There were assurances that the Chamber of Deputies would give a strong vote on confidence to Chamber of Deputies government selected after a five day cabinet crisis.

Spokesmen for Right and Left groups said they were not willing to plunge France into a new crisis immediately by trying to overthrow Chamber of Deputies.

No Change Made In Sunday Fishing

Raleigh, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Easterners, the Board of Conservation and Development said today, are getting hot and bothered over their Sunday fishing when there is no need to get excited.

The Board this week decided to forbid hunting on Sunday on all state lands. No mention was made of Sunday fishing.

The report got out though that Sunday fishing had also been banned and protests were arriving by the scores this morning. The situation on Sunday fishing remains as it was, but the State has for years had a blue law about observance of the Sabbath.

Two Killed When Airplane Crashes

Fayetteville, Jan. 21.—(AP)—An army airplane crashed and burned here today, killing its two occupants, Lieutenants Lewis E. Countway and Earle T. McArthur, both stationed at Fort Bragg.

Countway was about 23 years old and his home was in Quincy, Mass. He was a reserve officer, but had been on active duty at Pope Field, Fort Bragg, since last July.

FORSYTH MAN PAYS PENALTY

Father of Victim Witnesses Execution of Murderer

Raleigh, Jan. 21.—(AP)—James Sermions died in the gas chamber here today for the murder of Jesse Carlyle Miller in Forsyth county, as J. F. Miller, father of the slain man watched the execution.

"I think it was right for him to pay the penalty," said the father after the execution. He added he thought someone else besides Sermions was involved in the slaying of his son.

Also witnessing the execution, first of the year in this state, was Grady Swisher of Kernersville, who was held up and robbed by Sermions.

"The Negro had two guns and forced me to drive into the woods with the lady I had with me," said Swisher. "He tried to criminally assault her, but three officers came by and scared him away. My empty pocketbook was found under his pig pen and I testified against him."

Sermions, 30, entered the gas chamber at 10:34 and watched with interest as he was strapped in the chair. At 10:37 the gas was started and nine minutes and 56 seconds later Dr. Felda Hightower, prison medical director, announced the man was dead. The body had not been claimed today.

CAROLINA GETS FRANCHISE FOR PHONE SERVICE

Contract Consummated After Year Of Negotiations

CITY ALDERMEN AGREE ON TERMS

Electric Cables And Telephone Wires To Be Placed Underground

The city of Greenville and the Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company have consummated a franchise following negotiations for about a year and after the city had threatened to put in its own exchange.

The Board of Aldermen at a called meeting last night adopted the franchise on its first reading and it will come up again at its next regular session for final action.

The city proposes to grant the Telephone company a 20-year franchise on condition that the company give the city 15 free telephones to be used in its governmental agencies and such additional telephones as may be needed for other governmental agencies created in the future and the growth of the city demands.

A policy of underground construction of conduit and cables by the city through its Water and Light commission, and the telephone company has been agreed upon. Instead of two excavations and unnecessary destruction of streets for the laying of cables, there will be only one with the cost to be borne proportionately by the city and Telephone company.

There will be separate ducts and man holes, however, for electric wires and telephone wires and all work is to be handled by one contractor, expert in this particular field of work.

Present plans call for early construction of conduit and underground cables for electric cables and telephone wires from Five Points to Grand avenue beyond the Atlantic Coast Line tracks; Washington street from Dickinson avenue to Fourth Street; Fourth street from Washington to Cotanche; and

It was pointed out that the recent rapid growth of Greenville has made a new building almost imperative. It was conceded, however, that if such a building was erected with funds provided locally it would be some time before the addition

Bodies Recovered; Anders Relates All

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 21.—(AP)—An amazing story of kidnaping, slaying and bank robberies attributed to Peter Anders, former lumberjack, was related today after recovery of the bodies of Charles Ross and James Gray, from a cave deep in the northern Wisconsin woods.

Whisking Anders back to St. Paul after a tortuous two-day foray into the fastnesses of Minnesota and Wisconsin Edgar Hoover, FBI chief, said virtually all of the $50,000 ransom paid in vain for Ross' release has been recovered.

The 30-year old one-time logger in the Pacific Northwest detailed each of the numerous crimes in the confession, covering thousands of words, said Hoover, adding Anders had slain his accomplice, Gray, during an argument. Hoover said Anders had confessed kidnaping John Borcia and his wife, Olivia, of Chicago, and robbing one Minnesota and three Wisconsin banks. The Borcias were released without payment of ransom.

When arrested Friday near Los Angeles Anders had about $14,000 of the ransom, Hoover said. An additional $30,000 was found hidden in Minnesota. Anders said $3,000 of the balance was stolen from his car in New York City.

The bodies of Ross and Gray, the latter nude, were found just before dark yesterday in a small cave in a desolate section near Spooner, Wis.

FDR PRINCIPLE SANCTIONED BY AUTO BUILDERS

In "Hearty" Agreement Regarding Installment Selling

CONFERENCE MET AT WHITE HOUSE

Democratic Leader Serves Notice Senate Will Begin Night Sessions Monday

Washington, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Leading automobile manufacturers announced after a White House conference today they were "in hearty agreement" with President Roosevelt's principles about installment selling of automobiles.

However, Alvan Macauley, president of the Automobile Manufacturers' Association, said installment buying, properly used, "had and would continue to help millions of families raise their standard of living and also that it had helped and would continue to help increase employment."

Macauley, spokesman for the group that included manufacturers and automobile finance company heads, said all concurred in his statement. He said the group told the President they were "hopeful a seasonal increase in sales in the spring will bring an improvement in business."

The President had said before the conference he believed his conference with business and other groups were making satisfactory progress and were clearing the atmosphere of misunderstanding.

Democratic Leader Barkley served notice in the Senate, meantime, that he would call for night sessions beginning Monday in an effort to break the filibuster against the anti-lynching bill.

Barkley took the floor at the outset of today's session, the 14th which the Senate has devoted to the anti-lynching bill, to "warn that other measures were coming along rapidly and that disposition must be made of the pending bill."

Barkley did not urge the Senate either to pass or reject the measure. (Continued on page six)

FORSYTH JURY OUT 24 HOURS

Winston-Salem, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Twenty-four hours after retiring to a court house chamber, a jury of business men and farmers had failed to decide the fate of John Hartle at noon today.

Tense crowds milled around in Forsyth Superior court room during the morning, waiting to hear the fate of the 63-year old groceryman charged with the murder of Walter Smith.

As hours passed the belief spread that the jurymen were deadlocked between verdicts of manslaughter and acquittal and that a mistrial might be declared.

Hartle shot Smith November 26 when he found the barber and Mrs. Hartle in a darkened room of the groceryman's home.

Defense attorneys pleaded self defense, contending Hartle shot Smith because he thought the barber was going to attack him.

GEN. DOIHARA SETS UP RULE

"Lawrence of Manchuria" Declared To Be Bringing in "Acceptable" Northern Chinese To Assume Control Over Fallen Shanghai and Nanking Areas

Shanghai, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Japan's "Lawrence of Manchuria" was reported today to be setting up a puppet regime to govern the conquered heart of China.

Chinese sources declared Lieut. General Doihara, political manipulator for the Japanese army whose efforts launched the dismemberment of Manchuria and North China, was bringing in "acceptable" Northern Chinese to rule the Shanghai and Nanking area.

"I don't think General Doihara in Shanghai at present" said the Japanese military spokesman, but Chinese asserted he had established headquarters at the new Asia hotel. Rendezvous of high Japanese commanders and prospective political advisors.

Doihara's undercover work had been credited with keeping China in turmoil in the decade preceding the present hostilities. Advises from Manchuria today quoted a diplomat who expected to become Japan's acting Ambassador to China as saying he expected a new regime for south and central China to be established soon.

Although slowed by snow and cold, the Japanese column advancing north from Nanking was said to be approaching the half-way mark on the drive toward Soochow.

Far to the northwest, Outer Mongolian troops allied with Soviet Russia were reported in Japanese dispatches to be preparing a heavily manned defense line along the Monolian border facing north China areas conquered by Japan.

No foreigners remained in Soochow since American Missionaries who evacuated were unable to get Japanese permits to return. Miss Lucy Grier, Montreal, N. C., and Henry H. McMillan, Wagram, N. C., who had maintained a hospital and relief camp at nearby Kwangfoh came back to Shanghai, saying they had been "discouraged" from continuing their work.

Coverage Of War Proves Expensive

Chapel Hill, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Press Association methods in covering the Far East war were explained by Miles Vaughan, night news editor of the United Press, in an address to the 14th annual North Carolina Newspaper Institute today.

The editor outlined preparations made by his organization to cover the conflict a year ago when it appeared likely that war would come and revealed expenses to the news association had risen to as high as $1,000 a day for tolls and incidental expenses.

Speakers will be John Graves, II, of the Birmingham News and Age-Herald, and Henry Dwire, director of Duke Public Relations, former publisher. The institute will close tomorrow.

CALL MEETING MONDAY NIGHT

To Discuss Proposed Athletic Field And Playgrounds

A mass meeting has been called for the City Hall at 8 o'clock Monday night to discuss the possibility of securing an athletic field and playground for Greenville.

Representatives of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs, city officials and others interested in the project are urged to attend the session.

It was pointed out by persons interested in the proposal that recreational facilities for Greenville are limited and with the growth of the city being what it is foresight should be given to the selection of lands for this purpose immediately.

A new athletic field and playground also would relieve the congestion at some of the schools where playground facilities are limited.

Mayor M. K. Blount, in commenting on the proposal, declared that he and other city officials expected to be at the meeting. He expressed himself as favoring such a project as something needed for the citizens, both young and old.

An option is now being held on the old fair grounds at approximately

Identification Of Egg Easy Declares Expert In Poultry

Dearstine Says Average Poultryman Can Determine Fertile From Infertile Eggs

Raleigh, Jan. 21—Fertile and infertile hens' eggs can be identified with a high degree of accuracy after the eggs have been incubated from 14 to 26 hours, according to Ray S. Dearstine, head of the State College poultry department.

Because the method of determining fertile and infertile eggs is relatively simple, the average poultryman can do the work effectively after a few hours of practice. All the equipment needed is an ordinary egg candler and a 75 watt bulb. However, a day light bulb or a blue-green bulb aids in seeing the embryo and makes identification more accurate.

The embryos that can be seen after a dozen or more hours of incubation contain no blood, cover an area on the yolk about the size of a dime, and appear before the candler as a small spot. This effect is caused by a slight bulge of the embryo on the surface of the yolk. In the infertile egg no development is seen.

Dearstine pointed out that some embryos develop faster than others and that some are further developed when placed in the incubator. Some of the embryos are developed enough in fresh eggs to determine fertility.

However, the State College poultryman said, most eggs take 12 hours or more of incubation before one two classes can be identified accurately. Research men have been able to identify 83.2 per cent of the embryos at 12 hours, 92.1 per cent at 14 hours, 97.9 per cent at 16 hours, and 97.1 per cent at 18 hours.

Such findings are of practical use, he said, because it is usually considered that 10 per cent of all eggs set are infertile. Therefore, removing the infertile will increase the capacity of an incubator at this stage of incubation to 10 per cent.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—Almost everybody knows that upper Broadway is once a farming district, and that maids going a-milking tripped daintily over green fields where now their trip into night clubs and out again. New York had a distinct overtone of Dutch in those days. There were no tall buildings north of 33rd St. Indeed, 4 stories was a mammoth contraption back in those times.

On a small farm about where 55th St. would be today lived a mild-mannered man who worked hard to wrest a living from the soil. But he had a hobby. At night by the firelight, aided perhaps by a flickering candle, he carved images of John, his patron saint, from pieces of wood. He became quite expert at this and carved hundreds of the little sainted figures.

In his spare time—that is, between farming seasons, he was a carpenter, and it so happened that, as the town grew, he helped build many of the houses that sprang up over the farmlands of upper Manhattan.

What possessed him to do it is unknown, but in each house he helped construct, the man secreted figures of St. John in the walls. The images were sealed between the walls, and in the foundations of the house. Probably he kept this to himself, because none of his friends knew anything about it.

Then he died, and his son lived on in the family farmhouse, tilling the soil. As the city took on an aspect of concrete and steel the farms began to disappear. Soil-tillers on the island gave up the ghost, sought employment in industrial pursuits, and secured their fresh eggs, butter and cream from the Jersey farmlands across the river.

Then the son's son died, and the great-great grandson grew to manhood. The name passed with him, for there were no man-children.

In time Manhattan became—New York. The big, mad, busy New York we know today. It erased all vestiges of the old farmhouse and the old life. It became a symbol, a fast-moving mechanized project that spread out and thrust up its spires in envy of the stars.

Greed, vice, meanness, like alien flowers, took root-hold along with the many virtues that necessarily must be a part of any great city.

Not long ago New York's able Prosecutor Dewey directed a crusade against the vice rings which operated in the city, sending many to Sing Sing and driving others from the city. One notorious house was torn down after its occupants had been dispersed.

And the excavating crusade made a strange discovery. Between the walls and in the hidden corners of the house were found tiny carved images of St. John the Divine. A lot of them. It was all very mysterious and amusing to the men who tore down the old house.

which, they say, had been standing for generations.

Soil-tillers on the island gave up the ghost, sought employment in industrial pursuits, and secured their fresh eggs, butter and cream from the Jersey farmlands across the river.

Then the son's son died, and the great-great grandson grew to manhood. The name passed with him, for there were no man-children.

In time Manhattan became—New York. The big, mad, busy New York we know today. It erased all vestiges of the old farmhouse and the old life. It became a symbol, a fast-moving mechanized project that spread out and thrust up its spires in envy of the stars.

Greed, vice, meanness, like alien flowers, took root-hold along with the many virtues that necessarily must be a part of any great city.

Not long ago New York's able Prosecutor Dewey directed a crusade against the vice rings which operated in the city, sending many to Sing Sing and driving others from the city. One notorious house was torn down after its occupants had been dispersed.

And the excavating crusade made a strange discovery. Between the walls and in the hidden corners of the house were found tiny carved images of St. John the Divine. A lot of them. It was all very mysterious and amusing to the men who tore down the old house.

State Continuing Campaign to Hold Control Of Power

Officials Waging Strong Fight Against Federal "Encroachment" Along Three Fronts

Reflector Bureau
Raleigh, Jan. 21—North Carolina officials are waging their strong fight against Federal "encroachment" upon the state's right to control its power projects and sites on three separate and distinct fronts.

(1) The Attorney General's office is cooperating with lawyers for the Carolina Aluminum Company in an effort to overthrow the Federal Power Commission's decision that the industry must have a Federal permit to construct a power project at Tuckertown.

(2) In Washington Senator Josiah W. Bailey is seeking to amend the law creating the Power Commission in such a way as to make it plain and certain that the state of North Carolina shall have legal standing in court to carry on the fight.

(3) The Board of Conservation and Development is missing no chance to keep the matter before the public in a light most favorable to the state's contentions.

On the first of these fronts Assistant Attorney General Harry McManis has been conferring with Aluminum company lawyers in an effort to coordinate the industry's and the state's attacks on the "findings" of the F. P. C. There is more than a little doubt whether the state can directly carry the matter to the courts in view of the fact that it is not actually a "party" to the proceedings. There is just a bit of doubt, too, about the company's standing by reason of the fact that the law gives it the right to appeal an "order," but not specifications of the "findings" of the power body.

Senator Bailey is actively working to get through an amendment which will remove both difficulties outlined.

The Conservation and Development board at its meeting this week adopted a resounding condemnation of the Power Commission's action and reiterated the state's contention that the Yadkin Power projects should not be subject to Federal control.

West Greenville P. T. A. Meets

One of the most interesting and well attended meetings in the history of West Greenville Parent-Teacher Association took place on Wednesday afternoon of this week in the school auditorium.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. R. E. Sellars, and the enthusiasm and response with which matters pertaining to the school was received only evidenced to growing interest of our patrons. In answer to call for reports, Miss Fullilove asked for a meeting of the welfare committee within the next few days and also stated that the contribution of the student body in connection with their Thanksgiving program was sufficiently large to accommodate four or five families. Miss Foley reported on the school library, the most recent addition to the school, and that it would be equipped with a reading room as the school contains a reference library, and the children are taking an active part in its construction. We are quite fortunate in having Mrs. Fred Carpio, whose service is made possible through the WPA, to conduct this library. A picture of General Robert E. Lee which was presented to the grammar grades by the U. D. C., was put on display and is greatly appreciated by the student body, faculty and patrons. This presentation was made at a recent program in memory of General Lee given by the grammar grades and to which Mrs. Ralph Deal, Mrs. J. L. Fleming and Mrs. T. T. Hollingsworth of the U. D. C. were guests.

A note of thanks from Miss Jane Hadley in recognition of flowers sent during her recent illness was also read. Our president again introduced the uppermost matter in the hearts and minds of all West Greenville patrons, and that is "more playground." This was given much discussion, and we feel that if those in authority should take the time to visit West End during recreational periods, and see the great necessity of additional space, surely this would be granted.

We were delighted to welcome Miss Davis of the welfare department as guest speaker. In her talk "Seeing the World as the Child Sees It," she made this statement: "Never condemn or criticize, but try to understand." After hearing a summary of the constructive work being done by this department, we realized how fortunate we are that our county is one of sixteen to be given a welfare program. The interest displayed by the presence of eighty mothers and teachers will serve as an inspiration in our efforts to cooperate home and school in a great constructive program for our youth of today, and men of tomorrow.

Miss Jane Hadley's grade won the prize for having the most mothers present. Reported.

To those who in word or deed or by flowers or card or telegram expressed sympathy during the illness and death of our wife and mother, we desire to extend our heartfelt thanks and the assurance of our appreciation. May God bless you every one.

MILITARIZED CHESS GROWS AS GERMAN FAD

Berlin. (AP)—A new "militarized" kind of chess is becoming popular in Germany.

It is called "tactics" and its avowed purpose is "to develop a purely military way of thinking."

The game is played between "red" and "blue" forces on a board of 121 squares instead of the traditional 64, and the pieces symbolize the various arms: infantry, cavalry, artillery and air force. The "king" on both sides is an eagle to checkmate, which is the aim of opposing players.

Pieces can be moved along diagonals indicating strategic lines such as highways and railroads, complicated by "barred" areas representing lakes or seas.

MANY CLAIMS PAID THUS FAR

Wage Earners Reaching 65 Years of Age Get Insurance

Payment of 53,237 lump sum claims was made, during the first year's operation of the Federal Government's old-age insurance system, to wage earners who had reached the age of 65 and the estates or relatives of those who had died, the Social Security Board announced today, according to a statement received by Mr. George N. Adams, Manager of the Rocky Mount, North Carolina, office of the Board. Each payment amounted to 3 1/2 per cent of the total wages paid to the workers.

The money paid to claimants amounted to $1,277,516.28. The average payment was $24. Since the earlier months of the year, when the claims were for very small amounts, the averages rose steadily until November when the average for the month was $27.76. The average payment in December was $27.15.

The end of the year analysis of records shows that the claims paid ranged from $358, the amount paid to the estate of a man who had been receiving incomes from more than one job, to 10 cents. "The Bureau of Old-Age Insurance has exercised the same care, however, in the adjudication of small claims that it has in the case of claims for larger amounts," said LeRoy Hodges, Director.

He added that the claim for 10 cents was divided between the parents of a girl who had worked only 1 day in 1937—New Year's Day—when she became ill and died. Her father, inquiring at a field office as to a claim, was told that while of course it would be very small, the Government would nevertheless see that it was paid. The father requested payment.

Pennsylvania is the state in which the largest number of claims was paid although New York is the State in which greatest amount of money was disbursed. In New York 6,361 claimants received $175,656.93. The claims certified for Pennsylvania numbered 7,065, the amount of money going to these claimants totaling $164,702.53. The New York average was $27.61, while that of Pennsylvania, where approximately 700 more claims were paid, was $23.31.

Although the number of claims filed during the year was smaller than has been estimated, Mr. Hodges explained that this probably was due primarily to the fact that in the earlier months of the year the average amount was so small that many eligible to receive payments did not bother to file a claim. It was also assumed that many failed to submit claims because of lack of familiarity with the procedure necessary in filing them.

Instructions have been sent to the 323 field offices located throughout the United States to assist wage earners or the relatives of those who have died in the filing of claims, said Mr. Hodges. Employers are required to notify the United States Treasury of the death of an employee or the date on which the worker reaches the age of 65, and this information in turn is transmitted to the Bureau of Old Age Insurance. This information is promptly forwarded to the field in order that the representatives of the board may get in touch with the possible claimants and inform them of their rights under the Social Security Act.

"Without charge the field office managers advise these persons as to the supporting evidence required and assist them in the preparation of the papers which are forwarded to Washington where the claims are adjudicated."

"Our reports now indicate that that working population of the country is becoming more and more claims-conscious. There is reason to believe that the number of claims filed in 1938 will be far greater than those submitted during the past year."

In commenting on Mr. Hodges' statement, Mr. Adams announced that 1062 claims were certified in North Carolina by the Board during 1937. The total amount of payments was $17,943.24. The average payment was $16.90.

Mr. Adams stated that his office is prepared to render every assistance to possible claimants without any charge. He stated there are no fees or charges made for persons entitled to make claim for benefits under the Social Security Act, who, being unaware of their rights, have not filed claims. It is not necessary to employ anyone to collect a lump-sum payment under the Social Security Act," Mr. Adams stated. All persons who think there is a possibility of their being entitled to a lump-sum payment and who reside in the following counties of North Carolina should communicate with the Rocky Mount field office, located in the Municipal Building, Rocky Mount, North Carolina: Beaufort, Bertie, Camden, Chowan, Currituck, Dare, Edgecombe, Gates, Halifax, Hertford, Hyde, Martin, Nash, Northampton, Pasquotank, Perquimans, Pitt, Tyrell, Washington, Wilson.

EMPIRE FOR A LADY

SYNOPSIS: A widespread revolt of savage Dyak tribes makes it impossible for my uncle, James Clyde, to run any guns to his client, the besieged rajah. Our trading vessel, the Linkang, is strongly fortified, but the Forresters' Avon is defenseless. Tropical Balingong bay is a strange place to find a young English girl, and my uncle tries to persuade Christine, and her brother Robert, to leave. Cool and serene, Christine insists on remaining for a definite purpose.

Chapter Four
James Clyde, Gun-runner
CHRISTINE FORRESTER and her brother are here for exactly the same reason we are," my uncle said. "They're trying to take advantage of the revolt. Evidently they've cooked up some hare-brained scheme for getting rich. That's the trouble nowadays. Everybody thinks he has to get rich. Clean up quick and retire. That's all they think about. Nobody expects to just live along and work any more. Every last rattlebrain and his brother is out after some big killing."

"Those rattlebrains are after a big killing," growled Clyde. "Well," I said, "so are you, sir."

"matter!" my uncle growled at me. "Will you keep to the point?" It was not a different matter. That my uncle—as a gun-runner—is more easily explained than you might think. After the days of '49 many a youngster, arriving on the Pacific coast of America too late for California's great golden boom, followed on into the sunset with the ships of the China trade, hunting new and strange bonanzas in place of those that had been missed. James Clyde was one of these.

And there was opportunity in Asiatic waters for that type of man. I can think of no time or place in which the wheel of fortune turned more swiftly, or where the acceptance of constant danger promised such rich rewards. A man in possession of a ship could search for a new avenue of trade with the same kind of bright hope a broken-down beach-comber sifts the rubbish of native trash piles for a priceless pearl. Either one might meet incredible wealth over night.

Yet that sort of thing was the least of it. The very map itself was uncertain then, remade from month to month and from week to week. In those vast, scarcely charted seas European nations claimed vast spheres of influence—especially the British, the Dutch, and the Spanish—without knowing what such spheres contained. The great flags wandered half lost among countless little-known islands. Whole groups and chains of these islands were under the dominion of native rajahs, both technically and in fact. Maps showed non-existent European strongholds where not even a trader dared attempt a landing, and a good half of the islands were not on the map at all.

Where European flags meant little, the nearest thing to trade security—or even to the bare possibility of trade—was the friendship of individual rajahs. This was gained by first beating them off when they came at you as pirates, and then by helping the rajahs in their own private wars by selling them arms. Once the friendship of a rajah was gained, it naturally was to the advantage of the trader to make that rajah as strong as possible—by means of more arms.

An Advantageous Deal
HENCE the gun-runner. Technically he was without legal standing; he had no place in international law. But in seas in which the lonely traders fought their own battles, without benefit of warships, the gun-runner was as sound a man as a country blacksmith; as necessary as wheat. The traders were forever appealing to British, Dutch, or Spanish squadrons, but few warships ever came, and those that came left with their task undone. Outlaw though he might be called, the gun-runner commanded those hot shallow seas.

James Clyde was a good one. He knew such ropes as were known, years before I joined him. He no longer searched out his contraband cargoes; they were eagerly urged upon him through many channels. A hundred rajahs respected his name; 100 traders would have valued a partnership with James Clyde above any other thing.

In this case my uncle had rigged for himself an unusually advantageous deal. Sumatanga is an island, but it is big. Its sultan, who ruled from the capital of Saramba, was far away. The rajah of Balingong, tributary to Saramba and under a rajah appointed by the sultan, was relatively rich in levies, but weakly defended. I suppose 10,000 Dyak warriors could have converged upon Balingong, if all of the Dyak chiefs could have got together.

And that vast coast line for a long time had been stewing in re-

Washington Daybook
 —By Preston Grover—
 Washington — More notes on what to see on national figures at off-guard moments.
 John L. Lewis and his CIO have new headquarters at 15th and I streets, two blocks north of the White House, from where it is only a step through the brisk winter air to the ritzy Carlton hotel, where J. P. Morgan and his men stay when they are in Washington for senate investigations. We are told that Lewis bubbles a bit in such spots as the Mayflower, Willard or Washington hotels.
 He used to have offices right across the street from the more subdued Hamilton hotel on 14th street, but William Green, president of AFL, stays there and it is not one of Lewis' chosen eating spots. But you can go there of an evening and see Green about the lobby at any reasonable hour. Watching for Lewis as he heads for lunch is the best bet. He lives in Alexandria, across the river in Virginia, but we don't recommend standing at the bridge. Cars are many and they go fast.

First Lady Seen Often
 Mrs. Roosevelt is a joy to surprised tourists and a jangle to the secret service. The President's family is supposed to be guarded at all moments but there are limits to the ability of the service. She rides a horse frequently on the Virginia side of the river but is as likely to be found shopping at Garfinkels.

We once bent our knee to see if it was not Mrs. Roosevelt just starting a little car at a curb near the White House. It was, and she waved at us in our bent over position and we could do nothing but wave back, blushing no end at such peek-a-boo.

To see members of the Supreme Court, go to the rear of the building shortly before 12 noon on court days. Most of them, except Justice Black, are driven to the rear entrance. Black has his car driven directly into the basement. The court isn't crowded so much these days, so they can be seen on duty.

Senator Borah walks in the park near the senate office building most nice days about 1:30 p.m. and Senator Johnson of California, too although less often lately. If you lunch in the senate and house restaurants (you may—it's legal) you can get a close-up of your favorite or you can see him in the mass from a seat in the gallery.

Ambassadors Seen Scarce
 Tommy Corcoran and Ben Cohen the President's brain boys, eat dinner at about 8 p. m. together or separately at a little place on Connecticut called the High-Ho Taproom (Don't blame us, we didn't name it). Steve Early, the President's secretary, sometimes lunches with the White House press gang at a squatty little spot called the Colonial, a block down Pennsylvania avenue from the White House. The place has no table-cloths, just boards.

Early and late many solons play golf at the Congressional club, out Maryland way.

You'd think the city would be overrun with ambassadors, admirals and generals, but they don't show up much. The diplomats appear in dressy private places, but you need your thumb-print in the social (or official) register to chat with them.

State Continuing Receive Inquiries About Industries

Requests For Information Concerning North Carolina, Coming Now From More Varied Field

Raleigh, Jan. 20.—The number of inquiries being received from industries seeking for information concerning North Carolina, is increasing steadily according to J. T. Anderson, industrial engineer and chief of the commerce and industry division of the Department of Conservation and Development. These inquiries are also coming from a much more varied field than was the case at first, and many are traceable to the agricultural and industrial advertisements which the State Advertising Division started in November and December, Mr. Anderson said.

During the past month inquiries have been received from a wide manufacturing process, seeking for data on the location of new materials in North Carolina used in the manufacture of glass. Another firm has asked for information about the tapping facilities in the state with a possible view to establishing a tannery, while an inquiry has also been received relative to the establishment of a glue factory.

The seeking industry has become interested in state as the result of promotional advertisements which have appeared and is already seeking information as to the number of livestock and the availability of the growth of livestock, including whether it will be worth while to establish a meat packing plant in the state, Mr. Anderson said.

The word pulp industries continues to show a new demand interest in North Carolina and several large mill operations are known to be considering the location of new plants in the state. One of these is understood to have already applied an action on 400,000 acres of timber land in the western part of the state and to be considering a mill plant for the location of a pulp manufacturing plant.

The maximum temperature on record of the air in shade is 135 degrees Fahrenheit, observed at Garretts Ranch, Calif., July 19.

NEIL RETURNS FROM LAST ASSIGNMENT

Edward J. Neil, Jr., Associated Press correspondent who was fatally wounded on the Teruel battlefield in war-torn Spain, has returned from his last assignment. Here the casket bearing his body is carried to a hearse after the liner Berengaria docked at New York. The body was conveyed to the Roman Catholic Church of the Guardian Angel, New York, where a requiem mass was sung.

CLUB MEMBER MAKES RECORD

4-H Club Boy Awarded Scholarship To State College

Raleigh, January 14.—For the most outstanding record in pig club work during 1937, Albert Coats, 4-H Club member of Smithfield, has been awarded a one-year scholarship to State College.

L. R. Harrill, club leader at State College, pointed out that this Johnston County boy started his demonstration with three pigs weighing a total of 225 pounds. He paid $25 for the animals.

During a feeding period of 62 days, the three pigs consumed 110 pounds of fish meal, 50 pounds of cottonseed meal, 22 pounds of mineral and 18 bushels of corn. Total cost of the feed was $22.

In the two-month period the pigs gained 415 pounds, or an average daily gain of 2.23 pounds. Harrill said the animals were sold for $64.35, bringing young Coats a net profit of $27.85 for his labor.

In addition to the actual profit, the Johnston youth won $21 in prizes at the North Carolina state fair and at his local county fair. Albert was a member of the Johnston county seed judging team at the State Fair in 1936, and a member of the livestock judging team at the same fair in 1937.

He has attended two 4-H Club camps and has taken an active place in club work in his county, Harrill said.

The one-year scholarship was donated by the North Carolina Division of the National Cottonseed Products Association.

Efforts to measure the velocity of light were begun in 1876.

Jane Austen wrote six novels, all but two of which were published anonymously.

Because rabbit fur dyes well, it is used in great quantities in imitation of squirrel, seal, beaver, nutria, chinchilla, muskrat, ermine, leopard and other furs.

Received Girl For Boy, She Says

Mrs. Lawrence Sanders of Irish Valley, Pa., is shown holding a 13-day old girl given her by mistake, she says, after her son was born at Shamokin (Pa.) State Hospital. Mrs. Sanders has a birth certificate showing she gave birth to a male child, she says.

HIGHS TO MEET WILSON QUINT

Lady Phantoms Also To Engage Neighbors Tonight

Tonight in the high school auditorium the "Phantoms" will engage the Wilson basketball team in their seventh class. A conference game. The game will start promptly at 7:30 and will be followed by a game between the girls' teams of Greenville and Wilson.

Coach Durward Stowe has been sending the local boys through stiff workouts this week in order to get them in top form for tonight's game. Many scrimmages have been held and the boys are expected to be at their best in the game tonight.

Wilson boys defeated Rocky Mt. this week. This makes them a serious threat to the Greenies because Rocky Mount whipped the locals last Friday night by a score of 14 to 10. Both teams will have to fight to gain the advantage tonight.

The girls' game will be the first home game for the local lassies this year. As yet they have lost 2 games and won one.

In a previous contest Wilson was victorious by a score of 11-8. The "Lady Phantoms" are hoping to turn the tables tonight and emerge victorious in their game.

Both games promise to be very thrilling and close.

The Greenies have lost only one game this year and need the victory tonight to stay in the running for the Eastern championship.

DIZZY PONDER'S HIS PAY CUT

Frowns were in order when Dizzy Dean, that service station tycoon who is pretty well known in baseball circles too, received his new contract from the St. Louis Cardinals calling for a $15,000 cut in salary. Dizzy, shown at his gasoline station near Bradentown, Fla., seems quite unhappy about the whole thing.

Walker To Return As Skipper at Snow Hill

Snow Hill, Jan. 21.—"Peahead" Walker has signed to manage the Coastal Plain league club at Snow Hill again this year, directors of the club said today. When Walker, Coastal Plain league club at Snow Hill Tuesday night he said it was uncertain whether he would pilot a champion Hill Billies again.

It was revealed that the Greene county town will be a Yankee farm. The Billies have an agreement with the New York club similar to one between the Kingston Eagles and the St. Louis Cardinals. The Billies and Eagles are the only clubs in the Coastal Plain with agreements with major league outfits. Williamson would not renew its contract with the St. Louis Browns because the Browns wanted to send it too many green players. Incidentally, Art Hauger will pilot the Martins again this year. He has written that he is "freed to death" at his home in Minnesota. The veteran outfielder played with Kingston in the Virginia league years ago.

DR. LEAVITT IS HONORED BY HISPANIC SOCIETY

Chapel Hill, Jan. 20.—Dr. Sturgis E. Leavitt of the Department of Romance Languages of the University of North Carolina, a former president of the South Atlantic Modern Language Association and present editor of its Bulletin, has just been elected a corresponding member of the Hispanic Society of America.

Founded by Archer M. Huntington in 1904, the purpose of the society is the promotion of interest in the Spanish and Portuguese languages and in the literature and art of Spanish and Portuguese-speaking countries. The library and museum of the society is in New York and contains a large collection of valuable books and works of art, most of which were purchased in Spain from private collections.

In recognition of his work in Spanish-American literature, Dr. Leavitt has been the recipient of other honors, such as corresponding member of the Academia Hispano-Americana of Cadiz, Spain; member of the Harvard Council on Hispano-American Studies; member of the Latin American Committee of the American Council of Learned Societies; Associate Editor of the "Hispanic Review" (University of Pennsylvania); and of the Handbook of Latin American Studies, published by the Harvard University Press.

Dr. Leavitt has recently been invited by the National University of Mexico to participate in an International Congress on the teaching of Ibero-American literature, to be held in Mexico City in August, 1933.

FUGITIVE SLAVE HOUSE TO BE IN STATE PARK

Ripley, O. (AP)—Historic "Eliza House," famous as the first station in the "underground railroad" of fugitive slaves escaping from the south, soon will be part of a state park.

Col. Al Hatfield, present owner, announced he had accepted a $5,000 offer of the Ohio State Archaeological society for the house and grounds.

The house became a refuge for slaves during the height of the abolitionist struggle in ante-bellum days. It was the residence of the Rev. John Rankin, pastor of the Ripley Presbyterian church and one of the leading abolitionists of southern Ohio.

As the fugitives crossed the Ohio river, they were secreted there until they could be taken to the next "station" on the road to Canada and freedom.

A vigorous campaign in England has virtually wiped out muskrats, described as a menace to crops, fish and embankments.

Colored News
Quite a number of farmers met at Holy Hill (Belvoir) and enjoyed a splendid program. During the meeting the Negro county agent gave a brief outline of work to be done among the farmers. He told them the year was only a "baby yet" so he would not crowd so many things in their mind to hold a year but from time to time would tell them the things most needed. He urged the farm women to attend a most convincing demonstration to be held January 29th at Pactolus by one of the state workers. He also asked the group to attend a tri-county meeting to be held at Parmele (Pitt, Edgecombe and Martin counties), February 4th. Plans are being made to hold three one-day schools for farmers at Clark's Neck, Black Jack and Belvoir.

MORE THAN SCORE PERISH IN CANADIAN SCHOOL FIRE

These fire-scarred ruins mutely tell the story of the destruction of Sacred Heart College at St. Hyacinthe, Quebec. School authorities reported 45 teachers and pupils dead or missing following the disastrous blaze. Seventeen are known to have perished, more than a score are unaccounted for, 21 suffering injuries. Eighty boarding students and 31 teaching brothers occupied the college building.

New York Cotton

New York, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Cotton futures opened one to two higher on trade buying.
May moved from 8.61 to 8.60, leaving quotations one to two points net higher shortly after the first half hour.
At midday May was 8.58 and the market was net unchanged to two higher.

Quite a number of farmers met at Holy Hill (Belvoir) and enjoyed a splendid program. During the meeting the Negro county agent gave a brief outline of work to be done among the farmers. He told them the year was only a "baby yet" so he would not crowd so many things in their mind to hold a year but from time to time would tell them the things most needed. He urged the farm women to attend a most convincing demonstration to be held January 29th at Pactolus by one of the state workers. He also asked the group to attend a tri-county meeting to be held at Parmele (Pitt, Edgecombe and Martin counties), February 4th. Plans are being made to hold three one-day schools for farmers at Clark's Neck, Black Jack and Belvoir.

CAROLINA GETS FRANCHISE
FOR PHONE SERVICE HERE

Fifth street from Washington to Cotanche.

Under terms of the franchise, the Telephone company set forth that it plans to erect a new exchange, with the dial system, it was explained. It is declared that the telephone company plans to spend approximately $175,000 for improvement. It is believed that with the underground conduit work the city will be considerably improved. Mayor M. K. Blount, in announcing consummation of the franchise, declared that this was the first or among the first cities of its size to have underground cables.

"I believe that the contract is fair both to the city and the Telephone company," declared the Mayor. He added that he believed the improvements outlined would be completed in about one year. Mayor Blount said he had been assured that there would be no increase in telephone rates as a result of the improvements.

Another important clause in the franchise was the fact that in the event the state permits cities to levy a license tax in the future, which is prohibited now, the franchise will become inoperative in that respect.

The Telephone company further agreed to reimburse the city for rental on all telephones used by the city since December, 1933, the date the old franchise expired.

BOARD DESIRES NEW BUILDING
J. H. Rose, superintendent of the city school system, declared that the board had been discussing such a project for some time, but added no definite program had been mapped out. He said school officials wanted to be prepared, however, to present an application immediately if the Federal government undertook a financing program whereby funds could be secured such as were used in carrying out a school building program for the county.

The enrollment of the local school has increased by leaps and bounds in recent years, it was explained. Both the Junior and Senior high schools are housed now in one building, greatly congesting activities. Even should not Federal funds be available in the near future, it is evident that it is necessary to take some steps before long to relieve the situation, it was pointed out.

Members of the school board were quoted as hoping that a building could be completed for occupancy by the beginning of the 1939-40 session, but it was made clear they were only expressing a hope and no concrete program had been outlined.

So far the school board has discussed the matter only informally

Find Instruments Stolen From Car

Dr. James B. Hawes, who plans to open an office here next week for treatment of eye, ear, nose and throat troubles, appeared quite dejected yesterday afternoon, but his mood soon changed.

When newsmen called on Dr. Hawes to see his new office, he could arouse little interest in his venture. A short while before some one had stolen his kit containing valuable instruments from his automobile. The kit was found in the weeds behind the library, but all the instruments had been removed.

A short while later, after having notified police headquarters, Patrolman Wooten drove up and asked Dr. Hawes to accompany him. It developed that a Negro boy had attempted to sell the instruments to J. A. Battle, local colored physician, who suspected something was wrong. Dr. Battle took the boy's name, which is believed to be assumed, and began calling the various doctors in the city to determine the rightful owner.

Dr. Hawes has his instruments back now and the police force and Dr. Battle have the specialist's thanks.

An assertion before a Senate committee that the general accounting office was investigating a one million dollars shortage in CCC funds brought from that agency the statement that it knew nothing about it.

A written statement by Senator Nye (R-N. D.) read to the Senate Public Lands Committee, said he understood the accounting office was investigating the big shortage "in the southwestern part of the United States" and another of $25,000 in Kansas.
