Crop Control Bill Passed By House On 263-135 Vote

GOP CONTENDS GAG RULE USED

Measure Speeded Toward Final Legislative Approval

FILIBUSTER STILL OCCUPIES SENATE

President Roosevelt to Ask Congress Appropriate Additional Relief Funds

Washington, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The House voted approval today of the revised crop control bill, speeding it along to final legislative action in the Senate.

The roll call vote was 263 to 135.

House action came at the end of four hours of debate, under procedure which many Republican described as a "gag rule." No member was permitted to change any section of the bill, which a joint Senate-House committee drafted from separate measures the Senate and House passed at the end of the special session of Congress last December.

The program would continue the soil conservation act and set up machinery by which Secretary Wallace, with the approval of farmers, could apply marketing regulations to wheat, corn, cotton, tobacco and rice.

In debate preceding the vote, Representative Rees (R-Kan.) said the theory of crop regulation, embodied in the legislation, would lead to more government control than one realizes today.

He expressed approval of the soil conservation act and an "ever-normal granary" program, but "without hooking it up with crop control."

While the House acted on the farm bill, the Senate heard Ellender (D-La.) say that the problem of lynching had been dealt with "adequately" by the South.

Resuming the Southern filibuster against the pending anti-lynching bill, Ellender asserted there is no need for federal legislation on the subject.

President Roosevelt, it was learned meanwhile, will ask Congress in a day or two to appropriate $200,000,000 and $300,000,000 for relief during the next five months.

Informed sources said the President would send a letter to Speaker Bankhead, probably tomorrow, asking additional funds primarily because of expected relief demands in February, March and April.

The WPA, these sources said, has told the President it needed a deficiency appropriation largely because of unemployment in certain automobile fields.

Other developments: The President nominated A. A. Berle, Jr. of New York, long an administration advisor, to be an assistant Secretary of State.

Berle would replace Hugh Wilson who has been assigned to a post abroad.

Hoover Sails For Visit To Belgium

New York, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Bound on a "sentimental journey," former President Herbert Hoover sailed for Europe today to revisit the scenes of his historic labors as director of the food administration in war-ravaged Belgium.

Now 63, he was invited by the Belgium government and various Belgium universities to make the voyage for a round of ceremonies calculated to show the Belgium people's "unalterable attachment."

The program in Hoover's honor will signal the "20 years after" gratitude of a nation which never has forgotten the dark days of the World War when the Hoover commission fed hundreds of hungry inhabitants of the little nation.

For five years, until July 1919, Hoover directed a "kitchen empire" without parallel in history.

Swindle Denied

Held in Chicago on charges that he and Joseph (The Yellow Kid) Weil defrauded Mrs. Agnes Harter of $32,000, Fred (The Deacon) Buckminster (above), 72, is quoted by police as saying: "We never defrauded any woman. We took only people belonging to our own social circle. People supposed to be as smart as we, bankers and such. People with larceny in their hearts. That made them easy to take."

TALK GARDNER FOR POSITION

Being Considered for Stock Exchange President

New York, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The name of O. Max Gardner, former Governor of North Carolina and friend of President Roosevelt, was on Wall Street tongues today as a possible choice for the first paid president of the New York Stock Exchange.

Gardner was reported to have strong backing among Exchange members who have been influential in pushing a proposed reorganization of the administrative machinery of the nation's leading organized securities market.

From the start of a campaign for administrative change, some of them have insisted the Exchange, contrary to its traditions running back more than a century, should go outside Wall Street to find a man to become a professional manager.

Brokers in touch with the reorganization program pointed out Gardner had come to the front of the discussion in some important quarters, but the proposed changes in the constitution to pave the way for selection of a paid president had not even been voted up by the 1,375 members.

Three Negroes Tried At City Police Court

Three Negroes, two men and one woman, were convicted in City Police court. The men were convicted on charges of engaging in disorderly conduct and assault, while the woman was accused of assault with a deadly weapon.

Jimmie Wilson and Willie Reddick, the two men, were fined $10 and taxed with the costs of court.

Probable cause was found in a case charging Myrtle Grey with assault with a deadly weapon and she was bound over to County court under bond of $100.

U. S. Steel Corp. Signs With CIO

New York, Feb. 9.—(AP)—The United States Steel Corporation today granted the CIO a new union contract, replacing the current agreement, expiring February 28th. Half a million workers are involved.

Wages were left at the existing level. The only substantial change made in the old contract, which now is denuded indefinitely, was a provision for conferences on 10 days notice by either side for the purpose of negotiating changes.

FRENCH PLANE CRASHES WITH EIGHT DEATHS

Six Others Injured as Air - France Flying Boat Wrecks

PLANE CRASHES IN BREAKWATER

Officials Express Belief Pilot Failed See Obstruction Because of Fog

Marseille, France, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Eight persons were killed and six injured early this morning in the crash of an Air France flying boat against the Marseille breakwater at the moment of take-off.

The trans-Mediterranean airliner was starting her scheduled flight to Ajaccio, Corsica, on the Marseille-Tunis run. She hurtled against the breakwater at 60 miles an hour—speed and burst into flames.

Air France announced the dead were five passengers and three of the crew. Four passengers and two of the crew were injured. All of the dead were French, including Chief Pilot Pierre Burelio, veteran flier who was at the controls.

The six injured were taken from the water by rescue craft after the plane sank. Three of the bodies were recovered and the others were being sought.

Officials thought Burelio probably failed to see the breakwater through the morning mist and fog. The crash was at 7:30 A. M. (2:30 A. M. EST).

The four-motored ship was the first loss by Air France in more than two years, company officials said. Four passengers died in the last grave accident, at Corsica in January 1935.

Motorists Of N. C. Travel Far Enough To Reach Planets

Tax Receipts Indicate Enough Gas Purchased in January To Travel 575,000,000 Miles

Raleigh, Feb. 9.—If the miles traveled by North Carolina motorists in January could be combined into one continuous journey, there would be enough of them to take a visitor to the Sun and back, three times.

It took something of a round-about method of calculation, but this was arrived at from the gasoline tax report of the Department of Revenue for the month.

And here's how it figured out. North Carolina took into its treasury during January no less than $1,951,713.56 in gasoline tax money, which in round figures represents about one-third of the

College Class Visits Smithfield Pottery

Miss Kate Lewis's class at the college in Crafts for the Grammar Grades, one of the Public School Art classes, yesterday paid a visit to Smithfield, to the pottery just outside the town.

The class has been studying pottery making and has been experimenting with clay found in this section.

Since the majority of the class had not had an opportunity to observe the process of making pottery, Miss Lewis arranged for them to visit the Smithfield business.

At the pottery the group had a chance to watch the potter working with the slip and shaping the one type of thing he was making on Tuesday, a kind of pitcher or small pot. They were especially interested in the potter's wheel.

Secret Trial

The Rev. Martin Niemoller (above), one-time submarine commander and World War hero who turned Lutheran minister, lost his desperate fight to have his secret trial on charges of treasonable opposition to Nazi church policy opened to the public. The trial may indicate how far the present German government dares to go in imposing its will in religious matters, observers say.

CITES STATUTE ON STRAY DOGS

Local Police to Impound Dogs Running at Large

Chief of Police George Clark today called attention to a city ordinance prohibiting citizens from allowing dogs to run at large within the corporate limits and declared that the law would be enforced along strict lines from now on.

"We have had numerous complaints regarding dogs running at large and since the statute is on our books we will strive to carry out the law as intended," Chief Clark added.

Section four, article one, chapter five of the ordinances of the town of Greenville states that it shall be unlawful for any person owning a dog to permit such dog to run at large within the corporate limits. The statute provides for a penalty upon conviction, of a fine of $10.

The ordinance further provides that if any dog shall be found running at large within the corporate limits and his owner shall be unknown, "then it shall be the duty of the police to seize said dog and impound him, and shall immediately advertise dog for three days at public places in the town of Greenville. If his owner shall appear and claim him, then it shall be the duty of the police to deliver said dog to such owner, upon the payment by the owner to the police of such expense as shall be incident to the keep of the dog and such fine and costs shall be imposed by

HEAVY LOSSES BY LOYALISTS

Insurgents Complete First Stage of Drive To Sea

WAGE OFFENSIVE NORTH TERUEL

Drive Coupled With Resumption of Aerial Raids along Mediterranean Coast

Hendaye, France, At The Spanish Frontier, Feb. 9.—(AP)— Spanish Insurgents completed the "first stage" of an attempted push to the sea through Government-controlled Eastern Spain and halted today to bury their dead and take inventory of captured prisoners and supplies.

The Franco forces counted 230 square miles of territory gained in a four day offensive North of Teruel, and an insurgent communique said thousands of prisoners, much munitions and supplies were taken.

The offensive was coupled with resumption of insurgent aerial raids in the territory along the Mediterranean, the stronghold of Government Spain.

Six Italian type planes dropped 70 bombs on Sagunto yesterday. Casualties were undetermined. Barcelona sirens sounded at dinner time and the city was darkened just night, but bombers attacked a few miles to the South.

The London Press generally hailed as politically significant the announcement that King George and Queen Elizabeth would spend four days in France, visiting President Albert LeBrun in Paris from June 28 to July 21.

Commentators held the visit a logical step to symbolize the ties between Britain and France—Britain's bulwark against possible aggression from the Continent.

One newspaper, The Daily Express, gave consideration to a possibility of a meeting between the king and his brother, the Duke of Windsor. The two have not met since Edward abdicated and went into voluntary exile and George succeeded to the throne.

Sharp Joins Race For Post Of Judge

Raleigh, Feb. 9.—(AP)—John M. Sharp of Reidsville paid the State Board of Elections $85 today to seek the Democratic nomination for Superior court judge of the Twenty-first district.

Allen Gwyn, now solicitor of the Twenty-first, also has filed for the judgeship.

Eyes here were turned especially on possible candidates for Congress in the Sixth and Eighth districts with Representatives William Umstead and Walter Lambeth having announced they would retire.

King George's Visit To France May Bind Ties

Trip Hailed by Press As Politically Significant

London, Feb. 9.—(AP)— King George's state visit to France next June was considered here today to be a planned demonstration of the close political ties between Europe's leading Democracies.

Political observers were quick to point out that the monarch's first journey outside the realm since coronation last May would serve to balance the German-Hitler's spring-une visit to Fascist Rome.

THREE BANDITS GET BIG HAUL

Cash And Jewelry Valued up to $100,000 Taken at Bar

Miami, Fla. Feb. 9.—(AP)—Three bandits held up the Area bar on Biscayne boulevard this morning, rifled a bank of private safety deposit boxes and escaped with cash and jewelry unofficially estimated at $50,000 to $100,000.

The robbers, unmasked and brandishing pistols, walked in at 8 A. M., while the shifts were changing in the all-night resort, herded eight employees and one customer up stairs and made them lie flat on the floor where they covered them with coats and table cloths.

With crowbars the men pried open some 20 safety deposit boxes where the owners and a number of friends and customers kept valuables.

Armies Poised at Six Points To Plan Campaign

CHINA, HOWEVER, IS ENCOURAGED

Several Developments Including Success Of Guerrillas, Cheer Chinese

Shanghai, Feb. 9.—(AP)— Japanese armies were poised at six points on the Far East war map today for a giant campaign to crush Chiang Kai-Shek's legions and swallow the fertile heart of Eastern China.

The magnitude of the campaign which has been in the making since the first shot was fired seven months ago, became apparent thru new military movements.

Japanese military headquarters disclosed the zero hour was approaching in a communique which said:

"The troops with re-arranged positions and with morale growing, are impatient for further operations."

The Japanese grand objective was to bottle up 400,000 Chinese troops along the Lungai railway and conquer the corridor which has kept them from piercing together the Japanese occupied areas in North China and the Yangtze river valley.

But Chinese, facing a six-way attack on the corridor, some 300 miles long and 180 to 200 miles wide, found cheer in these developments.

Their troops at the South-Central fringe of the corridor have kept Japanese South of the Hawi river persistent guerrilla attacks behind Japanese lines have hampered Japan's movements of reinforcements and supplies; China's air force has grown; a steady stream of planes and war materials has reached Central China from the South.

Seed Improvement Service Rendered Of Great Benefit

Coletrane Says State Ceasing To Become Dumping Ground For Poor Quality Seed

Lexington, Feb. 9.—Services rendered North Carolina seed dealers and growers have been increased 400 per cent during the past two months with the result that "this state is ceasing to become the dumping ground for poor quality seed," D. S. Coletrane, assistant to Commissioner of Agriculture W. Kerr Scott, told the North Carolina Crop Improvement Association in session here today.

Speaking on "Progress in enforcing the New N. C. Seed Law," Coletrane said that more dealers have been licensed to sell seed than was anticipated with 1,000 retailers and more than 100 wholesalers have paid fees required by law. "And we are obtaining fine co-operation from the seed trade," he added.

"We are satisfied that the farmers are being offered better seed," the assistant to the commissioner declared. "The State Department of Agriculture's seed laboratory is taxed to capacity making tests on seed samples for purity and germination."

Coletrane appealed to the association membership to "further cooperate with the Department of Agriculture so that unnecessary samples will not be sent to the seed laboratory for testing."

He cited that "because of unnecessary samples now in the laboratory, the seed testing work is approximately 15 days behind," adding "this can be explained by the example of one man who sent seven samples of Lima beans from seven bags, when one sample properly taken would give him ample information as to germination and purity."

Reporting the work of seed testing by the department, the assistant to the commissioner said that samples and reports had been increased from 640 during December 1936 to 2,490 in December last year.

Services at Methodist Church. The study of the book "Out of Aidersgate" will be resumed tonight, at 7:30 at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. This meeting will be held in the basement of the church.

Speaks at College. "We must keep faith with our selves," said the Rev. Clarence Patrick of the Immanuel Baptist Church, in beginning his talk at the college assembly Tuesday morning.

"We must believe in God, we must believe in our fellow man, but first of all, we must believe in ourselves," continued Mr. Patrick.

To illustrate his point he told story of a strange little city when the people did not keep faith with themselves. They praised shoe but every one the traveler met was barefooted for the people in the city never thought of wearing shoes themselves.

Mr. Patrick left this parting question, "Why not keep faith with ourselves?"

Club Scout-Parent Group. The monthly meeting of the Club Scout-Parent group will be held on Thursday night at 7:30 in the parish house of the Episcopal Church. A Cub and parents are urged to attend this meeting as this is an important week in a number of important matters will be discussed.

Literature Department Meets. Mrs. J. R. Gullidge was hostess to the Literature Department of the Woman's Club and a number of guests at her home Tuesday afternoon. The home was attractively decorated with early spring flowers.

Miss Hyman chairman, presided and Mrs. T. F. Furell gave the book review. Her subject was "The Right to Heresy," by Stephen Ziesig. His story of Copernicus against Calvin presents the first modern fighter for intellectual freedom.

From Stefan Zweig's new book there emerges a new hero for a modern reading public. A true historic character rescued from near oblivion and the first modern man who fought the good fight for humanity's right to think its own thoughts and to say them.

Mrs. D. R. Stull gave an interesting program of poetry. She gave a brief sketch of the life of Edna St. Vincent Millay, and read excerpts from her "Wine From The Grapes," and "Buck In The Snow."

A short business session followed the program. It was announced that the Literature Department would have charge of the program at the regular meeting of the Woman's Club in March.

Mrs. Travis Hooker invited all present to attend an illustrated lecture at the club on February 17th. The subject will be "Homes and Gardens in Virginia."

The hostess assisted by Mrs. Baughman, Mrs. Pickelsimer and Miss Elizabeth Smith served delicious refreshments.

We were pleased to have the following guests: Mesdames Herbert ReBarker, E. R. Browning, H. E. Austin, Denver Baughman, P. W. Pickelsimer and Misses Nellie Denney, Elizabeth Smith and Annie Morton.—Reported.

Christian Science Church. "Spirit" was the subject of the lesson-lesson in all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, February 6.

The golden text was from Ephesians 4:30, "Grieve not the holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are sealed unto the day of redemption."

Among the citations which comprised the lesson-lesson was the following from the Bible: "O foolish Galatians, who hath bewitched you, that ye should not obey the truth, before whose eyes Jesus Christ hath been evidently set forth, crucified among you? This only would I learn of you, received ye the spirit by the works of the law, or by the hearing of faith? Are ye so foolish? having begun in the spirit, are ye now made perfect by the flesh?" (Gal. 3:1-3).

The lesson-lesson also included the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus reasoned on this subject practically, and controlled sickness, sin, and death on the basis of his spirituality. Understanding the nothingness of material things, he spoke of flesh and spirit as the two opposites—error and truth, not contributing in any way to each other's happiness and existence. Jesus knew, 'It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh that profiteth nothing.'"

Homes And Gardens Of Virginia. Mrs. H. H. Smith of Fredericksburg, Virginia, national secretary of the Home Association, will come to Greenville Thursday, February 17, at the invitation of the Greenville Garden Club and the Woman's Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church, to show her pictures of the historic homes and gardens of Virginia. There are more than one hundred slides in this collection, which includes homes and gardens from all sections of Virginia.

One of the most interesting and historic homes Mrs. Smith will show is beautiful old Kenmore, situated in Fredericksburg. Colonel Fielding Lewis built Kenmore in 1752 for his bride, Bette Washington, sister of George Washington. The interior of this house was designed by George Washington and executed under his direction by the Hessian prisoners captured at the battle of Trenton. For beauty and richness it is unsurpassed in Colonial Virginia.

About twenty years ago Kenmore, greatly marred by the ravages of time, was sold to be used for commercial purposes and about to be razed when, at the timely intervention of Mrs. Smith, this was prevented. She aroused the interest of the D. S. R.'s and enlisted the help of others. Under the direction of the Washington-Lewis Chapter of the D. A. R., the Kenmore Association was founded. The possession of Kenmore was obtained by that organization in 1922. Today Kenmore, restored to its former glory, is a national shrine visited by thousands yearly.

These pictures will be shown at the Woman's Club; the hour will be announced later. The public is cordially invited.

Names Of People You Know

Mrs. Charles Skinner went to Tarboro today.

Mrs. D. J. Whichard returned Tuesday evening from a visit in the country.

Miss Cornelia Manning of Bethel is visiting Miss Lillie Moore.

Notices

Just a bit milder.

There was a heavy fog this morning.

Services in the Methodist Church tonight.

Victor Reale's Italian band that has been here some days, left this morning.

There will be a special meeting of the Daughters of Rebekah in Odd Fellows hall on Friday evening. A full attendance of members is desired.

Evangelist R. G. Pearson will hold a meeting in Greenville the latter part of May.

In New Quarters

The steam fire engine has been moved to Hope Fire Company's new building. The building is not quite completed but will be in a few days more, when the company will have a nice place for keeping its equipment and holding meetings.

Crisis Near At Hand

Cuban affairs seem to be rapidly approaching a crisis and all indications now warrant the conclusion that there will be some kind of intervention by the United States within 60 days. It is not probable that the terms of the agreement this government will propose will be satisfactory to the Cubans and their sympathizers in this country. It is more likely to be what President McKinley termed in his annual message "a righteous peace," just alike to the Cubans and to Spain, as well as equitable to all our interest so intimately involved in the warfare of Cuba. To the reflective mind this does not mean Cuba independence through any intervention by the United States. In the meantime, stirring events are rapidly approaching a climax.

Fountain, Feb. 9.—Mrs. Robert Fountain, Jr., entertained her bridge club and a few invited guests Wednesday night at her home in Fountain. Mrs. J. M. Horton, making high score for the club, was awarded an old-fashioned nosegay made of handkerchiefs. Mrs. A. C. Gay, making high score for the guests, was also awarded a nosegay.

After several progresses, Mrs. Fountain served an ice course. Guests of the club included Mrs. A. C. Gay and Mrs. Earl Trevathan of Fountain, and Miss Dorothy Tillet of Durham.

Praise 'Queen's Husband'

"The Queen's Husband," Robert Sherwood's satirical comedy which will be given at the college by the American Repertory Theatre on the night of February 17, has been given much praise by both critics and the general public.

It is an amusing satire on the numerous types of government now being set up in the world and put forward by their adherents as a panacea for all ills.

Sherwood touches the subject lightly and, though he shows the absurdity of such claims and even brings out the futility of war, he does it through the use of the ridiculous and humorous, and is never heavy-handed.

The play has been called "a mixture of comedy, excitement, sentiment, and clear reasoning." The plot is concerned with the conflicts that grow out of the relations between the aggressive and proud Queen and the easy-going "Queen's Husband," whose chief interest in life are his daughter and a good game of checkers.

Though the king is "Queen-peaked" he has self assertive moments, which add to the interest and humor of the play.

This is one of a number of plays by the Pulitzer Prize winner Robert Sherwood, and like his others,

MODES of the MOMENT

By Adelaide Kerr

COLOR IN COTTONS—Colorful designs pattern the new cottons for spring and resort wear. The rust brown frock at the left is printed in green and white figures and smocked in white. The blue and wine colored striped dimity at the left is belted in cords of the same colors. Both frocks are worn with peasant head kerchiefs.

It ran for several months on Broadway. During its appearance there it was described by critics as "an amusing satire, full of fun," and "an immensely engaging play about a 'Queen-peaked King.'"

P. T. A. Meeting
There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association in the high school auditorium last Friday night. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. J. P. Davenport, Sr. The devotional was led by Miss Doris Hardee. Following this, Mrs. C. J. Satterthwaite read the minutes of the last meeting. Reports of much interest were given by Mr. Jimmie Barnhill, Miss Pennie Ward Moore and Mr. Forrest, the principal.

The entertainment program included a preview of the faculty play which is to be given soon for the benefit of the P. T. A., and a play given by the fifth grade. The program was enjoyed very much.

Tom Darriott of Washington, was on a hunting trip in this community last Saturday.

Burney Warren and Jesse Moyer of Greenville, were here on a hunting trip last Wednesday, as were also F. D. Satterthwaite of Farmville, and his friend, Mr. Johnson.

Mrs. Walter Webb of Greenville, spent last week with Mrs. Walter Langley.

Tommy Harris of Pantego, visited his brother, Lester Harris, last week.

LeRoy Baker spent the latter part of last week in Rocky Mount with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Carson, Mrs. J. R. Baker and Mrs. G. C. Williams attended the funeral last Thursday of C. M. Wynn, their uncle.

F. W. Satterthwaite visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Satterthwaite Sunday.

Miss Nellie Overton is visiting relatives in Durham.

NAMED VICE-PRESIDENT OF UNC GROUP

Chapel Hill, Feb. 9.—Miss Anne Perry of Columbia, S. C., has been elected vice-president of the League of Nations Council at the University of North Carolina. Miss Perry was formerly a student at Smith College in Massachusetts.

CONTESTANTS BUSY

(Continued From Page One) members are working beyond the limits of their towns and seeking new fields to conquer. Neighboring towns and rural districts offer unlimited opportunity for getting subscriptions.

Members are finding that the field has hardly been scratched as far as the full quota of subscriptions is concerned. There are hundreds upon hundreds of folks who have not even been approached for their subscriptions right in the immediate territory. "Live prospects" for year and two years subscriptions are being passed up daily and have not even been asked to subscribe by the members up to date. Hundreds who would subscribe in advance to the Reflector by mail and carrier can be "landed" if approached. In the majority of instances, they would prefer paying their subscriptions in advance in order to avoid the annoyance of weekly payments. They would be glad to assist a member of the "Cash Off" Campaign to win a valuable cash award. Now is the time to take fresh stock in one's prospects and get their subscriptions. With but a few days remaining with which to secure such a tremendous number of extra votes on subscriptions, it is needless to add that each and every member will try to break all previous records by turning in subscriptions this week. The office will be open until 6 o'clock Saturday night to accommodate members and their friends.

Remember that this week is the last opportunity to secure 255,000 extra votes upon your $30 clubs. The real big cut of votes in the campaign takes place Monday, and fortunate indeed will be those members who can round up their promised subscriptions, and turn them in now while this present offer is good.

VILLAIN OF WARINE WORLD PREYS ON GREAT LAKES

Ann Arbor, Mich. (AP)—Conservationists and fishermen are worrying over a new threat to the commercial fishing industry of the Great Lakes—the sea lamprey.

This marine parasite, an eel-like blood-sucking animal which attaches itself to food-fishes, may, like the smelt, reach the limits of the lakes and add to factors already contributing to the depletion of the commercial fish supply in these waters.

Dr. Carl L. Hubbs, University of Michigan ichthyologist, and Dr. John Van Oosten, in charge of Great Lakes investigations for the Bureau of Fisheries, report the lamprey is now found in all lakes except Lake Superior.

The lamprey, equipped with a suction mouth, clings to fish and then gorges itself on the victim's blood.

It injects a chemical substance into the wound to prevent coagulation.

LITTLE DONE IN COUNTY COURT

Comparatively Few Cases Removed From Docket

Although a good part of the day was consumed Tuesday in County court, only a few cases were removed from the docket.

Josephus Vick and William Manning were tried on charges of assault with a deadly weapon. Vick was ordered to pay one-half of the costs, while prayer for judgment was continued as to Manning.

Jesse Sparger, Negro, was convicted of driving on the wrong side of the road and was ordered to pay the costs of court, had his license suspended for four months and was given a four months road sentence which was suspended. The defendant appealed to Superior court.

Roy McNeal, Negro, convicted of non support, was given a six months sentence, suspended upon payment of $30 now for the use of Doris May Spell and $5 the first of each month, beginning March 1, until the child reaches the age of 16 years. The defendant also was required to give bond of $200. An appeal was taken and bond fixed at $500.

Joe James Wiggins, Negro, was convicted of abandonment, but prayer for judgment was continued. Luby Porter, who was convicted at the morning session of driving recklessly and hit and run, was taxed with the costs of court and ordered to pay the prosecuting witness $50. A four months road sentence was suspended upon condition other terms of the court were met and the defendant pay an additional $101.30 to the prosecuting witness. His driving license was suspended for four months.

HINTS TO HOUSEWIVES

Liquid measures: Two gills equal one cup; two cups equal one pint; two pints equal one quart; four quarts equal one gallon.

To stick two types of cookies together in preparing a party food, spread the lower one with slightly-beaten egg white. Add the upper cookie and put the two in the oven to bake.

Thin strips of dried herring make a tasty addition to the canape tray. The salty flavor blends nicely with cocktails.

To improve the flavor of carrots, turnips, cabbage, onions and peas add a fourth of a teaspoon of sugar for each three cups of water used in cooking.

If you want a gelatin mixture to congeal quickly pour it into a wide, shallow metal mold in preference to a deep mold of earthenware or china.

Try using boiled noodles as a topping—in place of pie crust for meat or vegetable pies. When they are browned, the noodles will give a crusty, nicely-flavored covering.

A coating will often form over the top if boiled custard is left standing. To prevent this, stir the custard a minute or two after it is cooked, let it cool, then stir again. Put the custard into a dish, cover tightly and allow it to chill.

Bananas "au Rhum" may be made by sprinkling one tablespoon on rum, a few drops of lemon juice and a bit of brown sugar over the fruit. Arrange the bananas in a shallow well-buttered pan and bake them until they are soft. (About twenty minutes).

Try serving minted lamb sandwiches at your next tea. You mix half a cup of chopped cooked lamb with two tablespoons of mint jelly, one tablespoon of chopped sweet pickle and three tablespoons of salad dressing. This mixture will fill eighteen small sandwiches.

S-rapple can be made at home by adding chopped cooked meat, cheese or chicken to thick cornmeal mush. Put this mixture in a bowl and chill it. Then slice it and brown the slices in a little fat in a frying pan. Serve plain or with syrup or scrambled eggs.

HOUSEWIVES HINTS

If your kitchen work table is too low put casters on each leg.

Protect your waffle iron and other seldom-used kitchen utensils by keeping them in a flour or sugar sack fastened with a rubber band or string.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

NOTED CAREER ENDS IN DEATH

Coast Guard Captain Dies of Injury From Auto Wreck

Norfolk, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Chief Boatswain John A. Modgett, attached to the Coast Guard station at Rodanthe, N. C., died today in a hospital here.

He was injured in an automobile accident last December 23. He was reported recovering until yesterday, when he suffered a relapse.

Modgett's death, coming unexpectedly after the accident on the Currituck county highway as he was en route home with Christmas packages, ended a brilliant Coast Guard career begun when he entered the service in 1898, when he was still less than 22 years of age. He was 61 years of age at the time of his death and had been in the Coast Guard 39 years.

He had been keeper of the station at Rodanthe since June 1, 1916. Modgett participated in many rescues of the sea, but the high mark of his career came in 1918 when 36 men were rescued from the torpedoed British tank steamer Mirlo.

ONLY CHILD NOT SPOILED, COLLEGE SURVEY SHOWS

Chicago—(AP)—The "only" child of a family is no more pampered or spoiled than children of large families, says Dr. William Paul Carter of the University of Chicago.

Dr. Carter bases his conclusions on statistics obtained from more than 4,000 "only child" students in 50 colleges and universities in 29 states.

He says his findings disprove the theory that the only child gets more indulgent attention, love and protection than youngsters having brothers or sisters.

"The majority of only children were found to be treated much the same as the oldest, youngest and middle children by their parents," Dr. Carter observed. "They were found to participate as fully and normally in group life after the preschool period and to be as well adjusted in their social relations as any other children."

HANDLING OF DRINKS IS AN OLD PROBLEM

Los Angeles—(AP)—Modern perplexity over what to do with alcoholics had its parallel in ancient times, says Dr. Arthur Patch McKinlay, professor of Latin at the University of California at Los Angeles. Some laws treated a drunken offender more leniently than a sober one, some more severely, his studies showed.

In the Greek town of Locri, in southern Italy, the code of Zaleucus allowed a lady one attendant, but she was entitled to two if she were drunk.

ETIQUETTE

By JOAN DURHAM (AP Feature Service Writer)

She says, "That's the last of that man for me. Phones at 6 o'clock to see if I'll go out with him that night."

He says, "No more with her. Powder her face right at the table in a restaurant."

There are two sides to date problems. Maybe you'd never thought of the other side. Here are check lists for both sides. Maybe it would help you to glance through them.

What He Boycotts

The nervous girl who eats fast, puffs cigarettes two a minute. He doesn't care how many cigarettes, as a rule; it's the frenzy he dislikes.

The girl who makes him carry her cigarettes or gloves, who leaves him on the dance floor holding her heavily bag.

Loud laughter and much attention-calling. He thinks she ought to devote some of that excess energy to self-improvement.

Waving aside compliments instead of accepting them gracefully.

The girl who won't discuss clothes when he takes an interest.

Girl who refuses—when asked—to suggest some place she'd like to go, remarking, "It's entirely up to you," and putting a do-or-die cast on the situation.

Yes-yes-er who can't do a little tactful stoozing and ask the right questions occasionally.

Stony good-nights of the "Thanksl'vheadagoodtime" variety—implying it's just one of 14 dates they've had this week.

What She Avoids

The man who doesn't show a reasonable amount of tact and consideration.

Farior comedians who insist on holding the center of the stage. Equally undesirable: the "intellectual" who scorns anything beneath Wagner or Proust.

Non-planners who take a girl any old place with any people who happen to be around. Most girls don't insist that the man spend a lot of money. They'd just as soon go to a good movie. But they do appreciate men who give them credit for discrimination.

Fence-straddlers who always leave it to the girl to decide where they shall go. Most girls don't like to suggest things unless they know the man's interests—and what he can afford.

IT'S ODD, But It's Science

By HOWARD W. DEARSHINE AP Science Editor

New York—The Chinese box of science is the search for the ultimate "seed of life."

There always is a smaller seed inside every seed of life so far traced. One of the smallest has been brought out of its nesting place by Professor Robert Chambers, of New York university.

An expert in micro-chemistry, he dissects things invisible to the unaided eye. His knives are threads of glass with tips drawn too fine to be seen without a microscope.

With one of these glass knives he has pierced the nucleus of a living cell. The nucleus lies in the center of a cell, like the yolk in an egg. The nucleus says Chambers, has no apparent connection with the surrounding cell "white"—the cytoplasm.

But if the nucleus is punctured the cytoplasm begins to disintegrate. The cell dies. This death never has failed to follow in a single nucleus cell.

But some cells have two nuclei, and these furnish final proof that the nucleus is one of life's seed boxes. If only one nucleus is punctured, the cytoplasm begins to disintegrate, as if death were coming. But this steps in a few minutes. In a hour the cell is fully expanded again, living apparently uninjured with its remaining nucleus.

The seed of human life is a single cell. It too, has a nucleus. What makes the life inside the nucleus is unknown.

SOVIET RUSSIA'S 'MAP OF HOPE'

Russia's hope of returning four Soviet scientists adrift on an ice floe off the east coast of Greenland and coast 13 lives when the Soviet semi-rigid dirigible Vb crashed in the Kandalaksha region while flying from Moscow on a preparatory flight. Dotted line on this "map of hope" shows route of flight until the airship struck a mountain. Heavy black line shows drift of ice on which scientists live in hope of rescue.

Advice on choosing a wife?

Don't take it! Choosing a wife is one thing every man should do for himself. It's the same with a brewmaster in choosing hops. No laboratory rule-of-thumb can guide him. Only skill and experience can distinguish between the mere fragrance of ordinary hops and the medley of exquisite and elusive aromas that exudes from truly fine blossoms. The costly imported Saazer hops used in brewing BUDWEISER are chosen only after three separate and distinct judgments. Hence the sprightly bouquet that hovers over each glass of BUDWEISER... and the distinctive taste that sets BUDWEISER so vividly apart.

SHORT SHOTS

By HENRY AVERILL

Reflector Bureau

Raleigh, Feb. 9.—It's almost always a question of whose ox is gored. For instance there has been no stauncher advocate of State Supervision and Control of local unit financing (county and municipal) than State Treasurer Charlie Johnson. His department exercised the control over somebody else.

Yet there is no louder dissenter to the proposition that the Federal government shall exercise, through the Securities Exchange Commission, a measure of control over state financing. Mr. Johnson's department would be the subject, not the exerciser, of control.

Associates of James M. Gray, who has just quit the Co-ordinated Land Use Division of the Federal Farm Security Administration to become city manager of Morganton, are loud in their regrets at his departure.

"The quality of our construction work reflects Mr. Lewis' high standard of engineering practice and a great share of the credit for the success obtained belongs to him," said Grady L. Bain chief of the Project Development section and Mr. Lewis' closest associate.

Gasoline tax receipts are the only form of state revenue which cannot be broken down into amounts paid by each county, your correspondent has just learned.

Trying to learn gas tax receipts from a group of Piedmont counties, the inquiring reporter was informed by Revenue Department officials that it can't be done, because gasoline taxes are collected from distributors whose business spreads over numbers of counties and is not confined to one. The tax not being paid by the local filling station units, but by the distributors who operate in many counties, there is no way to find out how much gas tax was paid by Alamance or Yadkin or any other county users.

Your correspondent has received the following brief, but important, note from Victor S. Bryant, Durham representative who was chairman of the 1937 House Finance Committee.

"I expect to be a candidate for the House."

Which means that another name has been added to the list of those who will NOT run for Congress in the Sixth district, where Bill Umsted is stepping out and leaving the field open for a made freer for all.

Which also means that Mr. Bryant will in all probability be the next speaker of the North Carolina House, for despite the more or less traditional custom of alternating the place between West and East (West having it last time in the burly person of Great Cherry) the Durham man will have the inside track by reason of his consistent support of all Administration measures and his skillful handling of the Finance part in the 1937 House.

Craven's Libby Ward would be a formidable contender may still be, anyway but for his break with the Hoey forces on the Social Security program and the fact that he was a Sande Graham partisan in the governor's primary.

Mercer J. Blankenship, of Mecklenburg, who started the 1937 House session by trying to tell old heads how things should be run but who made a rather influential niche for himself before the session was over, writes that he will try for the State Senate this time. This word wasn't at all unexpected as it has been talked for a long time.

DR. REYNOLDS SUPPORTS ACT

To Ask Congress To Enact Law Aimed At Syphilis

Raleigh, Feb. 9.—Congressman A. L. Bulwinkle of Gastonia, who was the co-introducer with Senator LaFollette, and Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, state health officer for North Carolina, will appear before a congressional committee in Washington on Monday, February 14, to urge passage of the proposed federal syphilis control measure.

Making this announcement, Dr. Reynolds said: "If the press of the nation will give this measure the same enthusiastic support the newspapers of North Carolina are giving the battle against syphilis in our own state this will, I believe, greatly encourage our federal lawmakers and help the passage of the bill in Congress. It was introduced January 10, 1937, in Washington at the time and was very much encouraged over the manner in which it was given a number promptly, referred to committee and sent on its way. The hearing Monday will be before the committee of which Senator Royal S. Copeland, himself a physician, is the chairman. The supporters will present the strongest argument at our command."

Dr. Reynolds said he would inform the committee officially of the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation's benefaction and of the progress in North Carolina has made on the war against syphilis. "I see no reason," he declared, "why America should not be made as free from syphilis as the Scandinavian countries, where control measures have succeeded in a very satisfactory manner. But this will take money, time and patient endeavor."

"North Carolina was a pioneer state in the enactment of a law for the control of syphilis and Major Bulwinkle was delighted to be one of the co-introducers of the Federal measure which, if passed, will provide $3,000,000 the first year, $6,000,000 the second year, $12,000,000 the third year and $25,000,000 the fourth and each succeeding year.

"With the proper backing, we have hopes that the measure will become a law at the present session of Congress," Dr. Reynolds concluded. "I am proud of North Carolina's achievements, as I believe all public health minded citizens are and I am convinced that what we have done, including the Smith Reynolds Foundation gift, ought to go a long way toward stimulating interest along national lines. Surgeon-General Parran recently wrote me sharing this view."

Builds Tomb, Lives There Just Waiting

(By The AP Feature Service) Cairo, Egypt—a parlor, bedroom and bath, with all the modern conveniences, in Cairo's "city of the dead," is Okashi Zaki's tomb—and he's living in it.

The 52-year-old merchant built the tomb at a cost of $150,000. It is located in the Mokattam hills where a large area is devoted to mausoleums.

Zaki has combined all the conveniences of a modern dwelling with plans for burial according to ancient ideas. In addition to a reception and sleeping room, there's a kitchen, running water, electricity, a telephone, a radio and he travels to and from his "cemetery residence" in a modern American car.

The crypt, in which his body eventually will be placed, is underground, at the foot of a stair that leads down from a courtyard. Okashi Zaki never enters that, however. He built the tomb, he says, because "A man should plan his whole life, including preparations for his death."

GERMAN ARMY SHAKE-UP SPOTLIGHTS GOERING

The resignation of Field Marshal Werner von Blomberg as German minister of war focuses attention on other high Reich officials. Highest of them all, next to Hitler himself, is Hermann Goering, near the tip in both array and party and advanced in the shakeup from the rank of colonel-general to field marshal.

By LOUIS F. LOCHNER
BERLIN (AP)—Staunch, energetic, heavy-set Field Marshal Hermann Goering is the German Air Chief, at the behest of his master, Adolf Hitler, carries the massive structure of the Third Reich on his broad shoulders.

Col. Gen. Goering

Next to the Fuehrer, there is no more powerful man in Germany. His executive jobs are: Prussian prime minister (Prussia is two-thirds of Germany), minister of aviation, president of the Reichstag, minister of forestation, reich's master of the hunt, director of the Prussian state theaters and opera, president of the German Academy of Aviation, dictator over foreign exchange and raw materials, and plenipotentiary in charge of the 4-year economic self-sufficiency plan.

Likes Lion Cubs
Goering easily is the most popular man in the Nazi party. The common man can understand his speeches. His audiences usually leave in good humor because of sallies, often at his own expense. His sense of humor goes so far that he collects jokes on himself.

One favorite topic of these jokes is the prime minister's love for uniforms. Others are anecdotes that have to do with Goering's love for lion cubs. A baby lion is a constant house pet in the Goering home.

To the outside world, Goering is primarily the man who ruthlessly and uncompromisingly pursues, the course he considers right. "I know the methods of Moscow," he said to a small group of journalists shortly after the Nazis came into power in 1933, "and believe me, I propose to go them one better." He proceeded to hunt down the communists with a new type of German police patterned upon the GPU of Russia—the Gestapo.

Another example of his energy in carrying out a course deemed right was his stamping out of opposition to Hitler during the famous "blood purge" of June, 1934.

Nobody doubts Goering's personal courage. The many decorations won during the world war, climaxing in the highest German military honor available, testify to his daring as war ace. And when the famous Varon von Richthofen fell, Goering succeeded him as head of the Richthofen squadron.

Has Held On Army
Loyal though Goering is to Hitler and the Nazi movement, he has not shown the narrowness of other leading Nazis in making appointments to office. His ideal is to train an efficient corps of civil servants, and he has not hesitated to take men not identified with the Nazi movement to accomplish this purpose.

Similarly, Goering did not hesitate to keep Leo Blech of four years to head the panel of conductors at the state opera in Berlin, although Leo Blech is a Jew. "I determine who is to be rated as Jew," Goering is reported to have said when some dogmatic party members tried to call him to account.

Goering's position as second man in the Reich is further rendered secure by his hold upon the army. The army and the navy recognize that the modern air force is Goering's own creation. They also respect him for his war record.

Dislikes Cities
Goering has made hunting a popular sport in Germany. It serves him politically, too. At his "mofiel" hunting parties, statesmanship often has its inning.

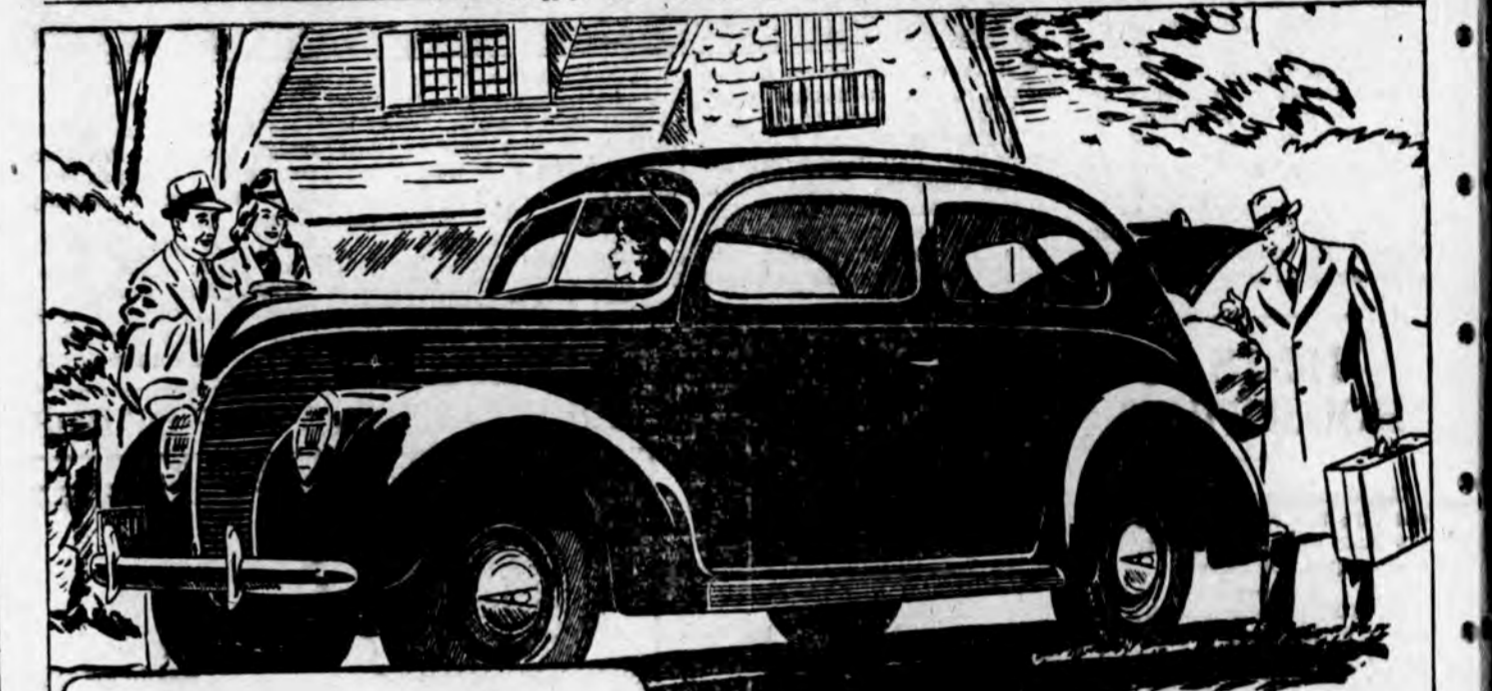

The big city bores him, using the spring and fall, he governs from the Prussian state hunting lodge about 25 miles from Berlin. He spends most of the summer at his Bavarian mountain home not far from Hitler's "Berghof."

Characteristically he jumped vigorously into the task of making Germany as self sufficient economically as possible within four years.

Under his direction, Germany has started on the most gigantic scale of economy on raw materials that any nation has ever undertaken in peace times.

EMPIRE FOR A LADY

SYNOPSIS: Carrying a gun-cargo for Rajah Mantusen, we encounter a Dyak revolt against the Malays on Sumatanga Island. Mantusen blames my uncle, James Clyde, and is holding him prisoner until I (Paul Thomas) can bring our fortified ship, the Linkang, up-river to aid the Malays. Christine Forrester, a young English girl, is behind the war, and supplying the Dyak guns. She refuses to call off her sharpshooters so I can rescue Clyde, and even worse, the Linkang cannot cross the bar. I'm going to capture her now, the Avon!

Chapter 20 Only A Miracle

AND then—Clyde came. The perpetual brain-dead, destroying beating in the jungle had died down a little, in honor of the middle of the night, and from under it now came a faint, thin signal from the shore. I stood frozen for a moment, unable to believe. But it sounded again, drifting across the water on the breeze with an eerie distinctness. This time it was unmistakable. That thin, two-noted piping was from the bosun's pipe Clyde carried. "Starboard watch! Into the longboat! Smartly now, smartly!" The bosun came stumbling to his feet. "What's the matter? What's up?" "Wake those men up! Get 'em into the boat!" Surprise gagged him. He stammered as he muttered an order to a sleepy seaman, then stood staring as if he could not believe that the man had obeyed. After a moment, though, he went wavering down the deck, hunting out the rest of the men.

We piled into the long boat, and as the oars began to find themselves, I headed straight in-shore—cannon tube and all. Because of its load, the boat shipped a little water now, even in the small ripples of the bay. Here on the surface I thought I could place the whistle as it came again. But for a long time it did not come, until I was beginning to doubt my own ears.

Then at last, as my steering wavered, it sounded once more, distinct and clear. Something clicked through the swing of the oars as the men heard that. It wasn't a change in stroke, but more as if a deeper pulse had suddenly begun to beat, driving us forward. I swung the nose of the boat to port.

Every man in the boat must have known the chances we were taking, especially loaded as we were. That signal, Clyde's own whistle though it might be, could easily have been the baiting of a trap. I got hold of one of the six-shooters, stuck it in the front of my belt, and strained my eyes for the first sign of a prau hiding in the black bar of shadow on the beach.

There is no surf in Balingong bay. I put her in as close as I dared, then turned and began coasting the shallows. "Rest oars," I said at last. "I'm going ashore. Stand on and off for a little bit, and keep me in sight as long as you can. If there's any sound of something going wrong, don't try to follow me. Pull out to clear water, and get ready to make a running fight back to the ship."

We were very close in to the shallows now; any moment I expected to hear the keel find the bottom. I was getting ready to step into the water, when suddenly there was a splashing close beside us in the shadow, and a shape loomed waist-deep. Some of the men gave a spasmodic jerk on their oars, swinging the boat.

And then the figure spoke. "Damn it, do I have to chase my own boat all night?" I half dragged him aboard as he floundered over the transom. Under my hands I felt a sticky clotting of blood. "You're wounded, sir!" "Mind your own business. Starboard oars! Drive this thing back to the ship!"

Nasty Kris Cut

FOR a while neither of us said anything. The men were pulling hard, giving the sweeps everything they had to get off that ungodly beach. Through the sound of the oars we could hear Clyde breathing hard, in long shaking gasps; but he got his breath, at last and lost no time in laying into me. "What is this cannon tube doing in the boat?" "Sir, there isn't enough water to get the Linkang over the bar. So I was getting ready to—I figured the best thing to do was—I was all set to—"

"All set to what?" he demanded angrily. "If you mean to tell me you were going to disobey every order I gave you, and land guns—"

"No, sir." "Well, then, what the hell?" "Sir, the Avon can cross the bar. I was going to take the Avon."

"Those people agreed to that?" "No, sir, I wasn't going to ask them."

We were out into the open moonlight now, and I could see him looking at me with strange eyes. When he spoke his words were very quiet, as if no vocabulary he knew was enough. "Fool!" he said at last. "Oh, you fool!"

"Yes, sir."

We had to swing a Jacob's ladder to get Clyde up over the Linkang's side, where ordinarily he would have swarmed it like a gibbon. He had a nasty kris cut that laid open his back from shoulder to spine; it was his only wound, but it was enough. Part of the cut was so deep that it seemed to me it must have reached the bone, but no important muscles seemed to have been cut. I spent a lot of time picking seaweed out of this, and swabbing it as clean as I could, and after that it took me an hour to get it sewed up to suit me. My fingers were clumsy with a surgeon's needle, but I tied 17 stitches, where perhaps fewer would have done. And I strapped arm and shoulder as tight as I dared.

While we took care of that, he told me how he had got out of the Malay stockade. He spoke in jerky, angry sentences, begrudging his words, so that I never learned all there was to know. It seems that they had moved him down to the end of the ruai, with three or four Malay guards, and a little lamp. This place was not as well screened from the jungle rifles as Mantusen's own, and presently a single rifle began stripping. Out of the whole extraordinary experience, Clyde seemed to have brought away a single impression that filled him with wonder, and that was the accuracy of the sniping rifle.

'Work To Do'

HE told me, in tones of incredulity, that someone was working with the Dyaks who knew how to shoot. For some reason the rifle was not working on the men, whom it could easily have killed, but was picking on the light. Over and over, during the first half of the night, that rifle shot out the lamp. At first the Malays thought it was an accident, but when the third or fourth lamp was broken they began to get furious. Somebody was playing with them, not even honoring them by attempting their lives. Once the rifleman, with what must have been a lucky shot, actually snuffed out the flame without breaking the lamp.

In the end the Malays began to show nervousness—very close, with them, to real fear. They gave up the light. My uncle watched his chance, and after a long time he was able to get his hands on a jar, and he cracked down a Malay. It was pretty dark, and there was some confusion due to the Malays' idea that one of Clyde's guards had been shot. In this confusion Clyde was able to drop off the ruai. He had stripped shirt and shoes, rolled his trousers high on his thighs, and twisted a turban out of a rag of his shirt; and what with the shadows and the confusion of the alarm, he dodged his way to the low walls and got outside. Once into the jungle he had managed to lose himself, and the rest was a matter of avoiding the Dyaks.

He was interested now only in what we were going to do next, and resented my persistent questions. "It's only a miracle," I said. "that you're alive." He exploded at me. "Damn it, if it's any satisfaction to you, I was killed outright at the first move. That's why I'm not here yet. Forget it, will you? We've got work to do."

He was sure that he knew what Mantusen would do—and do immediately. Mantusen would rush the river with his praus, in an effort to reach and take the Linkang. Once in possession of the Linkang, its rail crowded with krismen, Mantusen could whip all the Dyaks on earth, and he knew it.

Now that the unaccountable sniping was picking the Malays off in their own stockades, Mantusen could hope for no further advantage in waiting, any longer. Whatever hope Mantusen had held that the Linkang could and would help him was gone with Clyde's escape. Now that so many of the Malays had been killed, he had praus enough for what Mantusen were left, and they could bring their women with them. Of course, without a ship, the attempt would be hopeless, even if he fought his way to open water, because he would be overwhelmed by the fast praus of the sea Dyaks. The Linkang—or at least the Avon—was a necessity.

Clyde thought that Mantusen could probably still man between 20 and 30 praus. If only 10 of them got out of the river, they would drive straight at the Linkang.

The fight would be finished when the last Malay was finished, and not before.

GIRLS LOSE TO KINSTON TEAM

Lady Phantoms Are Downed by Score of 17 to 9

The Green Phantom Lassies just couldn't get right and Kinston defeated them 17-9 last night in the Lenoir capital.

In the first quarter Betty Tyson shot a crip. The whistle had blown in the meantime, however, and the goal didn't count. This exact incident was repeated four times in the first half by the Greenies. Dorothy Merritt, Jane Harrison and Nancy Roberts, dependable guards for the Greenville sextet, played a good brand of ball, even though Kinston did most of the scoring. Nunn, starting for that city, scored 11 points.

The second quarter was all excitement. It was then that Myra Blount, Jane Rowlett and Marjorie Sugg were substituted at forward posts for the local girls. At the half the score was 7-2 in favor of Kinstonians.

Betty Tyson, Frances Clark and Joy Flanagan came back in for Greenville at the beginning of the second half, but no score was chalked up for either team during the third quarter.

Betty Tyson was high scorer for the Green Phantoms, tallying six points.

In the last quarter Kinston hit their stride and swelled their score to 17 points. Joy Flanagan gave Greenville a big thrill by shooting a long field shot.

Lineups: Greenville—Forwards, Clark, Tyson 6; Flanagan 2, Blount, Rowlett, Sugg; Guards, Roberts, Harrison, Merritt.

Kinston—Forwards, Nunn 11, Collins 4, Rochelle 2; Guards, Cooke, Jones, Sutton.

Referee—Hobgood of Kinston.

UNABLE EVADE TAX ON MONEY

Banks of State Now Required to Report Deposits

Raleigh, Feb. 9.—Tax payers of North Carolina will no longer list for evade listing, as so many did, their intangible assets when they go to the courthouse, or wherever their township lister sits each April. This function has been entirely done away with as far as the counties are concerned.

On the contrary, bank deposits will not be listed at all by the taxpayer, but automatically by the banks in which the deposits are made, while listing of all other intangibles subject to taxation will be included in schedules, which must be filed with the State Department of Revenue on March 15th annually, though the assets will be listed as of December 31st preceding.

The intangibles which must be shown on these schedules include money on hand (as distinguishable from money in bank) accounts receivable, bonds, notes or other evidences of debt; sums left on deposit with insurance companies, the principal of which is subject to withdrawal at the option of party or parties entitled to receive it after stipulated notice; and shares of stock held by residents of this state.

1937 Legislative Issues Still Alive

Raleigh, Feb. 9.—Sales tax and the wet-dry question are not the only 1937 legislative issues which will be very much alive in the 1939 General Assembly. It is shown by replies to a questionnaire recently sent out by the North Carolina State Grange.

Homestead tax exemption, improvement of secondary roads and school bus routes, and diversion of highway funds will be right up in the forefront, according to Harry Caldwell, master of the state Grange.

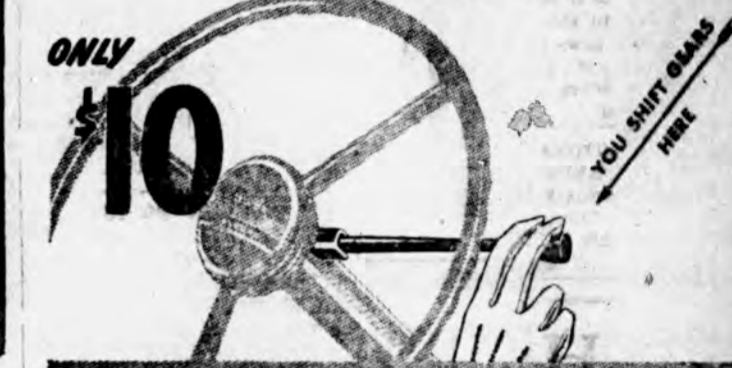

Mr. Caldwell today told this bureau's representative that replies to his questionnaire are coming in very rapidly and that local Grange over the entire state are virtually unanimous in insisting that the organization make the fight in 1939 for the measures it championed in 1937.

The Grangers are pledging themselves to vote for Senators and Representatives who will give the small home owner the relief to which they are justly entitled and which the voters of the state have confidently expected. This paragraph of the Grange program refers to exemption from taxation of homes valued at $1,000 or less. A 1936 referendum favored giving the Legislature authority to give this exemption, but the 1937 Assembly refused to vote the exemption, doing nothing more than to appoint a commission to study the matter and report on the effect of exemptions.

Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fourth night if needed. How do Calotabs help nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the virus-laden mucus and toxins. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds. Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package.—(adv.)

MOTORISTS OF N. C. TRAVEL FAR ENOUGH REACH PLANETS EXTRA EFFORT IS EXPENDED

amount paid for gasoline by users, according to careful estimates of the American Petroleum Industries Committee.

Therefore, the North Carolina motorists spent something like $5,755,140.80 for gasoline during the month, or 575,514.608 pennies.

And while it is said that pennies don't go far these days, it has been quite accurately figured out that the oil man can make a penny go a mile. It has been computed that the smallest coin minted by the United States will buy enough fuel and oil to drive the modern motor vehicle a mile. Believe it or not, but the penny gets a good stretching in business these days.

With this fact in mind it is a simple matter to figure that North Carolina motorists traveled something like 575,000,000 miles during January.

Astronomers have figured that the sun is some 92,000,000 miles distant from the earth.

Simple long division, therefore, shows that Tar Heel drivers covered enough miles in one month to take them to the Sun and back three times, if they could have driven in that direction.

UNC FOREIGN POLICY LEAGUE ELECTS OFFICERS

Chapel Hill, Feb. 9.—Ralph Bragden, Melrose, Mass., has been elected president of the Foreign Policy League at the University of North Carolina. He succeeds John Kendrick of Greensboro.

Also elected at the last meeting of the group was John Creeley of Chapel Hill, who takes the position of secretary.

Film Directors Pick '10 Best' Youngsters

Hollywood—The movie academy's annual handout of gold-plated Oscars still is in the future but here are a few nominations of award winners in years to come.

A poll of prominent directors showed these girls (and a couple of boys) rated tops with them as stardom prospects for 1938.

Coincidence: The directors all were from Paramount but that didn't keep them from naming seven probable outsiders their own ballwicks. The directors were Ernest Lubitsch, Cecil B. DeMille, Fritz Lang, William Wellman, and George Auchenbald.

Their choices, in order, were:

PHYLLIS WELCH (Metro) but playing in Harold Lloyd's Paramount release, "Professor Beware," was named for her "promising acting ability."

N. Y. Stock Market

New York, Feb. 9.—(AP)—Recovery forces dominated today's stock market and leading issues pushed ahead fractions to more than a point.

The ticker tape picked up a little speed as the rally progressed. Some profit realization appeared but was easily absorbed, and near the fourth hour prices were not far under their best.

Bonds were higher.

ANNABELLA (20th Century-Fox) halls from Paris. Picking her must have been easy—she's an established star abroad, also in English-made pictures. Beauty and acting ability won her mention.

OLYMPÉ BRADNA (Paramount) also from Paris. They all liked her in "Souls at Sea," expect to like her more in "Stolen Heaven."

MARJORIE WEAVER (20th Century-Fox) chosen for her work in "Second Honeymoon," which revealed the directors sty, a "distinctive personality."

MARY MAGUIRE (Warner Bros.) is the girl brought here as the "Mary Pickford of Australia," but our judges picked her because they were wowed by her "photographic beauty."

Also nominated were Wayne Morris (Warner Bros.), Florence George (Paramount), Alan Lane (RKO), Ann Rutherford (MGM), and Joan Woodbury (RKO).

DOCTOR DRINKS 'VISION' TO CLINCH THE ARGUMENT

Window Rock, Ariz. (AP)—"Looks like a vision," said one aged Navajo medicine man who peered through the microscope at millions of wriggling typhoid bacilli in a test tube.

"No vision," said Dr. W. W. Peters, head of the reservation medical division. "It's just plain typhoid fever germs."

Then Dr. Peters boiled the water and, to the horror of the Indians, drank it.

It was Dr. Peters' wal of impressing upon the Indians that boiling kills typhoid germs and that such measures should be used when the reservation's water supply becomes contaminated.

MASTERS' NEW IMPROVED 1938 PLANT SETTER

There is excellent reason for Masters' leadership in the plant setter industry, for it was Masters who built the first practical automatic plant setter over forty years ago. Since then it has been continually improved. Our 1938 model is the last word—it has no competition. Others have tried to imitate, but never have been able to equal Masters' efficiency and durability. It is so simple and easy to use a Masters' A. Masters' Plant Setter is assurance of maximum stand and prolific yield.

Tobacco buyers say they can tell when a crop has been planted with a Masters' by its uniform high quality. They gladly pay highest prices for this finer yield. One man can set 8,000 to 15,000 plants a day, and do it without even a crick in his back. Once you use the Masters' you will never be satisfied with any other method of plant setting. Masters' Improved Plant Setter is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction in setting.

Tobacco, Tomatoes, Cabbage, Sweet Potatoes and other plants

Nearly all first-class Hardware and Implement dealers handle, recommend and sell Masters' Improved Plant Setters. Ask your local merchant to show you this newest and best device of its kind. Examine it—see the fine workmanship, the smoothness and ease of operation. If your dealer doesn't have it in stock, write for full information direct. Don't wait until planting time, or you may be disappointed. Last season the demand exceeded the supply by thousands. Make sure of getting your Masters' Plant Setters by ordering NOW.
