

SAYS BRUSSELS PEACE PARLEY TOTAL FAILURE

Minister Declares Mediation Step Up To League

FRANCE WILLING TAKE INITIATIVE

Warns Deputies, However, That Taking Lead Often Means 'Engaging Yourself'

Paris, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos told the Chamber of Deputies today efforts to conciliate the Chinese-Japanese warfare at the Brussels conference had failed.

He said a new step toward mediation must be taken at Geneva. The Brussels Conference recessed Monday for a week after passing a resolution critical of Japan.

At the Brussels Conference Delbos said France followed "the attitude of conciliation demanded by the entire League of Nations."

"Conciliation collapsed. In several days it will be necessary to make a new decision at Geneva."

Delbos warned the deputies not to forget a decision to act at Geneva must be taken unanimously. He said the French government was willing to take the initiative and make propositions at Geneva, but asked the Chamber to remember that taking the initiative often means "engaging yourself."

Summarizing the government's foreign policy, Delbos said "We know that collaboration of all is necessary for peace in Europe."

"The object of my forthcoming travels (in central Europe) is to reinforce the present guarantee of peace-binding us mutually and banishing the spirit of violence and conquest," he said.

Delbos' speech was greeted with applause of a large part of the right center and center left, but Communist deputies sat in silence, indicating dissatisfaction over the government's Spanish policy.

The foreign minister took the speaker's rostrum to define and defend the government's foreign policy after Communist Leader Gabriel Peri accused the government of failure to receive President Roosevelt's Chicago peace address with sufficient enthusiasm and support.

Forester Locates Few Forest Fires In North Carolina

W. C. McCormick, in Charge Of Control Work, Makes Inspection Trip Throughout State

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Nov. 19.—Although forests have been very dry in many sections of the state for the past month or more, very few forest fires have developed. It was reported today by State Forester W. C. McCormick, in charge of forest fire control work, who has just returned from an inspection trip into all of the forest fire control districts.

Forest fire conditions are worse in Brunswick, Columbus, Pender and adjoining counties than in any other section, McCormick said. One serious fire has been burning in the Little Green Swamp in Brunswick county for some time and in some sections has burned down into the peat soil, so that even the ground as well as the trees was burning. This fire flared up again about two weeks ago and the entire personnel of the Civilian Conservation Corps camp at South port, composed of about 150 men, were required for two days to get the fire under control.

"The fine cooperation we are getting from the public is having more to do in reducing the number of forest fires than almost anything else," McCormick said. "Never before have the people of the state been so interested in being careful with fire as they have the past year. We have found hundreds of small roadside fires, evidently started by cigarettes and matches, which have been stomped out either by passing pedestrians (Continued on Page Two)

FAST WORK ON NEW HIGHWAY

Already Pouring Concrete on 10th Street Extension

Work on the Tenth street extension, which will connect with the Washington highway just beyond the cemetery, is progressing at a rapid rate and it is hoped the project will be completed by the first of the year.

"Unless bad weather sets in and halts work, we will be able to travel over the new concrete road by the first of the year," declared Mayor M. K. Blount, who was instrumental in getting the Highway Commission to construct the road.

Most of the grading work has been completed and already workers are pouring concrete. Several hundred yards have been poured, starting from the Washington highway end.

The new road is expected to prove of great benefit in relieving congested traffic in the heart of town. When it is completed, most through traffic can travel through the city without passing through Five Points.

Already one connecting link is being constructed between the Tenth street extension and the Washington highway and others probably will follow. The link comes out on the Washington highway in front of M. R. Long's home.

The new road will be one of the most attractive approaches to Greenville and will open up a section of the city heretofore bottled up.

Two N.C. Escapees Taken In Virginia

Richmond, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Two men identified by officers as Eddie Cobb and Roscoe Grice, escaped North Carolina convicts, were held in Henrico county jail today pending arrival of North Carolina authorities.

The two were members of a trio captured about 11 miles south of Fredericksburg yesterday afternoon. The third man gave his name as Paul Douglas Sykes.

Grice escaped alone from the North Carolina Caledonia prison farm, where he was serving a six to eight year sentence on a charge of breaking, entering and larceny. Cobb was one of eight prisoners who escaped from the Central state prison at Raleigh, North Carolina. He was under sentence of 30 to 40 years for burglary with exclusive possession of burglary tools.

Officers said the men had offered no resistance when arrested, after State, County and City officers had blockaded the Washington-Richmond highway. The men were brought to the State prison here for finger printing and gave their names as Jack Lester, 27, William Albert Clark, 33 and Sykes.

Ceremonies Commemorating Founding Discussed

Raleigh, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Members of the North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, discussed today the church-wide Aldergate commemoration of the founding of the Methodist Church 200 years ago by John Wesley.

The commemoration started with annual conferences of the church this year and will get underway in local churches next January, to continue through Aldergate Day, May 24.

Three more ballots for delegates to the general conference next spring resulted in election of Gurney Hood of Raleigh, as another lay delegate, and of Rev. W. I. Clegg of Belhaven, A. J. Hobbs of Wilson, and J. H. Barnhardt of Raleigh, as additional clerical delegates.

One more clerical and another lay delegate must be selected to serve with delegates chosen yesterday.

The conference last night named the Rev. E. F. Fow of Raleigh to head the ministerial delegates to the conference in Birmingham, Ala. Dr. W. P. Few, president of Duke University, was named to head the lay delegates.

Other ministerial delegates chosen last night were the Rev. E. L. Hillman, presiding elder of the New Bern district; Rev. Grant of Greenville; Rev. B. B. Slaughter, presiding elder of the Elizabeth City District; and the Rev. J. M. Ormond.

Annual reports of the Presiding Elder were read and approved. The Rev. W. C. Wilson of Norlina, reported for the Methodist Orphanage committee.

The Methodist Orphanage, located here, was presented a picture of Christ blessing little children. Bishop Paul Kern, president of the conference, gave the picture, saying he secured it while residing in China.

A message of greeting was received from the State Baptist Convention, which ended its annual meeting last night at Wilmington. Joseph Daniels, Ambassador to Mexico, also sent greetings and the conference directed its secretary, Rev. T. M. Grant of Greenville, to write the Ambassador.

Last Of Escapees Back Behind Bars

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 19.—(AP)—It was freedom's end today for three members of the 1933 O'Connell kidnap gang—their capture effected through information supplied by a janitor and a parking lot attendant.

Percy "Angel Face" Geary, leader of the desperate trio which staged a daring escape from the Onondaga county penitentiary at Jamesville, N. Y., was seized yesterday afternoon in a Syracuse parking lot shanty.

The other two, John Oley and Harold Crowley, recaptured Wednesday in a Syracuse rooming house on a tip supplied by Janitor Ivan Whitford, 36 hours after their escape, were brought to Albany and lodged in the county jail there.

JAP SOLDIERS CRACK DEFENSE NEAR NANKING

Occupy Vital Southern Link in "Hindenburg" Line

CENTRE COLUMN NEARS SOOCHOW

U. S. and Other Foreign Embassies Complete Plans to Evacuate Nanking

Shanghai, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Japanese troops today cracked the Southern pivot of the Chinese "Hindenburg line" defending Nanking and struck shattering blows along the Central and Northern fronts.

Fighting through mud and rain, the Japanese drove last Chinese defenders from Kasking and occupied that vital Southern link in the "Hindenburg" chain. Central Japanese columns approached to within three miles of Soochow, the line's keystone, and Northern detachments threatened to make untenable Chinese positions at Chan ghal.

About 125 miles Northwest of the line, 12 Chinese divisions under a veteran general entrenched themselves in strong defense positions just outside Nanking. The Nanking official spokesman declared they were prepared to defend the city "to the last."

Inside Nanking's walls two divisions of troops rushed to the capital from the interior after Shanghai fell into Japanese hands November 9, prepared defense posts to be used in case the city eventually is encircled and besieged.

United States and other foreign embassies completed arrangements to evacuate Nanking and follow the Chinese foreign office to Hankow as soon as Chinese officials announce the shift.

Pontiac Strikers Vote To Continue

Pontiac, Mich., Nov. 19.—(AP)—The Pontiac local of the U. A. W. A. thundered its rejection of a plea from the International Union to abandon a sit-down strike in the plant of the Fisher Body Corporation here early today.

In a tumultuous meeting, which began last night and continued nearly six hours, the automobile workers voted by acclamation to proceed with the strike after Fred Pieper, a member of the International executive board urged them to return to work.

Door Mitchell, president of the local, joined with Pieper in asking the men to discontinue the strike which began Wednesday night and left 14,271 General Motors Corporation employees idle.

Mitchell said the sit-down was "unauthorized" and declined to turn over to the members the local strike fund which is controlled by local union officers. The 2,000 members at the meeting had voted to use the fund for the men who have held the body plant two days and nights.

Pieper, sent here by the International Union to ask the men to call of the strike, said he would return to the Detroit headquarters and International officers would issue a statement later.

Officialdom Not Worried Over Threat To Test Tax

Raleigh, Nov. 19.—Nobody in either the legal or revenue department of the state government is losing any sleep over the threat of the North Carolina Fair Tax Association to bring court action to test constitutionality of the sales tax.

No official of either branch seemed sufficiently impressed with the seriousness of the situation even to comment on the Fair Tax group's action, which reports say was taken "behind closed doors" in a High Point hotel. It seems that as far as scaring anybody is concerned they might just as well have thrown the portals wide open.

"Behind the calm of officials lay knowledge that the sales tax has already been brought to court more than once, and on each occasion it came through unscathed by judicial bans.

In 1936 the Supreme court, at its spring term, upheld the levy on automobiles purchased out of state and brought into it for use,

ABC OFFICERS WRECK STILLS

Two More Plants Located and Destroyed Yesterday

Pitt County ABC officers, working with those of Beaufort county, yesterday located and destroyed two large stills, both situated near the county line. One was a steam plant and the other of the copper type.

In the past several weeks the special officers have captured and destroyed upwards of a dozen stills, most of which were along the Pitt-Beaufort line.

The steam plant, located near Blount's Creek, was in operation, but the man at the still escaped. The officers cut down the still and destroyed 4,000 gallons of beer.

The copper plant was not in operation at the time it was located, but officers found 1,200 gallons of beer on the site.

J. M. Ward and J. L. Taylor are the two Pitt county ABC officers. Lynwood Smithwick and Ben Willis are the officers employed by the Beaufort county ABC board.

The world production of automobiles during the past 10 years totaled 32,146,000 units, of which plants in the United States and Canada accounted for 34,809,000, or about 82 per cent.

Officialdom Not Worried Over Threat To Test Tax

That was in the case of Powell vs. Maxwell. Again at its Fall term that same year, the highest court in North Carolina said "Okay" to the sales tax when it was attacked in the case of McCann vs. Maxwell. The question there was levying the tax on second hand automobiles.

In neither case did attorneys for the anti-taxers go so far as to assail the entire tax statute as unconstitutional, but it seems clear that the court, in upholding both that and used-car taxes thereby ensured the entire tax.

Too, the amendment adopted to the State constitution last year doing away with the old "uniform" rule of taxation and allowing classification, seems to have given the solons virtually a blank check so far as their taxing powers go.

However, Fair Tax officers have to do something or they wouldn't get paid, and so nobody is much surprised at their contemplated action.

BRITISH ENVOY VISITS HITLER

Germany's Colonial Ambitions One Possible Subject

Bechtesgaden, Germany, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Chancellor Hitler, on the doorstep of his Bavarian mountain home, today welcomed Britain's friendship emissary, Viscount Halifax, for a seven-hour visit and possibly an exchange of views on Germany's colonial ambitions.

Neither Hitler nor Halifax entered on the tete-a-tete expecting more than mutual exploratory soundings.

Hitler was determined to keep the leader of the British House of Lords in a position where, in order to take anything concrete home with him, he had to make concrete offers.

From the German viewpoint Hitler, by his various pronouncements in recent months, had made his position clear on questions like colonies, multilateral pacts, armaments and return to the League of Nations.

Officially inspired organs had publicized Nazi demands of autonomy for Germans in Yugoslavia and had given expression to other points of Nazi European policy.

British, as well as German official sources, maintained the strictest silence about the topics for discussion.

Hitler's car was waiting at the railroad station when the Viscount's train pulled in from Berlin. Halifax was accompanied by German Foreign Minister Von Neurath.

Making Plans For Christmas Season

Greenville stores will start remaining open nights until 9 o'clock, beginning Friday, December 17, on which night entertainment will be provided for the children.

This action was taken by a special committee named by President L. A. Stroud.

The merchants also plan to have to have the streets decorated and business houses will be asked to contribute to a fund for this purpose. Plans call for more extensive decorations than in the past.

STILL ANOTHER DAY CONSUMED IN IDLE DEBATE

Committees, However, Near Completion Of Farm Bills

EXPECT SENATE VOTE SATURDAY

Sen. Connally, Texas Democrat, Continues Filibuster Against Anti-Lynching Bill

Washington, Nov. 19.—(AP)—Congressional committees neared completion of farm control bills today, while Senators and Representatives devoted another day to talk.

Chairman Smith (D-S. C.) announced his Senate committee would vote tomorrow on an "ever-normal granary" bill. The House committee, taking a individual items, voted marketing quotas for corn and voted down processing taxes on corn and wheat.

Senators Connally (D-Tex.) continued a filibuster by Southerners against the anti-lynching bill.

The House, starting another day of debate, was prevented from considering a resolution to declare a state of war exists between Japan and China. There was a single objection to consideration, which requires unanimous consent.

A similar resolution was being considered by the Senate. Senator Nye (R-N. Dak.) said a bipartisan group of Senators would meet next week to determine whether such a measure should be drafted.

A House sub-committee tentatively agreed during the day to increase the exemptions from a undistributed profits tax and to make up some of the revenue that would be lost by boosting the normal corporate tax.

In the anti-lynching debate, Connally demanded removal of a big sign condemning lynching from the wall of the Senate chamber.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) and Senator Lewis (D-Ill.) joined in asking an investigation of a report that William Bullitt, American Ambassador to France, had been sent to Poland to "warn" that country against participating in the Italo-German-Japanese anti-Communist pact.

The House Rivers and Harbors Committee ordered hearings to be held next Tuesday on regional planning, a point in President Roosevelt's program for the special session.

Meantime, the President, himself, had a jaw described by one of his aides as "it sticks out like a grapefruit" from the tooth infection that has kept him confined for days.

The chief executive remained upstairs in the residential part of the White House again today, but read his mail and arranged one appointment, with Postmaster General Farley.

Plentiful Supply Of Game To Greet Hunters Saturday

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Nov. 19.—Hunters of North Carolina will answer the invitation of the state to commence firing Saturday, with approximately 150,000 of them licensed to take advantage of the opening of the season for quail, grouse, wild turkeys and rabbits.

One of the largest crops of quail ever awaits the hunters, according to J. D. Chalk, Game and Inland Fish Commissioner of the Department of Conservation and Development.

"The supply of quail is unusually good this year, due to a number of factors," he said, "but chiefly because there was an unusually large supply of natural food for (Continued on Page Two)

Book Week

LIVING WITH BOOKS
(Thoughts On Choosing A Family Library)

May Lamberon Becker has well said "Filling a book case is like gathering a social circle. Some people we know because they are helpful; some because they live next door; some because our parents knew them; and some because they are our dear chosen companions. We build our family library in like manner. We read a review that makes a book seem most intriguing or a book cover is so gay and inviting that we cannot resist it, so the books find their way to our shelves. Others are there because they are the gifts of friends. Some hold a place of prominence because they contain some gem of wisdom that is read and reread and interpreted to suit each varying mood. Outside of our own book possessions are the numerous volumes which we browse through, choosing choice bits to remember. We are content for these to remain in our public library where we may retain speaking acquaintance with them, rather than to gather them to that more intimate circle of our own home library.

In choosing books for our own home library, we desire to put on our shelves only those books which will live for us. The books which come to life for any individual are those books which express for him from the rocky edges of the struggles, disappointments and achievements. They need must be like friends—human.

Harry Emerson Fosdick has said: "Some books are our servants. They run errands for us. They are mental drudges. They buy us information. They tell us news. They keep us up to date. They equip us for trade. But the great books are not our slaves; they are our masters; we sit at their feet to learn."

Your library perhaps needs servants, but surely the great masters should have first place, for at their feet we learn wisdom.

Books are as necessary to a mentally alert personality as food is to a physically healthful one. In planning a well balanced meal, there must be variety—some crisp and some soft foods. Perhaps there is a very special treat, for father or mother's favorite is considered. Certainly the food needs of the growing children are considered. We check up with, "Have you had your vitamin 'D' today?" We should spend equal thought on planning a family library, properly balanced for each member of the family and for the varying moods of each. We should check up with such questions as these: Have you had a daily challenge? Have your ideas of living been enlarged? Has your creative spiritual power been appealed to? Have your sympathies and understandings been broadened? If your daily diet of reading does not measure up to these standards, you are on the verge of a state of mental malnourishment—a pitiable state indeed!

Here are some suggestions for helping you balance your family reading budget:

Elementary School—(Guess). And to think I saw it on Mulberry Street, Junior High—Davis, Girl's Book of Verse; Fish, Boys' Book of Verse; Allen, Behave Yourself; Davis, No Other White Men; Robinson, Bright Island; Kipling; Captains Courageous, Twa'n, Tom Sawyer.

High School—Hamilton. How They Started; Nine Famous Men Begin Their Careers; Roberts, Northwest Passage; Log Cabin Lady.

Adults—Carnegie, How To Win Friends and Influence People; Heller, American Doctor's Odyssey; Link, Return To Religion; Carrell, Man, the Unknown.

Books for Parents—(On child training problems and family problems)—Child Study Association of America, Parents' Questions; Gilbreth, Living With Our Children; Myers, The Modern Parent; Orchids On Your Budget; and New Patterns In Sex.

Y. W. C. A. Speaker

Guest speaker at the college Y. W. C. A. service Sunday night at 6:30 will be the Rev. Claude Nelson, Decatur, Ga., Southern Secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation. Mr. Nelson comes to Greenville direct from attendance upon the North Carolina Conference of the Methodist Church, now in progress in Raleigh, of which Conference he is a member.

Mr. Nelson will also speak on Monday night at 8 o'clock in the Presbyterian Church to a group to whom letters of invitation have been sent out by Dr. Lucile Turner of the college and Revs. W. Ryan and R. C. Grady, local members of the Fellowship.

A Rhodes Scholar in 1910 to 1913 from Hendrix College, Ark. to Pembroke College, Oxford University, England, Mr. Nelson has gained a reputation as a brilliant student of international problems. From 1916 to 1919 he served prisoners of war in Russia, Germany and this country. His next seven years were spent in post-war reconstruction, chiefly with students, in Switzerland and Italy. Much of his life has been spent in residence in foreign countries. Following his work in post-war reconstruction, Mr. Nelson served for eight years as regional secretary of the Student Y. W. C. A. in the South and Southeast.

In recent years he has served as Southern Secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, a group of men and women of many nations and races who recognize the unity of the world-wide human family and wish to explore the possibilities of love for discovering truth, dispelling antagonisms and reconciling people, despite all differences, in a friendly society," who "believe that love, such as that seen preeminently in Jesus, must serve as the true guide for personal conduct, under all circumstances and who seek to demonstrate this love as the effective force for overcoming evil and transforming society into a creative fellowship."

or by persons who have stopped their cars to put these fires out. This cooperation on the part of the public is saving the state thousands of dollars. We are hoping it will continue, since the more helpful the public becomes in guarding against forest fires, the less will be the fire loss and the greater will become the value of our forest lands.

The farmers of the state are becoming increasingly careful in burning brush and ditches and virtually no fires are resulting from this cause, McCormick said.

PLENTIFUL SUPPLY OF GAME TO GREAT HUNTERS
quail last winter, together with a mild winter followed by a favorable nesting season this spring and summer.

The supply of grouse in the mountain counties is also large, Chalk said. Experts contend that grouse follow a regular life cycle of about eight years, and North Carolina is now on the up side of the cycle, Chalk declared.

There will be no need for landowners to look out for grouse, however, as these birds seldom are found below the 2,500 foot level this far south. But in the mountain sections they are to be found in abundance anywhere above the 3,000-foot level, Chalk said.

The state's wild turkey crop is still more or less limited, but there has been some increase especially in areas where birds raised on the game farm near Fayetteville have been released.

The rabbit crop should be good, according to the game commission.

The season for deer and bear is still open and will remain open until January 1, while the squirrel season will remain open until January 15.

Hunters should remember, Chalk said, that the season for migratory fowl does not open until Thanksgiving, these birds being under federal protection.

Beware Coughs That Hang On
No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest sore or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

The Characters

Nina, Junior Leaguer and ex-debutante, impulsively married David, hoping to end her intense love for her stepfather. Richard, the charming well-tailored stepfather, back from a long cruise, resumes his love-making to Nina. Honey, Nina's gay, childish mother, is wild about Richard and does not suspect the strong attraction between him and Nina. David, a bright young auto salesman on a small salary, adores Nina but they argue over money matters.

Chapter 40

'To Belong To You'

AT Yonkers they cut over to the Sawmill River road. Some of the maybes were beginning to turn, but the rain had washed the grass a lovely, young green again. There were puffy, autumn-y clouds in the sky.

Richard let the Renault out ... 65 ... 70 ... They were stopped by a parkway motor-cycle cop, and Richard talked himself out of a ticket by using just the right amount of good fellowship and a hint of authority.

"Of course I was breaking the law, Officer, but she's brand new, just broken in enough to test her speed ... You know how it is ... Faddy McLean, in Dobbs Ferry, is a personal friend of mine, Officer ... Yes ... You're a good sport, man. Thanks, I'll be careful ... They started up again.

Richard kept to a conservative 55. At Ardsley they turned off, and after a few miles drove in between high entrance gates to a long, brick house, that overlooked the Hudson.

Richard said: "Adorable," against her ear, and then began to kiss her—slowly.

"What's this, Richard? It isn't an inn, is it?"

And he said: "No. A friend of mine—Cenroy—lives here, but he's wintering in Europe. Met him, this summer ... He told me to use the place whenever I liked. His man used to valet for us both, in London, once. We'll be nicely—alone."

"Very—nicely." Richard had telephoned, so that the butler was ready for them. "I prepared the loggia, Mr. Chaloner, sir."

They walked through a wide hall, and a living-room—shrouded, not too gloomily, in slip-covers, and on to the veranda.

Tea Was A Joke A GOLDEN sun was getting all ready to sink later, behind the Palisades. There were golden asters, and bronze chrysanthemums in a vase on the table.

The man lit the flame under a silver kettle, brought cakes and sandwiches, and stronger beverages in a decanter which he placed on a low stand, and departed.

A smooth, sloping lawn, giant oak trees, and bright sky formed a frame for the river.

A white yacht glided by. Nina said: "We'll be on a boat some day ... you and I ..."

And Richard kissed her. Tea, itself, was a joke, really. Nina said: "You read things about: 'her lovely hands fluttered among the tea things, like two white doves' ... but I'm making a mess of it. I'm too excited—being with you."

"I'm not exactly—level-headed, at the moment, either, you know!"

"Shall we abandon this? ... Wrap up a few sandwiches and dump them out of the car, later, so as not to hurt the man's feelings?"

Richard laughed. "That's like you. But forget the man. Think of my feelings ... tell me that you love me, Nina."

—so you'll know the next time. Give your courtesy muscles a little exercise. Rise at the proper moments. That means rising for faculty members. It is also a good idea to practice on seniors.

Come to class on time. Also say good morning to the professor. And sit in at least a semi-becoming manner in the classroom. ("Incidentally," the booklet adds slyly, "be nice to the same classmate is considered introduction enough—if you want to speak to that handsome senior two rows behind.")

Future No Disgrace Learn to smoke fastidiously. Buy your own cigarettes. Put your ashes and general debris in ash trays where they belong. But don't smoke in the corridors, on the street or on the dance floor.

He said: "Adorable ..." against her ear, and then began to kiss her ... slowly ... little ones that were just pressing, really, against her temple, her closed eyes, her cheek ... But when he reached her lips, it was a different kind of kiss it demanded. It took, it seemed never ending ... And Nina never wanted it to end.

It swept through her in a dizzying, burning tide. Something was pressing, pressing against her heart, and when she put her hand up, she found Richard's there.

He released her to whisper something which she could not hear ... but only for a moment his lips were on hers again ... insatiate ...

And even this time, when he freed her, he had not had enough

"What Shall We Do?"

"NINA you know what I've been meaning, don't you ... don't you? That I've got to have you ... you that must belong to me—really—fully. We can't go on this way. It's torture. It's ..."

"It isn't—necessary, now, Richard." Nina was whispering, because her breathing was still so Greenville extends a cordial welcome to the members of the Northeastern District Teachers Association gathered in convention here today and tomorrow. For several years East Carolina Teachers College has acted as host to the convention and the people of our city are beginning to look forward more and more to this gathering of teachers here each fall. To those who have visited our city on previous occasions we say "Welcome Back to Greenville," and to those who are here for their first time we say, "Welcome to Greenville, and may your brief stay here be so pleasant as to make you want to come again."

Pitt County citizens will regret the announcement by Roy T. Cox that on the first Monday in December he will resign as chairman of the Board of County Commissioners. Not only will they regret the loss to the county but they will regret the fact that Mr. Cox's health at this time forces him to take this step. Even though he cannot continue on as chairman of the board it is to be hoped that his health will permit him to continue to serve as a member of the board, for we say without hesitation that Roy Cox is one of the best men who has ever served this county in the capacity of a public official.

More than 10,750,000 women were in gainful employment in the United States at the time of the 1930 census—almost six times as many as were so occupied in 1870.

By HENRY AVERILL

Reflected Bureau. Raleigh, Nov. 18.—"Where will the convention be held?" a reporter asked Bishop Paul B. Kern, presiding over the big Methodist gathering here.

"You're a Baptist, aren't you?" counter-queried the prelate. "Yes, sir—but how did you know it?" came back the astonished news gatherer.

"Oh, I know you were one of those things as soon as you asked me about the 'convention.' You see we have 'conferences' you have 'conventions' explained the bishop.

Talking about the Methodist conference, as we were, and about rubbing it in, which we weren't.

Tom East, veteran newspaper correspondent, has been covering the Conference with a large badge from which stream dark blue and white ribbons, pinned on his jacket. Inscribed on the badge in large letters:

"DUKE, Rose Bowl Bound"

John D. Chalk, Commissioner of Game and Inland Fish of the Department of Conservation and Development, is in Washington presiding over a meeting of Zone 10, National Planning Council of Fish Commissioners.

He is chairman of the zone which includes the states of Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina.

State Senator Lee L. Graveley, Rocky Mount, one of the most influential members of the General Assembly, was in Raleigh Wednesday and Thursday, but didn't have anything to say for quotation regarding politics.

Reporting on the first month's activity of the State Highway Patrol radio system, over which 12,258 calls were made between September 27 and October 31, Paul Rosekrans, chief engineer, commented on the change of attitude on the part of various law enforcement agencies throughout the state.

"At the beginning it was apparent that the system was not highly regarded by these agencies, and rather than try to make an issue of the matter we assumed an attitude of full co-operation only where it was asked.

"It is very gratifying to report that some ten or fifteen cities have purchased receiving sets (used) to our frequency and are now monitoring all of our transmissions. We have no way at present to tell the exact number but we believe that it will be only a short time before all cities having a regular police force will be using our service.

A poet of the North Carolina coast country, Andrew J. Howell, of Wilmington, will read selections from his poems at the forthcoming session of the state Literary and Historical Association, it has been announced by Dr. C. C. Crittenden secretary of the association.

"Only recently the Welfare Department woke up to the fact that it is no longer invited into conference on the rules and regulations by which the prison department is to be run, although the Constitution expressly gives the Welfare Department supervision of North Carolina's prisons," commented Attorney General A. A. F. Sewell in an address to Welfare Department workers in Charlotte Thursday.

It's dollars to doughnuts Mike Dunningan, press agent for the Employment service, doesn't put out any more propaganda for his boss, Mrs. J. B. Spillman in department releases.

HOPES HELD BY VIRGINIA TEAM

Showing Against Navy Encouraging to Cavaliers

Chapel Hill, N. C., Nov. 19.—If Virginia's Cavaliers can offer another encore to those dazzling, spirited exhibitions against North Carolina that they showed against Maryland and Navy, the Tar Heels can expect a close game when these traditional institutions clash here Thanksgiving Day in the renewal of Dixie's oldest continuous rivalry.

The Cavaliers fought Navy's vaunted Middies on almost even terms for three quarters and headed into the final period only six points behind—19 to 13. But the Sailor's superior reserve power finally told over the tired but Old Dominioners. Navy previously had turned in an impressive performance against Citadel, Pennsylvania, William and Mary, and Notre Dame.

Against Maryland, Virginia offered perhaps its most stirring exhibition of the season. The highly favored Old Line, with an impressive 13 to 0 upset victory over powerful Syracuse, were fought to a standstill all the way. In the late stages of the game a desperate Maryland team called for a field goal and John Mandriff, tackle, came through brilliantly, with a 3-yard boot. Otherwise, the Cavaliers matched the Maryland play in every respect.

Virginia also has to its credit this season victories over William and Mary 7 to 0 and Hampden Sydney 13 to 7.

The Cavaliers have been playing in and out ball all season. Coupled with their four impressive exhibitions they have performed listlessly on four other occasions. They dropped one-sided decisions to Princeton and V. M. I. and lost one-touchdown margins to Wash-

FAIR WEATHER SEEN FOR GAME

Duke and State in Top Form for Battle Tomorrow

Raleigh, Nov. 19.—With fair weather promised and Eddie (Little Buzzer) Berlinski and Elmore (Honey) Hackney ready to run at top form, a capacity crowd is expected for tomorrow's annual grid battle between State and Duke in Riddick Stadium.

The kickoff has been set for 2 o'clock.

The name is the headline attraction in the Southern Conference and will be viewed by the largest crowd to see a game in Riddick Stadium this year.

It will be the 14th meeting of State and Duke in football. Although the rivalry is the youngest in the Big Five, it is one of the keenest and is the most closely contested.

State-Duke games of past years have fooled fans more consistently than any other Big Five game. Time and again fans have expected only a mediocre game, with Duke to win by a top-heavy score. But year after year the under-dog Wolfpack has given the favored Blue Devils a great battle and has upset them many times. Fans have ceased to be fooled, however, and last year 18,000 saw the teams meet at Duke.

State and Duke have never played a tie game although most of their battles have been decided by one touchdown margins. They have met 13 times. Duke has been the winner seven times and State six. The winner Saturday will clinch runner-up honors in the Big Five. Duke is favored to win by several touchdowns, but pre-season dope means nothing when these eleven get together.

Saturday's battle will be a powerful one, featuring Eddie Berlinski and Elmore Hackney, senior backs. They rank among the best backs of the nation. Berlinski's three long runs in the Boston College game have not been bettered by any back in the country.

Although Berlinski has played brilliantly the entire season, his one standout performance against Boston has done more than any one other thing to place him at the top of the leading backs of the year. The same Saturday will be the last for Berlinski and 12 other seniors on the State squad. Hackney has one more game as Duke meets Pitt next week.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Nov. 19.—(AP)—A broad selling wave hit the stock market after-noon today and washed leaders down one to more than five points. Dealings were moderate during the first two hours, but urgent offerings shortly thereafter put the ticker tape behind for a brief interval. Extreme losses were reduced moderately near the fourth hour. Most furnished no solace, mostly being inclined to slide.

Lord Rayleigh, one of England's foremost scientists, reports positive proof that the lights don't exist outside the brain of the person who sees them. It was probably a "fool experiment," he says in the scientific journal Nature, but he had to know. He arranged a camera so that its plates were exposed for 30 days to the places where magnetic-electrical lights would appear. If real. This was 60 times the exposure necessary to detect anything the human eye could see. There was nothing on the plates.
