FDR PROPOSAL FOR INDUSTRY FROWNED UPON

Suggestion For Planned Production Opposed

GENERAL MOTORS HEAD DISSENTS

Declares There Is No Way Forecast Drop In Business Three Weeks Ahead

Washington, Jan. 6.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's suggestion for planned industrial production based on consumer demand, estimated months in advance, got a cold reception today from the head of one of the nation's biggest corporations.

The proposal, informally put forward by the President this week as a possible platform for cooperation between government and business, was put directly to President William Knudsen of General Motors by Chairman Byrnes (D-S. C.) of the Senate special unemployment committee.

Knudsen recalled his company had laid off 30,000 men January 1, and said this was necessitated by a drop in sales in November and December. This drop, he declared, was the most precipitous in the company's history.

Then he said: "I don't think there is a way in God's world to forecast a 50 per cent drop in business in three weeks, such as we had in December."

From Capitol Hill, Knudsen went to the White House with John Biggers, director of the unemployment census, for a brief talk with the President.

Secretary Morgenthau said he found no indication that additional relief appropriations would be necessary for the rest of this fiscal year.

He emphasized, however, he and Harry Hopkins, relief administrator, were watching developments on a day-to-day basis.

Despite the President's request for drastic curtailment of highway expenditures, Chairman Cartwright (D-Okl.), of the House Roads Committee, introduced a bill for $467,000,000 which, if it were enacted, probably would throw the proposed budget further out of balance.

The Senate began consideration of the anti-lynching bill that Southern Senators would miss no opportunity to hamper proceedings as part of their strategy to try to talk the measure to death.

A group of House Judiciary Committee members prepared a letter to send to President Roosevelt suggesting that he appoint the committee chairman, Hutton Summers (D-Tex.), to Associate Justice Sutherland's Supreme Court seat. Sutherland retires January 18.

Forester On Visit To Dozen Counties In Southwest Area

Feature Of Inspection Tour Will Be To Visit Experimental Plot of Long Leaf Pine

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Jan. 6.—Assistant State Forester W. C. McCormick is this week visiting half a dozen counties in the southwestern section of the state on a tour of inspection.

Forest areas in Craven, Pender, Jones, Onslow, Duplin, Columbus and Brunswick will be inspected by the official who is in charge of fire control program of the State Department of Conservation and Development.

One feature of his trip will be a visit to the experimental plot of long leaf pines planted in Pender county some ten years ago. McCormick will make photographs of this area, designed to show just what proper care and fire protection will do towards reforestation.

"I haven't visited this plot in several years," he said "but the foresters down there tell me that the long leaf pines planted as seedlings ten years ago are now from 16 to 18 feet high and that it is one of the prettiest plots they have ever seen."

"We have kept detailed records of the trees in this plot and I am going to take some pictures from the same spots I took them ten years ago, when the pines were first planted. This will show the results of the planting, accompanied by careful and constant protection against forest fires."

The forestry official will also spend several days going over parts of the Riegel Paper Company holdings of some 130,000 acres in Brunswick and Columbus counties, where a voluntary co-operative forest fire protection association has been

The other candidates were former Senator J. Thomp Heflin and Charles W. Williams. Hill, a staunch supporter of the New Deal, is shown reading newspaper accounts of his mounting majority.

DEFER HEARING IN POWER CASE

Santee - Cooper Project To Come Up January 20

Charlotte, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The Fourth United States Circuit Court of Appeals postponed today from January 17 to January 20 a hearing on the Santee-Cooper project after denying a motion of three power companies opposing the project for a continuance until February 7.

The case came before the court on an appeal of the Carolina Power and Light Company of Raleigh, the South Carolina Power Company of Charleston, S. C., and the South Carolina Gas and Electric Company of Columbia, from a District Court decision denying them a permanent injunction against the $37,500,000 power and navigation project.

W. H. Weatherston of Raleigh, counsel for the Carolina Power and Light Company, offered the motion for continuance. He said it was probable Raymond Jackson, law partner of the late Newton Baker, would be unable to be present January 17 because of TVA hearings in Tennessee.

Jackson's "broad experience" in questions involving water, Weatherston said, made his appearance desirable since issues involved in the Santee-Cooper case dealt with "a threat not only to obstruct," but also to "destroy" the navigability of certain waters.

May Consider Tar Heels For Supreme Court Post

Raleigh, Jan. 6.—Announcement of the retirement of Justice George Sutherland, of the United States Supreme Court, puts two North Carolinians in line for consideration, if not appointment, to succeed him.

The Tar Heel pair who will undoubtedly be given thought by Mr. Roosevelt are Chief Justice Walter P. Stacy, of the North Carolina Supreme Court, and Judge Justin Miller of the District of Columbia Circuit Court of Appeals.

Immediately upon being informed of the fact that Justice Sutherland plans to retire, Governor Hoey pointed out the availability of Judge Stacy.

"I would be pleased beyond expression if the President should appoint Judge Stacy to the Supreme Court," said the Governor. "Our state's chief justice is amply qualified for the place, and would do great credit to the highest court in the land."

Noting that the most serious obstacle to consideration of Judge Stacy lies in the fact that the President has just appointed one Southerner (Justice Hugo Black) represented.

NAVY BOMBING PLANE MISSING

Aircraft Not Heard From Since Yesterday Afternoon

San Diego, Calif., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Captain Alva Bernhardt, chief of staff of the navy aircraft scouting force, announced today a navy bombing plane with seven men aboard has been missing since yesterday.

Capt. Bernhardt revealed the big patrol bomber had been missing since 5 p. m., yesterday when "we lost radio contact with it."

"The plane was on a routine flight," he added, "I am not at liberty to say where it was bound or where it was believed to be when we lost contact."

"We believe the plane will be found," the captain said. "It is one of the flying boats capable of landing in any kind of a sea."

Captain Bernhardt did not immediately release the names of those aboard "as they are from different parts of the United States and it would cause needless worry."

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the home of her parents. The service was conducted by Rev. W. L. Clegg, pastor of Bethel Methodist church, assisted by Rev. M. M. Johnson, pastor of Bethel Baptist church. Interment was at the family plot near Shiloh Methodist church.

EXPECT 1,000 CLAIMS DAILY FOR BENEFITS

Applications For Aid To Aged Now Total 650 Daily

SECURITY BOARD COMPILES DATA

Estimated 21 Percent of 8,180,000 Persons Over 65 to Seek Benefits This Year

Washington, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The Social Security Board has estimated for Congress that the number of claims filed for old age and death benefit payments would increase from an average of 650 a day on last November 30 to 1,000 a day at the end of this year.

In submitting data for use of a House Appropriations sub-committee in drafting the Independent Offices supply bill, made public today, the board reported through November 30, it had set up 36,000 employee records and expected to add 10,000 more in the next fiscal year.

A request for $214,000,000 for gains to states for old age assistance, was based on an expectation, the board said, that 21 per cent of the estimated 8,180,000 people 65 years old or over will receive benefits in the fiscal year starting July 1. Last October 19.6 per cent were getting assistance.

Monthly payments were also shown to be on the increase from an average of $17.50 during 1937 to an estimated $21.50 for the 1939 fiscal year.

The board, which pays administration costs for state unemployment compensation programs, asserted of the 1939 program:

"All together it is estimated that almost 54,000,000 benefit payments will be made to approximately 5,000,000 benefit recipients for an amount in excess of $48,000,000."

During the last month of the year the patrolmen made 402 arrests, 45 of which were for driving drunk. Sentences meted out as a result of patrol activities totaled 33 years, three months and 10 days. Of the 402 persons arrested 388 were found guilty and only 14 acquitted.

Raleigh Diocese Bishop Installed

Ceremonies Conducted in Sacred Heart Cathedral

Raleigh, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Amid symbolic pomp and pageantry The Most Reverend Eugene McGuinness was installed the Second Bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Raleigh at ceremonies in the Sacred Heart Cathedral here this morning.

His Eminence, Dennis Cardinal Dougherty, Archbishop of Philadelphia and the first Cardinal ever to visit here, took part in the services, along with 16 Bishops 28 Monsignori and about 200 clergy, secular and religious.

The Raleigh Diocese embraces the State of North Carolina. Bishop McGuinness, concentrated two weeks ago in Philadelphia, succeeds The Most Rev. William Hafey, First Bishop of Raleigh and now Coadjutor of the Scranton, Pa. Diocese.

In a short sermon, Bishop McGuinness said he was "overwhelmed by the fact that I am called to succeed the zealous, dynamic Bishop Hafey."

"I am human enough to be proud that my humble self has been linked to such giants of God," he said. "May the sacred heart of Jesus upon whose agis his cathedral church is chartered, look down with favor upon us this day and always and may we be inspired by the charity of Christ to be all things to all men—that we may save all."

As Cardinal Dougherty entered the church the combined choirs of

Would-Be Congressman Encouraged By Message

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Jan. 6.—President Roosevelt's plea for enactment of a wage and hour measure by the current session of Congress is regarded as quite likely to provide the springboard for which numerous would-be Representatives from North Carolina will jump off in their ambitious plans to unseat incumbent Congressmen.

It is far too early, of course, to measure the amount of encouragement the Roosevelt plea will give opponents of the present delegation or to predict with any degree of assurance just which House members will be faced with out and out advocates of Wage and Hour laws as opponents.

Already there is talk that Representative Bayard Clark of the Seventh District, will have an opponent. It had been generally supposed that the Fayetteville man would be returned this time without serious trouble, but it now seems that there may be a formidable foe in the field.

It is noticeable that the Congressmen from the districts with the largest percentage of industrial workers supported the wage-hour measure. Durham's "Bill" Umstead and Gaston's Major A. L. Bulwinkle voted against recommitment of the measure at the special session last month.

It seems probably that many, if not most, of the North Carolina House members who lauded President Roosevelt's message of Monday had their tongues in their collective cheek when they did so.

Certainly the nine who voted against the Administration couldn't have derived much joy from the Rooseveltian declaration about opponents.

"In both cases it might be worth our while to ponder whether some of these opponents are not at heart opposed to any program for raising the wages of the underpaid or reducing the hours of the overworked."

NEW RECRUITS TAKE UP ARMS

All Cities and Towns Except Those Controlled by Japanese Swarm With Troops, in Some Cases Out-numbering Civilian Population, Under Mobilization

Hankow, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The man-power of this nation of 400,000,000 persons was being recruited today on a national mobilization basis for an unrelenting war against Japan.

All cities and towns outside Japanese-occupied areas swarmed with troops in some cities recruits outnumbered civilians. By spring China expects to have 8 full divisions in the field.

Guiding the mobilization of men, money and munitions was General Chiang Kai-Shek, vested with full power over military and civil life of China under a government reorganized on a war basis.

Under Chiang, Dr. H. H. Kung—Chiang's brother in law and China's generalissimo of finance—was placed in charge of economic affairs and industry. Last summer Dr. Kung toured European capitals enlisting credit and munitions.

General Ying-Chin, minister of war, veteran of the 1911 and 1913 revolutions and graduate of the Japanese military college, was named chief of the general staff.

Officials insisted the government had enough money and arms for a long war.

(Chinese communiques declared heavy fighting was in progress near Hangchow, capital of Chekiang province. Japanese countered with assertions that all was quiet in the Hangchow area and that they still held the city.)

Japanese continued their drive for control of railway lines through Shantung province and were trying to consolidate their gains in the lower Yangtze valley.

(Shanghai late today received foreign news reports that Japanese airplanes had raided Hankow for the second time this week. Twenty bombers escorted by fighting craft were said to have attacked the air-drome and broadcasting station.)

DARE TO DREAM

BY ALICE MARIE DODGE

The Characters
Nelda, who is struggling with a lettuce farm, becomes involved in labor troubles. She and Reck are engaged.

Bill is a tanned, young lettuce farmer. He and Nelda are drawn together in spite of frequent quarrels.

Reck, a wealthy playboy, wishes Nelda would abandon her farming and marry him.

Mrs. Reckless, Reck's haughty mother, has strongly conspired to her son's engagement.

Jack, Nelda's younger brother, has given up medical school against Nelda's wishes.

Chapter 27
Hot Cargo!
FOR weeks Nelda had feared such a thing might happen, but she was wholly unprepared for it. Always, in the back of her mind, had been the hope that the strike could be averted and her crop harvested.

"What can we do, Bill?" "The sheds are closed now, but the owners say they are going to bring in workers to pack the lettuce. The teamsters have joined the packers. Better rustle around for several men with trucks right away. I've learned that there will be from 30 to 35 loads of a morning's cutting."

"Do you think there will be trouble with the strikers—violence?" "I'm afraid so because every head of lettuce that rolls will be hot cargo."

"Who is in the right, Bill?" "Don't ask me. Each side seems to have a grievance against the other. All I know is that I have over 30 acres of lettuce to sell."

"The farmer will be the goat then?" "Looks that way. But we can't take it lying down."

"No," she agreed gravely, "we can't."

They stood staring silently at each other.

To herself Nelda said, "Yes, this is my Nelda Barrie—facing this thing."

Then Bill said, "I'm going to town to see about hiring field workers. Want me to speak for you, too?"

"Please do."

He started toward his car, then came back and extended his hand. She puts hers into it and he held it for a long time. His touch seemed to give her courage.

Standing with her hand in his, she thought that he was the essence of fine young manhood.

"This is going to be worse than the rain damage," he said slowly, "but I'm going to market my lettuce. I've got to."

"It's the same with me, Bill. I've got to market my crop or I'll be sunk."

"I'll help you all I can." He squeezed her hand gently, then released it.

"Thanks, Bill."

Reck came that evening in a gay mood.

"Hi, Farmer!" he greeted. "Nice little strike on, isn't there?"

"Isn't there?" She didn't return his smile.

"I heard that the shed owners have agreed to give the raise that the union wants. The hiring hall is the only controversy now. But everyone says the strike won't last long."

She smiled then.

MODES of the MOMENT

by Adelaide Kerr

"Nope. The strikers threw some kind of oil all over it, and it ain't no good now."

It was then that Nelda realized fully what she was in for.

When she heard the rumble of a truck she sped out to see if it was Jack's. It belonged to one of the hired truckmen. Jack appeared a few minutes later. There was a high glint of enthusiasm in his boyish face.

"Looks as if this is a job I can really handle!" he cried exuberantly. "How about it, Poochie?" He patted the dog's head, and it wagged its tail gleefully.

"See any pickets?" Nelda asked. "About a dozen."

"They didn't try to stop you?" "Threw a few rocks, but they missed me. Say, Sis, if I can get two more truckloads in today that'll make a carload and your lettuce will be on its way to do its good deeds for salads all over the country."

"If I can only get it all through!" Nelda murmured.

"Boy, you should see the gun tower they have erected at one of the sheds! Rises up in the air like a stockade!" Jack remarked as he started to load the truck.

His next four trips were equally fortunate. Nelda took hope and prepared a big dinner to celebrate his success.

Trouble Ahead
AFTERWARD they drove over to the Powells' to see how they had come out. The moment Nelda saw Ray she knew that he had run into difficulty. His upper lip was ugly and swollen. There was an ugly scratch on his cheek.

"What happened?" Nelda asked.

"Get ready to bawl for I've got a sob story," Ray laughed. But the laughter was bitter and difficult because of his injured lip.

"He delivered his lettuce all right," Doris stated proudly.

"But I almost had to call out the army and navy to do it," he said. "Tangled with a couple of tough pickets."

"Have you heard how Bill fared?" Nelda inquired.

"He hasn't started cutting his crop yet," Jack spoke up. "It won't be ready for several days."

"I'm afraid this thing is going to be of long duration," Ray stated, "because the packing shed owners have signed a pact not to recognize the hiring halls."

"That's sweet news," Nelda said.

"The whole business sounds like some good idea gone cockeyed," Doris complained. "I can't see why Labor and Capital don't get together."

"The authorities are expecting trouble and plenty of it," Ray went on. "I was told this afternoon that the highway patrol has been assigned to the lettuce districts to keep order."

On the way home Jack said out of a long silence, "Who would have dreamed a year ago that life would be so different for us? So hectic and uncertain?"

"I wonder," Nelda mused, "if we'd have been the same kind of people had we stayed in that groove?"

"Course we would. Character is what you're born with."

"You're wrong, Buddy. This new life is either going to make or break us. You're not going to let it break you?"

"You would bring that up!" "I didn't mean it for a dirty dig. Honestly, I didn't."

He maintained a surly silence the rest of the way home.

Experiment Is Being Carried on at N. C. State College

Raleigh, Jan. 6.—An experiment is now going forward in the laboratories of the N. C. State College chemical engineering department for the construction of an improved plant which will produce artificial silk from wood pulp and cotton linters.

F. E. Mack, graduate student from Raleigh, is conducting the experiment under the direction of Dr. W. C. Wickert, of the chemical engineering department.

"The design of the new plant will be such as to provide a greater flexibility of the conditions under which the silk will be produced. A defect of the plants now being used is that the conditions are definitely fixed and must be maintained. The design of the new plant will also be such that the steps in the process can be visually observed."

The plant is being built on a semi-commercial basis, the finished product being a small laboratory model. The date at which the experiment will be concluded is not known as yet and the results of the experiment are still a question, but what has been done thus far is indicative of a successful conclusion.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Jan. 6.—Certain newspaper men of the state seem to be unusually hard up for something to write about in the realm of politics.

They are, for example, working themselves into something of a dither over the possibility that Cameron Morrison, of Charlotte, may run for the United States Senate.

Then some are getting into something of a lather over the impending conflict within the Republican ranks of North Carolina in which W. W. Newell, of Charlotte, and J. P. Witten, of some vicinity this correspondent does not for the moment recall, are about to become aspirants for the G. O. P.'s worthless senatorial nomination.

Both of which stories may best be classified under the "Day's Best Ho, Hum" head.

Political experts here see scant comfort for Wage and Hour opponents in the Alabama primary of this week. Those North Carolina Congressmen who have been so cockily confident there is an overwhelming sentiment in this state against the President's pet measure are likely to do more than a little pondering over the sad fate which overtook J. Thomas Hefflin in his efforts to ride into the Senate on a platform of opposition to the W and H bill.

Come by my office to see me when you get through work? Governor Hoey told a lady employed in one of the state departments who wanted to have a talk with him, "You see, I'm not on the hour system. I work longer than you" he added jestingly.

North Carolina's Unemployment Compensation set up is the best I've seen yet? G. R. Parker, regional director of the Federal Unemployment Compensation Commission, told Governor Clyde R. Hoey.

Mr. Parker said he had visited eleven states in the northeastern section, and seven in his own region.

Your correspondent was more than a little amused at the perfect picture of baffled rage presented by a little tow-headed lady of possibly some five summers who was trying to chase a squirrel from the Capitol lawn by throwing at it.

The unimaginative animal thought she was trying to feed it and every time the tiny tot would toss a venereal missile in its direction, would run to examine what it took to be a choice tidbit.

Payment of Unemployment Compensation is going to make future depressions short-lived, if not impossible, said Charles G. Powell, chairman of the North Carolina U. C. C.

The money paid out to the unemployed will soon break the back of any recession by restoring purchasing power," he said.

What's happened to all the candidates for the governorship in 1940? If anybody has been talking any about it, this correspondent has not heard him.

As a matter of cold, hard fact it's still very difficult to learn anything about 1938 politics, as nobody except the hard-boiled regulars are doing any talking even about that.

BRITISH SHOES BLAMED FOR GIRLS' FOOT DEFECTS

London.—(AP)—F. A. MacQuisten, the M. P. for a wacing one-man campaign for a lower tariff on American shoes, declares many British girls feet are misshapen—and he blames British-made shoes.

American shoes, he says, are built on the model of a "perfectly straight inside" whereas British shoes are shaped as if the human foot came to a point about the center with the big toe in the middle flanked by two toes on either side. The well-to-do British woman can have her shoes made in conformity with her foot, he explains, but the working class girl can not get shoes that will fit her pocket-book and her feet at the same time.

Navy Forges Chain Off-Shore Forts As U. S. Spends Billions On Arms

A WORLD-WIDE RACE for naval power, a war in China and another in Spain cloud international horizons. America, with a wary eye on dying arms limitation treaties and on disturbances abroad, has been spending record sums on its military establishments.

How is this program getting along? What are U. S. defense plans? What do they cost? To find out, Alexander R. George discussed these questions with high-ranking authorities and wrote three articles. Here is the first.

By ALEXANDER GEORGE (AP Feature Service Writer)

WASHINGTON — Our defense is most a billion dollars a year. That is more than it has ever cost before in peace time.

Congress has decided to spend this huge sum annually because naval limitation treaties and other buffers against war have failed. "Jane's Fighting Ships," authoritative yearbook on world navies, discloses in its 1937 edition, just out, a world-wide race for sea power limited only by the supply of men and materials. Britain plans almost to double her capital tonnage; Russia and Japan are sprinting for submarine supremacy; Germany, Italy and France have joined the contest.

And America, holding that our commerce and property abroad and, more important, our coastline must be protected, is keeping pace with the field. Besides ships now building or planned, our fleet, staff officers announce, is in the highest state of efficiency in its history.

The Lines Today A quick survey of the 'round-the-world situation today reveals: The British fleet excels in striking power, with a huge complement of speedy cruisers and destroyers. The Japanese and Italians excel in submarines, and the French in heavy-shooting battleships and cruisers.

Germany excels in scientific efficiency of naval design, and Russia is supposed to have developed a fine fleet of submarines and torpedo boats.

America leads the fleets in heavy battleships and in its naval air force.

Industrial Mobilization With ships now being built the United States will have a fleet that can throw steel lines of defense across the oceans a thousand miles beyond our coasts. The army is motorizing its divisions and setting up a huge coast defense trap for any enemy that might penetrate the naval cordon.

Our navy, of course, is our first defense. Save for an entirely unlikely invasion from Mexico or Canada, an enemy would have to strike us from the sea.

Strategists long have studied our isolated geography and the possible combination of enemy attacks, and have designed the strength of our fleet accordingly. Much of this design is secret, but roughly it conforms to the specifications laid down by Naval Secretary Claude Swanson: Our navy must be so mobile and self-sufficient that it can be projected a thousand miles or more from our coast and be main-

Comparative Naval Tonnage

These estimates, best guesses available to the U. S. Navy Department, include some over-age ships which wouldn't be much good against modern guns. All seven nations, however, are pushing new construction.

It's Odd But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

New York—The club life of the grasshopper has been discovered by John S. Kennedy of the British Museum.

This club life of the grasshopper is probably the long-sought starting place for the destroying locusts—the swarms of flying hoppers which have been intermittent scourges beginning with Biblical narrative.

Ordinary looking grasshoppers turn black, take on the distinctive markings of the destroying locusts, acquire voracious appetites, lose their liking for ordinary life and fly in swarms. Scientists have changed these ordinary hoppers to locusts by merely breeding them in crowded cages, and have changed the destroyers back again by breeding in solitary cages.

But where in nature, do the hoppers get together, to strike up a mob life? Mr. Kennedy thinks he found the places in sunny bare spots in millet fields in the Sudan. There he saw solitary hoppers gathering daily like clubmen, to bask in warmth.

Green Phantoms Defeat Fayetteville's Bulldogs, 34-22

2ND CLASS 'A' WIN FOR QUINT

Simpson, With Fourteen Points, Leads Locals to Victory

By JOHN DAVID BRIDGERS
 Playing their first home game in Class A Conference competition, the Greenville high school cagers topped the Fayetteville High Bulldog team by a score of 34 to 20.

The locals were led by DuBois Simpson, Linker center, who made 14 of the total count. Tom "Parson" Parrish, stocky left guard, turned in the next highest tally with six points. Other Green Phantoms turning in excellent performances were Johnny "Midget" Lautares, George "Garlic" Sakas, and Howard Hodges, who boosted the defensive work.

The Bulldog team was paced by McFayden, with nine points, and Miller, who counted for six of the losers' points.

This is the Greenville, who were last year's Eastern Conference champs, second Class A game. The first game was won from Rocky Mount by a 15-13 score.

One advantage the locals had over the Fayetteville quint last night was that they were playing a sowed-up game with sudden breaks, while the losers were playing a very fast game.

Cagers Now Fill The House Rickard Built

By DILLON GRAHAM
 (AP Feature Service Writer)

New York. — The House that Tex built has become a magnet that reaches with octopus-like arms in all directions to pull in America's prize basketball quintets.

Rickard's boxing arena reverberates during the winter with the roar of thousands of court fans. Promoter Ned Irish played a hunch that paying patrons would flock to an auditorium where they might sit comfortably and watch basketball without the customary crowding encountered in most college gymnasiums. And his guess was right.

Colleges from throughout the U. S. accepted his offers to compete in New York and for several years now Madison Square Garden has been the playground of top teams. Ned began tossing doubleheaders at his customers and featuring the intersectional angle, comparatively new in the court game. This season he's booked conference champions from the south, midwest Pacific coast and southwest along with the crack eastern teams.

From far-away Texas comes Southern Methodist and Stanford's Indians trekked all the way from the west coast. Also listed are Notre Dame, one of the best; Minnesota and Illinois, Big Ten co-champions, and Washington and Lee, Southern conference titleholders.

Ban On Dairying Would Injure Farmers Of N. C.

Reflector Bureau

Raleigh, Jan. 5.—A crop control bill which would prevent Southern farmers from devoting land taken out of other crops to dairy farming would be distinctly a blow to North Carolina farmers, figures compiled by State College Agricultural experts show.

These figures, based on records of 801 demonstration farms in 15 western North Carolina counties, living largely in the Tennessee Valley area, show that dairy farms produce a much higher average "labor income" than do farms of almost any other class.

The average labor income from the dairy farms on which statistics were gathered reached $959.73 per year, a figure exceeded only by poultry farms, which produced an average labor income of $1,020.30. Tobacco farms reported an average labor income of $820.12; truck and

STATE OFF FOR GEORGIA GAME

Team Greatly Strengthened as Cagers Take to Road

Raleigh, Jan. 6.—The basketball team of State College leaves tonight for road games with Georgia, Georgia Tech, and Wofford.

The Bulldogs will be met tomorrow night in Athens. Tech will be played Saturday evening in Atlanta and Wofford will be met Monday evening in Spartanburg, S. C.

Dr. R. R. Simon, coach, plans to take the following players: forward—Bill Mann, P. G. Hill, Bill Cromartie, Adolph Honecutt, and Louis Satterfield; center—Captain Connie Mac Berry; guards—Eddie Berinski, Edwin Hamilton, Selby Jones and James Rennie.

Rennie has only recently joined the squad but the lanky youngster appears in good shape. He was a member of the 1937 team and started many games. His return has greatly strengthened the State team.

'DADDY' OF 500 'FOOTBALL PLAYERS' ON PROSELYTING JOURNEY TO SCHOOLS

By LOU BLACK

GILMAN, Conn. (AP)—Marty Gilman sells "football players" for a living—and leading college football coaches are his best customers.

He's ready to start another of his annual 40,000-mile treks through the country. He stops at most every campus for what he terms proselyting purposes.

Gilman, 30 and a bachelor, calls himself the father of "football dummies" that pick themselves up and do about everything an opposing lineman does on the gridiron except talk.

He features "Comeback" and "Goback," a couple of dummies whom he claims are as popular among coaches as is Edgar Bergen's Charlie McCarthy among radio fans. Gilman, who played football for Connecticut State college in the late twenties, noticed time and effort were wasted in lifting and hooking up the dummies then used.

A Star Is Born
 While wandering about his father's cotton mill he saw piles of waste. He did a little experimenting and fashioned a mushroom-shaped dummy made of cotton batting and woolen hair. About that time Papa issued an ultimatum ordering Marty to choose between his job as general manager of the mill and his "crazy ideas."

A sale here and there encouraged him to stick with dummies. Soon after he marketed "Comeback," which operates on the same principle as weighted dolls that can't be tipped over and kept down.

Then he announced the "birth" of "Goback" a 400-pound frightfully human-looking dummy.

"Marty Gilman announced the birth of a fighting, bouncing, football back—Goback—brother and teammate of Comeback. Weight, 400 pounds; six feet tall, perfect pair of shoulders, head, neck and body. Adopt this back—a blessed event for coaches."

When "Goback" is charged a set of rollers takes care of the push while the spring on which he is hooked supplies the upward lift (the secret of good line play is to get under your opponent and lift).

Today his dummies can be found, Gilman claims, on practice fields of 500 colleges and schools.

Scattered about his office are "Gobacks" who answer the telephone, serve as stenographers and comprise a welcoming committee.

SHOVING OFF
 With a car full of husky "football players," Marty Gilman starts for college campuses.

WASHINGTON—Once upon a time President Wilson, in declaring war on Germany, told the German people he was not making war upon them but upon their misguided rulers.

It has gone down in the annals as one of the smartest pieces of propaganda of the World War, a value it could have without at all discounting its sincerity.

More than once President Roosevelt has gone back to Wilson for precedents and in his message to Congress he appeared to go back there once again. In the first five minutes of his speech he suggested to subjects under dictatorship that perhaps their bosses were too warlike for the public good.

He said this: "Disregard for treaty obligations seems to have followed the surface trend away from the democratic representative form of government. It would seem, therefore, that world peace through international agreements is most safe in the hands of democratic representative governments—or in other words, peace is most greatly jeopardized in and by those nations where democracy has been discarded or has never developed."

"I have used the words 'surface trend' for I still believe that civilized men increasingly insist and in the long run will insist on genuine participation in his own government."

In Several Instances
 To be sure, it is a fairly indirect suggestion that people under dictatorship are in real danger of trouble within and without but it might be remembered that a more direct reminder could bring diplomatic repercussions.

In the days of Woodrow Wilson it was hard enough to deliver the President's idea to the German people but in these modern days of short wave radio it presents fewer problems. One broadcasting company announced publicly that it would broadcast the President's speech in several languages, and at such hours that all prospective listeners would be awake, even if not ready and willing listeners.

Not Government Sponsored
 Itallene Carnegie South American Institute the Smithsonian Institution and perhaps thousands of other agencies fall it would be only fit for it to avoid propaganda-like publicity with democracy.

The idea of radio straight to the people via radio has been used for years in all the wild Arabo-oriental and panoptic England is reported ready to give free radio to Palestine in the near future.

New Bern May Turn To Night Baseball

New Bern, Jan. 6.—Doc Smith, manager of the New Bern baseball team of the Coastal Plain league, was here during the week to hold informal conferences with members of the athletic association before proceeding to Atlanta, where he expected to contact players for the coming season.

Already a number of contracts have been sent out to last year's players, but as yet no returns have been reported. It is being planned to enlarge the ball park, and to light the park for night baseball. Night ball will likely be a chief feature of the coming season, local club officials say.

BRITAIN TIGHTENS HOLD ON FAR EAST OUTPOST

(By The AP Feature Service) The possibility of a Japanese drive on South China focuses British eyes on Hongkong, that "little bit of England" half way round the world from home.

Reason: Logical object of a Japanese push southward would be Canton, principal city of that area; and only 90 miles farther south from Canton lies Hongkong, Britain's stronghold on the Chinese coast.

Hongkong, you may be surprised to know, is not city, but a British crown colony, 390 square miles in area, which forms the bottleneck through which flows a vast trade with the great interior of South China.

A rocky island, 11 miles long, with a ridge of hills rising nearly 2,000 feet is the original Hongkong. During the Opium war, resulting from importation of opium into China by foreign traders, the British navy established a base on Hongkong island.

After the war the island was ceded to Britain and later China ceded to her the Kowloon peninsula on the mainland across a mile-wide channel. Late last century Britain leased the "New Territories," also on the mainland, as well as many islands in and around the harbor.

In the colony today live nearly a million persons, mostly Chinese, ruled by a British governor in Victoria, the principal city. White, Indian and Chinese police under British officers keep order; British and Indian troops are garrisoned in the barracks, and British navy ships and military planes guard the fortified harbor.

Following rumors that Japan was sending large forces to South China for a drive against Canton, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons the government "will defend British possessions wherever they may be."

Later a British protest was dispatched to Tokyo after Japanese were reported to have seized a Chinese custom vessel in Hongkong territorial waters. At the same time London announced troops were being sent from India to strengthen the British garrison at Hongkong.

New York Cotton New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened two higher to two lower with trade buying of near months and liquidation of distant positions.

March was 8.41 with the list two points net lower to three higher shortly after the first half hour. Toward midday March sold off from 8.44 to 8.40, leaving quotations three points net higher to two lower.

N. Y. Stock Market New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The buying side proved the most attractive in today's stock market and a wide assortment of rails and industrials stepped up fractions to three or more points at the best.

There were frequent profit selling interludes, however, and top markets were chipped down in many cases near the fourth hour. Dealings were slow from the start.

Bonds and commodities on the whole exhibited rising tendencies.

SLOT-MACHINE BUSINESS BOOMS IN WAR ZONE Shanghai (AP)—There is at least one American in China who is accumulating a small fortune as a result of the Sino-Japanese hostilities in the Shanghai area. He is John Riley, "slot-machine king" of the French concession, who claims, Denver, Colo. as his home town.

Riley has more than 50 slot machines installed in as many bars and cabarets in the French concession which are patronized by American, British, French and Italian soldiers, sailors and marines, who have been concentrated in Shanghai since the trouble started on August 13th.

Riley estimates that his machines relieve these soldiers and sailors of more than $12,000 a month.

DEAN OF STATE ON EDUCATION

Administrative Head Of College Sets Forth Views

By FRED DIXON

Raleigh, Jan. 6.—Col. John W. Harrelson, administrative head of North Carolina College, declared in an interview here today that public opinion is ready to demand better facilities for vocational education.

Col. Harrelson said this demand is necessary due to the shortage of good farmers and technicians and to the great numbers who are not able with their limited training to take their places in agriculture and industry.

The State College head declared that development of education in these fields is not the function of the colleges, public or private, but is the function of the advanced grades of the public school systems.

"The and grant colleges cannot give any more time or effort towards the development of these fields as the colleges are already taxed to the limit in training sufficient numbers of teachers for these vocations," he said.

There is a place in agriculture and industry for the high school student properly trained for these fields, Col. Harrelson said in reasoning that the majority of high school students in the immediate future will not be able to go to college because of lack of facilities at the college to handle them and individual economic limitations. He said State College would have received 300 more students this past fall if it had had room to receive them.

"Those students who cannot go to college must be prepared like others to deal with problems of making a livelihood as society demands it," Col. Harrelson said. "Adequate training in high school will enable them to take their rightful and needed place in society."

Col. Harrelson declared, however, that a college education is needed more today than at any time in history. He gave as his reasons the intelligence displayed by the public in national affairs, education, and the complexity of social and economic problems which with rare exceptions have to be handled by college trained men.

He said there is a great future for the younger generation to train for a career in science and is of the opinion that students today take their training for the future more seriously. Present students want less and less of the old standard courses that fit them for mediocre jobs and low paying professions.

The State College head said the public would continue to show an increasing interest in education and that education in the next few years will find its largest and most receptive growth in the field of vocational education on the high school and post high school level.
