Protests Seizure Of U.S. Vessel By Japanese Sailors

FLAG LOWERED BY JAP CREW

Italian Authorities Also Understood To have Complained Of Similar Action; Reports Come From Front Line Fighting That Invaders Continue Toward Nanking

Shanghai, Nov. 30—(AP)—American Consul General Clarence Gause protested to the Japanese consulate today after a Japanese naval crew seized an American-owned steam launch and lowered the craft's American flag.

The launch, owned by the China Foreign Steamship Company, an American firm and agent of the Roosevelt line, was seized as it lay along the French Bund.

It was understood Italian authorities also protested against seizure of two vessels flying the Italian flag.

Earlier the French Ambassador had said Japanese air bombs had destroyed a Catholic orphanage at Nanking and killed 86 Chinese children.

He also said 150 refugees, four French sisters and five Chinese sisters who were at the orphanage were missing.

The report came as the Japanese continued their advance on Nanking. The Chinese defenders of the almost deserted capital were reported falling back to a line 40 to 60 miles east and southeast of the city with Japanese columns in pursuit.

The orphanage bombing took place 15 days ago, but was reported today to Ambassador Emile Naggar by a French and Italian father who walked 10 days from Kashing to Ningpo and boarded a vessel for Shanghai.

Japanese army communiques said the Chinese had retreated nearly to the fortified line of Chingkiang-Tanyang-Kintan, near Nanking.

Find Automobiles Stolen From City

Local officers are proving unusually efficient at recovering stolen cars, two such vehicles having been recovered within a short while after they were taken.

A car belonging to Charles Laugh, inhouse stolen Saturday night was found abandoned on Tenth street last night. One stolen off Cotanche street last night was located early this morning. The car, owned by Nick Basheer, operator of the Frozen Delight cafe, was said to have been found in a ditch between Greenville and Kinston.

Another car stolen Friday night also has been located.

It was believed the cars were "borrowed" and not stolen by any organized automobile thieves.

Commission Sells Greenville Bonds

Raleigh, Nov. 30—(AP)—The Local Government Commission sold $230,000 worth of bonds for Greenville and Raleigh today and authorized Rocky Mount to issue $500,000 electric light and water supply securities as approved in an election.

The Wachovia Bank and Trust Company and Lewis and Hall Inc. bought the $150,000 Greenville securities. An issue of $115,000 water works extension bonds at a premium of $2, with the first $94,000 of securities bearing three and three-quarter per cent interest and the rest three and one-half per cent. A $35,000 sewage extension issue brought $1 premium, with the first $29,000 of maturity having three and three-quarter per cent interest and the rest three and one-half per cent.

SEN. BARKLEY OUTLINES GOAL FOR CONGRESS

Hopes to End Action On Four Major Problems

ADMITS PROGRAM OPTIMISTIC VIEW

Expresses Hope Senate Will Complete Action on Farm Bill Before End of Week

Washington, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Majority Leader Barkley said today he expected the Senate to complete action on new farm legislation, the anti-lynching bill, government reorganization and housing legislation before the special session ends.

He outlined "this goal" after a long conference with Democratic Senators on the steering committee. He admitted his program was optimistic in view of plans to end the special session "about December 22" for the year-end holiday.

Barkley said Chairman Harrison (D-Miss.) of the Finance Committee had discussed the demand for tax revision to aid business, but added there was slight chance for legislative action in the special session. Harrison, Barkley asserted, (Continued on Page Six)

Dies Of Injuries In Highway Wreck

William LaFayette Ross, aged 66, died at his home at Fleming's Cross Roads this morning at eight o'clock. Mr. Ross succumbed to injuries he received in a collision between a car in which he was riding, and an automobile driven by Ralph C. Murray, of Spring Hope.

Mr. Ross had spent his entire life in Pitt county. He was a member of Parker's Chapel Free Will Baptist church.

Funeral services will be conducted from the late home Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. R. F. Pittman of Ayden, assisted by Rev. M. A. Woodard of Winterville, both Free Will Baptist ministers. Burial will be in the family graveyard.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Susie Clemmons Ross; two sons, Clifton Ross of Ayden, and Hubert Ross of Greenville; and two daughters, Mrs. E. L. Sutton of Macleesfield, and Mrs. F. V. Stokes of Greenville.

Active pallbearers will be: A. J. Cox, J. E. Everett, Robert Hatton, Marcellus House, E. R. Dudley and Lyman Brewer.

Coroner Frees Driver In Fatal Auto Wreck

Raleigh, Nov. 30—(AP)—Coroner L. M. Waring ruled today evidence submitted at an inquest into the death of H. H. Davis, Winston-Salem and Lumberton tobacco warehouseman, failed to warrant holding Frank Monaghan for Superior court.

Davis was killed in automobile accident eight miles south of Raleigh the night of September 19. The inquest was postponed several times.

Waring, in announcing his decision that he found no probable cause against Monaghan, a Pennsylvania showman, told counsel for the Davis family a transcript of the testimony would be available for the solicitor if he cared to study the case.

Hoey Says Present Slump Is Largely Psychological

Raleigh, Nov. 30—Governor Hoey doesn't say anything about prosperity having gone back "around the corner," but he does believe that the present slacking up of industry is largely psychological.

"People just will not buy on a declining market," he said. "But if any single thing turns up to start the market upward, buying will begin again in brisk style."

The governor was talking about the unemployment situation in North Carolina and about the workings of the unemployment compensation law which will begin to take care of many idle workers after the first of January. His remarks about business were made while Charles G. Powell, chairman of the employment commission, was waiting to go over the situation with him.

Five Main Problems To Be Discussed By Two Unions

Washington, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor-Committee for Industrial Organization peace conference agreed today that five main issues were blocking reunion of the two labor unions.

The issues to be discussed at tomorrow's meeting of the conference are:

1. What industries are adapted to the industrial type of unionization? 2. What the status of the C. I. O. would be after the two factions reunited.

3. What constitutional amendment the conference should recommend to the next A. F. of L. convention. 4. What machinery should be created to make any lasting peace agreements effective.

5. How many delegates the C. I. O. unions could send to the A. F. of L. convention that would ratify any agreement reached by the conferees.

Philip Murray, chairman of the C. I. O. committee, said that even agreement on those five points would not mean the strife between the two organizations was over.

George Harrison, head of the A. F. of L. conferees, described the agreement to consider the five issues as "progress."

Earlier he had said that John L. Lewis must "end the C. I. O." before there could be labor peace.

The Lewis forces yesterday, Harrison said, had insisted the A. F. of L. make a written list of the unions the federation would allow to be organized on an industrial basis.

Four Eclipses Due During Next Year

Raleigh, Nov. 30—Four eclipses, two of the sun and two of the Moon will occur in the year 1938, according to the Carolina Co-operator Year book and Almanac, now off the press.

The first total eclipse will occur on May 13-14 around midnight and will be visible in this section. A total eclipse of the sun, invisible to North America, will follow on May 29.

A total eclipse of the Moon will take place on November 7-8 the ending of which will be visible in the United States. A partial eclipse of the Sun is slated for November 21, but this will be invisible to the United States.

The Carolina Co-operator Year book and Almanac is a 100 page daily reference guide for farmers. In addition to helpful farm reminders, it also contains witticisms, nuggets of philosophy, and salty humor.

HALT TRIAL OF ASHEBORO MEN

Sickness Confines Judge to Fayetteville Hotel

Fayetteville, Nov. 30—(AP)—The trial of four Asheboro men on charges growing out of the fatal shooting of Sergeant J. C. Iott, on the Fort Bragg reservation October 16 was recessed today until tomorrow because of the illness of presiding Judge G. V. Cowper.

Cowper was confined to his hotel room and his physician announced he had suffered an attack of influenza.

Many technicalities will face the court on reconvening.

One technicality, considered by the court a major one, was eliminated yesterday when Judge Cowper refused to let the prosecution read a statement made by one of the defendants. The court held that one of the defendants was not present when the statement was sworn to.

Bill Cross is charged with murder of Hal Rush, Walt Ruth and Jesse Crofts are charged with being accessories before and after the fact.

No Charges Filed Against Anderson

C. L. Williamson of near Bethel is free under bond of $300 on a charge of hit and run driving late Saturday afternoon.

Williamson is alleged to have run into Raymond Anderson on the Greenville-Bethel highway. No charges have been preferred against Anderson. In a report of the wreck yesterday The Reflector erroneously stated that Anderson was accused of hit and run driving. Although Anderson has not complained, The Reflector is glad to make the correction to relieve him of any embarrassment.

Gold Rush In This State Follows Mine Discoveries

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Nov. 30—Gold is on the way back in North Carolina, and not since California in 1849 eclipsed this state's mines has there been so much gold fever among landowners.

Until the sensational discoveries on the West Coast, North Carolina was the nation's greatest gold producing state. After almost a century of quiescence, prospectors once more are probing Carolina creek beds and draining long forgotten shafts. Today six large gold mines in the state each are producing around $200,000 worth of gold annually. Several smaller mines are expanding operations, and extensive drilling is underway on other gold-bearing properties.

As a result of present prospecting, additional mines are expected to be opened by spring 1938, says H. J. Bryson, state geologist and chief of the mineral resources division of the Department of Conservation and Development.

The most recent gold mine to go into full production is the Capps Mine, Mecklenburg county, owned by a Toronto, Canada, syndicate. This company completed a new 100-ton cyanide reduction mill a few weeks ago and went into production the last week in November. It has blocked out approximately 25,000 tons of ore expected to yield about $12 a ton in addition to some 65,000 tons of $10 ore previously blocked out. All of this ore is above the 350 foot level. Another large vein also has been opened, the extent of which has not yet been determined. State Geologist Bryson said.

ACTION SOUGHT BY ROOSEVELT

Chief Executive Declares Definite Steps Must Be Taken To Balance Budget; Revolt to Suggestion Started by Western Senators Even Before Message Read

Washington, Nov. 30.—(AP)—President Roosevelt asked Congress today to reduce greatly the government's immediate financial outlay for aiding the states in highway construction.

Asserting "definite steps" are necessary to balance the budget, Mr. Roosevelt proposed in a special message:

1. Cancellation of a $214,000,000 appropriation authorized for distribution among the states during the 1938 fiscal year.

2. Spreading over the next two fiscal years a $200,000,000 appropriation balance authorized by the present (1938) fiscal year.

3. A limit of $125,000,000 annually on all public roads authorizations for and after the 1940 fiscal year (compared to a total of $235,000,000 each for 1938 and 1939).

4. Revision of the federal aid highway law to eliminate a requirement that the federal government apportion to the various states the annual amount authorized for appropriations.

Mr. Roosevelt pointed out since enactment of the first federal aid highway act in 1916 more than $3,100,000,000 of regular and emergency appropriations have gone from the federal treasury into road building.

He contrasted the $299,000,000 annual average for the last five years with an average of less than $100,000,000 in each of the five years preceding the depression.

Western Senators led an incipient revolt against Mr. Roosevelt's curtailment recommendations even before the message reached the capitol.

If the report proves correct, informed sources said, it will mean Japan already has started closing the "open door" of commercial equality in China for all nations.

Explosions Wreck Two Phila. Homes

Philadelphia, Nov. 30—(AP)—An explosion wrecked two residences in suburban Merion today and firemen dug into the smoldering ruins to learn whether any of the occupants was trapped.

Firemen said accumulated gas in the basement might have caused the blast. They were told a rumbling had been heard in the gas pipes a few minutes before the explosion.

The first explosion was at the home of A. B. Brehman, an attorney, and the second at the home of L. S. Herbert, about a block away.

The seriousness of his injuries were not known, pending the completion of an examination by doctors at Pitt General hospital, where he was taken.

Dedicatory Sermon By Their First Pastor

Rev. J. N. H. Summerell, of Anderson, S. C., who was the first pastor of the Presbyterian church here and to whose earnest efforts is largely due the organization of the church and building of their House of Worship, has accepted an invitation to preach the dedicatory sermon on the third Sunday in December. That Sunday has been selected for the dedication of the church and it is very fitting that Rev. Mr. Summerell should be present and take the most prominent part in the exercises.

Christian Science Church.

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Alas Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced," was the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, November 28.

The golden text was from Prov. 14:22. "Do they not err that devise evil but mercy and truth shall be to them that devise good."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-sermon was the following from the Bible: "Thus saith the Lord God; Woe unto the foolish prophets, that follow their own spirit, and have seen nothing! They have seen vanity and lying divination, saying, The Lord saith; and the Lord hath not sent them; and they have made others to hope that they would confirm the word. Have ye not seen a vain vision, and have ye not spoken a lying divination, whereas ye say, The Lord saith; albeit I have not spoken? Therefore thus saith the Lord God; Because ye have spoken vanity, and seen lies, therefore, behold, I am against you, saith the Lord God." (Ezek. 13: 3, 6-9).

The lesson-sermon also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "As named in Christian Science, animal magnetism or hypnotism is the specific term for error, or mortal mind. It is the false belief that mind is in matter, and is both evil and good; that evil is as real as good and more powerful. This belief has not one quality of truth."

REFUGEES FIND NEW HAPPINESS

Loyalist Youngsters Safe in Boarding Schools

(By the AP Feature Service)
Valencia—Many stories have come out of loyalist Spain describing the roving anemic looking children huddled in fearful groups in subways and makeshift shelters, waiting for the next bomb to strike.

But another side of the picture shows cheerful healthy looking Spanish children who spend their days in classrooms and playgrounds, much as children in a normal, peaceful world.

At Peroles, near here, and in other quiet sectors along the coast, the loyalist government has established "boarding schools" for the young victims of war. They are called children's colonies.

Many of them are orphans and refugees. Others have been sent back to school and safety while their working class parents stayed on in Madrid to run the public services and otherwise help the fight.

To many of the youngsters, the new surroundings are nicer than homes they knew before. At Peroles for instance, they live in five villas within sight of a sandy beach. They take shower baths daily, play a variety of games.

They learn general subjects, languages, drawing. Many of the boys study manual training, while the girls, true to Spanish tradition, busy themselves with embroidery.

Meals are cooked in a central building which also houses a library where the students go to read and write letters home.

On Saturday afternoons in many of the colonies, the youngsters assemble to dance and sing folk songs.

These are happy, carefree days compared to the nightmare they lived in at start of the revolution. And yet—every colony bears a sl-

'Front-Drive' Boats Easier On Rivers

Mannheim, Germany, Nov. 29.—(AP)—Trial runs here of a new river craft, with propellers in the bow instead of the stern, indicate the boat may revolutionize shipping on canals and small rivers.

Steadily increasing speed of river and canal craft has been a source of constant worry to authorities in charge of waterways.

Narrow canals and rivers have suffered from fast craft because suction, created by waves formed by these boats, damage the embankments and river beds.

So far no remedy had been found except reduction of speed, a step, however, which is not economical because only part of the boat's engine power is utilized.

The newly constructed vessel, measuring approximately 220 feet in length and driven by two Diesel engines of 135 horsepower each, has eliminated these difficulties. It goes through the water like a fish—its constructors say.

This is made possible, it is explained, by placing the two propellers at the bow, thereby securing pulling power instead of the usual pushing force.

Furthermore, the two propellers, run in steel cylinders—the so-called Kortze Dues—with an extended diameter at front, construction not only eliminates all wave formation, but creates additional pressure, thereby increasing the effectiveness of the propellers, it was asserted.

Trial trips conducted on the Neckar Canal under critical eyes of the canal authorities proved the boat traveling at a speed of seven-and-a-half miles an hour—more than twice the canal speed limit—did not produce any waves.

FARMERS OPEN STATE COTTON NORFOLK FIRM NETS PREMIUM

Farmer-Owned Fertilizer Plant Holds Official Opening

Raleigh, Nov. 30.—North Carolina farmers, some 350 strong and from all sections of the state, will go to Norfolk, Va., on December 8 for the official opening of one of the largest farmer owned fertilizer plants in the world. M. G. Mann, general manager of the Farmers Co-operative Exchange, said here today.

The plant, which is owned by patrons of the Farmers Co-operative Exchange and of the Southern States Co-operative and which will manufacture open-formula fertilizers according to college-approved formulas, displays this sign prominently: "Farmers have bought and paid for many fertilizer plants in the past, but this is one they really own." It has an annual capacity of 75,000 tons.

All told a thousand or more farmers and farm leaders are expected to be present for the inspection of the plant and a major part of the program will be devoted to the discussion of cooperative manufacturing and purchasing of fertilizer.

Commenting on the growth of the cooperative manufacturing and purchasing of fertilizers on the part of farmers, Mr. Mann pointed out that patrons of the Farmers Co-operative Exchange and of the Southern States Co-operative have purchased cooperatively three tons of fertilizer this year to each ton they purchased last year.

Among those appearing on the program will be W. W. Eagles of Maclefield, president of the FCX; M. G. Mann, general manager; and W. G. Wisor, general manager of Southern States, and T. K. Wolfe, director of distribution.

Majority of Lint Running Above Average Staple

Raleigh, Nov. 30.—Eighty five per cent of the cotton ginned in North Carolina to date is running 15-16 or longer in staple and as such should demand a premium, according to M. G. Mann, general manager of the North Carolina Cotton Growers Co-operative Association, who stressed the importance of farmers having their cotton graded by government license classifiers before offering it for sale.

Mr. Mann said that premiums on cotton being handled through the Association are ranging as high as $15 a bale, and he pointed out that by marketing their cotton in such a way as to get the full grade and staple premium North Carolina farmers can put an additional three million dollars in their pockets.

Mr. Mann reported that deliveries to the Association are running well over three times as much as they did during the corresponding period a year ago. Not only do farmers like to get their full grade and staple premiums, but they also like to get their loan through an agency that will protect them from any come back in case the cotton is taken over by the Commodity Credit Corporation, he said, adding that the Cotton Association absolutely stands back of its grades and will protect the farmer from any come back whatsoever.

Moscow—(AP)—Regular dirigible passenger service between Moscow and Sverdlovsk, a distance of 850 miles, is planned for next year, following test flights with a 15-passenger airship that made the trip in 20 hours. It is planned to extend the line to Krasnoyarsk, Siberia.

The most important use of sealing wax at the present time is in the construction of dry batteries.

HIGH-SCORING CROP JUDGERS

Raleigh, Nov. 30.—Members of N. C. State College's high scoring crop judging team who rated with the best at Kansas City and Chicago last week are pictured here.

The state team was second only to Nebraska in the International Collegiate Crop Judging Contest at Chicago, held in connection with the International Livestock Exposition.

In this contest, Van S. Watson, Jr., of Rocky Mount, scored higher than any other individual competing.

N. C. State took third place at the crop-judging contest in Kansas City, Mo., in connection with the American Royal Livestock show. Nebraska and Oklahoma were first and second.

On this trip the boys added more laurels to the record of State College's crop judging teams, which have won more first, second and third places during the past several years than teams from any other college or university.

LENINGRAD TAKES ITS DRAMA SERIOUSLY

Leningrad—(AP)—A member of the audience was so carried away by an espionage play in the Gorky House of Culture here that he shouted defiance from his seat to the actor in the role of a spy.

The scene was the office of an official who was questioning a foreign spy before trial.

"We have thousands of secret spies," the prisoner said.

That was the cue for a sharp voice in the audience to shout: "We have millions of open spies and you can't escape us anywhere."

Raleigh, Nov. 30—This city's "main drag" is now all dressed up in its Christmas clothes...

Proof that no depression has yet hit this immediate section is given every day in the throng of shoppers...

Governor Clyde R. Hoey has offered somebody the post just vacated by Capt. Wayne as head of the Division of Purchase and Award...

If the post is to be filled from the "ranks" W. Z. Jettis is a very good bet; with Vance Baise as a not altogether impossible dark horse.

Governor Hoey will do his dedication act twice this week—first at Greenville's new armory Wednesday, and then at the North Carolina College for Negroes, Durham, next Sunday.

A month or so ago Tom Cooper, Wilmington's ebullient mayor, was raising the roof with his verbal castration of the "Raleigh gang."

Right now Mayor Tom Cooper wants the local government commission, an integral part of the "Raleigh Gang" to approve certain orders for use in Wilmington.

David H. Stowe, assistant director of the North Carolina State Employment Service...

Major topics of discussion at the conference are (1) assistance to the states by the U. S. E. S. training supervisors; (2) the duties of state training supervisors; (3) problems of administration in state training programs; and (4) training technique.

David L. Strain, Durham, has announced he will run for U. S. Senate, if C. L. Shuping, Greensboro decides to enter the race.

Which reminds this correspondent of the two brothers down in Wilmington who got into a sheriff's primary some years ago.

The brothers, Louis and Linwood, had been bitter enemies for years—and everybody knows just how bitter brothers can be when they are enemies.

Came the primary and Linwood announced he would be a candidate. The next day Louis rushed into the office of the local paper, breathing fire and brimstone.

"Print this announcement for me," he fairly shrieked. "I'm going to run for sheriff too. I know I haven't any chance, but I'll show that lousy condemned son of a so and so I can get more votes than he can."

(Ed Note) There were some 7,000 votes cast in the primary. Linwood got 37, if memory is correct. Louis 35.

The slot machine forces made another stand in Supreme court Tuesday, their attorneys arguing on appeal a case in which the 1937 law banning all forms of the "one-armed bandits."

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grover

Washington—After 14 years of illegal parking Mrs. Daniel C. Roper, wife of the Secretary of Commerce, got a traffic ticket and it is no trivial affair to pin a traffic ticket on the automobile of a cabinet member...

The prettiest girl glimpsed at recent opening nights has been Lucretia Young, which is bad for the actors. When she is there the audience can't keep its mind on the stage.

There have been many books with weird titles this season, but the most upsetting has been that one called "Rats, Cats and History." See "you never can tell" Ethel Barrymore is back on Broadway, and it hasn't been a year since she renounced the stage forever.

One of the most hilarious theatrical moments of the season happens mid-way the second act in "Madam Bovary." A half-wit boy is in love with the heroine and entering her room, he happens to catch a glimpse of the lady's lingerie which the maid has tossed into the soiled clothes basket.

Should Know Better When Officer Kuhns pinned a ticket on Mrs. Roper's car, he knew that the car he tagged was either a cabinet car or the car of someone almost equally important.

Most officers will tell you—in the neighborly privacy of a ride home together on a bus—that any officer who tags a car bearing a low license number ought to know better. It always brings trouble.

After the story got into the papers, Mrs. Roper insisted that she wasn't concerned about the ticket but that the precinct captain and Officer Kuhns were discourteous to her when she went in to get an explanation of why a ticket had been put on her car.

Members of Congress can't be arrested, nor their cars tagged effectively, but the same rules don't apply in law—to administrative officials. There is historic reason for exempting law-makers.

The congressmen stretch their privileges from time to time. When a local newspaper got interested in the problem a few months ago, it dug up all sorts of traffic tickets marked "Senator so-and-so to be telephoned when this comes up," or "attention Representative this-and-that." Some bore the simple notation: "Friend of Senator Goof-us."

It hasn't been decided yet what will happen to Officer Kuhns. Probably nothing. But an officer can't involve the whole city administration in a "look-into-this" investigation and expect them to smile sweetly.

Dr. Vance, who is associate editor of the Journal of Social Forces has written several books including "The Human Geography of the South," "Human Factors in Cotton Culture" and "Regional Reconstruction: A Way Out for the South."

The first named book was winner of the Macmillan cup awarded annually by the North Carolina Literary and Historical Society.

To be held in the courthouses of the law school, the meeting will be opened to the interested public.

New York—Personal notes off a New Yorker's cuff: Packets in front of a Broadway cinema carry banners which flaunt the legend: "Do not see Wings Over Shanghai." It is unfair to Japan. But one of the pickets himself is a Chinese.

Ray Henderson's recent death has caused Katherine Cornell to cancel her plans for a world theatrical tour. The local sports writers are waging a terrific campaign to land the Fordham Rams in the Rose Bowl.

A fascinating place to walk is along Madison avenue after dark. There are windows between 55th and 58th which exhibit delicate silver work and fragile china bric-a-brac. In one such place I saw a tiny pepper grinder (price $23) hand wrought from sterling.

Another charming intriguing cigarette boxes, trinket holders, and other pleasing but useless items, all carved from silver and ivory. A few steps further on was a bright painting which drew more eyes than all the silver and gold in the windows. It revealed three priests convulsed with laughter, as if one had just related a witty story.

At a broadcast the other night which I attended one of the principal comic strip artists who was being interviewed, forgot his lines and walked away from the mike at the wrong time. Several other comic artists were there, and while all attempted to fill in for the missing link, none came thru with anything more coherent than a plug, plug and several e's, and other impotent but funny stutters. Desperately the announcer grabbed the microphone: "Ladies and gentlemen," he cried, "the orchestra will now play 'Crazy People'." Which seems to me some sort of commentary on the gentlemen who draw the comic strips.

The New Gasoline Law

An announcement by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey

On December 1, 1937, the new North Carolina minimum quality gasoline law goes into effect to protect motorists of the state.

Esso and Essolene have always clearly exceeded even the strict requirements now established by law. The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey wants its many customers to know that it spares neither effort nor expense to give them more for their money than they get in any other petroleum products. To meet the needs of tomorrow with still higher standards of quality, the Company is devoting all available resources and experience.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (AP Science Editor) New York — After scientists learn how to control river floods, they can turn attention to the rampages of the Gulf Stream. This river of warm water, flowing across the Atlantic Ocean does not stay within its banks. Its swarms are wider than any Mississippi river floods. The observations are given in the Progress Reports of the Biological Board of Canada. For eight years this board, the Canadian Meteorological Service and the Canadian Steamship company have been trying to find out what happens to the stream south of Halifax. It is usually 70 miles wide and 300 miles south of Halifax. But sometimes its northern edge widens out, like a stream overflowing. The "swine" covers 120 miles, placing the stream sometimes 240 miles of Halifax and sometimes 420 miles away. The shifts seem to be cyclic. There is no information on what meanwhile happens on the southern edge of the stream. The swarms, it is concluded, are sufficient to affect the climate of some portions of the Atlantic coast. They do not, the board reports, indicate any danger to navigation in the Gulf Stream or to normal shipping. Any province in Canada may enter into an agreement with the dominion government for the services of the royal mounted police upon payment for its services.

The Characters
 Nina, ex-debutante, impulsively married David, but really loved her stepfather. Now she loves David and loathes Richard.
 Richard, the suave, handsome stepfather, tried to entice Nina into a secret love affair, but she finally sees him as he is—a selfish sponger.
 Honey, Nina's gay, childish mother who is wild about Richard, develops a serious heart ailment.
 David, a bright young auto salesman with a small salary, belatedly begins to suspect Nina of caring too much for Richard.

Chapter 50 A Night In Atlantic City

NINA had got going now—and she couldn't stop. . . .
 "Me—holding you off because I'm scared," she went on. "That's a good one. You're the one who will lose out over this trick you've pulled, if you're caught. Richard! Not I! David will find out all about this the minute I get back, because I'm going to tell him—everything my part too. And he'll believe me, because I'll have been open with him. . . . But you! You'll be thrown right out of your comfortable berth, if Honey finds out. . . . and then where will you get your money from—my prize sponger? Your food and your liquor. . . . and all your Charvet ties?"

She was shaking with hysterical laughter.
 "Sure—sure—go ahead and pour yourself a drink—light a cigarette—so, why don't you—and try and act nonchalant. But you're not, inside. I'm getting to you at last, my friend. I could talk about decency and loyalty until I was blue in the face—and it would roll off your back—but now I'm using your own language. . . . Everybody is on to you—you poor self-satisfied fool—I'm on to you. I hate you for living off Honey and proposing to cheat her on the side. . . . I hate your leering, oily smile. . . . the way you talk about in your too tight, too well-tailored suits, and think everybody should fall on their faces—just because you're around. I hate you for pursuing me, refusing to admit the possibility of any one not succumbing to your charms. . . ."

Richard was making a great business of measuring whisky, putting ice and just the right amount of charged water into his glass.
 "When you've finished your—histrionics, darling, let me know," he remarked, when she paused for breath. "Drink?" He held up the bottle.
 It delighted Nina to see the cold fury that was in his eyes. She had caused Richard pain!

"There's just one thing more I want to say before I go. I'm going to tell David everything, but I'm not going to tell Honey—and he won't either, if I ask him not to. She's not well—yes, you'd quite overlooked that, hadn't you?—and while there's still the vestige of a chance of your making her happy, pulling the wool over her eyes, I'm going to let it go. . . . But if you don't play fair with her from now on—I will tell her!"

Richard said: "I believe you murmured something to me, once, about what you chose to call, my 'stained-glass expression of sanctity.' I remembered it. Thought it was rather good, as a matter of fact. . . . Well, now I'm going to use it on you, my dear. . . . Your stained-glass expression of sanctity, regarding your mother, amuses me—Nina—no. . . . end!"

"It would!" she shot back at him. "It would because it's not in you to realize when you have done wrong. . . . to admit it, and repent. By telling Honey the truth, my part and all, you know it'd undoubtedly separate us, for ever; and yet I'm willing to do it if I must. That's how much I care."
 He smiled, as he said: "Somehow I don't seem to think that you will find it necessary."
 "You mean that in a nasty way—I presume. But I do sincerely hope that it won't be necessary, Richard. . . ." She spoke with a hint of pleading, for the first time. "We—you, have done enough to her. Don't you realize how—ghastly this was. . . . sending for me this way? Turn over a new leaf, Richard. Do. . . . in heaven's name!"

He was so angry with her—so angry at the way things had turned out, that he could only sneer.
 "And now we will all sing hymn No. 274. . . ." He chuckled over his drink.
 Nina picked up her suitcase and walked to the door.
 It was locked. The key was not there.
 She simply looked at Richard over her shoulder, and every bit of the disgust she felt for him was in her eyes.
 He fished in his pocket for the key, and brought it over to her. . . . he was as nearly embarrassed as she had ever seen him.

BERSHAK HEADS ALL-SOUTHERN CONFERENCE ELEVEN FOR 1937

Andy Bershak, versatile University of North Carolina end, was an almost unanimous choice in the voting, and captains the 1937 All-Southern Conference Football Team. More than fifty coaches and sports writers in Maryland, Virginia and the Carolinas cooperated with the Associated Press in selecting the squad. Herb Hudgins of Duke was picked as Bershak's running mate on the other flank. Henry Bartos of North Carolina and Joe Brunansky of Duke fill the tackle posts on the mythical eleven, and Woody Lipscomb, Duke's captain, and Elmer Wrenn of North Carolina are the guards. Charlie Woods, Clemson star and a handy player, is at center. Running in the versatile backfield are four triple-threat players: Elmore (Honey) Hackney of Duke, Crowell Little of North Carolina, Paul Shu of Virginia Military Institute, and Jim Meade of Maryland. Brunansky and Bershak were also members of the 1936 All-Southern Conference Team.

LEADING FOOTBALL SCORER TRAINS ON MIDNIGHT OIL, WORKS OUT AS WAITER!

THE HASHER
 Sports editors call Byron (Whizzer) White the best football player in the Rocky Mountain conference since Dutch Clark. Worshipful freshmen relate that White can carry more dishes on one trip than any other "hasher" at his fraternity.

THE EPICURE
 "I like to study," says White, and he does a lot of it. He likes to eat, too. He's been nominated for a Rhodes scholarship, won a medal in chemistry, and has an "A" average at Colorado university. He has been elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

THE ATHLETE
 White, leading high-scorer of the 1937 football season, is an all-Rocky Mountain star in football, basketball baseball.

How's Your Health?

By Iago Goldston, M.D.
SEALS AND TUBERCULOSIS
 The American frequently is terrified for being a "joiner," but those who see only the humor of this tendency miss its significance—a joiner is likely to be a highly gregarious creature and gregariousness is at the root of civilization. Millions of Americans have joined in the war on tuberculosis. Since 1904, when the National Tuberculosis association was first organized, they have in various ways contributed to the creation of a veritable army of anti-tuberculosis workers. Since 1920, they have contributed millions of dollars every year to finance the unremitting war against tuberculosis.

The method of this financing is unusual, for it has been carried on through the sale of Christmas seals. These penny stickers with the double-barred cross, which adorn the Christmas season mail, have contributed substantially to the reduction of the prevalence of tuberculosis. The accumulated pennies have financed medical and social research, have made possible the education of the public, and have helped to define, organize and integrate the work of the various anti-tuberculosis associations—official and voluntary—national and local.

Since 1904 the number of deaths from tuberculosis has steadily declined from nearly 200 to less than 60 for every 100,000 living persons. No small part of this reduction has been effected through the services of the sanatoria; hospitals, clinics, nurses, both institutional and public health; preventoria; summer camps and open air schools, all of which have waged a concerted war on the white plague.

The Christmas seal was an idea born in 1903 in the brain of Einar Holbell, who was then a clerk in the postoffice in Copenhagen. But it was in the United States that the effectiveness of the Christmas seal as a weapon against the white plague was best realized and developed.

While first sold to finance the war on tuberculosis, the Christmas seal has in recent years helped to support the campaigns against other morbid conditions. In various communities these have included heart disease, cancer and the venereal diseases.

LOCAL ARMY TO BE OPENED ON WEDNESDAY
 The Army was just recently completed at a cost of $46,000, of which the county and city, sponsors, provided $8,500. It is one of 21 erected in the state by local sponsors and the Works Progress Administration, representing a total expenditure of $908,000, of which $64,000 was provided by the WPA and $228,000 by the various sponsoring local governmental bodies.

SANTA WHITE FOX

DO, RE, MI, FA, SOL . . .
 THE STORY SO FAR: Santa has made a doll from materials given him by the North Star. She says she wants to be called "Helga" and wants to go to sea.

Chapter Two HELGA'S SONG
 The very next day after Santa had made the doll of the North, he had cause to worry about her. He was in the midst of finishing hundreds of toy pianos. He rushed about for three solid hours shipping all the little ivory keys into place, and as he finished each piano a very solemn gnome with ears as big as saucers sat down and played the scales. "Do, re, mi, fa, sol. . . ." just to test the sound.

When all the pianos were finished Santa sat down in the middle of the floor. He works very hard, but when he's through he loves to play, too. So now he shouted: "Mrs. Santa, how about some of that hot cider with a stick of cinnamon in it?"
 "Me, too," shouted all the dolls and fairies.

Santa had a great big glass of cider, and all the dolls and fairies had theirs in cups so small they looked like thimbles; that is, all of them but Helga. She just sat on a window-sill, looking silently out at the snow.
 "Now," shouted Santa as he finished his cider. "Let's have a concert. Everybody to the pianos." Dolls and fairies and tin soldiers and toy dogs and monkeys scampered about finding pianos to play. Singing in the Toyshop
 "What shall it be?" they asked Santa.
 "M-m," said Santa. "Sing the Good Fairy's song."
 "Tri, tinkle, tink," went all the pianos. It sounded very fine but not like our big pianos.
 Then all the toyshop began to sing:
 My carriage is a butterfly,
 My meal the morning dew,
 The hum of bees my lullaby,
 The blue bell where I lie,
 Ho, hum, life is a song.

JOBBING
 (AP) —Indiscriminate use of pictures of the royal family on chocolate boxes and such-like will be banned when present stocks have been used up. The order went out from the Home Office recently, supposedly at the king's instigation. Rules on use of their majesties' pictures were relaxed for the coronation.

If the days are short the nights are long.
 If the fire's too warm, the wind is cold,
 So why should a person ever grow old?
 Santa tapped out the time with his boot as the toys sang, but he kept his eye on Helga who only continued to stare out of the window.
 "You Make Us Sad"
 "Helga," called Santa. "Didn't you like the song?"
 "Not very much," said the doll.
 "Well, I never," said Santa. "What sort of songs do you like?"
 Helga, undisturbed from her perch, slid down a ribbon that tied the curtain, and went to the piano. She struck some chords and began to sing:
 Morning may come, but it dies with the night,
 Stars may shine, but they fade with the sun,
 Song may rise, and hearts be light,
 But soon they are quiet, soon they are done.
 When Helga finished, the toys looked pensive.
 "Helga, Helga," said Santa. "You've made us sad, and dolls never do that. Tomorrow in payment you must teach us a game that will make us glad. Now, everybody to bed."
 Tomorrow: The Little Man.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coom
 Hollywood—New peril for film troupes in African jungles is reported by Otto Brower, director of an expedition into the Tanganyika country for the film "Stanley and Livingstone."
 "The native men buy and sell wives at a standard price of 90 goats or 10 cows for each woman," Brower related on his return. "Each man saves up his cows and goats until he gets enough to buy another wife."
 So when the movie people, far from civilization, wanted to buy meat—for their own needs and to pay 2,500 natives who demanded food rather than money for "extra" work—they couldn't get it. Brower finally sent native runners with an appeal to the nearest British government outpost, got cattle commandeered, and had the wife hoarders reimbursed with cash and the promise to redeem the money in cattle later. . . .

Lit Holding The Book
 Cesar Romero tells it on himself: After a recent preview he was surrounded by autograph hunters. He had one girl's book and pencil in hand, poised to sign his name, when the cry went up. "There's Clark Gable!" Suddenly Romero was standing alone, the book and pencil snatched from his hand, which was still poised as though to sign his name. . . .
 Robert Wilcox, who made his first successful screen test a year ago this Christmas, is marrying Joy Hodges on the same lucky day. . . .

Bitten By Direction Bug
 Fritz Feld, the character actor ("I Met Him in Paris," "True Confession," "The Yellow Nightingale") has been trying to become a director for 20 years. Once Lubitsch, when managing director of production at Paramount, made Feld his editorial assistant. Feld took the job on condition he would be allowed to direct at the first opportunity. Lubitsch agreeing if Feld would stop acting long enough to be considered directing possibility. But Lubitsch married, honeymooned in Europe, and during his absence Feld was prevailed upon by Wesley Ruggles to take the Colbert film role. Since then it's been one acting assignment after another—but some day, he still insists, he will be a director.
