Russian Ambassadors To Germany, Poland, Turkey Ordered To Return Home

TWO DECLARED UNDER ARREST

Rumor That Envoy to Berlin and Ambassador to Turkey Arrested Links Names With Government's Purge of Suspected Enemies Within The Ranks of Soviet

Moscow, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Soviet Russia's ambassadors to Germany, Turkey and Poland were reported by diplomatic sources today to have been recalled and there were unconfirmed rumors that two of them had been arrested.

The same sources also said Uggel Sommer, German Consul General at Leningrad had been recalled by the Berlin government at Moscow's request.

The rumors that Dr. Constantine Yourenoff, the envoy to Berlin, and Mikhail Karski, ambassador to Turkey, had been arrested, linked their names with the government's purge of suspected enemies within Soviet ranks. The ambassador to Poland is Kakov Davtan.

In connection with Sommer's reported return to Berlin, it recalled that more than 400 Germans had been arrested in Russia in recent months in a drive against suspected spies.

The purge meanwhile seemed to be continuing unabated.

Berlin, Nov. 12.—(AP)—Both the Soviet embassy and the German foreign office said today they could neither affirm nor deny Moscow rumors. Dr. Constantine Yourenoff, Russian ambassador to Berlin, had been arrested in Russia.

Correspondence of Russian newspapers insisted, however, that the doctor would return to his Berlin post early in December. (Aside from the rumors of arrests, diplomatic sources in Moscow said the envoy had been recalled.)

Warsaw, Nov. 12.—(AP)—The Soviet embassy disclosed today that Yakov Davtan had been recalled as ambassador to Poland, a post he had held since April, 1934.

Retracing their steps of last week, special law enforcement agents employed to clean up illicit liquor and vice in the county, today raided Teel's place on the old river road and arrested a Negro for aiding and abetting in prostitution and a white man for selling beer without a license.

Medeus Teel, against whom a warrant charging him with maintaining a place for immoral purposes already has been served, was charged in another warrant today with selling beer without a license.

Ben Roberts, Negro, was arrested at the "road house" and charged with aiding and abetting in prostitution.

The special officers also served a warrant charging Alex Gray Negro, with aiding and abetting in prostitution. Gray was arrested at Pinkie's place on the Washington highway.

One Person Killed In Auto Collision

Albemarle, Nov. 12.—(AP)—One man was killed and another injured today in a collision of a truck and automobile near Locust Level, 10 miles from Furr on the Charlotte highway.

Sheriff R. L. Furr of Stanly county, said the dead man was a farmer of this community named Coley. He said Coley was riding in an automobile with Howard Morgan, of near Concord.

Morgan was brought to a hospital here, where his injuries were described as slight.

The sheriff said the car started skidding as it met truck. Coley was thrown from the car and died instantly.

Furr said the truck driver was Eddie Chappell of Lenoir. He was not hurt.

CHINESE ARMY FALLS BACK TO NANKING LINES

Forced To Retreat From Trenches In Shanghai Area

CHURCH MISSION BOMBED BY JAPS

Believe Japanese Will Not Interfere With Functions of International Group

Shanghai, Nov. 12.—(AP)—China's Shanghai armies, about 400,000 strong, fell back today toward the Chinese "Hindenburg Line" more than 50 miles to the west.

Japanese troops numbering 200,000, forced Chinese from towns and trenches in the Shanghai area. The Chinese fought only rear guard actions as they withdrew toward the Chain of trenches and pill boxes stretching from Changshu south, and protecting Nanking.

Nippon's war planes ranged into the interior as the troops advanced. One flight bombed the American Church Mission hospital 80 miles northwest of Shanghai, killing two Chinese staff members. Five Americans escaped injury.

(The Japanese Government at Tokyo today refused a second invitation to participate in proceedings of the Brussels conference on the Far Eastern war.)

With the fall of Shanghai to Japanese, officials of the Shanghai municipal council began a widespread clean-up of anti-Jap societies operating in the International Settlement.

Stirling Fessenden, American Secretary General of the council, said he did not believe Japanese would interfere with the International groups functions and added there was little friction between the council and the Japanese.

President To Talk With Private Utility Heads

TEACHER MEET IS SCHEDULED

May Attempt Bring About Lower Property Valuations

District Sessions to be Held Next Friday, Saturday

Tenant Families May Get Loans To Purchase Homes

Washington, Nov. 12.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today he would talk with private power utility executives next week, presumably about his effort to get them to lower property valuations with a view to bringing down electric rates.

He told a press conference he did not know whether they would take up the need for construction in the utility field. A lag in such construction has been mentioned in recent presidential conferences on methods to invite private capital to go into the housing and heavy building field.

In the housing study the President said two prime factors were being given attention—to get capital to go into the field and to gain the double objective of low interest and low building costs.

The lower these costs, the President said, the better it will be for the buyer and renter of homes.

The President meanwhile said his message to Congress would be sent to the capitol on Monday, opening day of the special session.

Charles Hosford, Jr., said after a conference at the White House, he would withdraw his resignation and remain indefinitely as chairman of the Federal Coal Commission.

The fifteenth annual convention of the Northeastern district of the North Carolina Teachers Association will be held in Greenville Friday and Saturday of next week.

The complete program for the two-day session was announced today by J. H. Rose, superintendent of the Greenville schools and president of the district organization. Other officers of the association are Jean P. Booth of Kinston, vice-president, and Mrs. Ernest Ward of Bethel, secretary.

With a theme of "Good Teaching," the program will be featured by addresses by prominent educators in the state.

Several departmental dinner meetings will be held Friday night. Principals and superintendent will meet in dining hall number one at the college, with Dr. Elbert K. Fretwell, professor of education at Teachers College, Columbia University, as speaker. Classroom teachers (Continued on Page Three)

Tenant Families May Get Loans To Purchase Homes

Raleigh, Nov. 12.—Between 125 and 150 tenant families in North Carolina will this year be selected for loans with which to buy their homes, if there is no hitch in present plans of the Farm Security Administration of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

According to George S. Mitchell regional director of the FSA with headquarters here setup of machinery for choosing what North Carolinians will be selected has been started with appointment of a nine-member FSA Advisory Committee for this state.

County committees will be named by the advisory board after which application may be filed by tenants with these county groups.

The first step, however, will be selected by the advisory group of those counties in which loans will be made, as the federal funds appropriated for the plan are insufficient to enable making of loans in all counties.

Only $10,000,000 was appropriated for the first year of the tenant farm purchase plan, though this sum will rise to $25,000,000 for the second year and to $50,000,000 for the third.

Bases on farm population and percentage of tenancy, North Carolina's share of first year funds will amount to $527,586.

This is enough to make loans to from 125 to 150 families in the state, Mitchell said, adding that not more than ten nor fewer than five purchase loans will be made in any county selected this year.

Applications for the loans will be filed with County Supervisors but county offices will not be ready to accept formal applications until county committees have been appointed.

The state advisory committee announced by Mitchell is composed of Dr. Clarence Poe, Raleigh; Dean I. O. Schaub, State College; T. E. Browne, Raleigh; C. W. Allen, Greensboro; L. O. Ludecke, Castle Hayne; Jonathan Daniels, Raleigh; W. M. Bacon, Rougemont; J. Paul Davenport, Greenville; and J. G. K. McClure, Asheville.

There's food a-plenty in the home of the Troeller family in New York at last—but it came too late for William Troeller (left), 13, to enjoy it. A white man and a Negro, arrested here today by local officers, were turned over to officers from Kinston this afternoon to be returned to Lenoir county to face charges of larceny of tobacco.

Chief of Police George Clark declared the two, George Grant, white, and John Bruton, colored, allegedly stole approximately 300 pounds of tobacco from a farmer, Sidney Moore, living about three miles from Kinston last night.

The two are alleged to have brought the tobacco here and sold it on a local warehouse floor for $55.90. Chief Clark said the money was found on the two and will be given to the owner of the tobacco.

Unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor are directing the protests which A. F. of L. leaders said was precipitated by the unwillingness of company officials here and at Washington to answer promptly a request for an agreement as to wages and working conditions.

Paris, Nov. 12.—(AP)—The bank of France today lowered the discount rate from three and one-half to three per cent.

The change followed reports that gold is returning in large quantities to the bank's vaults. Advances on securities were brought down from four and one-half to four per cent and on 30-day advances from three and one-half to three.

It was the first time since January the bank's discount rate had been lowered to such a point.

The action followed the "easy money" policy of Premier Chamberlain's government and came at a time when call money was offered at a rate under two per cent—it had been as high as 14 and 15 per cent.

William K. Tripp of Greenville, Route three, is facing a charge of parking on the highway as a result of a wreck about 7:30 o'clock last night one mile from Winterville on the Greenville highway.

Patrolman C. R. Williams, who investigated the wreck, declared that Jesse Harris, truck driver for Quinn Miller, crashed into the parked vehicle, but no one was injured.

Records of the Division of Public Assistance show that a total of 2,079 families received assistance from the fund for Aid of Dependent Children during the month of September. In these 2,079 families there are approximately 6,501 children.

The federal funds have relieved the orphanage of the responsibility of many children on their long waiting lists by providing grants for their care in their own homes or in the homes of close kin where these homes are "safe and proper."

But there remain, officials point out, not only the children in the present population of the orphanages, but several thousand children scattered about over the state who need the help and security which private agencies can give because the relatives of these children, if they have any, are not suitable guardians.

BRUSSELS BID AGAIN REFUSED

Authoritative Statements Point Out U. S. Ambassador to Japan Could Approach Foreign Office from Standpoint of Heavy American Interests Involved

Brussels, Nov. 12.—(AP)—An authoritative Japanese source declared today the United States, acting for itself, still had "a ticket of entry" to discuss Far Eastern peace with Japan despite Tokyo's refusal of the Brussels' conference mediation appeal.

This source said the United States ambassador to Japan, Joseph Grew, could always approach the Japanese foreign office to discuss the Chinese-Japanese conflict from the standpoint of heavy American interests involved.

The statement bore out in a general way the attitude Japan disclosed before opening of the conference here, called under the nine power pact guaranteeing China's territorial integrity.

The Japanese view was activities of Ambassador Grew and Ambassador Nelson Johnson at Nanking, starting from the standpoint of American interests and entirely divorced from the Brussels Conference or the League of Nations, might develop ways and means toward peace.

Based on their replies on press summaries of Japan's reply rejecting a second invitation to the Brussels conference, the various delegations said they saw no justification for addressing a new conference appeal to Japan.

They interpreted these summaries generally to mean Japan wanted the conference to recommend direct negotiations between China and Japan, a plan which Premier Muss' Italian representative here has urged.

If the text of the Japanese reply which has not yet been officially received here, clearly excludes all possibility of conciliation within the framework of the ninepower treaty, conference leaders said they planned to draw up an historical statement of the situation and probably an agenda for the second stage of the conference.

Firms Supporting Membership Drive

With the date for the Red Cross Roll Call drawing near, a number of firms already have sent in membership fees for each person in their employment.

Firms which are members of the "100 per cent strong" group up to date are as follows:

On Wednesday night the Seashore Club was entertained by Mrs. A. D. Frank at her home on Eighth street.

Fall flowers were used as decorations in the house. Bridge was played at three tables during the evening. When the scores were added, R. C. Deal was awarded the high score prize for men, Mrs. D. M. Clark won high score prize for the women, and R. S. Neal won the team prize.

Guests of the club for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Picklen Arthur and Mrs. D. M. Clark. A salad course was served club members and their guests.

Operetta Tonight.
Tonight at eight o'clock in the high school auditorium, "The Gypsy Rover," annual glee club operetta, will be presented. Miss Ona Shindler is in charge of this musical production and is assisted by Misses Eva Hodges and Deannie Boone Jackson.

Colorful and tuneful "The Gypsy Rover" gives promise of being the most acceptable operetta given in years. The rollicking music and clever story of the comedy guarantee one a pleasant evening.

The first performance of "The Gypsy Rover" given Wednesday evening was greeted enthusiastically. Especially delightful were the singing and dancing choruses whose easy apparel lent genuine atmosphere to the bygone story.

Featured in the leads tonight are Jean Aboynous and Norman Wilkinson. Other major parts will be played by Robert Musselwhite, Helen Bunch, Jack Moye, and Ella Frances Evans. The scenery, costumes and lighting effects are in the hands of student directors.

The curtain will rise on "The Gypsy Rover" at eight o'clock and by nine-thirty the house will be empty. Proceeds from this presentation will be used in defraying the expenses to the Greensboro music festival in the spring.

Mrs. Barnhill Entertains.
Stokes, Nov. 12.—Mrs. J. K. Barnhill entertained a number of friends and relatives at dinner at her home near Stokes on Sunday, November 7, in honor of her husband on his birthday.

Tables were artistically arranged in the sun parlor and dining room where dinner was served buffet style. The only decoration, other than cut flowers, was a birthday cake on the table at which Mr. Barnhill sat.

As the guest of honor entered the dining room, accompanied by Mrs. Barnhill, the guests gathered around and sang "Happy Birthday." He was then directed to his place where he found in his chair many useful gifts.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Barnhill of Whaleyville, Va., Misses Mary Ida and Leckie McLawhorn of Winterville, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Barnhill and family of Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hollywood Sights And Sounds

Hollywood—Christmas is coming, and so are the nifty little schemes of the petty racketeers who prey on the movie colony, especially when Hollywood's eyes are bled by the artificial snow that annually clouds Santa Claus lane.

There is the usual number of phony perfume salesmen—offering colored water in fancy bottles—at a bargain; the usual furivie deals in shining white fox furs that turn into rabbit skin the first heavy rain.

Many Threats By Mail.
This film community has become accustomed to all sorts of badger games, and petty rackets; it knows about burglary—the Gary Coopers and Hal Roach, of the jewelry store, can give fresh first-hand information; Mae West is the colony's leading authority on the holdup (treating end); but the major fear in these parts, in the crime line, remains the kidnaper.

More than 20 screen celebrities have received threatening letters or phone calls in the past year. In every case police guards have been assigned, and usually when extortion was attempted through the mails—the federal men have stepped in.

These precautions may explain why there have been no actual kidnappings. In fact, as police statisticians point out in their 1936-37 report, there have been no kidnappings for ransom in the entire Los Angeles community in the period.

The Small-Town Girl Myth.
These city statistics, assembled by Mrs. Rhoda Cross, official statistician, would seem to blow down another Hollywood legend—that Hollywood is the mecca of missing small-town girls. The statistics have no department devoted to those lured here by movie glamour, unless they would come under "adventure seekers." In this category among 644 juvenile girls, were listed only 14. Among older women rounded up here the big cause for landing in Los Angeles or Hollywood, is "mental unbalance"—which might or might not have some connection with the movies.

"It's just a myth," Mrs. Cross says, "about girls being lured here by the movies. There has been too much publicity about the futility of coming to Hollywood and trying to break in."

Twenty-Three District Meetings To Be Held Throughout State For Benefit of County Agents

Raleigh, Nov. 7.—Technical details of the 1938 agricultural conservation program are being presented to county agents and farmer-committeemen in a series of 23 district meetings over the state, November 10-19.

After studying the program intensively, the agents and committeemen will hold community meetings in their respective counties to explain the program to the farmers, said E. Y. Floyd, state AAA executive officer at State College.

The district "training school" meetings are being conducted by authorities from the state AAA office.

County agents will announce locally the dates of the community meetings in each county, Floyd continued.

He pointed out that the meetings are being held this fall to give growers plenty of time to consider provisions of the program before they plan next year's crops.

An effort will be made to establish at an early date the goals that are to be set for individual farmers who wish to participate in the program.

The sooner the goals are announced, Floyd said, the sooner will farmers have a definite guide in planning their farming operations for 1938.

Under the program, the farmers will be offered payment for not exceeding their goals in soil-depleting crops, and for attaining their goals in soil-conserving practices.

Washington Fair.
Our neighbor town, Washington, has just held its second annual fair. The exhibits were not large but many of them were excellent. One department was devoted to Confederate relics and contained bills and postage stamps of various Beaufort county during the last century.

The Art and Fancy Work Departments each had very creditable exhibits. Only a few farm products were exhibited but they were very fine.

By far the most attractive exhibit at the fair was made by the Riverside Nurseries of Greenville. This display filled a large part of a building and contained hundreds of specimens of flowers, fruits, shrubs, etc. It reflected great credit upon Riverside Nurseries and Pitt County.

There were plenty of good horse racing and numerous side shows.

The objectionable and worst feature of the fair, and we are sorry to say most fairs are afflicted that way, was the presence of the fakirs. These slick-fingered and oily-tongued gentry were there in great numbers, almost an army of them, and at every turn they piled their gambling schemes. Such fakirs should not be allowed in the fair grounds, and the managers of the Washington Fair should hereafter exclude them if they want their enterprise to meet with public favor.

EVANS STREET STATION OPENS

Operated in Conjunction With Ford Agency Garage

The Flanagan Service station, one of the most modern plants in this section of the state, officially opened at the corner of Evans and Ninth streets here yesterday.

Hugh Hughes, who has operated a station at the site for three years, will have charge of the remodeled plant. He will be assisted by Charles Flanagan and David Dixon, a full-time mechanic.

A full-time mechanic for a filling station is a new venture in this section and it is expected to prove unusually popular with the motoring public in this area.

The beauty of the station will be emphasized at night with a modern lighting system. Mercury vapor lamps will cast a blue light over the station.

The new filling station will be operated in conjunction with the Flanagan Buggy Company, local Ford dealers. Pure Oil products will be handled.

TEACHERS MEET IS SCHEDULED

(Continued from page one) Teachers will meet in dining hall number two of the college with Mr. Rose as speaker. Vocational teachers will gather in the Rotary Club building. Another feature of the Friday program will be an informal reception honoring visiting teachers immediately following the second general session Friday evening.

The first general session is scheduled for Friday afternoon at three o'clock in the Austin building auditorium of the college. Appointment of committees on nominations and resolutions will be among the principal business of the session, which will be addressed by Dr. W. C. Jackson of Greensboro, president of the North Carolina Educational Association.

The second general session, to be held Friday night in the Robert H. Wright building at the college, will be featured by greetings by Dr. Clyde A. Erwin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction and an address by Dr. Fretwell. The reception and dance will follow this session.

The third and final session will be held Saturday morning in the Austin building. Reports of committees, including that on nominations and elections, will be the principal business of the meeting. Officers for the coming year will be elected, after which Hon. Hal Timney of the Columbia Broadcasting System will deliver the final address of the meeting.

The Northeastern district is composed of 22 counties and it is estimated that approximately 2,000 teachers will be here for the meeting. Counties in the district are Beaufort, Bertie, Camden, Carteret, Chowan, Craven, Currituck, Dare, Edgecombe, Gates, Greene, Hertford, Hyde, Lenoir, Martin, Pamlico, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Pitt, Tyrrell, Washington, and Wilson.

New York — Scientists are taking explosions apart to see what they are made of. They hope to make the world safer from explosions.

It appears that an explosion is not just one big bang, but a complicated process. One that killed three firemen in Pearse St., Dublin, Ireland, has just been analyzed by Kenneth C. Bailey, of Trinity college.

He discovered one new "part," which he reports in the British journal "Nature." He found that coal gas, one of the very explosive gases, can be extinguished without itself being ignited.

He set a cylinder of coal gas three feet from a six-inch flame. With

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

ACCUSED OF SHOOTING ALDERMAN

Mrs. R. C. Kelly, 66, mother of Gov. D. Rivers, of Georgia, is shown in her home at Mineral Springs, Ark., after she was charged with assault with intent to kill in connection with the shooting of J. R. Page, 68, an alderman of the nearby town of Nashville.

session starts on Monday. by the lands of Madison Adams and Bill Adams, and on the west by the Drainage Co., it being the same land bought of Shade Jackson and Joseph Greene and wife, Chloe Ann Greene, and more particularly described as follows: In deed from S. S. Jackson and wife to Joseph Greene and wife, Chloe Ann Greene, in Book W-7, page 129; in deed from Bettie Jones to S. S. Jackson in Book P-7, page 498, and the descriptions in said deeds are hereby made the descriptions in this deed and made a part thereof, said tract containing 124 acres, more or less.

It proved what had killed the firemen. In the Pearse St. fire a cylinder of coal gas had burst. But instead of burning, without damage, the gas from the cylinder blew a hole right through the flames around without itself igniting.

Through this hole it rushed into another room, expanded there into a terrifically explosive mixture, and a spark detonated it.

We have said many times
but it will bear repeating again. If you are going to drive to Durham for the football game tomorrow, leave home just a little earlier and drive a little slower and when the game is over, instead of rushing to be the first to leave, take your time and when you finally get away from Durham, don't drive home at breakneck speed. With 40,000 or more persons expected to attend
the game tomorrow traffic is bound to be congested and unless the motorists exercise extreme caution there will be many serious accidents.

'SERVICE TO THE PARTY'

Carl Goerch, in the current issue of the State Magazine, certainly hits the rotten spot of our political spoils system in government.
Carl is certainly right when he declares that character
and ability rather than "party-service" should be the qualifications required for holding public office.

The editorial in the State
says:

Not long ago we were talking to one of our State officials and something was said about a certain individual who recently had been given a political job.

"How did he happen to get accounted to that position?" we inquired.

"Oh, we just had to give him some kind of a job," said the official.
"You see, he's been a loyal worker and has rendered fine service to the party for a number of years."

"And is that the reason why he was given the job?" we inquired.

"Of course," was the answer.
"It so happens that we have known the man in question for a number of years. He has been unable to hold a position for more than two or three months at a stretch. He either gets tired and quits, or else
he is discharged. On one occasion he was fired because he stole some money. At another time he and a confederate were caught late at night while in the act of carrying some merchandise through the back door of the store where he was working. He has been a consistent gamble for many years and also drinks to excess.

And yet, because he helps to collect absentee ballots before elections, posts political placards over the countryside, whoops and hollers at speech-makings, laments upon the powers-that-be, aids in the registration of voters and assists in haulting
them to the polls, he is considered a great asset to the party and, as a result, is given a political job.

All things being equal, "service to the party" might be given some consideration. The trouble in the past however, has been too much consideration. Our local, state, and federal governments would be on a much more efficient and economical basis, if we placed more stress upon a man's character and ability and paid less attention to his "service to the party."

There were a few expressions of wonder that neither of the two of-the contention being that Lieut.

Two's Company

The Characters

Nina, Junior League and exdebutante, impulsively married David to escape her love for her stepfather.
Richard, the charming, well-tailored stepfather, is on a 5-month trip with his wife, after shamelessly talking love to Nina.
Honey, Nina's gay, youthful mother who is wild about Richard, is traveling on doctor's orders.
David, a bright young auto salesman, adores Nina and strives to make her happy on his small salary.

Chapter 35

Gracie Proves A Barb

BEFORE Nina, in all her preparations, had been the vision of Gracie's delicious meal . . . served so easily.
Her own salads and sandwiches
had seemed, as she prepared them, perfect examples of the culinary art. But now, as she came out with the dishes, her confidence vanished. People had to get up and move back their chairs, as she crossed over to the buffet . . .
which suddenly seemed too large
for the amount of food.

There were not enough little tables to put things on. David had to eat off the mantel. Jack Knight looked uncomfortable with two plates on his knees, and his glass
on the floor beside him.
Nina had planned on some hot soup to start off the cold meal, but in her embarrassment over the general disturbance, she forgot it until they were well into the lobster salad. Gracie went out with her, into the messy kitchen, and helped her carry in the cups . . .
the very last thing Nina wanted.
The mangled salad and half-eaten sandwiches looked particularly unappetizing, when they returned to them. Nina could think of less and less to say.

Her color grew more like the belly of a perch, by the minute.
The meal, that had taken so many hours to prepare, was over
in what seemed like as many minutes. Although the living-room looked like a hotel pantry after a convention banquet, she began to worry that they had not had enough to eat.

David was having such a good time with Gracie, that she began to hate him. Every word of praise about her food sounded, to her distraught ears, like a grown-up's
kindly efforts to humor a child.
There was no screen to put up,
to hide the unsightly mess, as there had been at Gracie's apartment, and everybody pitched in and helped to clean up the place.
David had remonstrated at first,
and insisted on doing the work
himself—trying to please Nina;
but his progress was so slow, that Gracie just got up quietly, and proceeded to help him. Hatelful girl. In a moment, it was general.
They all bumped into each other,
going in and out of the kitchen,
and Francie got spilled on.

When Nina came back from putting French chalk on her guest's
dress, Gracie had the whole place cleared away. The bridge tables down. The cloth folded.
"Great work, Gracie," David was congratulating her, and Nina retired to the bathroom for a quiet cry.

The next thing was that they ran out of ice. David had to go to the corner to get some. Gracie—
to keep him company—went too.
Then cigarettes. Nina had forgotten to get an extra carton. Jack Knight went this time.

And then, after they had put up
the bridge tables again, they discovered that there weren't enough poker chips in the one box Nina had bought at the cigar store.
Gracie suggested using matches.
"Excuse me just a second, will you, while I go and look for some . . ."

More getting up, and moving of chairs.
David was so polite, so eager to be a help that he was constantly saying "Let me, sweetheart," and
"I'll go, baby," . . . thereby calling attention to her labors. He never let her squeeze by him, but jumped up to let her pass, and then Jack and Bill would have to jump up too . . . offer their assistance . . .

Just To Wring Her Neck

It seemed to poor Nina, who had tried so hard to make her party
a success, that the entire evening was spent moving furniture, milling about . . . going for soup, or ice, or cigarettes that had been forgotten . . . And Gracie, all the time, helping her out, smoothing over her mistakes . . . And not only that, very definitely playing up to David. Damn her, so cool and healthy looking. So efficient.
Damn her . . . she could have tossed off this silly party, on crutches, with one arm in a sling, and they all knew it. Nina had a fierce desire to pick her up in her little $12.75 taxi, and plunk her down at the Central Park Casino with a sophisticated crowd, and confront her with a menu in French . . . Though that was silly, too; Gracie would have got away with it somehow. No, Nina guessed she just wanted to wring her soft,

little brown neck.
Jack was to have a birthday the following week.
"I'll give you a party you won't soon forget," promised Francine.
Nina thought he was not likely to forget this one. He had got up and moved his chair at least 50 times already.
"No," said Gracie, "I have an idea."
"Oh, I'm catnip to the ladies, all right," said Jack, smoothing back the absurd peninsula of hair on his forehead.
And then Gracie went into a long, whispered conference with David, about the proposed festivities.
That the long consultation was merely for the fun of putting her head up close to David's, was obvious, when she announced that they were going to Coney Island.
That was all that came of it. Coney Island. She could have suggested it right out.
But no. That, or any other meager excuse, was enough for Gracie to drag David off on one side and monopolize him. David winked at Nina, once or twice, over the girl's dark head, but that didn't help it any. Nina wasn't annoyed with him, she was annoyed with Gracie.
About 1:30, Miss Nolan said to David: "You better make your bride let me help her with the dishes, big boy. The poor kid'll be up half the night."
Gracie, the little helper. The ministering angel.
"Why don't you, sweetheart?"
Gracie's a whizz.
"I thought you told me, once, to treat them with a beautiful disregard?" remarked Nina.
But Gracie said: "Oh, what the hell!" in the most comradely way imaginable . . . and insisted on doing just one more thing to show what a grand wife she would have made for David.
"Come on, let's leave those two alone together," David pointed at Bill and Francine, on the day-bed.
"They're practically beyond control now!"
So he and Jack sipped their drinks in the kitchen, while Gracie went merrily and efficiently to work at the sink. Not a spot on her dress. Not a hair out of place.
Nina, white and weary, wiped away, in stony silence.
When they had gone, Nina said
just one thing to David.
"I just ask you, darling, not to say that I managed beautifully.
I didn't, and I know it. Now will you please take Button out, and just—not—say—anything?"
So he didn't; but he kissed her with a slightly bewildered look on his face.
When he came back, she was sound asleep on the very edge of the bed. Her stockings were still on, and one fat tear was glistening
on her white, white cheek.

At A Standstill

THE last two weeks of August,
I made the first two seem like a strawberry festival. The heat was blistering.
Cordelia wrote about night life
in Stockholm, and yachting on the cool waters at Oslo.
Aunt Carrie wrote once, on paper that was crinkly from a refreshing Bar Harbor fog.
Honey and Richard sent pictures of themselves, by the rocky marine pool, at Antibes.
Carl Semple was to meet Cordelia in Paris, and journey down to the Riviera for a reunion with the Challoners. Tony Leeds would be there . . .
Nina sat in her apartment that was cool only because it looked cool, and read the letters, and wondered what streak of insanity had lurked in her family, that she should have deliberately got herself into this predicament.
She weighed 105 pounds. She was listless from morning to night.
David saved what he could out of his lunch money (He was always saying: "Oh, a malted was all I wanted,") and brought her back little delicacies—fresh figs—
or flowers—or some frozen dessert from a really good place, like Sherry's . . .
But that upset her, too. It made her feel that she wasn't being a good sport, that she needed cod-dling . . . She did need it, of course, but she didn't want to appear to be asking for it.
She couldn't seem to get up the energy to love David, as she had hoped she was going to, for being so heavenly sweet to her; or to hate him, for chaining her to this dreary, dull poverty.
She couldn't seem to miss Honey, or recapture any of her old longing for Richard . . . or get over him either, for that matter.
She was at a standstill.
Her biggest sensations came from little things: A cold glass of beer . . . Taking her shoes off, after tramping home from the grocery with packages in her arms . . . The terrific flood of relief, when David said: "Let's eat out, tonight, sweetheart, you look tired."
She thought: this isn't—living.
But she went on.

Local Gridders Beaten By Goldsboroians 28-0

First Touchdown Scored Early In First Quarter

(By John David Blythe)

Playing their first game of the season the Greenville high school gridders were defeated by the Goldsboro eleven in their Armistice Day game by a score of 28 to 0.

The first touchdown of the game came when Hodges punted to the visitors 37-yard line. From there in three plays Pate and Dick Daughtry took the ball to Greenville's 40. After advances to the 21-yard line by Pate and Britt, Pate then took the ball across for a tally. Hollowell's pass to Britt converted the extra point.

An exciting few minutes came late in the first quarter when Kannon blocked a punt and covered it on Greenville's 15-yard marker. Pate and Britt then took the ball to 3 as the quarter ended. After the locals held the visitors to two yards in the beginning of the second quarter the ball went to the Greelines on the one-foot line and they punted out of danger.

Goldsboro counted no more until the second quarter, when Futrell fumbled a punt on his own 20-yard line and the ball was covered by Jernigan of the visitors, on the 15-yard line. Dick Daughtry then ran on Goldsboro's trick double reverse and carried the ball to the 1-2 strip, where it was then taken over by Pate. Hollowell went around right end for the extra point.

The locals held Goldsboro scoreless in the third quarter, the ball staying in mid-field most of the time.

The last two counts came in the last quarter. The third touchdown was the best run of the day when Hollowell received a punt and ran 55 yards for a touchdown. Part of this run was made behind good interference, while the rest of it was a good exhibition of broken field running. The last count of the game came when Sakas fumbled and Goldsboro covered the ball on Greenville's 20-yard strip. Hollowell ran for 7 yards, then he passed Daughtry who was downed on the two yard line. Britt then went across for the touchdown and Hollowell ran around the end for the point.

Football Route

Greenville persons going to Durham tomorrow to attend the Duke-Carolina football game are advised to go by Pinetops over route No. 43, instead of going by Bethel and Tarboro.

The Tarboro-Bethel road is being widened and traffic is being routed over a detour.

PACK OFF FOR GAME IN EAST

State To Meet Manhattan College '11 Saturday

Raleigh, Nov. 12—The North Carolina State Wolfpack heads east tonight for New York and its game Saturday afternoon with Manhattan College on Ebets Field, Brooklyn.

The trip is the last on the State schedule and takes the Wolves east for the second time this fall. They met Boston College in Boston on October 30 and won, 12-7.

The Wolves will entrain tonight at 9:05 and expect to reach New York tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. While in the Big City they will make their headquarters at Hotel Vanderbilt.

A game here next Saturday with the undefeated Blue Devils of Duke University will complete State's 1937 schedule.

Coach Doc Newton is taking 33 players to New York tonight. His starting team is expected to list Carroll Conrad and Mickey Sullivan, ends; Ed Coon and J. B. Thompson, tackles; Warren Woodson and Fred Mastrolia, guards; Bill Retter, center; Tony DiYeso, Bob Sobolky, Fred Gardner, and Paul Lozier, backs.

Gardner returns to the lineup after an absence of more than a month. He was injured in the North Carolina game October 2 and has missed all games since then. Newton has shifted the big sophomore from fullback to right half for the game tomorrow.

Newton will stick to his two-team idea for the Jasper battle. His other club will be composed of Jess Tatam and Mac Berry, ends; E. V. Helms and George Fry, tackles; Cecil Brownie and Dan Plozeno, guards; Louie Mark, center; George Murphy, Art Rooney, Eddie (Little Buzzer) Berlinski and Kenneth Sands backs.

Durham, Nov. 12—Duke and North Carolina parade their football teams onto Duke Stadium tomorrow afternoon for the 23rd renewal of their 49-year old "classic of classics" and that will overflow the Blue Devil horseshoe will look for anything to happen.

The kickoff will be at two o'clock with the stadium gates opened at 11:30 and Duke officials ask all who can possibly be here as early as possible.

The boys of Wallace Wade will enter the game undefeated to exactly reverse the situation of the meeting between the two teams two years ago when the Tar Heels were unbeaten. Duke staged one of the nation's greatest upsets to win that 1935 encounter, 25-0, as the boys from Chapel Hill suffered their first off-day of the year.

The Tar Heels are determined and the setting is just about as perfect as it could be for them to knock off the Wademen. Duke will not be in top physical condition for the game and this at a time when all resources are needed to turn back a team that has been beaten once and tied once but is still one of the finest in the nation.

Two of the Blue Devils' most brilliant stars will not be at top shape. They are Herb Hudgins, the fine end who is still weak from a two weeks' siege with influenza and Elmore (Honey) Hackney, the clever Blue Devil field general, leading ground gainer and long run expert. Hackney suffered a pulled tendon in practice this week and while he may be able to play, his condition is far from top.

Both teams have flashed powerful offensive attacks all season and, with both in good condition, might have turned into the greatest offensive exhibition in the history of the long series of grid clashes.

Local Girls Play on Freshman Team

Meredith College, Raleigh, Nov. 11—The freshman hockey team of Meredith College won with a score of 1 to 0 from the sophomores in the first of the inter-class games of the season played Monday afternoon on the college athletic field.

The players participating in the games will be entertained at tea after all games this week and next, and receiving with the association officers following Wednesday a game will be Mrs. Vera Tart Marsh, assistant dean of women, and Dr. Julia H. Harris.

Freshmen playing in Monday's game included Betty Fleischmann, Greenville and Ernestine Hobgood, Greenville.
