GERMANY ISSUES SHARP WARNING TO ROOSEVELT

CHINESE HALT JAP ADVANCES ON ALL FRONTS

Stiffened Resistance Holds Japanese Push In Check
COUNTER DRIVE BRINGS RESULTS
Repeated Thrusts In Shanghai Area Beaten Back By Sheer Force of Numbers

Shanghai, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The Japanese advance on all China fronts from Shanghai to the far north was reported today to have been halted by stiffened Chinese resistance.

In the Shanghai sector the repeated Japanese thrusts against the 25-mile line running northwest from the north station were beaten back by sheer force of number in hand-to-hand combat.

Far to the north in the strategically more important operations in the provinces of Hopeh and Chantung, reliable foreign reports bore out the Chinese claim Japan's push had been halted.

In the eastern sector of the North China war zone Japanese claim their column had invaded Shantung Province and completed the capture of the walled city of Tschow and was pressing on against Tsinanfu, the provincial capital.

Correspondents for the Associated Press and other foreign observers at Tsinanfu reported, however, a vigorous Chinese counter attack had forced the Japanese to abandon their siege of Tschow and retreat to the north.

Foreigners living in Tsinanfu declared they felt no anxiety. Farther inland the Japanese column advancing along the railway from Peiping to Hankow was said to have been out-flanked at Paotingfu.

Fall Proves Fatal To Walter S. Case

(By The Associated Press)
New York, Oct. 6.—Walter S. Case, president of Case Pomeroy and Co., well-known Wall Street investment firm, died in a fall from the window of the firm's offices on the 26th floor at 129 Wall Street, it was announced at the office of the firm today.

Henry Johnston, vice-president of the company, said case had been seen by associates around 5:15 p. m. yesterday when he was at his desk. Just when he fell had not been determined.

Johnston said Case's associates were sure his death was accidental. Case's health had been poor since he underwent an operation several months ago.

Johnston said "we feel he fell to his death as a result of an accident as he sought air at a window."
The body was found on the roof of an adjoining five-story building shortly after 9 o'clock this morning.

Plan Drive Raise State's Quota Of Highway 1 Fund

U. S. Highway No. 1 Association Faces Necessity of Raising Budget In Order Combat Competition

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Oct. 6.—Plans to raise North Carolina's $5,000 quota in an intensive drive to raise a $60,000 budget were laid here today at a meeting of Tar Heel members of U. S. Highway No. 1 Association, at which Robert Burns, Sanford, presided. Mr. Burns is state chairman for the campaign.

Franklin L. Campbell, Harrisburg, Pa., manager of the association's campaign, spoke on the necessity for raising the budget in order to combat competition from other north-south highways.

Roland Mumford, southern vice-president of the Association and Raleigh hotel man, pledged the capital city's share of the quota, $2,000 over a period of two years.

Speakers pointed to declining traffic over No. 1. Mr. Mumford cited figures showing that three years ago a check of traffic at Petersburg, Va., showed 1,300 cars headed for Raleigh over No. 1 and 300 headed south over the Ocean Highway (No. 17). A recent check

MR. JUSTICE BLACK AFTER HIS FIRST DAY IN COURT

Whether it's the strain of his first day on the bench or his new dignity as an associate justice of the Supreme Court, Justice Hugo L. Black now appears different. This exclusive picture shows him and Mrs. Black leaving the home of Justice Harlan F. Stone where they visited following adjournment of the court. Except for his radio address October 1, the new justice has been in seclusion since returning from Europe.

UNION FORCES WIN AT POLLS

CIO Victorious In Detroit Non-Partisan Primary

Detroit, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The CIO, successful in nominating its candidates for mayor and city councilmen in yesterday's non-partisan primary, claimed a "substantial victory" today in its first major political campaign.

CIO candidates did not lead the field, but its majority candidate, Patrick O'Brien, former Democratic attorney general of the state, beat John W. Smith, present head of the city council who was endorsed by the American Federation of Labor.

Richard Reading, present city clerk, was high man in the field of five for the mayoralty nomination and will contest with O'Brien in the November 2 election.

Reading holds a withdrawal card from the typographical union. Out of nearly 5,000 votes, the largest number ever cast in a Detroit city primary, Reading received 137,844; O'Brien, 99,129; and Smith, 68,827. Two other candidates divided the rest of the mayoralty votes.

Clarence McLeod, former Republican congressman, with 19,342 and Ralph Philbrook, an attorney with 1,251.

Not only did the CIO succeed in nominating O'Brien, but it placed its five candidates for the county council among the 18 who will run for the nine council seats in the November election.

Hoey Studies Appeals Of Beaufort Negroes

Raleigh, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Governor Hoey studied today the cases of Sam Redman, Jr., and William Bell, Beaufort county negroes sentenced to be executed Friday for murder.

"I doubt if a decision will be reached before tonight at the earliest," Hoey commented.

Parole commissioner Edwin Gill planned a conference during the day with Sam Becht, Washington lawyer, who was counsel for the negroes when they were convicted of the slaying of Heber Robinson last May. Gill indicated before the conference the outlook for clemency for the men was slim.

Japan Warned By League Assembly

Geneva, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The league of nations assembly today warned Japan of the possibility of international action unless she agrees to a peaceful nine-power settlement of the China conflict.

Father In Plea For Son's Life

Raleigh, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Lonnie Coggins, elderly father of Melvin Coggins, tearfully pleaded today with Governor Hoey to spare the life of his son, facing execution October 15 for the murder in Nash County of H. J. Fogleman.

Coggins urged Hoey to commute the death sentence imposed on his son, arguing his son was not mentally sound.

WOMEN JURORS LEGAL IN N. C.

Atty-General Seawell Suggests Test Case, However

Raleigh, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Women are eligible to serve on juries in North Carolina, ruled Attorney General A. F. Seawell today.

In a short letter, Seawell said: "You will see that I am of the opinion that women are eligible for service on juries in this state without further legislation."

He suggested that a test be made of the question by having summoned as trial jurors women who are freeholders in the county and have paid their taxes and are otherwise qualified (except of course, to the matter of fact) to serve on juries.

The letter was written to Clyde Stancell, Mecklenburg county attorney, in response to an inquiry. In his memorandum, Seawell said in his opinion the 19th amendment to the federal constitution conferred upon women the civil and political rights, "has rendered women eligible for jury service under our existing statutes without further legislative enactment."

"If our supreme court holds that to be the law," he added, "the last vestige of civil and political inequality with men will have been removed x x x."

LEAF AVERAGE NOW OVER $24

Offerings Yesterday Bring Official Average Of $30.48

Although offerings on the Greenville tobacco market yesterday amounted to less than on Monday, the prices continuing strong and aided in boosting the season's average even higher.

The general average for this year now stands above the $24 mark, while at this time last year it was less than $22 per hundred pounds. The weed is bringing higher prices this year despite the fact the crop is considered much larger than the 1936 production. Offerings this year are running more than 10,000,000 in excess of the amount sold during the same period in 1936.

Yesterday's 1,414,712 pounds were sold for $43,136.08 for an official average of $30.48. It was the second successive day the local market averaged more than $30 per hundred pounds.

Offerings for the entire season total 31,979,792 pounds. Farmers have been paid $7,716,597.77 to establish a general season's average of $24.13 per hundred pounds.

Another good day was experienced on the market today. Offerings were greater than yesterday and prices continued strong.

Arthur Farmers Back Crop Control Plans

Count Agent R. R. Benheit explained the cotton price adjustment payment to farmers of the Arthur community at a meeting in that section Monday.

Every farmer present voted to go on record as favoring a production control program after the new farm bill had been explained by the agent.

SISTER OF MRS. RYAN AT NANKING, CHINA

Mrs. William A. Ryan received yesterday the first information she has had concerning her sister, Miss Grace Bauer, who is stationed at Nanking, China. Miss Bauer is in charge of the pathological work at the University of Nanking hospital, training technicians for service in other mission hospitals and teaching biology and chemistry.

Since the Japanese attack began on Nanking it was not known whether Miss Bauer was still there or had been removed to a place of safety.

Yesterday's communication advised that of the Americans stationed at the University Hospital only three remained: Miss Bauer, one of the doctors and a nurse. These stayed at their posts to render whatever service they could to the sick and injured.

The letter stated that at the time of its writing more than twenty-five severe airplane attacks had been made. The three Americans have been provided with a dugout on the hospital compound, to which they go when sirens announce the approach of Japanese warplanes, emerging when similar signals announce the departure of the Japanese.

Yankees Score Seven Runs In Sixth Frame To Defeat Giants By Score Of 8 To 1

Trio Pitchers Unable To Halt American Leaguers

Yankee Stadium, Oct. 6.—Six hits, four bases on balls and an error in the sixth inning of today's opening game of the 1937 World Series netted the New York Yankees seven runs and victory. A home run by Tony Lazzeri in the eighth inning brought the Yankees' total score to eight. The New York Giants (National League) scored their single run in the fifth inning.

Gomez, left-hand hurler for the Yankees, allowed the Giants six hits and only one base on balls while the Yankees received eight hits and seven free passes to first at the hands of four Giant pitchers.

Today's game was witnessed by a crowd estimated at 60,000. Following is the game by innings:

First Inning
Giants—Moore out at first, unassisted. Bartell singled to left field, Ott flied out to first. Leiber struck out. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Yankees—Crosetti got a base on balls. Rolfe struck out. DiMaggio singled to left field, Crosetti being held at second. Gehrig flied out to centerfield. Dickey out on fly to center field. No runs, one hit, no errors, one base on balls.

Second Inning

Yankees—Hoag grounded to short and thrown out at first. Selkirk out second to first. Lazzeri out pitcher to first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Third Inning
Giants—Whitehead out. Crosetti to first. Hubbell flied out to deep right field. Moore out, pitcher to first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Yankees—Gomez out second to first. Gehrig struck out. Dickey grounded out to first, unassisted. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fourth Inning
Giants—Ripple flied out to deep left field. Ott out to Lazzeri at first. Leiber popped out to Lazzeri. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Yankees—DiMaggio out second to first. Gehrig struck out. Dickey grounded out to first, unassisted. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fifth Inning
Giants—Ripple singled to right field. McCarthy singled to right, Ripple going to third. Mancuso grounded to short, doubling McCarthy at second. Ripple scoring. The double play was short to second to first. Whitehead hit to right field for two bases. Hubbell out at first, unassisted. One run, three hits, no errors.

Need More Workers In Community Chest Drive

Campaign Progressing With $753.25 Collected So Far

The campaign for the Community Chest funds continues with $753.25 reported to date.

The committee in charge stated that additional workers are needed for work in the residential sections. For this work women are needed and it is hoped that this public request will result in offers of services by some of the many women in Greenville who have time to do this work.

Reports from most of the workers have been slow in coming in due to the fact that the majority of those giving time to this work are business and professional men who must attend to their regular tasks and canvass at odd moments. But while reports are not being received as rapidly as had been hoped, the committee feels assured that the goal will be reached.

Attention is again called to the necessity for contributors remembering that this is a united drive and make their contributions accordingly. A few of those contributing have given exactly what they gave to one drive last year. This, of course, makes no provision for the additional work to be carried on in 1938.

Also, this necessitates a second call upon these people—an unnecessary amount of work placed upon other people who are giving their time to this community task.

Five Cases Heard In Mayor's Court

Of the five cases tried in City police court this morning, two of the defendants were ordered held under bond for trial in higher courts on charges of larceny.

Elizabeth Burnett was placed under bond of $200 for her appearance in Superior court to face a charge of larceny of $475 from Tom Sutton.

William Hunter, Negro, was placed under bond of $200 for his appearance in County court to face a charge of stealing a bicycle.

Amos Sutton was taxed with the costs upon conviction of drunkenness. W. C. McLawhorn, convicted of the same charge was also taxed with costs of his case.

John Bush, Negro, was bound over to County court under bond of $200 on a charge of assault.

Ernest Wiggins, Negro, was adjudged guilty of abandonment, but prayer for judgment was continued upon payment of the costs.

William James, Negro, tendered a plea of guilty to operating an automobile while drunk and was given a six months road sentence, suspended upon payment of a $50 fine and costs. His driving license was revoked 12 months. The defendant appealed and bond was fixed at $250.

Talith Whitten, Negro, was convicted of driving carelessly and recklessly and was ordered to pay a fine of $50, costs to be deducted. His license was revoked for 60 days and a 90-day road sentence was suspended.

FINES PLACED ON WITNESSES

Judge James Clamps Down on Lax State's Witnesses

A warning to all state's witnesses who are considering disregarding subpoenas and staying away from County court when summoned to appear, came yesterday afternoon when Judge Dink James fined five witnesses who failed to answer when called, $10 each.

The case charging James Battle with assault with a deadly weapon could not be tried because Rose Bridges and Roosevelt Joyner, state's witnesses, were not present. Judge James fined each $10.

Judgment in the case charging Wheeler Dunbar with driving careless and reckless also had to be deferred when C. C. Tyson, Elbert Peadar and J. R. Roper failed to answer when called as state's witnesses. Each of the three also was fined $10.

A number of cases, however, were disposed of at the afternoon session of the weekly court.

King Williams, Negro, was fined $50 and taxed with the costs of court and had his license revoked for 12 months upon entering a plea of guilty to operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of whiskey.

Richard L. Manning, white man, was convicted of a similar charge and the same judgment was meted out to him.

Ernest Wiggins, Negro, was adjudged guilty of abandonment, but prayer for judgment was continued upon payment of the costs.

William James, Negro, tendered a plea of guilty to operating an automobile while drunk and was given a six months road sentence, suspended upon payment of a $50 fine and costs. His driving license was revoked 12 months. The defendant appealed and bond was fixed at $250.

Talith Whitten, Negro, was convicted of driving carelessly and recklessly and was ordered to pay a fine of $50, costs to be deducted. His license was revoked for 60 days and a 90-day road sentence was suspended.

SHIPWRECK OF PRES. WILSON IS BROUGHT UP

Statement Made By Official Mouthpiece in Commenting On President's Appeal Against Aggressor; Tokyo Also Answers Condemnation

Berlin, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The German foreign office issued a warning to President Roosevelt today to "remember the shipwreck" of his predecessor, Woodrow Wilson—commenting on the American President's appeal against aggressors in his Chicago speech yesterday.

Speaking through an official mouthpiece the foreign office inquired sharply which nations, Mr. Roosevelt was talking about in his Chicago speech.

"Mr. Roosevelt talked in very general terms about the sacredness of treaties" without distinguishing which treaties conform to international morality and which do not," the foreign office organ said.

"He spoke of countries eager to attack and of others which think only of defending themselves, without even here indicating any adequate mark of identification."

JAPAN OFFICIALLY ANSWERS PRESIDENT'S PLEA FOR PEACE
Tokyo, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Japan officially answered President Roosevelt's condemnation of aggressor nations today with a warning that "peace will be difficult to maintain" if demands of the "have not" nations are refused.

The foreign office spokesman said in reply to the American President's speech at Chicago yesterday "ideals of right as conceived by western people is incompatible to that of the Orient."

He added Japan's demand was that the Japanese people be permitted to "enjoy the freedom of movement and happiness which is rightfully theirs."

Harking back to the Japanese exclusion law passed by the United States in 1924, the spokesman characterized it as "one which is against the natural laws of mankind and is greatly deplored by the Japanese people."

Expect Radio Aid N. C. Patrolmen In Recovering Autos

Although Still in Testing Phase, State Patrol Hook-Up Already Proving Helpful

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Oct. 6.—Though still in the testing phase, the state's highway patrol radio system has already set up something of a record by bringing about recovery of a stolen automobile within 27 minutes of the time it was reported to the radio station.

The patrol has revealed that on Sunday, October 3 at 10:11 a. m., the theft of a Buicklet in Brunswick was reported to state short wave station WANL, Elizabethtown.

At 10:38 recovery of the car was reported into the station by a patrol member by radio.

In addition to this record or near record recovery, other cars have been regained for their owners with unusual speed.

Between Friday and Monday seven thefts were reported to the patrol and all seven were recovered, three of them on the same day as the report.

Thefts were reported to all of the five short wave stations of the patrol, WANK, Salisbury, getting three reports, the others (WANL, Elizabethtown; WANI, Williamsport; WANH, Raleigh and WANJ, Swannanoa) receiving one each.

The patrol urges all owners of stolen cars to report promptly by telephone to the nearest radio station, as this will facilitate recovery before the car has been taken before the patrol.

November Session Being Considered

Hyde Park, N. Y., Oct. 6.—(AP)—President Roosevelt strongly indicated today he would call a special session of Congress to convene between November 8 and 16, but said he would reserve decision until state conferences in Washington this week.

At an interview at his Dutchess county home at the end of his cross country tour, he said it was a little premature to say Supreme Court reorganization would be included in the program.

He placed at the top of his program wages and hours, surplus crop control, government reorganization and regional planning.

Surrounded by his aged mother, who had just returned from a vacation in Europe, his wife, and other members of his family, the President answered a barrage of questions on his trip and future objectives.

He refused to discuss his Chicago speech in which he called for concerted and positive action by peaceful nations to restore world stability.

He said he had found very little interest among the people as to method: when asked about court reform, but a great deal of interest on objectives.

The average man, he added, wanted quicker and cheaper justice. The impression he got, he said, was the people felt maybe the President was right or wrong, but they wanted the objective he was after.

He said the question of additional district judges would be one thing he would discuss after returning to Washington Friday morning.

The President said he had no comment to make about Associate Justice Black.

Small Still Cut Down In Pactolus Township

Pitt county ABC officers, continuing their war on bootleggers, yesterday located and destroyed another still. The copper outfit was found in Pactolus township, but it was not in operation and no one was at the plant.

James L. Ward and J. L. Taylor, the special officers, reported the still was smaller than most of those destroyed recently. Three hundred gallons of freshly-made mash was destroyed.

Social and Personal

Mrs. John Briley spent Monday and Tuesday in Norfolk, Va., with her son, Master Charles Brown, Jr. Miss Rose Carlton Dunn of Rocky Mount, was the week-end guest of Miss Marjorie Sugg.

W. H. Dall and Alex Dall are spending a few days in Winston-Salem.

Mrs. John d'R. Weed and sons of New York, are guests of her sister, Mrs. Graham Flanagan.

Mrs. W. L. Hall is visiting relatives in Scotland Neck.

6:30 p. m.—The Kiwanis Club will meet in the Woman's Club building.

8:00 p. m.—Circle No. 8 of Jarvis Memorial Methodist Missionary Society will meet with Mrs. Luther Herring.

Mrs. Carr Club Hostess.
Because of the present interest in the new Social Security program now being inaugurated and because of the need for accurate information on this subject, the discussion leader for the afternoon Mrs. Wiley Brown, chose Mrs. J. B. Spilman of Raleigh, to present the "Fundamental Requirements for Social Security." Due to her recent illness Mrs. Spilman was unable to be present but she sent as her able representative Miss Mae Oliver, also of Raleigh. Although Miss Oliver is the newly appointed supervisor of women prisoners in the probation department, she was able to give a complete and lucid talk on this subject and those present expressed to her their appreciation of her interest and understanding in bringing this subject to them.

Social hour and a tempting ice course were enjoyed before the meeting was called to order and our gracious hostess, Mrs. H. L. Carr, introduced her guests, Miss Mae Oliver of Raleigh, Mrs. Julius Edridge of Greenville and her daughter, Mrs. Hunter Fleming of Wilson.

Next meeting will be on October 19, with Mrs. J. W. Higgs as hostess, and the study "Some Finer Things of Life," to be presented by Mrs. W. B. Tighman.—Reported.

Mrs. Winslow Recovers.
Friends of Mrs. Norman Winslow who has been ill for some time at the Pitt General Hospital and at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Winslow, will be glad to know that she has recovered and is able to be out again.

Service At St. Paul's.
There will be services at St. Paul's Episcopal Church Thursday morning at ten o'clock for celebration of Holy Communion with special intention for the General Convention now in session in Cincinnati. No services on Friday.

Norman Cordon Pleases Audience.
Norman Cordon, the star bass-baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Association and a native of North Carolina, who rushed back from a South American tour to fill his engagement here last week, delighted a large and enthusiastic audience of college people, townspeople, and many visitors from near-by towns, in his program at the college. His concert opened the entertainment series for the year.

Many of Mr. Cordon's numbers were greeted with storms of applause, and he was called back again and again.

Smiling in his friendly, unassuming way, and seemingly pleased to be singing to a home audience, he responded generously with popular encores like "Mah Lindy Lou," "Oh Man River." He played his own accompaniment for three of these.

Mr. Cordon gave his audience great variety in his program, but the various types of selections all showed his voice to be one of power and beauty.

The group of popular numbers in English, which closed his program, probably led in favor with the audience, though many preferred the four "Art Songs" from Schubert and Strauss, or the operatic selections.

The first, and perhaps most difficult group, in that it demanded such purity of tone, was made up of numbers from "Handel, Purcell, Lully, and Scarlatti," was given in a way to please the most critical of the musically inclined among his listeners.

Two numbers from Gounod's "Faust" gave Mr. Cordon opportunity to sing his favorite role—that of Mephistopheles.

The Cincinnati Post said of him when he appeared in that role in Cincinnati: "Cordon as Mephistopheles rated the audience's choicest applause bouquets, stopping the show time after time." The Cincinnati Enquirer commented: "His Mephistopheles... is an extraordinary one, which the audience cheered to the roof."

Three Chopin études played by the talented accompanist were also well received.

Though Mr. Cordon has not appeared often here recently he is well known in operatic circles in all the leading cities of this country. He has appeared with the Detroit Civic Opera, the St. Louis Grand Opera Company, the Chi-ago Grand Opera Company, and many others; and last May was added to the bass-baritone section of the Metropolitan Opera Association.

Mr. Cordon returned from a South American tour just in time to reach Greenville for the E. C. T. C. concert, the opening one of the season, and will go at once by sleeper plane from New York to sing in Grand Opera in San Francisco. After that he will return to New York for the Metropolitan Opera season.

As Mr. Cordon's childhood home was in Washington, N. C., he has a wide circle of relatives and friends in this section, many of whom were in the auditorium Tuesday night. Among them were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Cordon, senior.

A number of E. C. T. C. students had the pleasure of feeling as they listened that they were hearing an old acquaintance, as they knew Mr. Cordon or members of his immediate family.

This first number of the entertainment series will be followed by others that will give equal pleasure and profit to the college audience if plans of the entertainment committee, under the chairmanship of Miss Ola Ross, work out satisfactorily.

THIMBLE THEATRE (Starring Popeve)

Money Spent Aid Pitt TB Patients

Mrs. K. B. Pace, treasurer of the Pitt County Tuberculosis Christmas Seal Sale fund has just released, through the Pitt County Health department, a report on the expenditures for the month of September.

The report reveals that, among other things, 15 X-rays have been made in the case of indigent tuberculosis cases and about 432 quarts of milk furnished to persons suffering from tuberculosis who were unable to provide milk for themselves.

The report is as follows:
Ayden Township: Milk, white, $16.80; X-ray, colored; total $19.80.
Bethel Township: X-ray, white, $3.00; total $3.00.
Chicod Township: X-ray, colored, $3.00; total $3.00.
Farmville Township: X-ray, white, $2.00; colored $3.00; total $5.00.
Greenville Township: White-milk $9.51, X-ray $12.00, clothing $3.00, transportation of patient to Sanitarium $6.00; colored—milk $36.54, X-ray $12.00. Total $79.05.
Winterville Township: X-ray, white $3.00, colored $3.00; total $6.00.
Total, white $56.31, colored $62.54. Grand total, $118.85.

One item of expense which it is not practical to carry by townships is the expense of sputum cups and filters which are supplied to all patients throughout the county from time to time.

The unusually large item for milk in September is due to the accumulation of certain bills for the previous two or three months.

In commenting on the relative value of the different control measures afforded by the Seal Sale fund, the Health Officer stated that offering free X-ray to physicians for indigent patients, there-

The Characters
 Nina, a nice girl with flaxen hair, meets a young man at a party.
 David drives her home, confessing he craves the party and is an automobile salesman. He has copper hair and a dog.
 Honey, Nina's plump, youthful mother, brings home a new husband, unannounced.
 Richard, Nina's stepfather.
 Cordelia, Nina's closest friend.

Chapter Three
A Drink to the Bride
 "It's true all right, I'm happy to say," Richard drew Honey to him in a very sweet way.
 Something that had felt all taut and constricted—her heart, maybe—relaxed in Nina's breast.
 Honey was saying: "And I have the heavenliest last name."
 "What is it, darling?"
 "Challoner."
 "Oh, my, yes. It's very, very something, isn't it? 'Richard Challoner.' I like it; and 'Honey Challoner,' too."
 They were still standing in a little huddle in the upstairs hall.
 "Would you two grinning things mind coming in and giving me a little data?"

Nina looked at Richard Challoner, critically, for the first time as he bent over Honey.

But when the three of them were settled in a row, with Nina in the middle, on Honey's sinky, pillow-grewn couch, it appeared that there was very little data to give out.
 They had met at a dinner party given for Honey, in Chicago, by Ellen Surtees, her hostess. They had fallen in love, immediately, and had been unable to figure out any reason why they should wait to do something about it.
 "Just one of those things," murmured Nina, smiling.
 But she thought: "Oh, no. No reason at all... only me; and the question of whether they're really suited to each other; and the difference in their ages (he must be at least 10 years younger than Honey); and a few thousand other little items to be considered..."

Richard's 'Nervousness'
 "YOU do think it's fun, our having done it and surprised you, don't you, darling?" Was there a pleading look in Honey's blue eyes? Did she know she had been bad?
 "I do," answered Nina, promptly. "When did it happen?" It hurt her terribly to think of her mother standing somewhere, saying: "I do," without her... giving away the whole rest of her life to a stranger.
 "Day before yesterday."
 "And you'll be going away now for a while, I suppose. Suddenly, a terrible thought struck her. "Look here, you two aren't going to live in Chicago, are you?"
 Richard Challoner said, quickly: "No, my dear. I should have told you that right off. I'm not going to take your mother away from you... only for a few weeks."
 "Whew!" Nina breathed again. "I feel better. Let's have a drink on this." She crossed over to a table, lifted the glass top and began to do things to the bottles and glasses.

Richard came to help her.
 "Of course I know that I don't intend to beat Honey, or make her miserable, but you have no way of knowing it. You're being marvelous sport, and I certainly appreciate it... I may as well confess that I was terribly nervous."
 That was his first speech. He hadn't been nervous at all; eager to make a good impression, certainly... a little amused perhaps, but never nervous.
 Nina felt inclined to dislike him for the insincerity, and as he bent over Honey with her glass, she looked at him, critically, for the first time. Sleek, dark hair and eyes, and a thin line of moustache on his upper lip... A deep chest and broad shoulders, covered by an almost too-well-tailored blue suit... Custom-made shoes. Nina thought she had never seen anybody more sure of himself, who looked more as though he would know the right thing to do in any conceivable situation... And then she smiled, because he had said the right thing after all. He had put on a little show for Honey, just as she, Nina, had been doing.

 "Nervous! Isn't he ridiculous, Nina? How could you help adoring him?"
 "Well, don't be too sure of me, young fella!" said Nina. "I'm only taking you under advisement, understand, and the first black and blue mark on Honey... ph! you go out on your ear!" She raised her brandy. "Here's to the bride."
 Her glass tinkled in the open fireplace, and a second after, Richard's.
 Honey looked so radiant and young, that it was absurd to have her for a mother.
 She drank to her new husband,

"I do believe your mother is prejudiced."
 And Honey beamed.
 "Well, don't be too sure of me, young fella!" said Nina. "I'm only taking you under advisement, understand, and the first black and blue mark on Honey... ph! you go out on your ear!" She raised her brandy. "Here's to the bride."
 Her glass tinkled in the open fireplace, and a second after, Richard's.
 Honey looked so radiant and young, that it was absurd to have her for a mother.
 She drank to her new husband, missed the fireplace with her glass and knocked the ear off a china cat on the sea-green taffeta cushion by the hearth. After Richard had found it and had assured her that it could be glued on again... Nina suggested bed.

Nina's Room
 "IT'S after five, Honey. You don't look it, but you must be dead, darling. There's all tomorrow to talk in... You two run along. I'll lock up."
 "She's right, sweetheart," said Richard. "You've had a big day, and he took his wife's two little white hands and pulled her up off the low couch... Honey never could get up alone.
 Nina kissed her mother and whispered a "God bless you," as her father used to do, and as she had done ever since he died, and then she felt her hand in Richard's firm clasp, for a minute.
 "Goodnight... my dears," and she ran out and down the stairs partly because she had to put out the lights on the first floor, but mostly because she couldn't bear to see her mother and Richard go down the hall and into the big double room that Honey had shared with daddy.
 But when she had touched all the switches, and bolted the front door, she had to come up again. Her own room was on the third floor, and as she passed her mother's, she heard Honey saying: "Do you, Richard?" and then his low laugh.
 Ten minutes later Nina lay in her own bed.
 She had the large front room over the library. Two windows faced north on 74th street; the hangings were of heavy satin. At one window they were all draped over to the left side and caught up rather high; at the other, they were swirled to the right. One was peach and one was brown. The walls were the delicate color of the inside of a cockle shell. There was not too much furniture; some of it was satinwood, and some of it was painted—quite beautifully, the same shade as the walls, with designs of deeper peach, and brown, and touches of soft green.
 In a way, it was a decorator's room—but not really, for Nina had done it herself.

tankers of sufficient speed to keep abreast of the oil burning battle fleet on distant missions.
 The government complains that heavy construction industries, particularly large scale building, are lagging, and yet the federal reserve system keeps interest rates so low that bankers complain they cannot safely lend money at such rates on the "slow" paper involved in financing the building industry.
 The department of justice and the federal trade commission, with varying spurts of activity, fight private monopolies, yet congress enacts a bill permitting manufacturers and fix prices on their products. And price-fixing is the principal monopolistic evil against which the two federal agencies fight.

This Strange Land.
 The state department seeks to keep the country strictly neutral in the Oriental conflict, yet sanctions a "safety first" policy under which government-owned ships may not carry munitions or military supplies to the belligerents. The act chokes off supplies to China, which has no ships, but allows Japan, which has plenty of ships, to buy American munitions and airplanes with which to wallop the Chinese.
 The country prides itself upon its excellent health measures and sound common sense, and annually bumps off 36,000 persons with automobiles.
 Now all these things, and many another contrast and inconsistency spicing up the life of this old continent, can be explained after a fashion to Americans with a sense of humor.
 But if a Washington correspondent of a Russian paper should send home a dispatch saying "the new United States is a land of inconsistencies, contrasts, and strange events," he could not be blamed too much.

 Meanwhile, in America...

 "To C. E.: What do you mean by I might not be back, especially with winter setting in and Christmas coming up? I'm not the nervous type but cracks like that are likely to upset me. Signed: G. T."
 "To GT: I was passing your desk today and it seemed more disheveled and disordered than usual: there was at least a sixmonths' accumulation of old letters and papers on it. Can't you do something about it. Not that it makes any difference to you, but it reflects on the rest of the staff. Signed: C. E."
 "To C. E.: Those old papers and notes you complain of represent a lot of work. They are valuable data and information painstakingly gathered in the studios and snowshops of New York. I have to have that stuff to write my columns. Besides, it's bad policy to throw anything away. The moment you do you always regret it. Signed: GT."
 "To GT: I was thinking that if you ever run across any old tin cans on your wanderings around town you might bring them in. And beginning today that order calling off your animal friends is rescinded. Signed: C. E."
 "To C. E.: Now that you mention it, I don't recall seeing any tin cans, but the matter could easily be arranged. How many would you want, and what have animals got to do with it. Signed: GT."
 "To GT: I think about a bushel basket of tin cans would do nicely. The older and rustier the better. As for the animals, we are in the market for a goat and the thought occurred that one of your friends might bring one in. Signed: P"

With the world series opening today America's national sport will take the spotlight while other news must play a minor role.

If you have not already pledged to the Community Chest fund do so at once. The Community Chest plan is being used to raise the necessary funds to carry on the work of our Boy Scouts, Salvation Army and other agencies, and if the work of these agencies is to continue here without retrenchment it is necessary that the full quota being asked in the Chest drive be raised. The work of these agencies deserves the support of every citizen, so do your part now by subscribing to the limit to the Community Chest fund.

The high sales on the tobacco market for the past few days have brought the season's average price above the 24 cents mark leading to the hope that the desired 25 cents a pound average for the season might be realized despite the bad price showing made at the beginning of the season, when the market was being flooded with the commoner grades of tobacco.

Don't forget this is Fire Prevention week. It is to be hoped that our community will not only have a clean record from the fire standpoint during this week, but that our citizens will gain from this week information that will enable them to aid in keeping fire losses here at a minimum throughout the year to come.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLANKENLEE
(AP Science Editor)

New York (AP)—In the mud at the bottom of the Dead Sea, one of the deepest holes on earth, Bernhard Zondek has found a sex hormone.

It is, he says, an "estrogenic substance," which means it is one of those chemicals which help to regulate the feminine sex cycle.

Zondek is one of the world's foremost authorities on sex hormones. His announcement is printed by Nature, the British official science journal.

This sex hormone appears in the mud throughout the bottom of the Dead Sea, but is three times more powerful in the southern part of the sea bottom. Dr. Zondek stated that no male hormones had been found.

This is not the first time that hormone chemicals, much like man's, have been found outside the animal world. But it is the strangest location. The others were found in plants.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Oct. 6.—"It's fair for the Fair, then we ought to have a fair Fair," said J. S. Dorton, manager of the State Fair. Which, naturally, is fair enough.

Incidentally Mr. Dorton has managed the Shelby Fair for fourteen years and reports that it has never failed to net a profit, even the year there was no admission fee at all.

Liquor concerns are sending in all their advertisements for censorship by the State Liquor Board, according to board attaches. This despite the vigorous opposition of Mayor Thomas Cooper and Publisher R. B. Page of Wilmington.

Which bears out the statements made at the time, that there is nothing the New Hanoverians can do about the matter, as the liquor salesmen know exactly which side their bread (if you'll pardon a mixed metaphor) is buttered on.

There is something new under the sun. Bootleggers have previously been blamed for nearly every evil from housemaid's knee to the prevalence of pellagra among the Patagonians, but now the illicit liquor salesmen are being credited with starting a cotton picker's strike in Harnett county.

Seems that the booze peddling farmers are hiring negroes and paying them off in liquor to the nominal value of $1.00 per day, and so the darkies will not work for less than a simoleon a day cash from those who don't provide them with hooch.

What's become of Fred Beal, the one time Communist under sentence of 20 years, for his part in the Adersholt killing during the Gastonia textile strikes? Statements that North Carolina justice was going to bring him back immediately, if not sooner, seem to have been just statements. If any really serious step has been taken toward that end, it has not been revealed in the public prints.

Governor Clyde R. Hoey has announced he will be unable to attend the Carolinas Exposition in Charlotte.

Reports reaching the Department of Conservation and Development are to the effect that a longer trout fishing season than usual is being experienced in the Pungo river section in Beaufort and Hyde counties, and is expected to last throughout October. Trout caught in the Pungo are salt-water or "sea" trout and vary in size from two to four pounds. They are regarded as one of the finest table fish to be had. The best fishing is from the mouth of the river, where it empties into Pamlico Sound, to about seven miles upstream.

"Laundered chickens often stand a better chance of winning prizes at the State Fair," C. F. Parrish, of State College says.

In instructions covering the subject, Mr. Parrish calls for washing chickens in no less than four waters.

The national Moth Boar regatta will be held on the tranquil Pasquotank river, October 15, 16 and 17, according to reports from Elizabeth City. Forty or more of the graceful little craft are expected to be entered.

Forestry Division Prepared To Fill Orders For Trees

Reflector Bureau.

Raleigh, Oct. 4.—Approximately 2,500,000 seedling trees, of which almost 2,000,000 are pine seedlings, are ready for distribution from the nursery of the State Forestry Division near Clayton, in Johnston county. It was announced today by State Forester J. S. Holmes.

The nursery has recently been inspected by C. H. Brannon, State Entomologist and the trees found to be free from disease, so that the seedlings can be shipped out as soon as the planting season begins, about the middle of November.

Farmers and landowners desiring seedlings for reforestation or for the establishment of forest plantations, may obtain them from this nursery at a very nominal price upon making application for the number desired. Application blanks may be secured from Mr. Holmes by addressing him at the State Forestry Division, Department of Conservation and Development, Raleigh. The pine seedling may be purchased at prices ranging from $2 to $3 per thousand. A limited number of black walnut seedlings are available at $10 per thousand, which is one cent each. Only about 9,000 black walnut seedlings are available.

A list for the various types of tree seedlings available and the number of each variety, is being furnished to all those who have previously purchased seedlings and will be sent to any prospective buyers, Mr. Holmes said. Orders for seedlings will be filled in the order in which they are received and those desiring trees are urged to place their orders as soon as possible, otherwise the supply may be exhausted since the demand for trees is heavier than ever.

Of the almost 2,000,000 pine tree seedlings available, 1,108,400 are loblolly, 666,000 are long leaf pine, 192,000 shortleaf pine and 109,000 slash pine. All of these varieties are in demand since they grow rapidly into trees that can be marketed for both pulpwood and lumber.

A BIRD'S EYE VIEW!

What It Means: The Democrats' Family Fight

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
(AP Feature Service Writer)

Washington—Now that congress has blackened a Presidential eye and streaked for home, it's Mr. Roosevelt's turn to:

1. Grin and bear it; or...
2. Follow congress home and try to give it a dose of its own medicine.

Unless the chief executive has lost his famous tenacity, he is going to set out down the road after those flying congressional coat-tails.

He has already shaken his fist after the vanishing figure and repeated to the nation that he will fight for "greater opportunity, great security, and greater happiness for the average of our citizenship."

One Man Stands Out
When and if the President retaliates, he probably will name no names. But it is only natural that the leadership responsible for the thwarting of Presidential plans will absorb its share of the blows.

The question is: Who threw the punches that killed the plan to enlarge the Supreme court? Lots of people claim credit for that. But one man took the strategic offensive in the senate, where the coup de grace was delivered.

That man is Burton K. Wheeler, the sand-haired senatorial fireball from Montana. There's little question, furthermore, that Wheeler represents—perhaps typifies—the opposition to the President's 1937 program more nearly than any other one person.

Wheeler's Philosophy
Senator Wheeler thinks there is little difference between his aims and the President's. They differ strikingly, however, on method.

Said the Montana liberal as I talked with him in his office just after adjournment:

"I think the President wants to win greater rewards for our average citizenship by gathering and manipulating the controls of governmental machinery in Washington; I want to accomplish fundamental, democratic reforms through sound law.

"Under the American system, the President can gain his end only by having a subservient congress set up boards and bureaus to make rules of conduct, and by winning favorable supreme court opinions to uphold this procedure.

"But such bureaus are hazardous. Either they will crawl under the wing of the President and make him a dictator, whether he wants to be one or not, or the rule-making bureaus will soon find themselves dominated by the interests they are supposed to curb.

"To prove my point, I nominate such a miserably failure as NRA, or that political football, the federal radio commission.

"On the other hand, Mr. Roosevelt is right when he condemns the growth of monopoly across state lines. It is true that local, county and state governments find themselves impotent to deal with 'economic royalists,' whose businesses encompass several or many states.

"So it is my opinion that, when we find such a situation, the federal government should try first some form of regulation to aid the states in correcting the evil.

"Failing this, the congress should step in and do the job by prescribing a clear, concise and understandable federal law regulating interstate commerce. But we should emphasize localized control of our economy whenever possible.

And that's the issue in the Democratic party, through the eyes of the man who fought back and beat the President's plan to rejuvenate the Supreme Court—and who, incidentally, insists he still is a friend of the President.

When the President next turns the heat on congress, watch the Montana liberal. He may be the man who signals whether the Democratic party will split up or keep its banner in line behind Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Good Advertising Will Result From State Exposition

Exhibits Representing Various Activities in N. C. to Picture State As Land of Opportunity

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Oct. 5.—A greater appreciation of North Carolina as a "Land of Opportunity" will be the result of exhibits on agriculture, industry and education to be seen at the State Fair, October 12 through 16, Commissioner of Agriculture W. Kerr Scott said today.

A representative group of exhibits has been arranged for the fair and every man and woman, boy and girl will find these exhibits profitable," he added. "The fair management has planned the 1937 exposition with the view of showing Tar Heels the wealth of resources and the accomplishments of the commonwealth and in this undertaking, the State College Agricultural service, the vocational agriculture teachers, farm organizations and state agencies in general have given unselfishly of their time and efforts."

Commissioner Scott said that entertainment features will be prominent and outstanding, but the "real educational exhibits will be more elaborate and plentiful and it is the hope of the Department of Agriculture that all North Carolinians will avail themselves of the opportunity to see this phase of the fair."

All of the $14,000 in agricultural premiums will be paid to Tar Heel exhibitors.

Dr. J. S. Dorton, manager of the Fair, said that Friday, October 15, "will be a gala day for the 900,000 school children of the state who have been invited to attend the fair free as the special guests of the Department of Agriculture," adding that "this day will be the occasion for young North Carolinians to get a picture of the progress made by their state as mirrored in the varied line of exhibits."

P. E. Miller, general director of exhibits, said that "everything is in readiness for the elaborate displays and the opening of the fair on Tuesday instead of Monday as in years past, will afford exhibitors opportunity to effectively prepare their displays.

Cottage cheese may be varied by adding one tablespoonful of any of the following for each cup of cheese: chopped pimientos, green peppers, chives, onions, horseradish, parsley, chopped pickles, chopped olives or pickle relish.

In Radio . . . TONE'S THE THING

The function of radio is accurate reproduction of broadcast programs; the main thing to consider in buying a radio is tone. Many other things enter in, of course, like modern, beautiful cabinet design, easy, accurate tuning, and getting many stations the world over clearly. For all these things, There Is Nothing Finer Than a Stromberg-Carlson. But what we emphasize is the glorious Natural Tone of a Stromberg-Carlson, made possible by the Labyrinth. Labyrinth Radio reproduces programs exactly as they are poured into the microphone, adding nothing, removing nothing. Such tonal perfection can not be duplicated, for only Stromberg-Carlson has the patented Labyrinth—the invention that is

DEACS TO PLAY ERSKINE TEAM

Seceders Yet Have To Win First Tilt From Wake Forest

Wake Forest, Oct. 6.—Coach Jake Todd's Seceders will have the best opportunity Friday night when they clash with the Deacons here of accomplishing what no gridiron club from Erskine has done in a long time—that is, to whip Wake Forest.

Against the No. 1 Deacon team that has five sophomores and two reserves listed, the Flying Fleet, as the Seceder outfit is also known, boasts of a lineup that includes lettermen (and all of them seasoned seniors) in every position except one.

Big Jim Pressly, 200-pound fullback, is the marauder of the Fleet's attack and defense. This husky youth is in his senior year at Erskine and is considered by many to be the outstanding back of the year in South Carolina. His work against South Georgia, Davidson and Presbyterian, certainly backs up this contention.

Ike Aultman, Connie Shuler, backs; and Herman Campbell, Lyle Edwards, Slick Furr, Kerr Williams, Johnny Miller and Lowry Pressly, linemen are the other seniors on the Todd-Coached club. The 11th position is filled by Hal Harris, a capable sophomore quarterback.

Due to the fact that he will start a comparatively green and light team against the veteran invading outfit Friday and with Captain Mumford and Fred Hoyle still out with injuries, Coach Walker probably will instruct his charges to play a defensive game against the Seceders. The Deacs have tallied but one in two games and it might be that the wily Walker's strategy in planning a defensive diagram of play for the Erskine tilt, will not allow his boys to be swamped under a one-sided score, if at all.

Although Davidson put on a last period rally to defeat Erskine a couple of weeks ago, the Flying Fleet, in its last encounter, quickly retaliated with a smashing triumph over Coach Walter Johnson's Presbyterian team, 20 to 0 last Saturday.

Notwithstanding the fact that George Washington handed the Deacons a bod beating last Friday night, Coach Walker will stand pat on the starting lineup that opened against the Colonials. The blocking in that contest was so greatly improved over that exhibited in the Tennessee opener that the Deacon mentor has decided to leave it intact.

John Weaver and Bud Evans, ends; Harry Beaver and Allen Powers, tackles; Rupert Pate and Rupert Bryan, guards; Wheeler Dale, center; Frank McCarthy, blocking back and fullback; Bill Eustler and Howard Anderson, halves; and Dave Fuller, at quarter, comprise the No. 1 Deacon club.

TEACHERS OUT MAKE UP LOSS

College To Enter Campbell Game Seeking Revenge

When Coach Joe Alexander's East Carolina Teachers College Pirates take the field Saturday against Campbell College, they will enter the fray with revenge uppermost in their minds. Last Saturday they lost a one touchdown marginal game to Guilford at Greensboro after literally outplaying the Quakers all over the field.

With Primrose Carpenter back in the lineup and with one week more of exercise under their skulls, the Pirates should be a hard club to beat. This week's activities is centered around mastery of fundamentals and polishing off the offensive attack which looked ragged at times last Saturday.

The Pirates came through from the Guilford fray in fine condition. Three men are nursing minor injuries but are expected to be in condition for the Campbell game.

Coach Alexander hopes to have two backfields functioning for the fray and with some re-inforcing at the end positions, should be able to present an aggressive offensive attack, capable of scoring against the speedy Campbell squad.

The Campbell College Camels are ending their fifth week of practice and are decidedly the favorites, but the Pirate squad is determined to a man to carry the scrap into the Camels' backfield, and if they function as well on defense as they did last Saturday, should be able to make the game interesting for the Camels.

DEACONS FACING 'DREAM TEAM'

Duke Scout Pictures Volunteers as Heavy Favorites

Durham, Oct. 6.—The Tennessee Volunteers who meet Duke's Blue Devils in Duke Stadium Saturday may be Coach Robert R. Neyland's "dream team."

Three deep in every position with some of the finest football players in the south and east, perfect to the nth degree in that all important art of blocking and tackling, possessors of several of the finest running, passing and kicking backs in the south, a team that is as husky as one should be and have speed at the same time, Neyland has an array that undoubtedly forms one of the best football outfits in the history of the south.

That is the report of End Coach Carl Voyles of Duke, one of the best scouts and football diagnosticians in the country who has seen the Vols in their opening two contests this season.

Voyles reported that Tennessee punted against both Wake Forest and V. P. I. on first or second down as they kept their stuff under wraps for the meeting with Duke this week and with Alabama the following week-end. He said their blocking, particularly that down the field, was as fine as he had ever seen, that the backfield men were as good as there were in the south and that the line was one of the hardest-charging crews he had ever seen. Best tale of the Vol line is told in V. P. I.'s yards gained by rushing which netted exactly nothing. Voyles said the linemen were meeting V. P. I.'s backs in their backfield.

Two of the Vol backs have stood out from the many other fine ones as two of the best in the south. Last season there was much talk about little Red Harp, the Tennessee climax runner who ran back a punt 82 yards to give the Vols their 15-13 victory over the Blue Devils at Knoxville last season and who was an outstanding star in many other games.

PHANTOMS GET SET FOR RIVAL

Highs Working Hard For Friday's Game With Kinston

The Flying Phantoms of Greenville high are working hard this week in preparation for Friday's game with their old rivals—Kinston high.

Coach Frank Mock will bring a much improved team over last year's eleven, which the Greenies defeated, 14-0, to Greenville Friday. The Red Devils have eight lettermen from last year's eleven.

The Greenies that take the field Friday will have several new faces in the starting lineup. The tackle posts have been weak and Coach Dally is experimenting with new tackles. Swain and Hardy, who showed up well in the Rich Square game, may start at the tackle.

Simpson, veteran center, has been dropped from the squad due to breaking training rules. Williams, the only other center on the team, will probably start at this post. Kenneth Henderson, who has been playing in the backfield, may be shifted to center to strengthen this post. George Tyndall, a newcomer, will play in the backfield if Henderson is used at center.

The squad is in good physical condition with no one on the injury list.

The game will be played at Third Street Stadium on Friday at 3:30 o'clock.

N.C.S. GRIDDERS LEAVE FRIDAY

Wolfpack To Engage Furman University Saturday

Raleigh, Oct. 6.—The State College Wolfpack will leave for Greenville, S. C., Friday morning where Saturday evening it meets Furman University in a Southern Conference game.

Coach Doc Newton said today the "Pack" would journey by bus and would leave here early enough to reach Greenville in time for a final practice there Friday afternoon.

The trip is the first this fall for the "Pack" out of the State and the first to Greenville since 1927, the year Furman defeated State, 20-0. The teams met here last fall and State won, 27-0.

State's victory last year was the first over Furman in five games. The schools met first in football in 1902. Two games were played that year. The first resulted in a scoreless tie. Furman took the second, 5-2. The third game was played in 1926 and Furman won again, 26-0.

Coach Newton says the "Pack" will be in good shape for Saturday's battle. Fred Gardner, sophomore fullback, the only player injured in the Carolina game last Saturday, has been taking part in practices this week.

The State coach is looking to Eddie "Little Buzzer" Berlinski and Art Rooney, sophomore triple threat ace, to lead State's backfield forces against the Purple Hurricane. Geo. Murphy, senior, and Paul Lozier, sophomore, expect to start in the backfield with Berlinski and Rooney. The "Little Buzzer" is a senior.

Newton may make several changes in the line. It is a sure bet, however, that Louie Mark, powerful center, and George Fry, ace right tackle, will start the game. Jess Tatum and Connie Mac Berry, ends, also may start since they are South Carolina boys anxious to show the home state folks how they play football in North Carolina.

Berry is from Greenville and Spartansburg. Tatum comes from McColl.

Newton has sought in practices this week to improve his team's pass offense and downfield blocking and says he will continue to bolster this part of State's game in practice today and tomorrow.

MUSTANGS GET BEAT —FIGURES PROVE IT

Dallas (AP)—The Southern Methodist university Mustangs, who have won four Southwest championships and one national football title in the last 21 years, have had their shares of defeats.

In 213 games they have played, the Mustangs have won 117, lost 68 and tied 30.

In 104 Southwest conference contests, the Mustangs won 46, lost 40, and tied 17.

It is possible the Yankees, with their vaunted power at the plate, may blast their rivals from the Polo Grounds right out of the World Series as they did last fall. But it isn't likely the Yanks will do so with the ease that marked their 1936 triumph.

It isn't the same Giant team. The changes Manager Bill Terry has made in his lineup have improved the National league champions on all fronts.

A year ago the Giants had Travis Jackson at third base. Jackson, a great ball player in his prime, was definitely through as a big-league player. On first was Terry, another veteran ending out his string. It is a wonder the Giants stood up at all with that combination on the diamond.

The move that brought Mel Ott in from right field proved excellent. Ott has developed into just about the best third baseman in the senior league. And the way John McCarthy has been covering first and pounding the ball certainly gives Giant fans no cause to wish that Terry was back at the initial sack.

Jimmy Ripple moved into Ott's old spot in right and played the position as though he had been there all his baseball life. Wally Berger helped the Giants on several occasions with timely long-distance blows. To top it off, Terry pulled another smart one when he sent Lou Chiozza to centerfield after he had failed at third.

Of course, the greatest single bit of strength the Giants added to their roster this year was Cliff Melton. The gangling southpaw just about won the pennant by his great pitching down the home-stretch.

The outstanding change in the Giants is the fact that they have been playing ball as a unit—as though they had been playing together for years. And they have confidence. They way they knocked off the leaders in the race to the wire stamps them a game team, one that is not likely to fold up at the sight of the Yankees' big bats.

The Yankees may repeat last year's triumph, but it won't be without a fight.

MOST PLAYERS ARE TAR HEELS

Twelve of 22 Regulars on Teachers Squad from State

Twelve of the twenty-two regulars on the East Carolina Teachers College football squad are natives of the Tarheel State. Three hail from the Old Dominion, five from New York, and one each from South Carolina and Georgia.

The lightest lineman is "Dynamite" Smith, 144-pound end; the heaviest of the linemen is "Hard-rock" Venters, who tips the beams at a bare 258. In the backfield diminutive David Breese is the mid-guard, weighing 150 with "Take-It-Easy" Bill Dudash holding down the heavy weight honors with 168 pounds of power. "Slim" Perkins, end, Stokes, N. C., is the tallest griddier with six feet two inches of height to his credit. Breese is the fastest sprinter. Fran Ferebee the fastest charger. Felix Cecot is probably the surest tackler and has a lot of power in his charge and is a fine defensive man, and can literally kick a ball off the lot. Earning honors are about equally divided according to dining hall authorities. Primmy Carpenter gets the biggest kick from practice sessions and enjoys the rough going better than signal drill. Kenneth Purcell is the rough work specialist and is a field for scrimmage.

The squad is looking forward to the Camels' tussle with much anticipation as this battle will probably decide the winners of the first places in the starting line-up. To date no one has any position clinched and the line-up is being constantly shifted in an endeavor to discover the best working offensive combination.

Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Ohio State, 24 Years In Big Ten, Once Found Bush League Tough

By FRITZ HOWELL
Columbus, O. (AP)—Ohio State university breezed into its 25th year as a member of the Big Ten this season, but the Buckeye athletic officials were so intent upon building the 1937 edition of the football team that they entirely overlooked he anniversary and planned no ceremonies of any kind commemorating the event.

George M. Trautman, president of the American association, and Ernest R. (Ernie) Godfrey, assistant coach to Francis A. Schmidt, didn't overlook the anniversary, however, for they were the first and second-strong centers on the 1913 club that launched the Bucks into the Western conference grid wars.

Godfrey, who at 135 pounds was the smallest center Ohio State ever had, and Trautman looked back over the quarter of a century of football, and attempted to outline the greatest changes that have taken place. Their answers are indicative of the courses their lives have followed since they graduated.

'Football Unchanged'
Godfrey, who stands out as one of the finest defensive coaches in every day since he left the Ohio U. S., has been a football man playing ranks. He said:

"There is no difference between the football of 25 years ago and that of today. The game still is a matter of blocking and tackling, no matter what innovations are introduced. Show me a team that wins games, and I'll show you a team that can block and tackle. The fundamentals still win the ball games—and they always will."

Trautman, who has switched to the professional side of sports, and has a weather eye on the gate at all times, said:

"The big difference between football of 1913 and football of 1937 is the size of crowds. Back on old Ohio field, when we first joined the Western conference a crowd of 5,500 or 6,000 was tops. Today a crowd of 40,000 is a poor one in the Buckeye stadium, and we have seen as many as 90,000."

Oberlin 0, Ohio State 9
Godfrey chimes in with: "Back in the days before we got into the Big Ten we had a tough time beating the little Ohio colleges, but once we entered the big league our teams got better. That first year, after losing a close one to Indiana, and a 12-0 game to Wisconsin, we came back to beat Northwestern 58-0. Wish we could do that to those Wildcats now."

"That same year we had a tough time beating Western Reserve 14-8; Oberlin held us to a scoreless tie, and we beat case 18-0. We've come a long way since those days."

Godfrey's remarks that Ohio has come a long way is borne out by the cumulative Big Ten standing for the last five years, which shows that the Bucks have the finest record in the league over that stretch. In the five-year period Ohio has won 20, lost four and tied two, while Minnesota, in second place, has won -8, lost four and tied four.

In the all-time Big Ten standing, Ohio is second with 65 wins, 40 defeats and eight ties. Michigan tops the list with 58 victories, 33 defeats and three ties. Minnesota, with two wins out of three, and Michigan with ten victories out of 19, are the only clubs in the circuit to hold an all-time edge over the Bucks in the annual series.

The concrete horseshoe where the Bucks play their home games is a mammoth affair. It is a double-decked stadium, open at the south end, and is 750 feet long, 597 feet wide and 109 feet high. It was built at a cost of $1,600,000, and has held 93,000 persons.

The scene looks like this as 90,000 eager persons flock to the Buckeyes' $1,600,000 stadium for a home game.

Ohio State's first football team looked like this in action. The dress of the official is different today, and the outfits of the players. But the biggest differences at Ohio State are in the stadium and in the size of the crowds.

THEN, IN 1913 . . .
