JAPS CAPTURE GATE IN WALL NEAR KASHING

United States And Britain To Engage In Negotiations For Reciprocal Trade Pact

Troops Seek Break Through "Hindenburg Line"

HEAVY FIGHTING AT MAIN POINT

Invading Soldiers Apparently Able to Advance Only Along Southern Defenses

Shanghai, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Japanese army spokesmen announced today Japanese troops, driving to break through China's "Hindenburg line" between Shanghai and Nanking, and captured one gate of the walled city of Kashing, southern keystone of the line.

Both Chinese and Japanese reported heavy fighting in the area around Kashing, which is a main point of Chinese defenses.

Chinese told of a spirited engagement at Seven Star Bridge, four miles northeast of Kashing. Japanese said they were unable to state officially their forces had captured the city.

News of the Japanese push against the southern ring of the defenses stretching from the Yangtze river south to Hangchow bay, came a few hours after an official government warning spurred mass migration of civilians from Nanking.

For 24 hours Chinese had held their own along the length of the defenses to which they retreated after Shanghai fell into Japanese hands November 9.

Though the Japanese received reinforcements for the new onslaught today, their only advance apparently was on the southern front.

Chinese reported their troops, after 20 war planes, had counter attacked and pushed Japanese back toward Cheni. They also asserted Chinese had repulsed three Japanese attempts to effect a landing 120 miles down stream from Nanking on the Yangtze.

Higher Birth Rate In North Carolina Boosts Population

Figures Released By Bureau of Vital Statistics Show 38,895 More Births Than Deaths

Raleigh, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The stark is helping North Carolina increase its population.

According to figures of the Bureau of Vital Statistics births for the first ten months of 1937 have exceeded deaths by 38,895, a ratio which if continued to the end of the year will give the state a net increase in population of nearly 50,000.

Total births in the state from January through October were 63,747 while deaths totaled only 27,941 for the same period.

This represented an increase in the birth rate and a decrease in the death rate, as 64,356 North Carolinians were born between January and October, 1936, while 29,468 died.

Births, therefore, increased 2,391 while deaths were dropping by 1,527.

June, traditional month for marriage, was 1937 greatest baby producer with 7,187 born that month. January's 6,108 was low for the ten month period.

For October, 1937, births reached 6,810, an increase of 514 over October, 1936, while deaths numbered 2,681, a decrease of 41 from October, 1936.

The October birth rate went up from 22.5 to 23.3 while the death rate declined from 9.7 to 9.2. Maternity deaths to 32, as compared with 42 in October, 1936. Deaths of infants under one year old fell from 296 to 382, and the rate from 62.8 to 56.1 per 1,000.

Cancer continued to increase its death toll, but the number of children under two years old dying from diarrhea and enteric fever last month showed a marked decline.

MARRIED IN MOURNING!

Mourning black took the place of the bridal veil and gown at the marriage of Margaret Campbell Geddes to Grand Duke Ludwig von Hesse Bei Rhein in London. They had planned a gala wedding but the death of five members of his family in the tragic airplane accident at Ostend, Belgium, led to their decision to be married in mourning the day after the tragedy. This picture shows the duke and his bride-elect in happy mood before his relatives, all members of the former German royal family, crashed in a fog.

Paris And Tokyo Agents Deny Ultimatum Issued

HOEY PRAISES PAROLE SET-UP

Issues Statement Setting Forth Values Of System

Raleigh, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Governor Hoey issued a statement today setting forth the values of the North Carolina parole system ascertaining "this department... is entitled to the full confidence of the state."

The governor noted "from a recent address of J. Edgar Hoover... the public gained the impression that Mr. Hoover was against the parole system. He now in a public statement disclaims that interpretation... and stated that he favored the principle of parole, but merely condemned the maladministration."

"The question of parole is receiving considerable discussion and analysis on the part of the public," said Hoey's statement. "It is an important question and I covet the fullest investigation into the manner that the parole system is conducted in North Carolina."

"It is not on a sentimental basis and the paroles are not granted because of political influence or of the appeals of influential friends. The cases are heard and determined on their merits and paroles are granted to prisoners who are without friends and for whom no appeals have been made, based entirely on their record and conduct in prison, after taking into consideration the previous conduct on the outside."

Hoey praised parole commission Edwin Gill and staff.

Proposed Treaty Far- Reaching In Implications

FIRST STEP FOR DESIRABLE AID

Decision Announced by Sec. Hull in Statement Saying U. S. Expects Action

Washington, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The United States and Great Britain agreed today to negotiate for a reciprocal trade pact, a decision fraught with far-reaching economic and political implication.

It was the first formal step toward an objective long sought by the Roosevelt administration as an indispensable feature of its program for liberalization of world commerce.

The decision was announced by Secretary Hull in a statement asserting merely the United States "contemplates" such negotiations.

Actual start of the negotiations, expected in a few weeks, will climax more than a year of exploratory work by representatives of both governments in London and Washington.

Hull's announcement, released simultaneously with a statement to the British House of Commons on the subject, gave no hint of the basis of approach agreed upon nor any details of the long preliminary conversations.

There appeared good reason to believe, however, the British government probably consented to consider granting to some American products treatment equal to that which it now accords to goods from the British Dominions under "empire preference."

If an agreement, even in principle, were reached on this point it would be the first time a foreign nation had broken through the Ottawa agreement of 1932, under which the British Commonwealth of Nations adopted a schedule of preferential tariff favoring empire products to the disadvantage of outside goods.

VOTE IN FAVOR OF UNIFICATION

North Carolina Conference Favors Plan, 294 to 7

Raleigh, Nov. 18.—(AP)—The North Carolina Methodist Conference voted 294 to seven today in favor of unification of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, of which it is a member, with the Methodist Episcopal Church, North and the Methodist Protestant Church.

No discussion preceded the vote. The other two branches of Methodism have approved the merger. Last week the Southern branch reported 32 out of 42 conferences had cast 6,075 votes for unification with 966 dissenting votes.

The first ballot was taken this morning for nine clerical and nine lay members.

Displeased With Tobacco Section

Washington, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Dissatisfaction over the proposed tobacco section of the farm bill cropped out today among the North Carolina representatives in Congress.

Six members of the state delegation arranged to meet with the House Agriculture Tobacco subcommittee, of which another North Carolinian, Harold Cooley, of Nashville, is chairman, to urge revision.

Representative Lindsay Warren said the committee's draft differed in many respects with the tobacco bill approved shortly before the last session of Congress. He did not enumerate them.

Warren said North Carolina farmers wanted the control measure to assure every grower a minimum production of 3,200 pounds of tobacco instead of 2,400 pounds which he declared the bill provided as now written.

Campaign Against Vice Explained At Mass Meet

League Commends Action of Two County Boards

The citizens who attended the Law and Order League mass meeting last night in the court house were given first hand information on the vice crusade being conducted in the county and heard explanations of several rumors spread since the undercover campaign started.

If anyone went to the meeting expecting to see and hear "the fury," he went away disappointed. As had been announced, the session practically was devoid of personalities or issues.

Presided over by Rev. W. A. Rynter, Charles O. H. Horne, chairman of the Pitt County ABC board was the first to take the floor. Chairman Horne explained why the undercover agents were hired to clean up illicit liquor traffic in the county. He explained that when the special agents discovered that much vice was found existing in the county and reported the condition to his board, he advised the undercover men the ABC board had no control over this and referred them to the county commissioners.

Cutler Moore, chairman of the State ABC board, declared the undercover campaign in Pitt county was carried on with his full knowledge and consent. He praised the local board for its effort in stamping out the illicit traffic in whiskey, calling attention to the fact that 20 per cent of the profits had been set aside for law enforcement work in this county through a special legislative act.

Mr. Moore said it was only natural that the special officers found vice rampant in the county, as "gambling, women and dope" usually will be found where illegal liquor flows.

Roy T. Cox, although ill, came here for the meeting and explained the actions the County Commissioners took in efforts to clean up the vice. He said the undercover agents were hired after being highly recommended.

Heads of the law enforcement agencies located here, Sheriff S. A. Whitehurst and Chief of Police G. A. Clark, then were asked to give their views on the best means to break up liquor and vice.

Sheriff Whitehurst declared it was a matter of officers had been studying for years. He declared much progress had been made through cooperation on the part of officers throughout the state, but added that cooperation on the part of the people was lacking. The sheriff explained he was not advised with on the undercover raids and added that he was in Raleigh on the night the wholesale arrests were made. He said that upon returning to the city he was repeatedly asked "what is wrong with the county?"

The sheriff then declared he called A. S. Batson, head of the detective force carrying on the campaign, into his office and questioned him about his credentials and other matters regarding the crusade. He added that he was shown Mr. Batson's credentials, which proved to be in order.

Chief Clark expressed his willingness to cooperate with any force trying to stamp out liquor and vice, and declared he appreciated the help accorded along this line.

F. C. Harding was then asked to take the floor and devoted much of his talk to explaining what authority Mr. Batson and his men (Continued on page four)

TWO ESCAPEES BACK IN CELLS

One Of Three Convicted Kidnapers Is Still At Large

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 18.—(AP)—Heavily guarded, two recaptured members of a gang convicted of the 1933 O'Connell kidnaping were lodged today in separate cells, while state and city officers continued their hunt for the third participant in the jail break.

The pair, John Oley and Harold Crowley, who Oley said "he liked his freedom like anyone else" were moved yesterday from Syracuse police station to the detention quarters in the Onondaga county court building to await prosecutions on escape charges.

The third, Percy Geary, was still at large after his leap from a bath room window of a Syracuse rooming house where Oley and Crowley meekly surrendered Monday to officers who were directed there by a janitor, Ivan Whitford.

Whitford earlier had walked into headquarters, drawn a patrolman aside and casually remarked "do you want to catch the kidnapers?"

Oley and Crowley were seized almost 36 hours after they escaped from Onondaga county penitentiary at Jamesville, N. Y., with the aid of Geary, who cut his way through cell bars to trust the prison guards staff of six and escape in a stolen car.

AGREEMENT ON FARM CONTROL APPEARS NEAR

Senate Agriculture Committee Nears Final Draft

HOPE TO PRESENT MEASURE MONDAY

Sen. Bailey, Meanwhile, Carries on Filibuster Against Anti-Lynching Bill

Washington, Nov. 18.—(AP)—Near-agreement in the Senate Agriculture Committee on farm control legislation brought promise today of a break in aimless debate which has dominated the special congressional session.

Senator Bailey (D. N. C.) carried on the southern filibuster against anti-lynching legislation in the senate, but Chairman Smith (D. S. C.) told reporters an "ever normal granary" farm bill patterned after administration recommendations would be ready Monday to displace the lynching measure.

Fulfillment of this prediction would bring before the special session one week after convening, the first of a four point program recommended by President Roosevelt, farm wage-hour regional planning and executive reorganization legislation.

A house tax subcommittee talked of, but did not agree finally, granting all corporations some exemption from the undistributed profits tax which has been assailed by business. The house apparently settled itself into another day of political oratory.

Meanwhile, the President had his absented tooth extracted during the day after his dentist decided the infection could not be cured otherwise.

Captain Foss McIntire, the President's physician, said his patient still had half a degree of fever but predicted with the tooth out the temperature would go down.

Other Developments Chairman Norton (D. N. J.) of the House Labor Committee announced she had asked Secretary Perkins, William Green and John Lewis to state their views of the pending wages and hours bill.

Ohio and Illinois Furnish Majority Of N. C. Visitors

More People From Two States Visit Great Smoky Mountains Park Than From Any Other Sections

Raleigh, Nov. 18.—More people from Ohio and Illinois visited the Great Smoky Mountains National Park in western North Carolina during the past 12 months than from any other states, except North Carolina and Tennessee, according to figures just compiled by the National Park Service for the travel year ending October 1. It was pointed out today by R. Bruce Etheridge, director of the Department of Conservation and Development.

Ohio leads the list with 67,015 persons in 21,570 automobiles who visited the national park during a period while Illinois ranks second with 36,307 persons in 12,411 automobiles. The count for the entire 12 months shows that 757,243 persons and 224,791 automobiles visited the park and that these visitors came from all 48 states and 12 foreign countries.

The largest number of visitors to the park area during the past travel year from any one state was 340,690 from Tennessee while the second largest number was from North Carolina, which supplied 73,510 visitors. These figures show that more than four and a half times as many people from Tennessee visited the park than from North Carolina, although the park lies approximately half in North Carolina and half in Tennessee.

States ranking next to Ohio and Illinois in the number of visitors to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park are: Indiana, 77,298; Georgia, 24,172; Kentucky, 21,258; Florida, 19,529; Michigan, 16,156; South Carolina, 15,458; Pennsylvania, 12,449; and New York, 11,378.

More people visited the national park during August than in any other previous month, when 152,558 persons and 43,596 vehicles were counted. The figures show, the largest number of people to visit the park in any one day was September 5, when 14,752 persons and 3,738 vehicles were counted.

The travel figures from October 1936 to March 1937 were estimated. All of the other figures are actual counts.

Sans Souci Club Meets.

The Sans Souci Club held a most enjoyable meeting at the home of Mrs. George Woodward on Tuesday afternoon.

There was a splendid attendance and after a short business session those present were given a real treat when Mrs. J. L. Kilgo who was in charge of the program for the afternoon, presented Mrs. J. H. Rose. She delighted her listeners with a review of "The Lost Colony" by Paul Green.

Those who were fortunate enough to see the play during the summer at Manteo had it brought back to them most vividly and those who did not see it, feel that they missed something really fine.

From the landing of the first settlers we lived with them through their terrors and fears in this unknown land.

With the author, we could see Eleanor Dare and John Borden standing on the outpost of the world from which the colonists disappeared, some to be slaughtered by the Spaniards—some to die in the wilderness, and others to live unnoticed with the Indians—a people who today are still a "Lost Colony."

Following this most interesting program the hostess invited us into the dining room where a delicious buffet supper was served.

Oriental Tea.

On Monday afternoon, the members of the Woman's Council of the Christian Church enjoyed a most delightful Oriental Tea at the conclusion of their regular monthly meeting at the church.

The first part of the meeting was presided over by Mrs. Ryan, the president, who led a most inspiring devotional period. Mrs. Agnes Settle as chairman of the music for the afternoon, rendered an Oriental selection at the piano. As one of the aims of the organization at this time was to start a missionary library for its members, the remainder of the program included brief reviews of two missionary books. These were given by Mesdames (Burnage and Beland).

Having had a missionary program the Oriental theme carried out in the tea following this was most effective. Waiting at the door to greet the guests was a Japanese girl in the person of Miss Alle Jane Harrington. From each end of the table, Mesdames L. G. Cooper and E. G. Flanagan dressed in Japanese kimonos served real Chinese tea while Misses Jane Rowlett and Fannie Cooper, dressed in Chinese costumes, served sandwiches. Carrying out the idea of the Orient were Japanese and Chinese tapestries and pictures on the wall, and Japanese plates, candlesticks, urns and favors on the table.

As a beginning for the missionary library, almost seven dollars was donated by those present.

Mrs. Ryan served as general supervisor in preparation for this delightful affair, and on the tea committee were Mesdames Travis Hooker, E. G. Flanagan and L. G. Cooper.—Reported.

LOOK ELEVEN YEARS YOUNGER—GELETT BURGESS

Gelett Burgess is one of America's most distinctive and versatile writers. From his pen have come nursery classics, satires, stories of mystery and stories of love. Such a wide range suggests keen observation and wide understanding. The book "Look Eleven Years Younger" is startling in its revelation of these qualities.

After living abroad for eleven years, Mr. Burgess returned home to find his old friends conspicuously changed in appearance. Some had improved, but others had deteriorated distressingly. They had developed little personal mannerisms, peculiarities of voice, facial expressions and postures that made them appear senescent and often comical. He realized that they had carelessly and unknowingly let themselves go. This situation challenged his interest. He began to make a study of what he calls the "conscious control" of this matter of growing old. He observed that one's demeanor—the way one talks, walks, stands, sits, uses one's hands and all that—has more to do with the appearance of age than accumulated years or the mere physical aspects of the face. The face might in reality be young or plastic surgery might hoist up the sagging and smooth out the wrinkles but that does not mean that the behavior and gentle habits. These are controlled by each individual, and because of them one may appear youthful at eighty or old at twenty.

Mr. Burgess presents in this book a rational method for preserving youthfulness. He discusses every phase of it, from the way to walk and hold yourself to the correct vocal inflections, dress and deportment. There is no suggestion of cosmetics, diet, or exercises. It is all a question of governing those unbridled mannerisms and habits that mercilessly expose the infirmities of the old and often make the young appear aged. He says the people are as old as their habits. They are as old as their bodies that slump and waddle, as their voices that whine and mumble, as their thoughts that grow repetitious and trivial, incoherence in posture, speech and thoughts makes anyone appear old regardless of years.

The control of such habits is the lesson urged in this book. He takes up his subject from many angles and presents it with many details, with very effective illustrations. He is without pity in pointing out weakness of which all of us are guilty, but he shows them to be avoidable and curable. He is not flattering, after ridiculing, but he is encouraging. He says that if we can be drilled and laughed into a little overhauling and repair work that will develop poise and confidence, new social and mental interests, we have acquired the preventatives of premature old age.

The book is interesting and witty and should be stimulating and beneficial. Mr. Burgess states that its essential character and message is the desire to awaken people mentally to the revivifying mood of youth and to persuade them that they might "Look Eleven Years Younger" if they took the trouble to acquire a "conscious" control of themselves.

Two Old Books.

In the collection of books recently donated to Sheppard Memorial Library by Mrs. Josie Joyner McArthur are two little books—one a Primer, the other a First Reader, published during the Civil War for children of the Confederacy.

These little books were studied by Mary Frances Joyner, daughter of Calvin Joyner and Mary Ballard Joyner. Her teacher was Miss Mollie Sugg, the daughter of Benjamin and Nancy Cunningham Sugg, then of South Creek (Aurora), Beaufort county, but originally of Greene county.

While teaching in this community Miss Sugg met Mr. Jacob Joyner of the Farmville community (it was not Farmville then) whom she married soon after her school closed. There were several children, four sons and two daughters; Mrs. May Thigpen, deceased, and Mrs. Suddie Thigpen of Mount Olive, O. L. Joyner, late of Greenville, Dr. C. C. Joyner of Farmville, Ben Joyner of Fuquay Springs, and Carl Joyner, deceased.

Two nephews, F. C. Harding and B. B. Sugg, are living in Greenville. If anyone knows of other copies of these books I hope they will let us know. I think the ones now in the library are the only ones left.

Rudyard Kipling's Autobiography.

"Something of Myself, for My Friends, Known and Unknown," by Rudyard Kipling, is, as the title implies, an autobiography. It is a most timely book for these chaotic days, for it is the life story of a man well loved, who lived chaotically, yet fully.

From his earliest memories (when he was about four years old) to the end of his seventieth year, he spins an incredibly interesting tale of his life in India, England, Australia, Africa, America and the Continent. But always there is India in his heart, and always England.

Through all the book, one characteristic of Kipling stands out clearly—his steadfastness. In his love for his parents, his family, his adored work, and for England, he never wavered.

and all that—has more to do with the appearance of age than accumulated years or the mere physical aspects of the face. The face might in reality be young or plastic surgery might hoist up the sagging and smooth out the wrinkles but that does not mean that the behavior and gentle habits. These are controlled by each individual, and because of them one may appear youthful at eighty or old at twenty.

Mr. Burgess presents in this book a rational method for preserving youthfulness. He discusses every phase of it, from the way to walk and hold yourself to the correct vocal inflections, dress and deportment. There is no suggestion of cosmetics, diet, or exercises. It is all a question of governing those unbridled mannerisms and habits that mercilessly expose the infirmities of the old and often make the young appear aged. He says the people are as old as their habits. They are as old as their bodies that slump and waddle, as their voices that whine and mumble, as their thoughts that grow repetitious and trivial, incoherence in posture, speech and thoughts makes anyone appear old regardless of years.

Raleigh, Nov. 17.—North Carolina has been commended as a "pioneer state" in the matter of health work among Negroes, by Edwin R. Embree, president of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, in a letter to Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, which the State Health Officer made public here today.

Dr. Reynolds recently wrote Mr. Embree, telling of the accomplishments of Dr. Walter J. Hughes, first Negro physician attached to any State Board of Health, whose appointment was made possible through a grant from the Rosenwald Fund.

"You will be pleased to know that since the appointment of Dr. Hughes," Mr. Embree informed Dr. Reynolds, "the states of Texas and Louisiana have added similar Negro assistants, while Illinois now has two colored physicians on its state staff.

"The Children's Bureau and the United States Public Health Service have done the same thing. The cities of Louisville and New York have Negroes in charge of health centers. In addition to these movements, several other southern states are preparing to make similar moves.

"The State of North Carolina," Mr. Embree concluded, "was a pioneer in using Negro physicians in tuberculosis work as internes in the State Sanatorium, Georgia, Kentucky, Florida, Texas and Maryland are following suit."

Bids Recently Called For on Some Brides on Blue Ridge Route Not Already Constructed

Reflector Bureau.
 Raleigh, Nov. 17.—Work on the Blue Ridge Parkway will continue through the winter.

Bids have been recently called on some of the bridges not yet constructed, it was announced today by the locating division of the State Highway and Public Works Commission, which is cooperating with the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads in constructing the parkway.

The parkway, when completed, will be approximately 400 miles long, extending from Front Royal, Virginia, through the Shenandoah National Park and along the crest of the Blue Ridge mountains across North Carolina to the Great Smoky mountains in the western part of the state.

Slightly more than 74 miles of the parkway have either been completed, except for surfacing, or are under construction in North Carolina at the present time. The section of 59 miles from the Virginia line to Deep Gap just north of Blowing Rock, has been completed

How To Fool The Naked Eye

The diagrams above (by Dr. William H. Dooley in a recent issue of Apparel Arts), show you what lines can do for your personal architecture. The prices below show you what Blount-Harvey can do for your personal expenditure.

Short and Thin?— Better avoid pronounced vertical stripes and single-breasted suits. Stick to subtle overplaid and the width-giving double-breasted line.

Tall and Heavy?— Avoid double-breasted models and distinct patterns. You'll find your figure properly balanced in a single-breasted plain worsted.

Short and Heavy?— Keep away from the double-breasted suit, the baggy suit, the bold pattern. A single-breasted, two-button, with subtle stripes has the right vertical lines.

Tall and Thin?— Avoid noisy patterns, extreme lines. Choose a well-proportioned, double-breasted suit to give height in a hairline stripe to suggest width.

'SO WHAT?'

There is no doubt a time in the life of every editor when he would like to depart from the regular routine of confining himself strictly to proven facts and try his hand at fiction writing. Sometime, however, fiction furnishes food for thought and so today we bring you a story that you may call fiction, a fairy story or imagination.

Using for the title of our story the oft-repeated exclamation "SO WHAT?"—we relate our story as follows:

Once upon a time there was a county that was considered one of the most progressive counties of the state, but after all it was just an average county with average people, average conditions, average government, probably no better and no worse than others. Back in the early part of the present century, like in other counties, the good people and the good preachers felt the growing evils of liquor, and so along with the people of other counties of the state, the county voted to prohibit the manufacture and sale of liquor. Unfortunately these good people throughout the state felt that the placing of the law on the statute books had done away with the liquor evil, so from then on the good people quit practicing and teaching temperance in the homes and the preachers did not feel the need of preaching it from their pulpits, and the enforcement of the prohibition laws was only half-hearted at best.

Time passed, and a quarter of a century later the county realized that under the prohibition era liquor and drunkenness and its attendant evils had found its way from the old type bar-room and gutters into the drawing rooms of the so-called best citizens. So along with citizens of other counties of the state, the county sought and received from the State Assembly the privilege of voting upon a measure for the legalized sale of liquor. In the hope that in this manner the sale could be controlled and better conditions would result. By an overwhelming majority the county voted in favor of the legalized sale plan, thinking to bring an end to some of its troubles. But unfortunately its troubles were just beginning.

Liquor with its attendant evils is of course one of the greater public enemies, but when you mix money and politics and the greed for power with it, there results an even worse situation, and that is the spot in which the county soon found itself. The legalized sale of liquor produced tremendous profits, a part of which, under the law, was to be set aside for enforcement of the anti-liquor laws, and for the purpose of again bringing about temperance on the part of the people. While the fight over these funds never came out into the open, an apparent undercurrent spirit of antagonism between certain departments of the government grew out of the desires of each to have control of the handling and expenditure of the funds. Instead of the county's departments working hand in hand for the common good, each apparently held a feeling of distrust for the other, with the result that instead of co-operating to break up the evil that was going on in this county, little was done along that line.

Time continued to pass and a later session of the General Assembly, realizing that the county referred to in this story, like other counties, was getting nowhere with law enforcement because of the failure of its departments to co-operate, amended the legalized liquor law so as to permit the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board to work independently in carrying on its liquor law enforcement program. The result of this action by the Assembly resulted in the County ABC Board hiring its own secret law enforcement officers, recommended by the State ABC Board and the Governor, to ferret out bootleggers. When these officers found that in addition to bootlegging, other crime and vice was prevalent in the county, they reported it to the Board of County Commissioners, who then employed the officers to also seek out and arrest all such violators. Then came a series of raids with wholesale arrests, much to the apparent chagrin of the county sheriff, because of the fact that city police had been requested to have a part in the campaign and no mention had been made of same to his office. Frankly he felt that it was a deliberate slap in the face for his office, a reflection on the manner in which he had conducted the affairs of his office for a period of years, and an attempt to hurt him politically.

As a result of the raids the conditions as they existed in the county were immediately laid before a small group of citizens who studied the reports of the raiding officers and requested the calling of a mass meeting of citizens to study the conditions and decide what steps might be taken to really clean up the community.

As has before been said, politics is an evil thing when it really gets down to work, and before the time had arrived for the mass meeting rumors of all kinds had flown thick and fast—on the one hand efforts being made to tear down the reputations of the secret officers; on the other charges that politics was being played to the limit, and the result was that the people found themselves taking sides rather than banding themselves together in an effort to bring about better conditions in the county.

The mass meeting was held but with poor attendance, many apparently fearing that the meeting might call for a showdown and not wishing to have to take a definite stand on either side, making it convenient to have other engagements for the evening. The mass meeting passed off fairly well and resulted in the adoption of a resolution that commended the ABC Board and the County Commissioners for their action in employing secret agents to attempt to enforce the laws and at the same time endorsed efforts of the regularly constituted law enforcement agencies and pledged support to their enforcement of the law. Once or twice in the meeting it seemed that the undercurrent of antagonism was rising to the surface, but the meeting adjourned without any serious disturbances. No sooner had adjournment been taken, however, than the partisans began anew their campaigns of attack on the opposing camp, with the result that the day following the meeting found the rift between branches of the county government widening and a growing number of citizens taking their stand in one camp or another, or holding back, to decide just which would prove the stronger, before taking a stand with either. The fight goes on—If evil were a living spirit it would be bound to laugh at these humans for theirickerings, while bootlegging and vice run rampant in the community. So What . . . ?

"But the story is not finished," you might say. That's just the point. For the time being this is as far as we go. We invite the citizens of our county to complete this story either with a good ending or as a tragedy.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST VICE EXPLAINED AT MASS MEET

(Continued from page one) were working under. He said the agency had been highly recommended by the governor, the State ABC board and others. He declared the undercover work was carried on under the authority of the ABC board.

Charles Whedbee took the floor to "set the record straight" as to why a special prosecutor had been employed to handle the cases brought to trial by the vice crusade. He explained that the solicitor's office had up to a hundred or more cases pending at one time and that it was a physical impossibility for any one man to investigate all of them. He added that he appreciated the assistance provided through the employment of a special prosecutor, Judge Albion Dunn.

Chief Clark again rose to remark that it had been rumored that some "prominent" people had been caught in the raids and that they never had been brought into court along with others. Mr. Harding, in reply, said that a 16-year-old girl, who left her home to go to Chapel Hill to visit a girl friend, was found in one of the tourist camps raided. He said the officers took the girl home to her mother and added that he believed any other officer would have done the same thing. He declared that there was a law mightier than the law of man, and that this law was invoked by the officer and given the approval of the two boards under whose authority he was working. He said in another case a young couple, neither of whom live in this county, told the officer they had been talking for some time of marrying and asked that they be allowed to do so right then. This was allowed by the officer, he said, and the action was sanctioned by the two boards.

Deputy Sheriff Pierce, also in reply to Chief Clark, said he did not know anything about "prominent" people being caught, but added that a middle-aged couple was brought before the bar and sentenced for engaging in prostitution, while a young girl sat in the back of the court room, her identity concealed by dark glasses, when her case was tried and was never called before the bar even though she was fined.

County Solicitor Whedbee explained that he was not in the court room when the case against the girl, whose home is said to be in Washington, was called, and that the case was handled by private prosecution.

Just before the meeting was closed, a resolution was adopted commending the Board of County Commissioners and Pitt County ABC board for looking toward the betterment of conditions in the county and pledging the boards and their special officers, as well as all regular officers, the support in all lawful efforts along these lines.

BERLINSKI TO MEET HACKNEY

State and Duke Stars, Respectively, To See Action

Raleigh, Nov. 18—Cast as leading figures in the State-Duke football show to be staged in State's Riddick Stadium Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock are Eddie (Little Buzzer) Berlinski and Elmore (Honey) Hackney.

Berlinski is the State star and Hackney the Duke ace. Both are capable and brilliant actors with lots of experience. They are seniors and the game Saturday will be the last for Berlinski in a State uniform. Hackney completes his grid days at Duke when his team meets Pitt next week.

Spectacular performances have been turned in by Berlinski and Hackney in most every game this fall and they are expected to reach new heights of stardom in Saturday's battle which brings State and Duke together for the 14th time in football.

Berlinski appeared at his best in the Carolina and Boston College games. Carolina defeated State 20-0, but Berlinski was hailed as the greatest back on the field. State defeated Boston, 12-7, and Berlinski scored both touchdowns on a 72-yard run.

Hackney was the outstanding performer in Duke's 20-19 thriller over Georgia Tech. He turned in another brilliant performance last week against Carolina, although his team was beaten, 14-6. The Duke touchdown was scored by Hackney.

Berlinski and Hackney can do anything required of A-J backs. Berlinski is better as a broken field runner and pass snatcher. Hackney looks best as he returns punts, throws passes and directs his team in its drives down the field. Two more colorful, popular backs would be hard to find in the South. In addition to Berlinski and Hackney, the game brings together other such stars as Jess Tatum, end; Artful Art Rooney, back; and Louie Mark, center, of State, and Eric (The Red) Tipton, back; Capt. Woody Lipscomb, guard; Herb Hudgins, end; Joe Brubansky, tackle, and Dan Hill, center, of Duke.

The State-Duke game is an all-star attraction and a capacity crowd is looked for.

FINE ARRAY OF BACKS AT UNC

Stars to See Action Against Virginia Thanksgiving

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 18—A fine array of backfield stars will match runs, punts and passes, with razzle dazzle thrown in to boot, here Thanksgiving Day when the University of North Carolina and Virginia clash for the 42nd time in the renewal of Dixie's oldest continuous football rivalry.

North Carolina's versatile and hard running strategists are Crowell Little and George Stirnweis, triple threat quarterbacks; Tom Burnette, George Watson, George Radman and Randy Cooner, talented halfbacks; and Art Ditt and Jack Krynck, line busting full backs.

Top among Virginia's backfield experts are Evan (Bus) Male and Walter Smith, quarterbacks; Geo. Gillette, Peter Nistead, Harry Dinwiddie, and Edward Sharretts, half backs; and Harry McClaugherty, pile-driving fullback.

Four of the Tar Heels and one of the Virginians will be competing on a collegiate gridiron for the last time. The swan songers are Burnette, Little, Cooner, Ditt and Male. North Carolina's running attack, most potent of its offensive weapons this season, has amassed a total of 1861 yards in 396 rushes for an average of 4.7 yards. Messrs. Burnette, Radman, Stirnweis, Watson and Krynck have sparkplugged this fine record.

Running statistics on the eight Tar Heel backs are as follows:

Player	Trips	Gain	Av. Ad.
Burnette	49	356	7.3
Radman	17	99	5.8
Stirnweis	40	197	4.9
Watson	68	313	4.6
Krynck	47	216	4.6

Ditt 57 223 3.9
Little 67 238 3.6
Cooner 14 24 1.7

These Tar Heels also excel in other phases of the game. Burnette is noted for his punting and place kicking abilities; Little for his passing and punt returning specialties; Stirnweis for punting and passing; Watson for blocking, tackling and pass receiving; Cooner for passing; Radman for blocking; and Ditt and Krynck for rushing and blocking up the line.

Smith is one of Virginia's best passing prospects in several years; Nistead, Gillette, Dinwiddie and Sharretts are all top notch runners and are fine kickers and runners and McClaugherty a great blocker and line plunger.

Group Meetings. Group meetings were held in the following schools the past week Monday, the Falkland group met at the Fountain school; Tuesday, the Ayden group; Wednesday, the Bethel group; Thursday, the Grimes land group. "Supervised Play and the Recess Hour" was the topic discussed in each group. Each group made plans to entertain the parents next month.

Five groups sent a delegate each to the P. T. A. North Eastern District meeting in Elizabeth City on Saturday, November 6th. The Supervisor attended a district meeting of Jeanes Supervisors last week and a number of Pitt county teachers attended the North Eastern District meeting of the State Teachers Association at Rocky Mount, Saturday, November 13th.

HINTS FOR HOUSEWIVES

Use a flashlight for hunting things in dark closets. Lighted tapers or matches may prove disastrous.

Black shoe polish stains may be removed by rubbing them with warm water and soap. Rub brown stains with alcohol.

In sewing buttons back in place on upholstered furniture put the button on the loop end of a wire hairpin. Push the opposite end of the hairpin through the fabric and catch the button in place with a heavy needle and strong thread. Remove the hairpin and finish sewing on the button.

Before tinting or dyeing articles be sure to have them cleaned and free of any spots or stains. Otherwise the stains are likely to show when the articles have been dyed.

Remove all old varnish from furniture before trying to revarnish it. A cup of sal soda to two quarts of hot water will help. Scrub each piece with a stiff brush. Wear rubber gloves to protect your hands.

To remove cream stains from garments or linens rub the stained area with cold water and soap and then rinse it thoroughly in cold water.
