North Carolina Farmers Believe In Use Fertilizer

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Oct. 19.—North Carolina's farmers have used more than a million tons of fertilizer since January 1, nearly 300,000 tons more than any other of the seventeen states reporting to the National Fertilizer Association.

CHINESE GAIN GROUND LOST

Defense Troops Strike Back in Sharp Counter Drive

Shanghai, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Chinese troops struck back at Japanese today in a sharp counter-offensive near Tazang, the nerve center of Chinese supply lines on the Shanghai front.

The Chinese sent back word the Japanese had lost the half mile gain they had made yesterday in one of the most severe engagements of the present warfare. In that engagement an entire detachment of 1,400 Chinese and 3,000 Japanese were reported killed when Japanese tried to sever Chinese food and munition supply routes.

At noon today Chinese authorities announced the Japanese had retreated to their original positions three miles east of the village which lies about five miles north of Shanghai.

Balked in successive attempts to crack Chinese Shanghai lines, the Japanese military office served notice all Chinese railway trains, stations, warehouses and equipment would be considered military objectives subject to bombardment because military supplies were being moved by rail.

New air raids were made on two railways in north China, the Hankow-Canton line in the south and the Shanghai-Hangchow route. Japanese also bombed junks on inland waterways.

Searching Party Arrives At Wrecked Plane To Find Nineteen Occupants Dead

CREW OF ILL-FATED AIRLINER

Leah Derr, 24-year-old blonde stewardess (left) and Pilot E. G. Woodgerd (right) died with their passengers when the transcontinental "Mainliner" crashed in Wyoming mountains. A ground searching party reached the plane this morning, but returned down the treacherous path to seek help.

GROUP OF FOUR REACHES SHIP

United Air Line Pilot and Three Others Arrive at Crumpled "Mainliner" High In Uinta Mountains After Treacherous All-Night Trip Through Snow and Bitter Cold

Salt Lake City, Oct. 19.—(AP)—A ground searching party reached the crumpled "mainliner" high in the Uinta mountains today and found all 19 occupants of the air transport dead.

Ralph Johnson, a United Air Line pilot and one of a group of four who kept going all night in the treacherous snow, informed L. D. Chiddebeck, division superintendent, that a survey of the wreckage by flashlight showed no sign of life.

After Johnson brought out word of the tragedy, the greatest number of persons ever killed in an American airplane crash, the air line quickly assembled official air planes and ground workers to bring out the bodies.

The Knight, Wyoming airport, 28 miles to the north was made the base of operations. Chiddebeck said Johnson went up to the big airplane, "peered in and found that 16 passengers and a crew of three were dead."

Because of the condition of the wreckage, on Chaff Peak, Johnson was unable to make a complete investigation.

He wasted no time, but started immediately down the mountain track for help. The great airliner had been missing since 8:15 p. m. Sunday when it was enroute from Cheyenne to Salt Lake City.

It was first sighted from the air yesterday morning on the most difficult sort of terrain. Johnson's searching party was aided toward dawn by an almost full moon, but the bitter cold made the going difficult.

Greatest previous death toll in the United States air line history was at Goodwin, Ark., January 16, 1936, when a transport plunged into a swamp killing 17 persons.

Two Persons Killed As Speeding Car Overtakes

Six Others in Car Reported Seriously Injured

One man was instantly killed, a second was injured to such an extent that he died about 12 hours later, and six others were critically hurt about 9 o'clock last night when the automobile in which they were riding failed to make a curve about two miles south of Ayden. Both of those killed were about 45 years old. The ages of the others ranged from 20 to 45.

Lynn Whaley of the Richlands community of Onslow county, died on the scene after the car turned over while going at a rapid rate of speed. Mint Jarman, of the same community, died in a Kinston hospital this morning about 10 o'clock from a crushed chest.

Others injured in the wreck, part of them critically, were Floyd Whaley, Oakley Whaley, Charles Rouse, Jack Blizard, High Sandlin and Raymond Williams.

Coroner A. A. Ellwanger, who went to Kinston this morning to conduct an investigation, said that no inquest was considered necessary. He said that Jarman was driving the car at the time of the accident. He declared that the men had been drinking.

The eight were on their way home after having been here to sell tobacco. With the exception of Blizard, who lives in upper Jones county, all of the men are from Richlands. It was reported the men did not come here in the same vehicle, but got together after selling their tobacco.

The coroner said his investigation revealed that three of the men were thrown at least 90 feet when the car hurled over while running at a high rate of speed. He added the others were thrown a good distance from the place the car overturned, on a sharp curve just this side of Hart's filling station between Ayden and Grifton.

Guy C. Evans of City Not The One in Court

Greenville's Mr. Evans declared that he would like his friends and acquaintances to know that he was not the Guy Evans whose name appeared in the police court story yesterday.

REA Seeking To Promote Rural Use Of Electricity

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Oct. 19.—The future of rural electrification in North Carolina will depend upon the extent of which the 27,785 rural residents already served by completed lines are educated in the use of electricity and electrical appliances, Dudley Bagley, State REA head, said today.

"There are already 27,785 customers on rural electric lines in North Carolina," he said. "What they use and how they use electricity will determine the future of rural electrification in the state."

Raleigh Publisher Delivers Address At Local College

John A. Park of Raleigh Times Illustrates What Goes on in Making of a Daily Paper

John A. Park, publisher of The Raleigh Times for the past twenty five years, gave his student audience an interesting picture of what goes on in a newspaper office, when he talked at the assembly hour at the college today on "The News Behind the Front Page."

Mr. Park began by saying he wished to mention two men in the newspaper game in the South who recently died, and spoke of the place of Robert Latham, editor of the Asheville Citizen and Col. J. P. Mooney, editor of the Memphis Commercial Appeal in newspaper work in this section.

Publisher Park then turned to a discussion of the way a paper is made up. He told his audience papers are now printed at the rate of 60,000 an hour, or 15 a second.

He explained how the type is set one line at a time by the linotype machine, with the operator sitting at a machine similar to a typewriter and striking the "keys" for each letter.

The speaker also discussed briefly the kinds of type used. Mr. Park showed how comic strips are run in, saying that he is often asked to know that question.

Newspapers, he said, have two chief sources of revenue: circulation, which brings in 30 to 40 per cent; and advertising, which makes cover the rest.

Mr. Park also spoke of the various types of news, and said that every day the newspaper is forced to become more and more like a magazine to give its readers what they demand.

At the conclusion of his talk, he passed out into the audience forms and mats of various papers. On the platform with the speaker were D. J. Whichard, Jr., editor of The Reflector and Dr. Carl L. Adams of the College.

Candle-light Service.
A very beautiful and impressive candle-light service took the place of the usual vesper service by the Young Woman's Christian Association of East Carolina Teachers College Sunday evening, October 17, at the college athletic field.

The members of the Y. W. C. A. assembled in front of the Robert H. Wright building, where they formed into groups and, led by Miss Elizabeth Copeland, president of the association, marched to the athletic field.

Entering by the main gate, the procession marched on the field and formed a semi-circle around a burning cross. The president of the Y. W. C. A., standing in front of the cross, quoted the words of the hymn "In the Cross of Christ I Glory." As the sound of her voice died away, Miss Catherine Cheek and Miss Edna Earl Perry moved into the circle of light and sang softly the words of the hymn.

Then the leader of each group stepped forward one at a time and, standing before the cross, quoted a stanza of scripture, to which the president responded, as she lighted the torch of the leader.

Moving back to her group, the leader lighted the candles of her members, who joined in singing a familiar hymn.

After each group had performed the rites of the ceremony, the president led the recessional through the Davis Arboretum. The flickering lights of their candles made a beautiful scene as the procession wound through the paths of the Arboretum, singing the association song.

When they reached the Wright building, they put out their torches and formed a semi-circle about the steps, on which was a cross formed by white-clad members of the cabinet, carrying lighted candles. The light of the cross was the only light on that end of the campus.

The members, standing about the cross, sang "Draw Me Nearer To The Cross," with which the service was closed.

Now Showing: "A Breath of Romance" By E. C. SEGAR

Two's Company

The Characters
 Nina, a nice girl with flaxen hair, has fallen in love with her stepfather.
 Richard, the charming, well-talented stepfather, pays considerable attention to Nina.
 Honey, Nina's gay, plump, youthful mother, is crazy about her new husband.
 David, a young auto salesman, has begun to adore Nina.
 Cordelia is Nina's closest friend.

Chapter 14 David's Proposal

THE second horse—which was the dreaded Worthington creature—fell also, but while its rider was thrown clear, Nina was pinned under the two animals in a tangle of reins, stirrups, and eight wildly kicking black hoofs.

Twice, Gray Dawn struggled up a little, but could get no foothold on the hard, frosty surface of the road, and fell back again. . . . knocking the breath clean out of her mistress' body. Nina's right leg was twisted behind her into an unbearable position and a weight like the rock of Gibraltar was resting on her left.

The sky overhead was segmented by what seemed, to her tortured eyes, a thousand waving legs; and over and above the grunting of the animals, a loud sound was filling her head, like the overflowing of a mighty river. Gradually her legs ceased to ache, and the sky above became overcast by a great dark cloud. . . . In a detached sort of way, she wondered if she were dying.

"Hey! Careful there. . . . You'll get kicked to death." Through the whirring noise came Lilith's voice, harshly frantic. Dear, sweet Lilith, she'd turned back. . . .

And another voice: "What the hell . . . are you just going to let her lie there?"

And now Nina was quite sure she was delicious, if not actually at death's door.

The voice she heard was David's. "You damn fool! They'll quiet in a second. . . ."

And David's taunting: "Oh, yeah? . . . Coming, Nina! Hold everything, darling. I'll get you out. . . . Into the blackening sky came David's copper head. . . . His brown eyes, with a mad, terrified light in them. . . . His arms reaching down to her. . . ."

She was beyond trying to reason it all out, why he should be here. . . . but she made an effort to gasp "Don't!" before the dark closed in. She thought she heard a cry of pain, and hoped, frantically, that it was she, not David. But she could not be sure.

"Nina You've GOT To!" NINA opened her eyes and discovered that she was in the bottom of a station wagon. The back seats had been removed, and they were progressing at a snail's pace. She could see the legs of two horses and two riders, one on either side. Carl was one, and as she turned her head to see who was the other. . . . she looked straight into the troubled brown eyes of David Day, lying on a pile of coats, beside her.

"David! . . . So it was you!" "Nina—angel—are you all right?"

"The funny thing is, I think I am. . . . practically. But you, you crazy lamb, you brave fool you. . . . how do you happen to be here? What happened?"

His nice face was glowing with relief. "Nothing. The very efficient young lady on your right, got them up. I only succeeded in getting myself knocked out, so that there were two of us to rescue instead of one. . . . Great little helper, David."

"Great little helper." "Don't be too nice to me, darling. I'm unstrung. And speak quietly," he was whispering. "I don't want them to hear us till I've proposed marriage. . . . Darling Nina, I'm so crazily, madly in love with you. . . . Sweetheart, I only make 50, or at best 60 dollars a week. . . . could you? On that? I was delivering a car. Remember I said I'd try and catch a glimpse of you? Well, suddenly, you all tore out in front of me, and when I saw you go down, and thought you were being smashed to a pulp. . . . Nina, you've got to!"

He was incoherent and—dear. He was pale and breathless, and a tiny trickle of blood oozed from his temple. "Nina. . . ."

"David—dear. Could we stop talking, just for now? My head is whirling." He looked instantly contrite. "But, David, if you would just lean over and kiss me. . . . He winced with pain as he lifted himself on his elbow and bent over her. . . . but when he drew away again, he was the happiest looking person in the world.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
 A. Feature Service Writer
 Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 18—(AP)—Wonder what an astronomer thinks about? Here is the thought of one inspired by looking at the star Sirius, brightest in the heavens except the planets.
 "Imagine, if you can," this astronomer writes anonymously in "The Telescope," tube one foot in diameter and fifty million miles in length. Such a tube would extend approximately from the earth to Sirius.
 Coming down such an imaginary tube to your eye the light of Sirius takes nine years to make the journey.
 "In all this great tube," the astronomer goes on, "would be found only one-tenth of a gram of substance, just about the equivalent of

MOVE OFFICES OF STATE SCS

Soil Conservation Headquarters Now In Raleigh

Raleigh, Oct. 18.—Removal of headquarters from High Point to Raleigh will enable the Soil Conservation Service to work in closer cooperation with the State College Service, according to E. B. Garrett, State coordinator for the S. C. S.

The SCS was set up in North Carolina, along with other states, in 1934. Officials selected High Point as an ideal location for the office of the state coordinator because of its proximity to a majority of the proposed projects.

Later, the SCS and the Extension Service, working toward the common goal of minimizing soil losses through erosion, joined hands in the endeavor. With such instructions, county farm agents and conservationists unleashed a double-barreled attack on one of the most serious of the farmer's problems.

As the work progressed, officials of both agricultural agencies deemed it wise to have the two headquarters located in the same city. Coming from High Point to Raleigh were James A. Muncey, assistant state coordinator, and Charles H. Flory, extension soil conservationist. All three men will be located in Polk Hall at State College.

The Soil Conservation Service now has project offices located in High Point, Greensboro, Wadesboro, Lexington, Charlotte, Reidsville, Burlington and Franklin.

In addition, 17 CCC camps scattered throughout the State are working with the SCS in combating erosion.

hundred miles toward Sirius. That ink bottle full of gas, spread all the way from here to Sirius the astronomer thinks is a good, practical illustration of a vacuum.

To Assemble List Slight Increase In Of Factory Sites N. C. Peanut Crop In North Carolina Over Last Season

Recently Appointed Industrial Engineer to Assemble Data in Effort to Attract New Plants

Raleigh, Oct. 18.—J. T. Anderson, recently appointed Industrial Engineer for the Department of Conservation and Development, will compile a list of all factory sites and available factory buildings in North Carolina. It has been announced by R. Bruce Etheridge, director of the department.

In order to make this list complete all cities and towns having vacant buildings capable of being used as factories are urged to write Mr. Anderson giving full description.

Letters listing the buildings should give the size, type, square footage of floor space, acreage on which the building or buildings are located, railroad facilities, whether building is on siding or spur, also what the building was formerly used for and the type of labor available in the community, Mr. Anderson said.

A professional factory locating service in New York, which makes a charge both to the industry seeking a location and to the cities and towns seeking new industries, is already trying to gather this information in North Carolina, Mr. Anderson said, but the new division of Commerce and Industry will supply it free of charge to all inquirers, and will also connect them with interested communities.

"What we need right now more than anything else is a complete reference file of all available industrial sites and buildings in the state which can be converted into factories so that when we get a letter of inquiry from a firm wanting to locate in North Carolina we can let the inquirer know at once just what we have here," said Mr. Anderson.

In addition, 17 CCC camps scattered throughout the State are working with the SCS in combating erosion.

The U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics indicated in its October report that the estimated production for the entire country is 1,300,000,000 pounds or about 12,000,000 pounds more than the September estimates.

Virginia went up 4,000,000 pounds in the figures and Alabama about 10,000,000 pounds. Minor adjustments in other states were sufficient to take care of the difference in figures. October estimates are still 30,000,000 pounds below those of 1936.

MILLIONS MORE FOR FINER TOBACCOS!

IS IT GOOD BUSINESS TO BUY COSTLIER TOBACCOS FOR CAMELS?

the answer is:

Camels are the Largest-Selling cigarette in America

The pleasure you get out of a cigarette depends on what's put in it. And in the case of Camels that means finer, costlier tobaccos!

THROUGH the years, Camel has consistently spent millions of dollars more for choice, ripe tobaccos!

That represents a way of doing business that smokers understand and appreciate. Millions of smokers have responded to the appeal of Camel's choice quality. Because of it, Camels have an attraction all their own!

It's a happy experience to have confidence in your cigarette. . . . to know that you are getting the good things out of smoking that you hope for. The plain fact that Camel does spend millions of dollars more for ripe, more costly tobaccos appeals to the common sense of American men and women.

It is good business!

"YOU BET I've been careful about my nerves. Smoke? All I want to. My cigarette is Camel," says LOU GERIG, Baseball's Iron Man. "With Camels I don't worry about jangled nerves."

"I SMOKE Camels and my nerves stay serene and unruffled. You see, I don't want to have those irritating little nervous habits," says window display expert, POLLY PETTIT.

"FROM ANY angle, Camel is the cigarette for yours truly. When I'm tired, I light a Camel and back to work I go with a 'lift' in energy," FRANK MULLADY, auto mechanic, says.

"AS A fashion designer spending long night hours creating new styles, I've come to depend on the melow companionship Camels give me," says the famous designer, RENEE MONTAGUE.

"I OFTEN SAY a woman who runs a home needs healthy nerves as much as any athlete. So I smoke the cigarette that I know is mild—Camel," says MRS. ROBERT FENNIMORE, New York housewife.

"FOR YEARS I've chosen Camels. I notice Camels leave no after-taste," remarks MAXINE HOLLEN, department store salesgirl.

SHORT SHOTS By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Oct. 19.—Black Mountain College is no place for the normally dressed lady, said Mrs. C. C. Crittenden, wife of Dr. Crittenden, secretary of the Historical Commission, after visiting that very informal institution of learning and seeing classes of girls dressed in overalls sitting around on cots in apparently casual discussion of economics with their teacher.

Dr. and Mrs. Crittenden visited a number of western historical centers last week, including Montreat, where there is a remarkable collection of Presbyterian manuscripts; the Soudley Library at Asheville, where there are some 18,000 rare and first editions bearing on the state's history; the Cherokee reservation; Spruce Pine, where the good doctor dug a bit into some of the spindles trying to determine if the Spaniards were there about 1600; Mars Hill College; and Penland School where the industrial arts, particularly weaving, are taught.

Commissioner of Paroles Edwin M. Gill and his assistant, Hathaway Cross, are back from the national parole meeting in Philadelphia last week. Representatives from all but one state in the Union were in attendance and the meeting was extremely interesting and instructive, Mr. Gill said.

"In doping the Reynolds-Hancock senatorial race, don't fail to take into consideration the fact that Senator Reynolds has made some enemies by failure to give jobs to those who think they were entitled to have them. The some, of course, is true of Representative Hancock but only in one district," warned a high state official who preferred to remain unnamed, though he said he does not intend to tear his shirt for either.

Robert H. Slover, field supervisor of the Historical Records Survey of the Federal WPA, is here for his regular field inspection trip. He has conferred with Mrs. May E. Campbell, state director of Women's and Professional Projects and with Dr. C. C. Crittenden, executive secretary of the North Carolina Historical Commission.

State Fair heads are checking up their financial reports as rapidly as possible and the definite outcome of the state's venture in fair operation will soon be known. It is certain that a profit will be shown, Louis H. Wilson, chief publications specialist for the Department of Agriculture, said.

Practically all comment heard regarding the Fair has been definitely favorable. All seem to agree that it was one of the best ever staged in Raleigh.

Of five North Carolina League of Municipalities officers who attended the Chicago convention of the American Municipal Association, three have returned to North Carolina and two have gone to other parts either on business or pleasure. Back in their home towns are William Newell, field representative of the N. C. L. of M., Mayor George Jolley of Raleigh and Commissioner of Public Works James E. L. Wade of Wilmington.

City Manager Andrew Joyner, Jr., of Greensboro, has gone to the New Orleans convention of the International Association of City Managers, and Pat Healey executive secretary of the N. C. League, is traveling in the Far West. Mr. Healey will return to his office here the end of this month.

As predicted, candidates are announcing thick and fast for one office or another in the Fifth District.

DON'T KISS MY HAND, MADAME

Sarajevo, Yugoslavia (AP)—For a century, it has been the custom in Bosnia for women to kiss their husbands' hand in the morning, and the hand of a senior male visitor, in recognition of the superiority of men.

But organizations of modern young women are working to abolish that custom—and to stop women from swearing and drinking hard liquor.

Which Foot Is Yours?

Noted Foot Authority says every type foot can be comfortably fitted - in the proper shoe

The man who has done more than any American individual to help America regain its feet (physically)—Dr. Wm. M. Scholl, says that there is no foot that is too hard to fit—if the shoes are of the proper type and construction, and if modern, scientific shoe-fitting methods are employed. Here are some unusual types of feet.

There is the long, thin type of foot; the foot with a painful bunion; crooked, overlapping toes; the short, stubby foot; the weak foot or flat foot; the foot that has corns or tender toes; and there is the foot, with the high arch. When ordinary shoes are fitted in the ordinary manner these feet do present a shoe-fitting problem, but such should not be the case, says this world famous Foot Authority who pioneered foot health thirty-three years ago.

Demonstration in the City Friday, October 22nd At Blount-Harvey

In order to prove his point, Dr. Scholl has arranged to have his representatives direct from the Chicago factory, visit the above store in order to conduct an all day shoe-fitting demonstration and display of Dr. Scholl's Scientific Shoes. Every type, size, and width (men's 6 to 14—women's 2-1/2 to 13; widths AAAA to EEE), shoes in proper sizes for children and growing girls will be included. In all, there will be 622 fittings. Advance Fall and Winter styles will also be shown. Fittings will be by X-ray. Stepping on this device and looking at your feet through the visor, you can see through your shoe how only and

Washington Daybook By Preston Grover

This is the second article in which Preston Grover, Washington columnist, analyzes the New York mayoralty campaign as an important segment in the national political picture.

New York—For four years, while the Democratic organization was living the abundant political life nationally, it has been suffering pangs of hunger in New York City.

That was a major contributing factor in the highly publicized entrance of Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley and Democratic Senator Robert Wagner into the mayoralty campaign in support of Jeremiah T. Mahoney.

The difficulty for the Democratic organization in New York City has been that, in spite of party successes nationally, chunky Fiorello La Guardia has been the mayor. And Mr. La Guardia is not a Democrat.

Nominally he is a Republican; but he is not really a Republican either, in the sense of being a strongly loyal party man. In fact, he has been at least as sparing in his aid to the Republican cause as to Democrats.

And that has put both parties on the spot. New Deal Issue Out. Democrats could make no use of breaks his way. First was when the Republican, by adroit maneuvering, fastened a wholly Republican ticket upon La Guardia's coat tails. That gave the campaign some semblance of an out-and-out Democratic-Republican race. New York City has been Democratic so long that this was all to Mahoney's advantage.

The second break was when John L. Lewis, C. I. O. chieftain, spoke out in favor of La Guardia. There are times when politicians wish their political friends would remain quiet.

So bitter has been the C. I. O.-A. P. L. fight within the ranks of labor that when Lewis announced his support of La Guardia, it drove some A. P. L. support away. How much is debatable.

Political commentators within the city who earlier had conceded Mahoney not much chance, began revising their forecasts. The betting odds shaded off. And La Guardia himself abandoned his campaign of inactivity and began a belated speaking tour.

Man About Manhattan By George Tucker

New York—The news columns and the rotogravure sections of the metropolitan newspapers displayed a lively interest in the decision of Maude Adams to become a professor of drama in a midwestern college. It marked one of the few times in at least two decades a season has opened without rumors that Miss Adams would make a comeback on Broadway.

The most famous of our actresses emerges from their carefully guarded seclusion to further her ambitions in scenic lighting and designing, which have intrigued her for years, and she will spend the next three months, giving classroom lectures to the young ladies of Stephens college.

As late as 1933 Miss Adams was rumored to be making ready for a return to the theatre in a romantic comedy, but Peter Mason, who knew her better perhaps than any living person, declared he would believe it only when she advanced before the footlights.

There are a number of rather surprising facts connected with the career of "Peter Pan." Her real name is Maude Kiskadden, and, although nearing 65, she has never been married nor has a "romance" ever been linked with her name.

Indeed, she was a veritable hermit, even at the height of the Maude Adams craze, withdrawing completely from the raucous tumult of the theatre and living in a private world of quiet and legend.

She became a star at the age of 24 when she played Lady Babble in "The Little Minister," and since then she has queened it in the American theatre. Her most famous role, of course, was "Peter Pan." Others which strengthened the aura of theatrical greatness which has always surrounded her were "A Kiss for Cinderella," "What Every Woman Knows," and "L'Aiglon." She appeared in "Peter Pan" 1,151 times.

In the old days when stage-door gatherers made nightly pilgrimages to the alleys back of the theatres where she was playing, Miss Adams employed a now famous ruse to escape their attentions. She hired a maid who closely resembled her, and while the mad was accepting cheers from her street admirers, Miss Adams, mantled in a green veil, slipped quietly into a cab and was driven away.

She has an amazing technical knowledge of color photography and plans someday to make a motion picture of "Kim," Kipling's greatest novel, for which she owns exclusive motion picture rights.

Her first stage appearance was at the age of nine months in Salt Lake City. Her mother carried her across the stage in a drama called "The Lost Child."

Carolina To Meet Tulane on Homecoming Day

Chapel Hill, Oct. 19.—Undefeated to date, the Tulane and North Carolina football teams clash here Saturday afternoon in the outstanding contest between eleven representing the Southern and Southeastern Conferences.

The game features the Tar Heels Homecoming Day festivities and will begin at 2:30. It is regarded as a natural.

The Greensies, who rated just a notch below L. S. U. and Alabama in the final 1936 Southeastern Conference standings last season, are this fall being labeled by Dixie sport writers "The Giants of the South." Red Dawson, head Green Wave coach, tends to powerhouse plays just as his former coach and boss, Bernie Bierman, is doing at Minnesota. Tulane, now as does Minnesota, runs its plays from single wing and short punt formations.

From end to end the big Greenville line tips at the beams at a 200-pound average with four backs scaling 185.

Carolina, runners-up to Duke in the 1936 Southern Conference race, rates again in the second high spot in the Southern Conference. The Tar Heels, tutored by Ray Wolf, a former Texas Christian University coach, employ the modified Warner system of play varying with double wingback as well as single wingback and punt formations.

Both Carolina and Tulane have three victories and a tie to their credit. But the Greensies have shown superior power on both offense and defense. In four games Tulane has scored a total of 96 points against 6 for the opposition. Carolina has 80 points against 19 for its rivals.

The complete records: Tulane 7, Clemson 0; Tulane 0, Auburn 0; Tulane 84, Mississippi College 0; Tulane 7, Colgate 6; Carolina 13, South Carolina 13; Carolina 20, N. C. State 0; Carolina 19, N. Y. U. 6; Carolina 28, Wake Forest 0.

Tulane beat Colgate at Hamilton, N. Y. last Saturday. At the same time Carolina trounced Wake Forest. The Greensies did not attempt the long 2300 mile jaunt back to New Orleans. They are stopping in Raleigh this week and are working out at State College.

Saturday's contest marks the "rubber game" between Carolina and Tulane. They first met in New Orleans in 1923 with the Tar Heels winning 19 to 12. In their only other meeting—last season at New Orleans—the Greensies were victorious 21 to 7.

Efird's To Give Public Schools N.C. Facts Book

Announcement comes today from Charlotte, N. C., headquarters of the Efird stores, that this organization has arranged to present every school in North Carolina a copy of the book "Facts to Know About North Carolina."

This book which has just been issued is one of the most comprehensive portrayals of the history and development of North Carolina that has been written in recent years. Compiled by John Mullen, of Lincolnton, and published by the Mullen Features Syndicate of that city, the book deals with every phase of North Carolina life and is a book that is particularly adapted to a student's study of the Old North State.

The book is published in handy question and answer form and will serve as an accurate text and reference book in any study of the facts of the state.

The generosity of the Efird stores in placing this book in the hands of the public school children of the State is to be commended and is of particular interest at this time in view of the State's plan to make our people more conscious of the many advantages that North Carolina offers.

The method of distribution of the books has not yet been fully decided upon by the donors but each school principal will be duly notified when "Facts to Know About North Carolina" is ready for presentation.

CHINESE NO LIKE LOS ANGELES PROGRESS

Los Angeles, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Steel framework of the clock tower of the new union railroad passenger terminal, rising 250 feet above the street, is a grim reminder to residents of Los Angeles' Chinatown that in a very short time they will be forced to seek new homes.

The Chinese district is being demolished to make way for progress—for what the chamber of commerce contends is one of the most important projects undertaken by Los Angeles in years.

But to Len Gee Low, patriarchal Chinese, who sits in the doorway of his tea shop puffing meditatively upon a long-stemmed pipe, it is not so good.

"Me clome Los Angeles long time ago," he says. "Sleest here velly quiet—nobody blother Len Gee Low—all diffrent now. Bang—bang—bang, all day. Just like war in China. Plenty too much noise."

WFC PREPARES FOR N. C. STATE

Deacons To Undergo Thorough Lacing This Week

Wake Forest, Oct. 19.—Coach D. C. Walker is planning to give his Deacons a thorough lacing in practices this week, as preparations are made for the North Carolina State game here Saturday night.

The Deacon mentor was frank to say that, although the Tar Heels have a wonderful club and deserved to win rather easily over his lighter and inexperienced Baptists last Saturday, he was very disappointed in his boys' showing since he knew they could do better.

There will be several changes made in the No. 1 eleven here this week in the hope that improvement Saturday night over that of last week will be made. One definite change will find Rupert Pate at left tackle and Roy Evans going to guard.

Pate has started at left guard in the first games and Evans has been an end, but last week against N. Carolina, the defensive tackle play was so poor that the above mentioned change was made during the latter part of the ball game, and the effect was somewhat gratifying.

Unless several other of the Deacon first stringers can step up their showing this week in practice they will be ousted from a starting position against the Wolfpack.

Coach Doc Newton is warning his State boys against over-confidence when they meet the Baptists. And while the Wolfpack is admittedly two or three touchdowns better than the Deacons, this warning will probably be very timely. It is a known fact that the Deacons have a habit of proving an unanticipated stumbling block to the Wolfpack.

In planning an attack for this week's contest, Coach Walker has run in a set of lateral and pass plays with which he hopes to offset part of the weight advantage the Wolves will hold. The Deacons will have everything to gain in their clash with the Wolfpack and they are going to gamble on all or nothing. In practice this week, they have been tossing the ball around as if it was burning their hands, and it is hoped that this system of play will shake one of the Deacon backs loose a time or two against State.

State's touchdown twins, Art Rooney and Eddie Berlinski, have not been stopped in a contest yet, and much depends on Wake Forest's ability to match those boys' gains with some fancy stopping by George Wirtz, Dave Fuller and Bill Elstler.

GO SOUTHEAST YOUNG COACH Atlanta, Oct. 18.—(AP)—All Southeastern conference football coaches—12 of them—survived the 1936 season and now are directing their squads peacefully for the '37 campaign.

Broken Shoulder. Jack Hanlon, New Hampshire's star fullback, is out of the game for the season. His shoulder was broken in the Bates game.

COACH WOLF WILL BE INTERESTED Chapel Hill, Oct. 13.—When Fordham and Texas Christian University meet October 23 at the Polo Grounds in New York City, there's one man in Chapel Hill who will be particularly interested in the outcome. He's Ray Wolf, head football coach at North Carolina and former coach at T. C. U. Coach Wolf will not only be interested in how T. C. U. makes out but also in Fordham's showing, for his charges meet the Rams at Chapel Hill, October 30.

Several weeks ago, when Tony Lazzeri was on the sidelines nursing a fractured finger and feeling pretty worn out, he guesseed (out loud) that this was his last season as a regular. There were rumors that he was going to manage the Cleveland Indians. Tony hinted he wouldn't mind managing a big league team.

Then along came the World Series. The Yankees smothered the nappy Giants, and out of the writer of statistics, the 34-year-old Tony came close to being the hero. He pounded out one of the four Yankee homers. He batted an even 400. He was a tower of strength on the defense, handling 27 chances without a slip-up. He was a steady influence on the Yankee infield.

You can hardly blame Tony for not feeling so certain about his retirement as he did a few weeks ago. He was the perfect second baseman against the Giants. He demonstrated once more that he was a great money player. He still has a lot of big league baseball in his system.

Colonel Jacob Ruppert came forward with the announcement that he would give Tony his unconditional release if the veteran had an opportunity to better himself or establish himself for the future. The genial Colonel hinted he did not believe Tony would have any trouble getting his release from the American League if opportunity beckoned elsewhere.

Lazzeri long has been one of Colonel Ruppert's favorite ball-players. Chances are Tony can stay in the Yankee chain as long as he pleases, in some capacity if not as a player. He could do lots worse than to string along with the Colonel.

Doc Smith To Pilot New Bern Next Year

New Bern, Oct. 19.—Doc Smith has again signed as manager of the New Bern Bears of the Coastal Plain baseball league for the '38 season. It was announced by local club officials.

In his first year as director of the local entries, Smith put the Bears in the first division for the first time in Coastal Plain history, despite injuries that beset the Bears through the season.

Before coming to New Bern, the veteran pilot managed winning clubs at Ayden in the same league.

PIRATE COACH WORKS GUARDS

Alexander Displeased With Work in Saturday's Game

Coach Alexander was far from pleased with the showing made by his guards in Saturday's game.

Monday found the dynamic Swede doing hard driving in an effort to familiarize the guards with what he expected of them. Submarine charges, two-on-one, dip charging, and other defensive line tactics consumed most of the afternoon and it was a tired, dejected crew of linemen that came back to the Pirate dressing room.

Primmy Carpenter and Joe Williams were back on the job and their presence in the line-up should add materially to the offensive threat of the Pirate against Western Carolina Teachers Saturday afternoon. The backfield candidates had an easy afternoon but are expecting a bitter dose Tuesday.

Several backs are nursing minor injuries and today's rest should speed up their recovery.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Oct. 19.—(AP)—Stock market leaders topped one to more than 13 points today in the heaviest selling witnessed in more than four years.

Reported investment trust buying on the way down, however, attracted support in the latter part of the proceedings and losses were substantially reduced in many cases near the fourth hour. Nearly four million shares were turned over in the first two hours.

Unloading of numerous impaired margin accounts beside exceptionally large offerings from all parts of the country and abroad, swamped brokerage houses and put the floor of the exchange in a state of demoralization seldom experienced since the 1929 break.

Bonds, especially United States governments, weakened with stocks and commodities pointed decisively lower.

midways here ever to be shown at a fair this size. The monkey show, which attracted wide attention last year, is back and many new shows and rides will be found on the midway. Several rides which have never been here before will be found on the grounds. The October is expected to prove especially tempting to those seeking thrilling rides.

The arrangements at the new grounds, on the Falkland highway, is proving much more satisfactory than the old site. This is the first year the exposition has been held on the new grounds and officials declare they are especially pleased with the arrangements.

The Great Sigfried, world's champion ski jumper, is being featured each afternoon and night, using a 225 foot slide to execute his daring jump. He makes the leap at 4:30 and 10:30 p. m. daily. Fireworks each night round out an entertaining day.

The midway, however, is open at all hours with its 16 rides and 12 shows.

N. C. Feed Makers To Meet Thursday At State Capital

Manufacturers To Discuss Rules and Regulations for Feedstuffs; Coltrane To Preside

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Oct. 19.—Feed manufacturers of North Carolina will be called together by the State Department of Agriculture here Thursday morning at 10 o'clock to discuss rules and regulations for feedstuffs "to the end that both livestock men and feed manufacturers will be given greater protection in keeping unlawful feeds off the market." D. S. Coltrane, assistant of Commissioner of Agriculture W. Kerr Scott, announced today.

Coltrane, who will preside over the meeting, said that the question of maximum amounts of crude fibre that may be allowed in feeds, the elimination of certain materials that have been permitted to be used in the manufacture of feeds which are used "more or less as filler" will be two of the more important problems to be discussed. A resolution adopted by the State Board of Agriculture calling for the elimination of "injurious ingredients in feeds" will also be discussed by the manufacturers.

In addition to feed manufacturers outstanding livestock men in the state will be heard. Speakers will include Vernon D. Niven, manager of Arrowwood Farms, Charlotte; Kope Elias, manager of Morrifort Farms, Charlotte; C. C. McCoin, manager of Mills Home Farm, Thomasville; W. W. Fitzpatrick, Quail Roost Farm, Rougemont; A. R. Morrow, Iredell county farm agent; E. L. Milsaps, Randolph county farm agent; J. L. Wagoner, Guilford county farm agent; R. Flake Shaw, Guilford county dairyman; L. M. Smith, Raleigh, and L. Y. Ballentine, Raleigh.

Dr. C. D. Grinnells, J. A. Arey, Dr. Roy Dearstyne, H. W. Taylor, Professor R. H. Ruffner, and C. F. Parrish, all of North Carolina State College will speak on the program.

"All persons in the state interested in feeds and an enlarged program for the protection of the farmer as well as the manufacturer are invited to be present," Coltrane said.
