REDUCTION IN HOUSE - PASSED SPENDING BILL

Treasury - Post Office Appropriations Act Approved

$200,000 BELOW FIGURES ASKED

Secretary Wallace Opposes Increase of Freight Rates Sought By Railroads

Washington, Jan. 18. — (AP)—The House passed and sent to the Senate today a $1,515,352,286 Treasury-Post Office appropriation bill for the next fiscal year.

The total of the measure, as finally passed, represented a net reduction of $200,000 below the figure recommended by the House Appropriations Committee.

Included in the bill were increases in various items amounting to $2,300,000 which was more than offset by elimination of a $2,500,000 item for building government printing office annexes.

During final consideration of the appropriations, Majority Leader Rayburn, trying to cut down spending, pleaded with the House to help balance the government's budget.

During debate on an amendment, which would provide a 10 per cent increase in the $11,250,000 item for rent, light and fuel, Rayburn said: "I am, from now on, when these appropriations bill come up, going to take every opportunity to tell the House of the government's finances."

"Some of these days, whether we want to or not, we are going to have to do what any individual would do—balance outgo with income. The amount here is insufficient."

Secretary Wallace told the Interstate Commerce Commission, meanwhile, freight rate increases now being sought by American railroads would "tend to intensify the current recession."

The administration's agricultural spokesmen suggested railroads actually should reduce their rates, which he declared to be among the factors hindering rather than helping a recovery in industrial activity.

Wallace testified on application of the nation's rail carriers for a 15 per cent raise in rates on virtually all commodities, including agricultural products.

Convicted Killers Allowed Reprieves

Raleigh, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Governor Hoes said today he would not intervene for James Sermons, sentenced in Winston-Salem to die on Friday for murder, but granted reprieves of one day each to two other condemned Forsyth slayers, T. J. Jefferson and Tom Linney. All are Negroes.

Under state law the reprieves granted Jefferson and Linney set their death date for February 11.

Hoes said he had made a careful study of Sermons' case, but found no reason to extend clemency. He said the Negro had a "bad criminal career" besides being sentenced to be gassed for the murder of Carlyle Miller, a night watchman.

Jefferson and Linney were granted their stay, Hoes said, as their counsel had requested time to submit affidavits on which he unsuccessfully tried in Forsyth Superior court to get them a new trial.

The governor emphasized the merits of the case did not enter into the action.

The men were convicted of slaying Herman Fogelman and all lost appeals to the Supreme court.

HOOVERS IN MINOR TRAFFIC ACCIDENT

Palo Alto, Calif., Jan. 17.—(AP)—A reported narrow escape by former President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover in a traffic accident was minimized at the Hoover home here today.

The home said the former president's automobile, driven by a chauffeur, only skidded near Santa Cruz yesterday and was not damaged.

The Santa Cruz report said the car ran through a fence and into a grove of eucalyptus trees.

Fire Department Gets a Stew

Washington (AP)—Rescuing cats from telephone poles and apartment dwellings from stalled elevators is old stuff to local firemen. But they have a new one they'll tell you about.

A Washington woman went to Baltimore and left a pot of stew boiling on the stove. By long distance she told Fire Marshal Calvin G. Lauber of her plight. A truck went roaring out to turn off the gas.

Sought In Slaying

An eight-state alarm has been sent out for the apprehension of Leo Vitch (above), alias Joe Reo, of Lynhurst, N. J., sought for questioning in connection with the double-slaying at Elmont, L. I., of 19-year old Jeanne Schellain and Mrs. Lenida White, 59.

YOUTH HELD IN UNNAMED JAIL

Held For Murder Of Itinerant Showman At Henderson

Henderson, Jan. 18.—(AP)—A 20-year-old youth was held in an unnamed jail today after, Police John Langston said, he confessed hacking an itinerant showman to death and bludgeoning his wife in an argument over a bird.

The chief said the prisoner, whom he booked as Clarence Fairbanks of Baltimore, Md., reported to police yesterday morning he found the man, Steve Good, 40, of Austin Texas, dead in his truck-trailer home, and Mrs. Good lying wounded nearby.

Police detained the youth, who was employed to drive the truck-trailer in which the couple lived while presenting a miniature circus, on a technical charge of investigation. A few hours later Langston announced he had confessed.

Mrs. Good, in a semi-conscious state at a hospital here, was not able to talk.

Negro Man Caught At Still In County

A 120-gallon copper liquor still located on Tranters creek in Pitt county, was destroyed by ABC enforcement agents of Pitt and Beaufort counties yesterday and the alleged operator arrested.

Sam Moore, 31-year-old Beaufort county Negro, who was found at the still, was taken in custody by the officers and charged with illegal manufacturing of liquor. The plant was in operation when the officers came upon it. About 15 gallons of whiskey were found, and also 1,500 gallons of beer. Officers declared that six vats of beer had been run Sunday night.

The distillery was a modern plant, being heated by oil burners. Pitt officers taking part in the raid were J. L. Taylor and J. M. Ward.

more than a year. These include a 12 mile stretch from Buck Creek Gap to Toe River Gap and a section of about eight miles from Bull Gap westward toward Toe River Gap. These two sections will have to be completed to the point where trucks and steam shovels can be transported over them before construction can be undertaken in the intervening sections, which are as yet inaccessible from any existing roads.

In order to speed up construction on the western end of the Buck Creek Gap-Toe River Gap section, the contractor had to build five miles of road up the mountain side from the end of a U. S. Forest Service fire trail in order to get his machinery and trucks up to the right-of-way. This particular section looks over on Mount Mitchell and intersects the present road to the top of Mount Mitchell.

Two sections have been under construction in the Asheville area for

100 Miles Of Park Route Now Under Construction

Reflector Bureau. Raleigh, Jan. 18.—Work in the Blue Ridge Parkway, a scenic route which will greatly enhance North Carolina's beauties, is progressing rapidly.

According to the locating division of the North Carolina State Highway and Public Works Commission approximately 102 miles of the parkway, out of a proposed 270 miles in the state, are now either under construction or completed.

Of this 102 miles, approximately 60 miles have been completed from the Virginia line to Deep Gap, except for surfacing and building some bridges. A bridge is nearing completion not far from Laurel Springs, in Alleghany county, while the contract has been recently let for a bridge over State Highway 18 just south of Laurel Springs.

Two sections have been under construction in the Asheville area for

Confessed Killer Taken Back to Chicago By Agents

TRACKED DOWN LAVISH SPENDING

Former Logger Admits Killing Victim Two Days after $50,000 Ransom Paid

Los Angeles, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Relentless Department of Justice agents at the end of a four months man hunt, marked the kidnap-slaying of Charles S. Ross of Chicago, "solved" today as they secretly whisked a man they said was the confessed killer back to Chicago to stand trial.

Edgar Hoover, chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced Peter Anders, 30, former logger, admitted he slew Ross two days after the $50,000 ransom was paid near Rockford, Ill., October 8, 1937, and then shot and killed his confederate, James Atwood Gray.

Anders was traced across the country by a trail of ransom bills he spent lavishly at race tracks, Hoover said, and Friday was taken into custody here at Santa Anita park.

Agents recovered $14,402.28 of the ransom on Anders and at his hotel, Hoover said.

A 27-page statement was made by the prisoner, but not released to the press, before he was started eastward last night, either by airplane or train.

The bodies of Ross and Grey have not been recovered, Hoover said, adding:

"We are certain the bodies are not in the state of Illinois where Continued on page 6

SCORE FEARED DEAD IN BLAZE

More Than Hundred Trapped in Quebec College Fire

St. Hyacinthe, Quebec, Jan. 18.—(Canadian Press)—Twenty-one persons were feared to have died early today in a fire that trapped more than 100, asleep in the College of the Sacred Heart here.

The only victim identified was Brother Jean Battiste, 64, who leaped from one of the school's upper windows and died as he reached the hospital.

Police Chief A. Bourgeois said six bodies had been recovered from the still-blazing building and "about 25, maybe 30" persons, were still missing.

The local newspaper editor said about 20 persons perished inside the school, besides the Brother.

The fire chief said the blaze broke out about 2 a. m., and his men fought off the flames more than three hours before searchers could get near to look for bodies. Volunteer foremen aided the regular force.

Sacramento, Calif. (AP)—Now that wares flash messages across the nation in a few seconds, a telegraph company has decided it has no more use for the historic pony express terminal here. It has offered the building to the city of Sacramento as a landmark and museum.

Death Solved

The Department of Justice today wrote "solved" beside the Charles S. Ross, (above), kidnap-slaying case when it announced that a former logger, Peter Anders, had confessed he killed the wealthy Chicagoan two days after a $50,000 ransom demand was met.

QUINN - MILLER TO LIQUIDATE

Store Building To Be Occupied By Belk-Tyler Co.

The Quinn-Miller Company of Greenville, a furniture store which has been in operation here for the past 25 years, will liquidate its business immediately, according to L. A. Stroud, head of the firm.

The firm's lease on their Fifth street store expired December 31 and the building has been leased by Belk-Tyler Company, which firm will open in Greenville in the near future.

Since the building has been leased to other parties, there has been a stockholders meeting of the Quinn-Miller store, at which time it was decided to liquidate the business. The store will be closed tomorrow and Thursday in preparation for beginning the liquidation of the large stock of furniture.

During its quarter of a century of operation in Greenville the Quinn-Miller company has enjoyed a large volume of business and has been considered one of Greenville's leading businesses.

Family Divided In Civil Court Case

This week's civil session of Pitt superior court continued here today with Judge Henry A. Grady, of Clinton presiding. The case of J. L. Lewis vs C. B. Bunting and wife was started shortly after court convened this morning.

The case involves the ownership of a tract of land, Mrs. Bunting is a daughter of the plaintiff.

Two divorces were granted at yesterday's session. They were: Lola Ward Dickens vs Perry M. Dickens; and A. L. Russell vs Sarah Jane Russell.

BIG CASH AWARDS AROUSE INTEREST

Still Room For Live-Wire Workers to Enter This Great "Cash Offer" Distribution Campaign; Now's Time to Make Start

The Daily Reflector has provided one of the most alluring lists of awards ever offered in a circulation expansion campaign in this section of North Carolina and you are cordially invited to take part in the great prize distribution. The first award is $600.00 in cash. This award will be given to the candidate who succeeds in securing the greatest number of votes in the entire field. Next comes a cash award of $400.00. This award will be given to the candidate who finishes second, and so on through the list.

After all the regular winners have been determined, all the candidates who do not win one of the regular awards will be paid a cash commission of 20 per cent of all business turned in, provided they remain active until the end of the campaign. Thus all will be paid liberally for their time and efforts and none will be unrewarded. All have the same opportunity to win one of the big awards and all compete on equal basis.

A majority of the towns and communities are not as yet represented by a candidate, and the opportunity is being passed up by the residents of these sections. Send in your name and address immediately and determine to win one of the best prizes. In the event it is more convenient to use the telephone, just call the Daily Reflector telephone 56 and ask for the campaign manager. Tell him you want a regular book and full particulars and they will be forthcoming. By all means do not delay entering the race as this may be the opportunity you have been wanting. There is an award in the list for you but it is up to you to get in and claim it. Do it today.

ROBBERS FLEE WITHOUT AUTO WHEN SPOTTED

Night Policeman At Grimesland Opens Fire on Four

LIQUOR STORE AT AURORA ROBBED

Officers Of Beaufort and Pitt Counties Conducting Search For White Men

Officers of Beaufort and Pitt counties today were conducting a search for four men who last night broke into the Aurora ABC liquor store, stole the safe containing $160 and a quantity of liquor, later robbed a store at Edwards and then attempted to rob the liquor store at Grimesland.

The series of robberies was halted at Grimesland when Night Policeman Stanley Moore came upon the quartet while attempting to rob the ABC store there. Three of the four had entered the store after having broken two locks on the front door. The fourth man remained at the car. Policeman Moore declared that he saw the car parked in front of the store and started toward it. He said that he heard the man on the outside call to the men inside of the store and heard one of the trio tell the "look-out" man to "shook him." Moore said he then opened fire and the men inside the store fled. The man outside the store also left the car and fled on foot.

The belief was expressed by some investigating officers that one of the robbers was hit. This, however, was not verified. The car left behind by the quartet bore a West Virginia license, which was wired on leading officers to believe the license and probably the automobile were stolen. A quantity of nitroglycerine and robbery tools were found in the car.

The safe containing $160 was stolen from the Aurora ABC store. Of this amount $100 was said to have been the property of Earl Riddick, manager, the other $60 being receipts from the sale of liquor. The safe was found abandoned in a woods.

Robbery of cigarettes and other merchandise valued at $5 from a store at Edwards was believed to have been perpetrated by the same men who robbed the Aurora liquor store and made an attempt at Grimesland.

The automobile abandoned by the robbers was a practically new Chevrolet coupe. The belief was expressed by officers that the men were after only the safe at the Grimesland store. The right front seat had been moved back, apparently to make room for the safe. Officers expressed the belief that the men found the safe too heavy and were making plans to blow or break it open when Policeman Moore came upon them.

Rare Bison Moved East

Washington (AP)—If you know your Indian legends you may have heard of an albino bison but unless you have been to the Washington zoo, chances are you've never seen one.

W. B. Bell, chief of wild life research for the biological survey says so far as he knows there is no other specimen in existence. The zoo got it from the 18,000-acre government wild life reserve near Moiese, Mont.

Strong Unit Trying to Cut Railroad Behind Advance Column of Japanese Army

Shanghai, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Chinese counter-thrusts put Japanese armies on the defense today in two important zones of their widespread warfare—along the Tientsin-Pukow Railway and in the Hangchow area, 125 miles southwest of Shanghai. Japanese sources admitted they had been forced into defensive positions in those areas.

Strong Chinese units about 30 miles north of Nanking were trying to cut the Tientsin-Pukow line behind a Japanese column which had advanced from the conquered Chinese capital as part of a two-way thrust against Suchow.

Previous Chinese counter thrusts had slowed Japanese advancing down the railway from Tsinan.

Chinese told of additional successes in south Shantung today.

NOE WOULD GO COURSE ALONE

Discourages Others From Trying Emulate Feat

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 18.—(AP)—The Rev. Ver. Israel Harding Noe tried today to discourage others from emulating his fast to achieve earthly immortality.

Informed that a few members of the congregation of St. Mary's Episcopal cathedral were reportedly considering abstinence from meat and some other foods as an expression of faith in the dean of the cathedral, he declared:

"I don't know that any of my parishioners are doing such a thing. But I do not want anyone to follow me. I am leading my own life and setting my own example. Each individual must choose his own course."

The dean made it clear he does not believe others could survive on his present course unless they have his complete faith in which he is doing and his knowledge of bio-chemistry and other sciences.

"This course," he has said repeatedly, "can not be taken on the natural plane. I agree with the doctors that no man could survive for a year on oranges alone. In my case I received from the all-sufficient God the spiritual and creative strength necessary to sustain me."

The dean says he has gone without food and water since January (Continued on page six)

DATE SET FOR BIRTHDAY BALL

Annual Event To Be Held in Armory January 31

The President's Birthday ball will be held in Greenville in the new Armory building on Monday night, January 31, according to an announcement today by W. W. Lee, general chairman.

In addition to dancing, the celebration will include a floor show and other entertaining features for those in attendance.

Jimmy Livingston's orchestra will furnish music for the occasion and the floor show will be under the direction of Miss Ramona Staples, head of the Ramona School of Dancing.

This year the fight against infantile paralysis is being unified under the National Foundation and in addition to the sale of dance tickets, the local sponsors will endeavor to secure founders for the national organization. All persons who desire to aid in the fight against infantile paralysis, but who do not desire to take part in the dance will be issued founders' certificates in lieu of dance tickets.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt, himself, became founder number one of the newly-formed national foundation. The founders certificates range in price from one dollar for a founder, two dollars for sustaining founder, five dollars for a family founder.

During the past year more than 30 infantile paralysis sufferers in Pitt county have been aided through the local portion of the fund provided by previous Birthday Balls.

In announcing the date of this year's celebration, Chairman Lee expressed the hope that the 1938 contributions to the fund would far surpass those of former years.

Civil Service Into Big Business. Washington (AP)—Uncle Sam is an increasingly popular employer, civil service commission records show. The commission's business has tripled in some lines since 1932.

Applications for jobs have increased from 221,494 in 1932 to 934,068 in 1937.

The next division of the booklet is devoted to hunting in North Carolina, such as deer and bear hunting; upland game, such as quail, grouse, dove, squirrel and rabbit, found in almost every section of the state.

The hunting directory by counties follows for the coastal plain, Piedmont and western portions of the State.

Sections follow on the parks and forests the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, and Blue Ridge Parkway, hiking and camping in the Smokies state parks, the state's flora and fauna all illustrated with pictures.

ORDERS AGENT BACK TO TOKYO

Repudiation Stronger Than Declaration Of War

PLAN RECOGNIZE PEIPING REGIME

Captured China Capital to Become Mainstay of new Japanese Government

Tokyo, Jan. 18.—(AP)—The Japanese government today instructed its ambassador to China to return home, and reiterated its determination to have no further dealings with the Chinese government of General Chiang Kai-Shek.

This repudiation, explained Akira Kazami, chief secretary of the cabinet, was stronger than a declaration of war. Such a declaration would mean recognition of Chiang Kai-Shek's regime as the government of China, he said. But Japan today considers it only a local regime. Hence there will be no declaration of war.

Indications strengthened that Tokyo eventually would recognize the Peiping regime, created under protection of the Japanese army as the government of China.

Premier Prince Konoye expressed belief that regime "certainly would become the mainstay" of the new China Japanese expect to come into being after resistance to Japan is crushed.

Issue Booklet On Outdoor Activity

Raleigh, aJan. 18.—A new booklet, "Outdoors in North Carolina," published by the State Advertising Committee of the Department of Conservation and Development, is now being delivered to the department by the printers.

The booklet will be used in following up inquiries received from the direct advertising campaign, especially from those who express a definite desire for information with regard to hunting, fishing, camping, hiking, parks and forests.

The booklet contains 40 pages, including the cover, which is in four colors. The cover depicts a number of typical hunting, fishing and camping scenes. The booklet is profusely illustrated with numerous outdoor photographs from every section of the state. It also contains a hunting and fishing guide by counties, giving the waters to be found and the places in these counties where accommodations may be had.

The opening pages of the booklet are devoted to coast and deep-sea fishing fishing in the coastal plain, the coastal fishing directory by counties, Piedmont fishing and directory of fishing to be had in the Piedmont counties, a discussion of fishing in western North Carolina, including fishing privileges in the Pisgah National Forest and the various state game refuges. This is followed by a detailed fishing guide of the western counties.

The next division of the booklet is devoted to hunting in North Carolina, such as deer and bear hunting; upland game, such as quail, grouse, dove, squirrel and rabbit, found in almost every section of the state.

The hunting directory by counties follows for the coastal plain, Piedmont and western portions of the State.

Sections follow on the parks and forests the Great Smoky Mountains National Park, and Blue Ridge Parkway, hiking and camping in the Smokies state parks, the state's flora and fauna all illustrated with pictures.

State Continues To Lag In Psychiatric Facilities

Raleigh, Jan. 18.—Despite its progress in industrial and manufacturing development, agricultural importance, and progress in public education, public welfare and other cultural indices, North Carolina continues to lag behind most of the other states in the matter of psychiatric and mental hygiene facilities.

The commission which made a study of mental health in North Carolina and submitted its report just prior to the close of the Ehringhaus administration commented on this fact and offered several specific recommendations as to what should be done about it. So far, not one of the recommendations has been put into effect, so far as this correspondent is aware.

The commission, which was headed by Dr. Frederic M. Hanes, of Durham, and which listed such influential members as Victor S. Bryant, likely speaker of the next

North Carolina House, Dr. Raymond S. Crispell, Durham; Louis Graves, Chapel Hill and E. McNeill Poteat, Jr., Raleigh, pointed out that there are two courses open to the state—one to pursue a pinch-penny, niggardly policy which will leave the state at the foot of the column; the other, "forward looking policy, involves meeting the challenge squarely by preventive activities and adequate early treatment measures calculated to restore the largest number of handicapped people to productive life."

The Commission ranked the state as follows, relative to its sister states:

State hospital cost per capita, 48th in 1932, 47th in 1934 patients per physician 44th; patients per nurse and attendant, 43rd patients per employee, 42nd; first admissions per 100,000 of population, 34th; hospital population per 100,000 population 41st.

Speaks To A. A. U. W. Mrs. James Picklen made a most interesting talk last night at a dinner meeting of the A. A. U. W., on her impressions of India—its land and people.

After the introductory comment that since her earliest days she had been fascinated by everything pertaining to the Orient and that reading Kipling had deepened the spell of the East on her, Mrs. Picklen passed on to her audience impressions gained at first hand.

In that immense country, she said, with its extremes in climate and in flora and fauna, its paradise in the Vale of Kashmir as opposed to its great stretches of desert, its snow-capped mountains and its rich plains, anyone could find a spot to please him.

Mrs. Picklen was especially interested in the people of the country, their religion and philosophy.

She described the Sikhs, a northern sect with big handsome men who refuse to cut hair or beard and are such marvelous fighting men that England uses them as "Policemen of the British Empire."

She was much interested in some of high rank whom she met on their way to England to put the son in an English school, and she gave a vivid description of their striking ceremonial dress.

Also, she gave a vivid description of a group of Hindus of high rank whom she saw at a London hotel on their way to the King's garden party, in outfits of silk and cloth of gold, and with jewels of unbelievable size in turban and necklace.

The speaker commented on the number of religions and sects of India and the great part religion plays in the lives of the people.

She had an opportunity to visit a number of temples. Among those that impressed her most was a Jain Temple in which the statues of the gods were adorned with gold and jewels at night after the temple doors had been locked, and stripped of the treasures before the doors were opened for the day.

Another striking one was a Hindu Temple in Bombay with a frieze of life-sized cows in all colors of the rainbow marching in a parade around the top of the huge structure.

Mrs. Picklen described the ancient philosophies of India—especially that found in the Upanishads—part of the Vedas, or religious books of the Hindus—as the source of the old Greek philosophy and that of our own country and time.

She quoted a man in India as declaring that at the bottom of the conflict between England and India is the opposition of the people there to having practically all the revenue of that rich country go to England. They feel that more of it should be spent in India, to reduce the appalling amount of illiteracy she has and to better conditions in general.

Mrs. Picklen's talk followed a dinner and business meeting of the A. A. U. W.

One feature of the business was a report by the Education Committee, Miss Jessie Schnopp, chairman, of Girl Scout work initiated in the Greenville high school, with the cooperation of the Woman's Club and the Junior Woman's Club.

Dr. Elizabeth Brown, of the college Science department (Mrs. Edward Chase), told of her work with the troops, and described a course for leaders of such Scout groups that she is starting for town people.

Pans for the meeting of the A. A. U. W. study group on China and Japan were announced.

Beginning this week the study group will meet each Wednesday at 4 o'clock in room 24 of the Austin building of the college. All interested are urged to attend, whether members of the A. A. U. W. or not.

Miss Laura Rose, of the college History department, will lead the discussions.

Mrs. J. H. Rose, vice-president, presided at the meeting last night.

Hostesses were Miss Mamie Jenkins and Dr. Lucile Turner, of the college; and Misses Mary Ida and Leckie McLawhorn, and Mrs. Costello of Winterville.—Reposed.

NEWS COMMENTATOR WILL SPEAK AT U. N. C. MONDAY

Chapel Hill, Jan. 18.—William Hard, assistant to the chairman of the Republican National committee, and author and news commentator, will speak at the University of North Carolina Monday night, Jan. 24, according to announcement by Alex Heard, chairman of the Carolina Political Union which will sponsor his appearance on the campus. Mr. Hard will speak in Memorial Hall at 7:15 o'clock.

PAINTINGS GIVEN TO UNC DEPARTMENT OF PHYSICS

Chapel Hill, Jan. 18.—Paintings of three noted scientists of the past, done by the distinguished New York artist, Harold Anderson, have been donated to the University of North Carolina Physics Department by the Bausch and Lomb Optical company. The subjects are: Alhazen, the Moor; Hugen, the Dutchman; and Fraunhofer, the Bavarian.

The paintings will be hung in the physics laboratory.

Richly colored, the picture of Alhazen, who was born 965 A. D., shows this Arabian mathematician demonstrating to some friends his theory of the refraction of light by means of a stick thrust into a pool of water.

UNC ZOOLOGY HEAD ELECTED PRESIDENT LIMNOLOGICALISTS

Chapel Hill, Jan. 19.—Dr. R. E. Coker, head of the Department of Zoology at the University of North Carolina, has been elected president of the Limnological Society of America. He was named at a meeting of that group held recently in Indianapolis.

The society is composed of persons interested in the study of the biological and physical conditions of interior waters.

During the same series of meetings in Indianapolis, Dr. Coker gave an address as retiring president of the Ecological Society of America.

NEGLEY FARSON is one man who has written a travel book which tells what's under the crust. He calls his book (published Jan. 13) "Transgressor in the Tropics" and it's about South America, especially the parts close to the equator on the west side. All those casinos and gay promenades are contrasted with verminous dungeons and thieving politicians; we learn almost for the first time from a writing traveler that even the cruise-lands are in some parts full of bugs, heat dirt and haunted by a dreadfully careless spectre called Death.

WAR REFERENDUM PRINCIPLE NOT DEAD YET!

"The Administration believes in consultation, on questions involving the danger of war, with foreign governments. On the most crucial question of all, foreign policy affecting the possibility of war on foreign soil by the United States, it does not believe in consulting the American people.

"There is no need to exaggerate, as some have done. We do not believe the Administration is 'plotting' to carry us into war. We do not believe the Administration is deliberately working to obtain dictatorial power, either in the direction of 'communism' or of 'fascism.' We do not believe that we, in some 'holier than thou' dispensation, are necessarily any more sincere in our wish for peace than are some officials at Washington.

"But it cannot be denied that along with enlightenment on trade treaties, Tariffs, and world consular work for which we have not been grudging in appreciation—more genuine militarists than usual, even, have secured posts of strategic importance under President Roosevelt, who is himself, emotionally navalistic and singularly blind to the dangers of an entrenched military interest in government.

"This among all the aims of the peace forces one essential objective must be continuously emphasized, both for the sake of war prevention and the preservation of democratic government—the democratization of foreign policy.

"Let the people's voice be heard! Let that voice be persistent, undimmed and undiscouraged, unrelenting, uncompromising. On this issue there must be no surrender. 'War is a game which, were their subjects wise, kings would not play at.'"

DARE TO DREAM

BY ALICE MARIE DODGE

Chapter 37

Eternal Adventure

IN San Francisco, Nelda plunged energetically into her shopping. First she bought her school clothes. Then she looked at formal. Finally she chose one in peacock blue shades that emphasized the beauty of her creamy skin, her dark eyes and hair.

Strangely, though, the realization wasn't nearly as thrilling as the anticipation had been. For some reason she was restless, uneasy.

Nelda was more weary from wishing that Bill hadn't proposed to her than she was from shopping. Why did she have to hurt him after he'd been so wonderful to her? Ever since she'd met him there was something about his quietness, even his harshness, that gave her strength. Fine way she had repaid him. She wished fervently that she hadn't stopped that day he waved from his front yard. The expression in his blue eyes and about his strong-cut, tender mouth haunted her. It told her more plainly than words could have done that his arms and lips were hungry for her.

She was a picture of girlish loveliness when she stood in front of the mirror that night. She turned this way and that to get the full effect of the ravishing blue gown, then stepped back to view her twinkling feet.

All at once her spirit sagged. She felt as if she were on the verge of tears, prodding herself to accomplish something she had set out to do and which she found not at all to her liking. She shouldn't be like this.

Reck arrived at eight-thirty. Nelda was alone in the big living room when he came in.

"You're beautiful," he said and advanced as if he was going to kiss her.

She found herself drawing away from him. He looked at her in surprise, but he made no comment.

Outside she saw that he had come in his own car instead of a taxi as he'd planned.

"Then you didn't take the train to the city!" she exclaimed.

"Mother wanted to do some shopping."

"Oh, she came with you!"

"She decided at the last minute to come."

They lapsed into silence. Nelda noticed that he was nervous. She didn't ask what troubled him. It seemed that only her body was there, riding beside him, and that her mind and spirit were elsewhere.

She was in the first dance with him when she caught a glimpse of Vivian Nelson in an apple green frock that seemed designed especially for her blonde beauty. A startled look leaped into her eyes when her glance fell upon Nelda, but it passed quickly.

Reck danced the next dance with the blonde girl. Nelda, dancing with Val, saw that Vivian was talking earnestly to Reck who looked uncomfortable.

Showdown

A COUPLE of dances later Nelda detected that he was indulging too strongly in liquor and she cautioned him about it.

"Don't nag me," he growled. "I know what I'm doing."

He didn't return from the bar to claim her for the next number he was to have had with her. To hide her embarrassment, she went to the powder room. She found Mrs. Reckless there, seated before a mirror, patting her perfectly coiffed hair. Somehow Nelda had the sensation the woman had been waiting there, knowing that sometime during the evening she, Nelda, would come to the room.

"How do you do, Mrs. Reckless," she stammered.

"How do you do, there was no mistaking the coldness in the woman's face.

In silence Nelda sat down and dusted her cheeks with powder. What, she thought, did she and Mrs. Reckless have to say to each other? What would they ever have to say to each other?

"Where is Earl?" the woman inquired, frost on her voice.

"Downstairs."

"I don't know," Nelda caught back a shrug. She didn't seem to care where Earl was.

"The poor boy is probably trying to muster up courage to talk to you."

"Courage?"

"He's going to tell you tonight that he wants the engagement broken," Mrs. Reckless stated brutally.

Nelda was for the moment struck dumb with astonishment and showed it. She simply couldn't keep her mouth from dropping, her eyes from staring. The shock was caused more by the expression in Mrs. Reckless's face than by her announcement. She thought she had never seen such hatred on a human countenance before. She realized then that Mrs. Reckless had always hated her.

"He was through with you that "He gave me the facts himself," Mrs. Reckless asserted coldly. "He went to your house to tell you he could no longer go on, and you claimed him your fiancé before a group of your friends."

"Why he—" Nelda stopped shortly. What was the use of telling this woman her son had lied to her?

"Earl is chivalrous—a gentleman," Mrs. Reckless stated proudly. "He never would have proposed to you in the first place if your sister-in-law hadn't threatened you because he had compromised you."

"Oh!" For a moment Nelda thought she would topple over. Then she slumped her like wet towel and cleared her brain. "I knew absolutely nothing of Leila's threats."

Mrs. Reckless raised brows indicated that she doubted that statement.

"Earl became engaged to Vivian Nelson after we returned from Hollywood," she said crisply.

"You need worry no more, Mrs. Reckless," Nelda spoke with a quiet dignity that came to her all at once. "I have no intention of marrying your son."

This was the first time she had ever been without tension in this woman's presence. It came to her that it was easy to be poised when you didn't care. You couldn't be impressed by arrogance and antagonism when your mind was already made up to take another course, even though it was only subconsciously made up. Gazing at Mrs. Reckless, she felt a quick sense of superiority, a contempt for the woman's false values.

"Will You Marry Me?"

Downstairs she paused and gazed with a curious sense of detachment at the magnificent spread of life and color on the ballroom floor. She saw Reck enter through another door.

He looked like a god, she reflected. He had loved her as much as he could love any girl. He wanted her, yet he didn't want her. His manner could be fascinating. But one thought came clear. His soul was that of a snob. If he could have seduced so vilely to his mother about their reconciliation, their whole engagement was meaningless. It had never been.

She felt as if she were someone else looking back upon herself. Now she knew that the emotion she'd had for him was only love's counterfeit. It was the things he represented that she'd loved. His luxurious and free way of living. A blind alley of emotion. She hated herself fiercely at that moment for her own weakness and indecision.

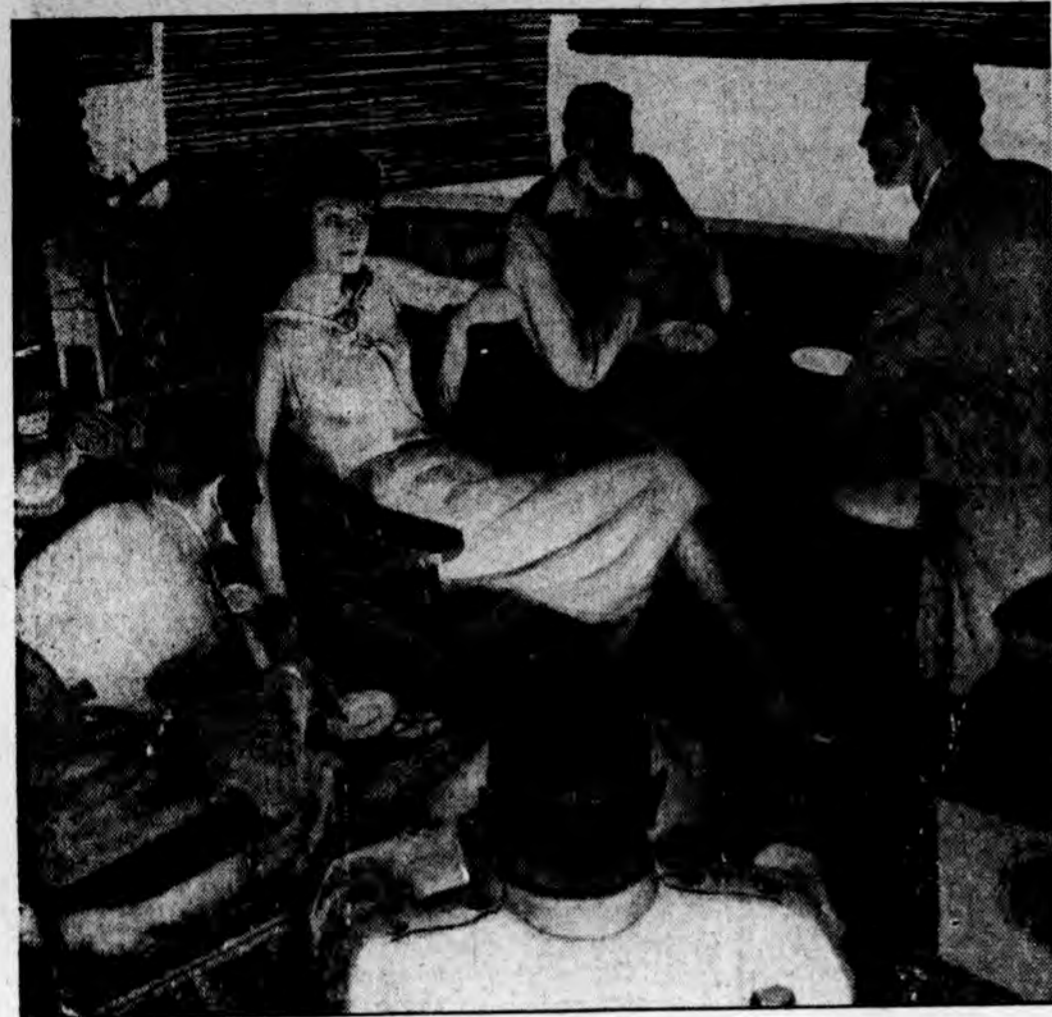

She started toward Reck. She would give him back his engagement ring. But, no! He was feeling his drinks. This was not the time. She'd wait until she reached home; then she'd send the ring through the mail with a note.

Home! The thought opened floodgates of longing. She wanted to go to the rancho at once. It was her possession. Her kingdom. She'd left part of herself there.

As her roaster sped through the

EMPIRE FOR A LADY

BY ALAN LEMAY

The girl's presence here was incredible, yet she was more real than the jungle, the sea, the throbbing war drums.

Chapter One

A Girl From Another World

IT WAS impossible to believe that she was there, whenever I looked away from her. Beyond the motionless bowsprit of the little ship lay the flat, blazing salt water of the bay of Balingong; beyond that, the jungle hemming the broad mouth of the Siderong river. And from all through the foothills and the jungle and the river was coming the tireless, dissonant beat of Dyak agongs, singing war, and hate, and blood hunger. Nothing about the land or the sea would let you forget for a moment that you were in the deep tropics of Asiatic waters—half way between Borneo and Australia, in that maze of 10,000 dark-skinned islands some of whose waters still lie uncharted.

Incredible that an English girl of 20 should be there, sitting in a folding officer-chair under the yawl's afterdeck awning. Every time I heard her low voice it was with a repeated sense of bafflement, of disbelief.

Yet she was there, and we were all acutely aware of her—more conscious of her than of the agongs, or the brass sea, or of our own ship, the Linkang, which lay at anchor six chains away. And she was real—very real.

In the fantastic dream which is my memory of Balingong, Christine Forrester stands out as more actual than any other thing. Plainly I can hear the weird battle cry of the Malays, and smell the burning nipa thatch, and watch the silky nerve-edging smile of the Rajan Mantusen offering his more deadly than his kris. But those things, and not the English girl, are what seem unreal.

As she sat that day under the awning of the afterdeck, the picture of her is very clear. I see the little pulse in her throat, and the grave steadiness of her eyes, and her slim straight fingers. She remains as real as the tarred deck seams, or the scent of ginger blossoms from over the flat salt water.

At first, though, her presence was bewildering. Two years in Asiatic waters had accustomed me to many things. When you are new out there it is very hard to realize that so much of the world can remain so little known. To a Londoner or a Gloucesterman, that part of the Pacific is a full 10,000 miles from home, and you are shocked to find that you can trade tinfol to a Dyak because he wants to use it in decorating a human skull.

But presently you begin to see reasons. The Pacific is a big place, with more than 30,000 islands in one great belt which swings a good 3,000 miles across the South Seas. And the simple fact is that we have known nothing of this vast maze because we have not realized until lately that there was anything there to steal. I got used to the idea that there are whole groups of islands where it is unsafe for any vessel to go; and even those islands lost their strangeness when they became the fabric of my daily life.

But now the presence of an English girl very actually drinking tea in the bay of Balingong brought all that first strangeness back. Here were two exactly opposite worlds set side by side, and it did not seem possible that both of them could be.

Baffled

JAMES CLYDE, my uncle, showed his bewilderment. For years he had known this vessel. But as I had gathered from his occasional frivolous references to it, in all that time Clyde had regarded it simply as the hobby of an uncompanionable Englishman with a glassy-eyed curiosity about strange peoples. Now the Avon had changed in ways that did not explain themselves, and bafflement the poop, was permanent, of wood. It was a luxury, all right. Coarse screens of finely split bamboo were made fast around the rail, reeved on the shade side, but let down to kill the glare on the sun side. With canvas chairs and some little teak-wood tables set out there, it was nothing like the poop of a ship at all, but more like the veranda of some club, overhanging the water. And now tea things were set out on the little tables. There were thin China cups, and a long-spouted silver teapot and pitcher steeply canted on their bases as they are made by the silver workers of India. When I looked at those things I didn't believe in Dyaks myself. Though I suppose I have seen hundreds of thousands.

'A Big Boil-up'

"BUT I am trying to tell you," Clyde was insisting, "that you are absolutely not all right. I've been in these islands for 10 years, and I've never heard so many drums and gongs together in one place. There's smoke hanging over the jungle along a shoreline of eight miles. You're anchored hard against a big boil-up of Dyak tribes on the wild loose, at war. If you have eyes and ears at all you should know that."

Robert Forrester said with reserve, "I hardly think they're out after us."

"And I'm trying to explain to you that that makes no difference," Clyde kept on, grave and patient. "When a Dyak war party turns loose they'll raid and loot and pirate anything that they can handle—and there are enough of them across the bay to tackle a first class sloop of war. My vessel is easily three or four times stronger than yours; yet I tell you that I wouldn't rest here five minutes if I didn't have definite business that forces me to."

Robert Forrester turned and looked across the water at Clyde's three-master, the Linkang. She was a converted whaler, bluff and high in the counters. She carried as heavy an armament as her crew could man—two three pounders each at stern and bow—not heavy guns, but big enough to knock a prau out of the water—and a long six-pound swivel mounted amidships, where the tryworks had been. She was by no means safe in Balingong bay, but she represented all the precautions we could reasonably take. Robert Forrester, though, did not seem to like the comparison. I thought he was about to dispute the matter with my uncle, but he did not.

Instead, he spoke with an unmistakable air of dismissing us. "I've already told you, Captain Clyde, that we also have important business here. As I mentioned before, it's our intention to trade for pearls. We came here for that purpose, and we expect to remain here until it is carried out."

Plainly, my uncle wanted to swear at him, but he held himself back. "Think what is likely to happen to you," he urged. "It's a wonder to me that they haven't swarmed over you already."

"They are scarcely alone in that," said the blonde young man suavely.

My uncle passed over it. "You can't count on them—not even for one more night. There must be enough war praus in the Siderong to cover this bay like a mat. If a single Dyak chief sends out his praus, just to look you over, the rest will turn it into a race for the loot. When that happens, nothing under heaven can save you."

Can Clyde persuade the Forresters to sail, tomorrow?

100 MILES OF PARK ROUTE NOW UNDER CONSTRUCTION

at Toe River Gap, which is less than four miles from the summit. Within the last two weeks contracts have been let for the construction of two more links in the Grandfather Mountain-Linville Falls area, totalling some 22 miles in all.

The first is from Grandfather Mountain Gap on the southwestern side of the mountain, where it leaves the Yonahlossee Trail (highway 22) at its intersection with this same trail just above Linville Falls, a distance of about 12 miles. The second line of about 10 miles, begins where the first ends and extends to McKinney Gap, not far from Spruce Pine, in the Little Switzerland area.

The 13 mile section from Blowing Rock to Grandmother Gap will be identical with the Yonahlossee Trail, already built by the State Highway Commission, so no new construction will be necessary on this portion of the parkway. Accordingly the Blue Ridge Parkway is now passable from the Virginia line all the way to Grandmother Gap, 13 miles west of Blowing Rock, except for one eight mile sector between Deep Gap and Blowing Rock, but it is impossible to get around this sector by using existing highways 421 and 221.

Plans for the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads are somewhat uncertain, but the State Highway Commission looks for bids to be called this spring or summer on several other sections of the parkway, probably the Little Switzerland-Buck Creek Gap link and the portion intervening between Toe River Gap and Bull Gap.

It is also believed that bids will be called soon on one or more Parkway links west of Asheville, probably in the Pisgah National Forest area from Wagon Road Gap westward toward Tennessee Bald and Balsam Gap, since Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes has indicated that some of the western links will be let this year.

Congress has just approved another appropriation of $4,500,000 to continue work on the parkway, expected to be available after July 1, 1938.

Last year's appropriation was of the same amount, to augment what had already been granted for its use by President Roosevelt.

The State of North Carolina is buying the right of way and getting all easements, and then deeding this right-of-way to the Federal government before any construction is started.

LITERATURE PROFESSORS HAVE SUMMER ENGAGEMENTS

Durham, Jan. 18.—Three professors of American literature on the Duke University faculty have been engaged to teach in the summer schools of other universities during the coming summer. Prof. Jay B. Hubbell will teach at Columbia. Prof. Clarence Ghodes will teach at Harvard, and Prof. C. R. Anderson will go to George Washington University.

Professors Hubbell and Ghodes have conducted graduate courses at Columbia for about ten years combined. Professor Ghodes is the first Duke English professor to teach at Harvard during a summer session. His courses will be on Emerson and American literature since 1870. Prof. Hubbell at Columbia, will teach Southern literature.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Jan. 18.—Senator Robert R. Reynolds, who has been acting as a sort of "pinch hitter" for the filibustering Anti-Lynch Bill opponents, declares that the bill under consideration purports to be "Anti Lynch," but that in effect it actually "lynches" the Constitution and the guarantees of state's rights solely for vote gathering purposes.

This is being done at a time when the South is the safest place in the United States to live," he writes in his weekly news letter to North Carolina weeklies.

One feature of the proposed anti-lynch law would provide an indemnity for the families of the unfortunate lynch victims. What about funds for the families of Federal officers killed by gangsters? The government provides none. Yet the legislative monster known as the anti-lynch law is being given attention as if it were designed to control a national problem, instead of to get votes for its sponsors.

Chalk up one "First" for Frank Hancock, opponent of "Our Bob" Reynolds for the Senate. He is the first candidate of the 1938 crop to charge wicked political activities on the part of his foe's appointees.

Frank, not so "friendly" as he likes to be called, sarcastically expresses the wish that Reynolds' henchmen holding appointive posts in the law enforcement division will give "at least part" of their time to activities other than campaigning.

The new medical setup is in effect at Central Prison here, but so far the skies have not fallen.

The Bailey-Ickes feud has reached the book if not mud, slinging stage, with North Carolina's dignified senator hurling "The Sixty Families," which he calls Ickes' Bible, across the Senate chamber.

In reply, the Interior Secretary invites "Sir Josh" to take a bath in the Interior Department's build ing, advising the North Carolina senator to bring his own soap and towel. If this correspondent were Senator Bailey he would certainly not accept the invitation. Carbolic acid would probably flow from the spigots instead of water, if Ickes could have his choice of the liquid for Bailey to bathe in.

The state's prison population showed a slight rise in December according to a report just made public by the State Highway and Public Works Commission.

There were 9,317 prisoners on hand at the beginning of the month 9,346 at its close. Escapes and recaptures almost exactly balanced, with 40 getaways and 41 nabblings.

An even 100 prisoners were paroled during the month. A grand total of 15,999 prisoners were "handled" either incoming or outgoing.

Speaking of parades, the Duplin Times is up in arms over the fact that Governor Clyde R. Hoey, on the recommendation of Commissioner of Prisons Edwin Gill turned one Joe Garner out before the expiration of his term.

Garner, a New Hanover man, was convicted of participating in one of the numerous robberies of the Bank of Magnolia. In a front page editorial the Times goes after the commissioner and governor for accepting the recommendations of Mayor Cooper and New Hanover officials without consulting Duplin officials.

"It smells of rotten and careless politics to us" concludes the tirade.

HICKMAN TO SPEAK AT TWO MEETINGS NEXT MONTH Durham, Jan. 18.—Two important speaking engagements are to be met by Frank S. Hickman, minister of the Duke University Chapel in Ohio and Illinois early next month. On February 2 he will speak at the annual convocation of ministers of Ohio at Columbus, and on the next day he will speak at the meeting of the United Methodist

Washington Daybook

By Preston Grouer

Washington—The antilynching bill is aimed, at the south but the parts of the country suffering most from the filibuster against it are New York and Chicago, especially the latter.

Hardly a day passes but some of the southern senators reiterate that while in 1937 only eight negroes were lynched, the toll of gang killings in Chicago and New York in recent years is measured by dozens.

From The Record

Senator Russell of Georgia hunted out a crime report by J. Edgar Hoover, chief G-man, showing Chicago in 1935 had 243 murders and "non-negligent" manslaughters and 221 in 1936. New York had 369 in 1935 and 364 in 1936.

Just to help out, he read a paragraph from a news story saying that on New Year's eve in Brooklyn, which he described as "a part of greater New York," the "parishioners of the Church of the Holy Rosary celebrated their services an hour earlier than usual, and under the protection of a special police detail, on hand because of a long series of beatings and hold-ups in that section.

Senator McKellar of Tennessee thencited from the Illinois crime survey report, which said:

"There have been no convictions in gang murders in Chicago during the period covered by this analysis—1835-37. This immunity from punishment is apparently due in part to collusion between politicians and racketeers and to the rule of silence required by the underworld code of ethics."

Cancelled Jackson's Debt

We must tell you about Andrew Jackson and the outdoor plumbing which almost got in the Congressional Record. Senator Bailey of North Carolina brought up the subject during a filibuster speech.

"One of the most interesting things I know about Andrew Jackson is that a judgment was taken against him when he left for Tennessee, which is recorded in Rowan county," Bailey said. "It remained on record against him for several years, but one day the news of the Battle of New Orleans came, and the creditor, I think sneaked up there—he did not do it publicly—and wrote on the judgment 'Cancelled by the victory of New Orleans.'"

"Will the senator tell us what that judgment was about," asked Senator Clark of Missouri, slyly. Bailey didn't know, but Clark did and told us afterward.

He said Jackson and a group of young blades were angry at a leading citizen of Guilford, North Carolina, and one night rode up to his place on their horses. There they attached ropes to a certain outbuilding and pulled it over. Hollowen fashion.

The owner ran out of his house and identified Jackson as one of the horsemen. He went to the court house and got a judgment for $8.90 against Jackson. But by that time Jackson was headed for Tennessee and the judgment lay unsettled for many years. Then came the news of that famous battle that was fought at New Orleans in 1815 after the war had ended. The note cancelling followed.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

For stuffed celery, use small stalks or cut large stalks into two inch lengths. Any of the following make good stuffing: chopped, mince-stuffed olives and minced ham; cornstarch cheese and minced parsley; mayonnaise cream cheese and mayonnaise; finely minced tuna, celery, pickles and salad dressing; cream cheese mixed with dates and pecans; sardines, chopped and added to celery, pickles and mayonnaise; chopped shrimps, tuna, salmon or crab added to cream cheese and salad dressing; liver paste mixed with chosne olives and cream.

Work outdoors, if possible—when you're done over old furniture. To remove old varnish or paint first apply a thick coat of turpentine. After half an hour wipe off this coat and cover the furniture with a thick coat of soap suds made in water and washing soda and applied with a brush—to save the hands. When this coat dries remove it with a stiff brush and scrape off any left-over varnish with a dull knife. If a commercial varnish remover is used follow the directions carefully.

Many furniture and floor polishes contain highly inflammable ingredients therefore, they should be applied in well-ventilated rooms. Cloths containing them should be destroyed or stored in metal covered boxes. Never store such polishes or cloths near a fire. Above all, never work with such polishes near lighted fires.

Add a teaspoon of vinegar to each can of furniture polish to increase its brilliancy. Shine polishes may also be treated in this manner.

Boats that build up the body including milk butter, eggs, green and leafy vegetables and fruits. Serve them once a day.

Scientist Plans Mile-Deep Dive In New Ocean Bottom Chariot

By CHARLES NORMAN (AP Feature Service Writer)

NEW YORK — One mile down to the bathosphere, for a new submarine apparatus he is building. It will be on wheels and is called "diphrobenth." Greek for "chariot of the bottom." It is a blue-print stage at the Watson-Stillman Hydraulic Co. plant, Roselle, N. J., builders of the bathysphere. In the earlier diving chamber Mr. Barton and Dr. William Beebe descended half a mile in the ocean off Bermuda, the world's record dive.

Otis Barton

"The diphrobenth," Mr. Barton says, "is being built to explore the ocean bottom to a depth of over a mile—to observe life in the mid-depth of the ocean far above the bottom as was the bathysphere. On the bottom there is more unknown marine life than in mid-depth. It is the world's greatest mystery."

To Have A Camera

To probe this mystery the diphrobenth will travel on three wheels over the bottom ooze and coral bumps, towed by a steel cable. From one of its two fused quartz eyes will project a powerful shaft of light. At the other will be a camera lens for a motion picture record. The chariot's eyes are set back to prevent the windows from shattering in collision with a wreck or coral reef.

By removing the camera and dimming the 2,000-watt bulb of the searchlight one of two observers will be able to descend in the diphrobenth's cramped quarters. The light would have to be dimmed because of full voltage its heat would be unbearable. There is also the danger that the heat may crack one of the quartz windows.

6,000-Foot Cable

The ocean off Bermuda again will be the setting for this new and more spectacular venture in probing the mysteries of the deep. Dr. Beebe's beam, and search and other equipment used in the bathysphere dive are in storage there, and at St. George's there is an experienced crew captain of the Beebe-Barton machine. It is possible to reach deep water off Bermuda by using not more than 10 miles of cable.

Like its predecessor, the new chariot will be towed from a barge. Estimated cost of the chariot is $6,000. Estimated cost of a 6,000-foot cable is $100,000. The chariot is 12 feet long and 12 feet wide and will be towed on the surface of the sea. An electric cable will connect the chariot to the barge.

DRIVE-IT-YOURSELF PLANE CRANKS SEEK CUT HIGH COST OF FLIVV-ING

ALMOST FOOL-PROOF Although not in the flivver class in price, this "fool-proof plane" was tested by the department of air commerce as a practical "drive-in-yourself" ship.

By DEVON FRANCIS AP Aviation Editor Cleveland—"Flivver" airplane ad dicts, who have been preaching the gospel of flying for everybody for these many years, are about to receive formal recognition. Gliding and soaring, lightplane flying and model building, government-sponsored in many European countries, will be fostered from now on by a national aeronautics planning conference.

The increasing production of lightplanes, good for 30 miles to the gallon of gasoline, is testimony that American youth wants to fly. Twice as many "flivvers" were produced in 1937 as in 1936, and manufacturing schedules call for another boost, probably around 50 per cent, or a total of between 7,000 and 8,000 machines, this year.

Not quite as easy to operate as the wishful thinkers used to predict but nevertheless a stable and sturdy airplane, the "flivver" has become popular in a modest sense through price reductions made possible by mass production methods.

The cheapest of the little ships costs $1,270 at the factory. The down payment is only $425. Insurance costs are added, as they are on automobiles, but those too have been reduced, he average light-

GOGA, RUMANIA'S HITLER, BEGAN CAREER AS A POET

BUCHAREST (AP)—Octavian Goga, Rumania's new fascist premier, resembles his political mentor, Adolf Hitler, in program, personality and patriotism.

The comparison goes further. Both spent their formative years in countries other than the ones they were called to lead to super-nationalism. Hitler in Austria and Goga in Hungary.

Dreamers and Doers Goga and Hitler, both small town boys, are dreamers and doers, strong anti-semites, orators with electric power, solitude-loving but at times gregarious, able to make quick decisions, thorough nationalists.

Goga's program calls for a reworking of the constitution in the authority sense, loyalty to the monarchy, "Rumania for Rumanians," the complete union of army, justice, government, and education with the people, ejection of all foreigners—meaning Jews primarily—and death sentences for treason.

Goga, 57, is married to a singer known as "The Nightingale of Transylvania." They have no children. Goga was born in the Transylvania village of Rasnari, the son of a clergyman, and was educated at Budapest.

Famed As a Poet He won fame first as a poet. In 1905 the Rumanian Academy honored him for his patriotic songs. Some years later he ran for parliament, but lost. He was sentenced to prison for his inflammatory poems, but escaped to Hungary. Before Rumania's entry into the World war he returned and agitated for fighting against Austria. Then he wrote propaganda urging the provinces of Siebenbuerren and Bukowina to join Rumania. He served as a volunteer in the Rumanian army.

When peace came, he was adviser to the Rumanian peace delegation in Paris. Subsequently he began his political career, first as minister of education and then as minister of interior in the cabinet of Marshal Averescu, with whom he broke in 1921 to found his own party of national peasants. In 1935 he joined the organization with the League for Christian-National Defense of the anti-semitic leader Alexander Cuza, to form the National Christian party. The party's badge, chosen by Cuza in 1910, is the swastika.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York—Practically everyone has a favorite restaurant, yet few are so wholly monopolized by great names of the theatre as Ralph's Place, a small cafe in West 45th street, where every other door is a house of drama.

Here most of the actors and actresses on Broadway congregate after midnight or snatch hasty meals between performances. Ralph knows them all, intimately and well. He knows their middle names, the names of their children, and the color of their neckties. Yet, it is surprisingly inexpensive, no more costly than a thousand other restaurants scattered throughout the city.

There are various reasons for Ralph's success in the restaurant trade. He knows Broadway. He has been a part of it for 25 years. Then, his food is always excellent. But more important than this, I suspect, is his great tolerance and his willingness always to give sympathetic attention to one and all.

There are frequenters of his house of food who are now great names in the arts. They spend their money lavishly now, but perhaps a few short months ago, they were eating on the cuff. Ralph never turns an actor away unfed—or anyone else. They come into his place and eat on the cuff. When they get off Hard Times Creek, they come pay the bill and then, showing their gratitude, continue as it's guest.

There is one actress on Broad-way, a talented creature, whose luck only recently has turned towards the better. For eight months she was out of employment, yet Ralph urged her to make his cafe her home and she dined there for eight months without paying. She is in the money now and you may be certain that this bill has been settled and that she continues to bring her friends there for lunches, dinners and late suppers.

You will know Ralph's place, if you wander through West 45th street, not by its ornate appointments or luxurious tapestries—for it has none, but by an unusual num-ber of stuffed birds which line, very life-like, the walls. Friend Ralph is a true ornithologist, and spends happy week-ends crawling through the woods, studying wild fowl, learning songs, habits, lore. Occa-sionally, on hunting trips, he saves some particular specimen, and has it mounted for his house.

Meanwhile, in the snug nooks and comfortable tables of the restaurant are the heroes, villains, middlemen and stooges of the dramas which fascinate after-dark audiences up and down Broadway. The grease-paint has been wiped off and the costumes hung for another night, but they are talking shop, dining well off Ralph's delicacies, killing pleasant hours until daylight, the enemy of fine conversation, drives them to bed.

CITES PHASES SECURITY ACT

Attention Called To Sections of Compensation Law

Raleigh, Jan. 18.—Attention of employers of North Carolina is called to several important phases in the Unemployment Compensation Law administration at the beginning of the New Year by Charles C. Powell, chairman of the commission, as follows:

Unless the full amount of the 1.8 per cent of 1937 payrolls of covered employers is paid to the state commission during this month, January the U. S. Bureau of Internal Revenue will assess and collect the full two per cent levied by the Federal Government, and not just the two-tenths of one per cent. The State commission is required by the State law to collect the 1.8 per cent, which means that if covered employers fail to pay the state commission in January, they cannot get credit for the State pay-ment and will thus have to pay 3.8 per cent, instead of two per cent for 1937.

The rate of contributions for 1938 and thereafter is three per cent, as levied by the Federal Government, of which the state commission collects 2.7 per cent monthly and the Bureau of Internal Revenue collects three-tenths of one per cent after the end of this year. The rate was 9 per cent in 1936 and 1.8 per cent in 1937.

Quarterly wage reports, of the wages earned by workers during the last quarter of 1937, are due in January. Any employers who have not made reports for earlier quarters in 1937 should do so at once, as the State law is very specific in levying a fine and imposing a sentence for failure to make the required reports at the time designated. The commission has been as lenient as possible, but will have to enforce the law on delinquent employers, in order to make the proper pay-ments to eligible unemployed work-ers. Director E. W. Price of the Unemployment Compensation Divi-sion advises.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Jan. 18.—(AP)—Air-crafts and scattered specialties tried a rallying take-off in today's stock market, but most leaders were downed by further light profit realiz-ing.

The proceedings were the slowest in several weeks, as ticker tape frequently being at a standstill. De-clines of fractions to a point or so predominated near the fourth hour. Bonds were uneven.

Man About Manhattan

New York—Practically everyone has a favorite restaurant, yet few are so wholly monopolized by great names of the theatre as Ralph's Place, a small cafe in West 45th street, where every other door is a house of drama.

Here most of the actors and actresses on Broadway congregate after midnight or snatch hasty meals between performances. Ralph knows them all, intimately and well. He knows their middle names, the names of their children, and the color of their neckties. Yet, it is surprisingly inexpensive, no more costly than a thousand other restaurants scattered throughout the city.

There are various reasons for Ralph's success in the restaurant trade. He knows Broadway. He has been a part of it for 25 years. Then, his food is always excellent. But more important than this, I suspect, is his great tolerance and his willingness always to give sympathetic attention to one and all.

There are frequenters of his house of food who are now great names in the arts. They spend their money lavishly now, but perhaps a few short months ago, they were eating on the cuff. Ralph never turns an actor away unfed—or anyone else. They come into his place and eat on the cuff. When they get off Hard Times Creek, they come pay the bill and then, showing their gratitude, continue as it's guest.

There is one actress on Broad-way, a talented creature, whose luck only recently has turned towards the better. For eight months she was out of employment, yet Ralph urged her to make his cafe her home and she dined there for eight months without paying. She is in the money now and you may be certain that this bill has been settled and that she continues to bring her friends there for lunches, dinners and late suppers.

You will know Ralph's place, if you wander through West 45th street, not by its ornate appointments or luxurious tapestries—for it has none, but by an unusual num-ber of stuffed birds which line, very life-like, the walls. Friend Ralph is a true ornithologist, and spends happy week-ends crawling through the woods, studying wild fowl, learning songs, habits, lore. Occa-sionally, on hunting trips, he saves some particular specimen, and has it mounted for his house.

Meanwhile, in the snug nooks and comfortable tables of the restaurant are the heroes, villains, middlemen and stooges of the dramas which fascinate after-dark audiences up and down Broadway. The grease-paint has been wiped off and the costumes hung for another night, but they are talking shop, dining well off Ralph's delicacies, killing pleasant hours until daylight, the enemy of fine conversation, drives them to bed.

Stenographer Saves Bank $30,000

When Miss Mary Probal, 28-year-old stenographer, saw three robbers enter the Lorain Street Bank, Cleveland, O., she neatly saved the bank $30,000 in currency by setting off an alarm which locked the vault and safes. The robbers grabbed up $4,000 in cash from the counters and ran away when Manager Ralph Reitsman, shown above with Miss Probal, told them the vault had been locked by a time device.

ATHLETIC CLUB IS ORGANIZED

To Use Armory For Various Indoor Contests

The Greenville Athletic club was organized at a meeting in the Armory last night with M. P. Fox as president; Tom Wilson, vice president; Charles Whedbee, Sec-etary; and Bill Moore treasurer.

The club got off to a good start with about 15 present and word from a number more that they wished to come into the club which was organized to provide a means of recreation and exercise for young business and professional men in the city.

The club will be operated as a community affair, with a small in-itation fee and monthly or quar-terly dues to be collected from each member to pay for equipment and for providing hot water and lights at the Armory.

The officers were invested with authority to proceed with a plan for getting more members and mak-ing all arrangements. Several de-tails were discussed at a meeting this afternoon and it is the aim of the club to purchase equipment at once and get actively started as soon as possible.

Various indoor sports, such as basketball, volley ball, handball, etc., will be engaged in and the club is open to anyone over 21 years of age. Any person wishing to be-come a member of the organiza-tion should call one of the officers of the club.

PETE MULLIS FINALLY FINDS BASKET RANGE

Chapel Hill Jan. 18.—Pete Mullis, diminutive forward, who has been having so much trouble locating the basket this season, finally found the range on the recent Virginia trip. In his three games with V. P. L. W. I. and Washington and Lee, Pete hit the bulls eye eight times from action and six times from the foul line for a total of 22 points. Prior to that he had scored only 15 points in four games. Pete was high scorer on the UNC quint last season with 175 points.

CAPTAIN JOE MURNICK GOOD IN 1938 DEBUT

Chapel Hill, Jan. 18.—Captain Joe Murnick, classy 135 pound bat-ter looked good for the Tar Heels in his 1938 debut against the Cit-adel at Chapel Hill last Saturday night. Murnick boxed skillfully and his soundly for three rounds to score an impressive victory over Rip Todd star lightweight of the Cadets. Mur-nick is priming himself this week for the Tar Heel's only invasion of the East Saturday when North Carolina faces Penn State's Nit-tany Lions at State College, Pa.

ROSS KIDNAPER AND SLAYER TRAPPED THROUGH INCENSANT DESIRE TO PLAY THE RACES

It was Anders' irrepresible urge to "play the ponies" that led to his capture. He was passing some of the ransom money through the pari-mutuel window at Santa An-ita, Hoover said, when he was seized.

A rap similar to that set in the Lindber case was baited across the country as the government sent a complete list of serial numbers of 5,250 bills given the abductors to police, newspapers, banks and busi-ness houses from coast to coast.

NOE WOULD GO COURSE ALONE

(Continue from Page One) 2, taking his complete sustenance from God, except for the wafer and wine of his communion service three times a week.

Dean Noe's mother, 87-year-old Mrs. Susannah Noe of Beaufort, N. C., expressed faith in her son, as did the dean's eldest brother, the Rev. Thomas Noe, of York, S. C.

PIRATES MEET NORFOLK TEAM

Naval Base Quint To Engage Teachers Tonight

Basketball fans will have an op-portunity to see one of the best teams on the east coast in action tonight when Coach Gary Bodie's famous Naval Base boys invade Greenville for a game with Coach Joe Alexander's East Carolina Teachers College Pirates.

Only last Friday night the Pirates fell before the terrific passing at-tack of the Naval Base veterans in a game filled with thrills galore. Ty Cobb Blair, elongated Naval Base center, scored 16 points to help his teammates, led by All-American Ray Pluum defeat the less experi-enced but harder fighting Pirates 41 to 38.

The Naval Base team has a fine array of talent and are under the tutelage of what is recognized as one of the basketball greats, Coach Gary Bodie, retired naval officer. For the last three years the Naval Base club has won the Virginia State championship and during that time have defeated all of the better known colleges and universities in Virginia and adjoining states. Last year they swamped the Pirates 67 to 20 and played the third team most of the game.

This year they found a different story and the first stragglers played at top speed for 40 minutes to over-come the less experienced lads, from Tarheelia, but what a game it was. Tonight Coach Alexander with a determined squad confronted by but one thought and that is "Beat the Naval Base." The starting line-up for Coach Alexander will be Shelton and Smith, forwards; Mar-tin, center; Cecot and Johnson, guards.

As a preliminary and beginning at 6:45 o'clock, the Outlaws, or E. C. T. C. reserves, meet the Bath high school cagers in what prom-ises to be a thriller. Coach Francis Sinclair, Bath mentor, promises to give the fans a real exhibition and is likely to break the Outlaws' string of victories.

An appropriate slogan for to-night's struggles would be: "Come early if you desire a seat," as a sell-out is anticipated.

JOHNSON HARRISS OFF TO FINE STRAT

Chapel Hill, Jan. 18.—Johnson Harris, Wilmington boy, is off to a fine start in wrestling again this season. Harris, a junior, who is the classy ar Heel 115-pound grap-pler, looked impressive in beating his V. P. L. opponent last week. He had an overwhelming time advan-ting over the Gobbler. Harris lost only two matches as a sophomore last season. He will compete again January 29 at Annapolis, when the Tar Heels meet the strong Navy matmen.

DILWORTH STILL TOPS U. N. C. CAGE SCORERS

Chapel Hill, Jan 18.—At the end of seven games on North Carolina's 20-game basketball program this winter, Ben Dilworth, capable soph-omore center, is still high scorer with 54 points. Dilworth has gar-nered 24 field goals and six fouls for his tally. Following closely is Captain Earl Ruth, All-Southern guard, with 52 points. Ruth has one less field goal than Dilworth but the same number of fouls.
