SURRENDER CIO DEMANDED BY FEDERATION

Proposal Submitted
as Means of Bringing Peace

ANSWER MADE TO CIO SUGGESTION

Equally Drastic Counter Proposals Indicate Two Unions Far From Agreement.

Washington, Oct. 27.— (AP)—The American Federation of Labor called today for the complete surrender of John L. Lewis' rebel CIO as the federation's terms for ending labor's big civil war.

The federation's three-man peace committee, headed by George Harrison, president of the railway clerks, submitted his proposal to a peace conference this morning.

It came as a counter suggestion to the CIO proposal of yesterday for establishment of an autonomous CIO department in the American Federation of Labor.

The A. P. of L. proposal called for:

1—Return to the federation of all CIO unions that once were A.
P. of L. members in good standing.

2—Conferences between all other CIO unions and the corresponding unions in the federation, to try to work out a program for bringing the new CIO unions into the federation upon mutually agreeable terms.

3—Settlement of all outstanding differences at the American Federation of Labor convention.

4—Immediate dissolution of the CIO.

Although no immediate CIO action was forthcoming, conference observers felt Lewis would turn thumbs down on the surrender proposal.

The federation's peace plan answered Lewis' equally drastic peace proposal which American Federation of Labor leaders indicated privately they could not accept.

Rev. J. G. Spivey Appointed Pastor

Rev. J. G. Spivey of Goldsboro has been appointed pastor of the local Pentecostal Holiness church, not Rev. J. D. Little of New Bern, as stated in yesterday's paper.

Mr. Spivey will move to Greenville in the near future. Rev. J. W.
Berry has been pastor of the local church for the past five years. He has the distinction of being first pastor to serve five years since the church was organized. He came here from Whiteville where he had served as pastor of the church there for five years.

Mr. Berry will go Sunday to take up his new duties, but will not move his family for several weeks.
He is going to Canada for a meeting with the Rev. O. E. Sprout of Toronto in November and will not move until he returns from this trip. Mr. Berry will accompany him to Canada.

Mr. Spivey will be here November 7th to take up his duties as pastor.
He is also pastor of the church in Bethel and will go there two Sundays each month.

Mother Of Local Man Is Claimed By Death

Funeral services for Mrs. V. D.
Jackson, mother of Corporal L. L.
Jackson of this city, were conducted at her home in Mebane yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Jackson died Monday after having suffered a stroke of paralysis. Mr. Jackson died a number of years ago. Corporal Jackson, the oldest surviving son, probably will remain in Mebane a day or so before returning to his duties here.

ville, Oregon, power project, announced today President Roosevelt

WOMEN AND CHILDREN FIRST ON LAND, TOO

Omaha, Neb. (AP)—President William M. Jeffers is proud of the Union Pacific's nurse-stewardess service. He boasted recently 54 children under two years traveled on one U. P. train at the same time.

"We don't have hostesses," he commented. "We assume tired business men can find their own relaxation."

Sub-Committees Named To Work Out Farm Bill

Five Groups Designated by Chairman Jones (D-Tex.)

Washington, Oct. 27.—(AP)— Chairman Jones (D-Tex.) designated five sub-committees of the house agriculture committee today to expedite preparations of a general farm control bill for the special congressional session.

These sub-committees were charged with framing those portions of the legislation which will apply primarily to corn, tobacco, dairy products, wheat, rice and cotton.

Johns said after a "discussion of the general picture" with 11 members present, a meeting of the committee adjourned until Friday.

The tobacco sub-committee will include representatives Mitchell (D-Iowa), Flanagan (D-Va.), Cooley (D-N.C.), Kizer (R-Pa.).
On the cotton group will be Fulmer
(D-S.C.), Doxey (D-Miss.), Owen (D-Tn.), Kieberg (D-Tex.), and

Third Senate Candidate May Enter Race As Yet

Reflector Bureau.
Raleigh, Oct. 26.—Talk of a third candidate in the senatorial sweepstakes, wherein Bob Reynolds and Frank Hancock are already entrants, grows louder and louder despite the statement of Cameron Morris which removed the former governor and senator from the list of possibilities.

In his renunciation of avowed ambition to tackle Reynolds again, the Sage of Sharon called for the drafting of Governor Clyde R. Hoey as the best man for the place, but the smiling chief executive apparently is holding fast to his previously taken position that he is not even considering the possibility.

Most frequent mention as added entries are George W. Coan, Jr., state WPA administrator, and House Speaker Gregg Cherry.
Neither has committed himself either way.

Either of these two would be eminently satisfactory to the state administration forces, it is generally believed. Mr. Coan won his

Farmville Man Killed Yesterday in High- way Accident

P. H. Howerton, about 40, of Farmville was instantly killed and E. F. Thomas of Williamston was seriously injured late yesterday afternoon when the truck in which they were riding left the highway and crashed into a telephone pole near Saratoga.

According to information received here Howerton "thumbed" a ride with Thomas. It was reported that faulty steering apparatus of the automobile caused Thomas
to lose control of the vehicle.

Further details of the accident were not known here.
Mr. Howerton is survived by his wife, Mrs. Virginia Bergeron Howerton.

HOEY ASSERTS STATE FAVORS CROP CONTROL

Declares Congress
Should Pass Farm
Legislation

SEC. WALLACE AT MEETING IN N. C.

Governor Notes Tobacco Farmer Fared Well This Year, But
adds 1937 Uncertain

High Point, Oct. 27.—
(AP)—Gov. Clye Hoey said here today that "North Carolina is definitely in favor of crop control legislation," as he spoke at a luncheon attended by Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace.

"The one good effect of the special session of congress," Hoey said,
"should be early passage of farm legislation so that the farmer will now to plan for his crops for the year 1938."

The governor and secretary visited soil conservation projects near here and then went to Winston-Salem for a banquet of the state grange.

"The disaster attendant upon unrestricted crop production is manifest this year," Hoey said, "in the price of cotton, cotton seed and other farm products."

"The farmers of the south already have suffered a tremendous loss by the low price of these products this year and unless there should be some effective crop control, we will advance into next year with starvation prices next fall, unless Providence should intervene and reduce the size of the crop."

Hoey said he wished "to urge earnestly upon our distinguished Secretary of Agriculture and our able delegation in congress the necessity of making some immediate provision for creating a demand and maintaining the price of cotton seed."

There was a time, he continued, when farmers realized a "rather considerable revenue from the sale of cotton seed," but now "the price of cotton seed is so low that very little is left after paying the cost of ginning and this source of revenue has then completely dried up."

"The tobacco farmer, Hoey pointed out, fared very well this year, but he can not promise himself the same sort of security for another year unless there is some effective control of production. The same thing applies to other crops.
The cotton farmer has suffered tremendously this year."

"With all the provisions that may be made by the government for the regulation of the production of crops or otherwise to assist the farmer," Hoey said in reiteration of previous statements: "I wish to again emphasize that the chief reliance of the farmer must of necessity be in his own intelligent management of his own farm. x x x"

According to information received here Howerton "thumbed" a ride with Thomas. It was reported that faulty steering apparatus of
the automobile caused Thomas

were not known here.

erton.

FARMERS HEAR SEC. WALLACE

Agriculture Head Cites Destruction Of Erosion

High Point, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace said today if land destruction by erosion is to be prevented, "I see no alternative to the widespread adoption of land use practices that will prevent excessive run-off and control soil losses."

"Any other course is going to be much more expensive and probably disastrous in the long run," he said in an address before a gathering of thousands of farmers, farm specialists and others as a climax to his inspection of soil conservation projects in this vicinity.

"Erosion," he said, "is most severe in the Piedmont portion of the state—in this rolling country that slopes from the mountains to the coastal plain."

The cabinet member said "according to the best available information, erosion was now removing on the average in the Piedmont,
"enough fertile soil to cut down the gross income of crop yields at the rate of 44 cents an acre each year. Throughout the Piedmont this reduced productivity means an average loss to farmers of around $1,628,000."

The national resources committee informed the president in 1936 there were more than 175,000 federal, state and local government units in the United States.

U. S. Asiatic Commander Orders Marines To Fire On Any Attacking Planes

OFFICERS GET LIQUOR STILLS

Four Illicit Plants Already Destroyed
This Week

Continuing the campaign against illicit liquor manufacturing in Pitt county, special ABC officers, working in cooperation with Beaufort ABC officers, destroyed four stills the first two days of this week.

Officers of the two counties destroyed stills, mash and supplies at the four illicit distilleries, all located along the county line.

A steam plant and 15,000 gallons of beer, located on the line, were destroyed Monday. The still had just been erected, officers said, and operators were preparing for the first run.

On the same day another still was located and destroyed near Gaynor's bridge. The still, a steam plant, and 2,500 gallons of beer were destroyed, along with thirty gallons of whiskey found at the site. A white man by the name of Whitaker was taken into custody by the raiding officers and was lodged in the Beaufort county jail, the still having been across the line.

Yesterday afternoon the officers of the two counties destroyed a large steam plant along the line near Tranter's Creek. Ten thousand gallons of beer found at the site also was destroyed.

Another distillery, a copper plant, and 20,000 gallons of beer, were located near the line yesterday and destroyed.

Several weeks ago the ABC board declared war on illicit liquor traffic in the county, and since that time a number of persons have been arrested on charges of selling the contraband and a large number of stills have been located and destroyed. Officers of the board declared they would continue their campaign against bootleggers and "white likker" until they feel a good job has been completed.

Two State Highway patrol recruits, who have been stationed here for the past week or so undergoing final trainings, left this morning for their assigned posts.

John Laws, whose home is in Burlington, goes to Morehead City and W. T. Simpson of Spencer will be located in Belhaven.

Troop A of the patrol now has 28 men with two more to come here later on to make the full quota of 30 working out of this office of which Lieut. Lester Jones is head.

NO EXECUTION DURING MONTH

Puckett was charged with the killing of Roy Rhyne. He was indicted jointly with Paul Mechling and F. C. Cox. Mechling and Cox pleaded guilty to second degree murder after Cox testified against Puckett and each received a 30-year prison term.

The state contended Puckett, Mechling and Cox entered into a conspiracy to rob Rhyne and killed the man while carrying out the robbery.

Hoey said "there was much evidence developed" at the trial of Mechling "to the effect that the killing grew out of an altercation between Puckett and Rhyne, that much liquor had been drunk and that Puckett was trying to collect a debt from Rhyne that grew out of the sale of bootleg liquor."

Puckett was to have been killed by gas Friday after receiving a number of reprieves. Commutation of his sentence and perfection of an appeal by George Stevenson, Columbus county negro, convicted of first degree burglary and sentenced to be executed Friday, cleared the list of possible executions this month.

Can Japan Be Stopped? Maybe-With 3 Big If's

By FREDERICK V. FIELD Secretary, American Council, Institute of Pacific Relations

(Written for The Associated Press Feature Service)

Can Japan be persuaded, or forced to stop her Chinese campaign short of achieving her avowed intention of completely defeating the Chinese armies? This is the question which has become prominent with the sudden turn in American foreign policy toward international action given by Pres.
Roosevelt's Chicago speech:

The answer, or rather the nearest we can come to an answer now, lies in what is likely to develop along three directions:

1. The ability and willingness of China to continue strong resistance over a long period of time.

2. The strength of whatever policy the United States, Great Britain and the other supporters of international action decide to adopt.

3. The internal situation in Japan.

Officials Prepare For Halloween Celebration

Block Of Evans Street to be Roped Off Friday Night

Plans are underway for the young folks and old youngsters, too, to celebrate Halloween Friday night. The Eve of all Saints or Hallows comes on Sunday and for this reason the celebration will be staged Friday night.

Chief of Police George Clark said he had consented to rope off Evans street from Fifth to Fourth, thereby giving the funsters a chance to ply their tricks and show their costumes "up town."

J. H. Rose, Mayor M. K. Blount,
Traffic Officer H. E. Wooten, J. L.
Little, chairman of the School board, and Scout Executive Thompson will appear at the various schools tomorrow to ask the children to have their fun in a practical and orderly manner.

Many of the stores are expected to decorate their windows in keeping with Halloween and music will be provided for those who care to engage in a street dance.

School Superintendent Rose and city officials expressed the opinion roping off one block of Evans St.
would be the best means of encouraging children to have their fun in an orderly fashion. Mr.
Rose in handling details and expressed the opinion it would be a big night in Greenville. He said the practicability of offering prizes for the best costume was being considered, but added this had not been decided upon definitely as yet.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Death attributed to a drug compound, elixir of sulfanilamide, reached 53 today and the American Medical Association said an end to the fatalities was not yet in sight.

The association announced two new verified deaths were reported from Wichita Falls, Texas, and Swainsboro, Ga.

Dr. Maurice Fishbein said reports of seven additional fatal cases were received, but had not yet been traced to elixir.

AIR ASSAULTS CAUSE ACTION

Measure is Ordered Against Planes Attacking the Defense
Troops or Non-Combatants as Fierce Fighting Rages Men-
acingly Near International Settlement

Shanghai, Oct. 27.—(AP)
—United States marines were authorized today to open fire in self defense on any airplane attacking them or non-combatants in their sector of the international settlement.

Admiral Harry Yarnell, commander of the U. S. Asiatic fleet, authorized the defensive measure as fierce fighting, intensified by the retreat of Chinese troops from Chapel to a new defense line, raged menacing around the international settlement.

Tremendous fire set by the embattled Chinese and Japanese raged through Chapel, native quarter of north Shanghai and even penetrated the settlement at one point. Chinese aircraft raided the Yangtze section, dropping incendiary bombs which started more fires.

The combat brought into play the full power of Japanese war ships in the Whangpoo and Chinese land batteries.

Yarnell's action grew out of repeated attacks by Japanese fliers on Chinese positions along the settlement. These raids reached a climax Sunday when a Japanese flier machine-gunned British troops and a party of British and American horseback riders, killing one British soldier.

The British immediately ordered their troops to act in self defense if such an attack were repeated.

Yarnell's order said: "In case of attacks with bombs or machine guns by airplanes of any nationality on defense forces or non-combatants in the sector defended by the second United States marine brigade, the commander-in-chief has authorized the forces to open fire in self-defense."

King Edward Solomon and his friend, Annie Blow, Negroes, were fined and taxed with the costs in City police court this morning following their conviction of engaging in riotous and disorderly conduct.

Mamie Williams, Negro, was banned over to Superior Court under bond of $300 to face charges of larceny of $67 from Thomas Whittaker.

Mary Lee Williams and Clara Williams, Negroes, were convicted of assault and beating Daisy Whit-cill and were fined and taxed with the costs of court.

Hassel Gibson, the only white man to face the mayor, was convicted of public drunkenness and taxed with the costs of court.

Little Miss Martha Christine Ey-cress, eight-months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Everett of Pactolus, died at the home this morning.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jessie Whit-tley of Greenville Route No. Three, aunt of the little girl. Burial will be in Stokes cemetery.

Besides her parents, the little girl is survived by three sisters, Rose Mae, Novella, and Kathline Everett.

McDowell-Morton.
A wedding of impressive simplicity was solemnized at high noon today at the Memorial Baptist church where Miss Frances Morton became the bride of Dr. William Kitchin McDowell of Scotland Neck, N. C.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. W. Fleischmann, pastor of the bride.

The church was tastefully decorated in palms, ferns and southern Simulacra, interspersed with large standards of yellow chrysanthemums and tiers of cathedral candles.

Just preceding the ceremony, Mrs. G. V. Smith rendered a lovely program of wedding music.

Mrs. J. H. Waldrop dressed in black transparent velvet with accessories to match and wearing a corsage of tulle and roses sang, "Because" by d'Hardelot and "Calm As The Night" by Bohn.

The wedding party led by William Z. Morton, Jr., Thomas Kitchin and Charles Woodward of Greenville, and Sam Arrington, Dunn of Enfield as ushers, entered to the strains of the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin."

Next to follow were Mrs. James Beebe Hawes and Mrs. Lee A. Folger of Greenville, as bridesmaids and Dr. M. C. Maddry of Roanoke Rapids and Dr. W. E. Daniels of Durham as groomsmen.

Mrs. Hugh Holt of Warrenton, N. C., sister of the bride as Dame of Honor and Miss Bruce Kitchin of Scotland Neck as Maid of Honor preceded the bride to the altar.

Mrs. Hawes, Mrs. Folger, Mrs. Holt and Miss Kitchin wore Molyneux models of copper color moire, fashioned with very full skirts, puffed sleeves and V-necklines, wearing polk-bonnets trimmed with ostrich tips to match their dresses and carried arm bouquets of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums.

The bride, gowned in a Vionnet model of dusky aquamarine duchess satin, fashioned on princess lines, puffed sleeves and heart-shaped neck-line, wearing a matching hat with short veil of illusion and carrying an arm bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and valley lilies, entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage.

They were met at the altar by the groom, attended by William Kitchin of Scotland Neck as best man.

The bride's mother was becomingly dressed in burgundy velvet with hat and accessories to match and wore a shoulder corsage of tulle and roses.

Mrs. McDowell is the popular and attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Z. Morton of this city, and the grand-daughter of the late W. Z. Morton and the late R. H. Salisbury. She received her education at Salem College and East Carolina Teachers College.

Dr. McDowell is the son of Mrs. Annie K. McDowell of Scotland Neck and the grandson of the late W. H. Kitchin and the late Dr. W. D. McDowell. He was educated at Wake Forest college and Jefferson Medical College. He is a member of the Kappa Alpha social, Phi Chi medical and Alpha Omega Alpha honorary medical fraternities. He is now engaged in practice in Scotland Neck, N. C.

Dr. and Mrs. McDowell left for New York and other northern cities on their wedding trip and after November 1th will be at home in Scotland Neck.

For travelling the bride wore a suit of mahogany color trimmed in blue fox with hat and accessories to match.

Wedding Breakfast.
Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. W. Z. Morton entertained informally the bridal party, relatives and out-of-town guests at a wedding breakfast at the Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. S. T. White greeted the guest at the front door and introduced those to the receiving line which was composed of Mr.

Robt. Montgomery and Rosalind Russell start on a honeymoon in Live, Love and Learn and Robt. Beuchley trails along. It's frantic, gay fun. Opening Pitt tomorrow.

and Mrs. Morton, the bride and groom and their attendants.

Directing to the breakfast table were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Waldrop. The table, indeed a thing of beauty was covered with an imported cloth of Italian cut work and lace centered with a large silver bowl of tulle and roses and valley lilies and groups of yellow burning tapers in silver candelabras.

Dr. J. Woodward and Mrs. J. B. White seated at each end of the table served a tempting buffet breakfast.

The guests were then directed to the coffee table by Mr. and Mrs. G. V. Smith where Mrs. J. L. Fleming poured coffee and was assisted in serving by Miss Martha Salisbury of Scotland Neck and Miss Elsie Andrews of Williamston. The handsome White home on Seventh street was profusely decorated for the occasion, the white and green bridal motif being emphasized throughout.

The guests were met at the front door and welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Waldrop, who presented them to the receiving line. Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. White were their daughter, Mrs. James Beebe Hawes; Dr. W. E. Daniels of Durham, N. C.; Miss Frances Morton, bride-elect; Dr. William K. McDowell of Scotland Neck, groom-elect; Mr. and Mrs. W. Z. Morton, parents of the bride-elect; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Holt, of Warrenton, the latter the bride-elect's sister.

At the dining room door, the guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Guy V. Smith. The table was covered with a Venetan cloth and centered with a large tiered wedding cake, surmounted by a mitered bride and groom. It was lighted with tall white tapers tied with tulle. Bridal roses made of rose petals, and scattered over the table. Less molded in wedding shapes, nuts and mints were served. During the merriment served. The cutting of the wedding cake was the cause of much merriment.

From the dining room, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Woodward invited the guests into the music room, where coffee was served. Mrs. George Woodward poured coffee and was assisted in serving and receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Lee A. Folger, Miss Ramona Staples, Sam Arrington, Dunn, of Enfield; Miss Cotten Skinner and Thurman Kitchin.

Inter Se Book Club
All old clothes, clothing materials, household furnishings and other nick-nacks will be welcome contributions to the Thrift Shop, which opens Monday of next week above the Dickinson Avenue branch of Guaranty Bank & Trust Company, declared Mrs. Wyatt Brown yesterday at the meeting of the Inter Se Book Club, held at the home of Mrs. B. B. Sugg, where Mrs. Sam Northrop acted as hostess.

Mrs. William Taft gave a very interesting talk on the history and influence of Confucianism in China. Of particular interest to students of the present unstable political and spiritual world are the elements of strength of Confucianism when examined by modern scientific criticism. As elements of strength, Mrs. Taft developed the following features:

1. Its emphasis on morality obligatory on all persons.

2. Its confidence in the fundamental divine goodness of human nature.

3. Its teachings of inescapable social duties.

4. Its teachings of reciprocal social responsibilities.

5. Its teaching of the principle of the Golden Rule.

6. Its emphasis on the value of a family.

7. Its emphasis on the efficacy of the good example of superiors.

As to the weaknesses to the appeal of the teachings of Confucianism to the students of today, Mrs. Taft suggested the following elements:

1. Its lack of a supreme personal deity accessible for all people, instead of the emperor, or pope.

2. Its excessive emphasis on commands, forms, and ceremonies.

3. Its generally inferior position assigned to women.

4. Its inadequate treatment of the moral evils in human nature.

After Mrs. William Taft had concluded her excellent and well-written paper on Confucianism, the hostess, Mrs. Sam Northrop, assisted by Mrs. J. J. Perkins and Miss Alice Lee Hooker, served a most delectable lunch. The meeting was then adjourned.—Reported.

The Literature Department
Mrs. J. H. B. Moore was hostess to the Literature Department of the Woman's Club, which met at her home Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock.

Miss Elizabeth Hyman, chairman, presided. After a short business session, the program was in charge of Mrs. Paul Ricks. She introduced as guest speaker, Dr. Denver Baughan of the English Department of the College, who gave a most interesting review of Virginia Woolf's recent book, "The Years."

Dr. Baughan compared the old style of novel writing with that of Dr. Woolf's and her contemporaries. "The Years" is a novel which became immediately a best seller. It is a story of London in the 80's.

RUBBER CHECK WANDERS, BUT ALWAYS COMES BACK
Ionia, Mich., (AP)—"Rubber Check", an aged but agile turtle, has been hanging around the Veru Judevine farm near Palo for more than 36 years, and the family is prepared to prove it.

Judevine caught the turtle in 1901 and carved his initials and the date on the animal's shell. Eleven years later he again encountered the turtle and repeated the "registration." Recently Judevine's son, Dannon, caught a turtle ambulating across the lawn and Judevine discovered it to be "Rubber Check" with his own inscriptions intact.

The Characters

Nina has married David, trying to escape her intense love for her stepfather.

Richard, the charming, well-tailored stepfather, tried to prevent her marriage.

Honey, Nina's gay, plump, youthful mother, is crazy about Richard, her recently acquired husband.

David, a bright young auto salesman who worships Nina, has eloped with her—at Nina's suggestion.

Chapter 21

Afraid To Go Home

NINA had urged her mother not to hurry home.

Richard would still be away, she pointed out, and she herself was plunging right into house-keeping.

She suggested that Honey carry out her original plans with Horse-face, and then, when she returned, the apartment would be settled and they could have more time together.

The truth of it was, Nina did not want to see her mother just yet. She wasn't ready.

She wanted to convince herself that she could be perfectly happy with David, before being reminded that she had married him out of loyalty to Honey.

Grudgingly, her mother consented.

Button arrived one afternoon in a frenzy of excitement.

To show his appreciation at being reunited with the family, he did his darndest to wreck the place; knocking things over with his incredibly strong tail, leaving wet nose marks on the day-bed cushions, and generally doing his poor best to express his joy.

He even glanced longingly at the synthetic dogwood, blooming so temptingly beyond his reach. "Now, if those were only lower," he told Nina and David with his eyes, "I'd know how to leave my mark on them, too." But they weren't, and he could only look.

"He's going to be a great companion for you, Nina," said David. And Nina answered: "Ye-es" . . . a touch doubtfully.

But she really did love the engaging young fellow.

After a honeymoon that was strung out to 10 days by virtue of two weekends, David went back to his salesroom in the Broadway automobile district, and Nina took up the study of cooking and bed-making in a big way.

She knew how she liked a bed to feel, and food to taste, but she had no idea how to produce results.

Burnt fingers, an aching track, and frequent trips to the incinerator with inedible dishes, seemed to be the only reward of her labors. And at that, she probably didn't make as many stupid mistakes as most inexperienced brides, because she put her very good mind to it . . . and didn't bother with trying to do deliberately amusing things, that would make good telling but bad eating afterward. Her fault lay in that she was too ambitious.

She spent long hours cleaning the nickel gadgets on the stove with silver polish, because she was so strong for an immaculate kitchen, and found that she had barely time to mop the floor, before David came home.

She gave difficult and unnecessary personal-maid attention to the appointments in the bedroom, and then had to rush the essentials, like bed-making, and carpet sweeping. The dishes she threw away were souffles and biscuits . . . not hamburger and potatoes. But she soon learned that there is invariably a bakery around the corner, from every love-nest; and that a smooth coverlet and a whisk of the vacuum cover a multitude of sins.

The Fried Egg Situation

LIER proudest moment was on their third Sunday morning, when she had forgotten the butter for the fried eggs that David had asked for . . . had no lard or grease of any kind, and finally surmounted difficulty by using cold cream.

David said they were excellent, and only turned mean and clutched his stomach afterwards . . . when they were eaten, and she confessed.

That she never set her nose out of doors during the day except to market and take Button for walks . . . did not disturb her. She would work out a system presently, and then there would be time for other things.

That there was no money for other things, she did not realize until the system was worked out . . . and that was not for a very, very long time.

How in the world did housewives with big houses and families manage? When she was rushing from early morn to dewy eve, with only one tolerant man, and three rooms on her hands? Oh, yes, and the "foyer" . . . she mustn't forget that important chamber. This problem of management was a blessing, really, because it kept her busy for weeks.

When Honey and Richard came home on the same day, there was nothing for it, but to face the music.

Nina wouldn't go to the house on 74th St. until the evening, when David could go with her.

She was terribly, terribly, afraid.

He took her in his arms just before they went, and rumbled her a little—a thing Richard never, never would have done, no matter at what fever pitch his ardor—and told Nina not to worry about his slight contrempts with her stepfather.

"I won't insult him, precious," David promised, looking adorably little-boy brushed and washed. "He's probably a very fine fellow . . . only the form in which he chose to express his concern for you, happened to strike me the wrong way, that's all. Maybe when he sees I don't breathe in my soup or balance peas on my knife, he'll think more highly of me."

"David, you're a lamb, and he was beastly, only, you know, sometimes when people are perturbed . . . Why couldn't she just let it go? Why did she have to stand up for him? And the old truth came back to her with astounding force, because she had not allowed herself to think of it. She was standing up for Richard because she was in love with him, that was why; and she didn't any more deserve to be accepting David's devotion and his care and hard-earned money, than . . . than . . . Oh, it was a dreadful muddle.

" . . . you know they say things. David dear, that they're sorry for afterwards."

David's left eyebrow hinted at his doubt of Richard's ever being sorry for anything . . . but he said: "Oh, sure, forget it, sweetheart. I have."

So Nina let it drop.

David kissed her again—causing another return trip to her dressing table for repairs—and they started off, at last.

The Yellow Frock

DAVID had asked her to wear the deceptively ingenu yellow frock he had seen hanging in her crowded closet, and which she had worn on her fatal last evening at home. She had started to tell a fib about it involuntarily . . . that it was torn, soiled, anything to keep from wearing it. But then, she had checked herself. There was to be truth between them in all things possible—even the littlest things; so she took it, and pressed in, and wore it—diverging, I. Richard remembered . . .

But she was shivering for more reason than the wearing of the yellow dress, as they stood on the stoop of her mother's house, and when Richard himself, opened the front door, smiling, welcomed her beautifully prepared . . . David had to push her forward . . . actually. Her feet wouldn't work.

"Well—y-o-u-t-o-r-unaways. Hello! How are you?"

He might have sent them off with his blessings, the way he behaved. Nina was grateful.

(Oh, Richard, you divine, heavenly creature. Don't be too nice! Behave a little badly . . . that I may be—free!)

And Honey . . . If Nina had had to give a one-word description of her mother's attitude, she would have said: "Fluttery."

Honey cried: "My baby!" and waved her little plump hands in the air; and David called him every name but David, apologizing each time; and wept just the least little bit, so that her blue eyes looked like rainy April skies.

It was Richard—who might have been suspected of causing difficulties—who really did the most to carry things off smoothly.

Honey was unreliable, lapsing into long, preoccupied stings at David, and then bursting into excited chatter, interrupting someone else.

Nina was so troubled by her own traitorous heart, that she felt sick and behaved like an absurd puppet.

And David . . . well, David, was really all right. It was the two men—disliking each other as they did—who carried the evening to a certain degree of success.

Honey said: "I can't believe it! Are you nice, young man? Is he sweet to you, Nina? I can't be here!"

And Richard said: "I behaved like a Dutch Uncle, Honey; you should have heard me! How dare you carry off this unwilling maiden . . ." and all the rest of it. He laughed—apparently all heartiness, without rancor.

"Nina wired you were in a frenzy."

Richard laughed again.

"After all, what's the fun of being a stepfather if you can't go on a parental orgy once in a while? Besides . . ." he glanced at Nina, "it didn't make much difference what I said, did it?"

(Copyright, 1937, Margaret Herzog)

Nina realizes, tomorrow, that she wants Richard's love most of all.

He made money. He made enough perhaps to crowd his earnings up into figures where the income tax is as high as 75 per cent. But by holding part of his earnings in his "personal corporation" as a reserve of extra capital, he escaped paying the tax. He paid a tax only on the amount he took from his holding company for his personal use.

But under the new tax schedules, the government comes along and takes 1 to 80 per cent of his holding company earnings. So why should he risk his money in speculation if the government gets most of the profit? Maybe he ought to be glad to pay, but he isn't.

Even with the 1936 tax law, rich men still found some use for personal holding companies. But the 1937 law ended their value entirely.

Now we go to the treasury. Tax officials there are surprised at the coincidence that the market began its sag quickly after the 1937 tax bill was introduced. But they hesitate to say it is merely coincidence. They concede the tax may be one of the causes of the drop, but doubt if it was the "precipitating factor" pictured by the attorney.

And another thing: the tax attorney said big profits made on the

PAYS TRIBUTE TO THREE MEN

F. M. Wooten Speaks at Chapel Hour at Local College

Declaring that three men of a past generation in Pitt county have projected their influence into this generation through their contribution to the founding of East Carolina Teachers College, F. M. Wooten, of Greenville, talked to the College audience at chapel yesterday on "The Great Triumvirate" of Pitt county former Senator J. L. Fleming, Professor W. H. Ragsdale and former Governor T. J. Jarvis.

Mr. Wooten, who was closely associated with these men and knew them well, said that it was his pleasure to make the connection between two generations and call to the attention of the present student body that they are now students at E. C. T. C. because these men made it possible.

Mr. Fleming, he described as preeminently a legislator. It was he who drafted the bill that called for the establishment of a teachers' college in Eastern North Carolina, and piloted it through the General Assembly.

Mr. Wooten described him as "one who dared strike out for the future."

Professor Ragsdale he presented as an educator, the teacher of many men now prominent in Pitt county, and a man "whose life was dedicated to education."

He described Governor Jarvis as a statesman more than a politician, and spoke of the many public offices he had held. He was greatly influenced, the speaker thought, by his natural surroundings and by his father, a Methodist preacher.

The work of these men for the establishment of the College was based on conviction of the need, and they were propelled by courage.

The speaker closed with the question whether their influence will die with this generation, or through the present student body be projected into the future to generations yet to come.

Mr. Wooten was introduced by Miss Sallie Joyner Davis, of the College Chapel Committee, who also knew these three men in the early days of the College.

Mr. Wooten, who was closely associated with these men and knew them well, said that it was his pleasure to make the connection between two generations and call to the attention of the present student body that they are now students at E. C. T. C. because these men made it possible.

Washington.—Follow me for a few minutes and I will take you to a spot or two in Washington where some sidelights will be thrown upon the perplexing market situation.

First we go to a tax attorney. He represents some wealthy clients who oppose both the 1936 law taxing corporate surpluses and the 1937 tax law which destroyed the usefulness of personal holding companies as means of escape from income taxes.

This attorney is on record with a prediction that the 1937 tax law enacted last August would precipitate an extensive market decline. He predicted that if personal holding companies were made useless as means of escape from higher taxes, rich men would begin liquidating those corporations as fast as they could. There are 5,500 of them. The attorney estimated they held upwards of a billion dollars worth of securities.

He argued that the market was weakened considerably by other factors, including business recession, and that the 1937 tax law, by inaugurating this liquidation of personal holding companies, precipitated the decline.

The Attorney's Story.

Now why should the rich man liquidate his personal holding company? For just this reason, the tax attorney explains:

Before the 1936 corporate surplus tax law, a rich man operated thru his holding company to buy and sell actively in the market. Say

On a visit to this city yesterday Congressman Harold D. Cooley, of Nashville, was non-committal when asked if he would be a gubernator-

are of the opinion that should he toss his hat into

number of people in this

Reports from the State ABC board reveals that legal liquor sales in this State in September totaled nearly $600,000. In addition to the legal sales there is no way to estimate how much liquor was sold via the bootleg route nor is it known how much the bootleggers were selling during the prohibition era, so it is impossible to state whether or not the consumption of liquor in this state is on the increase.
One thing is evident, however, and that is, that based on the legal sales only, far too much liquor is being sold and used in North Carolina.

With the coming of cold weather the fire losses here are going to increase unless our people are wise enough to take some precautions before starting their winter fires. Regardless of the kind of heating equipment you use, be sure that you check it thoroughly before starting your fires. A cracked chimney, a rusty stove pipe or fire board or other faulty heating equipment might result in a disastrous fire.
Play safe by making sure about your equipment before the winter weather arrives.

Whether or not the coming special session of Congress will accomplish anything in the way of crop control legislation cannot be foretold but one thing is certain. The present high price of tobacco is going to be a temptation to growers to produce an even larger crop next year but they may rest assured that a large tobacco crop next year is going to mean financial disaster for them. The farmers who give most attention to the production of their home supplies next year and in the years to come are going to be the ones least hurt by the inevitable decline in prices if another big tobacco crop is produced.

FORGETFUL BLIND MAN WALKS 3-STORY LEDGE

Washington Courthouse, O. (AP)— —Courtroom employes here watched breathlessly a man they knew to be blind clamber out onto the third-story ledge of a building across the street, inch his way to a distant window, and let himself inside.

To amazed questioners, the cumber, James Knisley, sightless violinist, said he had forgotten the key to his room, so he had to go out a hall window and around the ledge to gain entrance. He done it often at night, he said.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Oct. 26—Those versed in affairs political are pondering the portent of the unusual activity among groups which are known to have strong "Machine" leanings.

What connection, if any, is there between possible entry of a conservative candidate into the Senate sweepstakes and the meetings of Young Democrats held by Arch Allen whose election was largely attributed to administration backing and of women's groups, led by Mrs. W. B. Murphy (whose job as vice chairman of the state executive committee was a gift from the same administration)?

Are these meetings purely accidental and incidental, or are they studied efforts to line up support for an Anti-Reynolds conservative?
The fact that Senator Josiah W.
Bailey, right or wrongly called the state's most virulent Anti-New Dealer, has appeared or will appear as a speaker at practically every one of these meetings may or may not be the tip-off.

The state's nurserymen have won their fight against payment of sales tax on plants and other products grown by them. Attorney General Seawell's office has given Commissioner of Revenue A. J.
Maxwell the opinion that the sales tax is not applicable in such cases.

It's common knowledge that so-called "drug" stores handle everything nowadays; but a big display of ladies silk hose, at 59 cents a pair, in the window of one of Raileigh's big chain drugstores, called it even more forcibly to this cor-respondent's attention.

An unusual feature of next week's Supreme court calendar is that there will not be a single criminal appeal before the justices.
Cases from the Seventh Judicial district (Wake and Franklin) will be called. There is one Wake man on death row, Chester Fowler convicted of repeated criminal assault on his step-daughter over a period of three years, but his case is too recent for the appeal to be heard at this term.

Governor Clyde R. Hoey is considering the case of Albert Puckett, 25-year old white man doomed to die by gas at Central prison Friday morning.

Puckett was convicted in Richmond county for the holdup murder of Roy Rhyne, filling station operator, in July, 1936.

given the state by the Census Bureau in Washington.

Work of restoring marred pages of the censuses will require approximately five years, Dr. Crittenden

SCHOOL STREAMLINES READING COURSES

Laramie, Wyo., Oct. 25—(AP)— Comic strips now are offered Laramie school children to whet their appetites for knowledge.

Mickey Mouse, says A. A. Slade, superintendent of public schools, is America's No. 1 public hero.

"The children know him as a movie star, a comic strip hero, and so they have a warm interest in him," Slade says.

"Children learn to read more quickly if they read about familiar things.

"So Mickey Mouse, Minnie Mouse, Donald Duck, Benjamin Bull and a host of lesser stars of the comic strips will be brought to the classrooms as supplementary reading material."

EAST VS SOUTH CLASH AT HILL

FULL OF FIGHT

Classiest Backs of Two Sections Meet Saturday

Chapel Hill, Oct. 27.—Some of the classiest backs in the East and South will match speed, power and deception here Saturday afternoon when the undefeated Fordham and North Carolina football teams clash in one of the nation's leading inter-sectional attractions. The tilt is generally regarded as the Tar Heel's stiffest test to date. It will be the first time the Rams have ever come south.

In four contests this season the celebrated Rams have garnered top-sided victories over Franklin and Marshall (66-0), and Waynesburg (48-0); have edged out a 7-6 win in an inter-sectional struggle with TCU, and have a scoreless tie (the third in as many years) with Pittsburgh's Rose Bowl champions.

After being held to a 13-13 stalemate with South Carolina in the opening game, the Tar Heels have scored impressive victories over N. C. State (26-0), NYU (19-6), Wake Forest (28-0), and Tulane (13-0).

The major part of Fordham's offensive credit goes to Angelo Fortunato and George McKnight, quarterbacks; Joe Wolkoski, Joe Granski and Steve Kazlo, halfbacks; Dominic Principe and Mike Hearn, fullbacks.

The key men in the Tar Heel running and passing attack are Crowell Little and George Sturmwiss, quarterbacks; Tom Burnette, George Watson and George Radman, halfbacks; Art Ditt and Jack Kraynick, fullbacks.

Principe and Little are the leading scorers for their respective teams. The Fordham soph has 36 points in four games, six more than Senior Little in five games.

Wolkoski and Burnette are the principal punting luminaries. Wolkoski's average is approximately 45 yards, five more than Burnette's.

Little and Burnette are the Tar Heel's best passers. Chief among the Fordham aerial craftsmen are Granski, McKnight and Wolkoski.

McKnight, Fortunato, Radman, and Watson shine in the roles of blocking and broken field running. They are all exceptionally good on defense. Ditt, Kraynick, Hearn and Principe all pack tremendous line-backing power and are strong on defense.

Can Japan be stopped? Maybe—with 3 big ifs.

(Continued from page one) Chinese campaign of guerrilla warfare designed to make Japanese occupation untenable and to force Japan to economic exhaustion and social unrest at home.

When it is recalled that General Pai Chung-hsi, a noted advocate and experienced leader in this type of fighting is in charge of the north China fighting, and that the former Red armies, which for 10 years successfully practiced guerrilla tactics against the overwhelming forces of the central government, are playing a prominent part in the northern fighting, considerable weight is given to the opinion.

It is probable, then, that the fighting will be of long duration on both fronts. On the Nanking-Shanghai sector the Chinese will continue positional warfare regardless of loss of life. The purpose will be to engage enormous and costly invading force by resisting every inch of the way. In the north, probably, guerrilla tactics will soon commence in earnest with the object of demoralizing the enemy and giving time a chance to undermine Japan's home base.

Persuasive Methods Likely With regard to what sort of policy is likely to be adopted by the United States and other foreign powers, the only thing that can be pointed out with safety is a trend. This trend in the direction of concerted action to "quarantine" Japan has been unmistakable since the President's speech.

Will it lead to action that can

THIRD SENATE CANDIDATE MAY ENTER RACE AS YET

(Continued from page one) into the ring. He has been in Raleigh several times within recent weeks, but has not let out anything resembling a broad hint that he will run.

Some of his friends, however, continue to talk up his chances and the Speaker has not in so many words said he will run. As a result he still remains a possibility.

Reverting for the moment to Cam Morrison's statement of Monday, announcement that he will not run came as a great relief to many who felt they would be obliged to back him if he should finally take the plunge. These folks felt that he hadn't even the proverbial Chinaman's chance, but also felt they would be guilty of ingratitude, or worse, if they did not stand by him.

The withdrawal did come as quite a surprise to a number of political big wigs who talked with Mr. Morrison not long ago and Sunday. The Charlotte man stopped here for lunch on his way home from the west and in conversation with numerous persons left the very definite impression that he would declare himself a candidate just as soon as he reached his native heath.

These people noted that the withdrawal was for "purely personal" reasons and wondered what had happened in the brief span of one day between their conversations and the Morrison abdication. It was suggested that perhaps Mrs. Morrison who is known to control the family purse, declined to "put" for a campaign which would be costly, successful or not.

But whatever the reasons for it, Mr. Morrison is now definitely out of the picture. There remains, however, at least an even chance that someone of his political line of thought will enter the senate race to make it a three-way conflict.

Between November 1933 and December 1936 nearly $316,000,000 in federal government funds was spent for the construction and improvement of recreation areas in the various states.

Boxing gave Petey Sarron his first taste of travel. It seem natural that he should have traveled halfway around the world to fight.

In 1924 he journeyed to Boston to compete in the national amateur championship. He'd won the southern and southeastern fly and bantamweight titles. At Boston, he reached the finals only to be edged out by Fidel LaBarba. But he was taken to the Paris Olympic Games as an alternate.

On his return from the Olympics Sarron decided to turn professional. Shortly thereafter he left his home town (Birmingham, Ala.) to do some sedulous globe trotting.

His fractured jaw kept him in Miami a few weeks. Then he moved on to Chicago, had several fights, and accepted a bid to travel to Australia. He was scheduled for three bouts in Sydney, but fans liked him so well he remained two years. While he was at it he took in New Zealand.

Running out of opposition he returned to the U. S., establishing himself in Miami. He moved to Washington last spring. There he won his claim to the featherweight title from Freddie Miller, a globe-trotter of parts himself. Since then Sarron has had numerous fights in California, Texas and other parts of the U. S. Early this year he traveled to South Africa and knocked out Laurie Stevens in 12 rounds. He came back, journeyed to England, returned to South Africa and then came home again.

Sarron was the son of Syrian parents. His father was a house-to-house salesman of imported Syrian merchandise. At 6, Petey was forced to sell papers to help support the family. When his father became too ill to work Petey became its sole support.

TRIP TO NORTH FIRST FOR NCS

Wolfpack to Play Boston College There Saturday

Raleigh, Oct. 27.—State College's Wolfpack takes its first Northern trip of the season Thursday night, going to Boston for an inter-sectional tilt with Boston College Saturday.

The Pack is leaving Thursday night in order to get a Friday afternoon workout in Boston. They will reach the Massachusetts city around 3 o'clock Friday afternoon.

The Wolves and the Eagles will seek to avenge a 7-3 loss to the Eagles last year. State's only points came in that game as Charlie Gadd droppedkick a field goal.

Hopes for revenge were greatly increased Monday when Fred Gardner, first string fullback, and J. B. Thompson, reserve tackle and Joe Schwert, quarterback, returned for active work. Coach Doc Newton said he thought they would be ready for Boston Gardner and Thompson have been inactive since the North Carolina game. Schwert missed the Wake Forest battle.

Boasting a heavy, powerful line and a fast backfield, the Bostonians have one of the most powerful teams in the East. The line will average 195-pounds and the backfield, 185. State hasn't met a heavier team this fall.

State's chance for victory rest largely on the shoulders of Eddie Berlinski and Art Rooney, sensational backfield "twins," and Louie Mark center. Big Jess Tatum, end, and George Fry, tackle. These five men have played brilliantly though out the season and are considered "tops" in their positions.

Berlinski and Rooney are two of the best backs ever developed at State and are known far and wide for their passing, running and kicking. Berlinski is leading N. C. State's scoring with four touchdowns. Rooney has scored two touchdowns and one extra point.

The trip to Boston is one of two State will make to the East this fall. On November 13 it plays Manhattan in New York.

The noise appears, he concluded, whenever the sand is pushed "in a heaped-up manner." Sticking fingers in the sand and moving them up and down make the roar. Upward motion produced a higher pitch than downward.

Inspection showed that the sand grains were more rounded and of more uniform size than in the surrounding desert. A sackful, taken back to Pretoria, would roar whenever the bag was tilted. But if the bag was left open a few weeks, the roar disappeared. It could be restored for a short time by heating the sand in an oven.

NO OTHER CAR IN THE WORLD HAS ALL THESE FEATURES

One ride will show you why TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING, and the new DYNAFLASH ENGINE, make the 1938 Buick the most modern chassis in the world

IT'S when you hit the rough going, the rutted road, the railway crossings, the cobbled paving, the "wash-board" gravel, that this wondrous new 1938 Buick shows you what science can do with a ride!
Under you now is something fresh and tireless and new in automotive design, not the old-type leaf spring of yore, but the great soft coils of shock-smothering TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING.
As the beautifully poised car streams onward under the spur of the amazing DYNAFLASH engine, the wheels may dip and curtsy but the body rides true and level as a flung lance.
You sit in the cushions, relaxed and rested. You're safer—skid risks are blessedly reduced. You save money—rear tires last measurably longer. And the whole eager car handles with a sureness, a "directability" never before attained.
Please don't stop with admiring the new Buick. Know what DYNAFLASH power and the lullaby ride of TORQUE-FREE SPRINGING mean, by sampling them first-hand on the highway.

Take this tip from BILL...!
"Last week the market hit me hard. I didn't want to sit and mope at home, so I went fishing and tried to forget my troubles. But I didn't catch a thing and felt bluer than ever."
"Today, still worrying, I dropped into the Pitt Theatre, and saw "Live, Love and Learn," and I want to tell you that the picture did what nothing else could do—it made me forget the market, fishing and everything else that was on my mind."
"What a picture! It is one of the finest entertainments I've ever seen in my life!"
