometimes the thought of living in New York can be terrifying. There was that girl in 96th street who found it so, and she took the easiest way out. For two hours the police worked over her with a pulmotor, but they were too late.

It is not the mere fact of death that is distressing. It is the wholly unwarranted conditions which drove her to it. She was 22 and had dark hair. They found an empty peanut-butter jar in her room, and an empty cracker box. She had two copper pennies in her pocketbook. The coroner said she died by suicide, and that was true enough, but it might just as easily have been hunger and fear. It would have been as accurate.

It is said that she tried to telephone a friend just an hour or so before she died. The telephone operators traced the call. But the friend wasn't there, so she went back to her room and carefully locked the door . . .

Later the friend, a young woman whom she had known in her home town, was overwhelmed at the news and collapsed. "Oh, if I had only been here," she moaned over and over. "If I had only been here when she called."

The real irony of the incident was that this young woman had no intentions of being away at all. It just happened that, on impulse she stepped around the corner to a circulating library. She was only gone a minute. But, as you know, a minute so often can mean an eternity.

New York put a good face on the matter of indulging the Legionnaires. Of course this indulgence wasn't wholly altruistic. Still, there must have been some aggravating times—when the boys got off little playful pranks on the unsuspecting townsfolk. . . . As for instance, that stout fella at the Roosevelt whose room was on the 11th or 12th floor.

Fortified by 20 or 30 bottles of beer (most of it still in the bottle) he had a fine time sitting in the window and calling down felicitations to the passerby. . . . "Hi, ya Pal, have a little drink?" he'd say. Then as they looked up, a pitcher of beer would shower down upon them.

It is a fairly easy task to gauge the art mood in New York. One merely has to stroll by the galleries to see which way the wind is blowing. For a time it was clipper ships, with whole galleries given over to white bosomed racers of the sea.

Then portraiture had its vogue—hard, severe old gentlemen sitting in tall straight-back oak chairs, and fragile old ladies peeping furtively out from under sun-bonnets.

Now landscapes seem to be the thing. . . . At least the canvasses in most of the Fifth avenue windows indicate as much. There are ponds with water lilies, and whole fields knee-deep in tangled flowers and mountain ranges tinted with the faint rays of October suns.

Tomorrow it will be something else, hunting prints perhaps, or maybe scrambled eggs. No one can tell till tomorrow gets here.

Camera Coverage Of The World

CALIFORNIA'S BID for national corn-growing honors are these 16-foot stalks, displayed by Miss Jerry Hoffman at Los Angeles county fair.

THE HOUSE THAT JAKE BUILT, Yankee Stadium, home of the Ruppert Rifles, will this year again be the scene of the World Series opening when the Yanks face the National League champions on October 6. More than 70,000 fans, cheering lustily, munching popcorn and expecting to see the vast modern coliseum to capacity to witness the 1937 climax of America's national pastime. Drawing attention to the drama will be big guns of the American League, Joe Di Maggio, Lou Gehrig, Bill Dickey and many another lesser star of the powerful combination that is the Yankees.

ALL THE COMFORTS OF HOME including kitchen and sleeping quarters are contained in this super-airship, largest bomber ever built for the U. S. Just completed, with 150-foot wingspread, its motors generate 5,000 horsepower.

GOOFY ABOUT BASEBALL are Vernon "Lefty" Gomez, ace Yankee pitcher and his pretty wife, the former June O'Dea. The Ruppert moundsman appears certain to cop 1937 hurling honors. Mrs. Gomez, one of his team's most ardent fans, seldom misses a game.

WHY YARDS MEAN TOUCHDOWNS is amply shown by the human ground-gripping tractor, Roy Young. The six foot, two inch, Texas Aggie's coming feet first. His shoes, 14 inches long and seven and one-eighth inches at their widest point, cost $40 a pair. They're tailor made.

PEOPLES' CHOICE from the scores of colleges which paid court to his football skill was the University of Southern California. The American javelin champion, 18-year-old Bob Peoples of Oklahoma City, is shown at freshman practice, unlimbering his passing arm.
