Plan To Extend Campaign To Unionize Ford

UAWA OFFICER DECLARES AIM

Drive Probably Be Carried to Two Other Cities

St. Louis, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The C. I. O.'s campaign to unionize the Ford Motor Company probably will be carried to two other cities next week, a high UAWA official said today.

Richard Frankenstein, UAWA international vice president declared workers at the Long Beach, Cal. had "voted unanimously" for a strike and at Kansas City "soup kitchens" have already been set up and the various committees are ready for the call.

"I can not yet give the exact date the men will be called out," he added.

Frankenstein flew here from Pittsburgh to address a mass meeting of CIO workers last night and to confer with Delmond Garst, regional director of the union. He asserted the St. Louis strike, now in its second week, is part of a carefully planned campaign to unionize Ford.

"If it becomes necessary," Frankenstein declared, "we will continue."

KILLED WHILE DUCK HUNTING

James J. Edwards Of Near Vanceboro Fatally Wounded

James J. Edwards, 17 year old son of Mrs. Estelle Tripp Edwards of near Vanceboro, was instantly killed yesterday afternoon while hunting near his home.

Young Edwards was with a party of duck hunters on the Neuse river. He stumbled and his gun struck a log, discharging both barrels and the loads striking him in the chest.

Funeral services were conducted at Juniper Chapel Free Will Baptist church this afternoon by Rev. Robert Hodges, pastor of the church. Burial followed in the church yard cemetery.

Besides his mother, he is survived by two brothers, Thelbert of the home place and Charlie of Chowmy; two sisters, Lula Mae and Mildred, a twin sister; his grandfathers, Harvey Edwards of the home place and Jeremiah Tripp of Norfolk, Va.

To Prison For Life

Albert DuBois, a 35-year-old transient artist and film extra from Birmingham, Ala., is shown at Los Angeles county jail where he was booked on suspicion in the killing of Wm. Williamson, 32, a movie-struck Missourian.

GROCER FACES MURDER COUNT

Accused of Killing Barber Intimate With His Wife

Winston-Salem, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Groceryman John Hartle, 63, was bound over to Forsyth County Superior court on a first degree murder charge today after preliminary hearing witnesses testified Hartle killed Walter Lee Smith after finding the 54 year old barber intimate with Mrs. Hartle.

Municipal Court Judge Bailey Lappert refused a plea that the charge be reduced to manslaughter and ordered Hartle held without bond.

Policeman C. E. Bowman, who went to Hartle's home after the shooting a week ago Friday night quoted the grocer as saying,

"I caught old Smith in the room here with my wife and I shot him."

Questioned by defense attorneys Bowman said he found Smith's coat and overcoat in the Hartle living room and the barber's glasses and false teeth on the mantle.

The grocer's wife, who has been under a physician's care, did not appear at the preliminary hearing.

"I'll come out in the end and be alright," Hartle said as he was transferred to the county jail.

Dismiss Claim Of Adopted Daughter

Decision Narrows "Daddy" Browning Will Dispute Down to Second Wife and "Sunshine" Hood

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Surrogate James Delehanty today dismissed all claims made by Marjorie Browning, adopted daughter of the first wife of the late Edward W. (Daddy) Browning, to the estate of the multi-millionaire real estate op.

LIMIT DEBATE ON FARM BILL

Action Taken in Order Hosten Vote on Measure

Washington, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The Senate agreed unanimously today to limit debate on the farm bill beginning Monday in order to hasten final action.

Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky, submitted the agreement after a conference with Republican Leader McNary of Oregon.

The leaders agreed Senator Brazier (R-N. D.) opponent of the bill, would be permitted to speak first when the Senate convenes Monday. When he concludes, further debate will be restricted to 15-minute speeches on amendments and 30 minutes on the bill itself.

Discussion, however, will not be limited on substitutes for the entire bill, such as the domestic allotment proposal offered by Senator Lee (D-Okla.).

Senator King (D-Utah) denounced the Pope-Magill farm bill as "complex, patchwork legislation" filled with "unconstitutional provisions."

Bitterly criticizing the measure, King told the Senate it proposed an improper exercise of congressional power because it was "nothing more or less than a compulsory price fixing bill."

Meantime the Supreme Court met to prepare for a busy session Monday, at which opinions may be delivered on subjects ranging from payment of interest on government bonds to valuation of public utilities.

ITALY'S ACTION IS PROTESTED

China Objects to Recognition of Manchoukuo

Geneva, Dec. 4.—(AP)—China protested to the League of Nations today against Italy's formal recognition of Manchoukuo, the protectorate Japan carved out of Manchuria by a military campaign in 1931-32.

The Chinese government submitted a copy of a protest made in Rome by the Chinese ambassador to Italy.

(Italy's formal recognition of nominally independent Manchoukuo Monday was new evidence of the)

TRIP CUT SHORT BY ROOSEVELT

Failure Of Gums To Heal Given As Only Cause

Miami, Dec. 4.—(AP)—President Roosevelt arranged today to return immediately to Washington for further dental treatment upon discovery that the gum where an abscessed tooth was removed Nov. 18 was failing to heal as rapidly as expected.

Three full days were trimmed from his Southern trip schedule, one from his fishing cruise and two set aside for stop-overs in Georgia, to permit him to reach the national capital by Monday evening. He left Washington last Saturday night, intending not to return to Washington until next Thursday.

The yacht Potomac was scheduled to leave the Dry Tortugas Island, 300 miles southwest of Miami, in the Gulf of Mexico, this afternoon. It will arrive here around 2 p. m. tomorrow and half an hour later

OFFICER SLAIN; MANY INJURED

Fired On By Undetermined Craft While on Mercy Trip

Shanghai, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The British steamer Sius-han was reported today riddled with bullets from an undetermined source while on a mission of mercy to a Japanese-occupied island near Shanghai.

The chief Chinese officer was killed. A sailor and several passengers were wounded.

After more than 200 machine gun shots had been fired, the little steamer's master, Captain N. McMillan, crept on his hand and knees under the spray of bullets to the wheelhouse. He reached the wheel safely and steered his vessel out of range.

British authorities have been trying to rescue nine French-Canadian missionaries who have been marooned on the island about three months.

Among those aboard the steamer were the Rev. Father Adrien Sin-soucy, a French-Canadian mission-

SPECIAL TERM IS CONCLUDED

Medius Teel Convicted and Given Six Months Term

One of the most momentous criminal terms of Pitt Superior court was concluded late yesterday afternoon and lawyers and court attaches appeared to be glad the session was over.

The term was called primarily to hear defendants arrested in the recent vice crusade carried on here by undercover agents employed by the ABC board and county commissioners.

Medius Teel, one of the last defendants tried at the special term, was convicted of operating a house for immoral purposes and was given a six months road sentence. The defendant appealed to the North Carolina Supreme court, as did a number of other defendants convicted during the week.

Counsel for L. A. Cobb submitted to a charge of liquor for sale and the defendant was placed on probation for two years. E. L. Worley, also charged with selling liquor, was placed on probation, for a period of 12 months.

Other sentences meted out on the last day of court were Bob Forbes, Sr., liquor, six months; Moses Hamm, liquor, six months suspended sentence; L. A. Randolph, liquor, pay costs and ordered to go to Westbrook.

service of Christmas. The entire membership has been asked to respond to the call for this service.

Legion Auxiliary Meets.

Mrs. Luther Bowling and Mrs. W. A. Darden were gracious hostesses to the American Legion Auxiliary on Monday, November 29, at the home of Mrs. Bowling on Summit street.

Quite a large number answered to the roll call. The meeting was called to order by the president. Then a prayer was said by the chaplain. This was followed by the Salute to the Flag and the reading of the Preamble. Reports were made as follows:

The membership chairman reported that the membership was almost up to the quota with some time yet in which to work.

The rehabilitation chairman reported that cigarettes, cards and stamps were sent to patients in Ward A-3 at Oteen. She was instructed to send a crisp, new one dollar bill to each of the five boys in the ward, also one to the "Ward Daddy," this being all the Auxiliary is allowed to give the ward inmates for Christmas. A greeting card is to accompany all bills.

The child welfare chairman, Mrs. W. A. Darden, was instructed to take care of the family of a disabled veteran for Christmas and to clothe and shoe the children for school.

The Auxiliary voted to contribute $5.00 to the Salvation Army for their Christmas baskets. Then the meeting was adjourned to meet on January 10, the place to be announced later.

The hostesses then served delicious sandwiches and hot tea, and the social hour was much enjoyed. —Reported.

Union Service.

The speaker for the union service to be held in the local Methodist Church tomorrow night at 7:30 will be the Rev. Chester Alexander, minister of the Howard Memorial Presbyterian Church, Taboro.

In accordance with the custom to bring in an outside speaker occasionally, the laymen's committee in charge of the union services has centered upon Mr. Alexander—who is well known to people of Greenville—as one well able to bring a vital message to such an audience. Music by the choir will be under the direction of Mrs. Eugenia Davenport, organist.

Churches participating in the union services, which are closing their first successful year next month, are Jarvis Memorial Methodist, Immanuel Baptist, Memorial Baptist, St. Paul's Episcopal, Presbyterian, and Eighth St. Christian.

Daughters of the Confederacy Meet.

Mrs. F. C. Harding delightfully entertained the George B. Singletary Chapter United Daughters of the Confederacy Thursday afternoon. Despite inclement weather a goodly number was present. True hospitality and cheer reigned inside and made us forget the outside.

The business of the Christmas meeting always has to do with the aged veterans, so the usual remembrance was sent this year in cash donations to each veteran individually instead of to the Home, as heretofore.

The little ladies at the Fayetteville House were likewise remembered, so also the widow of a veteran in Greenville.

Mrs. R. C. Deal the president, reported on the Thanksgiving box, and read a letter of acknowledgement thanking the chapter for pantry dainties, bed jackets, house-jackets, coats and other gifts, especially the bed quilt scraps. These furnished untold joy and entertainment to the little ladies at the Home.

Mrs. J. L. Fleming brought the report of the recent convention in Richmond. The North Carolina division won many awards and honors for historical and educational work during the year.

Miss Mamie Jenkins of the college faculty, gave the program. She chose for her subject "Christmas Miscellany," and brought to us a most interesting address, telling of many customs we have received from other countries and America's own contribution to the occasion of literature and customs, religious and social.

Special guests adding pleasure to the afternoon, besides Miss Jenkins, included Mrs. Richard King and Mrs. J. W. Kirkpatrick.

The hostess was assisted by Mrs. T. T. Hollingsworth and Mrs. E. W. Harvey in serving a sweet course suggestive of the Christmas season. —Reported.

Tea For Mrs. Barrett.

Miss Annie L. Morton and Miss Elizabeth C. Smith were hostesses at an elaborate tea on Friday afternoon honoring Mrs. Roy Barrett and the new members of the college faculty.

Guests called at the home of Mrs. E. B. Ferguson on Fourth street, between the hours of 4:00 and 5:30. They were met at the door by Miss Frances Wahl and Miss Annie Shields VanDyke and presented to the receiving line which included Miss Smith, Miss Morton, Mrs. Barrett, Miss Sue Barrett, Mrs. Leon Meadows, Miss Ruth White, Miss Lena Ellis, Miss Mary Dormer, Miss Elizabeth Erown, Miss Rosaline Ivey, Mrs. Daniel Stull, Miss Mary Caughey, Mrs. J. D. Alexander, Miss Permelia Gwynn, Mrs. W. A. Brown, Miss Velma Lowe, and Mrs. Louella Stancill.

Mrs. J. B. Cummings and Mrs. J. E. Gullidge invited the guests to the dining room where the serving able was centered with a large bowl of yellow chrysanthemums and tapers. Throughout the room light was furnished by means of yellow candles. Mrs. R. C. Deal and Mrs. J. S. Norman poured tea. Refreshments in yellow and white were served by Miss Lucille Norton, Miss Helen Spangler, Miss Elizabeth Norman, Miss Agnes Pullilove, Mrs. James M. Johnston, Mrs. William Norman, Mrs. O. P. Matthews, and Mrs. F. D. Duncan.

Mrs. Sue H. Bowden and Miss Emma Hooper directed the guests to the drawing room where the register was in charge of Mrs. Burke Stancill and Mrs. L. M. Buchanan. More than two hundred guests called during the afternoon.

Mrs. Henry Harrell received the guests in the sunroom where the guests were served orange ice by Mrs. M. L. Wright and Miss Elizabeth Hyman, assisted by Miss Hazel Willis and Miss Mary Lea Smith. Good-byes were said by Miss Sallie Joyner Davis and Miss Ola Ross.

Grifton News

Members of the Grifton Masonic Lodge, their wives, the school faculty and a number of out of town Masons were entertained on Wednesday night, preceding the regular lodge meeting, at a delightful oyster supper in the Christian Church basement. J. R. Harvey was host and members of the Senior Workers Council served the repast. About 100 guests were present, among them J. C. Gaskins and Frank M. Wooten of Greenville.

The Grifton Book Club met at the home of Miss Jean Harvey on Tuesday afternoon for their last meeting of the year. Miss Harvey presided over the meeting. The roll call was responded to by current events.

Officers for the coming year were elected. Mrs. R. A. Nelson, chairman; Mrs. Cecil Cobb, secretary. A committee on arrangements was Mrs. H. P. Quinerly, Mrs. Jack Tucker and Mrs. Alton Chapman. After the exchange of books the hostess served tea and sandwiches. Members present were: Mrs. Nelson, Mrs. Cobb, Mrs. Quinerly, Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. C. C. May, Mrs. W. I. Bissette, Mrs. George Sugg, Mrs. R. B. Mewborn, Mrs. Edward Smith and Miss Bertha Johnson.

On Thursday evening at 7 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Oglesby entertained members of their contract club at supper and bridge.

The home was lovely with lovely arrangements of red berries in silver bowls, and the tallies suggestive of the approaching Yuletide.

A delectable two-course supper was served at the individual bridge tables.

After supper bridge was played progressively at three tables. Mrs. Brown Hodges and Richard Nelson, as holders of highest score, were given attractive prizes. The honor prize went to Mrs. Cecil Cobb. Miss Bertha Johnson received the visitors award.

Players were: Mr. and Mrs. Hodges, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Cobb, Miss Johnson, Mrs. W. I. Bissette, Mrs. George Sugg, Miss MaMrie Chapman and Dr. E. V. Tucker.

Seeing Through My Windshield

(By ETHEL NICE, H. D. A.)

Home Demonstration In Pitt County Pitt county had during 1937 seventeen 4-H clubs with an enrollment of 624 boys and girls. There are 13 home demonstration clubs with an enrollment of 361. One new club has been organized at Timothy, but regular activities will not be started until January.

The home demonstration council has held their four regular meetings and the 4-H council has had ten county-wide meetings, some of them being recreational.

The major project for the women has been "Home Beautification" with "Fall Styles" and "Local History" as minors. The 4-H girls have studied "Clothing," "Home Beautification," "Food Conservation" and "Health."

During the recent year there have been 386 meetings held, 33 circular letters written, 285 home visits, 652 office calls, 6,257 personal letters written, 37 meetings held by leaders, 29 result demonstration meetings, 12,006 miles traveled in connection with official duties. Note new lawns and freshly painted homes throughout the county. We are quite proud of the increase during the last few months. Much of the tobacco profits have gone in this way. The value of the buildings has been increased, as well as the happiness of the family. We hope to see the day when every home will have well repaired and painted buildings with green lawns and grounds well planted.

There are five new outdoor living rooms.

Garden Notes.

Most of our farm homes do not have sufficient fruits to provide the quantities and varieties of this type of food we need in our every day diet. We often hear the farmer say it is cheaper to buy fruit than to raise it. This may be true in some cases, but so often we do not even buy it, and therefore, never get it. If you have not already done so, you should by all means, get a few of the more common fruits and plant them out this winter. The trees and plants should be set out before spring, and we still have time to plant them and let them become well established in the soil before the start growth. This is very important, because if we wait too late to plant the leaves will start putting out before the roots have grown and the tree is apt to die.

Get a reliable nursery catalog and send in an order for a few tree and bush fruits. It is usually best to order direct from a good reliable nursery than buy from some traveling salesman unless you know he represents a reliable concern. Your county farm or home agent will be glad to suggest reliable nurseries to you and also help you with your order.

If you are willing to spray and prune and fertilize a little you can have peaches without much trouble. The Golden Jubilee is an excellent early peach. Georgia Belle will follow soon after that and then Elberta. For plums, I would suggest Burbank, Red June and Damson. With the bunch grapes a good variety which will bear over a long season would be Ontario, Moore's Early, Niagara, Delaware, Concord, Sheridan and Catawba. For scuppernongs, I believe you will find Thomas and Memory most satisfactory. There is a splendid new Dewberry now on the market called the Cameron. This berry, and also the Dixie red raspberry, which is suitable for Eastern North Carolina, were developed here at our Experiment station. Your home agent can give you the source and cost of these plants. The young berry is also a good dewberry for home use.

A few strawberry plants would also help increase our supply. Try some Premier, Dorsett, Fairfax, Catskill, Blakemore or Southland.

If you are really interested in fruit for home use, write to the Agricultural Editor for a copy of Extension Circular 210, Fruits and Nuts for Home Use. This gives full details as to varieties, planting, fertilization, pruning and spraying.

Right now while they are not so busy you better get your garden thoroughly manured. This will put it in good condition for spring planting and if it can be thoroughly turned at this time, the land will be in a mellow condition and many insects will be destroyed by the winter freezes.

If lettuce seed have not been planted, sow them now in a cold-frame for early spring crop. Cover the cold frame with a cloth and give additional protection in very cold weather.

FIND MEASLES IS SPREADING

More Cases Reported In State This Year Than Last

Raleigh, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Measles which periodically just seems to run wild, is occurring much more frequently in North Carolina this year than last, but cases still fall far short of 1934, which was "a measles year."

The division of epidemiology reported today 221 cases reported last week topped all reportable diseases, through the total dropped one from the week before. Last year, however, there were only 41 the week ending November 28.

This year, through yesterday, there had been 6,223 measles infections reported over the state. Last year in 12 months there were only 1,395, but in 1935 there were 10,683 and in 1934 the disease hit 5,764 persons. In 1933 the toll was 16,197 and in 1932 13,672.

The division reported an increase in whooping cough, with 167 illnesses last week, 152 the week before and 21 the same week last year. There were 172 new listings of syphilis last week compared with 274 the week before and 74 a year ago.

Raleigh, Dec. 4—Ingenuity is bringing modernity to the lonely Outer Banks of North Carolina, where a coastal national park is planned, according to J. M. Grainger, engineer for the State Rural Electrification Authority who has recently been there.

Builders of a co-operative power line from Hatteras to Avon were puzzled as to how to get poles set up. A hole cannot be dug in loose sand.

So the engineers drive a hollow pipe into the soft sand and send down a small charge of dynamite. After the fuse is fixed and the pipe removed, the pole is set upright on the ground over the dynamite and held there by grapping hooks. The charge is set off, splitting the sand and the pole drops into place before the sand can fall back into the hole.

The main difficulty is making the pole drop straight down. In case it doesn't the pole is pulled up and another hole is dynamited.

Nces News, publication of the North Carolina Employment Service boasts:

"Formed overnight, stationed in makeshift premises, and staffed by a hastily selected personnel, the North Carolina State Employment Service has been steadily approaching a goal of professional standards, in suitable premises, with competent personnel. Its short four years of growth and development are told in these words: It has registered 639,730 job seekers and has found jobs for 469,616 of them."

Varily, he who tooteth not his own horn, the same shall not be tooted.

Even though the North Carolina Art Society has been in session here Thursday and Friday, the only man with long hair to be found in Raleigh is still Governor Clyde R. Hoey.

During the week the Division of Motor Vehicles revoked a total of 141 drivers' licenses, practically all, as usual, for drunken driving. This brought the state total of revocations to 14,365.

A conference of municipal officials has been called to meet at the Sir Walter Hotel here at 11 o'clock on the morning of December 10, to discuss the new undertaking of the North Carolina League of Municipalities of providing a special Public Utilities Service.

Wilmington is now the only city in the state in which electric cars operate extensively, and even down by the mouth of the Cape Fear they're gradually replacing the trams with busses.

ical leaders in the future will depend on their ability to escape the localism that was forced upon them by reconstruction and to embrace a genuinely national point of view on their ability to be forward-looking and constructive rather than primarily defensive," said Dumas Malone in addressing the State Literary and Historical Association last night. Dr. Malone is director of the Harvard University Press.

intensive work should result in a favorable decline in the death rate. (2) Young women, particularly those between 15 and 25, among whom the death rate is abnormally high. In this age group the death rate is one and one-half times that for males of the same age. Here more efforts should be concentrated on case-finding, especially the use of X-Ray examination for apparently healthy groups in school, college and industry. (3) The negro and other racial groups present a problem that cannot be ignored. Since the negro death rate is from three to six times that of the white, there is special need for intensive work in this quarter. Negro leaders have become increasingly aware of the devastating effects of tuberculosis among their people, and are offering their whole-hearted support and cooperation. Well directed efforts in this group of the population, in large cities of the north and in the south, are bound to be productive of good results. (4) Adolescent boys and girls, particularly those in high schools. Here the use of tuberculin tests and X-Rays has revealed a serious condition. We must increase our efforts in this direction because much tuberculosis in middle and late adult life can be averted by adequate measures of case-finding and treatment among this group.

Mormons constitute 90 per cent of the church members in Utah, 53 percent in Idaho, 24 percent in Nevada, 21 percent in Wyoming and 11 percent in Arizona.

How's Your Health?

Edited for the New York Academy of Medicine

By Iago Galdston, M.D.
"CAPTAIN OF THE MEN OF DEATH"

John Bunyan called tuberculosis "Captain of the Men of Death." It is an apt description, for even today tuberculosis is the leading cause of deaths in the United States among persons 15 to 45 years old.

More than half of all tuberculosis deaths occur in the productive period of life (15 to 45) when a person is of the greatest economic value both to his family and to his community. Taking into consideration the loss to family and community of the earning and spending power he would have enjoyed, plus the cost of medical care, it is estimated that each tuberculosis death costs about $10,000.

There are four sectors of the enemy line on which our sustained attack on tuberculosis must now be concentrated. These are:

(1) Male workers, who are one of the hardest-hit groups. Experience has shown that tuberculosis is nearly seven times more deadly among the unskilled industrial workers than among professional men. Here then is a field where

It's Odd But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
 (AP Science Editor)

New York. — Tame oysters — a scientific step that removes the last shred of concealment from the oyster's much discussed "private life" — have been developed by an English scientist, H. A. Cole.

Tame oysters, that is, bivalves raised right from babyhood in captivity, are wanted for the market. The problem has been that the only "wild" period of an oyster's life is when he is first born.

Then he is a "spat," a free-swimming organism hardly big enough to see. Later he attaches himself to some submerged object there to spend the rest of his life.

The number of rights that can be sold to a popular work of fiction are many. The most profitable are American and English magazine rights, American and English book rights and motion picture rights.

Chapter 54 DEATH TAKES HONEY

After Nina had been there a few minutes, her mother suddenly looked at her. She just raised her lids, as though she hadn't been sleeping at all, and said: "Hello—baby," quite wide awake.

"Darling . . . hello there."
Nina bent over and kissed her hand.

"Nina . . ." Honey looked around the darkened room without moving her head. Nothing about her moved, only her lips and her eyes. Her arms, on the coverlet, might have been marble arms placed there. The rounded mound of her body, a dummy. "Nina . . . I'm a little afraid. Am I—going?"

"Going?" Nina giggled softly. "You mean—dying? Listen, pet, don't let on I told you, but all this is just a show. Dr. Fellows said, 'If we don't make your mother think she's frightfully ill, she'll never behave the way we want her to.' You're not in the least danger—really—but you'll only have another one of those hideously painful cramps if you don't stay quiet. You don't want that, do you?"

Honey whispered: "Hell—no," and her wide blue eyes twinkled for a minute. Nina thought that they looked unusually dark, and then she saw that the irises were quite enlarged.

"Be good, Honey lamb, and you'll be out in a couple of weeks."

Honey didn't answer.
Then: "Richard? . . . Do I look all right for him, baby?"

"Sweet. Just pale enough to be interesting. You don't want to look buxom in bed, do you?"

Honey murmured: "I don't want to look—buxom, ever," and then she went to sleep again.

After a few more minutes, the nurse came back. She took Honey's pulse, and gave her an injection.

Nina whispered: "She talked a little."

The woman raised her eyebrows, and nodded; and wrote something down on her chart, and lifted another chair to the bed, without making a sound.

Another long vigil. Sometimes you could hear a bell ringing—faintly—down on the first floor. Sometimes you could hear muffled footsteps in the hall outside, but for the most part there was nothing but an awful stillness—with Honey the very stillest of all.

"We've Separated!"
She died at six o'clock. The attack had been too much of a strain. Richard was on one side of the bed, and Nina on the other.

Honey just opened her blue eyes—suddenly, as she had when Nina was alone with her, and smiled at each of them in turn.

The fingers of her two little plump white hands uncurled, and she seemed to be trying to reach out to them.

They each took a hand.
"Richard . . . Nina," she whispered. "I think I'll go to sleep for a little while. . ."

Richard said: "Do, my darling."
And Nina said: "A good idea—lamb."

And then Dr. Fellows straightened up and took the stethoscope from his ears.

"It's all over, dear children," he said, and put his arm around Nina's shoulders.

Aunt Carries Van Alstyne and Cordelia and Carl came back to the 74th street house with Nina and Richard, after they had left Honey's flower-banked grave in Woodlawn cemetery.

Cordelia said: "You'll be going back to the apartment tonight, won't you, Nina dear?" . . . And Carl said: "Like me to stay with you for a day or so, Richard?"

But Nina cut in.
"I'll be here, Carl, Cordelia . . . all of you. David isn't sick in bed. I only said that. We've . . . we've separated. I didn't want to—upset anyone . . ."

"Nina . . ."
"Oh, my poor child . . ."

She didn't really care—didn't really listen to what they said. As she said it now, out loud, in this house that was suddenly so lonely without Honey—it hurt her so, that she might have been reading David's note again, for the first time.

David and Nina had separated, and Honey was dead. There was nothing left in her life . . . absolutely nothing.

McDuff had sent round a special delivery letter the day before; and Nina had called him and asked him to take care of Button for a few more days. She would be back to get him, he said, and to see about storing her things after the funeral.

The letter had been from David . . . but it was only a check for $200 and a word to the effect that he would get in touch with her presently. Not a word about Honey—although there had been articles in the papers about her death. Just the check and those three lines. . .

It had hurt, of course, but yesterday Nina had been in a sort of dazed state—saturated with grief, so that she was incapable of absorbing much more pain. But today was different.

"We've separated . . ." The words the first time she had spoken them, stung her into new dreadful awareness of how true they were.

David was as lost to her as Honey, lying so peacefully out there under her masses of flowers.

Honey was as lost to her—as David.

She said: "Our lease is up next week. I'll go to the apartment tomorrow and make arrangements to store the furniture—or sell it or something. I'll just stay on here a while, I guess, until Richard and I decide about the house."

"I'll come and work with you, Nina, darling," said Cordelia quickly.

And Nina said: "Oh—will you?" a little vaguely . . . and hurried out of the room, because she found that she was beginning to cry.

Richard and Nina were alone that night for dinner.

When she came down the stairs, in her new plain black dress, he was waiting for her in the hall, and she saw that he looked older, and—worn, and that there was a sick look in his eyes.

She felt sorry for him.
"Nina . . ." he put his hand on the railing and looked up at her. "About David. I . . . I . . ."

"I know, Richard. I can see that you are really sorry, and it makes me want to be very fair with you . . . No matter what especial thing brought it to a climax, it was as much my fault as yours. I realize that."

She came on down and laid her hand on his arm for a moment. "It's—done, now. Let's try and be thankful that if Honey had to go—she went while she was still happy . . . before she, too, was hurt, by us . . ."

They went in to the living-room, and Richard said: "But that's it, Nina, if I only could have worked to make her happy . . ."

And Nina thought: "Poor Richard . . . he's—moved, now. But he'll never be different. After me, there would have been someone else. He couldn't have made Honey happy, for long. It isn't in him." But she said:

"Oh, I don't know, Richard. I'm beginning to think that there's a certain amount of—paying up to be done, for every wrong . . . even if people who haven't been involved have to do some of the paying. . . If she had lived, I'm afraid Honey would have had to, too. This way, it's just you and I—and David, for a while. She's . . . out of it."

"You're paying—heavily, poor little Nina."
"Yes. Yes, I am."

Just An Old Shoe-Tree
At the apartment, next day, Nina seemed to be surrounded by people who were joyous, but who were trying to hide it on account of her.

Cordelia—so happy in her love for Carl; McDuff—quite swollen with pride because he had been promoted to one of the company's larger apartment houses; the bride and groom, who stopped in, all thrilly and gypsy, at first, before they knew, to measure the windows for curtains; and even poor darling Button, who was almost frantic with joy after he thought he had been forgotten . . .

Nina forced herself to work hard at the packing; the arrangements with the storage people. She tried not to remember; but with the disposal of each article of furniture—each everything, there would come to her something gay and amusing that David had said about it, or done to it.

The whole place was so full of him, that after Nina had packed her clothes and personal belongings, she could stand it no more.

"Finish the line for me, will you, Cordelia, dear? I . . . I think I've had enough for today."

The professional packers would be in tomorrow. One day's work for them, and the movers would arrive on the following morning. Then it would be over. There would be nothing left of the home that Nina and David had worked over together.

Cordelia never asked what the trouble was. She wouldn't until Nina felt like telling her, if she ever did. But she must have suspected that Nina was pretty nearly broken over the separation that David had been the one to go.

"What have you got there, Cordelia, dear?" Nina asked as she was leaving.

Her friend had something behind her back.

Revenue Commissioner Speaks on Intangible Taxes

A. J. Maxwell, Commissioner of Revenue was the principal speaker at the regular Kiwanis meeting last night, which was attended by a large number of members and guests.

Mr. Maxwell spoke on the intangible tax law, but injected his hobby history, into the address. By doing this he received taxes of the various periods.

He explained in a simple and convincing manner the reason and background for this law. The property affected by this law is composed of bonds, mortgages, notes, accounts receivable, deposits in banks, foreign stocks, and other evidences of debt. He explained that heretofore such property was required under the law to be listed at the full value and the rate was the same as that on other property. He reasoned that this was unfair, in that a large portion of the local tax collecting went for the enhancement of physical property, and that physical properties were never as a rule taxed at their full value, and that no part of this tax against intangibles directly enhanced the value of such property. Furthermore, he stated that the law as previously on the statute books was impractical to enforce, and actually the amount of tax of the intangibles never having gotten on the tax books.

He further explained that under the new law this tax is classified so that money in the bank is now only 10 cents on the $100, whereas in a town like Greenville the tax on deposits, as given in under the old law, would be $1.85 per $100. The tax on bank deposits is arrived at by an average of the year's balances taken from our date in the year, and then divided by four. For instance, a man with deposits with an average balance of $1,000 for the year is taxed only $100. On notes and mortgages the rate is 4 cents on $100, against the old rate of $1.85 a $100, so a mortgage bearing 6 per cent interest and listed for the full amount, would be taxed only $40 cents on the $100, so that his yield would be $5.60. The tax on money in his pocket is 20 cents on $100, or $2.00 on $1,000, whereas if the money is in the bank, it is taxed only $1.60 per $1,000.

Bonds of the State of North Carolina, or a subdivision thereof, are exempt. Bonds of other states and counties and towns in other states are taxed at the rate of 30 cents on $100. Accounts receivable are taxed 25 cents a $100, against the old rate of $1.85 per $100. The other rates for evidences of debt not enumerated here on a graduated scale, as set out in the Intangible Tax Law.

A tax payer from now on does not list with the local assessor any money, deposits, stocks or bonds, or other intangible property. Deposits in the bank are paid for by the bank, and charged to the account of the depositor. Other intangibles are listed as of December 31 of each year on forms printed by the Revenue Department.

Mr. Maxwell was introduced by Past President W. H. Woolard, who in his address to the assembly of the state. He declared that discussed in brief the tax structure it was conceded that no man in this state deserves more credit in guiding the financial affairs of North Carolina than Mr. Maxwell. Mr. Woolard recalled the depression days in which the state was put to a test to meet its maturing obligations and added that "with the able management of our commissioners, all obligations were met and the State has emerged from its debt since the depression. He declared this is a fine record, and I understand only five other states in the union have made such a showing."

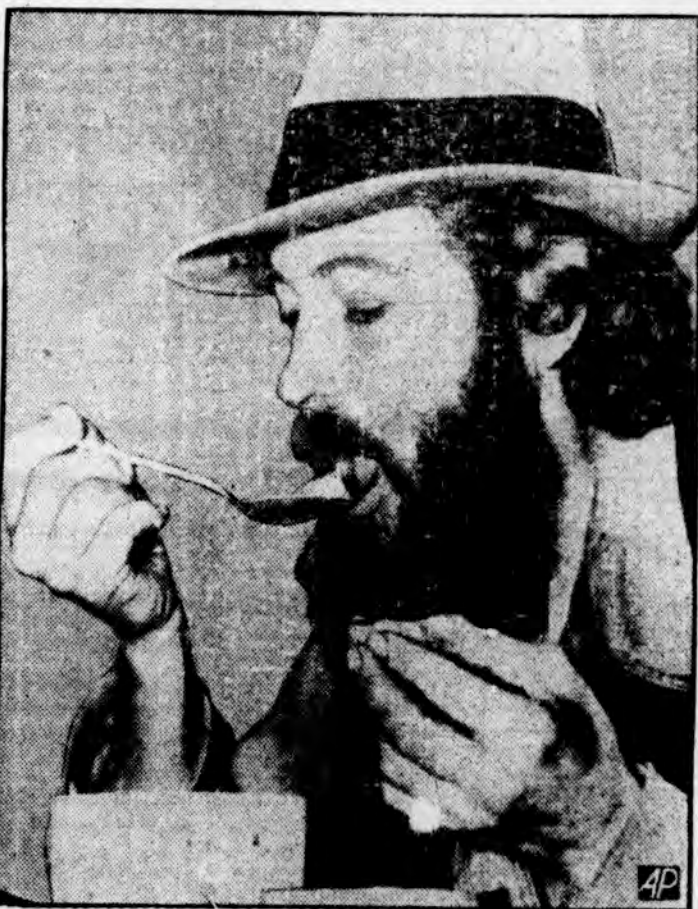

Following the main address of meeting, Senator E. G. Flanagan made a short talk, calling attention to his association with Mr. Maxwell during the time he was in the General Assembly and on the Banking committee. He was high in his praise of Mr. Maxwell, terming him a genius and one whose counsel and advice were sought by

AUTO SUPPLIES STORE TO OPEN

New Concern to Officially Open On December 11

A Western Auto Association store will open at 518 Dickinson avenue Tuesday under the management of J. P. Hunning, who already is well known in Greenville. While the store will be opened Tuesday, the formal opening has been set for Saturday, December 11.

Most car owners in this vicinity are familiar with the Western Auto Supply Company of Kansas City, Mo., because this is the firm that used to send out so many of the little catalogs known as the "Auto Owners' Supply Book" offering attractive prices on practically everything needed for an automobile. It is the oldest and largest organization of its kind in the world, founded in 1909 and now operating more than 170 stores all over the United States.

This company is now cooperating with more than 950 individual merchants throughout the country to enable them to offer the public merchandise with an established reputation for quality at money-saving prices that would be impossible without this combined buying power.

The Western Auto Associate Store here in Greenville will carry the same general line of supplies, accessories, and tools, including such well-known brands as Davis DeLuxe tires, Wizard batteries, Truetone radios, Rubber Coat top dressing, etc., hitherto offered only at the big city stores.

He explains that because of his favorable arrangements with the Western Auto Supply Company he will be able to offer the same merchandise at approximately the same prices as those in the big Company's main stores, thus bringing car owners of Greenville the benefits of that company's big buying power and volume distribution.

The new store will be open Tuesday but December 11th will be "Official Opening Day" and Mr. Hunning promises to have special prices on a number of popular items in honor of the occasion.

City Has $3,000 Loss By Fires in November

Fire Department Chief George Gardner reported today the city experienced four fires during November, for a total loss of $3,076.40. Of the loss, $2.50 was that of the home of N. T. Hood.

So far this year the city's fire loss has been $19,715.90, Chief Gardner reported.

PROGRAM AIMS ARE OUTLINED

Maintenance of Farm Prices One Of Objectives

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, Dec. 4—Maintenance of farm prices and income at a fair level so that farmers will not be forced to mine the fertility out of their soil by overcropping or other unwise use of the land is one of the principal aims of the 1938 Agricultural Conservation program.

If farm commodity prices are ruinously low, farmers tend to over crop the land in an effort to make up in quantity of production what they lack in unit price, E. Y. Floyd State AAA executive officer at State College, declared today.

On the other hand, if prices are abnormally high, farmers tend to mine the fertility out of their soil to get as much cash as possible.

Under the pinch of low prices and reduced income, farmers virtually are forced to overcrop their soil year after year, Floyd explained. They do this because their fixed charges do not go down when the prices of the commodities they sell drop.

The practice in some farming areas of continually growing cash crops with rarely a compensating soil-building crop in rotation, or as a cover crop, has so reduced the fertility that it is impossible to farm this land and maintain a fair standard of living, Floyd declared.

Fluctuating farm prices and instability of farm income have prevented many growers from making necessary improvements and carrying out soil building practices badly by their land.

When prices are high, millions of acres of grassland are plowed up and seeded to cash crops along with millions of other acres not suited for the purpose. All of this is done at the expense of the soil. The ultimate loss, Floyd said, due to erosion and fertility taken from the land usually exceeds the money obtained from the crop.

By setting up acreage goals for each crop AAA officials hope to get cooperating farmers to plant just enough of each commodity to supply actual demand conditions.

PUT ON DRIVE FOR MEMBERS

Farm Bureau to Carry On Intensive Campaign

The month of December has been set by the American Farm Bureau as the time to put on a membership drive for renewals and new members. The Pitt County Farm Bureau is falling in line with other counties and asking that every member renew and get as many additional members as possible and it is necessary that this be done now.

At a meeting held here last night J. E. Winslow president of the State Farm Bureau called to the attention of the farmers of Pitt County that right now is the time they need to be heard in Washington. He said that there will be a farm bill passed in a few more days but warned the farmers that it might not be a bill like they want.

The Farm Bureau is fighting hard to get the bill as the farmers want it but with a small membership and limited funds, it makes the road hard and rough, he said. G. E. Trevathan, president of the Pitt county Farm Bureau is requesting that every land owner in Pitt County get renewals from each of his tenants and his own renewal, and turn them in to the County Agent, R. R. Bennett, or to his local committeeman, at once. "A delegation leaves next week for a conference with National Farm Bureau officials and we must have our membership larger if we expect to be given the help we are asking" he said.

SANTA WHITE FOX

THAT'S RIGHT, SAID ANOTHER VOICE

The story so far: Helga, one of Santa's dolls, is warned by a tin soldier against a white fox who wants to take her skiing. But Helga slips out with the white fox anyway.

CHAPTER SIX Midnight Journey

The moon raised both his eyebrows very high and pursed his mouth into a big, round "O-o-o," when he saw Helga skimming over the ice behind the white fox.

The North Wind ran up from the west and scurried about the sky kicking up snow, and the North Star blinked as though he couldn't believe his eyes.

After an hour the fox stopped in a forest path to catch his breath. "How do you like it?" he asked. "It's wonderful," said Helga. "So much more fun than the silly games we play at the toyshop."

"Certainly," said the fox. "You're not like the other dolls."

"That's right," said another little voice, and two fir cones fell into Helga's lap. Helga looked up and saw a young fir tree bowing. It said "We know you. You're the North Star's doll."

Sharp Claws

Helga thanked the fir for the cones, but then she looked half frightened. The white fox walked up to the tree, stretched up his paws, put out his sharp claws and began to scratch the trunk of the tree. The tree shivered and said, "O-o," in a small voice.

"Please, white fox, maybe it hurts," said Helga.

The fox stopped, saying, "It's good for the tree. It will grow tougher bark." Helga felt afraid and remembered what the toy soldier had said, but in a minute the fox bounded toward her saying, "In half an hour we'll reach the sea."

Helga was so excited she forgot about the tree. And the fox did look pretty, and he ran so fast.

Just as the fox said, in half an hour Helga saw the Arctic Ocean: a great flat floor of white ice broken by cracks where she saw the water rippling. A fresh smelling breeze struck her face, and she said, "Oh, it's so wild and beautiful."

The Waiting Soldier

The fox took her way out on the ice floes where she saw black seals playing with their children. But when the moon began to set Helga was worried about getting back to the toyshop before Santa woke. That annoyed the white fox but he growled a little and said, "All right, hang on. We'll start back."

This time they skimmed the Washington—Anyone who can tell just how popular President Roosevelt will be next year will confer a boon on members of congress by letting them know.

Many are coming up next year for re-election—all the house and a third of the senate. If the President is slipping in popularity they can be independent as all get-out, and it will be good politics. But if the President in 1938 still cuts his old time wide swath with the voters, it won't do a congressman any good to be "against" Roosevelt.

Situation in Florida

Take Florida as a sample: Senator Pepper is finishing a two-year short term and will be up to succeed himself. Opposing him for the seat will be Representative Wilcox. Already they are sparring for position. Pepper evidently would like the Florida electorate to believe that Wilcox is anti-Roosevelt. Wilcox, it seems, would like Florida to believe that Pepper is subservient to Roosevelt while he, Wilcox, is independent, but not too independent.

It gives you an idea how important Mr. Roosevelt's popularity trend is to his fellow politicians.

Miscellaneous Notes

DIARY: Economy note: Representative Phil Ferguson of Woodward, Okla., a member of the House Rivers and Harbors committee says he is out to get all the funds possible for flood control and reservoir projects.

Metaphorical note: Senator Josh Lee of Oklahoma says: "Today Europe is a powder keg and Asia a volcano. The very earth of the eastern hemisphere is trembling under the tread of marching feet."

Secrecy note: Secretary Hull addressed 240 congressmen on the nine power pact, neutrality and other international questions. No reporters were admitted.

Historical note: Senator Copeland of New York wants $50,000 from congress to build a memorial to Francis Joseph Paul, marquis de Grasse-Tilley, French admiral, whose ships bottled up the British fleet during the siege of Yorktown. The British later captured him and his fleet, and as a result the French almost disowned him; but Copeland believes he earned a monument. LaFayette has a whole square right across from the White House named after him.

Fence-mending note: Representative Harry R. Sheppard of California, in the 54 days between sessions, visited every community in his district, spoke 105 times to 31,200 persons and conferred with "literally hundreds" of job seekers and others.

Racing note: Representative A. J. Elliott of California drives his own trotting horses in the California county fair circuit.

Four Defendants In Police Court Session

Of the five defendants tried in City police court this morning, three were white men. P. H. Moore paid the costs upon conviction of engaging in disorderly conduct; W. P. Pridgen the costs for public drunkenness and Sylvester Vick was fined $5 and taxed with court costs for drunkenness.

Tom Phillips, Negro, was fined $5 and taxed with costs for assault and Ben Outerbridge, Negro, paid the costs for drunkenness.

whole distance without stopping. Helga was so tired she could barely say, "Thank you."

"Back tomorrow night," whispered the fox.

"Fine," said Helga. She slipped into the toyshop and there sat the tin soldier, wide awake.

"Oh, I'm so glad you are back safely," he said. "I was worried."

"How kind," whispered Helga. "And how foolish. Do go to bed. I'm quite all right."

The two dolls slipped off to their beds. And all the way home the white fox chuckled to himself. Monday: Santa Is Wise.

NEW ARMORIES BUILT IN N. C.

Twenty - One Such Buildings Erected By WPA

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh Dec. 4—Dedication of Greenville's armory this week, with Governor Clyde R. Hoey as the principal speaker, marked completion of the eighteenth of 21 similar buildings constructed, or nearly finished, by the Works Progress Administration.

These utilitarian buildings are located at New Bern, Raeford, Albemarle, Reidsville, Morganton, Edenton, Whiteville, Wilson, Henderson, Concord, Madison, Wilmington, Durham, High Point, Raleigh, Waynesville, Greenville, Gastonia, Salisbury, Washington and Canton.

All are of substantially the same design with the exception of the one at Durham.

The armories are, of course, primarily designed to quarter local units of the National Guard, but they have been so constructed as to lend themselves to a variety of uses.

In their construction a total of $677,000 was spent by the Works Progress Administration and $229,000 by local governmental bodies, making the entire cost $906,000.

Construction provided work opportunities for the needy unemployed.

They are owned by the various cities or by a combination of city and county, and so they will be available for civic and social affairs of all sorts, as well as for housing and drilling units of the North Carolina National Guard.

Dancing and assembling feet will be heard in them just about as often as will marching feet of soldiers.

ODOR OF BEANS CAUSES WORRY

Farmer Seeks Enlightenment From Agriculture Dept.

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, Dec. 4—The Department of Agriculture, all its officials and hired help, are exercising their collective wits to find out what makes a certain farmer's pickled beans smell so bad.

The farmer doesn't know and has written the department to find out. What's a Department of Agriculture for if it can't give just such services as this?

Louis H. Wilson, publications head of the department, displays the letter and asks all and sundry for aid in solving the problem.

Here's the letter:

"My dear Sir: I want to know if you can tell me what does make our pickle beans smell so bad, as we youse to pickle them and they were good and smelt all right.

"We put them in a clean 4 gallon jar after they were cooked, and cared for them as yousal. We cooked them and drained off the water like always but they have too bad a odor. They are solid and firm, look well and all but the sent is too much. Yours truely."

Then there's another correspondent who wants a "pit bool dog." He writes:

"Want to hear from some one hoe has got a pit bool dog pup for sail."

And another who, it seems should be writing to a matrimonial agency rather than to the Department of Agriculture. Says he:

"Wanted: A nice good woman to live in motherless home. Work with children, two boys, 2 girls. Must know how to cook, be kind to children. Age from 30 to 40, good looking, weight around 130. No children.

DIVORCES NOTED CONDUCTOR

Mrs. Leopold Stokowski, the former Evangeline Brewster Johnson, of New Brunswick, N. J., is shown with Luke McNamee, her counsel, after signing the final papers on receiving a divorce in Las Vegas, Nev., from the noted orchestra conductor. The divorce proceedings were held in a closed hearing, and the decree was granted on grounds of cruelty.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Specialties, led by farm implements, gave a quiet display of strength in today's stock market.

While a few issues got up as much as six points or so at the best, most leaders lacked sufficient buying support to extend the recent rally by more than fractions. There also was an assortment of losers at the close.

Transfers approximated 500,000. Bonds were uneven.

HOPE HELD FOR EIGHT INFANTS

Babies Stricken With Strange Disease Reported Better

Chicago, Dec. 4.—(AP)—A hospital official reported apparent improvement today in the condition of eight babies fighting a strange disease that has taken the lives of 10 infants in the last 11 days.

"Two of them appeared to have recovered," Sister Mary Adolphine, hospital superior said. "However, previously some of the babies seem to have recovered, then turned for the worse."

Staff physicians worked all night in the quarantined nursery of the hospital, to which the outbreak was confined.

Dr. Hammond Bundesen, city health board president, conferred with the doctors.

The disease, which killed most of the babies within 24 hours, was diagnosed as acute epidemic diarrhea.

The outbreak began November 23. Four babies died before the symptoms were fully recognized. The hospital immediately declined new obstetrical cases and isolated the other infants, but six succumbed and eight others were stricken.

The victims ranged in age from nine to 24 days. Seven of them were girls.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robin Coons

Hollywood — They've been working a year out at Warner Bros. studios investigating the historical surroundings of a man whose existence has never been approved.

Dr. Herman Lissauer, his assistant, Mrs. Hetta George, and their staff of seven research workers were not greatly concerned about the authenticity of the Robin Hood legend. But Robin Hood, if he lived at all, lived in a definite historical period—about 1190 A. D.—in a definite setting, the England of Richard Cœur de Lion and the Norman usurper, wicked Prince John.

The research department's work began when the first script was completed. Tactfully but firmly, the Lissauer-George forces read that script, made notes, checked, and returned the script to its authors.

Boudoirs Weren't Known

The polite notes conveyed many succinct reminders and corrections, such as the fact that Prince John was never actually regent, that shillings were not in use until much later than Robin Hood's time, the popular coins being "pennies," and that guineas were unheard of. Also, it was suggested, the English did not become tea-drinkers until about 1550, and no character should use "Ouch!" for an exclamation of pain because the expression had no place until the 19th century. If anyone were hurt and wanted to say "Ouch!" he must content himself with a hearty "Ale-ale-ee!" And about Olivia (Maid Marian) De Havilland's "boudoir"—girls didn't have boudoirs in those days. They had rooms, and none too frilly, either. And so on, and so on, to the last page of script.

The research department then turned to constructive labors. For the art department it dug deep into hundreds of old tomes, consulted old prints showing medieval castles, apartments, streets and dwellings. For the costumers it excavated authentic notes on what milady wore to an archery tournament, to court, to market, to sleep, and the equivalents for milord. On games and customs Mrs. George spent Sundays reading at least 30 sources, tracing Saxon pleasures and Norman fads, and listing the whole for Director William Keighley's guidance. (Keighley did plenty of reading himself).

Bright Hues Essential

"The Adventures of Robin Hood" is now under way. But for all the research it will not be entirely correct technically. Research deals in facts—the director can lay on with imagination.

Research, for instance, stopped the peddling of bright silken pennies among the throngs at the archery tournament. Silks were too rare and expensive in those days to permit this custom. But research, pointing out that the period knew only four or five simple colors, with no intermediate shades, could not halt the free use of color. After all, what's a technical camera for?

Heraldry, also, had just been introduced by the Normans in this period, and its symbols were by no means as common as the picture will imply. But Keighley, or somebody, likes heraldry in color—and the picture will have it abundantly.

Franklin Resident Freed Of Murder

Louisburg, Dec. 4. — (AP) — A Franklin county jury acquitted Otis Moore today of charges of first degree murder in the death of Wilson Sykes, a farmer.

Moore contended throughout he was innocent.

Sykes' body was found at a shed at his home near here several weeks ago, his skull fractured by a blunt instrument.

"He seemed to be very well pleased with the verdict," said Clerk W. V. Avent about Moore, "and about 90 per cent of the crowd was pleased, too."

Moore shook hands with the jurors after he had been freed.

DISMISS CLAIM OF ADOPTED DAUGHTER

erator. Miss Browning had sought a $1,000,000 settlement out of the estate, which had been variously estimated at between $7,000,000 and $10,000,000.

Her claim had been opposed by attorneys for Mrs. Dorothy (Sunshine) Browning Hood an adopted daughter, on the grounds Marjorie Browning was adopted only by Browning's first wife.

The attorneys asserted Marjorie Browning did not even attend the funeral of the wealthy realtor.

Today's decision narrowed the long-fought will dispute down to the two girls whom the eccentric 'Daddy' Browning adopted—Mrs. Frances (Peaches) Heenan Browning Hynes, who married a Denver, Col., theatre manager, after Browning's death, and Mrs. Dorothy (Sunshine) Browning Hood, of Dunn, N. C., who has asked $5,000,000 from the estate.

Browning's first wife was ruled out of the contest August 12, 1936, when the Supreme court decided "Peaches" was Browning's legal widow and entitled to dower rights.

One phase of the court battle revolved around Browning's mental condition in the last few months of his life.

TRIP CUT SHORT BY ROOSEVELT

Temporary White House officials insisted neither the crisis in China nor the congressional situation was a factor in the decision to return ahead of time.

The President personally notified Secretary McIntyre here by radio of his decision. He said due to the delayed healing of his gums he thought it advisable to return directly to Washington without fulfilling scheduled engagements.

VIRGINIA MARKETS CLOSE FIRST WEEK

However, the Agricultural Economics Bureau said today compared with 1936 crop averages, opening week's prices for all groups were lower. Lugs about 14 per cent off and heavy and thin leaf, respectively, eight and six per cent lower.

Offerings mainly were heavy leaf and lugs with fourth quality predominating.

Lynchburg opened Monday, other markets Tuesday and sales were "heavy" at Blickstone and Farmville, and "light" at Bedford and Drakes Branch.

The South African Broadcasting corporation has employed four new Afrikaans (pioneer Dutch) announcers.

LEFT TO RIGHT, MR. AND MRS. SOCIETY are represented here attired in their collective best. For it's the gala opening of New York's Metropolitan opera season, an occasion for grandly-arrayed ladies to display their finery, come lush times or lean. In the first tier, famed "golden horseshoe" sit society's first families. In the second or "grand tier" are lesser lights, while stall-box holders occupy the next two tiers. At the top is the "family circle."

SCARED OUT OF EIGHT LIVES was this cat which ran onto a ledge 50 feet above the street, there to remain for two days before attracting notice. But to its rescue came Harry Bone, 23-year-old London storekeeper, who was lowered by rope from the roof, grasped the frightened animal, and carried it to safety as a crowd looked on.

BROADWAY REMEMBERED HIM for his work in the once-famous stage team of Gallagher & Sheau, so Al Sheau now has the title role of "Father Malachy's Miracle."

FOR PASSENGERS HERE, IT'S NO FARE because this train on the Peiping-Hankow line in China won't reach its destination. A Japanese bomb weakened this bridge and the heavy locomotive caused the structure to crumple as it rolled on. Both sides have resorted to destruction of bridges in current Sino-Japanese conflict.
