BOMBING RAIDS BY BOTH SIDES

Japanese Airdrome at Yangtze River Port Reported To Have Been Destroyed

Shanghai, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Chinese commanders sent word of new gains today in their fight to keep Japanese invaders from linking together the conquered areas of North and Central China.

Chinese cavalry was said to have surrounded the Japanese garrison at Tsing, a city on one route of the temporarily stalled Japanese drive toward Suichow, the core of Chinese resistance.

Up the Yangtze river valley Chinese reportedly recaptured a river port near the scene of the bombing of the United States gunboat Panay December 12. Southeast of Shanghai Chinese declared their bombers attacked a fleet of Japanese army boats in Chekiang province waters, killing 300.

Chinese and Japanese airplanes subjected widely scattered points to intermittent bombardment.

The Japanese naval spokesman said a Japanese raid in Central China had destroyed 16 Chinese planes and damaged a hangar, field depot, and barracks.

Chinese said their airforce had destroyed the Japanese airdrome at Wuhu, Yangtze river port, and had raided other Japanese positions along the river "with damaging effects."

The other automobile did not stop and its driver was not known. Neither Roberts or either of the other two occupants of the car was injured. Roberts was declared to have been driving at a moderate speed, but slippery pavement caused him to lose control of the car.

Modoc Reports Dredge Weathering Heavy Seas

Cutter and Two Tankers Standing By to Lend Aid

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 25.—(AP)—Coast Guard headquarters here said the cutter Modoc reported by radio at 3:45 A. M. today that a dredge in distress off Diamond Shoals was in "good condition" and seas were moderating slightly.

The Modoc and two tankers were standing by, pumping oil on the water to calm the sea, Coast Guard headquarters announced.

Ten men were aboard the dredge, the Coast Guard said.

The tug Moran, which was towing the dredge, called the Peru, sent out an SOS call at 9:33 last night, asking for Coast Guard aid. The tug's master said it could not help the dredge because of heavy seas.

The Modoc was sent from Wilmington, N. C., and the cutter Go. M. Bibb, en route from Norfolk to Southern waters, changed its course and went to the aid of the dredge.

Pumps on the dredge were still working, the Modoc said, but the tug's radio was out of commission when seas washed away a door and the Moran's radio equipment.

Chief of Police George Clark declared today he is in possession of two raincoats, one of them "in very good condition," and does not know what to do with them.

Chief Clark expressed the belief the coats had been stolen, but added so far no reports of any such coats being missing has been made to the police station.

The chief said he would be glad to turn the coats over to the proper owner if he would identify and claim them.

Two Unclaimed Coats In Hands Of Police

Raleigh, Jan. 25.—Meats for the table "are on the bargain counter" with retail prices 10 to 40 per cent lower than the peak last year, Paul L. Fletcher, livestock marketing specialist of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture, said today.

Surveying price conditions on ten typical meat markets in the state, Fletcher said he found that: Steaks and chops have dropped in price from 25 to 27 per cent; bacon and sausage from 20 to 25 per cent; roasts dropped approximately 27 per cent and stew-meats are down 33 per cent.

The survey also revealed that the following other meats are cheaper: Hams, 20 per cent; "fat back," 43 per cent; lamb, from 16 to 22 per cent; and veal, 10 per cent.

Fletcher said that "in addition to cheaper prices, the meats inspected on the markets were found to be vastly superior than the same type

Snow Storm Reaches Blizzard Proportions at Times

FAMILIES FORCED TO FLEE FLOODS

Icy Winds Sweep North Carolina As Weather Bureau Predicts Mercury Drop

Chicago, Jan. 25.—(AP)—A severe cold wave, accompanied by a snow storm that reached blizzard proportions moved over the Middle-Western prairies today in the wake of heavy rains that sent streams over their banks and hundreds of families fleeing for safety.

Two persons were drowned, thousands of acres of farm lands were inundated and winter wheat crops suffered damage as flood waters surged over a large part of Northern Illinois, and a small portion of Southern Wisconsin.

Eddie Proctor, six year old school boy, and Ralph Hartness, 20, a truck driver, drowned in Illinois, where more than 600 families fled their homes. Rainfall ranged from two to almost four inches in the Northern half of Illinois.

Heralding a recession of flood waters the cold wave pushed southward from the Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin. A 50-mile gale buffeted the head of the lakes.

Raleigh, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Icy winds swept into North Carolina from the west today as the weather bureau here forecast a moderate cold wave with a probable low temperature here tomorrow of 24 degrees.

Gusty winds prevailed throughout the state last night, said Lee Denison, in charge of the bureau, and at times blew here with a velocity of 35 to 40 miles an hour.

The Carolina Power and Light Company and the American and Southern Bell Telephone companies said no serious damage to lines by the winds had been reported at midday.

Strong winds were experienced in Greenville last night, but no serious damage was reported today. Neither the telephone company nor the water and light commission reported any interruptions in service.

Scattered tree limbs appeared to have been the only result of the strong winds.

Only Four Seated As Court Recessed For Luncheon Today

Asheville, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Four jurors were seated before lunch in Superior court here today for the trial of Bill Payne and Wash Turner on charges of murder for the slaying last August 22 of State Highway Patrolman George Penn near here.

Twenty-six members of a special venire of 250 were examined in obtaining the four. Court attaches said completion of the jury would probably take all this afternoon and might run into tomorrow.

Selection of a jury began immediately after Judge Felix Alley convened court.

Payne, 41, slender and of medium build, and Turner, also known as Jack Borden, a dark-haired and stocky, entered the court room 15 minutes before their case was called.

They were escorted by a heavy guard of Highway patrolmen.

Neither of the defendants, facing possible death in the gas chamber, showed any marked interest in the proceedings.

A few minutes before court opened Mrs. Margaret Penn of Carthage, mother of the slain officer, entered the chamber, dressed in black and weeping.

She was given a seat behind the desk of Solicitor Zeb Nettles. Accompanying her were relatives and others from Carthage, including Sheriff McDonald and M. J. Boyette, Moore county prosecuting attorney.

Many who came in the hope of witnessing the trial were unable to enter the court room. They milled around the corridors of the court house and the lawn outside.

The contestant having to his or her credit the largest number of votes at the end of the campaign will be the winner of the first award of $500 in cash. The candidate having the second highest number of votes at the end of the campaign will be the winner of the second award of $400 in cash, and so on through the list. All workers who do not win one of the regular awards will be paid a cash commission of twenty

U. S. PRESSING RUBENS PROBE

New Demand Made For Permission To See American

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—The United States made a new demand on the Soviet government today for permission for a member of its embassy staff in Moscow to see Mrs. Ruth Marie Ruben, an American woman being held there in connection with an espionage investigation.

The Soviet foreign office January 21 refused its permission for the time being on the ground that its investigation of Mrs. Rubens was not completed.

Secretary Hull instructed Loy Henderson, the American charge d'affaires at Moscow, to address a formal note to Maxim Litvinoff, the Soviet Commissar for Foreign Affairs, asserting that the United States is "unable to accept further delay" in allowing its diplomatic representatives to interview the woman in prison.

In his note Henderson was directed to call to Litvinoff's attention the Foreign Commissar's letter of November 16, 1933, to President Roosevelt in which Litvinoff promised that the nations of the United States would be granted rights, in the Soviet Union, of legal protection which would not be less favorable than those enjoyed by nationals of the nations most favored in this respect.

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt sent to the senate today the promotion of Capt. Forde A. Todd of South Carolina, to be a rear admiral in the navy.

Sen. Pepper Keeps Floor After Series of Maneuvers

NOMINATION OF REED CONFIRMED

Roosevelt Urged To Reject Proposal To Purchase Private Power Systems

Washington, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) resumed his attack on the anti-lynching bill today with a statement that it "is plainly contrary to democracy."

He spoke to a night Senate session last night and started again after the Senate had confirmed Stanley Reed for the Supreme Court and several other lesser nominations.

Pepper kept the floor after a series of parliamentary maneuvers, including a ruling by Vice President Garner that he already made the two speeches permitted on any single amendment.

Pepper introduced a minor amendment to the amendment on which he had spoken previously, and thus became entitled to two more speeches.

Similarly all the other Southerners who have been filibustering against the anti-lynching bill may speak on Pepper's amendment.

Off the Senate floor, Senator Connally (D-Tex.) leader of the Southern opposition, said "Things look rosy" for sidetracking the bill. Another night Senate session was ordered tonight in a campaign by Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, to stop the speech-making which is delaying the administration's legislative program.

Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.) urged President Roosevelt, meanwhile, to turn down a proposal of Governor Brodwing of Tennessee that the Federal government and the state buy the private power systems of Tennessee.

McKellar made his protest shortly after the TVA authorized Director David Lilienthal to "negotiate" for the purchase of private utility properties in the Tennessee Valley area.

John L. Lewis recommended large relief funds elsewhere and a $5,000,000 housing program to deal with the unemployed and stimulate recovery.

He suggested the Federal government take the $5,000,000,000 from the Social Security reserve fund and invest it in low cost housing.

Loyalists Attempt To Break Blockade

Cerbere, France at the Spanish frontier—Jan. 25.—(AP)—Squadrons of Spanish Government planes droned over the Mediterranean today trying to break the insurgent naval blockade of Barcelona, after an indecisive area and air battle yesterday off Cerbere, involving a French warship and French anti-aircraft batteries.

Inland over the bitterly contested Teruel front, air armadas of the two Spanish factions fought for mastery while France strengthened her borders against the spreading aerial warfare.

Raleigh, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Governor Hoy has instructed Attorney General A. A. F. Seawell to represent the State of North Carolina at a hearing in Massachusetts February 2 on the extradition of Fred E. Beal, labor organizer, wanted as a fugitive from justice. Hoy said he understood the hearing would be held before Governor Hurley.

Beal was sentenced in 1929 to serve 17 to 20 years for conspiracy in connection with the slaying of Police Chief Aderholt, of Gastonia. While free under bond pending an appeal to the State Supreme court, he fled to Russia.

Antique China At Library.
On view for the next few days at the Sheppard Memorial Library will be a saucer from the coffee set presented by the Masonic Order to George Washington about 1795.

This saucer, the property of Mrs. O. E. Harris, belonged to the late Mrs. John Jay White of New York City; Mrs. Harris son, Edward Peyton Harris, purchased it from the White estate last fall and gave it to his mother for Christmas.

Every expert who has seen it has pronounced it genuine without question. In a sunburst at center, Martha Washington's monogram stands beautifully designed; beneath it, the motto, "Decus et tutum ennobilit." The names of the fifteen States extend in a chain around the rim; the border has concealed in it the sacred eye emblem of the Masons.

Compared with a modern dish, this Federal specimen seems extremely large and deep. There was a practical reason for this construction: Etiquette in Washington's day required that one pour the coffee from the cup into the saucer and drink out of that.

Not only for its historical associations and its beauty is the saucer notable, but also for the skill in its restoration and preservation. It rests in a glass-covered mahogany shadow-box. Several cracks expertly joined and one small section completely restored testify to the talents of American craftsmen.

To determine the actual value of this bit of china would be impossible; but appraisers have estimated it as worth between one thousand and two thousand dollars.

Gives Peace Action Program.
The following letter is being mailed this week to the presidents of all organizations represented on the Greenville Council for Peace Action. This includes almost every religious, educational and civic group of Greenville:

"The Greenville Council for Peace Action takes this opportunity at the beginning of its third year to call again to your attention the purpose of the Council—a quickening of public interest in questions relating to peace.

"During the first two years, pageants, lectures, and forums have been held under the direct supervision of members of the Peace Council.

"This year we ask that each group represented on the Council as a co-operating organization, promote the program of International Relations of which your local group is a part. We believe that in this way more thorough service may be rendered.

"We request also that when planning public programs in this field you advise the president of the Peace Council of the date selected. We hope in this way to co-ordinate our efforts and avoid overlapping.

"On January 31st the women's organizations of the churches will have a review and discussion of World Peace and Christian Missions.

"On February 4th the Woman's Club will present a program on International Relations.

"On eight Wednesday afternoons, beginning January 19th, Miss Laura Rose, of the college faculty, acting as chairman of the A. A. U. W. International Relations Committee, will conduct a series of discussions on the struggle between China and Japan. This will culminate in a program given before the whole branch of the A. A. U. W. probably at its regular meeting in March.

On April 14 to 21, the A. A. U. W., with the help of the Peace Council, will sponsor an International Trade Exhibit.

"Plans for other programs are now being made and will be announced as soon as definite dates are determined.

(Signed)
"Rev. W. A. Ryan, President,
"Mrs. H. L. Rivers,
"Program Chairman.

who cares to come, will hold its second meeting Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in room 24 of the Austin building at the college.

Miss Laura Rose, of the college History department, is leader of the group.

The meeting last week was attended by an interested small group. At that first meeting the leader gave a sort of background for the whole study, bringing out especially the crowded conditions in Japan's small territory and in China's rich sections, and showing the effect of such crowding on the way of living and attitude toward life of these two nations.

She brought out both likenesses and differences in the Chinese and the Japanese, and said that their differences seemed more numerous and more significant than their likenesses.

The discussion this time will concern itself with Japan's motives for expansion, and her Manchurian conquest.

Peace Action

"That great British journalist, C. E. Montague, tells of the way in which censorship undermined the confidence of the men at the front in the British press during the World War. Montague resigned his editorial desk on the Manchester Guardian, dyed his hair black, and enlisted as a private. This is his account of what happened when the London papers reached the men in the trenches. As you read, remember that practically all the war news which appeared in American papers in those days was coming via London.

"They felt they had found the press out. The most bloody defeat in the history of Britain, a very world's wonder of valor frustrated by reckless misuse, of regimental glory and staff shame, might occur on the Ancre on July 1, 1916, and our press came out bland and copious and graphic, with nothing to show that we had not quite a good day—a victory really. Men who had lived through the massacre read the stuff open-mouthed. Anything, then, could figure as anything else in the press, as its own opposite even. Black was only an aspect of white. With a grin at the way he must have been taken in up to now, the fighting soldier gave the press up. So it comes that several million ex-soldiers now read every solemn appeal of a government, each beautiful speech of a premier, or earnest assurance of a body of employers with that maxim on guard in mind, 'You can't believe a word you read.'

Fairy Tales For Facts
"It was not Britain alone which gave the newspaper-reading public fairy tales in place of reliable war news. All the belligerent countries did it. And since the natural countries had to obtain their war news from belligerent sources, all the neutrals did so likewise. Even the United States, which boasted that it had no formal press censorship, had a Committee on Public Information which, once it began to function, became probably the most high powered propaganda machine developed during the war. It was this body which manufactured the mythical 'naval victory' which was announced as a road by the American press on July 4, 1917 to give that patriotic holiday added zest. And the post-office department found it easy to suppress papers like the Milwaukee Leader which were less than a hundred per cent doped in printing the C. P. I. news." (Tomorrow—Propaganda)

N. C. NURSERIES LIVE AT HOME

Industry Making Material Contribution To Program

Raleigh, Jan. 24.—Nurserymen of North Carolina are making material contributions to the "economically-wise live-at-home program," Commissioner of Agriculture W. Kerr Scott told the North Carolina Association of Nurserymen in session here today.

"Flower, bulb and nursery stock of all kinds grow and thrive in soil that is sympathetic in North Carolina," the commissioner said, enumerating the protective services rendered the nursery industry by the entomology division of the Department of Agriculture.

"Almost without notice, Tar Heel nurserymen have established a million dollar bulb industry and the nursery industry in general is a source of pride to those state agricultural leaders who have long preached the sound doctrine of 'live-at-home' and diversification," he added.

"Probably the nurserymen are not aware that they are playing an important part in the advertising program of the state. Their products advertise the beauty to be found in North Carolina; they say it with flowers, with trees, with shrubs, that are sent to all parts of the nation."

Commissioner Scott termed the Department of Agriculture "the policeman of the nursery industry," citing that "our entomologists and inspectors are alert to the fact that many plant pests must be kept out of this state, and therefore make hundreds of inspections each year as a protection to the industry."

Colored News

The colored Parent-Teachers group of the Ayden district held its second annual meeting Tuesday January 18, 1938 in the Ayden colored high school auditorium. These meetings of the parents and teachers of the various schools in the district are held yearly.

It is hoped that by inviting the parents of the district to meet in a letter spirit of cooperation can be developed between the schools and homes.

The meeting convened at 2:30 with the president H. K. Reeves presiding. There were several addresses by the Choral Club of the Ayden Colored high school under the direction of Miss Mary White and solos by Misses Mary White and Virginia Williams. The guest speakers were Dr. H. J. McGinnis of the E. C. T. C. faculty and Dr. N. T. Bennett of the Pitt County Health Department. Dr. McGinnis discussed the growth of public education in North Carolina from the days of Calvin H. Wiley to the present. He also called attention to the progress made by this state in education in the past quarter or half century. He emphasized the purpose for which the schools are operated and the relationship that should exist between the parents and schools, depicting the lack of interest shown in the care of school property, putting emphasis on the point that since school property is public property it is the duty of all to see that it is well taken care of.

Dr. Bennett discussed five diseases that claim the lives of thousands yearly, because of carelessness and lack of knowledge of the seriousness of them. He said that these diseases can be prevented or cured if treatments are taken in time. He encouraged all to use the opportunities offered by the health department through the various centers. He called attention to the fact that the health departments of the state and county are trying to eradicate as near as possible the preventive and curable diseases. Some very encouraging remarks were made by Miss I. M. Donnell, Supervisor of Colored schools of Pitt County. After the program a delicious dinner was served by the patrons of the various schools. The schools of the district represented at this meeting were: Ayden high Rodgers, Pleasant Plains, Hulen Shilch and Grifton.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

Hollywood — Barring an extra's complete oblivion, the greatest anonymity in Hollywood is enjoyed by the girl who plays "second leads." She can be well-known indeed, she can be beautiful and a fine actress, she can be as agreeable and pleasant as a surprise as the water at a cocktail bar, but in the Hollywood spotlight she just isn't.

Why this should be isn't clear, unless you fall back on the obvious, which isn't necessarily true. As a second lead, she's always eclipsed by the greatest glitter of the star.

Some of us were ruminating on this circumstance the other day, and the name of Margaret Lindsay arose as the perfect example.

Say "Margaret Lindsay" in any gathering of movie reporters and they'll all think—"Oh yes, the girl who got into pictures by pretending she was British."

Same Old Story

That's been the "angle" on Margaret for five years now—ever since she fooled her way into the all-English cast of "Cavalcade." For about two years the publicity men at Warner's have been doing their best to change that angle—you can't blame Margaret for wearying of it—but they've had no luck. Often, they themselves give up and start their stories with: "When Margaret Kies of Dubuque, Iowa, was unable to crash pictures as an American," etc.

Other "angles" that have found their way into print on the Lindsay girl have been few. It has been dutifully recorded that she and Janet Gaynor are good friends, that she attended the American Academy of Dramatic Art in New York City, that she sculpts a little, that she is fond of vacations in Mexico, adores Hawaii, and so on. Once her adoration reached the point where she planned to buy an island, but to date there's no deed of transfer recorded. She dresses smartly, is a favorite companion of some of the colony's most eligible young men; she makes a nice salary, puts enough of it away, and keeps on playing second leads with an occasional first lead in second-string pictures.

Lee Riggs, auctioneer, knows tobacco ... he explains why experts prefer Luckies 2 to 1

"THIS SEASON," says Mr. Riggs, "I've sold tobacco in Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, and Tennessee. More than 7,500,000 pounds, I figure, amounting to about $2,000,000 in money.

"Time after time I've seen Lucky Strike get the prettiest tobacco in the auction. That's one reason I've smoked Luckies ever since I've been an auctioneer.

"Another reason I and so many other tobacco auctioneers prefer Luckies is because we have to watch out for our throats." (Luckies are extra-easy on the throat because the "Toasting" process takes out certain irritants found in even the finest tobacco.)

Mr. Riggs goes on to say that Luckies are the top cigarette with people who know tobacco. And he is talking facts.

Sworn records show that, among independent tobacco experts, Luckies have twice as many—yes, twice as many exclusive smokers as have all other cigarettes put together.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Raleigh, Jan. 25.—Announcement of State Senator James A. Bell of Mecklenburg, that he will not be a candidate for re-election one spring throws open the gates to a stirring contest for one of the 1939 State Senate's most important and influential posts—chairman of the appropriations committee.

Of course, even had Senator Bell returned, Lieutenant Governor Wilkins P. Horton could have passed him up and named anyone he chose to the chairmanship, as it isn't a continuing office; but it is likely that the presiding officer would have selected the Mecklenburger again.

Senator William B. Rodman, of Beaufort county, will have the inside track unless Senator E. V. Webb, of Lenoir, should not return to the 1939 Assembly, in which event Senator Rodman will probably be the Finance committee chairman, to succeed Mr. Webb. Certainly the Beaufort man took a more active part on the floor than did the Finance chairman in 1937.

The most astonishing headline seen by your correspondent in many a long day read:

COOPER IS QUIET
When Tom Cooper, Wilmington's exuberant mayor, is quiet on any subject that, my friends, is news.

Another interesting head line appeared recently in Herbert Peeler's Elizabeth City Advance. It read "Yo, Ho, Ho and Three Bottles of Beer," as label for a story of the acquittal of an alleged drunken driver.

A "Fayetteville Vending company" is getting credit in the public prints for securing the federal injunction prohibiting slot machines and it is quite natural that it should, inasmuch as it appears to be the principal beneficiary; yet the official record shows that the plaintiff in the celebrated case was "John Morris, a citizen of the state of Ohio."

It was under the pleasant fiction that this John Morris was the real plaintiff that the Federal court took jurisdiction. Judge Isaac M. Meekins finding, among other startling and surprising "facts" that this Ohio citizen was the plaintiff and that more than $3,000 was involved in the controversy.

Reminds one of the ancient ejection suit in which "Jenn Doe" in the demise of "Tillabrat Timhouse" a purely imaginary plaintiff would bring suit to oust a land holder.

North Carolinians purchased liquor of 447 different sorts in December. At least they purchased it in that many different kinds of packages, here are 479 "Items" on the State Board of Control's list of authorized county store liquors. Only 32 showed no sales during December.

Not everything that comes to Governor Clyde R. Hay's desk is of any importance. For example here's a list of organizations and persons from whom various and sundry kinds of propaganda, publicity and pleas came in one mail: National Association of Margarine Manufacturers; The "Outgoing World," Jack Miner Bird Foundation Inc., National Association of Manufacturers, American Tree Association, Federal Rural Electrification Administration, and last but by no means least of the junk—the Congressional Record. Oh, yes, and there was a pamphlet on Standard of Living Wage, Price, Dollar, from E. F. Groat, Burlington Hotel, Washington, D. C. Mr. Groat lists himself as "Happily B. F. Groat, Mem. A. S. C. E.; Soc. Promotion Engrs. Education; Am. Math. Soc. Sigma Xi; Formerly—Mem. A. S. E.—Mem. Engrs' Soc. West. A. A.—Associate Mem. A. I. E. E.—cl. National Assoc. Gold and Silver Medals; B. Sc. L.B. Ancient Mariner Connelsville, Pa., Jan. 25.—(AP)—John Parkhill, 96, will embark February 11 on his first sea voyage—a trip around the world. It will climax a life-long ambition and, says John: "I don't expect to get seasick."

Beef $3 A Pound

Price of Steak-On-The-Hoof Soars When Cattlemen Bid For Bulls

(By the AP Feature Service)

The housewife who thinks 60 cents a pound too much for beefsteak, better not go to a western cattle sale. At the one where these pictures were made, on a Wyoming ranch near Cheyenne, bidders from 25 states and Canada and Mexico paid up to $3 a pound for bulls—$3.25 for the one in the ring. Fifty head sold for about $40,000—an average of $733 apiece, highest in 20 years at this ranch's annual sale.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

New York—The recent fist fight between a playwright, a dramatic critic, a restaurant proprietor, and a couple of newspapermen serves as a reminder that most of our celebrities nowadays are free swingers. Crooners, essayists, novelists, publishers, and composers all have had a hand in public brawls.

That some of the differences should arise between the men who compose the drama and those who criticize it merely shows that the town is its old self, for Broadway has always been a street that divides its time between fist fighting and fighting.

The trouble between Jack Kirkland, who used to be married to pretty, red haired Nancy Carroll, and Richard Watts, who reviews plays for a morning newspaper, has excellent precedent on Broadway. It hasn't been long since a famous novelist tossed a cup of hot coffee in a publisher's face, as result of an argument during luncheon at the Ritz-Carlton hotel.

Rudy Vallee is a crooner of plaintive love songs, but he has never been beaten in a fight. In the last several years he has been drawn into five or six scraps and the other fellow always has bobbed up with a very black eye.

Sinclair Lewis, now off on a lecture tour, has indulged in public face-slapping. Blonde Mae Murray, of the bee-stung lips, didn't hesitate to slap a lawyer's face in court. Ernest Hemingway, the novelist, and Max Eastman, the essayist, came to blows in the office of a mutual friend. So it goes.

And it didn't make things easier when Jed Harris, the producer, let loose another blast against the reviewers the other day. In an interview with Ward Morehouse, the dramatist and Broadway commentator, he denounced the critics as incompetent. "They are critics only because they have their jobs," he told Morehouse. "Not one of them has any creative force. When their papers fold they are no longer critics."

Another famous playwright who would like to see "N. Y. A. reviewers" exiled to Siberia is Elmer Rice, who made a great reputation with "Street Scene," "Counselor-at-Law," and other dramas before he came up with one that the critics gave him a bad time. This so enraged Mr. Rice that he made a speech in which he denounced them as drunkards and degenerate, and declared he was through with Broadway forever.

A humorous aftermath to Mr. Rice's screed was that young man who approached Mark Barron, critic for The Associated Press, not long ago and asked him to help him get a news writing job in New York. The young man was Elmer Rice's son, and the job Mr. Barron helped him get was the dramatic critic's post on a morning newspaper.

COUNTERFEIT RAID NETS $100,000

One hundred thousand dollars in bogus bills were seized by federal agents in a San Jose, Calif., counterfeit raid in which four men were arrested. At the bottom is Joseph Merino, 44; top, Samuel Bongiorno, 43, accused by federal agents of selling $1,000 in bogus currency to an agent.

ALL MEMBERS ATTEND MEET

Ayden Rotarian Principal Speaker At Local Club

It all started in a mule hotel! "Milkman" John Webb met his Attendance Committee of the Rotary Club at "Mule Dealer" Hay ward Dail's mule hotel in a hazy atmosphere to see about boosting attendance—they met last week. Decided to do nothing until after last night's regular weekly meeting. Result: last night found the first one hundred per cent present at one time meeting of the Greenville Rotary Club in twelve years.

Rotarian Billy Brunson of Ayden was right there to address the proud hundred per cent meeting on "Fellowship." He brought out the value of Rotary fellowship bringing men of different race, creed, interest, political belief and nationality together. He told how fellowship was the answer to men's aggressiveness to fill up loneliness and that all men have a yearning in their hearts for fellowship. In closing he indicated how Rotary fellowship is in its quiet unassuming way is affecting the men of China and Japan and the warring factions of Spain to telescope the chasm of difference between them. Alfred Schultz gave the attendance prize and Fordy Harding won it. Tom Grant, club president, presided. John Webb, chairman of Attendance Committee was in charge of the program. Wyatt Brown was appointed editor of Roto-Cog succeeding Billy Nesbit who has withdrawn from the Club.

It's Odd But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE (AP Science Editor)

Ithaca, N. Y.—Even if you are not left-handed, you may be left-glanded.

Ten years study of the salivary glands has shown this new fact to Dr. A. L. Winsor, of Cornell university. College boys and girls have chewed about a grocery store full of food for him while he measured the saliva flow with tiny rubber tubes.

He taught them a table trick that isn't mentioned in etiquette books. This was to chew or taste with both sides of the mouth simultaneously.

When that happened, the glands on one side secreted more than on the other.

"We have observed," Dr. Winsor reported to a food and nutrition congress, "that people are right or left-glanded consistently."

Apparently left-glandedness has no connection with left-handedness, although Dr. Winsor says more study is needed to make certain.

Acidity and alkalinity is another Jekyll-Hyde trick of these glands. If food causes rapid saliva flow, the secretion becomes more and more alkaline. If the flow is slow, it becomes progressively acid.

Nothing else seems to affect acidity and alkalinity. Sweet, sour, bitter or salty tastes all result in alkalinity or acidity according to the speed with which they stimulate the secretion.

EMPIRE FOR A LADY

SYNOPSIS: A widespread revolt of savage Dyak tribes makes it impossible for my uncle, James Clyde, to run guns to the besieged rajah, his client. A further complication is the presence of the Forresters' yacht, the Avon, in tropical Balingong bay. Christine and her brother, Robert, blankly refuse to leave because they are completing a "plan" of their dead father. Unwilling to quit the island with the young English girl in danger, we are attempting to reach Rajah Mantusen up-river. There is something queer and wrong about this whole situation.

Chapter Seven
Intolerable Suspense
THE town of Balingong was only two miles in-shore from the Siderong's mouth, but it seemed to me that we went on forever up that dark river, until I could not understand why the sunlight still held, bright in the sky above the jungle.

For the most part that strange silence of the drums continued. Here and there a tentative pounding would set up, a questioning drum or an answering drum, quickly suppressed, but that was all. It gave me the cold creeps, knowing that by now we were so deep among the Dyaks that we would never get out, if once they decided that this was opportunity.

Then, at last, when I was absolutely certain that the next reach would show Balingong, we plowed around a bend, the oarsmen unconsciously stretching it a little; and instead of Balingong, there stood the great Dyak stockades barring the way.

"Easy," James Clyde said. "Take it slow."

We were coming into the narrow, and the current swiftened; the river was talking here, quarreling with the bar. On both sides the jungle came in very close, a dense mass of pagatpat and twisted vine backed by the massive trunks of mahogany farther in. On the right bank, just at the narrow, stood the greater of the two stockades.

It was the biggest stockade I ever saw, built of great trunks, some of them 30 inches thick, set into the ground and standing nine feet tall in an irregular enclosure of perhaps three acres. Within, earth had evidently been thrown up to more than half the height of the wall, for a long continuous row of dark heads along the top of the palisade showed that the defenders could fight from the top of the wall. The Dyaks watched us stolidly; but from their stockade such a storm of missiles could have been sent that no boat could possibly have got through.

Across the narrow a second stockade stood, similar but much smaller. Evidently it had been intended to hold the farther shore so that the Malay lantakas, their small-bore brass cannon, could not be set up to pound the main barricade.

Wild Conversation
"Easy," Clyde said again. He was studying the defenses. "Get ready to turn fast when I give the word."

After that we pulled with a sort of tense slowness, like men who know that they may be detected in imposture at any moment, so that their forced deliberateness will end in an explosion of murder.

"Mr. Thorne," said Clyde, "do you see any obstacles?"

"No booms, sir. It looks like there have been some, but they've taken them up. There are some big half-trimmed logs, there to starboard along the shallows. I can make out the lashings."

What is happening in Balingong? Don't miss tomorrow's chapter.

Safety Education Main Purpose Of Campaign In N. C.

Hope To Eliminate Highway Tragedies By Teaching Youngsters How to Handle Cars

Raleigh, Jan. 24. — Education of the younger generation is the chief long-range hope for improved safety conditions on the highways, according to Ronald Hocutt, assistant director of the State Highway Safety Division.

Mr. Hocutt pointed out that the history of automobile accidents, injuries and deaths, is closely paralleling that of the railroads.

"Some two decades ago it was impossible to pick up a paper without reading of some terrible railroad accident, in which many were killed and maimed," he said. "But constant improvement in railroad safety devices and equipment, together with education of the rail men in the dangers of their calling have decreased these accidents until it is very rare indeed that we have rail disasters."

"The same thing can eventually be accomplished in automobiles," he continued. "And I think the greatest thing we can do is to educate the younger generation who are the drivers of tomorrow." The Safety Division, he said, is making an intensive campaign in all the schools of the state, in order to acquaint children with the dangers and proper handling of motor vehicles.

He pointed out the fact that last year's total of 1,173 deaths from motor accidents was the highest in the states history and stressed the necessity of doing something about it.

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Jan. 25—Buying support was scant in today's stock market, and most leaders drifted to lower levels.

With volume a shade ahead of the preceding session, which was the slowest since last August, general declines ran to two points or more the worst. Extreme losses were reduced in many cases near the fourth hour.

Bonds exhibited few signs of coming back.

Feat Of Clay
Meissen, Germany (AP)—Clay, a raw material which is plentiful in Germany, has been turned to a new use—construction of lockers in factories and offices.

A ceramic concern here moulds the clay into slabs from which the wardrobes are built. The slabs are fitted together and can be made in units of any size. Manufactured in any color, they are coated with a hard potter's glazing capable of being washed and resisting hard wear.

Paul Robeson, Negro actor, was graduated from Rutgers College with highest honors in addition to being a five-letter man and All-American end.

Double Victory

Both the Greenville varsity and junior basketball teams scored decisive victories over Washington quints last night at that place.

The varsity game, which was a non-conference tilt, was won 34-17, while the Greenville juniors defeated the Beaufort boys 50-10.

STATE FOREST FUNDS SCARCE

Money Spent For Protection Comparatively Small

Raleigh, Jan. 25.—North Carolina's funds for forest protection are scantier than those of all the southeastern states except Alabama and Mississippi.

Florida, for instance, spends 41 cents per acre to protect its woodlands from fire; Tennessee spends 15 cents; Texas 1 cent, and South Carolina 16. North Carolina's appropriation figures out an average of three-tenths of a cent per acre.

This state's entire appropriation amounts to $40,000 per year, while it has more than 20,000,000 acres which need protection. Only 13,660,000 acres, however, are under state protection.

These figures were obtained from Assistant State Forester W. C. McCormick of the Department of Conservation and Development.

Mr. McCormick said that with the growing demand for fire protection, due largely to increasing interest in pulpwood, the Department's force and facilities are taxed to the limit.

"It is evident we are going to have to increase our forest fire protection appropriations if we are going to fulfill our obligations to land owners and to counties which cooperate in the program," he said.

There are 58 counties in the state now in the state-county cooperative forest fire protection program, and there are several additional counties which want to come into the program and would do so if the state and federal funds were sufficient to match those advanced by the counties, McCormick said.

Private protective associations have increased their acreage from $3,300 to more than 500,000 acres during the past year, the forester said, indicating that there is a big increase in interest in protection of large timber tracts; but this total would be more than 800,000 acres if the division had the funds necessary for the work.

Between 1906 and 1912 the United States government helped 13,000 laborers to emigrate from Spain, Portugal and Russia to Hawaii because of a labor shortage there.

CCC To Be Permanent
Raleigh, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Rufus E. Miles, r., of the United States Department of Labor, told field social workers here that the CCC program probably would become a "permanent part of our national life." He spoke at a meeting sponsored by the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare.

"I AM ONE OF THE MILLIONS WHO PREFER CAMELS" SAYS RALPH GREENLEAF

WORLD'S CHAMPION IN POCKET BILLIARDS

"HEALTHY NERVES ARE A MUST WITH ME!"

FOURTEEN different times the news headlines have flashed: RALPH GREENLEAF WINS WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP.

In a special interview during his recent championship play in Philadelphia, Ralph said: "I'd say the most important rule in this game is to have healthy nerves. And on that score, I think, Camels have a lot extra to offer. One of the main reasons why I've stuck to Camel cigarettes for twenty years is—they don't ruffle my nerves."

And America as a nation shows the same preference for finer tobaccos that Ralph Greenleaf does! Camels are the largest-selling cigarette in America

Fencing experts, too, appreciate Camel's finer tobaccos. As BELA DE TUSCAN, the famous instructor, says: "Fencing is very tiring, and I welcome the quick 'lift' I get with a Camel."

"The way these light boats bounce around knocks the daylight out of my digestion! Camels help my digestion to keep on an even keel," says MULFORD SCULL, outboard motorboat racer.

JAMES L. CLARK, famous scientist and explorer, says: "I always carry plenty of Camels with me into the wilderness. I'd walk a mile for a Camel! Many's the time I've done it."

HELEN HOWARD, top-flight spring-board diver, of Miami, Florida, says: "Camels don't irritate my throat—not even when I'm sitting around in a wet suit, a target for irritation."

HE IS COUNTED THE GREATEST POCKET-BILLIARD PLAYER OF ALL TIME. Here Greenleaf executes a difficult massé shot, requiring split-hair accuracy, faultless stroking, and healthy nerves. And the world's two famous masters of the cue—champion Ralph Greenleaf and the 18.1 balkline billiard champion, Willie Hoppe—are both Camel smokers.
